League of Women Voters to hold leadership seminar Rise Up: Exploring Political and Community Leadership set for Oct. 8

Women interested in becoming engaged in community and political leadership are invited to a day-long workshop, Saturday, Oct. 8, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. titled "Rise Up: Exploring Political and Community Leadership."

"Women hold only 27 percent of seats in Congress at a time when women's voices are more important than ever in our nation," said Elizabeth Obenshain of the League of Women Voters, Montgomery County, one of the leaders working on the program.

The League of Women Voters of Montgomery County, The Women's Center of Virginia Tech, and VT Engage and The Center for Leadership and Service Learning are sponsoring the free event, which will be held on the Virginia

Tech campus at Squires Student Center and Newman Library.

The workshop is intended to bring interested women together to learn the nuts and bolts of running for political office or taking on a leadership role within the community.

Throughout the day, participants will hear and learn from current women leaders. The keynote speaker will be Elizabeth McClanahan, CEO of the Virginia Tech Foundation and a former Justice of the Virginia Supreme Court. Anne Holton, who has engaged in political, legal, and academic leadership, will open the conference speaking about the importance of women's leadership.

Radford University will help raise awareness about Recovery Month by welcoming ESPN and SEC Network sports broadcaster Lauren Sisler to campus to present "Road to Redemption" on Wednesday, Sept. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in Bondurant Auditorium.

The event is free and open to all Radford

University students, faculty, and staff.

A native of the Giles County area, Sisler lost both of her parents to their concealed battle with prescription drug addiction within hours of one another when she was an 18-year-old student at Rutgers University. She will discuss that tragedy and how she was able to overcome the resulting adversity, finding her own path to a successful life and career.

"Sports is my passion, but my purpose is to share what I learned from my parents' story and how I learned to fall in love with my own," Sisler said.

Radford alum leads youth dance program

By Sean Kotz

RADFORD - Reagan Mihailoff, a 2021 Radford University graduate, made quite an impression on the dance department during her time on campus.

So, when they needed someone to serve as director of the Radford University Ballet Youth program (RUBY), she sprang to mind quickly.

Initiated by Professor Inessa Plekhanova in 2006, RUBY trains young dancers not just in ballet, but also in contemporary dance, pointe, jazz, and tap.

Energetic and positive, Mihailoff, who serves as an apprentice with the Roanoke

Ballet and works as a fitness instructor, seems naturally suited to serve as the Artistic Director for this program.

"I really loved my time at Radford," she said. "I want to take what I learned over the years and share the things that helped me develop stronger technique. It is also exceedingly rewarding to watch them process the feedback I give them and apply it to their own technique and make progress with each class."

When the position came open, James Robey, the chair of the Dance Department, thought of Mihailoff immediately and said he

Hurricane season remains far from over due to dry climate, says VT expert

The arrival of Hurricane Fiona and the devastation it has already caused to Puerto Rico is an important reminder that hurricane season is far from over, says Virginia Tech hurricane expert Stephanie Zick. "While it's been a quiet hurricane season so far, it only takes one storm to make the season impactful."

Hurricane Fiona has already caused massive power outages and flooding in Puerto Rico and the storm is expected to intensify after bringing damaging strong winds and heavy rain to the Dominican Republic. Zick says the storm is expected to turn north and then northeastward away from the continental U.S., but may bring hurricane conditions to Bermuda and the Atlantic coast of Canada later this week.

"There are still warm sea surface temperatures in place across the central tropical Atlantic, Caribbean Sea, and Gulf of Mexico. Near the U.S. coastline, the waters have been particularly warm and storms have the potential to intensify rapidly close to land," said Zick. "We definitely need to keep our eyes on the tropics through the end of the season.

"At the beginning of the hurricane season, the North African monsoon season was very active, generating numerous tropical waves, which moved westward over the tropical Atlantic, but these waves quickly dissipated as the waves encountered dry air," said Zick. "There is also more vertical wind shear than we would normally expect during a La Nina phase. That is, the wind speed and direction are changing with height. Wind shear causes developing tropical systems to tilt."

