Kollmorgen, citizens fund new K9 dog for Radford City Police Department

RADFORD - The Radford City Police Department received more than $20,000 Monday at Radford's city council meeting to support its K9 program.

Kollmorgen presented the department with a $15,000 donation to support the program, and citizen efforts raised additional money to up the total to $21,322.

"We have such a wonderful community," said Radford City Police Chief Jeff Dodson at the meeting. "We got a call out of the blue from Kollmorgen, who wanted to do something for the community. This really helped us out in a time of need."

"I'm thrilled Kollmorgen has such a presence in Radford," said Radford Mayor David Horton. "They do so much for our community and we are appreciative."

The department had to retire three K9 dogs due to the change in cannabis laws in Virginia. One new dog has been acquired and trained so far, and the department will get the new dog in February.

"Police K9's are vital in keeping the public safe, and we are thankful to have a new K9 that will help in our continued fight against the distribution of narcotics in our community," said Dodson.

Dodson also explained that Kollmorgen employees took part in a K9 naming contest and the name "Ser-

Erlene Barber of Gates Florist provided a demonstration on Wednesday, Nov. 9, to four Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) volunteers on flower arranging. Afterwards, RSVP Volunteers Beverly Bridges, Rosemary Jones, Sarah Carter, and Annette Calhoun made seventy flower arrangements for veterans throughout Montgomery County and Radford, especially those who are residing in local nursing and assisted living homes. RSVP Volunteers Rosemary Jones, Ronald "Chub" Flanary, local veteran Raymond Lyons, Jr., and Shirley Mullins then delivered the completed arrangements. In addition, Virginia Flanary, Glenda Caldwell, and Dottie Williams crafted handmade Veterans Day cards for local veterans.

VT veterinarian: COVID vaccinations for pets still not recommended

As COVID-19 vaccinations and boosters reach a wider segment of the human population, experts at the Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine say they're still not recommending vaccinations for pets.

"To date, I think we have only confirmed a single case of a pet infected with COVID-19 in this area, and that was from a household with an infected human, so it appears to be a fairly unlikely scenario," said Mark Freeman, a clinical assistant professor in Community Practice at Virginia Tech.

According to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), a very small number of pets around the world have been reported to be infected with the virus that causes COVID-19, mostly after having contact with people with the virus. Based on the information available to date, the risk of animals spreading COVID-19 to people is considered to be low.

"Most dogs and cats are exposed to other strains of coronavirus when they are puppies or kittens, so they already have some natural immunity, although it may not always be cross-protect-

With only a single case in the area of a pet infected with COVID-19, Virginia Tech veterinarian and assistant professor Mark Freeman is among the experts who say they are still not recommending vaccinations for pets.

ive," said Freeman. "We have tested several animals that had some clinical signs that would be expected with coronavirus and that also came from households where there was a human infected, but to my knowledge all the tests in pets have been negative."

Pets that do have symptoms usually have a mild illness that can be taken care of at home. Freeman recommends that pet owners who think their pet is sick with the virus or who are concerned about their pet's health should talk to their vet.

"As this virus continues to mutate, we may find that it could be more likely to infect pets, at which point we may be more likely to consider vaccination to prevent further spread, especially between pets and humans," Freeman said.

Volunteers save mussels during Claytor Lake drawdown

Mussels are returned to Claytor Lake from boats during last Saturday's crisp foggy morning.

Volunteers banded together last weekend to save native mussels left vulnerable by the lowering of Claytor Lake.

Each year, the lake is lowered to allow lakeside property owners an opportunity to perform shoreline construction and maintenance activities. A by-product of that necessary drawdown is that thousands of freshwater mussels are left on the shore and die if they are not returned to the wa-

The drawdown recently occurred, culminating last Saturday, and volunteers once again gathered on the shore of the lake to save the mussels.

