Story, the Library's Saint Francis Service Dog-in-training, nears testing milestone

Story, the Radford Public Library's Saint Francis Service Dog-in-training, will be taking her test soon to become a full-fledged service dog.

RADFORD - Story, the Radford Public Library's St. Francis Service Dog-in-training, turned one year old in March and is halfway finished with her training journey before she heads to a home to be in service to a person who needs her.

'She is coming to the end of her intermediate training, and she'll be tested by designated Saint Francis Service Dog (SFSD) staff on these skills to ensure that she can consistently follow the necessary commands and skills needed of her," the library announced.

"SFSD dogs are usually involved in training for the first two years of their lives before being matched with their partners. As a volunteer with SFSD, a library staff member will continue to work with Story until the next step. Story has benefitted from the attention and socialization from all library staff, and we've had so much fun spending time with her. We'll keep our patrons posted on Story's next chapter."

Story recently went on a tour of spots of interest to test her skills and man-Saint Francis Service

Dogs is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to help children and adults with disabilities become more independent and self-sufficient through partnership with a professionally trained service dog and to promote "the use and acceptance of service dogs through public and professional education, providing advocacy for service dog partners, and supporting the growth of the service dog industry on a national level," according to the SFSD website.

Radford PD launches community survey on policing, crime, safety

The Radford City Police Department has launched a community survey seeking opinions about the police department and about crime and safety in Radford neighborhoods.

Participation in the survey by Radford residents is voluntary but is encouraged by the department. According to the PD, the survey should take less than 30 minutes to complete and there are no foreseeable risks or benefits to anyone who completes a survey form.

A department statement released about the survey said, "Understanding community views of the police is important for developing appropriate law enforcement and social service responses to problems in the City of Radford, and for improving policecommunity relations. All answers are anonymous and no individual responses will be identified in any reports produced from the survey."

Department Police Chief Jeff Dodson said, "Across the country recently, we have seen many communities suffering from the erosion of trust between the community and their police agencies. Maintaining a high level of trust with our community requires that we listen and then be responsive to their concerns. This community survey allows our agency to better understand those needs and develop appropriate responses in addressing these concerns. Our goal is to ensure that we are delivering the most professional and highest quality of law enforcement service to our community here in Radford."

Radford City utility customers will receive a letter in their utility bill this month explaining the survey and where it can be found. The survey will be available on the following platforms and locations through May 31, 2021: the Radford City webpage: www.radfordva.gov, the Radford City government Facebook page, and the Radford City Police Department Facebook

Paper copies of the survey will be available for pickup at the following locations: the Radford City Police Department, 20 Robertson Street, Radford; and the Radford University Police Depart-

Lane Stadium to be rockin' at full capacity this fall

Virginia Tech says football games will have fans jumping to "Enter Sandman" this fall with plans for the stadium to be at full capacity.

Athletic officials started allowing students to buy season tickets but are taking it one step at a time. A final decision will depend on state and local restrictions, if there are any, when the first game kicks off on September 3 against the UNC Tar

Student season tickets for both 2021-22 football and men's basketball are now available for purchase. At this time, student ticket orders are available for returning students only. Tech Athletics remains hopeful that Hokie Nation can return to Lane Stadium and Cassell Coliseum in 2021 while keeping the health and and fans in mind.

In the meantime, athletics department staff is hard at work as sanitization enhancements in Lane Stadium are ongoing. They include the installation of over 200 hand sanitizing stations, contactless concession options, and preparation for socially distanced seating and lines. For the first time, men's basketball season tickets will be available for purchase at the same time as football. This includes a new football/ men's basketball combo package that provides students with a ticket to all home games except for basketball break games.

New this year is the inclusion of safety of Hokie student-athletes a Student Hokie Club membership ($25 gift) during the order process. Students will be asked to make one gift for their membership; thus students who have already made their $25 Student Hokie Ćlub gift for the 2021-22 membership year will not be asked to make a second gift. Football only tickets are available for $150, which includes all fees as well as a $25 Student Hokie Club Gift. Men's basketball only tickets are available for $170, which includes all fees as well as a $25 Student Hokie Club Gift. A combo pack of football and men's basketball is available for $285, which includes all fees as well as a $25 Student Hokie Club Gift.

