New River Train Observatory designers win national architecture award

RADFORD - The New River Train Observatory on the grounds of Glencoe Mansion, Museum, and Gallery has been named a national design winner. Virginia Tech professors Edward Becker and Kay Edge, the architects behind the train observatory, recently won an award from the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture (ACSA). They won in the Design-Build category for the 2022 Architectural Education Awards, which honors the best practices in school-based design-build projects.

The Architectural Education Awards honor architectural educators for exemplary work in areas such as building design, community collaborations, scholarship, and service. The award-winning professors inspire and challenge students, contribute to the profession's knowledge base, and extend their work beyond the borders of academia into practice and the public sector.

The train observatory is part of the Radford Cultural Heritage Park, adjacent to Glencoe, which features a bronze statue of Mary Draper Ingles and several interpretive panels of historical information. The observatory opened in 2019 after it was designed and constructed by Becker, Edge, and their students in the Virginia Tech School of Architecture and Design in conjunction with the City of Radford and its tourism department.

The New River Train Observatory gives people a close-up view of the train tracks that run along the New River.

The observatory's designers are the recipients of a national architecture award for the project, located below Glencoe Mansion, Museum, and Gallery.

Proposed Radford City schools 2022-23 school calendar announced

RADFORD - The survey results are in, and the Radford City School Board will be voting on next year's school calendar at its upcoming board meeting.

"The survey generated 216 responses. 59.3% of the respondents chose Calendar Draft A and 40.7% of the respondents chose Calendar Draft B," the school division announced.

"There have been many factors to consider regarding the calendar and the school start and end times. The most significant factor is state mandated instructional time," the announcement said. "Daily school schedules (opening/closing times) and the school calendar must support state mandates including a 180-day school calendar and, at a minimum, 990 hours of instruction. Radford City Public Schools has taken Calendar Draft A and slightly altered it as needed. Note that January 5 and January 6 are student days and are not professional teacher days. Professional teacher days were needed after each quarter to accommodate having deleted early release days."

The new calendar will not have any early release for students on Wednesdays. The first days of school for students will be Monday, Aug. 15 and Tuesday, Aug. 16.

The start and dismissal times are as follows: McHarg Elementary (PreK-2nd): 8:05 a.m. tardy bell; 2:15 p.m. dismissal bell (Doors open at 7:35 a.m.)

Radford music faculty join impromptu concert for Ukraine

For a couple of months, music faculty from Radford University had been scheduled to perform on March 3 with the NOVA Alexandria Band, a concert band combining the talents of students and faculty in the Northern Virginia Community College system and musicians from the area.

What had not been scheduled was Russia's invasion of Ukraine and the subsequent waves of international condemnation for the aggressor and compassion for the Ukrainians.

In that context, however, the band's director, Lisa Eckstein, saw an opportunity and seized the moment, transforming the performance into a benefit to aid Ukrainians.

"I didn't want to just come out and make music without acknowledging the situation," she said. "While Ukrainian families are fighting for their country and trying to get their children across the border, we were preparing to enjoy an evening of music. I knew I had to address this."

Eckstein told her audience she wanted them to enjoy the evening because they had the freedom to do so, but also to consider just how precious that freedom was and to not take it for granted.

And during the intermission, she offered them an avenue to aid Ukrainians by supporting World Central Kitchen, a Washington, D.C.-based organization providing food for refugees and aid workers at the Polish-Ukrainian border.

Professor Robert Trent, D.M.A., interim chair of Radford's Department of Music, said the Radford musicians found out only when

New small businesses find a home at Millstone Kitchen

Jackie Gardner is launching Just Graze & Co. at Millstone Kitchen.

Rose Mary and William Bellamy are making a dream a reality with their launch of Grandpa Foods and their apple-butter based barbecue sauces.

Three new businesses have launched this year at Millstone Kitchen, a shared-use facility in Blacksburg. The owner-operators of Grandpa Foods, Just Graze & Co. and Thyme & Table are all making their dreams a reality this spring. Rose Mary and William Bellamy of Grandpa Foods aim to share their homespun apple-butter based barbecue sauces with customers. "My wife didn't like the taste of tomato based barbeque sauces,"

William said, so he came up with a tasty alternative. William is the namesake of Grandpa Foods with his face on the label. He finally honed in on a sauce recipe Rose Mary loved, and they decided to turn their family recipe into a new venture. Jackie Gardner has a passion for entertaining and gathering with her friends and family. She is launching Just Graze & Co., a charcuterie kit company, so she can share her passion with an even wider audience.

Pre-order boxes come complete with a variety of cured meats, cheeses, spreads, sweets, and crackers. Emily Worrall grew her small business, Thyme & Table, out of a love of cooking for her family. Her business offers multi-portion prepared meals that can be stashed in the freezer until they are ready to eat. These weeknight-ready meals offer families convenience while prioritizing nutrition. Worrall uses local meats and produce to prepare her recipes from scratch. She tested her recipes on friends during the height of the pandemic and realized the concept could gain traction with the use of a certified kitchen space. Equipping entrepreneurs with the tools to launch their businesses is what Millstone Kitchen is all about. "With many plans put on hold during the first two years of the pandemic, it is promising to see new ventures taking off," said Laina Schneider, manager of Millstone Kitchen.

