STANFORD UNIVERSITY

Stanford University is a place of discovery, creativity, innovation and world-class medical care. Dedicated to its founding mission of benefitting society through research and education, Stanford strives to create a sustainable future for all, catalyze discoveries about ourselves and our world, accelerate the societal impact of its research, and educate students as global citizens. The university is located in the San Francisco Bay Area on the ancestral land of the Muwekma Ohlone Tribe and first welcomed students in 1891. Its main campus holds seven schools along with interdisciplinary research and policy institutes, athletics, and the arts. More than 7,000 undergraduate and 9,000 graduate students pursue studies at Stanford each year.

The Leland Stanford Junior University was founded in 1885 by Jane and Leland Stanford in memory of their only child, Leland Jr., who died of typhoid fever at 15. After his 1884 death, the Stanfords determined that they would do something for other people's children.

They decided to create a university that was, from the outset, untraditional: coeducational in a time when most private universities were all-male; nondenominational when most were associated with a religious organization; and practical, producing cultured and useful citizens. The Founding Grant states the university's objective is "to qualify its students for personal success, and direct usefulness in life" and its purpose "to promote the public welfare by exercising an influence in behalf of humanity and civilization."

Leland Stanford, who served as California's governor and senator, devoted to the university the fortune he had earned, first by supplying provisions to the '49ers mining for California gold and later as one of the "Big Four," whose Central Pacific Railroad laid tracks eastward to meet the Union Pacific and complete the transcontinental railway. Included in the Founding Grant was the Stanfords' Palo Alto Stock Farm for the breeding and training of trotting horses, 35 miles south of the family's San Francisco residence.

The Stanfords stipulated that the land they conveyed to the university could not be sold, and the campus still carries the nickname "the Farm." The campus sits on the ancestral land of the Muwekma Ohlone Tribe. This land was and continues to be of great importance to the Ohlone people. Today, the university and the Muwekma Ohlone Tribe are partners in community-led archaeology, historic interpretation and a native plant garden.

The Stanfords engaged landscape architect Frederick Law Olmsted to design the campus. Their collaboration with Olmsted and the architectural firm of Shepley, Rutan, and Coolidge resulted in Stanford's characteristic buildings of local sandstone with red-tiled roofs, surrounding a cloistered quadrangle with Memorial Church as its focus. The rectangular plan of the Main Quadrangle was designed to provide for expansion through a series of quadrangles developed laterally. Stanford opened its doors on Oct. 1, 1891, with some 555 students enrolled in the first year.

Named Stanford's Jaquish & Kenninger Director of Athletics on July 27, 2012, Bernard Muir begins his 12th season in 2023-24.

During Muir's tenure, Stanford has maintained its reputation as the most successful intercollegiate athletic department in the nation. Muir has presided over the most decorated stretch in school history, with the Cardinal having won 31 NCAA championships and 42 national titles overall, in addition to 124 conference championships, over the last 11 seasons.

Stanford has also extended one of the most recognizable streaks in college athletics under Muir's guidance, winning at least one NCAA team championship in each of the last 47 seasons, the longest such streak in the country and a stretch that dates back to the 1976-77 campaign.

In 2022-23, Stanford reclaimed its familiar position as the nation's most successful intercollegiate athletic department, capturing its first LEARFIELD Directors' Cup since the 2018-19 campaign and 26th overall in the possible 29 seasons of the award. The Cardinal won NCAA championships in men's gymnastics, women's water polo and women's rowing, increasing its all-time leading total to 134 and gaining separation from UCLA (121) and USC (112). Stanford also took home two national titles in sailing, bringing its national team championships count to 163 overall.

Since Muir's arrival, Stanford has won the LEARFIELD Directors' Cup eight times, in addition to claiming 10 Capital One Cups (seven women, three men) while remaining the only school to deliver a season sweep of the men's and women's titles in the history of the award.

Stanford's most successful season under Muir came in 2018-19, capturing NCAA championships in women's volleyball, women's swimming and diving, men's gymnastics, women's water polo, women's tennis and men's golf. The Cardinal's six titles matched its own NCAA record for an academic year, having also won six in 1996-97. Stanford rounded out its athletic campaign with a national championship in IRA lightweight rowing.

Stanford's commitment to academic achievement under Muir remains as strong as ever, registering an overall graduation rate of 96 percent in the latest Graduation Success Rate (GSR), with 16 varsity teams earning a 100 percent graduation rate. The eighth year of the Rubenstein-Bing Student-Athlete Civic Engagement (ACE) Program also yielded positive results, as 29 teams have been represented in the three-week, immersive summer service volunteer program since 2016.

Muir has also been intentional about keeping Stanford well-positioned nationally through ongoing departmental initiatives such as NIL education and opportunities, enhanced diversity, equity and inclusion programming, social justice and anti-racism advisory support and student-athlete well-being and mental health awareness. Over the last year, Muir reinforced Stanford's pledge to strengthening leadership and celebrating achievement as part of DAPER's 50th anniversary celebration of Title IX, highlighted by the induction of the department's first all-female Hall of Fame class in September 2022.

In 2018-19, Muir unveiled a comprehensive Strategic Plan for DAPER (Department of Athletics, Physical Education and Recreation), developing a multi-faceted roadmap designed to accomplish the department's mission of Inspiring Champions in Life.

Several of DAPER's notable facility upgrades have been launched during Muir's tenure, including the following: Arrillaga Family Sports Center addition, Home of Champions and Sydney & Theodore Rosenberg Stanford Athletics Hall of Fame, Stanford Stadium fieldhouse, Laird Q. Cagan Stadium expansion, Siebel Training Complex, Beach Volleyball Stadium, Arrillaga Outdoor Education & Recreation Center. In addition to Arrillaga Hall, which houses the Athletic Academic Resource Center and a rowing training center, various renovations have taken place at Sunken Diamond, Boyd and Jill Smith Family Stadium and the Stanford Golf Course.

In addition to its varsity sports, DAPER supports campus-wide physical wellness through academic classes, fitness programs, aquatics, adventure programming, youth programming, intramural sports and 43 club sports. DAPER manages the Stanford Golf Course, the historic Red Barn and Equestrian Center and eight recreational facilities that welcome more than one million visits annually.

Muir was among four new members added to the Women's Sports Foundation (WSF) Board of Trustees in July 2021, contributing to the organization's mission in advancing girls and women in sports through research, advocacy, community programming and a wide variety of collaborative partnerships. Muir has also served as a member of the NCAA Gender Equity Task Force committee since 2015.

In July 2020, Muir was appointed to the executive committee of the Black AD Alliance, whose mission is to grow, develop and elevate Black athletics administrators at the Division I level while partnering with NCAA senior leadership and the Minority Opportunities Athletic Association.

For the 2018-19 season, Muir served as chair of the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Committee, which oversees all administrative aspects of the NCAA Tournament. Muir served as vice chair for the 2017-18 season and began his stint with the NCAA committee in 2012. Muir has also been a member of USA Basketball's 12-member Board of Directors since 2017.