Zick said that tropical systems need to be vertically stacked, so wind shear inhibits development. "Other factors have been favorable, including warm sea surface temperatures, but so far this season, most of the tropical waves have been unable to organize in the face of the dry air and wind shear," she said.

Why is there so much dry air? "Compared with an average summer, there have been a lot of mid-latitude frontal systems moving across the North Atlantic and that has caused

VT receives $80 million grant to help farmers implement climate-smart practices to reduce greenhouse gasses

Virginia Tech has received an $80 million grant from the United States Department of Agriculture to pilot a program that will pay producers to implement climate-smart practices on farms of all sizes and commodities, an initiative that could have significant impacts on curbing climate-changing gasses.

Virginia Tech will distribute at least $54 million directly to producers to help them enact these climate-smart agricultural practices for crop and animal production. The grant, which is the largest in the university's history, will create a three-year pilot program in Virginia, Arkansas, Minnesota, and North Dakota that will test the feasibility of rolling out a similar program on a national scale. If scaled up nationally, the program could help producers reduce agricultural emissions by 55 percent and total emissions in the United States by 8 percent after 10 years.

"We are proud to lead this effort that gives agricultural producers incentives to enact climate-smart practices and the financial means to do so," said Tom Thompson, principal investigator on the project, associate dean of the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, director of CALS Global, and a professor. "This is a watershed program that helps the agricultural industry be a leader in addressing climate change."

The pilot program will pay producers $100 per acre or animal unit for voluntary adoption of climate-smart practices that deliver more than that amount in public environmental benefits. Unlike previous cost-sharing programs that put some of the financial burdens of adopting climate-smart practices on producers, this program pays producers more than the cost of implementation of these practices while also improving their bottom lines. In addition to RIPE, 15 state and national organizations will help to implement the RIPE Partnership.

The RIPE partnership pilot will reach an estimated 5,200 operations representing up to 600,000 acres in the initial four states. If scaled up nationally, as much as 80 percent of agricultural producers could be enrolled in the program, which would make a significant impact on global carbon emissions. Only about 3 percent of producers currently participate in carbon reduction programs.

In tandem with tackling the issue of climate change, the project also will target boosting agricultural productivity in order to help feed a growing global population that is expected to reach more than 9 billion by 2050.

"The College of Agriculture and Life Sciences has been a driving force for innovation and adoption of best practices that have helped the agriculture industry grow since Virginia Tech was formed 150 years ago," said Alan Grant, dean of the college. "This pilot program is at the core of our land-grant mission as we strive to serve our communities by investing our time and knowledge to help them thrive both now and for generations to come."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) "is delivering on our promise to build and expand these market opportunities for American agriculture and be global leaders in climate-smart agricultural production," Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack said when he recently announced $2.8 billion in funding for 70 climate-smart projects. "This effort will increase the competitive advantage of U.S. agriculture both domestically and internationally, build wealth that stays in rural communities, and support a diverse range of producers and operation types."

The initiative will help agriculture and forestry — the largest private sector industries in Virginia — continue to thrive.

"Agriculture and forestry combine for an annual economic impact of over $90 billion. They are a crucial

New River Health District to offer free flu vaccine at drive-thru clinic

CHRISTIANSBURG – The New River Health District will offer free seasonal flu vaccine at a special drive-thru dispensing clinic on Tuesday, Oct. 4, from noon to 7 p.m. at the NRV Fairgrounds, 5581 Fairgrounds Cir, Dublin, VA

Vaccine will be available free on a first-come, first-served basis. Those to be vaccinated are encouraged to wear clothing that is loose around the arm so a public health nurse can administer the flu shot in the upper arm without having to leave the comfort and convenience of the car.

Influenza, commonly called "the flu," is a serious disease caused by the influenza virus that affects the respiratory tract. It is highly contagious and generally spreads from person to person when an infected person coughs or sneezes.

