STAFF SENATE

Page description: Staff's Role and Participation in institutional decision-making

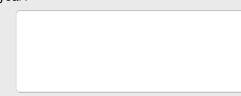

🛄 33

Staff members have an obligation to be informed about issues affecting the greater good of the University community and to become involved in decision-making processes. The staff's role as active participants in University governance is assured through the Staff Senate's Bylaws and Policies and Procedures.

The Staff Senate, with elected representatives from all University divisions, is an advisory body to the President and the Board of Trustees and is a recognized channel of communication between staff and administration. The Staff Senate makes recommendations to the President on issues of importance to the staff and University as a whole. In addition to these elected positions, staff are participating member on University committees. The Staff Senate also annually reviews the University committee structure, recommending changes in committees and committee memberships to ensure staff are represented and contributing appropriately and effectively.