In October 2017, Muir was appointed to the United States Olympic Committee's Collegiate Advisory Council, the latest step taken by the USOC to increase collaboration with NCAA member institutions and conferences to elevate national engagement and support of Olympic sport opportunities. Additionally, Muir was tabbed to serve on the Bay Area Host Committee executive board in preparation for the 2019 College Football Playoff National Championship held at Levi's Stadium.

In 2016, Muir was an Athletic Director of the Year finalist for the Sports Business Journal Awards. In 2015, Muir was a recipient of the NCAA's prestigious Silver Anniversary Award, which annually recognizes distinguished individuals on the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of their collegiate athletics careers while taking into account professional achievements.

Muir brought nearly 25 years of athletic administrative experience to The Farm from stops at Delaware, Georgetown, Notre Dame, Butler, Auburn and the NCAA. Muir directed Delaware's athletics program from 2009-12 and was director of athletics at Georgetown from 2005-09.

Before joining the athletics administration at Georgetown, Muir served as deputy director of athletics for administration and facilities at Notre Dame from 2004-05. He also served at Notre Dame as senior associate athletic director for student welfare and development from 2003-04 and as associate athletic director for student welfare and development from 2000-03.

Muir worked for the NCAA from 1998-2000 as director of operations for the Division I Men's Basketball National Championship and from 1992-98 as assistant director of the Division I Men's Basketball National Championship.

In 2007, Muir was named to Street & Smith's SportsBusiness Journal's "Top 40 Under 40."

Muir earned a bachelor's degree in Organizational Behavior and Management from Brown in 1990 and a master's in sports administration from Ohio in 1992.

As an undergraduate at Brown, Muir was a four-year letterwinner in basketball.

Muir and his wife, Liz, have two daughters, Libby, a 2020 Stanford graduate who also competed as a member of the lacrosse team, and Millie, a redshirt freshman at Duke and member of the women's volleyball team.

JEROD HAASE

Anne and Tony Joseph Director of Men's Basketball 12th season (8th at Stanford) Kansas, 1997

In his first seven seasons as Stanford's Anne and Tony Joseph Director of Men's Basketball, Jerod Haase has instilled an invested, tough and selfless attitude into the program.

Since arriving on The Farm, the Cardinal has won 112 games, recorded its best conference finish and most league wins in a decade and earned a postseason berth for the first time since 2015. The 2020 team was set to be postseason bound before the cancellation of the NCAA Tournament.

The Cardinal won 14 games in 2022-23 and closed the season as one of the top offensive programs in the country. Stanford downed a top-five opponent for the second consecutive year and ended the season with a top-25 offense nationally. James Keefe was Stanford's third straight Pac-12 Scholar-Athlete of the Year, while Brandon Angel and Michael Jones were named Academic All-Americans. Spencer Jones was an All-Pac-12 forward for the second season in a row.

The streak of elite recruiting continued for Haase and his program, with Stanford signing Andrej Stojakovic, the team's third McDonald's All-American in four years, and Kanaan Carlyle, a top-40 signee. The toptier class is Stanford's first with two top-40 recruits since 2006 (Brook & Robin Lopez).

Stanford added 16 wins in 2021-22, including the program's first win over an AP top-five opponent since 2007 and its first over a top-25 team on the road since 2014. Harrison Ingram was named Pac-12 Freshman of the Year - Stanford's first since 2000 - while Spencer Jones blossomed into an All-Pac-12 conference forward. Sam Beskind was named Pac-12 Scholar-Athlete of the Year, becoming the program's third honoree in the

The 2020-21 campaign was turned upside down by the COVID-19 global outbreak and subsequent restrictions in Santa Clara County, and Stanford showed its resilience and tenacity with a 14-13 overall record and 10 Pac-12 wins. The season included three wins over eventual Sweet 16 teams, two over Elite Eight programs, and a sweep of Arizona for the first time since 2008. Oscar da Silva established himself as one of the top forwards in the country as one of two players to average 18 points, six rebounds and two assists per game while shooting over 55 percent from the floor. He was also named the Pac-12 Scholar Athlete of the Year.

The Cardinal signed its third top-20 recruiting class in four seasons, led by five-star forward Harrison Ingram. Ingram gives the program a McDonald's All-American for the second-straight year, the first time in Stanford history the feat has been accomplished.

Stanford finished 20-12 overall in 2019-20, and remained solidly in contention for an NCAA Tournament berth throughout a season shortened by the COVID-19 global pandemic. Boasting the nation's No. 16-ranked scoring defense (KenPom No. 7), the Cardinal also shot its highest field goal percentage (.469) since 2003-04 and was led by junior Oscar da Silva (15.7 ppg, 6.4 rpg) and Tyrell Terry (14.6 ppg, 4.5 rpg, 3.2 apg), who emerged as one of the nation's top freshmen. The 20 wins marked Stanford's first such season since the 2014-15 campaign.

Haase and his staff capped the season with a top-10 national recruiting class for 2020 - it's second top-10 class since Haase joined the Cardinal - including top-five signee Ziaire Williams and four players rated at least four stars by one outlet.

Fueled by back-to-back top-25 recruiting classes, Haase's 2018-19 squad featured freshmen and sophomores accounting for 80 percent of the scoring and rebounding. With one of the youngest rosters in the nation, Stanford won 15 games facing one of the toughest road schedules in Division I.

In 2017-18, Haase guided Stanford to a third-place finish in the Pac-12 with 11 conference wins, the program's highest finish and most league victories in 10 seasons. Competing without two starters for half the season, Stanford won 19 games overall and earned a postseason berth for the first time in three years with a second-round appearance in the NIT.

Several players have flourished under Haase's tutelage. KZ Okpala became Stanford's latest NBA Draft pick in 2019. Along with Okpala's first team all-conference selection and Josh Sharma's All-Pac-12 nod, Reid Travis was a two-time First Team All-Pac-12 selection in 2018 and a twotime NABC All-District pick. Dorian Pickens was named an all-conference player for his performance on the court and the Pac-12 Scholar-Athlete of the Year for his efforts in the classroom in 2018. Daejon Davis was named to the five-member Pac-12 All-Freshman Team in 2018.

During Haase's first season in 2016-17, Stanford posted 14 wins against a challenging schedule and finished among the nation's top-10 percent in the classroom. Haase was appointed Stanford's 18th head coach in school history on March 25, 2016.

At UAB, Haase led the Blazers to a regular-season Conference USA championship in 2016 and the program's 15th all-time NCAA Tournament berth in 2015. Haase compiled an 80-53 overall record in four seasons while improving the Blazers' win total every year.

