It is apparent the proposed mitigation is inadequate to achieve the SOA requirements.

When will we get real relief? Not as long as there is a lack of responsibility by state parks to improve the situation on the dunes. Currently there is still an attack on people's health upwind and the continual devastation to a world class wonder, the Oceano Dunes.

There has been some progress, but too little and too late. The APCO needs to get the abatement process on track so that the SOA goal will be attained by December 2023. We need more emission reductions and no more excuses and delays.