"It was a chilly, foggy and awesome Saturday morning saving mussels," according to Friends of Claytor Lake. "This year we had 90 volunteer participants

VDOT installs new digital message signs along Interstate 81

SALEM - The Virginia Department of Transportation has installed and activated 30 new digital message signs along Interstate 81. The signs are part of the I-81 Corridor Improvement Program (CIP) to improve safety, increase reliability, and foster economic growth along the 325-mile I-81 corridor.

The electronic display boards, also known as changeable message signs, offer motorists vital information about traffic incidents, congestion, work zones, and inclement weather.

"This is proven technology that helps travelers make informed decisions before they hit the road or helps them alter their plans if conditions change," said VDOT Commissioner Stephen C. Brich.

"Incidents are responsible for much of the congestion on this interstate," said Dave Covington, I-81 Program Delivery Director. "The digital message signs are a cost-effective way to help drivers avoid some of those backups."

Twenty-one of the new digital message signs are located on the interstate between mile marker 72 in Wythe County and mile marker 321 in Frederick County. Another nine signs are on roadways approaching I-81, offering information that can help motorists decide whether to merge onto the interstate. VDOT's network of traffic operations centers provide messages for the message boards and continuously update them in real time.

The I-81 CIP originated from public input and a 2018 data-driven study. The $2 billion plan of focused improvements was approved in December 2018 by the Commonwealth Transportation Board. In 2019 the general assembly approved funding and Governor Ralph Northam signed it into law. Information on I-81 CIP, including interactive maps and timelines and details about upcoming and current projects is on the Improve81.org website.

The digital message sign project is part of I-81 CIP operational improvements that include additional traffic cameras, flashing curve-warning signs, VDOT's Towing and Recovery Incentive Program, and expanded safety service patrol coverage. Dozens of arterial route improvements are currently underway and are scheduled for completion by 2023.

In March 2020 the Commonwealth Transportation Board awarded a $6,999,464.84 contract for the digital message signs project to Richardson-Wayland Electrical Co. LLC of Roanoke. The project was completed on Oct. 28, 2021.

WalletHub ranks Virginia as seventh most charitable state

'Tis the season for giving, and the personal finance website WalletHub ranked Virginia as the seventh most charitable state in the country in a survey released Monday.

The website points out, though, that the latest World Giving Index shows that the United States is falling behind, dropping to 19th place among the most generous countries after years at the top of the list. However, U.S. donors in 2020 still gave more than $471 billion to charity, with 69% of the funds coming directly from individuals, according to the National Philanthropic Trust. Americans do more than just reach in their pockets to help others, though. They also contribute their time — and plenty of it. Over 77 million people volunteer in the U.S., serving a combined total of 6.9 billion hours per year, the equivalent of $167 billion of service.

While the COVID-19 pandemic may have disrupted some volunteer opportunities last year and this year, it hasn't stopped people from giving, WalletHub says. In fact, last year's total giving was actually 5.1% more than in 2019.

In the spirit of inspiring altruism, WalletHub determined the most charitable of the 50 states by comparing them across 19 key indicators of charitable behavior. Those 19 metrics were further divided by WalletHub into two dimensions: volunteering and service and charitable giving.

In the volunteering and service dimension, the metrics used to determine the rankings of the nation's most charitable states were the volunteer rate, the volunteer retention rate, the volunteer hours per capita, the presence or absence of a community service requirement for high school graduation, the share of the population that does favors for neighbors, the amount of money people would lend their neighbors in need, the share of the population collecting and distributing food, the share of the population collecting and distributing clothes, the share of the population fundraising or selling items to raise money, and the share of the state's residents who supply transportation for people.

In the charitable giving dimension, the metrics WalletHub used to determine its charitable rankings were the share of income donated, the share of the population donating time, the share of the population donating money, public charities per capita, 4-star charities per capita, charity regulations, the extent of Google search interest for "charitable donations," Feeding America food banks per capita, and the share of sheltered homeless.

The six states ranking ahead of Virginia in terms of charitable giving were 1) Utah 2) Maryland 3) Minnesota 4) Oregon 5) North Dakota and Pennsylvania.

Financial Focus: Financial moves for women business owners

If you're a woman who owns a business, you may have some challenges not shared by your male peers, but you also have several opportunities to help improve your financial future.