Tabbed the 2016 Gene Bartow Conference USA Coach of the Year, Haase led the Blazers to a 26-5 overall record and a 16-2 conference mark while capturing their first regular-season title since 2011. Along the way, UAB established school records for overall victories (26), conference wins (16), road wins (10) and consecutive victories (14). Also named the 2016 National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) All-District Coach, Haase directed the Blazers to an NIT berth for the 12th time in school history. UAB also finished 16-0 at home in Haase's final season, extending the nation's fifth-longest home winning streak to 25, while ranking among the nation's best in field goal percentage (.478 – 24th), assists per game (18.4 – 4th) and blocks per game (4th – 6.1).

Under Haase's guidance, UAB returned to the NCAA Tournament in 2015, shocking No. 3 seed lowa State 60-59 in the second round for the Blazers' first NCAA victory since 2005. UAB reached the Big Dance after claiming the program's first Conference USA Tournament title despite being seeded No. 4. The triumph marked UAB's first league tournament title since 1987, when the Blazers won the Sun Belt Conference Tournament. More impressively, Haase successfully developed a roster comprised of 10 underclassmen – all players recruited by Haase and his staff – and finished 20-16 overall while guiding the third-youngest team in NCAA Division I.

The Blazers made impressive strides under Haase's leadership during the 2013-14 campaign, finishing 18-13 overall while notching three victories against teams that qualified for the NCAA Tournament. Of UAB's 18 victories, perhaps none were more impressive than the Blazers' 63-59 home win against No. 16 North Carolina. UAB was ranked in the top five nationally in rebounding throughout the season and finished the year ranked second in the country at 44.5 boards per game.

During Haase's first year with the Blazers in 2012-13, UAB won six of its final nine regular-season Conference USA games and collected a victory in the conference tournament.

Prior to UAB, Haase played for Roy Williams at Kansas and spent 13 years on Williams' staff with the Jayhawks and Tar Heels. A 1997 graduate of Kansas with a degree in business administration, Haase got his start as Kansas' Director of Operations from 1999-2003. During that time, the Jayhawks reached the 2002 Final Four and the national championship game in 2003.

When Williams was named head coach at North Carolina prior to the 2003-04 season, he brought Haase with him as an assistant coach and director of operations, a title Haase held from 2003-09. Haase then served exclusively as an assistant coach during his final three seasons with the Tar Heels.

A native of South Lake Tahoe, Calif., Haase attended California in 1992-93, starting 23 games as a freshman and playing alongside Jason Kidd in the backcourt. Haase then transferred to Kansas, where he helped lead the Jayhawks to three consecutive conference titles and finished his career ranked in the school's top 10 in assists, three-point field goals and steals. Haase started 99 of 101 games at Kansas and scored 1,264 points, averaging 12.5 per game and reaching double figures 74 times. While at Kansas, Haase was a candidate for the Naismith and Wooden Awards.

As a senior in 1996-97, Haase started alongside Jacque Vaughn, Scot Pollard, Paul Pierce and Raef LaFrentz as Kansas finished with a 34-2 record while averaging 12.0 points per game despite playing with a broken wrist. As a sophomore in 1994-95, Haase averaged 15.0 points and was named the Big Eight Conference Newcomer of the Year and also tabbed a second-team all-conference selection.

Haase was a first-team GTE Academic All-American as a senior, a second-team Academic All-American as a junior and a three-time academic all-conference pick. The Jayhawks' Male Scholar-Athlete of the Year in 1997, Haase later earned a master's degree in business at Kansas in 2000.

In 2017, Haase joined the National Advisory Board of the Positive Coaching Alliance, the organization that uses the power of positive reinforcement to pursue winning and the more important goal of teaching life lessons through sports.

Haase and his wife, the former Mindy Meidinger, have three children: Gavin (16), Garrett (13) and Gabrielle (10).

JESSE PRUITT

James C. Gaither Assistant Coach 8th Season (8th at Stanford) UC Davis, 2005

One of college basketball's prominent young coaches, Jesse Pruitt begins his eighth season as an assistant coach at Stanford in 2023-24.

During his tenure on The Farm, the Cardinal has produced 112 victories overall, recorded its best conference finish and most league wins in a decade and earned a postseason berth for the first time in three years.

The Cardinal won 14 games in 2022-23 and closed the season as one of the top offensive programs in the country. Stanford won 19 games overall and returned to the postseason for the first time in three years in 2017-18, reaching the second round of the NIT. The Cardinal also finished third in the Pac-12 standings and won 11 conference games, representing its best finish and most conference wins in 10 years.

A California native with strong national ties, Pruitt has been instrumental in the recruitment and development of a Stanford roster that increased its win total by five games from year one to year two, earned a postseason berth and produced several all-conference standouts. Pruitt has helped bring in consecutive top-25 recruiting classes, including a four-member group that was rated as high as eighth in the 2017 class rankings.

Stanford's 2017-18 squad posted its highest scoring average (75.9 ppg) in 16 years, best field goal percentage (.461) in 14 years and collected the fourth-most rebounds (1,368) in a season in school history. The Cardinal led the Pac-12 in rebounding at 39.1 rpg.

Forward Reid Travis was a two-time First Team All-Pac-12 selection and NABC All-District honoree while Dorian Pickens collected all-conference honors and was named the 2018 Pac-12 Scholar-Athlete of the Year as a senior. Pruitt played an important role in the development of the Cardinal's standout four-member freshman class that collectively averaged 25.0 minutes per game and started 86 contests in 2017-18.

A native of Pomona, California, Pruitt has lived in the Bay Area the last 10 years. Prior to his arrival on The Farm, he served eight seasons on the staff at Santa Clara under Kerry Keating, including four seasons as an assistant coach for the Broncos. He helped lead Santa Clara to the 2013 College Basketball Invitational (CBI) postseason tournament title and the 2011 CollegeInsider.com Postseason Championship.

Pruitt, who oversaw Santa Clara's recruiting and scouting efforts, along with his responsibilities as a coach, helped develop several All-West Coast Conference selections. The Broncos placed an individual on the conference's all-freshman team three consecutive seasons in Jared Brownridge (2013-14), Matt Hubbard (2014-15) and KJ Feagin (2015-16). During Pruitt's time at Santa Clara, Brownridge was a two-time first-team All-WCC performer (three-time first-team selection overall) and the 2014 WCC Newcomer of the Year.

Pruitt helped lead the Broncos to the 2013 CBI title in his first season as an assistant coach. Santa Clara won 26 games and posted 21 regular season victories for the first time in nearly 20 years. Pruitt was essential to the Broncos' run, helping coach first-team All-WCC selections Marc Trasolini and Kevin Foster. Foster became Santa Clara's all-time leading scorer and the second-leading scorer in WCC history.

Santa Clara was successful in the classroom as well during Pruitt's tenure on the staff, with at least one player earning a spot on the WCC All-Academic team in seven of the eight seasons with the program. All 19 players who reached their senior season earned degrees and the men's basketball program had a 100 percent graduation rate during Pruitt's time on the staff.

Prior to joining the coaching staff, Pruitt served as Santa Clara's Director of Basketball Operations for three years from 2008-10. He began his tenure as the Bronco's video coordinator in 2008-09.

