

Study Abroad Opportunities with a Sustainability Focus

UNIVERSITY OF TASMANIA

Location: Hobart, Tasmania, Australia

The University of Tasmania is a medium-sized university that provides students with the benefits of smaller classes and personalized attention. With a curriculum focused on developing multidisciplinary knowledge and skills, as well as global perspective and social responsibility, UTAS provides exceptional facilities, an enviable campus lifestyle, and an international reputation for excellence. UTAS has particular strengths in zoology, geography and environmental studies, marine and Antarctic science, law, Aboriginal studies, journalism and media, business, music, and studio arts.

Semester: Fall (early July to mid-November) / Spring (mid-February to early June)

BELIZE

Location: San Ignacio, Belize

Galen University has particular strengths in archaeology, anthropology, and sustainable development, but offers a wide range of courses including business and tourism. A semester in Belize offers students the opportunity to live in a nation rich in cultural diversity in a semi-tropical and coastal environment. Belize is best known as a tourist destination, but your studies will give you a deeper understanding of life in "a Central American country with a Caribbean beat."

Semester: Fall / Spring

COSTA RICA

Location: San José, Costa Rica

This program will be of particular interest to students in our business, education, and Spanish majors. Typically, students will enroll in two to three topics courses in English, and may take Spanish language courses, all at the Universidad Latinoamericana de Ciencia y Tecnología in San José. Course offerings in English include business, education, environmental studies, and Latin American studies. Students in the Spanish major or with high-level Spanish language skills may enroll in topics courses in Spanish. A defining feature of this program is a required internship: all students will be placed in an unpaid 3-credit hour internship at a Costa Rica-based company, NGO, public school, or other organization for the duration of the semester.

Semester: Fall / Spring

BERLIN FREIE UNIVERSITÄT BERLIN FU-BEST PROGRAM

Location: Berlin, Germany

Taking place in the heart of Berlin, this program combines courses offered in English on German/European politics, history, sociology, philosophy, film, business, environmental studies, economics, music, and art history with semi-intensive study of German. Courses take advantage of sites and museums in Berlin with local field trips and cultural activities, along with a weeklong excursion in Germany and other countries in Central or Eastern Europe. Local internships are available to qualified students after the spring semester. Program uses the U.S. semester schedule. Students live in homestays or single-occupancy, furnished studio apartments.

Semester: Fall / Spring

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE CORK

Location: Cork, Ireland

University College Cork (UCC) offers a unique and enriching study abroad experience. A comprehensive range of course offerings in the arts, humanities, social sciences, and sciences is available to students. The program is of particular interest to students majoring in the biological, chemical, physical, environmental, mathematical, or computer sciences. An Early Start Program introduces students to living and studying in Ireland. UCC is located in the picturesque city of Cork, Ireland's second largest city, situated in the south of the country. Cork offers students all the advantages of a bustling, vibrant and cosmopolitan area, while maintaining a safe and secure atmosphere for the student traveler.

Semester: Fall

IES ABROAD – CAPE TOWN

Location: Cape Town, South Africa

In Cape Town, your time will be filled with interesting and engaging courses, outdoor activities to enjoy, South African residents to meet, and African cultures to learn. While in South Africa, you will enroll in 3 to 5 courses at the University of Cape Town, the oldest university in the country. UCT is especially strong in the areas of African Studies, Biology, Botany, Business, Environmental Sciences, History, Mathematics, Engineering, Sociology, and Anthropology but students can enroll in a broad range of curricular disciplines. Students are encouraged to participate in our service learning program and can also elect to take one of several courses offered by IES Abroad. Service learning in and around Cape Town is a core component in our program as it helps you understand some of Cape Town's most pressing social issues, while contributing your skills toward a community-driven solution.

Semester: Fall / Spring

SCHOOL FOR FIELD STUDIES

This program allows students to learn about environmental issues first-hand and to participate as a member of a team helping to solve a particular environmental problem. Semester-long opportunities are available at a number of field sites in Australia, Central America, South America, Africa, Asia, and the Caribbean.

Tropical Rainforest Studies

Location: Queensland, Australia

Semester: Fall / Spring

River Ecosystems & Environmental Ethics

Location: Siem Reap, Cambodia

Semester: Fall / Spring

Sustainable Development Studies

Location: Atenas, Costa Rica

Semester: Fall / Spring

Tropical Island Biodiversity Studies

Location: Bocas del Toro, Panama

Semester: Fall / Spring

Biodiversity & Development in the Andes-Amazon

Location: Pillcopata, Madre de Dios, Peru

Semester: Fall / Spring

Wildlife Management Studies

Location: Rhotia, Tanzania

Semester: Fall / Spring

Marine Resource Studies

Location: South Caicos, Turks and Caicos Islands

Semester: Fall / Spring