You may already be taking some or all the right steps, but here are some ideas to be sure you're considering and revisiting as your business grows:

Refresh your network. Are you involved in networking with other women business owners? Many of them may have insights into the issues women face in the business world as well as suggestions about lending programs and business-friendly banks. You may also enjoy passing along your lessons learned to others.

Review your business structure. If you go into business as a sole proprietor, you'll have to report your business income on your personal income tax return. If you incorporate or form a limited liability company (LLC), you can protect your personal assets — such as your house and your investments — from creditors because these assets will be separated from your business assets and debts. You might also consider other, more complex entities, known as C and S corporations. There's no single "correct" business structure and the most appropriate one for you may change over time, so, in choosing one that's right for your needs, you'll want to consult with your tax and legal advisors.

Do an insurance checkup. To protect yourself and your business, you may want to review your insurance to make sure you have the right kinds and amount of coverage. General liability insurance can be appropriate for sole proprietors, if you've established an LLC, or you've incorporated your business. If you provide some type of professional service (i.e., legal, accounting, engineering and so on), you might need professional liability insurance. And no matter what business you own, you might want to add disability insurance to replace some of the income you'd lose if you were injured or became ill.

Consider all your retirement options. If you've got your own business, you're solely responsible for funding your retirement. Fortunately, as a business owner, you've got several attractive options, including an "owner-only" 401(k), a SEP-IRA and a SIMPLE IRA. In deciding which plan is right for you, you'll need to consider several factors, including the number of employees, if any, and the nature of your business. However, all these plans are relatively easy to set up and administer and offer potential tax benefits. And even though you've got plenty to do already, you should make the time to establish or review your own retirement plan because eventually you'll need all the resources you can accumulate to enjoy life as a former business owner.

You can also find valuable information on programs for women business owners by visiting the Small Business Administration's website at www.sba.gov and searching for "women-owned businesses."

Running your own business can be challenging, but by making some positive financial moves and getting the support you need, you can also find business ownership to be highly rewarding, personally and professionally.

New round of USDA funding to provide pandemic relief to Virginia farmers

Through Nov. 22, the U.S. Department of Agriculture is accepting applications for a new round of funding to help farmers and other segments of Virginia's agricultural sector recoup losses associated with the pandemic.

Farmers, farmers markets and other small-scale agricultural facilities negatively impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic now can apply for a new round of U.S. Department of Agriculture funding.

Through Nov. 22, USDA is accepting applications for the Pandemic Response and Safety Grant Program, which aims to help small businesses in the agricultural sector recoup costs associated with pandemic response.

Approximately $650 million will be available to small-scale crop producers, other select producers, meat and other processing facilities, distributors, and farm-

Applicants may request grants between $1,500 and $20,000, and funds will be issued for pandemic-related costs incurred between Jan. 27, 2020, and Dec. 31, 2021. Cost sharing and matching funds are not required under program guidelines.

"Throughout the pandemic, Virginia producers, processing facilities, and farmers markets took important steps to keep their businesses moving and keep employees and customers safe," said Elijah Griles, Virginia Farm Bureau Federation commodity specialist. "The PRS grant program provides an opportunity for those businesses to offset some of the expenses that were incurred by implementing safety protocols, or by pivoting their marketing strategies to successfully navigate the pandemic" Griles said.

PRS funding can be used to cover costs associated with workplace safety, market pivots, retrofitting facilities, transportation of workers and goods, worker housing, and medical services provided to workers.

Full program details, eligibility requirements and an online application can be accessed through the PRS web portal.

OBITUARIES

Owells, Martha Adams Heinline

Martha Adams Heinline Owells, 99, of Radford, passed away Monday, Nov. 1, 2021, just three months short of her 100th birthday.

She was a longtime member of Grove United Methodist Church. Martha was an avid gardener and loved spending time in her lawn and garden. She also crocheted and made dozens of lovely, cherished, handmade items for her friends and family over the years, many times taking months of work.

