Radford University ranked one of the top schools for veterans

Radford University has been ranked No. 40 out of 100 universities in a nationwide listing of the Best Colleges and Universities for Veterans 2021 by College Consensus, a college ratings website that aggregates publisher rankings and student reviews.

According to College Consensus, the list is designed to be a different kind of college ranking, bringing together published expertise and student reviews to create a comprehensive aggregate ranking of institutions. College Consensus combines rankings from internationally recognized publishers like the Wall Street Journal, U.S. News & World Report, WalletHub and Money to form the Publisher Rating. Verified student reviews from sites such as Niche, Cappex, and Unigo combine to form the Student Review Rating. The average of these sources forms the Consensus Rating.

In addition, institutions on the list must meet several qualifications, including: be a Service Member Opportunity Colleges participant; have a recognized student veteran organization; be a Yellow Ribbon Program participant; employ dedicated support contact for veterans, service members and families; and offer credit for mili-

All schools meeting these requirements are then ranked according to their Consensus Rating.

Radford was one of only five schools in Virginia to be named to the list. The others were the College of William & Mary, James Madison University, the University of Mary Washington, and George Mason University.

With early observance perhaps organized by newly freed slaves, Memorial Day began as a way to honor the Civil War dead

Originally known as Decoration Day, Memorial Day, which will be observed this year on Monday, May 31, originated in the years following the Civil War and became an official federal holiday in 1971.

The Civil War, which ended in the spring of 1865, claimed more lives than any conflict in U.S. history and required the establishment of the country's first national cemeteries. By the late 1860s, Americans in various towns and cities had begun holding springtime tributes to these countless fallen soldiers, decorating their graves with flowers and reciting

Some records show that one of the earliest Memorial Day commemorations was organized by a group of formerly enslaved people in Charleston, S.C., less than a month after the Confederacy surrendered in 1865. Nevertheless, in 1966 the federal government declared Waterloo, N.Y., the official birthplace of Memorial Day. Waterloo, which first celebrated the day on May 5, 1866, was chosen because it hosted an annual, community-wide event, during which businesses closed and residents decorated the graves of soldiers with flowers and flags.

On May 5, 1868, General John A. Logan, leader of an organization for Northern Civil War veterans, called for a nationwide day of remembrance later that month. 'The 30th of May, 1868, is designated for the purpose of strewing with flowers, or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion, and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet churchyard in the land," Logan proclaimed.

The date of Decoration Day, as he called it, was chosen because it wasn't the anniversary of any particular battle.

On the first Decoration Day, General James Garfield made a speech at Arlington National Cemetery, and 5,000 participants decorated the graves of the 20,000 Civil War soldiers buried

Many Northern states held similar commemorative events and reprised the tradition in subsequent years; by 1890 each one had made Decoration Day an official state holiday. Southern states, on the other hand, continued to honor the dead on separate days until after World War I.

During World War I
the United States found itself embroiled in another major conflict, and the holiday evolved to commemorate American military personnel who died in all wars, including World War II, The Vietnam War, The Korean War and the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan.

For decades, Memorial Day continued to be observed on May 30, the date General Logan had selected for the first Decoration Day. But in 1968, Congress passed the Uniform Monday Holiday Act, which established Memorial Day as the last Monday in May in order to create a three-day weekend for federal employees. The change went into effect in 1971. The same law also declared Memorial Day a federal holiday.

Cities and towns across the United States host Memorial Day parades each year, often incorporating military personnel and members of veterans' organizations. Some of the largest parades take place in Chicago, New York and Washington, D.C.

RADFORD - It all started with a Facebook post and ended with beautification efforts along one of Radford's heavily traveled streets.

Former Radford City Council member Annyce Levy recently lamented about the trash she saw along Sundell Drive.

"I drove down the beautiful Sundell Drive this morning, [and] counted over 30 pieces of trash," Levy posted. "If I were younger, I would go back and pick it up."

