The Graduate Art Student Association of Radford University will host a silent art auction to raise funds for the Mill Mountain Zoo's conservation efforts. The auction will be held at the zoo on Saturday, April 30, 2022, 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The auction is open to the public.

The auctioned artwork consists of original paintings and ceramics inspired by the Mill Mountain Zoo animals and attractions like the Red Wolf, turtles, and the Zoo Choo Train.

"Our graduate students are working professionals who want to donate their talents to the community in the form of art," said Alexandra Leonetti, the president of Radford University's Graduate Art

Student Association. "It's important to us that we support a local non-profit organization like the Mill Mountain Zoo that promotes wildlife preservation through education and conservation."

Radford University recognized for exemplary transfer pathways

RADFORD - Radford University is among 171 colleges and universities to be named to the Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society (PTK) 2022 Honor Roll in recognition of the dynamic pathways the university has created to support transfer students.

The Transfer Honor Roll is determined by 40 key metrics related to the support and success of transfer students, including college cost and financial aid, campus life for transfer, admission practices, and bachelor's degree completion. The Transfer Honor Roll was based on analysis from the National Student Clearinghouse and on data submitted through the four-year institution's profile on PTK Connect, Phi Theta Kappa's online tool designed to help students find their best-fit colleges and career pathways.

Colleges completing the PTK Connect profile are given a Transfer Friendliness Rating. The honor roll is chosen from among the top 25 percent highest-rated colleges.

Spotlighted at the 2022 American Council on Education (ACE) conference, the Transfer Honor Roll recognizes the importance of creating strong transfer pathways that lead to excellence and success among community college transfer students, and this year's winners had exceptional outcomes, and several of these included:

Average percent of transfer in undergraduate population - 60%

Average bachelor's degree completion rate among transfers - 77%

Average credit transferred toward a degree major and/or plan - 91%

Average percent of transfer students receiving merit-based financial aid - 84%

"This award is so important because it is based on what students tell us they need from their transfer experience," said Dr. Lynn Tincher-Ladner, President and CEO of Phi Theta Kappa. "We are honored to recognize the colleges and universities working exceptionally hard to create stronger pathways to bachelor's degree completion for all students."

Christiansburg native Leah Piemonte releases first album

Christiansburg native Leah Piemonte is a former high school and Virginia Tech diver who is now jumping into the deep waters of the music world with the release of her first CD, "Thank-You Notes," which hit the web this week.

Piemonte spent almost eight years in the pool, but music always drew her attention. She started singing every Sunday in her church at a young age. Her parents were both musical, and they encouraged her to sing and play instruments.

"They loved to make music with me. I started taking voice and piano seriously at the age of 12," Piemonte said. Writing her songs came a short time later while she was in middle school.

But it wasn't until college that she started recording her own songs. She released her first single "Cigarette," a short time later and she called the feeling "euphoric."

"I told a friend almost immediately that I wanted to make an album and he said let's do it," she said.

Piemonte now lives in Richmond and describes her music as a combination of pop, indie, and acoustic.

"I think this album reflects elements from all three, and that's one of my favorite things about it," she said. "Each song on the album definitely has a special meaning. I write based on real experiences and real people who have come in and out of my life. The process of molding each song to sound the way they do was extremely healing for me because it felt as if I could finally walk away from those people and situations. It brought a sense of closure," she said.

Her goals for this album are for it to continue to gain listeners via word-of-mouth and promotion. Her biggest goal for the album is to perform it.

"I am seeking out opportunities to perform my music wherever I can, and I really hope to be able to do that soon," she said.

Those long-term goals consist of continuing to create and release music consistently and to perform anywhere she can. She hopes one day to go on a small tour, maybe along the East Coast.

She also did most of the artwork for this first album herself. She had never done digital art before, so she had to teach herself the language of photoshop and various programs.

"I knew nothing about it, which was challenging and exciting," she said. "I view each song on 'Thank You Notes' (the title track name) as a letter written to specific people in my life."

