New device increases penis size by a third

A new device can apparently boost the length of a penis by nearly a third.

The Andro-Penis – which consists of a plastic ring, two extender rods and a silicon band – increased volunteers' average flaccid length of 7cm (2.8in) to 9.5cm (3.7in) in a year using weights up to 1.2kg.

The device also improved erectile function by 36 per cent, Italian researchers told the British Journal of Urology International.
