NRCC to host ACCE bass fishing tournament fundraiser

New River Community College Educational Foundation is hosting the 2022 Big ACCE Bass Tournament on Saturday, Oct. 15 to support Access to Community College Education (ACCE) at NRCC for Pulaski County students.

The fishing tournament will be held at Claytor Lake State Park with launch at 7:30 a.m. or first safe light. Registrants must check in at the state park boat launch site the morning of the tournament, prior to the start. Weigh-in will be held at 3 p.m.

Tournament registration fee is $100, with a 70 percent payback. Participants will be judged based on the weight of five total fish (including small, large, and spotted bass). An additional prize of $500 will also be awarded for the biggest largemouth and smallmouth bass.

Onsite registration will begin at 6 a.m. on the tournament day, and online registration is available through Oct. 13 at www.nr.edu/acce/bass.php. Paper registration forms are available at Conrad Brothers Marine through Oct. 14.

Please note that parking at Claytor Lake State Park requires a $7 parking fee and a $2 boat launch fee.

Sponsors for the 2022 tournament are Conrad Brothers Marine, Claytor Lake State Park, and Edward Jones Investments, Andy Owens.

All proceeds from the event support student tuition at NRCC through the ACCE program. For more information about the tournament, contact the NRCC Educational Foundation at (540)674-3600, ext. 4516 or email Erika Tolbert etolbert@nr.edu.

ACCE is an economic development public/private partnership that makes college available debt-free to high school and home-schooled graduates by funding NRCC tuition for two years. ACCE will support the youth of participating counties by making college within reach. With the support of ACCE, students will graduate from NRCC prepared to join the workforce or transfer to a four-year university without college debt. ACCE supports as many students as possible based on student need and funds available for the program. For more information about ACCE at NRCC, visit www.nr.edu/acce.

Craig Drennen's 'First Acts, Scene 2,' was inspired by Shakespeare's 'Timon of Athens.'

Moss Arts Center exhibitions to feature works from artists Craig Drennen and Steve Locke

Works from two prominent artists are on display in Virginia for the very first time. The Moss Arts Center's fall exhibitions will feature two solo shows: Craig Drennen's "First Acts, Scene 2," a collection of paintings, mixed-media installation, and video inspired by an obscure Shakespeare work, and Steve Locke's "the daily practice of painting," consisting of 114 portraits Locke painted over the course of a year.

The exhibitions will open with a reception on Thursday, Oct. 13, from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Moss Arts Center's Grand Lobby, located at 190 Alumni Mall in Blacksburg.

Drennen will give an artist talk on Friday, Oct. 14, at 2 p.m. in the Cube. The talk also will be available via livestream on the Moss Arts Center website. The galleries and all related events are free and are open to the public.

Drennen's "First Acts, Scene 2" is a selection of work from the artist's ongoing series based on William Shakespeare's "Timon of Athens." Unproduced in Shakespeare's lifetime and regarded by many as his weakest play, "Timon of Athens" has been inspiring Drennen's slow walk to self-portraiture since 2008.

Largely unknown, "Timon of Athens" invited Drennen to make work "in a desolate place," which he compared to "the Appalachia of my childhood." From the minor to major characters, each serves as an opportunity for both satire of his artist's personae and a survey of the history of painting.

"The daily practice of painting" is part of Locke's exploration of relationships among men and their gaze. Painted mostly in gouache on 6-by 6-inch claybord, each square panel features a centered solitary head seen from the shoulders up. Bright hues prevail in these intimate scaled portraits, which contain a multitude of male expressions. Sometimes with eyes closed and tongues out, Locke's men go against the idealized male portraiture. Presented horizontally in a single line below eye level, the viewer looks down to return their gaze, compounding their vulnerability.

Warm Hearth Village Fitness Center now offering massage therapy

BLACKSBURG – LoraLeigh Giessler, a certified massage and somatic movement and expressive arts therapist, recently joined the Warm Hearth Village Fitness Center and is offering massage appointments there on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Giessler completed her initial Jin Shou Tuina™ massage and craniosacral therapy training through the North American Tang Shou Tao Association (NATSTA) in 2010 and continues training in Chinese martial arts and medicine with senior practitioners in her gongfu family.