Piemonte calls the album cover essentially a self-portrait in which she is writing each letter and creating a pile (which is the album itself).

"I also created three separate pieces for the three singles I released when the album came out," she said.

Those singles are "Never Had It," "Sleeping

Alone," and "Throw Me to the Wolves." For each of those, she chose something that reminds her of each situation, according to Piemonte, honing in on the style of a person or a key object from the scene of a specific experience.

So far, the response to this new album, she said, has been incredible and pretty surreal. "People from all over the world are listening and have reached out to me via social media, which has been so cool," she said.

Piemonte's music can be found on Spotify, Apple Music, iTunes, Youtube and all social media platforms.

Virginia's gas prices continue to fall

Average gasoline prices in Virginia fell eight cents per gallon last week, averaging $3.98/g Monday, April 11, according to GasBuddy's survey of 4,081 stations in Virginia. Prices in Virginia are 27.9 cents per gallon lower than a month ago but stand $1.26/g higher than a year ago. According to GasBuddy price reports, the cheapest station in Virginia was priced at $3.44/g Monday while the most expensive was $5.49/g. The national average price of gasoline fell 7.5 cents per gallon last week, averaging $4.10/g Monday. The national average is down 23.3 cents per gallon from a month ago but stands $1.25/g higher than a year ago, according to GasBuddy data compiled from more than 11 million weekly price reports covering over 150,000 gas stations across the country.

"Gas prices have continued to move in the right direction – down – saving Americans approximately $100 million every day compared to when prices peaked about a month ago," said Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy. "And, more good news is on the horizon: the national average this week will likely fall back under the critical $4 per gallon mark," De Haan said. "It remains possible that gas prices may have hit their 2022 peak, barring the typical caveats like the Russia war on Ukraine, the economy, hurricane season and COVID don't take drastic and unexpected turns. Diesel prices are also falling and are likely to go back under the $5 per gallon average this week. The situation for now continues to show signs of improving with the national average falling back into the $3 range as early as this week."

Financial Focus: Avoid tax-filing errors

It's tax season once again. You've got until April 18 to file your taxes for the 2021 tax year, but if you think you'll get a refund, you'll probably want to get going as soon as possible. However, it's important not to rush so much that you make errors, which, at the least, could delay your refund. So, take the time you need to prepare your taxes – and be sure to avoid these common filing mistakes: Failing to include all W-2 forms – You need to include official copies of all your W-2 forms from your employer (or employers). The wages and withholdings listed on these forms must be combined and reported on your tax return. Forgetting necessary paperwork – Make sure you have all the documents you need before filing, such as forms from investment companies, including Form 1099-INT for interest income and Form 1099-DIV for dividend income. Entering an incorrect Social Security number – An incorrect Social Security number can cause the IRS to reject your return. So, double-check your SSN, and that of your spouse, if filing jointly, before submitting your return. Using the wrong column from Tax Tables – If you do your own taxes, you will probably have to refer to the 1040 Tax Tables page to make the correct calculations. But if you look at the wrong column, you could miscalculate – a mistake that's not uncommon, according to the IRS.

Making math errors – If you file a paper tax return, be sure to check your math to make sure the figures add up. Of course, if you use a software program, or work with a tax professional, you won't have to do the math on your own, but you should still double check it. It's always important to review your return. Entering the wrong routing or account number – If you want your tax refund to be deposited directly into your bank account, which is the fastest way to receive it, you need to provide the correct routing and account numbers. A simple mistake can result in the IRS sending you a paper check or, even worse, someone else receiving your refund.