It didn't take long for her post to be noticed, and Janiele Hamden and the Radical Change Commission stepped up and took action to get the area cleaned up.

"Radford Service Above Self

Award Winner Annyce Levy inspired us to roll up our sleeves and get dirty," the RCC posted. "Please grab your trash bags and kiddos and join us as we take ownership of keeping our community clean.'

Dubbed Sundell Sunday, Hamden gathered volunteers, primarily children, and got several bags of trash picked up along Sundell Drive.

"Six bags of trash equals Sundell Sunday success," she said. "Thank you to all who came out and joined.

Reed and Curie halls receive LEED Gold certification

Curie halls are the latest campus buildings to receive LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) Gold certification, marking another achievement in the university's sustainability initiatives.

Reed and Curie are two build-therefore renovated and LEED certified as one building. LEED's certification of the project makes the combined building the 11th Radford University building project to achieve gold status.

"Earning a LEED Gold certification on the renovation of Reed and Curie Halls is an achievement that Radford University is proud of," said Josh Nease, Radford University's sustainability manager. "The accomplishment took the collective efforts of the university's facilities and planning teams, the architects, the engineers, and the contractors who persistently strive for gold."

Reed and Curie halls, home to the Artis College of Science and Technology, underwent significant joint renovations that were completed in January 2020. The remodeled structures complement the connecting Center for the Sciences and include 94,840 square feet of teaching and research facilities.

Reed and Curie feature the University's Tree Ring Lab and the Geology Maker Lab, as well as the Unmanned Aerial Vehicle Center and Geohazards and Unmanned Systems Research Center and a renovated greenhouse with

Here they come again: Make way for the cicadas, Brood X

As it warms up and people venture outside to enjoy the springtime weather, they may hear a familiar sound: a droning whine, at times louder than a lawnmower, letting everyone know that the cicadas are back again. This year, that alien-like wail of the insect world will be even more pronounced, as millions of cicadas from Brood X emerge after 17 years underground. "Communities and farms from the Midwest to our nation's capital that see large numbers of cicadas emerging at once may have a substantial noise issue," predicts Eric Day, Virginia Cooperative Extension entomologist in Virginia Tech's Department of Entomology in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences. "Hopefully, any annoyance at the disturbance is tempered by just how infrequent — and amazing this event is.

The scale of these emergence events is astounding with as many as 1.5 million cicadas emerging per acre. Each periodical cicada brood covers a specific geographical region with some areas overlapping. This year Brood X spans Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, North Carolina, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, and D.C. Cicadas — large, clear-winged insects with bulbous eyes - occur either annually (every year) or periodically (every 13 or 17 years) depending on the species.

The timing of a 13- or 17-year

of the insect world. Research and mathematical modeling suggest that the length of these brood cycles could be attributed to predatory avoidance. When the cicadas emerge, the amount of biomass they provide could serve as a food source for potential predators to take advantage of. It is theorized that these cicadas have evolved to avoid synching up with predator cycles by having a 13- or 17-year prime number emergence inter-

The noise we hear is the mating call of the males who are attempting to attract females. For most people, the droning song of the cicada is nothing more than a slight annoyance, or fascination, especially with these large broods which only appear roughly once

NRCC names three Radford students outstanding in their area

New River Community College has recognized three students from Radford as Outstanding Students in a Curriculum/Subject Area.

The students who were honored were Kacie Amber Adams, visual communication design; Samuel Lawrence Dent, art and English; and Andrew Ryan Mann, general studies.

Students received a congratulatory letter from the college president and a plaque honoring their awards. Students are also being individually recognized on NRCC's social media outlets.

The awards were determined by the faculty in the various programs at the college. All students receiving the Outstanding Student in Curriculum award have completed requirements for an associate degree, certificate, diploma or career studies certificate and are eligible to graduate from the college this spring or summer.

NRV Regional Commission launches new community engagement platform

Radford -- The New River Valley Regional Commission recently launched a new community engagement platform to reach diverse voices in local and regional government planning.