The deadline to order for returning students is the final day of exams on May 14.

Tickets are available while supplies last, and limited quantities will be available for men's basketball and the combo pack. Should capacity in either venue be limited due to CO-VID-19 restrictions, student seasonticket holders and Student Hokie Club members will receive priority over the general student population.

Student seating in both Cassell Coliseum and Lane Stadium is now general admission.

Governor partly rolls back Virginia mask mandate

Virginians will still need to wear masks indoors and at large, crowded events outside, but Gov. Ralph Northam amended his executive order Thursday to allow fully vaccinated people - meaning those who received their final CO-VID-19 vaccine dose at least two weeks earlier — to remove their masks outdoors in small gatherings, following new Centers for Disease Control and Prevention guidelines.

"The CDC's recommendations underscore what we have said all along; vaccinations are the way we will put this pandemic behind us and get back to normal life," Northam said in a statement. "Our increasing vaccination rate and decreasing number of new COVID-19 cases has made it possible to ease mitigation measures in a thoughtful and measured manner. I encourage all Virginians who have not yet received the vaccine to make an appointment today.'

Northam's mask mandate — first affecting all Virginians ages 10 and older, and then lowered to age 5 — was put in place in late May 2020 to curb the spread of COVID-19, following the CDC's recommendation.

With Thursday's change, mask use is still required indoors and at crowded events like concerts, sporting events and graduation ceremonies, the governor's of-

Northam, who previously announced some lifted restrictions beginning May 15, moved up one change to go into effect immediately, allowing up to 1,000 people to attend outdoor recreational events. The news release said that Northam expects further rollbacks by mid-June as long as health metrics and vaccination continue to progress positively. Virginia's and other states' masking policies heavily influenced life across the nation over the past year. Some businesses in Virginia were shut down after repeatedly violating the mandate, and state Sen. Amanda Chase was forced to sit in a Plexiglass cubicle during state senate sessions because she refused to wear a mask. However, health officials and Northam have attributed Virginia's relatively low CO-VID rates compared to other states to its mask mandate and other safety precautions.

Although some governors have completely rescinded masking mandates in recent weeks, others have taken more approaches. cautious Maryland Gov. Larry Hogan declared this week that Marylanders did not need to wear masks outdoors except for in large ticketed venues and on public transit, a similar policy to Northam's. Washington, D.C. Mayor Muriel Bowser also released new

Virtual Academy increases online options for Radford City Schools students

RADFORD - Radford City Public Schools' involvement in the newly-created Region VII Virtual Academy will provide an online school option for Radford students starting in the upcoming school year.

RCPS has joined several other school divisions in Region 7 in the creation of the online acad-

"As many of you are aware, we will continue to have two learning platforms, virtual and in person, during the next school year," RCPS recently announced. "Region VII has created a Regional Virtual Academy in order to help us provide the most robust virtual learning platform possible.

"Through the academy, we have been able to establish partnerships with Virtual Virginia (VV) of the Virginia Department of Education and Virginia Virtual (VAVA) of Stride, formally known as K12," the announcement continued. "These are the two platforms our students who choose to be fully virtual may use (they will choose one) during 2021-2022."

More information on the Virtual Academy can be found at www.rcps.org, including a video and a survey.

The Region VII Virtual Academy "was established as a jointoperated school to alleviate the participating school division demands of providing both remote and in-person learning opportunities," according to the academy's memorandum of understanding. "Participating school divisions believe students in these small, rural divisions can be better served by collaborating with one another in order to produce a quality virtual learning environment for students."

The academy "aims to provide 21st-century educational opportunities for students in Southwest Virginia," believing "students can thrive in an environment that immerses them in interactive learning while equipping them with the necessary skills to interact and be successful in an ever-changing, progressive workforce." It allows students to utilize remote instruction "without losing the connectedness to their school division of residence." There is no cost to students and families. The initial investment in the academy was $10,000 per school division. 'The cost per remote pupil depends on the organization the student and family chooses" to provide the virtual learning, said RCPS Superintendent Robert The participating school divisions are Bland County, Bristol City, Buchanan County, Carroll County, Galax City, Giles County, Norton City, Pulaski County, Radford City, Russell County, Smyth County, Tazewell County, Washington County and Wythe

Virginia Tech alumna builds online community for women in construction With women compristhings that they're interest- she plans to expand and each other's victories and

ing only 10 percent of people working in construction, it may seem difficult for young, female professionals entering the construction field to find their voice.