She enjoyed taking family trips to the beach in South Carolina and spending cooler months in Florida with her husband. Martha was preceded in death by her parents, James and Iris Heinline; and her husband, Horace Eugene Owells.

Survivors include her son, Thomas

Owells of Mission, Kan.; grandchildren and their spouses, Michael and Michelle Owells and Julie and Patrick Joyce of Kansas; great-grandchildren Everly and Kaison Owells, and Owen and Ben Joyce; and many other relatives and friends.

The family will receive friends from 10 a.m. until 11 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 20, 2021, at Grove United Methodist Church. Funeral services will begin at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Jan Angle officiating. Interment will follow in Sunrise Burial Park in Radford.

In lieu of flowers, consider donations to your local hospice.

Condolences and memories may be shared with the family at www.mullins-funeralhome.com. The Owells Family is in the care of Mullins Funeral Home in Radford.

Poole, James "Jim"

James "Jim" Poole passed away peacefully on Nov. 7, 2021, after a brief bout with cancer.

Born just outside Nashville, Jim spent a majority of his life in California and Arizona, moving just a few years ago to Blacksburg to be closer to family.

Jim was an incredible athlete, playing both basketball and baseball for San Diego State University. He was honored to have his baseball jersey retired as one of the top pitchers in school history. Following graduation, he went on to participate as a member of the winning USA basketball team for the 1955 Pan American Games, earning a gold medal. He followed that as a member of the All-Air Force Volleyball Team in 1957, during his time serving in the Air Force competing in the Armed Forces Sports.

Jim became a world-class, international badminton champion and one of the most decorated players in USA Badminton history. He was the number-one ranked singles player and number-one ranked doubles player (with partner Don Paup) throughout the 1960s and mid-1970s. His 65 United States championships are the most for any badminton player, and his record of winning his first in 1958 and his last in 1979, a span of 21 years, remains the longest of any player in USA badminton history.

Jim won numerous European and Canadian titles and was the world champion in the over-55 age group in 1987. His most cherished victory was winning the Malaysia Open in 1961 as he was the first victor from a non-Asian country. He remains the only American player to win this elite tournament.

He also played for the US National Team (Thomas Cup) from 1958-1976 (even coaching several teams), traveling all over the world. In 1970 he was elected into the USA Badminton Hall of Fame now known as the Walk of Fame.

As his badminton career was winding down, his football officiating career was reaching its pinnacle as he worked for 20 years on the field for the National Football League (1975-1995), including officiating Super Bowl XXI (1987) and Super Bowl XXVII (1994). After retiring from the field, Jim worked briefly as a supervisor in New York City before returning full-time to Sun Lakes, Ariz., where he continued to be an NFL trainer and then an observer for the Arizona Cardinal games for many more years. During his retirement years in Arizona, Jim became a scratch golfer and won a couple of club championships.

Professionally, Jim was a college professor for over 30 years at Cal State University, Northridge, and Cal State University, Dominguez Hills.

Jim met his wife of 53 years, Sue, during his time in the Air Force. Jim and Sue loved traveling and spending time with their family. Sadly, Sue passed away in 2013. Jim is survived by daughters Kelly (Mark) and Lisa (Jeff) and son Jon (Kathleen); seven grandchildren, Melissa (Matt), Kristin, Carly (Geoff), Kenny, Ricky, Kyle, and McKayla; and one great-grandchild Wyatt.

The family would like to thank Dr. Robert Solomon, the staff at Medi-Home Health (most notably Jacqui, Alecia, Matthew, and Chaplin Mike), and the staff and ownership of English Meadows Blacksburg for their care and concern for Jim.

The family will receive visitors celebrating Jim's life from 3 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 14, 2021, at McCoy Funeral Home, 150 Country Club Dr. S.W., Blacksburg. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the American Cancer Society.

With motorcycle deaths up from 2020, DMV urges caution for motorcyclists this fall

Virginia's crisp fall weather and colorful scenic routes are calling motorcyclists to take a ride. In light of recent roadway trends, the Virginia Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) is reminding all motorcyclists and motorists to use caution.

