Opening Draw

No. 2 Stanford heads into Thursday's contest having earned its second-ever 10-0 start following a 14-8 win over Arizona State last Saturday to wrap up a season-long three-game homestand. In what was a back-and-forth affair through the first quarter, the Cardinal rattled off a six-goal run in the second quarter to retake the lead that it never surrendered, highlighted by Ava Arceri's shorthanded tally with one second left in the half to put the Cardinal ahead 8-3. Stanford outscored the Sun Devils 6-5 in the second half while Ella Morton - who made her first collegiate start - snagged 10 of her 14 total saves in the second half to give the Cardinal the eventual 14-8 win.

Offensively, Stanford had nine players record a goal while Elise Murphy, Jordyn Case and Martha Oakey joined Arceri for the team-lead with three points during the contest. Saturday's game marked the fifth time in the last six games Stanford has had eight or more goal-scorers and seventh time this season. Jordyn Case was dominant on the draw circle earning a career-high eight draw controls on the day to negate the one of the nation's best draw takers. Defensively, Stanford snagged its eighth game of limiting the opposition to under 10 goals while Morton's 14 saves is the most ever by a Stanford goalkeeper in their first collegiate start. The Cardinal defense also racked up 14 caused turnovers with Kate Bellissimo leading the team with four.

Aliya Polisky leads the Cardinal in scoring through 10 games this season after notching an assist in limited action against Arizona State last week. Polisky currently holds a 27-16-45 line this season and has scored in all but one game in 2026. Mallory Hasselbeck is second on the team in scoring having snagged a goal and an assist in the win over ASU. Hasselbeck has recorded six games with four or more points this season including in three of the last five outings. Stanford currently has 14 players who have tallied a goal this season while eight players have recorded 10 or more goals this campaign.

Stanford ranks fifth in the conference in assists per game, averaging 7.60 through 10 games with Hasselbeck posting a team-best 21 helpers this season. Polisky's 16 on the season follows in second while 13 players have recorded an assist in 2026.

On the circle, Jordyn Case leads the team in draw controls with 40 after a career-outing against ASU where she snagged eight against one of the nation's best draw control units. Case previously tied her career-best with seven in the win over Virginia earlier this season. Annabel Frist is second on the team with 36 draw controls after tallying nine in the win over Notre Dame two weeks ago. Frist has totalled 354 draw controls during her career and sits 21 draw controls back of tying Genesis Lucero (2016-21) for the program record in draw controls. Rylee Bouvier and Amanda Lawson slot third and fourth, respectively, as the other Cardinal to have recorded 10 or more draw controls this season.

Defensively, Rylee Bouvier and Kate Bellissimo lead the Cardinal having both earned ACC Defensive Player of the Week honors in the campaign. Bouvier and Bellissimo sit atop the leaderboard with 21 caused turnovers while Bellissimo owns the record for caused turnovers in a game with eight, breaking a 26-year record in the win over Duke. Bellissimo also owns the team lead in ground balls with 31 on the season while Kaleigh Sommers follows her in second with 20.

In cage, Lucy Pearson owns a perfect 9-0 record having last appeared against Notre Dame. Pearson, who made a season-high 10 saves in STANFORD ENTERED ITS INAUGURAL SEASON in the Atlantic Coast Conference having been picked to finish fifth in the preseason coaches poll, headlined by the return of a trio of preseason All-Americans and Tewaaraton Watch List honorees in Annabel Frist, Lucy Pearson and Aliya Polisky. However, Stanford embodied a new team identity that showed through its perfect 6-0 start to the season, beginning with a pair of wins over former Pac-12 foes, No. 22 USC and No. 21/20 Colorado.

Against the Trojans, Polisky tied her single-game high with seven goals to begin her season ledger while Elise Murphy - who had made just four appearances the season prior - nabbed four goals to begin her campaign. Against Colorado, the Cardinal utilized a 10-2 run in the second half in the rain to earn a 15-10 comeback win - setting the tone for what was to come in 2025.

Following a 20-3 win over UC Davis to move to 3-0, the Cardinal hit the road for its first major challenge of the season - facing off against the No. 7 Virginia Cavaliers in its ACC debut. Down 3-2 through the first quarter, Stanford's youth on offense took over to take a one-goal lead into the half. Defensively, the Cardinal stymied Virginia in the second half, outscoring the Cavaliers 7-2 in the half while forcing four shot clock violations as Stanford earned its first-ever win over UVA and its first win in the ACC.

Stanford returned home from its visit to East Coast in prime form, earning its first ACC home win in a 16-12 decision over Pitt before fending off a late push from Villanova to move to 6-0 on the year. A week later, Stanford made the trip to The Empire State to face one of the conference's best programs - Syracuse. In what was a dog fight at the JMA Wireless Dome that could not be settled in regulation, it was the No. 11/10 Orange that fended off Stanford in the second overtime period to hand the Cardinal its first loss of the season. In resilient fashion, however, Stanford ended its New York escapade in unnerved fashion, dispatching Cornell in the cold thanks to a near-second-half shutout to get back to winning ways.

Card at Cagan

With eight games gone by in the campaign and a 4-0 start to the home slate, the Cardinal returned to The Farm for a season-long three-game homestand looking to extend its already program-best home win streak even further. Having broken the previous mark of 16-consecutive wins at Cagan with its 17th-straight win in the game against UC Davis, the Cardinal moved to 19-straight wins with a dominant outing against Virginia Tech, earning another valuable ACC win.