Called EngageNRV.org, the platform is a new addition to the public involvement opportunities used by local governments in the New River Valley. The need for EngageNRV.org came in response to COVID-19 pandemic restrictions on public gatherings; however, it is proving to be an effective way for people to provide input as restrictions are being lifted.

The New River Valley Regional Commission is one of 21 planning districts in Virginia whose commissions are chartered under Virginia law. The organization encompasses the counties of Floyd, Giles, Montgomery, and Pulaski, and the City of Radford. The purpose of the planning district commission is to promote regional cooperation, to coordinate the activities and policies of member local governments, and to provide planning assistance to local govern-to the challenges the past year has presented to engaging with the public on projects. With social and physical distancing in mind, the commission developed Engage NRV.org, an online collaboration tool allowing communities to interact with projects that mean the most to them. Through the variety of feedback and dialogue tools available, the commission now invites diverse voices to the decision-making process to add value to community planning for the region's residents and business owners.

Current opportunities for interaction on the site include the Town of Pulaski's comprehensive plan update and planning for Radford's eastern downtown revitalization.

To kickstart use of the site, the commission is sponsoring a "Smile with Your Eyes" photo contest to encourage users to register and post a masked selfie. Votes from other users will determine the winner of a gift card to a local business of their choice. Anyone who lives or works in the New River Valley is encouraged to visit EngageNRV.org, set up a profile, and begin interacting with the projects on the site.

In November 2020, Radford University President Brian O. Hemphill signed the Carbon Commitment, an effort to reduce greenhouse gas emissions to net zero by 2040 and to integrate sustainability and climate action into the University curriculum and culture.

WalletHub names Virginia best state for military retirees

With May being Military Appreciation Month and the U.S. planning to withdraw all troops from Afghanistan this year, the personal finance website WalletHub Monday released its report on 2021's Best and Worst States for Military Retirees and ranked Virginia number one among the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

To determine the best and worst states for military retirement, WalletHub compared the 50 states and the District of Columbia across three key dimensions: 1) economic environment, 2) quality of life and 3) health care.

The website then evaluated those dimensions using 30 relevant metrics. Among those metrics were the state tax on military pensions, the job opportunities for veterans, military bases and installation per 100,000 veterans, the total VA expenditure per number of veterans, the presence of state help for returning veterans, the presence of academic credit for military service, the share of homeless veterans, the number of VA health facilities per number of veterans, the quality of the VA hospitals, and the veteran suicide rate. Virginia's ranks in some of the key metrics were 1) veterans per capita -- third; 2) percentage of homeless veterans -- second; 3) veteran job opportunities -- fourth; 4) housing affordability -- 30; 5) percentage of veteran-owned businesses -- third; 6) number of VA benefits administration facilities per number of veterans -- seventh; and CO-VID-19 positive tests in the past week per capita -- 16.

States two through ten ranked by WalletHub as the best places for military retirees were South Carolina, Florida, South Dakota, Alaska, Alabama, Maryland, Wyoming, Missouri, and New Hampshire.

"Especially important is the evidence-based gramming offered to inmates, probationers, and parolees, from cognitive skills programming to academic and vocational education to substance abuse treatment, and the best practices followed in our facilities and district offices."

Factors such as mental health impairment and drug use are associated with recidivism. Inmates with a history of testing positive for both opioids and cocaine, for example, had a re-incarceration rate substantially higher than those with no history of testing positive for opioids

Virginia's employment rate dropped to 4.7 percent in April nationwide.

Governor Northam Friday that Virginia's unemployment rate fell 0.4 percentage points to 4.7 percent in April. Virginia's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate continues to be below the

Ralph national rate, which rose announced to 6.1 percent. Virginia's unemployment rate has decreased

every month since last June and is edging closer to pre-pandemic record lows," said the governor. "More people are working, businesses are hiring, and our economy is getting even stronger as more and more Virginians receive their ČO-VID-19 vaccines. Our administration remains focused on ensuring there is opportunity for every Virginia resident in every part of our Commonwealth so we can all move forward."