The virus can be transmitted even before flu-like symptoms appear. A person usually becomes sick one to three days following exposure to the virus. Typical flu symptoms include fever, dry cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose, headache, muscle aches, and extreme fatigue.

"Vaccination is the best way to prevent influenza and its potentially severe complications," said Noelle Bissell, the director of the New River Health District. "This unique 'drive-thru' approach has proven to be a fast and efficient way to vaccinate a large number of folks in a short time. Herd immunity develops when more people get vaccinated," Dr. Bissell said. "There is less virus present to potentially infect those who cannot be immunized, such as infants under 6 months old; this helps protect everyone from this potentially deadly disease."

Getting a flu shot is especially important this year because COVID is still circulating, and getting infected with both the flu and COVID can increase the severity of the illness. Expectations are that this will be a more severe flu season than in the past few years.

"The timing and duration of flu seasons vary. They can occur from early fall to late spring," said Dr. Bissell. "Receiving an annual seasonal flu vaccine is the best way to reduce your risk of becoming sick with the flu and spreading the virus to others. It takes up to two weeks to develop the vaccine's full protection."

All persons aged 6 months and older should be vaccinated against influenza each year. Particular effort should be made to vaccinate those at higher risk for influenza complications, including pregnant and postpartum women, or those who will be pregnant during the influenza season; persons over 65, including residents of nursing homes and long-term care facilities; persons who have chronic lung or heart problems, including asthma; and persons who have other serious medical conditions, such as diabetes, kidney disease, cystic fibrosis, anemia, cancer, weak immune systems (including those with HIV) or a seizure disorder.

To help prevent the spread of influenza, those who live in a high risk group and healthcare workers should also receive an influenza vaccine. Travelers to countries outside of the U.S. may also need to consider influenza vaccination, even at different times of the year.

Each year in the U.S. approximately 200,000 people are hospitalized due to the flu, and flu-related deaths range from 12,000 to 56,000 each year, averaging 34,000 per year over the last three decades.

To minimize the risk of contracting or transmitting the flu, follow these simple steps: get vaccinated, consider wearing a mask if one is high-risk or if one is having symptoms, wash your hands frequently and thoroughly for at least 20 seconds, cover coughs either by using a disposal tissue or coughing into your sleeve, not your hand, stay at home when you are sick.

County seeks public review of proposed transportation plan

CHRISTIANSBURG – Montgomery County is seeking public input as it develops a county-wide transportation plan.

An open house will be held from 3:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Sept., 29, in the Multipurpose Room of the Montgomery County Government Center located at 755 Roanoke St., Christiansburg.

The Montgomery County Transportation Plan, also known as Transportation Matters, is intended to help establish the county's priorities, policies, and goals for its transportation network. It evaluates the existing transportation facilities, sets clear steps for improvement, and will offer guidance for implementation and intergovernmental cooperation.

Special consideration has been given to enhancing multimodal transportation options such as biking and walking and establishing a transportation network that supports the county's overall land use vision.

The meeting to review draft recommendations will be held in an open house format to allow attendees to come and go at their own convenience. Information boards and public comment stations will be set up in the room throughout the day.

feels she is a perfect fit. “Reagan not only excels as a dancer,” he said. “Her ability to connect with students and the positive energy she brings to everything makes her ideal for leading the youth program forward.”

The job requires exactly those qualities. As the RUBY Director, Mihailoff coordinates and administers offerings for approximately 50 children ranging in age from three to 18. She must also manage the teaching staff and work with parents.

All of this is part of an important mission from Mihailoff’s point of view.

The RUBY program offers many prospective students a valuable option for formal dance training in the region. It puts young dancers in a university setting, and many RUBY students continue their studies after high school and ultimately pursue professional dance careers.

Making that possible for young people, therefore, requires a sense of long-term vision as well as day-to-day interaction.

“As the director I want to foster an environment of inclusivity and create opportunities for growth and development as our students navigate and discover their love and passion for dance,” Mihailoff said. “I think one of the ways I’ll know I was successful is by having students return each year and advance into higher levels as they grow.”

Registration for the program is year-round, and performances take place each semester.