Failure to sign and date your return – Signing your return is an easy task – but it's also easy to overlook. If you file your taxes electronically, as most people do, you may be able to use a Self-Select PIN as your digital signature. If you're filing a joint return, you and your spouse must use your respective PINs. Missing the filing deadline – If you don't think you can finish your taxes on time, file for an extension before the April 18 deadline. You'll still need to pay the taxes you owe (though you may have to estimate the amount) by April 18, and if you owe more, you'll likely accrue interest, but you can avoid failure-to-file penalties, which can be hefty. Keep in mind that, when you submit your return electronically, the e-file system can detect typical errors, allowing you to correct them immediately, according to the IRS. And, of course, working with a tax professional can greatly reduce the likelihood of mistakes. But even if you're entrusting your tax returns to someone else, you still should be quite familiar with all your documentation – and everything else that goes into your taxes, too, because how you manage your taxes will always be part of your overall financial strategy.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Work Zone Awareness Week

To the Editor: Each spring, the Virginia Department of Transportation (VDOT) and other state DOTs recognize Work Zone Awareness Week to remind drivers of the importance of avoiding distractions and driving safely through work zones. This year VDOT promotes the theme of "Work Zones are a Sign to Slow Down" for National Work Zone Awareness Week through April 15. This week is a reminder that work zone safety is a community effort and everyone's responsibility. VDOT's employees and contractors put their lives on the line in work zones every day while working to improve travel for motorists in Virginia. This is true in mobile operations like mowing, paving, and plowing snow as well as in the established work zones for long-term construction projects like the widening of I-81 in the Roanoke Valley, the construction of the New River Bridge at exit 105 in Montgomery County, the realigning of Route 460 near Montvale in Bedford County, and the widening of Route 58 at Lover's Leap Mountain in Patrick County. Although signs, cones, and safety vests can be effective in warning motorists of a work zone, these tools are no protection against a fast-moving vehicle or an inattentive driver. Did you know? • The statistics between 2020 and 2021 increased at an alarming rate. With a 41% increase in crashes in 2021, fatalities within a work zone increased by 155% and injuries increased by 20%. • Every time drivers take their focus off the road — even for a moment — they put their lives and the lives of others in danger. Distracted driving crashes within a work zone increased by 27% last year. • In addition to the dangers posed to highway workers, motorists are also at risk. Many work zone deaths are motorists, not workers. All motorists — whether a seasoned driver or someone new behind the wheel — should follow these instructions when driving through a work zone: • Work zones are a sign to slow down. • If drivers see the orange work zone warning signs, they should be alert for changing conditions ahead.

• Drivers should eliminate distractions and stay aware of their surroundings at all times. • Drivers should follow Virginia's phone-down-and-move-over laws. In addition, to show support for National Work Zone Awareness Week, VDOT encourages Virginia's drivers to participate in these activities during the week: • Wednesday, April 13 is national "Go Orange Day." Everyone is encouraged to wear orange in support of work zone safety across the country. Share pictures with VDOT on Twitter and Facebook! #GoOrangeVa • Follow VDOT and share VDOT's Salem District group page on Facebook at www.facebook.com/groups/VDOTSalem and ReTweet with VDOT @VaDOTSalem. Be a part of the community committed to keeping our roads and work zones safe for everyone. Let's work together to all arrive at home safely each and every day. Ken King, PE, District Engineer, Salem District

U.S. Geological Survey and Virginia Tech partner on national water-loss program

U.S. Geological Survey and Virginia Tech Virginia Tech researchers and the U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) are collaborating on a national water-loss program to reduce wasted resources during the extraction, treatment, and distribution of drinking water.

The USGS Water Resources Mission Area will create new models to estimate national public supply water use based on historical water-use data, as well as data from PIPEiD, a national database of water conveyance infrastructure characteristics created by Sunil Sinha and his research team at Virginia Tech.

The USGS will then use these data models to develop a series of pilot systems with the greatest data support for creating a public supply water loss data-driven model using machine learning and artificial intelligence. The data reported through these pilot systems will be evaluated for quality, standardized into consistent formats, and complemented with other system-level data to support comprehensive and state-of-the-art modeling for public supply water use.