Following the route of the Hokies, the Cardinal avenged last season's one-goal defeat to the Yale Bulldogs in thrilling fashion at Cagan. Having surged ahead thanks to a six-goal third quarter, Stanford closed down the comeback attempt from the No. 4 team in the country with Lucy Pearson's career-high 15th save in the closing minute of action proving the difference to give Stanford its second-highest ranked win in program history and highest ever ranked win at Cagan Stadium.

After the 11-10 thriller against Yale, Stanford once again set records, playing and hosting in the programs highest-ever ranked matchup as the No. 5 Cardinal hosted No. 1 Boston College. In front of the best crowd since 2012, Stanford fought well before a crowd of 1,177 fans but could not overcome a halftime deficit as the best win-streak in DI at the time was snapped at 20 games.

The Final Stretch

With six games left on the ledger, Stanford ran into its first road block of the season, battling hard in the elements in a gruelling 12-9 defeat at Army. However, Stanford bounced back with a convincing win against Louisville to put itself in prime position to earn a conference postseason tournament berth.

With consecutive ranked ACC opponents on the docket, the Cardinal trekked up to South Bend and took care of business, holding No. 21 Notre Dame at bay to lock up a spot in the ACC postseason tournament with an 8-7 victory before earning the win in the inaugural matchup against No. 15/14 Clemson for its sixth ranked win of the season.

Stanford held its home finale on Senior Day, honoring its eight seniors in Erin Schaefer, Sophia Brindisi, Ashley Thurston, Jordyn Case, Maddigan Miller, Kate Bellissimo, Allison Baldwin and Annabel Frist. Following the senior day festivities, Stanford locked up a third-place finish in the ACC with a dominant, 19-4 win over Cal just a few days later to solidify a 13-win regular season and a 7-2 mark in its ACC debut.

Revenge Tour

Stanford hit the road to Charlotte, N.C. for its debut in the ACC Women's Lacrosse Tournament, earning the No. 3 seed and the right to avenge its regular season loss to Syracuse which earned the No. 6 seed. Having fallen into a three-goal deficit at the half-time break, Stanford went on a 10-2 run that included six different scorers in the second half while suffocating the Syracuse offense to grab its first ACC Tournament win, 15-10.

Following the win over the Orange, Stanford looked to exact revenge against the No. 2 seed Boston College Eagles. In what was a tight game through a majority of regulation, it was the Eagles who pulled out the win, ending Stanford's bid at an inaugural ACC Tournament crown.

Revenge Tour: Tournament Edition

With a 14-5 record, Stanford earned its second-consecutive appearance - and 13th overall - in the NCAA Tournament, grabbing an at-large bid as the No. 2 seed in the Gainesville pod and a chance at redemption with a first round matchup against No. 22 Denver.

Having fallen to the Pioneers on Senior Day nearly a month prior, Stanford exacted revenge in the best way possible, earning its first NCAA tournament victory since 2016 and snapping a 10-game skid against the Pioneers with a 10-4 victory. On the strength of hat trick outings from Martha Oakey and Aliya Polisky - who tied the single-season goal record with her 62nd goal of the season in the fourth quarter - and a shutout performance from the Stanford defense, the Cardinal grabbed its first NCAA win in the Danielle Spencer era while setting up a soon-to-be thriller against Florida in the second round.

38 hours after dispatching the Pioneers, Stanford battled the elements and the early morning start time in what was to be one of the most exhilarating games of the season for a chance to make it out of the first weekend of the NCAA Tournament for the first time ever.

In a back-and-forth affair through the first half, Stanford entered the final 30 minutes, unwavering in its belief it could mount a comeback as the Cardinal entered the half down 6-4. After trading blows with the Gators, Stanford snatched the final three goals of the quarter to take its first lead of the game heading into the final frame. Though Florida stormed out of the gates in the fourth to regain a three-goal lead, Stanford once again showed its grit, scoring three times inside a five-minute span to force the game into overtime.

With neither side finding the breakthrough in the first half of overtime, the game was decided by a matter of inches as Florida's final shot of the afternoon was deemed to have crossed the goal line before Lucy Pearson could shovel it back into the crease as Stanford's season came to a heartbreaking end in the second round.

A Season To Remember

Stanford ended the 2025 campaign with its second-most wins in program history and its best season since 2015 with a 15-6 record, proving itself as a formidable force in the best conference in DI women's lacrosse.

Aliya Polisky broke two program records in her sophomore year on The Farm, breaking the single-season record for shots with 150 on the campaign and securing the single-season goal record by tallying a hat trick in the season-finale against Florida for her 65th. Martha Oakey solidified the record for assists by a true freshman in a single season after tallying 28 helpers in her debut for the Cardinal. Both her and sophomore Elise Murphy's 28 assists stand tied for eighth most in a single-season all-time.

Ava Arceri had a career season as well, earning 56 goals which is tied for fourth most in a single-season all-time while her and Polisky became the second duo to record 50+ goals in a single season in the program's history. Defensively, Olivia Rose earned a career-high 31 caused turnovers on the season to place in a tie for fourth all-time.