Before joining Santa Clara, Pruitt was an assistant at Division II powerhouse Cal Poly Pomona under Greg Kamansky from 2006-08. There, Pruitt was instrumental in the recruiting efforts that led to back-to-back national title game appearances (2009 and 2010) and a national championship in 2010.

Pruitt graduated from UC Davis in 2005 with a bachelor's degree in sociology. He was a member of the Aggies' men's basketball team for two seasons under former UC Davis head coach Brian Fogel. At UC Davis, he played alongside former UAB head coach and current Stanford assistant Robert Ehsan.

Pruitt married the former Mary Jo Alexander on Oct. 2, 2010 at Stanford Memorial Church. His wife was an All-American runner at UC Davis and was an assistant coach with the Stanford track and field and cross country teams. She is currently the Athletic Director at Castilleja School in Palo Alto, California. They have three children, Gisele Brin, Paige Elizabeth and Trae Robinson.

ROB EHSAN

Oscar Da Silva Assistant Men's Basketball Coach 15th Season (3rd at Stanford) UC Davis, 2005

Rob Ehsan joined the Stanford program in 2021, and he begins his third season on The Farm in 2023-24.

The Cardinal won 14 games in 2022-23 and closed the season as one of the top offensive programs in the country. The Cardinal downed a top-five opponent for the second consecutive year and ended the season with a top-25 offense nationally. James Keefe was Stanford's third straight Pac-12 Scholar-Athlete of the Year, while Brandon Angel and Michael Jones were named Academic All-Americans. Spencer Jones was an All-Pac-12 forward for the second season in a row.

The streak of elite recruiting continued for the program, with Stanford signing Andrej Stojakovic, the team's third McDonald's All-American in four years, and Kanaan Carlyle, a top-40 signee. The top-tier class is Stanford's first with two top-40 recruits since 2006 (Brook & Robin Lopez).

Stanford won 16 games in Ehsan's first season at Stanford, including the program's first win over an AP top-five opponent since 2007 and its first over a top-25 team on the road since 2014. Harrison Ingram was named Pac-12 Freshman of the Year – Stanford's first since 2000 – while Spencer Jones blossomed into an All-Pac-12 conference forward. Sam Beskind was named Pac-12 Scholar-Athlete of the Year, becoming the program's third honoree in the last five seasons.

Ehsan made his way to Stanford following a four-year stint as the head coach at UAB, where his teams averaged 19 wins a season at 76-57 overall, posting a winning record each year. He developed numerous All-Conference USA selections, including William Lee, Chris Cokley and Jalen Benjamin. At the time of his hire in Birmingham, Ehsan was one of the five youngest Division I coaches in the country, and his 76 wins over four years ranked 16th among all coaches hired during the same time period.

The 2019-20 UAB team went 19-13 during the COVID-shortened season, finishing one win shy of the program's third-straight 20-win campaign. The Blazers' slate included four consecutive conference road wins, which tied the team record, and led Conference USA with the best record away from home.

The team also picked up the program's second-consecutive NCAA Public Recognition Award for APR under Ehsan, marking the only two times in UAB history the accolade was achieved, and partnered with the Mike Slive Foundation for the #BlockCancer campaign, which raised money for prostate cancer research.

Ehsan's tenure as head coach at UAB included a plethora of marquee victories, including a win over Memphis, 71-56, on Nov. 30, 2017 and a win at Stephen F. Austin on Dec. 7, 2016, which snapped their 31-game home win streak. He won 62.5 percent of games in the C-USA Tournament, which ranks second-best all-time at UAB.

He spent four years as an assistant coach in Birmingham under Jerod Haase, the final two of which as associate head coach. Ehsan was part of Haase's staff that advanced to the second round of the 2015 NCAA Tournament, and went to the postseason a total of four times in eight years while at UAB.

Highlights during his time under Haase include a 26-win season in 2016-17, the winningest in program history, and a victory over then-No. 16 North Carolina in 2013. Ehsan led the recruiting efforts for William Lee, who is the highest-rated signee in the Blazers' history.

He previously spent time as an assistant at Virginia Tech (2011-12) under Seth Greenberg and at Maryland (2007-11) under Gary Williams. At the time of his hire with the Terrapins, Ehsan was the youngest assistant coach in the ACC (26). He went to three NCAA Tournaments and two NITs at Maryland, and won the ACC regular season championship in 2010. He recruited and coached ACC Player of the Year Greivis Vasquez, who went on to win the Bob Cousy Award and was selected 23rd overall in the 2010 NBA Draft.

In-between his time at UAB and Stanford, Ehsan founded and led the Graduate Assistant Leadership Academy by TopConnect. The Academy is an exclusive program for 22 of the best graduate assistants (men's and women's) in the country, teaching skills to prepare them for careers in coaching. He also worked for the Pac-12 Network as a color and studio analyst.

Ehsan is a 2005 graduate of UC Davis, where he was a teammate of assistant coach Jesse Pruitt. He later received an MBA from Maryland.

A native of Sacramento, Ehsan is married to the former Lindsey Rattray. They have one daughter, Katelyn, and two sons, Davis and Robert Ryder.

HEAD COACH

TARA VANDERVEER

Setsuko Ishiyama Director of Women's Basketball 45th Season (38th at Stanford) Indiana. 1975

The all-time winningest coach in women's college basketball, Tara VanDerveer has cemented herself as one of the top coaches in the history of sport, both collegiately and internationally, and is a member of both the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame (2011) and the Women's Basketball Hall of Fame (2002).

An ambassador for both Stanford University and the sport of college basketball, VanDerveer has enjoyed an unprecedented level of success through an energetic and positive approach to the game. A five-time national coach of the year (1988, 1989, 1990, 2011, 2021) and 17-time Pac-12 Coach of the Year, VanDerveer, who prior to coming to Stanford served as head coach for a combined seven seasons at Idaho (1978-80) and Ohio State (1980-85), has accumulated an impressive 1,186-265 (.817) record in her 44 years as a collegiate head coach and a 1,034-214 (.829) record over 37 seasons at Stanford.

She has seen it all, but the 2020-21 season managed to throw in some curveballs to VanDerveer, as she led the Cardinal back atop the collegiate mountaintop, all while maneuvering a global pandemic, and breaking the all-time wins record in women's college basketball. On Dec, 15, 2021, she became the sport's winningest coach, breaking Tennessee's Pat Summitt's mark of 1,098. Stanford finished the year 31-2, winning both the Pac-12 regular season and tournament championships, earning the No. 1 overall seed in the NCAA Tournament and claimed the national championship for the first time since 1992. The milestones have been piling up in recent years for VanDerveer, as she became the second women's coach to reach 1,000 career wins when Stanford beat USC on Feb. 3, 2017. VanDerveer has more career wins to her name than 344 of the country's 351 Division I programs.