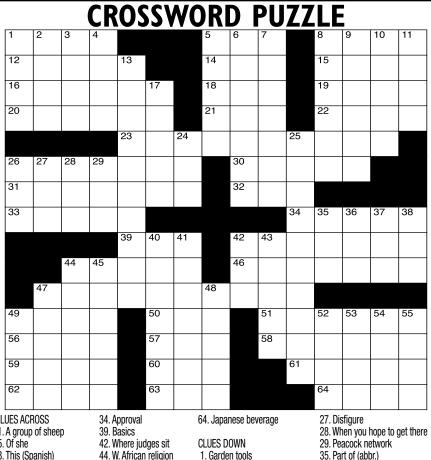

Total nonfarm payroll employment increased by 2,400 jobs in April. The labor force decreased by 12,422 to 4,225,614, and the number of unemployed residents decreased by 17,097 to 197,338. The number of employed residents rose by 4,675 to 4,028,276. Virginia's over-the-year job gain of 7.7 percent was less than the 10.9 percent increase

"It's great to see more

Virginians getting back to work, and industries that were hard hit by COVID-19, like tourism and hospitality, making a comeback," said Secretary of Commerce and Trade Brian Ball. "We know we still have work to do, but this decrease in the unemployment rate is welcome news." 'The commonwealth enjoyed a strong and vibrant economy prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, and the decreasing unemployment rate demonstrates that we are on a solid path to recovery," said Chief Workforce Development Advisor Megan Healy. "With over 63 percent of adults in Virginia fully vaccinated, workers are growing more confident to go back to school or rejoin the workforce. Our focus moving forward will be to ensure that they have the skills, training, and support they need to thrive in the post-pandemic economy." In April, the private sector recorded an overthe-year gain of 289,800 jobs, while employment in the public sector lost 11,100 jobs. Compared to a year ago, on a seasonally adjusted basis, nine of 11 major industry divisions experienced employment increases. The largest over-theyear job gain occurred in leisure and hospitality, up 114,000 jobs, or 52 percent. The next largest over-the-year job gain occurred in trade and transportation, up 67,300 jobs, or 11 percent. Education and health services experienced the third largest over-the-year job gain of 38,200 jobs, or seven percent. Government experienced the largest decrease, falling by 11,100 jobs. Local government employment fell by 10,100 jobs, and state government employment was down 3,400 jobs while the federal government added 2,400 jobs.

Baber, Gerald Leslie

Jerry Baber, 70, of Radford, took his last breath on this Earth and returned to the Lord on Thursday, May 20, 2021.

Jerry was born March 4, 1951, to the late Charles W. Baber Jr. and LaRue Koogler Baber of Waynesboro, Va. He was preceded in death by his brother, Charles "Chuck" William Baber III.

Left to cherish his memories are his devoted wife of 40 years, Wanda Penland Baber; his daughter, Rachael Baber McNeill; her husband, Troy McNeill; a sister-in-law, Sherry Baber; and various uncles, aunts, nieces, nephews, cousins, extended family, and friends.

Jerry proudly served in the U.S. Navy as an Åerographer's mate AG2 from 1971-1975, where he was stationed at Midway Island and the Fleet Numerical Weather Center in Monterey, Calif. After an honorable discharge, he graduated with a BFA in photography from Ohio University. Jerry was the former medical research photographer at the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine for 29 years and opened his own business, Baber Photography NRV, until 2015, when he retired.

Jerry was described by many to have the kindest and warmest soul with his witty and dry sense of humor. He was deeply devoted to his family and was a true animal lover. He loved the Lord and often would send words of encouragement to those who needed

Jerry found beauty everywhere he traveled and had this amazing talent to share that beauty through his photography. One of the things he enjoyed talking about the most was his time in the U.S. Navy and living on Midway Island from 1972-1974. He loved to share his photography work with others, especially of nature and the gooney birds of Midway Island.