Just as PIPEiD provides data for the U.S., predictors of water losses established by the pilot studies will be available nationally. “We aim to improve national estimates of public supply water use that is supported by water delivery infrastructure data,” said Sinha.

Sinha, a professor of civil and environmental engineering, hopes the program will give water utilities guidance on how to improve efficiencies in supply and revenue recovery. This would help utilities better serve their customers, improve their financial standing, and be better positioned to make vital upgrades to the vast and aging water infrastructure in community water supply systems.

“Safe drinking water plays a crucial role by promoting good health, food production, manufacturing, and support for virtually all aspects of life,” said Sinha. “Drinking water utilities have done an outstanding job of meeting these needs by providing safe water directly to homes, businesses, institutions, and industrial facilities. Yet today’s water utilities encounter numerous challenges in providing safe drinking water for human consumption.”

Historically in North America, abundant water resources have been readily and reliably tapped to supply communities, Sinha said. However, many regions today are experiencing strain on their supplies due to a changing climate and other environmental stress, growing and shifting populations, financial constraints, and evolving regulatory programs.

“For many of today’s water utilities, the amount of water available is likely the greatest volume they will ever have,” said Sinha. “This puts enormous pressure on water managers to ensure they are accountable in their practices and highly efficient in their operations.”

No matter how efficient managers are, all drinking water utilities have water losses. According to Sinha, billions of gallons of water are lost every day from U.S. drinking water systems because of leaks. Although some states require best practices for estimating, locating, and reducing leaks, other less-regulated areas may be unaware of the volume of water loss beneath their streets, said Sinha. Water leaks can have dramatic cost impacts, and paying customers often bear much of the financial burden of a utility’s inefficiencies. partner on national water-loss program

Virginia Tech center shines light on displaced people in Virginia through podcast

Leave it behind. Your bed. Your books. Your toys. Your home.

Take only what you can carry on this harrowing journey.

Across the globe, displacement forces people to make sacrifices like these and more. In Virginia, on land that originally belonged to Native Americans, displacement continues today in various forms.

Virginia Tech students and faculty members in the Center for Refugee, Migrant, and Displacement Studies are illuminating these stories.

The “In Place: Conversations About Displacement in the Commonwealth” podcast examines a different theme related to migration, displacement, and resettlement through interviews with experts on the topics, many of whom have personally experienced displacement.

One episode, for example, includes an interview with a social worker who came to the United States as a refugee from Vietnam and now works with resettled populations in Northern Virginia.

Brett Shadle, chair of the Department of History and the center’s associate director of outreach, brings an international perspective to the study of displacement with his research in Africa. He also coordinates a tutoring program that pairs Virginia Tech students with recently resettled families.

Hester hopes the stories told through the podcast inspire listeners to get involved with organizations such as local nonprofits and civic groups to help those affected by displacement.

“We believe in the power of narrative,” said Hester. “The podcast provides a place for people to share their stories and to control their own narratives, whether those narratives are about displacement or helping others who have been displaced.”

“We want to center the humanity of those who have been displaced,” Hester said. “So often, people who have experienced forced migration are described in dehumanizing ways. Narratives about displacement often foreground the anti-immigrant sentiment of the U.S. population. We aim to humanize both those who have been displaced and those who support them by broadly applying the arts and the humanities. The ‘In Place’ podcast is one tool in our methodological toolkit.”

Those who have experienced displacement or who work in a related field in Virginia can reach out to the “In Place” team to discuss an episode appearance through the podcast’s contact page. The podcast website includes episodes and additional resources for listeners.

Virginia Department of Transportation road watch

The following is a list of forecasted highway projects that may impact traffic traveling in the 12-county Salem Transportation District this week. Work schedules and construction project timelines are always subject to change and are weather dependent. The Salem District covers Bedford, Botetourt, Carroll, Craig, Floyd, Franklin, Giles, Henry, Montgomery, Patrick, Pulaski and Roanoke counties.

