NRCC Biology professor Dr. Cindy Wynne celebrates Halloween each year by dressing up in a different punny costume. Here she showed up as Web MD complete with a spider web on her scrubs.

Professor Cindy Wynne's Halloween punny costumes in the past have included the Queen of Denial. Note the sashes that declare "I didn't do it" and "It wasn't me."

Langley Anderson of Radford has been awarded the Second Award of Excellence in the New River Valley Juried Art Biennial Awards for her work, "Latency." The award includes a $200 prize sponsored by the Floyd Center for the Arts.

The photography show's awards were recently announced in a ceremony at the Radford University Art Museum on Tyler Avenue. The show is coordinated by the Fine Arts Center and is co-sponsored by the Blacksburg Regional Art Association and the Floyd Center for the Arts.

Art by the winning artists is available for viewing through Dec. 3 at the art museum. Visitors to the show are invited to vote for their favorite work for the People's Choice Award. The Tyler Gallery is located at 214 Tyler Avenue in Radford.

NRCC professor turns funny puns into creative Halloween costumes

Biology professor Dr. Cindy Wynne is well known at New River Community College for the many animals that often accompany her to biology classes, including the occasional python or corn snake, but it's Halloween each year when she outdoes herself by wearing her infamous costumes to campus.

For more than 20 years, Wynne has delighted students, friends, and family with her "punny" costumes. All of her costumes are based on puns.

Past years' costumes have included a set of medical scrubs with a painted-on spider web (medical website WebMD) and a Cleopatra costume covered with denial phrases such as "It wasn't me" (Queen of De-Nile). One of her favorite costumes included a large group of friends all clad in green complete with tattoos (Gang-green).

"It's truly endless. I do puns for everything," said Wynne. "And if it's a biology pun, so much the better. Those are my favorites, of course."

Even her beloved animals have pun inspired names,

According to VT consumer food safety expert Joell Eifert, candy is generally safe to eat months after Halloween is in the rear view mirror.

How long after Halloween is it safe to eat leftover candy?

Is month-old Halloween candy safe to eat? If so, how much longer is that the case? Should you just throw the whole bag out? According to Virginia Tech consumer food safety expert Joell Eifert, the answer is bittersweet, but still likely longer than you think.

"Consumers often have the misconception that the best by date on food packaging equates to food safety," Eifert said. "In the case of most commercially processed foods, it's contamination during processing and packaging that leads to foodborne illness, not the age of the food. So, even after some time passes, candy should be safe to eat as long as it was properly handled and it remains unopened prior to eating."

This notion is just one of many misbeliefs that people have about when to toss their leftover sweets, Eifert said. For example, consumers often throw out chocolate once it begins to develop a whitish coating on it, mistaking it for mold. This phenomenon, known as chocolate "bloom," is completely safe.

"If chocolate is stored in warmer temperatures, the fat can begin to separate from the cocoa," Eifert said. "This separation is what causes the coating to form. However, bloom does not destroy the flavor of the chocolate, and it's perfectly safe to eat."

So, your candy will be safe to eat months after Halloween is in the rear view mirror. But that's not to say that all of it will be just as fresh and appetizing a year from now. That depends on a number of factors, said Eifert.

"Candy can develop off-odors and changes in flavor, appearance and texture," she said. "Although there may be no food safety issues with the candy, you may choose not to eat it for other quality reasons. Shelf life of candy is a function of storage conditions, packaging, and ingredients. Some can be good for several years, but some will last only a few months."

Fundraising underway for Festival of Lights display improvements

RADFORD - The Festival of Lights Committee has been leading the effort to decorate the city for Christmas for the past 16 years.

This year, the committee is looking to the community to help raise funds to replace some of the aging decorations.

"Many of the wreaths we use on the light poles in East Radford are very old and will need to be replaced," said Marceline Hunter, who heads up the Festival of Lights Committee. "We have been able to replace some of the wreaths on Main Street from Bondurant Agency to the Bis-set Park entrance with help from your contributions," Hunter said. "We were also able to replace our snowman in 2016. This money goes a long way with our budget. A big thank-you to our city for your help."

"It's now time to replace many of the decorations on East Main Street," she said. "All donations are appreciated and will be used for new decorations on East Main Street this year."

Anyone who would like to make a donation should make checks payable to the Radford Chamber of Commerce, 200 Third Ave., Radford, VA 24141.

Be sure to write "Christmas Lights" on the memo line to ensure the donation goes towards the purchase of new decorations.

For additional information, contact Marceline Hunter at 540-320-0969 or the Radford Chamber of Commerce at 540-639-2202.

Eifert offered a helpful guide based on information from the National Confectioner's Association for deciding how long each item in your candy collection should stick around:

- Chocolate - All chocolate is made of cocoa butter and/or cocoa powder, and the fats in chocolate normally oxidize over time when exposed to oxygen, causing it to become stale or causing off-odors and flavors. The higher the cocoa content the longer the product will last, so dark chocolate has a much longer quality shelf life than white chocolate.

Dark chocolate can be kept for one to two years if wrapped in foil and stored in a cool, dark and dry place, such as a pantry or a basement. Milk and white chocolate have a more limited storage time, no more than 8-10 months.

- Hard candy - Hard candies can last up to a year when stored at room temperature or in a cool, dry location.