VanDerveer has led her Stanford teams to three NCAA Championships (1990, 1992, 2021), one of four coaches in the history of the sport to win three titles. She's advanced the Cardinal to 14 NCAA Final Four appearances, 25 Pac-12 regular-season titles, 15 Pac-12 Tournament crowns and 34 trips to the NCAA Tournament. She also guided Idaho to one AIAW Tournament appearance and Ohio State to a pair of NCAA Tournaments while twice being named Big Ten Coach of the Year.

Her teams have won 20 or more games 38 times (an NCAA college basketball record), including each of the last 22 seasons, and collected at least 30 victories 17 times. VanDerveer built Stanford into a national power almost immediately upon arrival and has maintained an unparalleled level of success for over three and a half decades. On Feb. 26, 2016 the Cardinal won its 1,000th game in program history, becoming the seventh Division I institution to reach the milestone, and did so in fewer games than all but two other schools. VanDerveer has accounted for 1,034 of Stanford's 1,210 total victories since its first varsity season in 1975 (85 percent).

Perhaps one of VanDerveer's most notable attributes is her ability to connect with student-athletes and adapt to the everchanging landscape of college athletics. Considered one of the nation's premier recruiters, VanDerveer and her staff routinely bring top classes to The Farm. The Stanford staff brought in the likes of Jennifer Azzi and Kate Starbird, both of whom won women's basketball's highest individual honor - the James Naismith National Player of the Year Award (Azzi 1990; Starbird 1997) - as well as Candice Wiggins, who in 2008 joined Azzi (1990) as Stanford's second recipient of the State Farm/WBCA Wade Trophy Player of the Year Award.

First-team All-Americans that have flourished under VanDerveer's guidance include Haley Jones (2022), Cameron Brink (2022-23), Kiana Williams (2021), Alanna Smith (2019), Chiney Ogwumike (2012, 2013, 2014), Nnemkadi Ogwumike (2010, 2011, 2012), Jeanette Pohlen (2011), Jayne Appel (2009, 2010), Wiggins (2005, 2006, 2007, 2008), the program's only four-time All-American to date, Nicole Powell (2002, 2003, 2004), Kristin Folkl (1998), Starbird (1996, 1997), Val Whiting (1992, 1993), Sonja Henning (1991) and Azzi (1989, 1990).

Overall, VanDerveer has guided her players to two Wade Trophy Player of the Year honors, two Naismith Player of the Year honors, a WBCA Defensive Player of the Year, 36 first-team All-America honors (WBCA and Associated Press), 19 Pac-12 Player of the Year awards, 86 first team All-Pac-12 selections and nearly 40 appointments to USA Basketball teams.

Many of those players have gone on to have success at the professional level. Stanford has had 30 players play in a regular-season WNBA game since the league's inception in 1997. The program boasts 13 first-round draft picks out of its 28 all-time selections, including 2016 WNBA MVP Nneka Ogwumike, and has had seven players win a total of eight WNBA titles.

In 1995-96 VanDerveer served as head coach of the USA Basketball National Team, leading the team to a 52-0 exhibition record and then to the Olympic gold medal with a perfect 8-0 run at the 1996 Atlanta Games.

VanDerveer is a 1975 graduate of Indiana University, where she was a dean's list scholar for three years and a sociology major. While at Indiana, VanDerveer held one of the starting guard positions for three years on the women's basketball team. For her efforts at Indiana and her accomplishments after leaving the Hoosiers, VanDerveer was inducted into the Indiana University Hall of Fame in 1995.

An avid piano player in her spare time, VanDerveer was born June 26, 1953. A Boston native who grew up in upstate New York, she is also a published author. Her book Shooting From The Outside, which chronicled her 1996 Olympic and National Team experience, was released in September 1997.

COACHES

KATE PAYE

Harry K. and Ida S. Berland Associate Head Women's Basketball Coach 17th Season Stanford, 1995

Recently concluding her 16th season as a member of the Stanford women's basketball coaching staff, and seventh as associate head coach, Kate Paye has served an instrumental role as the Cardinal remains a mainstay atop the women's college basketball landscape.

Since Paye's return to Stanford in 2007-08, the Cardinal has been one of the top teams in the nation, going 497-81 (.860) and winning the 2021 national championship, advancing to two other title games, nine total Final Fours and the Sweet Sixteen all but one year. Paye's responsibilities with the program include working with the perimeter players, overseeing the defense, opponent scouting and recruiting. Stanford's 497 wins in Paye's time as an assistant are the second-most of any team in the nation over the last 16 seasons.

Under Paye's tutelage, the Cardinal's perimeter players have garnered national and conference awards and recognition and established program and personal bests. Since 2007-08, the guards coached by Paye have been selected in the first round of the WNBA Draft six times, captured four first team All-America nods, three Pac-12 Player of the Year awards, two Pac-12 Defensive Player of the Year awards and 28 first team All-Pac-12 selections.

The nation has clearly noticed Paye's prowess, as she was named the 2022 Assistant Coach of the Year by the WBCA in leading Stanford to both the Pac-12 regular season and tournament championships and a run to the Final Four. Lexie Hull became Stanford's highest draft pick in eight years, selected No. 6 overall by the Indiana Fever.

Following the 2021 championship run, Kiana Williams was picked 18th in the WNBA Draft to the Seattle Storm after etching her name through the Cardinal's record books, finishing as the program's all-time leading 3-point shooter, ninth in career assists and 10th in career points. Paye also helped guide Anna Wilson to Pac-12 Co-Defensive Player of the Year honors in 2021, as the guard finished her six-year career with the Cardinal playing more games than anyone in program history.

Karlie Samuelson became the 29th Stanford alumna to appear in a WNBA game when she made her Los Angeles Sparks debut in the 2018 season opener. A WBCA and Associated Press All-America honorable mention selection as a senior in 2017, Samuelson finished her four years at Stanford with the best career 3-point percentage for any Pac-12 player since 1990 (.443).

An example of the steady improvement players experience under Paye, Brittany McPhee averaged career highs in points (16.7), rebounds (5.4), assists (2.4) and steals (1.3) in her senior season and graduated in 2018 as a two-time All-Pac-12 selection and a USA TODAY All-America third team honoree. Paye also guided point guard Amber Orrange, one of just five Stanford players with 1,000 career points and 500 assists, to All-Pac-12 selections in 2013, 2014 and 2015. Orrange was taken by the New York Liberty with the 23rd pick in the 2015 WNBA Draft.

Her work with Kayla Pedersen contributed to the forward's successful transition from an inside player to a dominant perimeter threat and in 2011 Pedersen was named All-Pac-12 and Associated Press All-America honorable mention. Jeanette Pohlen enjoyed a career year that same season, scoring 14.5 points per game and setting a Stanford single-season record with 96 3-pointers made. She was named to the Associated Press All-America first team and captured the Pac-12 Player of the Year award. That April, both Pedersen and Pohlen were selected in the first round of the WNBA Draft.