"Our goal is to reach a sustainable level of operation for our facility while continuing to serve our community." Fourteen businesses are now operating out of Millstone Kitchen. Millstone Kitchen is a shared-use commercial kitchen in Blacksburg operated by the nonprofit, Live Work Eat Grow, which has as its mission the cultivation of vibrant communities by fostering local food, farms, and gardens, creating jobs, and growing small businesses.

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Wallet Hub: Virginia unemployment claims are 15.51% Lower Than Pre-COVID Levels

Virginia is having a successful recovery from new unemployment claims with last week's claims lower than in the same week in 2019, according to the updated rankings of the personal finance website WalletHub released Thursday.

In the rankings of the 50 states and the District of Columbia of states that have recovered the most since last week, Virginia ranked ninth. The commonwealth ranked 14th in the rankings of the states and the District of Columbia that have recovered the most since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Key stats that led to Virginia's high rankings included 1) the decrease by 15.51% compared to the same week in 2019. This was the 19th biggest decrease in the U.S.; 2) the decrease by 43.26% of Virginia's weekly unemployment claims compared to the start of 2020. This was the 21st smallest decrease in the country; and 3) the decrease by 93.60 percent of Virginia's weekly unemployment claims compared to the same week last year. This was the biggest decrease in the entire country.

According to WalletHub, there are currently 6.3 million Americans unemployed due to the COVID-19 pandemic, but some key stats provide a better look at the current situation.

Last week, there were 202,000 new unemployment claims nationwide, which is a lot fewer than the 6.1 million during the peak of the pandemic (a 97% reduction).

The good news is that every state had unemployment claims last week that were better than the same week last year.

Every state had unemployment claims last week that were lower than before the pandemic except for Wisconsin, Texas, New York, Maine, California, Hawaii, Alaska, Kentucky, Indiana, Oklahoma, Michigan, Utah, Ohio, and D.C.

The states that finished ahead of Virginia in WalletHub's ranking of the states that have recovered the most since last week were

- 1) New Hampshire
- 2) Delaware
- 3) Maryland
- 4) West Virginia
- 5) Vermont
- 6) Rhode Island
- 7) South Dakota
- 8) Georgia.

The states that finished ahead of Virginia in WalletHub's rankings of the states that have recovered the most since the start of the pandemic were 1) New Hampshire 2) Pennsylvania 3) Maryland 4) Vermont 5) Arkansas 6) Delaware 7) Washington 8) Iowa 9) Georgia 10) Oregon 11) West Virginia 12) Nebraska and 13) Arizona.

Virginia gas prices fell last week

Average gasoline prices in Virginia fell 6.8 cents per gallon last week, averaging $4.06/g Monday, according to GasBuddy's survey of 4,081 stations in Virginia. Prices in Virginia are 26.7 cents per gallon higher than a month ago and stand

$1.33/g higher than a year ago.

According to GasBuddy price reports, the cheapest station in Virginia was priced at $3.53/g Monday while the most expensive was $5.49/g, a difference of $1.96/g.

The national average price of gasoline fell 5.4 cents per gallon in the last week, averaging $4.17/g Monday. The national average is up 25.5 cents per gallon from a month ago and stands $1.31/g higher than a year ago, according to GasBuddy data compiled from more than 11 million weekly price reports covering over 150,000 gas stations across the country.

"Oil prices fell last week as COVID cases in China surged, prompting restrictions on movements and hurting oil demand," said Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy.

"Meanwhile, President Biden's announcement that the U.S. would be releasing 180 million barrels from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve caused an even further decline in oil, leading gas prices in nearly all areas of the country to fall over the last week," said De Haan. "So long as oil prices remain under $100 per barrel and there's no escalations in Russia's war on Ukraine, we may be poised to see gas prices decline again this week as the U.S. and other countries try to raise oil supply to tip prices lower."

GasBuddy is the authoritative voice for gas prices and the only source for station-level data spanning nearly two decades. GasBuddy's survey updates 288 times every day from the most diverse list of sources covering nearly 150,000 stations nationwide, the most comprehensive and up-to-date in the country. GasBuddy data are accessible at <http://prices.GasBuddy.com>.

LewisGale Medical Center Names New Chief Nursing Officer

LewisGale Medical Center has hired Amy Woods as chief nursing officer for the 506-bed acute-care medical and surgical facility.

Woods began her career as an operating room staff nurse at LewisGale Hospital Montgomery and progressed forward in leadership roles including director of surgical services and assistant chief nursing officer before being hired Tuesday as LewisGale's chief nursing officer.