That's why Kathryn Hart, a 2016 alumna from the Myers-Lawson School of Construction, a joint venture between the College of Architecture and Urban Studies and the College of Engineering, created Space to Build, an online community for women in construction to network, share, and grow with each other.

Space to Build brings its community together through various platforms including an active Instagram page of nearly 1,000 followers. It also features a podcast that has been downloaded and streamed in 22 different countries and features weekly interviews and casual discussions with women in the fields of architecture, engineering, and construction.

Women on construction sites can easily feel isolated and miss having another woman to go to for advice or support," Hart said. "That is not to say we don't appreciate our male co-workers who have supported and mentored us because we do. There are just situations where having another female's perspective makes more Space to Build provides resources for young female professionals in construction. They learn from other professionals who share their experience with difficult or unexpected situations in the field. The community also celebrates accomplishments earning internships and developing female-positive curriculums about construction for parents to share with their children.

Growing and maintaining her community has not been easy as Hart juggles Space to Build along with her full-time job as a superintendent for a general contractor in Northern Virginia and as the Northeast Region Professional Development and Education Chair for the National Association of Women in Construction. However, she finds the spark of motivation to keep moving forward as she receives an influx of touching success stories from young women in the community who feel like they have been given permission to pursue the ed in in the construction industry. Hart has always peer support in construction ever since she was a student at Virginia Tech.

Much of Hart's success is from the building construction program's focus Expanding on the podcast, on collaboration. Projects and presentations from students are often reviewed by outside industry professionals, and underclassmen are encouraged to provide feedback on senior projects

Hart parallels this collaborative attitude with how the construction field operates. Along with the abundant networking opportunities, Hart believes that this is what sets Virginia Tech's construction program apart.

Hart's bold ideas continue in Space to Build as innovate in the near future with hopes of migrating known the importance of her social media community to a new platform that will provide chat functionality and other opportunities for people to directly connect with each other.

Hart is working to collaborate with other podcasters to produce a construction miniseries. Hart is also looking to host webinars and events with special guest speakers and panel discussions.

WalletHub: Virginia among best states for working moms

With Mother's Day around the corner and mothers regaining jobs lost due to CO-VID-19 at a faster rate than fathers, the personal-finance website WalletHub has released its report on 2021's Best and Worst States for Working Moms. Virginia came in at No. 12 among the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

Women make up nearly half of the U.S. workforce, and nearly 66% of moms with children under age 18 were working in 2020, according to WalletHub. That's naturally been impacted by the CO- VID-19 pandemic, though. Mothers were initially disproportionately impacted by job losses compared to fathers, and while they have also regained jobs at faster rates, unemployment has not returned to pre-pandemic levels, the website said.

Even during non-pandemic times, says WalletHub, working moms still face an uphill battle in the workplace as their average hourly wage is only 85% of what men make and only 6% of S&P 500 companies' chief executives are women. Such obvious inequality brings up not just financial questions but also deeply ingrained social issues. For instance, should women have to choose between career and family? To determine the best and worst states for working moms, WalletHub compared the 50 states and the District of Columbia across three key dimensions: 1) Child Care, 2) Professional Opportunities and 3) Work-Life Balance and then those dimensions using the following relevant metrics: 1. Day-Care quality 2. Child-Care costs 3. Pediatricians quality (based on WalletHub's States with the Best and Worst School Systems" ranking 5. Share of nationally accredited child care centers 6. Number of childcare workers per total number of children 7. Gender pay gap (women's earnings as a percentage of men's.) 8. Ratio of female executives to male executives 9. Median women's salary 10. Share of working women living with economic security 11. Share of families in poverty ("Families" include single mothers with children aged 0 to 17.) 12. female un-

per capita 4. School-System employment rate 13. genderrepresentation gap in different economic sectors (the absolute difference between the share of female employees and male employees). 14. WalletHub's "Best States for Working from Home" ranking 15. Parentalleave policy 16. Average length of a woman's work week (in hours) 17. Women's average commute time (in minutes). According to WalletHub's survey, the top five places for working moms were 1. Massachusetts 2. District of Columbia 3. Connecticut 4. Vermont 5. Minnesota.