- Jellied candies - If the packaging has been opened, soft candies should be stored away from heat and light at room temperature (about 70 degrees). Stored in this manner, the candy should last six to nine months. If the packaging has not been opened, soft sweets will last approximately 12 months.

- Candy corn - If the packaging has been opened, candy corn should be stored under the same conditions as soft candies and will last approximately three to six months. Unopened packages will last about nine months.

- Gum - As long as the packaging remains sealed, most gum products have a shelf life of six to nine months. To maximize freshness, keep chewing gum packages in a cool, dry place and out of any direct sunlight.

- Caramel - Caramel

treats should be kept covered, away from heat and light at room temperature. Stored properly, caramel should last six to nine months and even up to 12 months in some cases.

However, Eifert stressed that if you don't know what conditions the candy was stored in, if it doesn't look or smell right, or if it has mold growth, it's probably best to throw it out just to be safe.

Lucille Ball and Julius Squeezer, and her tarantula Quentin Tarantula.

Wynne is also a member of a pun inspired Scrabble team, the Vowel Movers.

Where does such fun-loving creativity and admiration for the marriage of puns and costumes come from?

She gives full credit to her father.

"My dad loves puns. Dad comes up with the best puns," Wynne said.

She and her father volunteer each year with the New River Valley Literacy

Volunteers' Harry

Potter themed festival fundraiser where her father comes dressed as Hogwarts School Headmaster Albus Dumbledore. Wynne dons the costume of Hogwarts Professor Sybill Trelawney and teaches a magical creatures class that includes her black rat snake Severus Snake, named after Harry Potter's notoriously dark character Professor Severus Snape.

When she's not teaching, she spends time at her home in Blacksburg with her family and a menagerie of beloved pets that includes several snakes, tarantulas, snails, lizards, genetically modified fish, Madagascar hissing cockroaches, millipedes, poison dart frogs (notably non-toxic when bred in captivity), scorpions, rats, and a cat. Her rats are, of course, named after the original members of the Rat Pack. Even the crickets she raises to feed her tarantulas are all named "Francis Cricket" in honor of the biologist Francis Crick.

With the exception of her cat, Dandy Lion, her animals also serve a purpose in helping to teach various biology classroom components at NRCC.

"Everyone has a job. These are working animals. There are no free meals here," Wynne said.

Her Halloween costumes are always a surprise and something faculty, staff, and students at NRCC look forward to each year. Graduates often check back annually to see what costume Wynne comes up with next.

"During the month of October, I think about words that have two meanings, and if they do, can I make a costume out of them? Most of my mental energy in October goes into it," she said.

So, what's the "punny" costume this year?

"I haven't totally decided," said Wynne. Fans will just have to stay tuned on October 31.

Wynne teaches Biology 101 and Biology 102 at NRCC and has taught at NRCC for more than 15 years.

Her classes are available in Dublin and Christiansburg and online. She holds a bachelor of science and a master of arts in teaching degrees from UNC Chapel Hill and a doctorate from the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

After two weeks of rigorous campaigning, Virginia Tech's inaugural undergraduate student senate (USS) has been elected.

Led by an executive cabinet, the USS is one of the five university senates that champions the voice of the undergraduate students. The USS's core values of approachability, accessibility, representation, stewardship, and integrity will guide the work. The 97 USS representatives are dedicated servant leaders who lift up Ut Prosim (That I May Serve) in their work as advocates, change makers, and collaborators.

Cadet William Edinger will receive the flags at today's football game at Georgia Tech

Cadet William Edinger, a senior in Air Force ROTC majoring in human nutrition, foods, and exercise in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, will travel with the Virginia Tech football team to Atlanta today to render honor to the American, Virginia state, and the team's spirit flags at the game against Georgia Tech.

The Virginia Tech Corps of Cadets and the Virginia Tech football team continue their proud partnership to highlight the colors during the pre-game ceremony at every football game.

Three football players, chosen because of their performance in the last game or at practice, carry the American flag, the state flag, and the team's spirit flag and lead the team onto the field. They deliver the flags to cadets at the south end of the field.

The cadets, also selected based on their performance in the corps, render honor to the flags and carry them off the field. At home games three first-year cadets are selected, and one or two upper-class cadets travel with the team and receive the flags at away games.

Edinger is the executive officer for Alpha Company, one of 14 units within the corps. His primary job for the past eight weeks has been to oversee the development of his company's first-year cadets and mentor the 11 upper-class cadets who served as their training cadre.

"Each week he sits down with the cadre on top of his very busy schedule to write plans and help them develop themselves as well as the freshmen of Alpha Company," said Cadet Liam Murphy, who commands Alpha Company. Murphy is a senior in Naval ROTC majoring in mining engineering in the College of Engineering.

In addition to his corps duties, Edinger also has a leadership role in Air Force ROTC, maintains 17 credit hours of classes, and works two jobs.

"He is an outstanding cadet and role model," Murphy said.

OPINION

Home Country: From horror to laughter

Slim Randles
Contributing writer

I was recently invited to join Bob Milford, manager of the prestigious Diamond W Ranch, on a drive-around tour of the place. It's a huge, private ranch with tiny ex-logging roads winding around through 13,000 acres of pine trees and rocks. A real paradise.

But I was horrified to see wooden street signs nailed to trees wherever two of these old logging trails came together.