"We are excited to welcome Amy back to LewisGale Medical Center," said Lance Jones, LewisGale Regional Health System market president.

"Her success in employee recruitment and retention, increasing patient satisfaction, and positive impact on overall quality results will continue to ensure our community and our patients have the best care available to them whenever they need us,"

Woods is active in the community and currently serves on the New River Valley Task Force and the New River Community College Foundation Board. She also serves on the Galen College of Nursing doctor of nursing practice curriculum development committee and the New River Community College Nursing advisory council.

Originally from Blacksburg, Woods earned her Bachelor of Science in Nursing from Radford University, her Master of Science in Nursing from the Research College of Nursing, and her Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) from Radford University.

Virginia farm exports set all-time record at $4.1+ billion

RICHMOND – If Virginia farmers were playing in a basketball tournament, they'd be a top-seeded team. That's according to Gov. Glenn Youngkin, a basketball fan and self-proclaimed "enthusiastic, fully-energized chief marketing officer" for Virginia agriculture.

"We're here to win, and to take Virginia agriculture to the next level," Youngkin told participants at the 14th Annual Virginia Governor's Conference on Agricultural Trade on March 29. The annual conference is co-sponsored by Virginia Farm Bureau Federation, the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, and the Virginia Tech Department of Agricultural and Applied Economics.

"Last year we exported more than $4.1 billion in agriculture and forestry products, an all-time high for the commonwealth," Youngkin said. "In fact, it was 28% higher than the year before. We are off to an extraordinary start in 2022."

Youngkin noted that Virginia's farm and forestry industries account for $91 billion in overall economic activity for the state, along with 440,000 jobs. That makes farming a slam-dunk for his administration. "This is a sector we must continue to grow," he said.

The governor's message dovetailed with similar positive news about American farm exports. According to U.S. Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Dr. Jewel Bronaugh, farm exports boomed last year despite shipping delays and other pandemic challenges.

"Worldwide exports of many U.S. products, including soybeans, corn, beef, pork, dairy, distillers' grains and dairy all reached all-time highs," Bronaugh said. "And so we're currently forecasting another record year of exports in 2022, up by more than $10 billion over the previous year."

Bronaugh praised Virginia farmers for their role in helping America remain the most dependable supplier of farm products in the world.

"We saw gains in China, Mexico, Canada, South Korea, the Philippines and Columbia, all setting new records in those markets," Bronaugh said. "And when I think about Virginia's strong agricultural exports, like soybeans, soybean oil, wood products, tobacco, just to name a few. Virginia really supports this effort we're really doing" to boost farm exports.

Looking ahead, Bronaugh noted that U.S. farm exports to Southeast Asia have grown to 10% of all sales over the past decade. And with population expected to boom in Africa in the next few years, she said, farmers and agribusinesses should turn their sights to those markets.

In pre-recorded remarks to the conference, Virginia

Farm Bureau Federation President Wayne F. Pryor noted that the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative's 2022 annual report to Congress put an emphasis on expanding ag exports. "The Trade Policy Agenda also acknowledges the profound importance of maintaining a U.S.-China trade relationship," Pryor said. "And it recognizes that our respective countries can flourish as both trade partners and competitors. It also asserts that any competition must be fair."

"For Virginia ag trade to remain viable and profitable, we need a global system that enforces environmental standards and ensures that regulations are predictable and science-based," Pryor said.

Taking pulse: Researcher addresses knowledge gaps in shark and ray research

Sharks and rays are one of the most ancient vertebrate groups, as well as one of the most endangered.

Researchers still know very little about many shark and ray species and the environments in which they live, particularly rare species and those that dwell in remote areas, where resources and capacity for conducting study and monitoring are scarce.

To address these knowledge gaps, Francesco Ferretti, an assistant professor in the Department of Fish and Wildlife Conservation in Virginia Tech's College of Natural Resources and Environment, polled an international team of scientists and practitioners to take a pulse of the greatest issues that are present in shark research, marine conservation, and fisheries science.

"In science, it is very important to know things. But it is even more important to understand what you don't know. If you are able to do that, then you can focus your efforts more effectively in that direction," said Ferretti, who is an affiliate of the Center for Coastal Studies and the Global Change Center, both of which are housed in the Fralin Life Sciences Institute. "In our review, we found that key opportunities for addressing these threats and conserving these crucially important animals come from technological advances, international coordination of research and action, and multi-stakeholder collaboration."

Their review was published in Endangered Species Research.

Ferretti and his colleagues selected 20 of the most pressing topics in research and conservation of shark and ray populations. The issues ranged from their ecology to the threats they face and management and conservation actions that need to be taken.

A total of 47 experts from 35 institutions and 13 countries came together to offer their current understandings, knowledge gaps, and what is, in their opinion, the way forward.

"Sharks and rays are an amazing group of animals that occupy all oceanic and coastal ecosystems of our planet," said Fiorenza Micheli, co-director of Stanford Center for Ocean Solutions and co-author of the study. "This extraordinary diversity and key ecological functions and services are at risk from many pressures — overexploitation, pollution, habitat loss, and climate change."