Va's gas prices keep going up

Virginia's gas prices rose 2.5 cents per gallon in the past week, averaging $2.74/g today, according to GasBuddy's daily survey of 4,081 stations in Virginia.

Gas prices in Virginia are 1.1 cents per gallon higher than a month ago and stand $1.05/g higher than a year ago. According to GasBuddy price reports, the cheapest station in Virginia is priced at $2.35/g today while the most expensive is $3.49/g, a difference of $1.14/g.

The national average price of gasoline has risen 0.7 cents per gallon in the last week, averaging $2.89/g today. The national average is up 1.8 cents per gallon from a month ago and stands $1.13/g higher than a year ago.

"Our superhero teachers have gone above and beyond for students over the past year," said First Lady Pamela Northam. "From early childhood to K-12, Virginia educators have quickly adjusted to new guidelines and are providing students with a safe, supportive, and welcoming environment to return to throughout the commonwealth. This week, let's thank them for going the extra mile every day for Virginia's children.'

'Every day, thousands of teachers are working to make a difference in the lives of our children and, consequently, Virginia's future," said Secretary of Education Atif Qarni. "Teachers choose their profession because they are passionate about enriching the lives of the students who fill their classrooms. As your secretary of education, a former teacher, and a public school parent, I invite you to take a few moments to write a thank-you note to the teachers that sacrifice so much for our students."

'Virginia's K-12 public school teachers have always been a valuable and important resource for the commonwealth, said Virginia Lottery Executive Director Kevin Hall. "The Thank-a-Teacher campaign is a great opportunity to celebrate those teachers who have moved heaven and earth to continue supporting Virginia students and their families during these challenging days."

Authorized by Virginia voters in a successful 1987 referendum, the Virginia Lottery generates more than $1.6 million per day for Virginia's K-12 public schools. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 2020, lottery customers helped generate more than $595 million in funding for public education. The Virginia Lottery has been the source of more than $10 billion for public schools since 1999.

Legal Notice

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC OF AN OPPORTUNITY TO PROVIDE COMMENT TO THE STATE CORPORATION COMMISSION ON THE UNIVERSAL SERVICE FEE TO BE PAID BY RETAIL CUSTOMERS OF APPALACHIAN POWER COMPANY FOR THE PERCENTAGE OF INCOME PAYMENT PROGRAM CASE NO. PUR-2020-00117

During its 2020 Session, the Virginia General Assembly enacted what has become known as the Virginia Clean Economy Act ("VCEA"). As pertinent here, the VCEA required the State Corporation Commission ("Commission") to determine the universal service fees to be collected from customers of Appalachian Power Company ("APCo") and Virginia Electric and Power Company d'b/a Dominion Energy Virginia ("Dominion") to fund the Percentage of Income Payment Program, or PIPP, established by statute. PIPP funds would be allocated to retail customers of APCo and Dominion to reduce the energy burden of utility customers participating in certain public assistance programs. The VCEA further required that the universal service fees "shall not be collected from customers ... until such time as the PIPP is established."

On December 23, 2020, the Commission issued an Order in this docket determining a universal service fee for APCo of $0.001803 per kilowatt hour ("kWh") to recover approximately $25 million annually. This universal service fee was approved "with no effective date at this time." The Commission also ordered that, "[u]pon enactment of legislation setting forth further details on the PIPP and subsequent direction by this Commission, APCo shall file for review and revision (if necessary) of the PIPP fee, prior to collection of the fee from customers.