As of Nov. 4, 95 motorcyclists have died in crashes on Virginia roadways, a 17% increase compared to the same date last year. In fact, more motorcyclists have already died in crashes this year than all of last year (87 motorcyclist fatalities in 2020).

Not only do motorcyclists and motorists share the road, but they also share the responsibility of taking proper precautions to keep the roads safe for everyone.

"By combining safe riding practices and safe driving practices on Virginia's roadways, together, we can prevent crashes and significantly reduce the number of motorcyclists killed each year," said DMV Commissioner Richard D. Holcomb, the Governor's Highway Safety Representative.

Motorcyclists are considered vulnerable road users due to the size of their vehicles, and motorcycles lack a considerable amount of protection compared to larger vehicles on the road.

In a continued effort to decrease traffic fatalities, DMV offers these safety tips for motorcyclists and motorists on the roads this fall:

Motorcycles or other smaller vehicles may appear farther away than they actually are, so take an extra moment to look before changing lanes, pulling into traffic, and turning at intersections.

Avoid distracted driving. The use of a cellphone or any handheld communications device while driving is illegal in Virginia. Remember, distracted driving is impaired driving, and impaired driving is always preventable.

Always maintain a safe following distance. Motorists and motorcyclists should practice keeping at least three seconds between themselves and the vehicle or motorcycle ahead.

Safety gear such as seat belts, helmets, and protective gear should always be properly utilized whenever operating a vehicle or a motorcycle.

Use caution and slow down when riding through intersections. Failure to notice the presence of a motorcycle is one of the leading causes of vehicle and motorcycle collisions.

DMV offers a Virginia Rider Training Program for both new and experienced riders.

Courses are taught by certified motorcycle safety instructors and provide the opportunity to learn new techniques and practice skills in a controlled, safe environment. Classes are offered at community colleges and other locations throughout the state. Not only does taking a motorcycle safety course help bike riders prepare for their motorcycle endorsement, but it also may qualify them for a discount on their motorcycle insurance.

As of the first week of November, 95 motorcyclists have died in crashes on Virginia's highways, more than died in all of 2020.

SPREAD THE WORD
Read John 12:1 through 13:38

A large banner on the semitrailer in the church parking lot announced, "Food Giveaway on Saturday." Sharon saw the banner as she drove by on her way to work. Just five years earlier, as a single mother of two, she had received two bags of groceries from the same church. This gift enabled her to get through a tough time after her husband deserted her. More importantly, it opened her heart to the message of Christ.

Now a growing Christian, Sharon takes time to tell others about the church's food giveaway and about the greatest gift of all: Jesus.

The crowd that was with him when he called Lazarus from the tomb and raised him from the dead continued to spread the word (John 12:17).

Those who saw Jesus raise Lazarus from the dead just couldn't keep quiet. They kept talking about the miracle and generating interest in those who heard. The story of how Jesus has touched one person's life has the power to touch other people's lives.

Prayer Suggestion: Jesus, help me to spread the word about You boldly today.

Virginia Tech housekeeping tackles flu through thorough cleaning and disinfecting, strong teamwork

Slowing the spread of seasonal flu, COVID-19, and other viruses through rigorous cleaning and disinfecting of high-touch surfaces remains a priority for the Division of Campus Planning, Infrastructure, and Facilities' housekeeping team.

Flu viruses spread mainly from person to person when people with influenza cough, sneeze, or touch things that others touch. High-touch surfaces - such as countertops, desks, and door handles - should be cleaned and disinfected frequently and effectively.

At Virginia Tech, through the use of one-step disinfectant cleaning chemicals and an increase in high-touch surface cleaning frequencies, the housekeeping team is working hard to reduce the spread of the seasonal flu and COVID-19.

"It takes a great deal of collaboration among our housekeeping teams and members of the university community to reduce the potential impact of flu across campus," said Mike Mulhare, assistant vice president for emergency management. "Good hand hygiene is one of the most important steps that can be utilized to protect oneself. Wash your hands frequently with soap and water for at least 20 seconds. If soap and water are unavailable, use hand sanitizer that is conveniently located throughout campus."