Prospective students and parents can learn more about the program and its opportunities by visiting the RUBY page on the Dance Department’s website or emailing ruby@radford.edu.

there to be drier, sinking air in the subtropics and even farther south into the main development region. “The vigorous North African monsoon season has also led to large outbreaks of dry Saharan air moving westward over the Atlantic, which is also contributing to the anomalously dry air across the North Atlantic,” said Zick.

“The hurricane season ends on November 30. There’s a lot of time left in the season and we need to stay prepared.”

Stephanie Zick is an assistant

the most engaging, motivational speakers I have had the honor of listening to,” said Cora R. Taylor ‘09, assistant director of Substance Abuse and Violence Education Support at Radford University. “She will make you come to realize that you have a story, and it’s okay to embrace your story and see greater purpose behind every difficult circumstance.”

A short panel discussion with Reed Yearwod, Radford University’s peer recovery specialist, and Rosalind Watkins, the founder of the JHW Foundation, a not-for-profit foundation aimed at raising awareness both substance use disorders in young adults and supporting young adults in recovery, will follow Sisler’s presentation.

The presentation and panel discussion provide an important opportunity for the Radford community to explore mental health and substance abuse topics, which are on the rise among college students.

“Eighteen to 24 is when most mental health and substance issues are diagnosed,” said Taylor. “Of course, that is the age range of traditional college-aged students, professor of geography and meteorologist in Virginia Tech’s College of Natural Resources and Environment. Her research areas include tropical meteorology, tropical cyclones, precipitation, numerical weather prediction, and model forecast verification.

so college can truly prove to be a turning point.”

Taylor added that there is a lot of effort put into breaking the stigma around substance use, and Sisler’s story is a powerful example of how her family’s battle with substance use impacted not only those struggling with addiction but also the entire family for years.

“At a time when college students are really struggling, we are a disconnected society, and are searching for meaning and purpose,” Taylor said, “Lauren’s story is encouraging and inspirational.”

OBITUARIES

Taylor, Chuck

Charles David "Chuck" Taylor, who served as the Radford University athletic director from 1974 to 1996, died peacefully in Charleston, S.C., on Sept. 21, 2022, at the age of 76 after a brave battle against a form of blood cancer called Myelodysplastic syndromes.

Chuck is survived by his father, Charles; his wife, Cheryl, and their children, Chip and Charlee; and his five grandchildren: Walker, Charlie, and Euka, Chip's sons; Kelly Grey, Chip's daughter; and Palmer, Charlee's son.

Chuck was preceded in death by some of his favorite people, including his mother, Anne Shelley Taylor and his grandmother, Eunice Mae Shelley.

Chuck was born on March 30, 1946, in Jackson, Tenn.. He loved Elvis, sports, desserts, misbehaving at church, and remodeling houses and cars. His first car was a 1930 Ford Model A Coupe, and as recently as August 2022, he replaced the oil pan gasket on a purple Suzuki Samurai he was restoring.

Chuck's dedication to the Highlanders paled in comparison to his devotion to the importance of mentorship, loyalty, and leading by example. "Always enjoy life, and remember that 90% of the things you worry about don't come true," he advised.

Chuck lived his life protecting his friends and family, and his last request was "no drama." His service will be a simple scattering of ashes by close family members at Snowville, a place where Chuck escaped for tranquility and rest.

During his last months, Chuck's life was improved because of the generosity of blood and platelet donors. If you are able, please consider making a donation to help someone like Chuck.

Cromer, Nora Sheppard

Nora Sheppard Cromer passed away at Heritage Hall-Rich Creek on Monday, Sept. 19, 2022. Nora was born May 14, 1943 in Virginia.

WORSHIP DIRECTORY

Sincere Remorse

Read Hosea 8:1 through 14:9

"Though they offer sacrifices as gifts to me, and though they eat the meat, the Lord is not pleased with them. Now he will remember their wickedness and punish their sins: They will return to Egypt" (Hosea 8:13).