The importance of sharks and rays in coastal marine ecosystems cannot be overstated. These animals are the top predators in the food chain, and they are able to influence the abundance of prey populations, shape the structure and function of marine communities and food webs, and bridge distant ecosystems together.

Unfortunately, these animals are particularly vulnerable to exploitation because of two reasons: their patterns of survival — such as late maturation and low offspring numbers — and widespread exposure to human-caused pressures.

"We have learned a great deal about some of the larger and more charismatic shark species and in many parts of the world have established effective ongoing monitoring programs," said Salvador Jorgensen, a marine ecologist and researcher at the University of California, Santa Cruz, and a lead author on the study. "While we build on those successes, it is imperative that we also shift our focus to lesser-known but equally important shark and ray species, transferring lessons learned to remote habitats and rare species that have escaped scientific study but not the increasing pressures of human impact."

To help solve this issue of data scarcity, Ferretti's lab is leveraging our fascination with sharks and infatuation with social media.

Ferretti's lab is using a new and intriguing piece of technology called sharkPulse to help solve the scarcity of shark data. This is a crowdsourcing platform supported by seed funding from the Global Change Center able to transform all images or media found on social networks of shark occurrences into data that can be used for analysis.

The lab is tapping into social media platforms such as Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and Flickr. Additionally, sharkPulse allows citizen scientists to share their own images from their mobile phones and validate the streams of data that are coming from the social media platforms.

With permission of citizen scientists and access to their geolocation information and timestamps, researchers will be able to conduct habitat modeling analysis, perform trend and distribution analyses, and plan more targeted field investigations.

"By understanding more sharks, we can also mitigate the risk of interacting with these sharks because we know seasons where they are active and the seasons when they are absent," said Ferretti. "You don't go in the northern part of California and surf in November, because that's a hot spot for white sharks. If you want to reduce your risk, go down to Southern California, where there are younger sharks and smaller sharks with lower risk for them to interact in an injurious way."

Launch event to highlight VT center's outreach to refugees, migrants, and other displaced people

On April 8, the Center for Refugee, Migrant, and Displacement Studies at Virginia Tech will hold an official launch celebration from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. on VT's Upper Quad. The previously planned event was delayed by the pandemic.

"This event is an opportunity to highlight the important work students, faculty members, and community members are already doing to address issues of mobility, relocation, and displacement," said Katrina Powell, director of the center and a professor in the Department of English.

To complement the official launch, the center has kicked off a crowdfunding campaign that will continue until April 24. Proceeds will fund experiential-learning opportunities for students working with refugees and migrants.

The April 8 celebration will include music by Virginia Tech's Itraab Arabic Music Ensemble and a poetry reading by Somali-British poet Warsan Shire. The first 100 attendees will receive a copy of Shire's latest poetry collection, "Bless the Daughter Raised by a Voice in Her Head." The co-founders of Elimisha Kakuma will be in attendance, as will the founder of Kanere News, Qaabata Boru, among other special guests. A reception will follow the event.

Since its founding in late 2020, the center has strived to provide community resources for displaced families and individuals arriving in the region. The center also works to better understand displacement on global and local scales through humanistic and interdisciplinary research.

The center provides several opportunities for student involvement. Its "In Place" podcast, for example, shines a light on displaced people in Virginia. Meanwhile, the student-led Coalition for Refugee Resettlement fosters relationships between students and the refugee community, and the college preparatory program Elimisha Kakuma offers tutoring for refugees. The center's digital series, "Roots & Resettlement," provides a multimodal outlet to share writing, art, and compositions about displacement, resettlement, place, and belonging.

Deepa Gajulapalli, a senior majoring in human development and minoring in strategic communication and political science, said the center has changed her perception that refugees are placed only in large cities.

"If you look into the recent Afghan refugee crisis, and where these refugees are going, it's not necessarily cities," she said. "It's usually rural areas, and it's hard to imagine coming from a different country and then going somewhere with little diversity, that doesn't have the same people or culture, and where you don't know the language."

Aside from Powell, the center's other founders include Brett Shadle, chair of the Department of History and the center's associate director of outreach; Rebecca Hester, an assistant professor in the Department of Science, Technology, and Society and the center's associate director of education; Georgeta Pourchot, coordinator of the Virginia Tech International Refugee Research Project and the center's associate director of international initiatives; and Katherine Randall, the center's first graduate research assistant who now works with Church World Service.

Powell said the center, which is interdisciplinary in nature, brings together years of faculty research, including that of the International Refugee Research Project, which Pourchot launched in 2016. Pourchot is now associate director of Virginia Tech's Center for European Union, Transatlantic, and Trans-European Space Studies.