On March 24, 2021, the Governor of Virginia signed what has become Chapter 308 of the 2021 Virginia Acts of Assembly. This law establishes the PIPP Fund on the books of the Comptroller. Chapter 308 also modifies the definition of "PIPP eligible utility customer"; sets caps on the annual cost of PIPP-related programs, including administrative costs, at $25 million for APCo and $100 million for Dominion; requires the Commission to initiate proceedings to provide for an annual true-up of the universal service fee within 60 days of commencement of the PIPP; and requires the Commission to promulgate "any rules necessary to ensure" funds collected from APCo's and Dominion's universal service fees are directed to the PIPP Fund and that the utilities receive adequate compensation from the PIPP Fund for all reasonable PIPP costs, including bill credits for PIPP-eligible customers. Finally, Chapter 308 requires the Commission to issue an order "as soon as practicable" following the July 1, 2021 effective date of Chapter 308, to begin the collection of the universal service fee from customers.

The Commission entered an Order on Additional Proceedings that, among other things, reopens and remands this case to a Hearing Examiner for additional procedures concerning the PIPP and associated universal service fee, including consideration of specific questions appended to the Order ("Appendix"). Among other things, these questions are designed to help the Commission discern whether Chapter 308's modification to the definition of "PIPP eligible utility customer" requires a change to the universal service fee; when the universal service fee should start being collected; and what costs the initial fee collections should be designed to recover.

TAKE NOTICE: At the previously approved rate of $0.001803 per kWh to recover approximately $25 million annually in universal service fees from APCo customers, a residential customer using 1,000 kWh of electricity per month would experience a monthly bill increase of approximately $1.80. The amount of the fee, as well as the timing of its implementation, are matters under review in this proceeding. The universal fee ultimately approved by the Commission in this docket may be lower than the previously set fee. Under Chapter 308, the cap on the annual cost of PIPP-related programs, including administrative costs, is $25 million for APCo.

The Order on Additional Proceedings directs APCo to make a supplemental filing on or before May 12, 2021, responding to the Appendix and also allows interested persons an opportunity to file comments, to request a hearing, or both on or before May 28, 2021.

The Commission has taken judicial notice of the ongoing health emergency related to the spread of the coronavirus, or COVID-19, and the declarations of emergency issued at both the state and federal levels. All pleadings, briefs, or other documents required to be served in this matter shall be submitted electronically to the extent authorized by 5 VAC 5-20-150, Copies and format, of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 5 VAC 5-20-10 et seq. ("Rules of Practice"). Confidential and Extraordinarily Sensitive Information shall not be submitted electronically and should comply with 5 VAC 5-20-170, Confidential information, of the Rules of Practice. For the duration of the COVID-19 emergency, any person seeking to hand deliver and physically file or submit any pleading or other document shall contact the Commission's Clerk's Office Document Control Center at (804) 371-9838 to arrange the delivery.

Pursuant to 5 VAC 5-20-140, Filing and service, of the Commission's Rules of Practice, the Commission has directed that service on parties and Commission Staff in this matter shall be performed electronically. Please refer to the Commission's June 12, 2020 Order Establishing Proceeding for further instructions on Confidential or Extraordinarily Sensitive Information.

On or before May 28, 2021, any interested person or entity may file comments responding to the Appendix and to APCo's supplemental filing, and may also address any related matters for the Commission's consideration. Comments shall be made by following the instructions found on the Commission's website: scc.virginia.gov/pages/Case-Information. Commenters are urged to submit comments electronically, though comments also may be sent to the Clerk of the Commission, c/o Document Control Center, P.O. Box 2118, Richmond, Virginia 23218-2118.

On or before May 28, 2021, any interested person or entity may file with the Clerk of the Commission, in accordance with the Rules of Practice, a request that the Commission convene a hearing on the Appendix and on APC supplemental filing. All requests for hearing must include the email address of the filer or its counsel, along with (i) a precise statement of the filing party's interest in the proceeding; (ii) a statement of the specific action sought to the extent then known; (iii) a statement of the legal basis for such action; and (iv) a precise statement why the issues raised in the request for hearing cannot be addressed adequately without a hearing. Filers are urged to make their requests electronically via scc.virginia.gov/clk/efiling, though requests for hearing also may be sent to the Clerk of the Commission at the physical address listed above. All requests for hearing, however submitted, shall be served simultaneously on Commission Staff; on counsel for APCo, Noelle J. Coates, Esquire, American Electric Power, 1051 East Cary Street, Suite 1100, Richmond, Virginia 23219, njcoates@aep.com; and on all respondents in this case. If a sufficient request for hearing is not received, the Commission may consider the matter and enter an order based upon the papers filed herein.