In 2007-08, Paye coached Stanford standout Candice Wiggins to a record-breaking senior season in which the Cardinal guard earned her fourth straight All-America honor, third Pac-12 Player of the Year award, the Wade Trophy Player of the Year Award and was the third overall pick in the WNBA Draft. She also played a key role in the development of senior guard Rosalyn Gold-Onwude, who became Stanford's first Pac-12 Defensive Player of the Year in 2010 and was regarded as one of the country's top defensive guards.

Paye, who earned the Cardinal's "Best Defensive Player" award in 1994, has played a vital role in shaping a dominant and aggressive Stanford defense over the past decade. Nine of Stanford's 10-best defensive scoring averages on the season have occurred under Paye's guidance, highlighted by all-time lows of 51.9 points per game and a 31.6 field-goal percentage in 2012-13.

She has also been instrumental in the Cardinal's recruiting efforts which have landed the program numerous top-ranked classes including three top prospects and national players of the year in Nnemkadi Ogwumike (2008), Chiney Ogwumike (2010) and Haley Jones (2019).

Prior to joining the Cardinal staff in 2007-08, Paye spent the previous two seasons at San Diego State, leaving the program as associate head coach after helping guide the Aztecs to the 11th-greatest team improvement in NCAA Division I and the biggest turnaround in Mountain West Conference history in 2006-07.

A native of Woodside, Calif., Paye was a four-year member of the Stanford women's basketball team that claimed the national championship in 1992 and advanced to the NCAA Final Four in 1995. A three-time Pac-12 All-Academic selection and two-time team captain, Paye scored 743 points and averaged 3.22 assists and a steal per game in her Stanford career.

Paye earned her bachelor's degree in political science from Stanford in 1995. She also graduated with distinction with both her Juris Doctorate and master's degree in business administration from Stanford in 2003. Paye worked as a corporate attorney for Palo Alto-based, Cooley Godward LLP, before returning to the game of basketball.

She spent the 2004-05 campaign as an assistant coach at Pepperdine, serving as the program's recruiting coordinator and guard coach. She helped guide the Waves to a fourth-place finish in the West Coast Conference and a semifinal appearance in the WCC Tournament.

Out of college, Paye served as assistant coach at San Diego State during the 1995-96 season before going on to play basketball professionally, competing with the Seattle Reign of the ABL for three seasons (1996-98) and later with the WNBA's Minnesota Lynx and Seattle Storm from 2000-02.

In addition to being born at Stanford hospital, Paye's entire immediate family have all attended Stanford University.

Both Paye's father and brother, each named John, lettered as members of the Stanford football team. Her father lettered in 1962, while her brother, Stanford's starting quarterback from 1983-86, currently ranks fifth all-time in the school record book with 7,669 career passing yards and fifth overall with a career mark of 7,539 yards of total offense. The younger John also earned three letters as a point guard with the Stanford men's basketball team from 1984-86.

KATY STEDING

With three seasons under her belt as an assistant coach, former player and Stanford Hall of Famer Katy Steding has helped the Cardinal maintain its position as one of the premier programs in women's college basketball.

Working primarily with the post players, Stanford has gone 92-12 (.885) in Steding's three seasons on The Farm, the second-most wins of any school in the nation during that span. The Cardinal has won three straight Pac-12 regular season titles along with the 2021 and 2022 tournament championships and has gone 50-5 vs. Pac-12 foes in Steding's tenure. Under her guidance, Cameron Brink was named an All-American in back-to-back seasons and named the WBCA Defensive Player of the Year as junior, breaking the program record for career blocks.

Steding, Tara VanDerveer's first signed recruit, led Stanford to its 1990 NCAA title during her senior season and joined the Cardinal following an extensive professional career as a player and coaching stops at Warner Pacific, the Atlanta Dream, Columbia, California, Boston University and most recently, San Francisco.

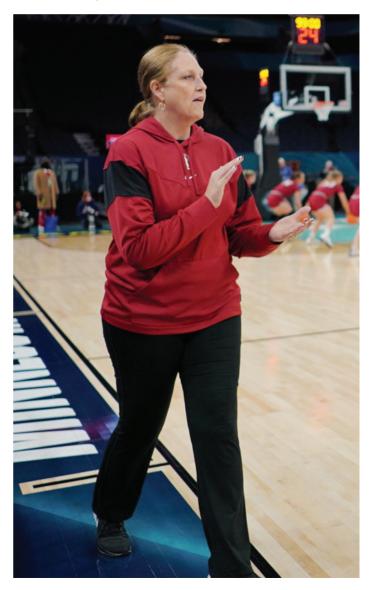

Steding's name is littered throughout the Stanford record books, ranking 11th in career rebounds (864) and career rebounding average (7.0), 14th in career scoring (1,586) and both sixth and ninth in single-season 3-point percentage as a junior and senior. She also holds the program's single-game steals record with 10 at Northwestern in 1988 and was a three-time All-Pac-10 player.

Following graduation, Steding embarked on a professional playing career overseas with stops in Japan and Spain before returning to the United States and earning a spot on the national team in 1995. Coached by VanDerveer, the "Women's Dream Team" compiled a 60-0 record that culminated with a gold medal at the 1996 Atlanta Olympics. After her time with Team USA, Steding became a founding player for the Portland Power of the American Basketball League before playing with Sacramento Monarchs and Seattle Storm of the WNBA. She retired from professional basketball in 2001.

Steding began her coaching career at Warner Pacific University in Portland. In seven seasons, she helped transition the program from club-level to a varsity team. Steding recorded a pair of 20-plus win seasons, leading the Knights to the NAIA Division II National Tournaments in 2004 and 2006. Steding then spent one season each as an assistant for the WNBA's Atlanta Dream and Columbia in New York City. Her first stop at San Francisco was as an assistant under former Stanford teammate, Jennifer Azzi, from 2010-12.

She then traveled across the Bay, serving as an assistant at California from 2012-2014, helping the Golden Bears to a trip to the Final Four in 2013, before being hired as head coach at Boston University. In her tenure, the Terriers enjoyed their highest conference win total since joining the Patriot League during the 2016-17 season. She returned to San Francisco as an associate head coach in 2018, working with yet another former Stanford teammate, Molly Goodenbour.

Prior to her arrival on The Farm, Brown spent four seasons at Michigan State, rising to the position of associate head coach as she helped guide the Spartans to NCAA Tournament appearances in each of her seasons in East Lansing. ALL-AMERICANS

JAYNE APPEL (2009-10)

A two-time State Farm Coaches' All-America selection (2009-10), Appel captained the Cardinal to three straight Final Four appearances and a pair of national title games. She was a three-time All-Pac-10 selection (2008-10) and the 2009 Pac-10 Player of the Year, finishing her Stanford career atop both the school's and Pac-10's career rebounding list with 1,263 boards. In 2009, Appel had one of her best moments when she scored a Stanford-record 46 points in the 2009 Regional Final against lowa State. In the Cardinal record books, Appel ended her career first in blocked shots (273), second in games played (147), third in points scored (2,125), shooting percentage (.565) and rebounds per game (8.6), and seventh in points per game (14.5). She also became the third Cardinal to reach 2,000 career points and 1,000 career rebounds, joining Nicole Powell and Val Whiting.