Powell said the 2017 federal travel ban that barred certain refugees and family members from entering the U.S. — and the community-welcoming events the university held in its aftermath — solidified the founders' decision to create a center benefiting students, faculty, and the community. The center regularly collaborates with the Blacksburg Refugee Partnership, as well as the Virginia Consortium for Refugee, Migrant, and Displacement Studies, which it now administers.

Concert

they arrived on campus that the concert had become an impromptu benefit. Several Radford faculty members were on the last leg of a recruitment tour through North Carolina and Virginia with other faculty members when the war broke out.

Trent said he was honored to be a part of the benefit and pleased that he could contribute.

"The feeling was powerful," Trent said, noting the moment he walked on stage to perform a solo guitar piece.

"I felt an emotional swell that I am sure impacted my performance in a positive way."

Professor Dayl Burnett, D.M.A., also performed that night. His first piece, "Reflective Mood," by Sammy Nestico, paired him on trombone with Professor Wayne Gallops, Ph.D., on piano.

The selection was chosen well before the concert, but while rummaging through a bag of blue and yellow ribbons for his lapel, he considered the title's significance. Burnett thought he might invite the audience to reflect on the hardships Ukrainians were enduring and the good fortune of living in the United States.

But he didn't. He couldn't.

"I thought I should say something," Burnett said, "but it was too emotional. I would have gotten choked up and would never have made it through the piece. I thought I should just let the music heal whatever wounds people were feeling."

Assistant Professor Matthew Cataldi, D.M., also performed with the Radford group.

"It's still relatively 'new' to be out playing music for people again," he said, "so there's a heightened sense of appreciation from audiences who are just grateful to not be stuck behind a screen anymore."

However, the Ukraine situation made that feeling even more precious for everyone involved, from the performers to the audience.

"You can sense it just walking into a place where they genuinely care about music," Cataldi said, noting the audience's gratitude for the moment.

Volunteer tutors needed to help adults increase English language skills

Literacy Volunteers of the New River Valley (LVNRV) will hold a tutor information session on Tuesday, April 12 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Christiansburg.

The session is for adult volunteers interested in helping local adults improve literacy and language skills for increased independence and better employment. Approximately 24,000 local adults struggle with reading in English.

Tutoring, which is one-to-one or small group, takes place at New River Valley-wide public locations, or remotely, at times that are convenient to both the tutor and the adult learner. Volunteer tutors are asked to make a minimum of a one-year commitment and meet with their students 1 to 3 hours per week.

Volunteers receive training and support, and no previous teaching experience is required. Volunteers who speak Spanish are especially being sought.

LVNRV, a United Way

partner agency, provides free tutoring in reading, writing, math, English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL), basic computer skills, and assistance preparing for exams, such as the GED and US Citizenship test, to help adults in the New River Valley achieve their literacy-related goals.

To register or for more information, please visit www.lvnrv.org, call (540) 392-7262, or email info@lvnrv.org.

will be in place throughout the duration of this project. Signs will be posted to designate the detour route. Northbound 13th Street will remain open to traffic. Flaggers may be possible and the speed limit through the work zone is 25 mph. The project is expected to be completed in summer 2023.

ROANOKE COUNTY
ROUTE 628 CULVERT REPLACEMENT – Beginning April 11, 2022, Route 628 (Greenridge Road) will undergo a culvert replacement located .25 miles east of the road's entrance from Route 780 (Cove Road). Single lane closures will be in place at both work sites and will be maintained utilizing temporary traffic signals. Lane closures on Route 628 are expected to begin on May 5 and be in place through July 31. Expected completion is October 2022.

PENN FOREST BOULEVARD CLOSURE – A short section of Route 687 (Penn Forest Boulevard) in Roanoke County is closed on weekdays to through traffic due to road work to remove trees and improve drainage. Penn Forest Boulevard will be closed between Route 800 (Chaparral Drive) and Route 795 (Bernard Drive) from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Drivers will need to use alternate routes such as Chaparral Drive or Route 904 (Starkey Road) around the closure. Motorists can still access the businesses along Penn Forest Boulevard by entering from Chaparral Drive, Starkey Road and Bernard Drive. Message boards are currently in place to alert drivers to the upcoming closure. Expected completion at the end of April 2022.

ROUTE 760 (DIUGUIDS LANE) BRIDGE REPLACEMENT & DETOUR – A project to replace the Route 760 (Diuguids Lane) bridge over the Roanoke River has been rescheduled. The 45-day detour is now expected to go in place in late July. The road closure and detour are being rescheduled due to a delay with fabricating the pre-stressed concrete beams needed to construct the new bridge. The bridge is located at the Salem city limits near Route 760's intersection with Route 639 (West Riverside Drive). Typical work hours are expected to be Monday through Saturday during daytime hours with occasional work on Sunday. Signs will be posted two weeks in advance of the road closure. Drivers will use Mill Lane or West Riverside Drive to detour and return to Diuguids Lane. Flagging operations may be in place periodically and occasional night work is possible. Drivers can expect short-term lane closures with flaggers controlling traffic on West Riverside Drive periodically. Access to Green Hill Park, private entrances and businesses will be maintained at all times. Completion is expected summer 2022.