All documents filed in this case shall refer to Case No. PUR-2020-00117. Any documents filed in paper form with the Office of the Clerk of the Commission in this docket may use both sides of the paper. In all other respects, all filings shall comply fully with the requirements of 5 VAC 5-20-150, Copies and format, of the Commission's Rules of Practice.

The Commission's Rules of Practice and copies of the Commission's Order Establishing Proceeding, Order on Additional Proceedings including the Appendix, and other documents filed in Case No. PUR-2020-00117, may be found on the Commission's website: scc.virginia.gov/pages/Case-Information. Virginia Tech wrestling's Bryce Andonian will compete in the 2021 United World Wrestling's Junior World Championships this summer after winning the title at the 2021 UWW Junior Nationals Sunday afternoon.

Andonian won both his matches Sunday in the best-two-out-ofthree final to earn first place at 70 kilograms and qualify for the Junior World team, which will compete at the Junior World Championships in Ufa, Russia from August 16-22. The sophomore from Kirtland,

Ohio, is Virginia Tech's fourth Junior World Team member in program history, following the most recent member Mekhi Lewis, who won gold at the 2018 Junior World Championships in Slovakia. Joey Dance (2012) and Sean Gray (1999) round out the list of Tech's Junior World Team members.

VT's Clayton Ulrey was also in action Sunday at the Junior Nationals, as he went 1-1 to earn fifth place at 74 kilograms. The freshman was trailing in the fifth-place match before he pulled off the pin with just over a minute remaining.

Incoming Hokie Cooper Flynn went 3-1 Sunday after a 2-1 Saturday to earn fourth place at the Junior Nationals at 57 kilograms.

"Sami [Fagan] came In his third season at up to me after the game this for?' I didn't have any idea we had won 100 games," D'Amour said. "I'm thankful for our staff; they make me look good. Also, a coach can't have success without his players. You can have spurts of success here and there with talented kids, but to have sustained success, you have to have players with good character that buy in to what the staff is teaching.

"We've been fortunate to have a core group of players at VT that aren't only just good players, they're good kids. Here's to 100 more."

The Hokies (32-12, 23-11 ACC) completed their first sweep of the year with the win Sunday against Syracuse (19-20, 11-17 ACC). They were led by Keely Rochard and Kelsey Bennett. Rochard (24-7) got the win in all four games and Bennett led the team offensively with seven RBIs.

'We needed to flush out last weekend and that's exactly what we did," Bennett said. "We knew this was our last series weekend and we needed to go out on a strong note to carry over to Liberty on Tuesday and for the postseason.'

THE GAME

Tech had the bats going early Sunday as Bennett singled to the right-center gap in the first inning, which brought Jayme Bailey and Cameron Fagan home for a 2-0 lead. The Hokies got two more runs in the fourth when Darby Trull smacked her first home run of the year. Fagan then homered in the fifth inning to extend the lead to 5-0 after five.

Emma Ritter got on the scoreboard with a double up the middle in the sixth inning, scoring Fagan from second base. After the Orange got a run in the bottom of the sixth, Alexa Milius hit a single down the rightfield line and Bennett came across for the 8-1

Rochard started her fourth straight game Sunday, but the heavy duty did not slow her as she threw five innings and surrendered just three hits. Freshman Mackenzie Osborne pitched the sixth inning, and freshman Ivy Rosenberry closed out the win in the seventh inning.

NOTES

•Trull hit her first home run of the season and first home run since April 21, 2019. The junior had seven home runs in 2019 but did not hit one out of the park in the shortened 2020

•Bennett had two more RBIs Sunday and finished out the weekend with a team-leading seven in the series. The sophomore is second on the team in the category with 36, four behind Bailey's 40.

•Fagan hit her third home run of the season Sunday, finishing off a series in which she hit .429 with six runs scored and three RBIs.

 Mackenzie Lawter tied her career high with three walks in the series finale. The junior scored ahead of Trull's fourthinning home run.

•Kelsey Brown stole her 29th base of the season Sunday and has not been thrown out all sea-