JENNIFER AZZI (1989-90)

Stanford's first national superstar, Jennifer Azzi was the 1990 Wade Trophy winner as well as the Naismith National Player of the Year and Honda-Broderick Award recipient. Azzi was a two-time Kodak All-American and the 1990 Pac-10 Player of the Year, becoming the first Stanford player to earn each honor. Azzi averaged 13.4 points, 3.8 rebounds and 6.1 assists per game for the Cardinal during her career, as Stanford accumulated a 101-23 record, two Pac-10 Championships and its first NCAA Championship in 1990. Azzi ended her career on The Farm as the school's career leader in three-pointers made (19) and attempted (423), assists (751) and steals (271).

CAMERON BRINK (2022-23)

The 2023 WBCA Defensive Player of the Year, Cameron Brink concluded a historic junior season by becoming the Cardinal's first back-to-back All-American since Chiney Ogwumike earned three straight from 2012-14. In 2022-23, Brink broke the program record for career blocks, reset her own single-season school blocks record and ranked second nationally with 118. She was one of only two players in the country to average more than 15 points, 9.0 rebounds and 3.0 blocks per game, something that had not been done in Pac-12 records dating back to 1999-00. Against Oregon on Jan. 29, she became the first player in program history to record a triple-double with blocks, going for 16 points, 11 rebounds and a Stanford singlegame record 10 rejections in a 62-54 home win. In her first All-America campaign a year prior, Brink won her first of two Pac-12 Defensive Player of the Year awards and averaged 13.5 points, 8.1 rebounds and 2.6 blocks per game, leading the team in each category.

KRISTIN FOLKL (1998)

In her senior season, Kristin Folkl was named a Kodak First Team All-American, a Naismith Player of the Year finalist, and a GTE/COSIDA Second Team Academic All-American. Folkl was chosen as an All-Pac-10 Freshman in 1995 and was all-conference in 1998. She wrapped up her collegiate basketball career leading the team in scoring and rebounds with 18.9 points and 9.2 rebounds per game her senior year. Folkl helped the Cardinal to two Final Four appearances and three Pac-10 Championships. Folkl also competed on the Stanford volleyball team helping Stanford to three NCAA Championships in 1994, 1996 and 1997.

SONJA HENNING (1991)

Sonja Henning's Stanford career began on the right note as she was named the Women's Basketball News Service Collegiate Freshman Player of the Year in 1988. She went on to be a key part of Known for playing her best in the big moments, Jones was named the Pac-12 Tournament Most Outstanding Player after averaging 18.7 points, 8.0 rebounds and 4.3 assists in Las Vegas. She also had a number of big performances in the regular season, including a season-high 26 vs. California and 18 points, 19 rebounds and six assists in a victory at No. 7 Tennessee, joining Chiney Ogwumike as the only Division I players this century with that line in an AP top-10 road matchup.

She ended her four-year career as the Pac-12's all-time leading scorer (2,737 points) and rebounder (1,567), and set the conference record for points scored in a season with 967 in a historic senior campaign. In 2014, Ogwumike was the only player in the country to rank in the NCAA top 10 in scoring (26.1 pppg – fourth), field goal percentage (60.1 – fourth) and rebounding (12.1 rpg – ninth), and swept the Pac-12 Player and Defensive Player of the Year awards for the second straight season. She was a two-time consensus All-American (2013 and 2014) and earned her first WBCA All-America honor in 2012 after becoming one of just four Stanford players to average a double-double (15.0 ppg, 10.1 rpg). In 2012-13 she bettered those numbers in winning the Pac-12 Triple Crown (22.4 ppg, 12.9 rpg, 58.6 FG pct.) and capped her impressive career with averages of 26.1 points and 12.1 rebounds per game in 2013-14.

In her senior campaign, Ogwumike set what were then Stanford single-season benchmarks for points scored (809) and scoring average (22.5). She was named Pac-12 Player of the Year for the second time, and earned her second straight Pac-12 Tournament MVP as well as a third NCAA Regional MVP in a row. In 2009-10, Ogwumike became the first sophomore since Candice Wiggins to be named Pac-10 Player of the Year, leading the conference with 18.5 points per game and a 59.8 shooting percentage, and just missed out on the conference's triple crown, finishing second with 9.9 rebounds per game.

ATHLETIC FACILITIES

STANFORD ATHLETIC FACILITIES

Stanford University is home to some of the finest athletic facilities in the nation. Student-athletes at Stanford can use the latest and most up-to-date strength and training technology while competing in some of the country's top facilities.

Stanford football players utilize four practice fields, a state-of-the-art training room and the Arrillaga Family Sports Center Varsity Weight Room that features the most modern and up-to-date equipment and technology available in the field of strength and conditioning.

Many athletic facilities at Stanford are considered among the best in the country, including Sunken Diamond, home of Stanford baseball; Maples Pavilion, home to Cardinal basketball and volleyball, among others; the Avery Aquatic Center, where NCAA champions and future Olympians train; Cobb Track & Angell Field; and the Taube Family Tennis Stadium, home to 39 national championship trophies.

ARRILLAGA FAMILY SPORTS CENTER

The Arrillaga Family Sports Center, which opened in January of 1994, is the home of the Stanford Athletic Department. Funded by the gifts of 23 donors, the Arrillaga Family Sports Center is a state-of-the-art facility that helps give Stanford one of the finest sets of athletic facilities in the country. Included in the Arrillaga Family Sports Center are Athletic Department administrative and coaching staff offices, Home of Champions, Stanford's brand new Hall of Fame, the Harvey Bernhard Football Locker Room, a recreation locker room, a wrestling/ martial arts room, a sports medicine center, a 16,000 square foot weight training facility, a dining room which is open to the public and used for student-athlete training tables, a conference center and other ancillary facilities.

Named areas in the Sports Center include the John and Kathy Kissick Auditorium; the Phillip H. and Penelope P. Knight Sports Medicine Center; the Forman Family Athletic Director's Suite; and the Weintz Wrestling and Martial Arts Room.

MAPLES PAVILION

One of the best environments for college basketball can be found at Maples Pavilion. Built in 1969, Maples Pavilion has been host to many of the most memorable collegiate games in the nation over recent years.

The facility underwent a substantial $26-million renovation that was completed in 2004-05 and recently received $1.2 million in display upgrades in the summer of 2015.

Maples Pavilion serves as home for the men's and women's basketball teams and men's and women's volleyball programs. The men's and women's gymnastics squads and wrestling team also occasionally host home events in the facility.

The renovations, financed entirely through private donations, has enhanced the college athletic experience for both student-athletes and fans. The new center-hung scoreboard is a Daktronics 6mm display, an upgrade to full HD and features a 16x9 aspect ratio. In addition to the scoreboard, new LED tables and corner boards were part of the improvements. The corner displays give in-venue production teams the ability to communicate stat information without taking up real estate on the main, center-hung board, allowing for replays and live video on a full-screen, high-definition canvas.

