

Anne Campbell
North Carolina Military Business Center
444 Western Blvd, Jacksonville, NC 28445
campbella@coastalcarolina.edu

February 16, 2012

Dear Ms. Graham,

I am writing to express my admiration for the first annual Sustainability Symposium and Exposition held in March, 2011 in Leland, North Carolina. As a speaker for this event, I was able to witness first-hand the true core of the program- and am impressed by the innovative nature of this Symposium. Instead of focusing on a “green” track for manufacturers or builders, the program took an entirely holistic approach to sustainability, incorporating all “green” and sustainable aspects of the economy from agriculture, tourism, construction, products, government procurement, logistics, and more. This symposium really got to the heart of what will truly be the wave of the future: sustainability integrated into the economy, not just a recycling or conventional energy reduction initiative.

I look forward to the second annual Sustainability Symposium and Exposition this year and the new topics to be covered, and I look forward to continuing our partnership with the Green Information and Training Center.

Anne Campbell