There are three types of cleaning processes: cleaning, sanitizing, and disinfecting.

Cleaning removes visible objects from a surface. It can remove germs from the surface, but it won't kill them.

Sanitizing reduces the number of pathogens on a surface and kills nearly all germs.

Disinfecting kills bacteria, germs, and fungi. The difference between sanitizers and disinfectants is that the latter is proven to kill viruses.

At Virginia Tech, the housekeeping team uses a two-in-one chemical that both cleans and disinfects to quickly remove dirt and kill germs on surfaces.

"By utilizing a one-step disinfectant cleaner, our housekeeping team is able to be more productive and clean more surfaces more frequently," said Greg Canaday, associate director for facilities.

Dwell time is a critical factor for ensuring proper surface disinfecting is being mindful of the dwell time of the chosen chemical.

Dwell time is the amount of time the chemical sits wet upon a surface before drying. If the full dwell time isn't reached, potential bacteria, germs, or viruses have not been killed.

"Our housekeeping team is aware of the importance of making sure surfaces contain enough chemical to remain wet for the necessary dwell time," said Canaday.

For the multi-disinfectant used at Virginia Tech, the dwell time is one minute. But for many household cleaners, it can be longer. "Check the recommended dwell time on the product you're using at home. Apply enough chemical that the surface remains wet for the necessary dwell time," said Canaday.

Dwell times vary among household cleaning products and brands. For example, Lysol disinfecting wipes require a dwell time of four minutes to fully disinfect (and kill potential flu viruses) a surface.

An established strategy: Cleaning to reduce the spread of illness at Virginia Tech

The cleaning and disinfecting processes implemented by the Division of Campus Planning, Infrastructure, and Facilities' housekeeping team to mitigate the spread of COVID-19 was actually established a year prior to the onset of the pandemic.

In 2018, the division initiated a new infectious disease control plan designed to deliver best-in-class disinfecting practices, training, and comprehensive mitigation plans.

"Our infectious disease control plan has enabled our housekeeping team to be prepared and agile in helping to prevent the surface spread of outbreaks of the seasonal flu, H1N1, and COVID-19 in our university facilities. This strategy, coupled with our employees' dedication to best-in-class service, has propelled our housekeeping team to be an exemplary model for mitigating the spread of infectious diseases," said Canaday.

This strategy was fleshed out further in the university's COVID-19 operational plans.

Effective measures for preventing the spread of the seasonal flu include:

Receiving a flu vaccine.
Wearing a face covering when indoors in public settings and on public transportation.

Practicing good hygiene through frequent hand washing, covering coughs and sneezes, and more.

Staying home when feeling under the weather.

VT child study expert: Children facing increased difficulties returning to in-person school

Although research data on the current school year is incomplete, a Virginia Tech child psychologist points to significant increases in anxiety, depression, irritability, and aggression in children.

"We have definitely seen a huge increase in referrals for assessments for academic and social-emotional concerns in children and adolescents in our community," said Rosanna

Breaux, assistant professor of psychology and director of the Child Study Center at Virginia Tech. "This reflects research suggesting that about a third of children have worse emotional health during the pandemic and articles suggesting increased rates of disruptive behavior and anxiety since the start of school in fall 2021."

Studies indicate that 140,000 U.S. children and adolescents have lost a parent or grandparent caregiver during the pandemic. Many are experiencing grief in addition to the chronic stressor of the pandemic.

"Data suggest that around 20 percent of youth are experiencing moderate to clinical levels of psychological trauma symptoms," said Breaux. "Such trauma and chronic stress is linked to a range of negative mental health outcomes spanning anxiety to withdrawal to aggression."

Despite these difficulties being reported, there isn't peer reviewed research studies out yet to support these difficulties or experiences this school year. Professor Breaux anticipates data in the coming months that should provide schools and families with insight into how best to intervene.