"Oh no," I said, out loud. "What's the matter?" Bob asked.

"I see you're planning a subdivision here."

Bob started laughing when I pointed at the signs. "Those are for the owners," he explained. "They live back East and visit here one weekend a year. When they get out here, they take the pickup and drive around and get lost.

"Once I got a call on the cell phone from the owner, who said he was lost and couldn't find his way back to the house. So I asked him where he was and he said he was right there, sitting on a rock and close to a pine tree."

He chuckled. "That narrowed it down to about 13,000 acres. Well, I managed to find him, and after that, I put these signs up. I tell them now, if they get lost, to drive until they come to Home Road and then head downhill. It solved the problem."

COVID-19 update: Cases among school-age children are going down

According to Dr. Noelle Bissell, the director of the New River Health District, the number of new COVID cases in our district, the state, and the nation, continues to decline. This includes cases among school-aged children.

Dr. Bissell delivered the news Monday at her weekly press conference.

"Seventy percent of all transmission has been in the household, so as the adults don't get the COVID, they don't share it with the younger children," she told the media.

"Our hospitals are still stressed. Hospitalizations lag behind new cases by a number of weeks, and many of the people hospitalized with COVID stay for a long time (weeks)," Dr. Bissell said. "This morning, hospitals in the New River Health District reported 38 patients with COVID and three persons under investigation. This is about the same as last week. Our hospitals report that they are full; they continue to see sicker patients who put off care during the pandemic, traumas/emergencies and other communicable diseases like flu and RSV as well as COVID.

"Although our hospitals are still very busy, they remain at normal operations."

She urged the media to help relieve the stress on the district's hospitals by not going to the emergency room for a test or for routine health care.

"We are still in high community transmission and working to prevent our most vulnerable from getting COVID. Anyone with a known exposure to someone with suspected or confirmed COVID-19 should get tested five to seven days after exposure, regardless of symptoms or vaccination status," she said. "Anyone with symptoms should stay home from work or school."

One of the groups at high risk for bad outcomes if they get the virus is pregnant women, the health director said. "Yet, only 25% of pregnant women are vaccinated. We ask everyone to encourage those who are pregnant to get a vaccine to protect themselves and their babies. The vaccine is safe during pregnancy, and having COVID can be devastating for both mother and child," Dr. Bissell warned.

"Getting vaccines to unvaccinated people is still the best way to end this pandemic," the district health director said, "but we are also offering booster shots to increase existing immunity levels that can wane over time.

"As of this past Friday, people are eligible for booster doses of all three FDA authorized vaccines: Pfizer, Moderna, and Johnson and Johnson. The boosters are available, but the eligibility situation can be confusing.

"Anyone older than 18 who had a Johnson & Johnson vaccine more than two months ago is eligible for a booster, which is a full dose. Boosters for people who completed their second shot of the Moderna or Pfizer vaccine more than six months ago are available for those in a fairly broad eligibility group. This includes anyone 65 or older, and anyone 18 or older living in long-term care settings who have underlying medical conditions, and who work or live in high-risk settings. The Moderna booster is a half dose and the Pfizer is a full dose.

"The general recommendation is to stick with the original vaccine; however, individuals may choose another one. Please remember that one's immunity does not just disappear at six months and one day. All of our vaccines remain highly effective at protecting against severe disease, hospitalization and death.

"Carilion's data show that more than 80% of those hospitalized/in the ICU/on ventilators and dying are unvaccinated. Ballard's data is more than 90%."

She said the "New River Health District is not at this time planning large vaccination events for booster shots. We have plenty of vaccine supply and many locations to get the vaccine. The New River Health Department is vaccinating from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. from Monday through Friday. Mondays and Thursdays, we are at the Montgomery County Health Department, Tuesday at Floyd, Wednesday at Giles and Pulaski, and Friday at Radford. Our local pharmacies are also administering first, second, and third and booster doses, and they have evening and weekend hours.

"People can also find a vaccine through vaccinefinder.gov or by calling 1-877-VAX-IN-VA (877-829-4682). In addition, the Virginia Department of Health has opened a Community Vaccination Center in Roanoke at the old Sears store in Valley View Mall. All COVID vaccines and boosters are available. It is operating Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m.

"At all of the health department locations, we are offering both COVID and flu vaccines. Please consider getting a flu vaccine at the same time. We are seeing Flu A and Flu B in our region. The health department, through the Business Continuity Team, has offered flu and COVID vaccine clinics with many of our local employers. Avoiding the flu this year is very important for helping to reduce stress on our hospitals."

OBITUARY

Monroe, Richard Walter

Richard Walter Monroe, 77, of Blacksburg, passed away peacefully on Monday, Oct. 18, 2021. Born Aug. 25, 1944, he was the son of the late Stanley Searle Monroe and Ruth Hunker Monroe. He was preceded in death by his sister, Judith Ann Monroe, and his brother, William Matthew Monroe.

He is a graduate of Annandale High School (1962) where he was a star athlete, and Virginia Tech (1966). Richard earned a bachelor's degree in business management and a regular Army commission as a Second Lieutenant in the armored cavalry. While at Virginia Tech, he was assigned to H Company. He was a Regimental S-3 operations officer and a leader in the Corps of Cadets. He was also a member of the Color Guard, the VPI Cotillion Club, and many other honorary military societies.