The 2004-05 facelift included a new covered 29,000-squarefoot concourse around the exterior of the seating area, concession and restroom facilities with speaker systems. The concourse is physically separated from the original building. The gap between the original building and the new concourse was designed for two reasons: to preserve the integrity of the architectural design and create an open garden feel that is present throughout buildings on the Stanford campus. The renovation also included the new playing court floor, upgraded locker rooms, student-athlete lounges, strength and conditioning room, athletic training room, media workroom and courtside room for pre and post-game functions.

The seating configuration features a lower bowl seating area that replaced the old floor and loge sections. The newer lower seating level includes padded stadium seats that replaced the wood bleachers in the old floor setup. With the upgraded facilities and the improved seating area at floor level, the home team and fans experience the most intimate playing atmosphere in the Pac-12.

The 7,233-seat structure serves the entire university as a multipurpose facility. It was originally built at a cost of $3.3 million. It was named after its principal donor, Roscoe Maples, a member of the 1904 Stanford class.

TRADITIONS

WITH ONE OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL ON-CAMPUS STADIUMS IN THE COUNTRY, SURROUNDED BY GROVES OF ANCIENT EUCALYPTUS AND OAK TREES SERVING AS A BACKDROP, GAMEDAY AT STANFORD IS FULL OF TRADITION, COLOR AND PAGEANTRY.

HERE ARE SOME OF THE STANFORD FOOTBALL TRADITIONS:

TRADITIONS

The unique origins of Stanford's mascot and nickname have a history that dates back to the University's founding in 1891. While the Cardinal has always been one of the school's official colors, the nickname has gone through a series of changes, student votes, controversy and confusion.

Since 1981, Stanford has been known as the Cardinal. Stanford does not have an official mascot. The "Tree," which is a member of the Stanford Band, often times is mistaken for the school's mascot.

NICKNAME

The nickname for Stanford is the Cardinal -- in reference to one of the school colors. Stanford's history with its nickname began on March 19, 1891, when Stanford beat Cal in the first Big Game. While Stanford did not have an official nickname at the time, the day after the Big Game local newspapers picked up the "cardinal" theme and used it in the headlines.

There is no official mascot of Stanford University. The "Tree," which is a member of the Stanford Band, is representative of El Palo Alto, the Redwood tree which is the logo of the city of Palo Alto. Since Stanford and Palo Alto are almost inextricably intertwined in interests and location, it is a natural outgrowth of this relationship. The tree still exists and stands by the railroad bridge beside San Francisquito Creek -- it is the site where early explorers first camped when settling the area. While various other mascots have been suggested and then allowed to wither, the color has continued to serve us well, as it has for 90 years. It is a rich and vivid metaphor for the very pulse of life.

THE COLORS

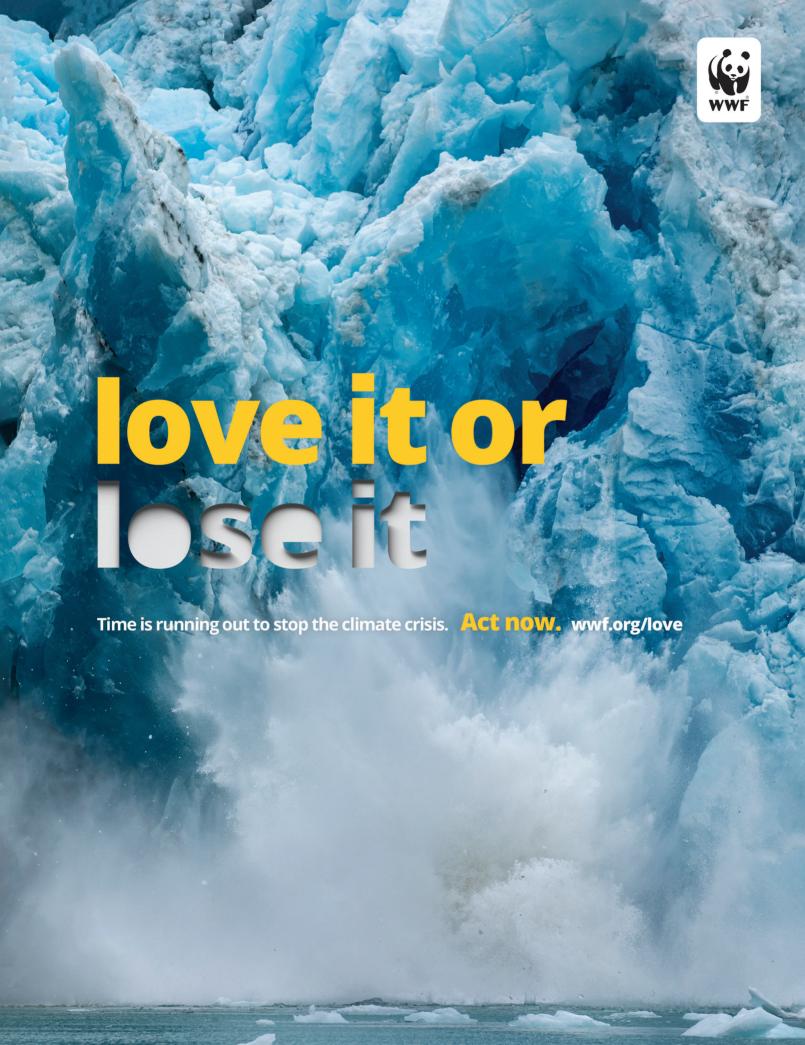

When Stanford first accepted students in 1891, the student body actually voted for gold as the school's color, but another student assembly chose Cardinal as the school color. A few days after the vote, local sportswriters picked up the "cardinal" theme after Stanford defeated Cal in the first Big Game on March 19, 1891. The headlines read, "Cardinal Triumphs O'er Blue and Gold."

Cardinal remained the school color until the 1940s, when the rules committee and conferences started regulating jersey colors for home and visiting football teams. Stanford's Board of Athletic Control adopted white as the second color. Today, Stanford's official school colors are cardinal and white.

THE LELAND STANFORD JUNIOR UNIVERSITY MARCHING BAND

The modern Leland Stanford Junior University Marching Band was formed in 1963 when members of the marching band went on strike to protest the firing of the band director. According to lore, the new director, Arthur P. Barnes, immediately won the loyalty of the band by relinquishing any meaningful control over it.

Empowered, the student-led band threw away the traditional marching music and uniforms, eventually settling for a mostly rock and roll repertoire and a simplified uniform consisting of a white fishing hat with red trim, red blazer, black pants and "the ugliest tie you can get your hands on."

STANFORD ALUMNI

The Stanford Alumni Association was established in 1892 by the university's first graduating class. There are currently more than 220,000 Stanford alumni.