EASTER HOLIDAY
To help motorists get to their destinations without hassle, VDOT will suspend most highway work zones and lift most lane closures on interstates and other major roads in Virginia for the Easter holiday from noon Friday, April 15 until noon Tuesday, April 19. While lane closures will be lifted in most locations, motorists may encounter semi-permanent work zones that remain in place during this time. A full listing of those lane closures can be found on VDOT’s website.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY
I-81 NORTHBOUND AT EXIT 105 NEW RIVER BRIDGE REPLACEMENT IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY – Lane and shoulder closures may be in place near exit 105. Lane closure may be in effect during the week from 8 p.m. to 7 a.m. Shoulder closures may be in effect at any time during the week. Slow rolls may be performed on I-81 in the north and southbound lanes from mile marker 104 to 106 from 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. Speed limit is reduced to 60 miles per hour in the work zone. Shoulder closures will remain in place though the duration of the project. Project completion is estimated by summer 2023.

INTERSTATE 81 LANE WIDENING CONSTRUCTION EXIT 137 TO EXIT 141 – A $179 million design-build project to widen both directions of I-81 between mile markers 136.6 and 141.8 from two to three lanes is set to begin. Continuing into the early summer, work will be performed on the inside and outside shoulders along a five mile section of both northbound and southbound Interstate 81 in Roanoke County and the city of Salem. The shoulders will be built up before a barrier wall can be installed for road crews to work behind. A barrier wall will be installed along the shoulders in the spring and summer. Two lanes of I-81 traffic in each direction will remain open during the project with periodic lane closures scheduled during nighttime hours or outside of peak travel times as needed. Drivers can expect the following lane closures and upcoming impacts on northbound and southbound I-81:

From mid-March until mid-June, nighttime right lane and shoulder closures between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m., Sunday through Thursday.

shoulder closures during nighttime hours between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m., Sunday through Thursday.

The project also includes replacing six bridges, widening two bridges, installing approximately 2.6 miles of sound barrier walls along northbound I-81, improving the southbound exit 137 off-ramp intersection at Wildwood Road and adding interchange lighting at exits 137, 140 and 141 are also included in the project. Expected completion in early 2026.

I-81 TROUTVILLE REST AREA CLOSURE – The Troutville Rest Area located on southbound Interstate 81 near mile marker 158 in Botetourt County will be closed from late May 2022 until early September 2022. This project will extend the ramp into the rest area by 500 feet and the ramp out of the rest area by 2,100 feet. It will also include expanding the truck parking area at the facility by about 10-13 spaces. Visitors to the rest area may see some preliminary work, such as drainage improvements, as early as this spring. However, the major construction will begin after Memorial Day, and the rest area facility, ramps and parking lot will be closed to the public from late May until early September. Work is expected to be completed in early fall 2022.

INTERSTATE 81 LANE WIDENING CONSTRUCTION EXIT 141 TO EXIT 143 – A project to widen the lanes on I-81 in Roanoke in both northbound and southbound directions between Exit 141 to Exit 143 has been underway. All lanes now open and will remain open through winter with periodic lane closures at night as needed. The final surface paving and markings for northbound will resume with the next paving season in spring 2022. Drivers can expect rough pavement. Estimated completion date of the project is summer 2022.

I-81 PAVING OPERATIONS – Weather permitting, crews will pave, patch and repair pavement on various routes. Lane closures may be in place during nighttime hours, 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. the following morning. Drivers should watch for signs and expect possible delays.