After graduation from Virginia Tech, Richard attended the Armor Officer Basic Leaders Course in Ft. Knox, Ky., with a follow-on assignment to the Third Squadron, 14th Armored Cavalry Regiment in Bad Hersfeld, Germany. He served there for two years as a troop commander, a staff officer, and the squadron executive officer. During this period, he was promoted to the rank of Captain.

After Germany, he was deployed to Vietnam as an advisor to the South Vietnamese Sixth Armored Cavalry. While in Vietnam, his unit conducted daily reconnaissance missions to protect and support other infantry companies. He rode on an armored carrier and was involved in several enemy fire fights and major battles which earned him a bronze star. At the end of this tour, he left the Army to pursue a civilian career.

In February of 1970, Richard was hired by Reynolds Metals Company, a Richmond-based international aluminum company. After 26 years with Reynolds, he joined Owens Corning for six years and finally a private investment group for four years. After 36 years in the corporate world and four years of military service, Richard retired with his wife Mary Margaret to Blacksburg.

While retired in Blacksburg, Richard served as board secretary and general director of the Corps of Cadets Alumni Association for seven years. He also served as president, vice president and treasurer of the Virginia Tech Cotillion Club Alumni Association over the course of a 13-year period. He was also a member of Blacksburg United Methodist Church.

Richard will be remembered for his quick-witted sense of humor, his endless generosity, and his love for the great outdoors. He often spoke of his love and respect for the lifelong foundation that his experience in the Corps of Cadets afforded him.

He is survived by his wife of 51 years, Mary Margaret Marston Monroe; his children, Jennifer Monroe Holliday and Spencer Grant Monroe; a son-in-law Todd Holliday and daughter-in-law Kelli Simpson Monroe; grandchildren Grant Monroe Holliday, Samuel Ayers Holliday, and Keeton Elizabeth Monroe; a brother, Jonathan Searle Monroe; a cousin, Elizabeth Brand Monroe; sisters-in-law Rosa Crocker Monroe and Deborah Cahoon Monroe; nephews James Lord Borck and Owen Searle Monroe; nieces Kimberly Borck Pollard, Amity Borck Dey, Frances Tucker Monroe, Megan Monroe Guerrero, Meredith Monroe Rodriguez, and twenty great-nieces and great-nephews.

The family is grateful for the love and support from family, friends, and many medical professionals. A memorial service will be held in honor of Richard on Nov. 17, 2021, at 2:30 p.m., preceded by a visitation at 2 p.m. at Blacksburg United Methodist Church. The family requests that you kindly wear a mask.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions can be made to Blacksburg United Methodist Church, P.O. Box 931, Blacksburg, VA 24063 or the Virginia Tech Corps of Cadets Alumni Association, Class of 1966 Emerging Leader Scholarship Fund, 141 Lane Hall (0213), 280 Alumni Mall, Blacksburg, VA 24061 or online at vtcc.vt.edu/alumni.

Arrangements are in the care of McCoy Funeral Home, Inc., 150 Country Club Drive SW, Blacksburg, VA 24060; (540)-552-3211. Online condolences can be shared at www.mccoy-funeralhome.com.

Virginia shines at “North America’s Premier Farm Show” in Georgia

MOULTRIE, Ga.—Virginia’s historical significance in agriculture is widely known, and the state is a major contributor to the industry’s current technological innovations and sustainable practices. This reputation garnered Virginia the designation of “Spotlight State” at the Sunbelt Ag Expo in Moultrie, Ga., Oct. 19-21.

Known as “North America’s Premier Farm Show,” the 43rd annual expo featured the latest in agricultural technology, hosting more than 1,200 exhibitors representing almost 4,000 different product lines. These exhibitors showcased the latest agricultural innovations to help farmers enhance their economic and environmental sustainability.

The 2021 expo spotlighted the state with the slogan “Virginia Agriculture, 400 Years of Progress.” Agriculture and forestry combined are Virginia’s top industries thanks to diverse topography that enables farmers to cultivate a wide variety of commodities. The exhibit highlighted Virginia’s innovative industry that continues building on its centuries-old reputation.

Mike Parrish, co-chair of the Virginia Spotlight State Committee and a Virginia Cooperative Extension agent in Dinwiddie County, said, “We want to represent the state as a whole and showcase the successes of Virginia agriculture. By starting a conversation about the historical significance of agriculture in the state, we can also help people understand how we’ve contributed to the advancement of U.S. agriculture through research and technology.”

Individual farmers also were recognized for their contributions to the industry. Since its inception in 1990, the Swisher/Sunbelt Expo Southeastern Farmer of the Year Award has evolved into a prestigious honor that recognizes outstanding agribusiness leaders. Ten states participate in the program: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.

Keenbell Farm specializes in grass-fed beef, pasture-raised pork, free-range poultry, turkeys, eggs, and grains. Each state winner received cash awards, other prizes, and an expense-paid trip to the Sunbelt Expo.

“It was a very humbling experience, being around so many other outstanding farmers with impressive operations,” Isbell said. “And it was great that Virginia was the spotlight state, and I could be there to represent the commonwealth with lots of fellow Virginians, plus Farm Bureau and Virginia Cooperative Extension.”

