

Rabbits

More than half of the world's population of rabbits live in North America.

Rabbits live in meadows,
woods, forests, grasslands,
deserts, and wetlands.

Let's label the parts of a rabbit.

A female rabbit is called a doe and a male rabbit is called a buck. A baby rabbit is called a kit.

All rabbits except for cottontail rabbits live in underground burrows.

Rabbits live in groups called colonies.

Rabbits can weigh anywhere from 2-24 pounds.

Rabbits have long ears that are about 4 inches long.

Rabbits have short tails.

Rabbits are herbivores. They eat grass, clovers, wild flowers, and farm crops.

Rabbits only sweat on the pads of their feet.

Rabbits are most active at dawn and dusk. They eat around dusk.

Rabbits have a lifespan of around 10 years.

Rabbits have 2-3 litters per year, each with 4-6 babies.

A rabbit has 28 teeth. They never stop growing.

Many people have rabbits for pets.

Foxes, bobcats, dogs, and owls are predators of rabbits.