ROUTE 220 SLOPE REPAIRS IN ROANOKE COUNTY NEAR CROSSBOW CIRCLE INTERSECTION – Work to repair a slope along southbound Route 220 just south of its intersection with Route 1290 (Crossbow Circle) in Roanoke County has begun. Heavy rains in recent years have caused debris and soil along this slope to move. Drivers can expect short-term lane closures with flaggers directing traffic on Crossbow Circle when construction equipment is being moved into the site. A shoulder closure along southbound Route 220 will be installed in the months ahead as work progresses. Weather permitting, the project is expected to be completed by the end of April 2022.

ROUTE 11 NORTH (ROUTE 460 EAST) WEST MAIN STREET SIDEWALK PROJECT – Sidewalk installation is complete. Other pedestrian improvements and lighting on Route 11 North (Route 460 East) are still underway. The location begins 0.012 mile east of the intersection with Technology Drive and will extend to the intersection with Route 643 (Garman Ave/Alleghany Drive). Lane closures and flagging operations are possible, Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. with limited closures allowed after 6 p.m. Expected completion is by the end of April 2022.

BLUE RIDGE PARKWAY CLOSURE – The Blue Ridge Parkway will be repairing slope failures. Detour signs to detour traffic around the Bent Mountain section of the Parkway will be in place. Traffic will be rerouted to Route 220 south to Route 419 north to Route 221 south. Traffic traveling north on the Parkway would be reversed. The detour is expected to be in place through spring 2022.

ROUTE 221 ROAD UTILITY WORK – MMI will be installing fiber optic along Route 221 from the Roanoke County line to Clover Hill Road and along Clover Hill Road during daytime hours, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday and 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Saturdays. Motorists should expect shoulder or lane closures for travel in both directions. Intermittent full closures of the highway will be required for periods lasting no longer than 15 minutes.

BEDFORD COUNTY
ROUTE 460 S-CURVE REALIGNMENT – Work has begun to realign 1.4 miles of the eastbound lanes of Route 460 in Bedford County near Montvale, about eight miles west of Bedford and approximately 2.3 miles east of Montvale. Westbound Route 460 is reduced to one lane. Drivers can expect the speed limit in both directions of Route 460 to be reduced to 45 mph in the work zone. In addition, there will be alternating long-term, single lane closures on westbound and eastbound Route 460. Message boards will be posted to alert drivers of upcoming lane closures and traffic pattern changes. Completion is expected in Summer 2022.

TRAFFIC SWITCH: A new traffic pattern is in place on Route 460 near Montvale as crews continue working on the road improvement project. Route 460 eastbound traffic will be shifted into the newly constructed outside eastbound lane to improve safety by permanently eliminating the "S" curves in the area. Route 460 Westbound traffic will continue to be reduced to one lane with a median barrier in place.

In addition, the Route 726 (Wilkerson Mill Road) intersection with eastbound Route 460 will also be closed. Drivers on Wilkerson Mill Road will be detoured to use Route 692 (Quarterwood Road) to access eastbound or westbound Route 460. This change will affect Misty Ridge residents.

ROUTE 808 CLOSURE - A section of Route 808 (Island Creek Road) is closed to install a concrete slab and repair substructure of the bridge over Island Creek. This structure is located 1.20 miles from Route 712 (Angel Place) and 1.20 miles from Route 714 (Falling Creek Road) on Route 808 (Island Creek Road). The road is scheduled to be completed on April 8 at 5 p.m.

ROUTE 749 CLOSURE - Effective April 12, 2022 at 8 a.m., a section of Route 749 (Meador Spur Road) will be closed to install a concrete slab. This structure is located 1.90 miles north of Route 655 (Diamond Hill Road) and 1.50 miles south of Route 608 (Altice Road). The road is scheduled to be completed on April 14 at 4 p.m.

ROUTE 655 INTERSECTION AND SAFETY IMPROVEMENTS – Construction is underway to improve the intersection and shoulders began on Route 655 and various locations from 0.91 mile north of the Route 653 and 655 (Goodview Road and Route 616 (Horseshoe Bend Road) to 0.038 mile north of the Route 655 (Good View Road) and Route 616 (Horseshoe Bend Road). Flagging operations at the intersection of Goodview Road and Horseshoe Bend will be in place during the week and work hours of 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. The expected completion date is September 2022.

ROUTE 715 BRIDGE REPLACEMENT – A bridge replacement project over Norfolk Southern Railroad has closed Route 715 (Lowry Road). The bridge is located 0.085 mile south of Norfolk Southern Railroad to 0.048 mile north of Norfolk Southern Railroad on Route 715. Message boards will alert drivers. This replacement will change the current single lane steel and wooden bridge to a two-lane concrete bridge. A detour is in place. Travelers will use Route 671 (Timber Ridge Road) to Route 221 (Forrest Road). The detour will remain in place until project completion which is scheduled for Fall 2022.