He said being named Virginia Farmer of the Year was an honor, given the award’s long-standing history and the names that preceded him.

“It may be my name on the recognition, but it’s truly an award for the family,” Isbell said. “Without the support of my wife and my father, and the customers who patronize our business, we wouldn’t be where we are.”

Jana Moser Moore named director of VT’s Office of Veteran Services

Janette “Jana” Moser Moore, assistant director for student services for the Virginia Tech Language and Culture Institute, has been named director of the university’s Office of Veteran Services (OVS).

In her new position, Moore provides oversight and leadership for OVS and the Veterans Resource Center (VetZone). Veterans and military-connected students work with OVS for the certification of Veterans Affairs educational benefits and to connect with financial, academic, and social resources necessary for a successful transition to and through their course of study at Virginia Tech.

“I am excited to now be with the Office of Veteran Services,” said Moore. “The population we serve is a diverse mix of veterans, reservists, National Guard, active duty, and dependent students. Their overall goals and needs for support are very similar, yet they come from different backgrounds.”

“Services and support for them requires an acknowledgment of those varied experiences and perspectives. I look forward to working with these students to maximize their Virginia Tech experience.”

Moore began her professional career in military education, teaching enlisted personnel skills to improve test scores to assist in their goal of changing their military occupational specialty. Stationed with her husband in Germany, she also taught a German language and culture basic skills class to incoming soldiers.

“While assisting service members with their education, I learned so much about how the military works,” Moore said. “It was such a pleasure to see them reach their goals while working, deploying, and juggling school and family.”

Moore later moved into academic advising and policy work with institutions of higher education located on Fort Bragg. Her professional experience then grew to encompass management, SOC (Servicemembers Opportunity College) compliance, federal tuition assistance reporting, the GI Bill, policy writing and registrar responsibilities.

Moore earned a bachelor’s degree from the University of Southern Mississippi and a master’s in education from the University of Oklahoma. She has over 20 years of experience in higher education including policy and regulations, academic advising, staff training, and supervision.

Supply chain shortfalls to impact small business owners this holiday season, says VT business professor

Shoppers will need to be flexible and patient this holiday season as the ripple effect of the COVID-19 pandemic continues to impact the supply chain of consumer goods, especially the inventory and supply for small businesses, according to Virginia Tech professor of business information technology Barbara Hoopes.

"Supply chain challenges will definitely affect holiday shopping," said Hoopes. "Small businesses in particular may be disproportionately affected since they don't have reserves to handle the disruptions like some larger organizations do."

Hoopes said that pre-pandemic, retailers were already moving holiday promotions into the fall in order to predict demand and smooth holiday deliveries. "This year will be worse than average and don't count on last-minute deliveries to be reliable," she said.

Hoopes offers the following advice for holiday shoppers:

Support small and local businesses with your holiday purchases.

Shop early as inventory and supply may be a challenge.

Purchase gift cards.

Be willing to accept delivery after Christmas, and if necessary, give a picture or note to the recipient.

Consider giving experiences rather than things.

Hoopes cautions that supply chain challenges are likely to linger fairly deep into 2022, and warns that consumer suppliers should re-think their supply chains with an eye toward risk management and resiliency.

She also has advice for consumer suppliers:

Use local/regional/domestic suppliers wherever possible, even if slightly more expensive.

Consider reducing single-point risk by identifying alternate sources of supply, but not all from the same market or region.

Get to know your suppliers well. Seek transparency into their situations so that you are prepared for any second-hand shocks.

Don't make purchasing decisions on cost alone - consider other factors such as reliability, risk reduction, location.

For critical items, consider vertical integration options; that is, control more of your own supply chain.

Consider creating moderately larger inventory buffers so that you are somewhat protected against supply delays - this may allow you to take advantage of quantity discounts to reduce unit costs.

Be careful not to overbuy, however; estimate demand using reasonable trends and forecasting. The "bullwhip effect" is real and can leave you with unsold inventory.

Don't rely on overnight or expedited air services. These avenues are just as clogged as shipping and trucking in many cases.

Reliance on a single revenue stream concentrates risk. Consider alternate revenue streams, including products, services, and alternate ways of reaching customers.

Barbara Hoopes is the academic director of Virginia Tech MBA Programs and associate professor of Business Information Technology. She teaches for the Virginia Tech MBA programs in the greater Washington, D.C., metro region in the areas of operations management, global supply chain management, and business analytics.

WORSHIP DIRECTORY

OVER THE TOP

Read Numbers 16:1
through 17:13

Gordon trudged into the house after a long day of work on his birthday, a year older and feeling every minute of it. He expected a quiet birthday dinner with his family, so he was stunned when he saw balloons and cake and friends shouting, "Surprise!" He was more than surprised. He was amazed at how much his family and friends clearly loved him.

God vowed to make the staff of his chosen priest miraculously sprout, but He couldn't resist going above and beyond. The next day Moses entered the tent and saw that Aaron's staff, which represented the tribe of Levi, had not only sprouted but had budded, blossomed and produced almonds (Numbers 17:8).

God has a way of amazing His people by meeting their needs in over-the-top ways. There's no better example than Jesus. Sure, God had promised a Messiah, but His own Son? It was stunning, unexpected, and it demonstrated that God was willing to go farther than we could ever imagine to save us.