Hosea declared the futility of Israel offering insincere sacrifices. The Lord was not pleased with rituals performed without remorse for wrongdoing. Instead of receiving forgiveness from heartfelt confession, the nation suffered punishment for their accumulated sins.

Hebrews 9:22 teaches that "without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness." The blood from animal sacrifice pointed to the time when Christ's blood would secure forgiveness for all who receive Him. His death paid the penalty for sin once and for all.

Israel had treated the Lord as one of many gods, sacrificing only to gain favor. Doing good things to gain God's favor will not cover our sin. Nothing can substitute for the blood Christ shed. God sees each heart. He knows if there is true remorse that brings about change.

Prayer Suggestion: Lord Jesus, my forgiveness is only possible through You. I owe You everything.

Quicklook: Hosea 8:11-13

Flippo, Elaine E.

Elaine Elsam Flippo, 89, passed away on Sept. 15, 2022.

She was born in the Veedersburg parsonage of the First Christian Church in Indiana where her father, the late Chaplain Col. Harold Gordon Elsam (US Army Ret.) served as the pastor along with his wife, Lucille Salisbury Elsam.

She spent most of her younger years in Illinois and Indiana. Elaine was the classic 'middle child' and is survived by her older sister and younger brother. She graduated from Radford College, which was the Women's Division of VPI (Virginia Tech) at the time, where she majored in art.

She was on the VPI Homecoming Court, and it was at VPI in Blacksburg that she met and then married her roommate's brother, the late Col. Charles Flippo, (USAF Ret.). They enjoyed the military life, raising four children while they lived and traveled all over the United States and Europe until his retirement, at which time they moved to a farm in Christiansburg.

It was at this time that she decided to start her career as a secretary at the Virginia Tech Athletic Department where she worked for 30 years until she was 73.

Elaine enjoyed shopping for antiques, thrifting, and finding collectibles, and had a rock collection from the places that she traveled. She also had an extensive goat collection because of her Capricorn birthday that will be passed down to another lucky Capricorn. She was a talented artist with an eye for beautiful paintings and artwork. She grew up during the depression and consequently was always frugal with her money, but she always had enough for a good glass of wine. Elaine moved to Franklin, Va. a few years after she retired and lived at The Village and later at East Pavilion. She passed peacefully at Bon Secours East Pavilion Nursing Home in Franklin.

Richard Charles Flippo (Lana) of Los Angeles, Calif., LtCol Stephen Mark Flippo (USAF Ret.) (Rebecca) of Prattville, Ala., and LtCol David Alton Flippo (USAF Ret.) (Dawn) of Las Vegas, Nev.; daughter, Laura Bernice-Flippo Camp (Stafford 'Cass') of Courtland, Va.; a sister, Patricia Paulsen (Tom, deceased) of Olympia Fields, Ill.; a brother, Eric Elsam (Lois) of Escondido, Calif.; six grandchildren: Renata Flippo, Richard Flippo; Sean Flippo (Hannah), Ryan Flippo (Niki); Stafford 'Carson' Camp, Michalann Cole (Dylan); and seven great-grandchildren: Liam, Eliza, Clayton, Kaylen, Mikey, Avery, Adeline, and another on the way. She also had many nieces and nephews and good friends whom she thought of often.

The family would like to thank all the wonderful doctors and caregivers at The Village at Woods Edge, Southampton Memorial Hospital, and East Pavilion Long Term Care for their tireless efforts, especially during the extremely difficult COVID years.

A private family celebration of life will be held at a later date. The family suggests that memorial donations may be made to the East Pavilion Discretionary Fund, 100 Fairview Drive, Franklin, Va., 23851 or any favorite charity.

component of Virginia's economy, especially in our rural areas. Promoting and growing economic development is a top priority for the administration. Ensuring a sustainable and vibrant industry will be crucial for the long-term growth and success of Virginia," said Matt Lohr, Virginia's Secretary of Agriculture and Forestry. "This pilot project provides an optimal plan for investing in rural communities and supporting agricultural producers who deliver significant environmental benefits through their climate-smart production practices."