ROUTE 122 UTILITY WORK - MMI will be installing fiber optic along 122 from the Franklin County line to the Town of Bedford line and Route 460 eastbound from the Town of Bedford to Alum Springs Road. This work will be ongoing. Motorists should expect shoulder or lane closures for travel in both directions. Intermittent slow rolls will be required for periods lasting no longer than 15 minutes.

ROUTE 619 CULVERT REPLACEMENT – On or about April 18, crews will replace a culvert on Route 619 with a road closure in place operated by temporary signals through August 26, not to exceed 90 days. A flagging operation will be used as needed on Route 619 from Route 1460 to Route 839 during the hours of 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Expected completion is September 2022.

ROUTE 622 BRIDGE REPLACEMENT – Work to replace the bridge over the Norfolk Southern Railway on Route 622 (Everett Road) is underway. The bridge is closed. The closure is located 0.48 mile north of Route 1329 (West Crossing Drive) and 1.06 miles south of Route 646 (Gladden Circle). Since work is over the railway, strict requirements require work be stopped for passage of trains during work hours for safety purposes. A signed detour will be in place. Drivers traveling from the south end of the bridge will use Route 811 (Thomas Jefferson Road) to Route 221 South (Forest Road) to Route 646 (Gladden Circle) to Route 622 (Everett Road) Drivers traveling north will use Route 646 (Gladden Circle) to Route 221 North (Forest Road) to Route 811 (Thomas Jefferson Road) back to Route 622 (Everett Road). The road is scheduled to be closed until May 2022.

Nothing but net: Looking back at Hokies' season

What transpired over the course of the 2021-22 Virginia Tech men's basketball season was nothing short of remarkable. It's the kind of stuff people watch ESPN documentaries on. Consider this, a team in the ACC cellar as of Jan. 26, mounted a run for the ages that culminated with maroon and orange confetti falling amid a bunch of jubilant Hokies who capped off one of the most historic finishes to a season in ACC history by winning the ACC championship.

As Hokie head coach Mike Young stood atop a ladder inside the Barclays Center emphatically swinging the net around and around, he had once again returned to the pinnacle of his conference. This time, it wasn't in the Southern Conference, which he won five times. No, this title was accomplished in the Atlantic Coast Conference by winning four games in four days that included taking down the top three seeds on consecutive days. The last win came against the all-time winningest coach in the sport's history.

We know the final destination, but let's look back and appreciate the journey that got the Hokies to Brooklyn and becoming 'forever champions.'

Tech opened the 2021-22 season against the Maine Black Bears, and for the first time since the COVID-19 pandemic began, Cassell Coliseum was rocking with over 6,000 fans in attendance. Justyn Mutts and David N'Guessan combined for 30 points as the Hokies shot 53% en route to an 82-47 blowout win.

The very next day, Tech was on a bus bound for Annapolis where the team faced Navy on Nov. 12 as part of the Veterans Classic. On Nov. 11, the Hokies took part in a tour of the Naval Academy, followed by practice and a team dinner on base.

Tech moved to 2-0 on the season by picking up a key road win at Navy, which was coming off a season-opening upset over Virginia. Playing in his home state, Keve Aluma dropped in 20 points while Hunter Cattoor chipped in 19 to pace the Hokies to a 77-57 victory.

Facing a quick turnaround, Tech next geared up for its New River Showdown with Radford, which was led by Mike Young's former assistant at Wofford, Darris Nichols. The Hokies held the Highlanders to 39 points, the fewest they allowed all season, on their way to a 65-39 decision. Mutts provided the highlight of the non-conference slate by throwing down a lob from Storm Murphy that landed as No. 1 on SportsCenter's Top-10 plays.

The win was the start to a 3-0 week for Tech, which earned the program's 1,500th win against Merrimack on Nov. 21.

Following an 0-2 trip to Brooklyn for the NIT Season Tip-Off where the Hokies dropped matchups to then-No. 9 Memphis and then-No. 25 Xavier, the Hokies bounced back in a big way with a 62-58 win at Maryland as part of the Big Ten/ACC Challenge.

Tech finished with an 8-3 non-conference record, culminating with a resounding 86-49 win over preseason Atlantic-10 Conference favorite St. Bonaventure in the Basketball Hall of Fame Shootout in Charlotte. Cattoor erupted for 21 points — a career high at the time — on 5 for 5 shooting from beyond the arc. He earned MVP honors following the game.

Tech then faced an uphill climb, dropping its first four games of the ACC slate for the first time since the 2014-15 season. The Hokies had to postpone their games against North Carolina and Pitt for health and safety reasons.

At 8-7 overall, 0-4 in the ACC, Tech got back on track against Notre Dame. A strong second half ignited by Nahiem Alleyne (22 points) and Justyn Mutts (24 points) spurred the Hokies to a 79-73 win over the Fighting Irish.