Jerry is no longer suffering and is soaring high with the goonies and having the best reunion of his life with his parents, his brother, and late friends. From his family: We'll keep you in our hearts, until we meet again. From his Midway Island Naval family: Fair winds and following seas, shipmate. We have the watch.

The family received friends from 1 until 2 p.m. on Tuesday, May 25, 2021 at Mullins Funeral Home in Radford. Graveside services with full military honors followed at 3 p.m. at the Southwest Virginia Veterans Cemetery, 5550 Bagging Plant Rd, Dublin, Va.

The family would like you to "pay it forward" to others with love and kind-

Americans also observe Memorial Day by visiting cemeteries and memorials. Some people wear a red poppy in remembrance of those fallen in wara tradition that began with a World In the spring of 1915, bright red flowers began poking through the battle-ravaged land across northern France and Flanders (northern Belgium). Canadian Lieutenant Colonel John McCrae, who served as a brigade surgeon for an Allied artillery unit, spotted a cluster of the poppies shortly after serving as a brigade surgeon during the bloody Second Battle of Ypres.

The sight of the bright red flowers against the dreary backdrop of war inspired McCrae to pen the poem, "In Flanders Field," in which he gives voice to the soldiers who had been killed in battle and lay buried beneath the poppy-covered grounds. Later that year, a Georgia teacher and volunteer war worker named Moina Michael read the poem in Ladies' Home Journal and wrote her own poem, "We Shall Keep the Faith" to begin a campaign to make the poppy a symbol of tribute to all who died in war. The poppy remains a symbol of remembrance to this day.

coach for the Virginia Tech men's basketball team.

Mike Jones, the head coach at DeMatha Catholic High School in Maryland since 2002-03 and a 22-time USA Basketball coach, has been named associate head coach of the Virginia Tech men's basketball team, head coach Mike Young announced

"Virginia Tech is first and foremost getting a great person who not only fits our program but embodies what our University is about," Young said. "Mike Jones is a tremendous basketball coach who brings a wealth of success from DeMatha and USA Basketball. I have had the privilege of watching Mike over the years and have continually been impressed with his ability to teach the game of basketball and mentor players. We are excited to add him to our family and look forward to continuing on what we have built over the past two sea-

Jones arrives in Blacksburg after a 19year stint at national prep powerhouse DeMatha where he won a national title in 2006. He owns an impressive all-time record of 511-119 (.811 winning percentage) as the head coach of the Stags.

Jones has won nine Washington Catholic Athletic Conference regular season titles, eight WCAC Tournament crowns, and four Maryland Private School Tournament championships. During his stint as the head coach at DeMatha, Jones has coached six athletes who went on to play in the NBA.

"I am extremely excited to be joining Coach Young, his staff, and Hokie Na-tion," Jones said. "This is a tremendous opportunity to learn from a great coach in Coach Young and to provide our studentathletes with a passionate coach who is fired up about joining the Virginia Tech community and ready to continue the upward trajectory of our men's basketball program.

"I'm very honored to have received such a warm welcome through texts, calls, and social media from many who don't even know me. I can already tell this place is special."

In addition to his experience of developing players at the prep level, Jones brings extensive ties to USA Basketball, most recently as the 2021 USA Men's U16 National Team head coach.

After serving in three coaching roles with

USA Basketball alone in 2019, Jones was named a co-recipient of the 2019 USA Basketball Developmental Coach of the Year award. He led the 2019 USA Basketball Men's U16 National Team to a gold medal at the FIBA Americas U16 Championship in Brazil, was a lead coach at the 2019 USA Men's Junior National Team July minicamp, and was a court coach at the 2019 USA Men's Junior National Team October

Jones has also served as head coach of the USA Nike Hoop Summit Team three times, and he served as the USA's Hoop Summit assistant coach in 2012 and 2017.

He got his start with USA Basketball as an assistant coach for the 2004 Youth Development Festival East Team. He won three gold medals with USA Basketball men's junior national teams. Prior to 2019, he was a coach at the annual USA Basketball Men's Junior National Team October minicamp eight times.