In Virginia, the college is partnering with the Virginia Department of Conservation and Recreation, Virginia Cooperative Extension, and Virginia State University to roll out the program. The Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services also provided support for the grant application.

A website will be available within the next few months to allow producers within the pilot states to apply and enroll in the program.

The grant will provide $2 million to both Minnesota and Virginia to pilot the implementation of high-value and high-cost climate-smart practices in animal feeding operations. The national program would have a benefit-to-cost ratio of 5:1, reaping a total environmental benefit of $440 billion, working under the assumption that multiple climate-smart practices are implemented on the same cropland acres and animal units after ten years of the program.

Producers will receive 50 percent of the payment up front, 25 percent after implementation, and 25 percent after final reporting is completed. Limited-resource producers may be eligible for a 100 percent upfront payment.

If this project is adopted nationally, Congress could set a target for a minimum level of additional reductions to be achieved and grant USDA authority to raise payment terms for new practice adoption without creating an incentive to delay adoption.

"This is an extraordinarily exciting time to be involved in agriculture," Thompson said. "Farmers have always been the great stewards of our land, and American agriculture has long been a productivity powerhouse. This pilot program will help them continue to be so for generations to come."

guardrail and shoulder strengthening.

Northbound I-81 lane closures from mile marker 138 to 142

Northbound I-81 exit and entrance ramp narrows possible at Route 311.

The project also includes replacing six bridges, widening two bridges, installing approximately 2.6 miles of sound barrier walls along northbound I-81, improving the southbound exit 137 off-ramp intersection at Wildwood Road and adding interchange lighting at exits 137, 140 and 141 are also included in the project. Expected completion in early 2026.

I-81 TROUTVILLE REST AREA CLOSURE - The Troutville Rest Area located on southbound Interstate 81 near mile marker 158 in Botetourt County is currently closed until later in the month of September. Supply chain issues have delayed manufacture and delivery of metal bases for the new lighting poles that must be installed before the facility can be reopened. The Virginia Department of Transportation's contractor Branch Civil

Inc. will need additional time to install the lighting so reopening the facility needs to be postponed.

Signage indicating the closure is posted in the rest area. A temporary concrete barrier wall will remain in place in front of the facility. The rest area facility, ramps and parking lot are closed to the public. This project will extend the ramp into the rest area by 500 feet and the ramp out of the rest area by 2,100 feet. It will also include expanding the truck parking area at the facility by about 10-13 spaces.

REST AREA OPTIONS: While the Troutville Rest Area is closed, southbound I-81 drivers can use the Fairfield Rest Area at mile marker 195 in Rockbridge County or the Radford Rest Area at mile marker 108 in Montgomery County. In addition, the Troutville Weigh Station, located on southbound I-81 at mile marker 149, will have portable toilets and parking will be temporarily available for commercial vehicles.

I-81 PAVING OPERATIONS – Weather permitting, crews will pave, patch and repair pavement on various routes. Lane closures may be in place during nighttime hours, 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. the following morning. Drivers should watch for signs and expect possible delays.

Botetourt County: Alternating lane closes on I-81 southbound between mile marker 162 and 164.

Montgomery County: Lane closures in place for paving of I-81 northbound between mile marker 116 to 114.

Roanoke County: Alternating lane closures on I-81 northbound for milling and paving from mile marker 134.5 to 132.4, 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. the following morning.

I-81 BRIDGE DECK REPAIRS – Weather permitting, crews will repair bridge decks on Interstate 81. Between mile markers 138 to 152, right and left lane closures will be in place northbound and southbound during nighttime hours, 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. the following morning. Drivers should watch for signs and expect possible delays.

CHS lineman Ayden Conley to play in Blue-Grey All-American game

Marty Gordon
NRVsports@ourvalley.org

Ayden Conley, a senior offensive lineman from Christiansburg High School has been selected by a committee of NFL veterans and administrators to play in this year's Blue-Grey All-American Bowl.

The game will be played on Jan. 30, at the Tampa Bay Buccaneers' Raymond James Stadium.