After a 62-59 road win over NC State, though, Tech suffered three consecutive setbacks to drop to 10-10 overall and 2-7 in the conference.

The turnaround started on Jan. 29 at Florida State where Hunter Cattoor and Sean Pedulla put on a clinic en route to a resounding 85-72 victory over the Seminoles.

An Orlando, Fla., native, Cattoor lit up the scoreboard from beyond the arc, tying the single-game program record for 3-pointers made with nine. His 9-for-11 performance from downtown fueled the junior to 27 points and the Hokies to their first win in Tallahassee since Feb. 24, 1990. Complementing Cattoor's effort was freshman Sean Pedulla, who dialed up a season-high 20 points on 6-of-7 shooting from 3.

That win launched a six-game win streak for the Hokies highlighted by wins over Syracuse and Virginia at home. Against the Orange, Justyn Mutts recorded the second triple-double in Virginia Tech history by charting 12 points, 14 rebounds and 11 assists. Keve Aluma added 20 points to lift Tech to the 71-59 win.

Headed into Big Monday with UVA, the Hokies were 15-10, 7-7 in the ACC. On the other hand, Virginia entered with a 16-9 overall record, including a 10-5 ledger in league play. The Hokies held off Virginia, 62-53, to secure their sixth straight win and a half-point in the Commonwealth Clash, presented by Smithfield.

That win streak was snapped by North Carolina on Feb. 19, but the Hokies rallied with three more wins punctuated with a 3-point dagger by Darius Maddox with 12 seconds remaining to propel Tech past Miami (Fla.), 71-70, in Coral Gables.

The Hokies then entered as the No. 7 seed for the ACC Tournament. Despite limping into the tournament following a 63-59 setback at Clemson in the regular-season finale, Tech got the opportunity to atone for that loss in the second round of the ACC tourney against the 10th-seeded Tigers.

The Hokies led by 14 points early in the second half before the bottom fell out and nothing seemed to be going Tech's way. Trailing 75-73 and having to go the length of the court with six seconds left, Darius Maddox received the inbound pass, drove up court, made his way to the left wing and drilled the game-winning shot as the horn sounded. Tech 76, Clemson 75.

Tech then matched up with No.-2 seed Notre Dame in the quarterfinals. The Hokies had five players score in double figures, led by Keve Aluma's 20 points, to down the Fighting Irish, 87-80.

Making its first semifinal appearance since 2011, Tech had to go up against third-seeded UNC, which went 2-0 vs. the Hokies during the regular season. Maddox led all scorers in the semifinals, dropping in a career-high 20 points to punch Tech's ticket into the ACC championship game for the first time in program history against Duke.

Cattoor saved his best performance of the season for last, ringing the bell for a career-high 31 points on 7-of-9 shooting from long range on his way to MVP honors in the ACC title tilt.

Tech led for over 30 minutes of the game. When the final horn had sounded, the maroon and orange confetti had fallen, and "Enter Sandman" had resonated throughout Barclays Center, the words coach Mike Young had uttered in late January were validated: "This thing's going to turn. And when it does, it's going to be something beautiful." Final score: Virginia Tech 82, Duke 67. Beautiful, indeed.

Tragedy strikes close to home

From the Sidelines
Marty Gordon

A motor accident with pedestrian injuries caught our attention this past week without many people knowing the connection.

A car in Williamsburg struck a group of Milligan University cross-country runners as they ran along a roadway, killing one and injuring several others.

20-year-old Eli Cramer was killed in the crash. The others were treated for injuries at a nearby medical facility.

Cramer was a sophomore business administration major from Murfreesboro who set two of the school's all-time best times in the cross-country eight-kilometer and the indoor 5,000 meters.

He was part of three Appalachian Athletic Conference championship teams and was a two-time national qualifier in outdoor and indoor track in 2021 and 2022. Cramer was also part of the NAAIA team national championships.

Injured in the incident were Eric Spaulding of Christiansburg, a member of the men's team at the Tennessee school, and Katlyn Dominy of Auburn High School, a member of the girls' team. Milligan identified the two other runners struck by the car as seniors Alex Mortimer and Eli Baldy.

In a press conference Friday, Milligan officials said Baldy was treated for leg and foot injuries and released from the hospital on Thursday. Mortimer, meanwhile, suffered life-threatening injuries and underwent surgery. He has injuries to his shoulder and hips and a broken fibula. He also has bruised lungs and a concussion.

Milligan officials said Mortimer is stable and is expected to make a full recovery.

According to the Virginia State Police, 26-year-old Jose Efrain Hernandez Mancía of Williamsburg was charged in the incident.

He was charged with driving under the influence, DUI-involuntary manslaughter, felony hit-and-run, reckless driving, DUI-maiming and DUI refusal to submit a breath or blood sample.

Our hearts and minds go out to the Milligan family and two of our own local athletes.