Prayer Suggestion: Thank You, God, for the miraculous, amazing, over-the-top way You saved me.

OBITUARIES

Deemer, USMC (Ret.), Maj. James C.

Maj. James C. Deemer, USMC (Retired), 86, of Blacksburg, died Tuesday after a long illness. His family began missing him even before Jimmy, as he was known, left the earth where he once golfed, joked, and battled the wisteria. Because of his 21 years serving in the Marine Corps, you might think he'd be tough, and he was in many ways. Mostly, he was the gentlest Marine you'd ever know.

Born in Blacksburg to the late Karl Otmar Deemer and Coralie Slusser Deemer, he remembered playing on the slag pile in the Slusser Coal Mine his grandfather once owned. A gifted athlete, he loved sports and played basketball at Blacksburg High School.

But it was golf that became his early favorite from the time he picked up his father's wooden clubs as a young boy. One of his first jobs was caddying with his brother at the Hill Course. He attended the University of Florida on a golf scholarship, then transferred back home to his beloved Virginia Tech, earning a bachelor's degree in business.

In 1958, he joined the Marine Corps, something he had wanted to do in honor of his favorite uncle, a decorated Marine in World War II. Jimmy was a career Marine who served two tours in Vietnam and often repeated the USMC motto, Semper Paratus, "always faithful."

In Vietnam, Jimmy served as an aerial observer and was shot down twice, receiving a Purple Heart for his injuries. The war took its psychological toll, as wars do. When he talked of Vietnam, he could describe the people he knew vividly, but could rarely recall their names. After he retired in 1979, he began a career in real estate, living in Virginia Beach before returning to the Blacksburg of his childhood.

In 1988, he met Linda, "my wife, the love of my life," and in 1989, the southern gentleman married the outspoken New Yorker at the home of a dear friend. They were married for 32 years. They worked together, traveled until they couldn't, celebrated date night on Fridays until they couldn't, and always enjoyed their families.

Jimmy was predeceased by his parents; sister Elvira "Vicky" Deemer Michael; brother-in-law Bobby Michael; sister-in-law Mary Ellen Deemer; and brother-in-law Kenneth Strier.

Those left to cherish his memory include Linda, the wife and partner who lovingly cared for him these last years and always; his brother, William M. Deemer of Blacksburg; his son, James C. Deemer Jr., of Ormond Beach, Fla.; his bonus children, Madelyn and William "Butch" Lazorchak of Arlington, Va., and Andrew Rosenberg and Melanie Ross of Brooklyn, N.Y.; his grandchildren, Cole and Dillon Deemer, Graham and Karina Lazorchak, and Jules Rosenberg; a sister-in-law, Ellen Strier; loving nieces and nephews Brownie, Billy Jr., Michele, Robert, Richard, Shari, and Michelle; and many friends.

The family thanks Carilion Hospice for their wonderful care and especially Cindy, Marissa, Julie, and Tom, as well as private caregivers Chris and Stephanie.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be made to Blacksburg High School with the memo line "Jimmy Deemer Golf Scholarship Award" (or call the school for instructions), Carilion Hospice, or the charity of your choice.

Visitation will take place on Sunday, Oct. 31, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at McCoy Funeral Home. Services will be held on Monday, Nov. 1, at 11 a.m. at McCoy Funeral Home, followed by military honors and interment at Westview Cemetery on East Roanoke Street. The family requests that masks be worn during all indoor services.

Meredith, Alice Loisene Flinchum

Alice Loisene Flinchum Meredith passed away peacefully at her home in Radford at the age of 89 on Monday, Oct. 25, 2021.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Elbert and Alice Smith Flinchum; 10 brothers and sisters; her husband, Winford T. Meredith; and beloved grandson and granddaughter Michael Keith Meredith and Susan Angela Meredith Beall.

She is survived by daughters Regina Meredith and Tammy (Steve) Duncan; sons Kenny, Ronnie (Elaine) and Johnny (Phyllis) Meredith; grandchildren, Michael, Andrea, Heather, and Jessica along with seven great-grandchildren; sisters-in-law, Adell Adkins and Helen Flinchum; as well as many nieces and nephews.

When we think of our mom, our queen, and as most people know her, Loisene, we remember many mouth-watering home cooked meals, especially her macaroni and cheese. She would go all out for holiday meals, starting to prepare everyone's favorites early in the morning. When her own children were at home, she cooked not only for them, but their many friends who came to visit. To the children she babysat, she was lovingly known as "Nana."

Alice loved to go thrift-store shopping and loved collecting dolls, teapots, bottles, bells, crystal, baskets, and pieces to add to her Christmas dishes and china set. She had beautiful displays of the things she acquired.

Over the years mom enjoyed traveling to Williamsburg, Memphis, Myrtle Beach, Nashville, Florida, Branson, and numerous other places. If there was an opportunity to go, she was ready to pack a bag. She loved being outdoors, the beauty of flowers, and when she was able, working in her building. She was ahead of her time by having her own "she shed" before it was a popular thing.

She had a tremendous love for God and often encouraged us when we faced a challenge by reciting Matthew 18:19. While working around the house, she would sing old hymns and sometimes make up songs that fit her spiritual feeling at that time. At bedtime, she could be heard singing or praying for her family as she fell asleep. Mom would often say she just wanted to get back to church one more time. She loved listening to the Bible on CD when her eyes began to fail.

