

April 25, 2011

To Whom It May Concern,

The McKeever Environmental Learning Center is folded into a natural wooded setting about 75 miles north of Pittsburgh near Sandy Lake, Mercer County. The McKeever Center was established in 1974, and is administered by Slippery Rock University as a public service institute of the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education. Its primary purpose is to provide programs to assist citizens of all ages in becoming better stewards of the Earth's resources. The Center's mission is to guide individuals toward developing and maintaining a sustainable relationship between themselves and the natural world in his/her workplace, residence and recreation.

For more information about the McKeever Environmental Learning Center, please refer to our website at: <http://www.mckeever.org/>

Sincerely,

Francis M. Bires, Director
McKeever Environmental Learning Center

