Dear colleagues,

We had the greatest pleasure to have you with us yesterday, Thank you for taking part in the Employee orientation program,

Benefiting from this introductory training will allow you to integrate and/or strengthen the sustainability component in your mission. This program aims to include sustainability in the new employee orientation since it is an institutional priority and part of the campus culture. Providing information and tools about the institution's sustainability programs and options at the time when an employee is getting acquainted with his or her new employer and developing new work routines and habits can help encourage the adoption of environmentally and socially preferable habits, routines, and choices.

In this sense, kindly find a variety of policies, guides, green maps and links to help you be more aware of your essential role in promoting and advancing sustainability on the different campuses of UM6P