During the last two years of her life, she faced several medical challenges. We called her our "Sherman tank" and our "Miracle Mom" because she always seemed to bounce back when it seemed impossible. The last months of her life were spent with cattle in the fields, surrounded by a peace and tranquillity that she so richly deserved.

Many special people deserve thanks for taking care of Mom: Dr. Timothy Byrnes/Vistar; Dr. Thomas Conlee/Jefferson Surgical; Dr. Mark Kasmer/Carilion Orthopedics; Dr. Janet Bechtel/Southwest Podiatry; Kindred Home Health, especially Robin; Good Samaritan Palliative and Hospice Care; the Roanoke Memorial 7th floor PCU medical and nursing staff; the NRV Carilion ER, ICU, and PCU medical staff, and Dr. Daniel Kelly and Kaye for being with us for so many years. We will never forget the love and kindness of Pastor Donald Jones, Debbie Southern, and her Bob White church family for all their many prayers.

Family and friends celebrated the life of Alice with a visitation at the Bob White Boulevard Church of God on Friday, Oct. 29, 2021, followed by a funeral service officiated by Pastor Donald Jones. Services concluded with interment at Highland Memory Gardens.

While flowers are appreciated we ask that you consider doing the following today: Choose someone in your life right now whom you need to show your love and appreciation to and send flowers to that person. Our lives will never be the same without you, Mom, Nanny, and Nana, but we will remember 2 Samuel 12:21-23, and we will strive to be with you again.

Masks required for events at Cassell this season

Marty Gordon
NRVsports@ourvalley.org

COVID continues to affect all areas of our society including the 2021-2022 basketball season at Virginia Tech. In keeping with current guidelines related to wearing masks at university events, Virginia Tech will require masks regardless of vaccination status for all indoor events scheduled for Cassell Coliseum.

The events include wrestling matches, men's and women's basketball games, and the 2021 fall commencement ceremonies. Masks are already required to be worn for volleyball matches within Cassell.

According to information released earlier this week, proof of vaccination or a negative test will not be required to attend an event at Cassell Coliseum. Masks can be removed when spectators are actively eating or drinking.

Fans will also see some changes to the concession stand areas in Cassell. In efforts to improve the flow and speed of transactions, concession stands will move to cashless payment this season and will require a debit or credit card for purchase. This practical adjustment designed to minimize wait times eliminates the exchanging and handling of currency as the overwhelming majority of concession stand purchases are already made via credit card.

Fans who do not have access to a debit or credit card should consider buying a prepaid credit card at Kroger in advance of the game. To those who wish to still pay in cash, the Hokie Shop will have a limited amount of gift cards available for cash purchase.

After debuting at Lane Stadium this fall, fan-friendly concession pricing will also be implemented at Cassell Coliseum this season. Fans can expect to find classic gameday items like hot dogs, popcorn, nachos, Coca-Cola fountain drinks, and bottled water available for $2.50 each.

Additionally, select beer and seltzers will continue to be available for purchase in Cassell Coliseum. All fans will be required to show proper identification to purchase any alcoholic beverages.

Virginia Tech's clear-bag policy remains in place for Cassell Coliseum. This policy helps provide a safer environment for spectators and expedites fan entry into the arena. Approved bags are limited to bags that are clear plastic, vinyl or PVC and do not exceed 12" x 6" x 12"; one-gallon clear plastic freezer bags (Ziploc bag or similar); and small clutch bags approximately the size of a hand with or without a handle or strap and no larger than 4.5" x 6.5."

Virginia Tech is requiring masks for all fall indoor events at Cassell Coliseum. This includes wrestling matches, volleyball matches, men's and women's basketball games, and the 2021 fall commencement ceremonies.

Millirons commits to New York's St. Thomas Aquinas

Marty Gordon
NRVsports@ourvalley.org

Auburn High School's Ethan Millirons has announced plans to continue his playing career at one of the top Division II college basketball programs in the country. The 6-1 guard is headed to St. Thomas Aquinas College in upstate New York.

In his last full high school season as a sophomore, Millirons averaged 22 points per game, 4.3 assists per game, five rebounds per game and 67 made threes to go along with a 47% field goal percentage and an 89% free throw percentage.

Millirons holds the school records for points in a season, 3-pointers made, free throw percentage and 3-pointers in a game (7). He was named all-Mountain Empire District, Region C, and Class 1 player of the year.

St. Thomas Aquinas College is a private liberal arts college in Sparkill, N.Y., with a current enrollment of 1,180.

The St. Thomas Aquinas College men's basketball team captured the East Coast Conference championship for the fifth time in its last six seasons in 2021 and has been slotted as the nation's preseason #8 squad by the National Association of Basketball Coaches' Poll. The poll comes on the heels of the team's #10 standing in the NCAA's Division II Men's Basketball Power 10 rankings and #1 selection in the ECC Preseason Coaches' Poll.

St. Thomas went 14-2 overall and 9-1 in the ECC during the 2020-2021 season, winning both the conference regular season and tournament titles. The Spartans advanced to the NCAA Division II Tournament for the sixth consecutive season, eventually falling to ECC opponent Daemen, 71-70 in the East Region Finals.

Millirons said several reasons led him to choose the school, including the outstanding coaching staff.