I-81 BRIDGE DECK REPAIRS – Weather permitting, crews will repair bridge decks on Interstate 81. Between mile markers 138 to 152, right and left lane closures will be in place northbound and southbound during nighttime

ROANOKE CITY 13th STREET SE IMPROVEMENTS WITH DETOUR – A project to improve a portion of 13th Street SE in Roanoke is underway. Located in a residential neighborhood just east of downtown Roanoke, this project will improve traffic flow and connectivity along 13th Street SE from Tazewell Avenue to Norfolk Avenue. The project entails reconstructing about 0.2-mile of 13th Street as an improved, two-lane roadway with 10.5-foot-wide travel lane and a raised median. A new roadway will extend 13th Street to Norfolk Avenue and the intersection at 13th Street and Wise Avenue will be reconfigured to include a roundabout. Bike lanes, sidewalks, crosswalks and curb and gutter will also be added. Southbound 13th Street traffic has a detour in place using Norfolk Avenue onto 12th Street to Tazewell Avenue. This detour will be in place throughout the duration of this project. Signs will be posted to designate the detour route.

Northbound 13th Street will remain open to traffic. Flaggers may be possible and the speed limit through the work zone is 25 mph. The project is expected to be completed in summer 2023.

Christiansburg's Worley named first-team All-American gymnast

Christiansburg gymnast Raena Worley, a junior, has been named a first-team All-American gymnast after qualifying from the University of Kentucky for the NCAA Championship April 14-16 in Fort Worth, Texas. Worley will be competing for the all-around following her most recent win in the second round, first session of the NCAA Auburn Regional. She has won the award seven times throughout her 2022 junior season, winning 13 times overall throughout her college career.

Her highest mark of 39.750, which she scored against Missouri and Michigan State, is the highest individual all-around performance for Kentucky in the regular season since 1996. The top-three all-around performance scores for the Wildcats are held by three-time NCAA Champion, Jenny Hansen (1993-96). Worley's 39.750 is the fourth-best all-around performance tally in program history.

Throughout the season, Worley set numerous career and season records including a 9.925 on vault, 9.950 on bars and a 9.975 on the floor exercise. She tied both her top beam (9.950) and floor score at the regional final.

The Women's Collegiate Gymnastics Association Thursday named Worley a 2022 Regular Season All-American. She earned first-team All-American honors on three different events, including first-team on the All-Around.

In addition to her first-team honors, Worley received two second-team All-American awards. She tied for 11th place on the uneven bars at the NCAA championships, which earned her a second team nod in that event. Worley also received a ninth-place ranking on the Floor Exercise, which secured her a spot on the All-

American second team.

Worley was also voted to the 2022 All-Southeastern Conference First Team.

Roth returning as voice of the Hokies

Marty Gordon
NRVsports@ourvalley.org

A familiar voice is heading back to the radio booth for Virginia Tech football games this fall. Former play-by-play announcer Bill Roth returns after a seven-year absence.

Jon Laaser replaced Roth in 2015 after Roth accepted a similar post at UCLA. He stayed there for a year before returning to Blacksburg to teach Broadcasting classes. Laaser left abruptly during this past year's basketball season, and there had been plenty of rumors Roth might be coming back.

Tim Bickford replaced Laaser during the remainder of the college basketball season.

Roth had been doing nationally-broadcasted high school football games and picked up an ACC-network broadcast here and there.

"What an exciting time to return to the Hokies," Roth pointed out. "We've got so many stories to tell and memories to make for Tech fans of all generations. There's so much positive momentum around Virginia Tech Athletics right now under the leadership of Whit Babcock and his staff. It's just awesome to be a part of it again as we kick-off the Brent Pry era."

Tech Director of Athletics Whit Babcock said having Roth return as the play-by-play voice of Virginia Tech Football should be a seamless fit for someone whose heart has really never left Blacksburg.

"Bill has been responsible for some of the most iconic radio calls in Hokies' history and we all look forward to hearing him describe more memorable moments along with his longtime partner, Mike Burnop. Both Coach Pry and I greatly appreciate Bill's depth of knowledge on all things Hokies, as well as his colorful storytelling skills," Babcock said.

Roth helped found the Virginia Tech's sports media and analytics program and most recently shifted it to Tech's school of communications. He is a 2013 Virginia Sports Hall of Fame inductee and is an 11-time Virginia Sports-caster of the Year. When he left for UCLA, he had spent 27 full seasons in Blacksburg.