At 6-4, 305 pounds, Conley is starting to receive a lot of attention from college coaches.

Last season, Conley was named the all-county/all-city lineman of the year. He suffered a torn ACL late in the season and missed most of the team's playoff run. After rehab, he is now back at full-steam and starting on both sides of the ball.

The game features many of the nation's top prospects from the Class of 2023. Some competed in the All-American combines at various NFL stadiums and professional training facilities; most others are highly-rated recruits. All-American Bowl participants will represent nearly all 50 states from the North to the South.

Now more than ever, coaches at the next level use the All-American Bowl as a recruiting tool to help finalize their potential selections. Equally important, more than 500 colleges nationwide will be viewing, and/or scouting, the practices as well as the game.

In the last three years alone, nearly 80 percent of All-American Bowl alumni successfully landed scholarship offers before, during, or after the game, a great investment considering the cost to attend college often averages more than $35,000 per year.

Participation in the All-American Bowl at NFL stadium does require an administrative fee of $575, which also serves as a deposit at the start of the process to lock in a roster spot for each player. The deposit is due by September 30, or an alternate player will be selected.

After submitting the deposit, four additional payments of $364 are required and due on Oct. 30, Nov. 30, Dec. 30, and Jan. 26. The total amount for the three-day event, including the non-refundable administration fee, is $2,031.

A Go-Fund campaign has been started by Conley's family and friends to help offset the cost.

Hokie wrestling preview: New faces at 125

With the 2022-2023 Virginia Tech wrestling season right around the corner, let's take a look at the 125- and 133-pound wrestlers suiting up for the Hokies.

125:

With Sam Latona making the jump up to 133 pounds this season, Tech plans on continuing its dominance at the 125-pound weight class. The first wrestler competing in the weight class is redshirt freshman Eddie Ventresca, a Moxbury, New Jersey, native from Pope John High School. In his high school career, Ventresca placed at the NJSIAA state tournament all four years and claimed the 120-pound title in 2019. During his redshirt year, Ventresca accrued a 15-6 record at 125 pounds, winning the Southeast Open, placing sixth at the Wolfpack Open, second at the Patriot open, and eighth at the Southern Scuffle.

The second Hokie competing for the starting spot is redshirt freshman Cooper Flynn, a Seymour, Tenn., native who wrestled for McDonough School in Maryland.

In high school, Flynn made it to the MIAA state finals three times, claiming the title twice. In addition, he was a 2019 Walsh Ironman finalist, and he won the 2020 Super 32 title and the 2020 Prep National Championships, placed at Fargo three times and finished third at the prestigious Beast of the East. At the end of his high school career, he was the No.-3 ranked 126-pounder in the country and No. 22 overall, according to FloWrestling.

During his redshirt campaign, Flynn finished with a 15-3 record at 125 pounds. He was a Southeast Open finalist, the Wolfpack Open champion, and the Dave Lehman Open champion.

With the departure of two-time NCAA All-American and four-time conference champion Korbin Myers, Tech has multiple Hokies eager to fill those big shoes.

The first is redshirt junior Sam Latona. Hailing from Thompson High School in Alabaster, Ala., Latona proved that you don't have to be from a historically successful wrestling state to achieve great things.

During his high school career, Latona won the 2017 Alabama state championships, two Fargo titles, and two NHSCA titles, and was a 2018 Super 32 finalist. In addition, he was ranked sixth in the country at 120 pounds by FloWrestling and Internat, as well as No. 51 on FloWrestling's Class of 2019 Big Board.

Transitioning into his college career, Latona put together a spectacular first season. As a redshirt, he finished the season with a 20-2 record. He won the Southeast Open, the Appalachian Open, and the ARMS Software/GMU Patriots Open, placed third at the Wolfpack Wrestling Club Open, and placed third at the Southern Scuffle with his lone loss coming to No.-4 Nick Piccininni of Oklahoma State.