Until that time, Breaux encourages families to help meet their children where they are at.

"We should not be focused on where they should be for their grade level, but instead recognize that they have missed something and as a family work together - ideally with their teachers - to help support them in learning what they missed due to the gaps and disruptions in their schooling from the prior year and a half," Breaux said.

Virginia Tech prepares for Senior Day football game vs. Duke

After a two-game ACC road trip, Virginia Tech football returns to Lane Stadium today, Nov. 13, for its last home game of the 2021 season when it hosts Duke at 3:30 p.m. on the ACC Network.

Virginia Tech Athletics will honor its 2021 VT Sports Hall of Fame class at halftime of today's game. This year's class includes three football players: Xavier Adibi, Tyrone Drakeford and Macho Harris.

The Hokies (4-5, 2-3 ACC) and the Blue Devils (3-6, 0-5 ACC) met last season at Wallace Wade Stadium and returned to Blacksburg after earning a 38-31 victory. Quarterback Braxton Burmeister threw for 163 yards with a 12-yard touchdown while rushing for 43 yards and two scores in the win. Running back Khalil Herbert carried the ball 19 times for 207 yards and two touchdowns. Defensive ends Amaré Barno and Emmanuel Belmar combined for five sacks for -35 yards and Barno forced a fumble in the game.

In last week's contest at Boston College, running back Malachi Thomas led the team in rushing with 13 carries for 70 yards. Wide receiver Tayvion Robinson led the receiving game with four receptions for 44 yards, including a 22-yard catch.

With 104 career receptions, Robinson now ranks 12th on Tech's career receptions list and needs two more receptions to pass Marcus Davis for 11th place.

Linebacker Dax Hollifield and safety Tae Daley tied for the team lead in tackles against the Eagles with 10, and both also recorded a tackle for loss. Safety Nasir Peoples, the team's tackles leader, upped his season total to 72 (42 solo) after recording nine tackles Saturday. Cornerback Dorian Strong recorded his first interception of the season against the Eagles, the second of his career.

Meanwhile, Duke lost 54-29 at home to Pitt. The Blue Devils are the lone ACC team without a conference win in 2021, owning an 0-5 mark in ACC play this season. Duke quarterback Gunnar Holmberg completed 16 of 23 passes for 174 yards with a 32-yard touchdown before exiting the game in the second quarter with an injury. Running back Mataeo Durant, who ranks second in the ACC with an average of 118 rushing yards per game, rushed 24 times for 89 yards in the loss to the Panthers. Linebacker Shaka Heyward led the team in tackles with nine, including 2.5 tackles for loss and a sack.

Radford, Christiansburg pair headed for college baseball

Marty Gordon
Contributing writer

Radford's Nate Wesley and Christiansburg's Nate Hall will continue their baseball careers in college. Wesley has committed to Bluefield State College in Bluefield, W.Va., while Hall is headed to Concord University in Athens, W.Va.

Bluefield Coach Drew Bailey is familiar to this area as he graduated from Christiansburg High School, an incentive for Wesley to head to Bluefield. He plans to major in sports management.

This past season, Wesley hit four home runs at Radford and another three in summer travel ball. Bluefield plans to use him at third base

"This past high school season and travel season, I thought I had a great season at the plate," Wesley said. "My goal on the diamond is to become a better player and hopefully be able to make it farther one day."

Bluefield State's athletic teams, known as the Big Blue, compete in NCAA's Division II as a member of the United States Collegiate Athletic Association. They were a member of the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference until the conference's dissolution and then went independent until being granted membership into the ECAC.

Bailey took over the program on Jan. 18 and hit the ground running, signing 25 players in the first three months. In the 2020-

21 season, the Big Blue finished 15-12 overall, marking the first winning season in school history.

Hall is one of four Christiansburg players who have signed with the Concord University Mountain Lions, a Division II school, in the past two years.

At Concord, Hall will join two former teammates in MJ Hunter and Ty Dunkleman and with former Auburn outfielder Keith Reed. Current CHS teammate Dawson Gragg also recently committed to Concord.