"This has been a real emotional few days for myself and my family," Jones said about leaving DeMatha. "It's not easy saying goodbye to a place that is a big part of who I am. The players, the coaches and the program mean so much to me. This was one of the most difficult decisions I've had to make in my life."

A standout player at Old Dominion University from 1991-92 through 1994-95, Jones was a member of the All-Colonial Athletic Association second team and earned CAA All-Tournament team honors in his senior season. Jones led the Monarchs to NCAA Tournament appearances in 1992 and 1995, and he finished his ODU career with 1,166 points.

He earned his bachelor's degree in human services and counseling from Old Dominion in 1995.

Following his career at ODU, Jones played professionally in the Continental Basketball Association and the International Basketball Association, where he was all-league first team in 1997. He has also played professionally in Portugal, Hong Kong, Finland, and the Dominican Re-

He is married to Stayce and has a daughter, Maya, and a stepson, Jacques.

Lady Hokies advance to super regional with walk-off win over BYU

For the second time in program history, the Virginia Tech softball team has advanced to the NCAA super regionals behind an 11-3 win in five innings over BYU in Saturday's Tempe Regional final.

Sophomore Alexa Milius delivered a walk-off, solo home run in the bottom of the fifth inning to send the No. 21/22 Hokies (36-13) into the next round with a run-rule victory. Junior pitcher Keely Rochard (29-8) picked up her third win of the regional, throwing another complete game and holding the Cougars (38-17) to three runs on six hits.

The Hokies hit five home runs in Saturday's contest, tied for the second-most all season with April 18's game versus Georgia Tech and behind the program-record eight homers hit at NC State on March 14. Kelsey Bennett hit her second homer of the regional and ended the weekend going 9 for 11, including 7 for her last 7 at-bats.

Tech last advanced to the super regionals in 2008 when they moved on to the Women's College World Series. However, this year marks the first time ever that the Hokies went undefeated (3-0) in an NCAA Regional.

'It's hard to describe what winning a regional means to us," Tech head coach Pete D'Amour said. "I told the ladies prior to game 1 that 'they earned the right to play well' this weekend. It hasn't been an easy year. They've done everything I've asked of weekend.

them and more. I'm thankful to my staff, our support staff, and our players. I'm looking forward to leading this team next THE GAME After the Hokies got their first two batters aboard in the bottom of the first inning, Milius hit an infield single and Kelsey

Brown came home from third to get Tech on the board early. Two batters later, Bennett singled to right field, and Cameron Fagan scored to double the first-inning lead.

Tech got another run in the second inning from a Darby Trull RBI bunt single before doing some real damage in the bottom of the third. Bennett opened the scoring spree with a solo homer to center field, and then Grace Chavez hit a pinch-hit, two-run bomb over the right field wall to put the Hokies up six. Tech would take a 7-0 lead into the fourth inning after Brown hit an infield single, scoring Trull from sec-Jayme Bailey put the Hokies up by eight in the bottom of the fourth with a solo blast to right center field. However, Tech needed to go to the bottom of the fifth inning after BYU scored three runs in the top half. Fagan answered for the Hokies with a two-run homer that scored Brown before Milius ended it in the next at-bat to send Virginia Tech to the super regionals.

Rochard was nearly flawless through the first four innings, surrendering just three hits to the Cougars and not allowing a runner past second base. She ended the game with 11 strikeouts and just one walk.

Bennett finished her second-career regionals with an .818 batting average, two home runs, and four runs batted in. The sophomore led the team in the regular season with 11 homers.

In her first time in the NCAA regionals, Milius led the team with five runs batted in on the weekend. She tied with Bennett and Fagan for the most homers for the Hokies in Arizona with two.

Rochard got the win in all three of Tech's regional victories, throwing 19 innings with 27 strikeouts and just seven runs allowed.

In this weekend's NCAA super regionals, Tech will play the winner of the Los Angeles Regional hosted by the No. 2 national seed, UCLA.