"Tobin Anderson has built a great tradition in his tenure with the team, being 145-32 over the last six seasons with multiple NCAA tournament bids," Millirons said. "The winning speaks for itself."

"On my second visit, I got to know the coaches and the players. I like the family type environment and the relationships the staff and players have created," Millirons said. "It's a small college so it sort of feels like home. The connections the school and Coach Anderson have for what I want to do in the future were also factors in my decision. Being 20 miles from New York City, they can set me up long term."

Millirons plans to major in business or sports management.

Auburn's Ethan Millirons was the 2019-2020 state Class 1 basketball player of the year.

Virginia Tech visits Georgia Tech for initial ACC road contest

BLACKSBURG – After playing six of its first seven games in Lane Stadium, Virginia Tech football prepares for its second road game of the season when the Hokies travel to Atlanta to take on Georgia Tech for a noon kickoff today, Oct. 30.

The game will be broadcast on Regional Sports Network.

Due to last season's altered ACC schedule, the Hokies (3-4, 1-2 ACC) and Yellow Jackets (3-4, 2-2 ACC) did not play for the first time in 16 years, dating back to Tech's joining the ACC. The teams last played in Atlanta in 2019. The Hokies won that contest 45-0, the first of back-to-back shutout victories that season. Virginia Tech holds a 10-7 all-time advantage in the all-time series.

Despite Tech's loss vs. Syracuse, the Hokies enjoyed a breakout performance from true freshman running back Malachi Thomas. The Hartwell, Ga., native recorded 21 carries for 151 yards with three touchdowns to become Tech's first running back to total 100+ yards and three touchdowns in a game since David Wilson did it vs. Appalachian State on Sept. 3, 2011. Thomas is also Tech's first true freshman running back to rush for over 100 yards since Keshawn King rushed for 119 yards vs. Furman on Sept. 14, 2019.

The Hokies also returned a blocked extra point for two points vs. Syracuse, marking the first time they had accomplished the feat since Aug. 30, 2008, vs.

East Carolina. Defensive back Chamarrri Conner got the block and cornerback Dorian Strong scooped the loose ball, returning it 95 yards for the score. It marked the 17th non-offensive score under head coach Justin Fuente and the third one this season.

Tight end Drake DeUliis recorded his first career touchdown Saturday on a 22-yard reception from quarterback Braxton Burmeister. Wide receiver Tayvion Robinson led the team in receiving with three receptions for 57 yards including a 30-yard long. Safeties Nasir Peoples and Tae Daley tied for the team lead with 11 tackles in the game while Daley also forced a fumble. Linebacker Alan Tisdale and cornerback Brion Murray each broke up two passes.

The Yellow Jackets lost a high-scoring affair in Charlottesville as Virginia won a 48-40 contest a week ago despite Georgia Tech's racking up 570 yards of offense. Quarterback Jeff Sims threw for 300 yards with three touchdowns and running back Jahmyr Gibbs ran for 132 yards, including a 71-yard touchdown.

VIRGINIA TECH GAME NOTES

The series with Georgia Tech took a one-year hiatus in 2020 after the Hokies registered a 45-0 victory in Atlanta in 2019 in the initial meeting between head coaches Justin Fuente and Geoff Collins.

Virginia Tech is seeking to win back-to-back games vs. Georgia Tech for the first time since winning four straight from 2010-13.

The Hokies are 1-2 in ACC play after their loss to Syracuse.

Virginia Tech has sustained a trio of heartbreaking losses that have been decided by a combined total of a mere 14 points. In addition to the Syracuse outcome, Tech lost by a 27-21 margin at West Virginia and was beaten 32-29 by No. 14 Notre Dame.

Georgia Tech is 3-4 and is coming off a 48-40 loss at Virginia (10/23). The Jackets haven't won or lost consecutive games this season.

The Hokies are 26-19 in ACC play under Fuente. Georgia Tech is 3-7 in ACC home games under Collins.

The Hokies and Yellow

Jackets are 1-1 against common opponents, both owning a win vs. UNC and a loss vs. Pitt.

The Hokies will have a short turnaround as Tech travels to Boston College next Friday night.

SCORING STATS TO WATCH IN ATLANTA

The Hokies own a 36-5 record under Fuente when leading at the half. Tech had a streak of eight straight wins in that circumstance halted by Syracuse.

Georgia Tech has led at the half in all three of its wins and trailed at half in all four of its losses in 2021.

Virginia Tech is

28-8 when scoring 30+ points under Fuente and 13-1 when scoring 40+ points.

Georgia Tech is 1-14 under Collins when allowing 30 points or more. That lone victory was a 56-33 win vs. Duke in November 2020.

VT is 31-1 under Fuente when holding opponents to 21 points or less and has won 28 straight games when holding opponents to 17 points or less.

The Hokies are allowing 26.3 points per game in ACC play.

Georgia Tech is 2-14 under Collins when scoring 21 points or less, including nine straight losses.

Unbeaten Auburn advances to volleyball district championship game

Auburn took the opportunity this week to honor its volleyball seniors (left to right): Emma Vance, Sara Albert, Allyson Martin, Kaitlyn Lytton, Anna McGuire, and Haley Hollins. With the win in the Mt. Empire District semis, the two-time state champions remained unbeaten on the season.
