- How to win a chess game? :

- When you checkmate your opponent king
- When your opponent loses his/her time
- When opponent resigns the game

- When is a game drawn? :

Stalemate:

- When you don't have any legal move left on the board and there is no check to your king, the position is called Stalemate.
- It usually occurs in the endgame as the number of pieces on the board are mostly less; mostly when only king and some pawns are left on the board and there is no move left.
- When you are on the winning side you should avoid doing Stalemate to your opponent as it leads to a draw and you score only  $\frac{1}{2}$  point instead of 1. On the other hand if you in a losing position you should try to get stalemated as you get to score  $\frac{1}{2}$  point instead of 0, which is like a bonus point.

3 Fold repetition:

- When both the sides play same set of moves three times consecutively it is called 3 – Fold Repetition. This leads to a draw.
- It can also be said that if an identical position appears on the board in succession three times then it is said to be a 3- Fold Repetition.

Mutual agreement:

- If both the players agree to draw the game then they can mutually agree to settle the game for a draw.
- A player may offer a draw to his opponent at any stage of a game, if the opponent accepts, the game is a draw.

50 moves Rule:

- It states that a player can claim a draw if no capture has been made and no pawn has been moved in the last fifty moves. The purpose of this rule is to prevent a player with no chance of winning from continuing to play indefinitely or seek a win by tiring the opponent.
- It can also be said that if one side is left with only one king on the board then the player can start counting 50 moves at every step. The other player has to checkmate the king within these 50 moves or else the game ends in a draw.