Roth will team again with former Hokie player Mike Burnop, who he had 25 past years in the booth together.

"I'm happy to welcome him back to the broadcast booth in Blacksburg as a friend and colleague. From the National Championship Game in New Orleans to Michael Vick and the Miracle in Morgantown, we've shared countless games with Hokie Nation over the years. There was even that time Tyrod 'did it' against Nebraska! I'm looking forward to sharing more Virginia Tech Football victories and great plays with Bill starting again this fall," said Burnop.

In addition to his play-by-play duties for Tech Football, Roth plans to host podcasts for Tech Athletics and will write a regular column for Inside Hokie Sports magazine.

"This is a special place for me," Roth acknowledged. "This stadium. This campus. This community. As a broadcaster and now as an instructor, I've seen how Virginia Tech impacts the lives of its students and student-athletes. It's just a remarkable place with truly caring and genuine people, and I'm just delighted to return to the booth with my dear friend, Mike Burnop. Reunion tours can be fun, and I'm glad we've got the band back together again!"

Roth graduated from Syracuse's prestigious S.I. Newhouse School of Public Communications in 1987. Upon graduation, Roth used his demo reel from the 1987 NCAA men's basketball national championship game between Syracuse and Indiana to help land his initial appointment with Virginia Tech in 1988. He was inducted into the Virginia Sports Hall of Fame in 2013.

Learfield IMG, which handles the sports marketing and broadcast side of things at Tech, will advertise for a new basketball play-by-play guy as Roth will not do basketball games.

Roth will be calling

Saturday's Spring Game on television for ACC Network with former Tech wide receiver Eddie Royal handling the color commentary, with Taylor Davis reporting from the sidelines.

Roth will officially return to the radio booth for the Hokies on Friday, Sept. 2 in Tech's season opener at Old Dominion.

VT athletics' 'Hokie Hi: Weekend at Home' set for April 14-16

The Virginia Tech Department of Athletics is sharing additional details surrounding the "Hokie Hi: Weekend at Home" event, an expanded weekend in Blacksburg surrounding Tech Football's annual Spring Game, presented by PMSi.

The first-ever "Hokie Hi: Weekend at Home" will take place April 14-16 and will offer Hokie Nation the chance to cheer on a number of Tech sports, including softball versus Virginia (games on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday), baseball versus Miami (games on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday) and men's tennis versus Boston College (Friday).

The spring game will take place on April 16 at 4:00 p.m. and will be televised live on the ACC Network. Tickets are now available and will be sold for $5 (all general admission seating). All tickets will be ordered online and will be delivered via mobile delivery or print-at-home, including tickets ordered on game day. Fans are encouraged to order tickets in advance in order to ensure a seamless gameday experience.

Students will be able to claim a complimentary ticket through the standard lottery process for regular season games. More information will be shared with students in April.

Suite holders will be communicated with directly regarding available options for their suites in the next few days.

Registration is also now open for Virginia Tech's annual 3.2-mile Run in Remembrance, which will take place that Saturday, April 16. The event will begin with a moment of silence at 9:43 a.m. to honor and remember the vibrant lives of the 32 students and faculty who were tragically taken from us in 2007.

The event's 3.2-mile loop around the Blacksburg campus begins and ends on the Virginia Tech

Drillfield near the April 16 Memorial and passes by landmarks such as the Duck Pond, the Grove, and the Virginia Tech Py-lons, and will take runners and walkers through Lane Stadium.

Visit RecSports.VT.edu/RunFor32 for registration details, T-shirt purchasing options, and event updates. For more information on Day of Remembrance activities, visit WeRemember.VT.edu.

Parking will be available in all open on- and off-campus lots. Similar to previous years, parking will be free of charge and will be first come, first-served. As always, tailgating will be a memorable part of the entire Tech football experience.