In his redshirt freshman year, Latona finished the season with a 14-3 record and won his first 12 matches of the season. He was the 2021 ACC Freshman of the year, won the ACC title at 125 pounds, was seeded No. 2 at the 2021 NCAA Championships where he placed sixth and clinched the 2021 ACC Dual Meet Title for the Hokies with a last-second takedown and nearfall points over Jakob Camacho of NC State.

During his redshirt sophomore season, Latona finished with a 14-9 record. He was a Southeast Open finalist, an ACC finalist, and made it to the Round of 12 of the NCAA tournament as the No. 24 seed before falling to Eric Bennet of Wisconsin.

The next wrestler competing for the spot at 133 pounds is redshirt junior Brandon Wittenberg. Wittenberg was a four-time state champion for Battlefield High School in Haymarket, Va. In addition, he placed at multiple prestigious high school tournaments such as Escape the Rock, Beast of the East, and Powerade, and was a two-time NHSCA All-American.

Wittenberg competed at 125 pounds his redshirt season where he placed sixth at the Southeast Open, went 4-2 at the Wolfpack Wrestling Club Open, 3-2 at the ARMS Software/GMU Patriots Open, and finished the season with a 12-7 record.

As a redshirt freshman, Wittenberg moved up to 133 pounds and went 1-2 with his lone win coming over Drake Doolittle of Duke via a 5-3 decision.

In his redshirt sophomore year, Wittenberg finished with a 12-10 record. His season was highlighted with fourth place finishes at both the Wolfpack Open and the ARMS Software/GMU Patriots Open as well as a win over Michael Rapuano of George Mason in the Moss Arts Center dual.

The last Hokie competing at 133 pounds is redshirt freshman Caden Hagler. Hagler wrestled for Providence Day School in Charlotte, N.C. During his high school career, Hagler made four ISAA state finals appearances and claimed the title three times.

During his first college season, Hagler finished the year with a 3-6 record. His best performance of the year came at the Wolfpack Open where he went 2-2, picking up two falls.

VT Men's soccer coach Brizendine reaches milestone 100 career wins

Through 14 seasons, six straight NCAA Tournament appearances, four Sweet Sixteen appearances in the past six seasons, three wins over No. 1 programs and being just one of three programs to win at least one game in the NCAA Tournament the last six years, Virginia Tech men's soccer head coach Mike Brizendine finally earned his 100th career victory as the Hokies defeated Longwood University Tuesday night.

When Brizendine arrived to take over the program, men's soccer was facing recruiting restrictions. Under his leadership, Tech has become one of the most consistent programs in the Atlantic Coast Conference and has gained national recognition for its accomplishments. In Brizendine's career, three games stand out as milestones along the way to 100 wins.

1. First Win: Sept. 6, 2009, 2-1 vs. Milwaukee

Brizendine got his first career win at Wisconsin's Soccer Complex in Madison as midfielders Koen Oost and Charlie Campbell notched their first goals of the season. The Hokies took an early 1-0 lead on the Oost score that was booted in from 20 yards out and didn't look back.

2. First win over a ranked team: Sept. 27, 2009, 2-0 vs. No. 16 NC

State

Three weeks to the day after the coach's first win, Virginia Tech returned home to Thompson Field and defeated its first-ever ranked opponent. The win came via late goals from Emmanuel Akogyeram and James Shupp. Akogyeram's put-in off a corner kick in the 79th minute ignited the maroon and orange late down the stretch, and the Hokies added another tally five minutes later on Shupp's score on a cross.

3. First Win Over No. 1: Sept. 10, 2011, 1-0 in 2OT vs. North Carolina

The first of three victories against the nation's top-ranked team came when Brizendine's Hokies knocked off North Carolina in a thriller on a Saturday night at Thompson Field. Perhaps the most improbable win in Brizendine's tenure even to this day, the match was scoreless through both regulation and the first overtime period and seemed destined for a tie until James Shupp in the 102nd minute finished off a bouncing ball that found the back of the net and resulted in the game's lone goal. The win seemed even more improbable when the Tar Heels won the national championship that season and the upset was Tech's lone win in conference play.