"I chose Concord because they are a very successful program and will help me become a better ball player," Hall said. "The coaches want the best for the players; they made me feel at home, and the campus is great."

Hall recorded one win and two saves in 18 innings as a pitcher his final season with a 3.23 earned run average that included 28 strikeouts and only five walks.

In the spring, Hall had the highest strike percentage on the Blue Demons' team and opposing hitters managed to hit only .250 against him.

This summer for the NRV Tigers, Hall pitched 20 innings with 14 hits allowed, 26 strikeouts, and a 1.83 ERA. His fast ball topped out at 89 miles per hour.

At Concord, he is expected to take a bigger role as a starter.

His coach at Christiansburg, Dale Nelson, said Concord is getting a fantastic young man in Nate Hall. "He has a great frame, a huge upside and will continue to get stronger once he gets there," Nelson said. "I expect Nate to have a big role for their pitching staff in the next few years."

Hall plans to study exercise science/physical therapy.

"It's going to be a great time playing with some of my old high school teammates. I can't wait to play with them again," Hall said.

Concord University is a public university with a current enrollment of 1,875, and is an NCAA Division II school in athletics as a member of the Mountain East Conference.

This past year, the Concord University baseball team lost the Mountain East Conference Championship series to West Virginia State and finished the season at 18-23.

Mutts, N'Guessan lead Virginia Tech in blowout of Maine

BLACKSBURG -- Justyn Mutts scored 15 points, David N'Guessan added 15 off the bench, and Virginia Tech beat Maine 82-47 Tuesday in the season opener for both squads.

Virginia Tech led 46-22 at the break, shooting 58 percent (19 for 33). Eight Virginia Tech players entered the scoring column in the first half.

Nahiem Alleyne added 13 points for the Hokies, who finished with 53 percent shooting (35 for 66) overall.

Kristians Feierbergs and Byron Ireland each scored nine points off the bench for Maine.

Virginia Tech is 2-0 all-time against the Black Bears. The other victory occurred on Nov. 11, 2016, an 80-67 decision, which also served as a season opener.

A fired-up David N'Guessan scored 15 points off the bench to help lead the Hokies to an 82-47 defeat of the Maine Black Bears in Tuesday's season opener.

VT softball welcomes seven to 2022 class

The Virginia Tech softball team has added seven players to its 2022 class. Hailing from five different states, the Hokies look to increase the talent in Blacksburg to continue building on their national success.

"This class has a little of everything. It's a very athletic class but the two things that stand out are power hitting and power pitching," said softball head coach Pete D'Amour. "These young ladies hit over 200 home runs total throughout their high school careers, and the two pitchers have the ability to throw the ball in the upper 60's on a consistent basis."

"I'm confident this crew can come and fit in with our program right away," the head coach said. "I'd like to thank Mike Lewis for his efforts in securing this class and the new Hokies and their families for joining our program."

Chicago Bulls to retire jersey of former RU basketball star

On Sunday, Nov. 28, at the Radford-Eastern Kentucky basketball game at the Dedmon Center, the Chicago Bulls will retire the jersey of former Radford University basketball star Javonte Green.

Green will make the trip to the New River Valley and be in attendance for the 4:30 p.m. game.

A member of the Radford program from 2011-15, Green ranks first in program history for career games played (133) and career steals (243) and ranks second for career points scored (1,911), career field goals made (701), and career rebounds (1,064).

The Petersburg, Va., native was an All-Big South Conference selection in each of his four years as a Highlander and was named Big South Defensive Player of the Year in 2014-15.

After earning a bachelor's degree from Radford University, Green went on to play professionally overseas with stops in Spain, Italy, and Germany before becoming the first player in RU program history to sign a contract with an NBA organization. In 2019, he signed a two-year deal with the Boston Celtics. During the 2020-21 season, he was traded to the Chicago Bulls, re-signed with them in the summer of 2021, and became a fan favorite in the Windy City with his energy, his defense, and his electrifying slam dunks.