She received her certification as a Tamalpa Practitioner of movement-based expressive arts from Tamalpa Institute in California in 2019.

"In my massage practice, at the beginning of a session, I observe and listen to the stories told and held in the body," she said. "I then use manual therapy techniques ranging from very soft energetic work to deep and vigorous manipulation to appropriately affect soft tissue, structural alignment and the meridian systems. The ultimate goal is to promote a free flow of energy and blood that affords the body, mind and spirit balance and relaxation, less pain and more ease in daily life. Through my work at Warm Hearth Village, I offer an adjunct modality of healing in partnership with the clients and support them as they work with their health care team."

Fitness center director Kenny Harrah said, "We are excited to re-open our massage services after our COVID hiatus. Our residents and Warm

VT entomologist says stink bugs make like humans in the winter by heading indoors and riding out the colder months

By Max Esterhuizen,
Virginia Tech

Kevin Rice, director of the Smith Agricultural and Research Center, says brown marmorated stink bugs make like humans in the winter by sheltering indoors and riding out the colder months. In the process, of course, they also make themselves nuisances.

Rice says adult stink bugs tend to aggregate into groups when arriving at overwinter sites, creating nuisance problems for homeowners. Rice is the director of the Alson H. Smith Jr. Agricultural Research and Extension Center. In the spring and summer, these insects feed on a wide variety of fruit and vegetable crops.

"I have focused on novel trap design for monitoring brown marmorated stink bugs and quantifying their movement patterns among landscapes," Rice said. "I'm currently collaborating with a team of engineers and entomologists to use UV lasers and UAV to track brown marmorated stink bug movement among different landscapes."

Rice said there is also hope that biological

WORSHIP DIRECTORY

Almighty God

Read Genesis 40:1 through 41:57

Joseph spent two years in a dungeon after interpreting the dreams of Pharaoh’s cupbearer. Joseph had asked this man to mention him to the king upon being reinstated, but, as each day dragged on, no communication came from the Pharaoh. When Pharaoh had a dream and told it to all his wise men, no one could interpret it. The cupbearer finally remembered Joseph and told Pharaoh about him.

So Pharaoh sent for Joseph, and he was quickly brought from the dungeon. When he had shaved and changed his clothes, he came before Pharaoh (Genesis 41:14).

Joseph was going to be taken into the presence of the nation’s highest ruler. His first order of business was to make himself presentable. His prison clothing and his haggard appearance were hardly appropriate to stand before royalty. Joseph prepared to see the king, honoring the authority and majesty of Pharaoh.

We have the privilege of an audience at any time with our King, Jesus Christ. May we never forget His majesty or approach Him with less than honor and adoration.

Thought for Today: Consider the majesty of God.

Quicklook: Genesis 41:1–14

The Linkous family is in the care of Mullins Funeral Home & Crematory in Radford.

Smith, Larry Dexter

Larry Dexter Smith, 71, was called home to heaven on Oct. 2, 2022.

Larry was a 1973 graduate of Virginia Tech and spent most of his professional career as a mechanical engineer for Virginia Tech Facilities.

He was a dedicated Hokie fan who was a lifelong member of Fairview Community Church and blessed many with his music. He was a member of the group Heaven Bound and loved playing with them.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Mary and H.M. Smith, Jr.

are his brothers, David Smith and Randy Smith; fiancé Teresa Farley and daughter Sydney Farley; sister Marsha Caldwell and husband, Philip Caldwell; special niece, Amanda Caldwell; special friends Roger Averhart and Teresa Woolwine; and many cousins and family members..

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday, Oct. 5, 2022, in the McCoy Funeral Home Chapel with Jimmie Lee Price and Dennis Hutchison officiating. Interment followed in the Westview cemetery.

Williams, Harry Kenneth

Harry Kenneth Williams, age 88, before returning to Blacksburg to resume his education after completion of his military service. After graduation from Virginia Tech, he attended UNC Chapel Hill where he obtained his MBA.

Harry and Joy then moved to Covington, VA where he worked for West Virginia Pulp and Paper, later known as Westvaco. They had three sons, and Harry was active in community and civic organizations including the Lions Club and The Boys Home of Virginia.

He was an active member of Covington Baptist Church, serving as a deacon and a member of the choir. He also taught Sunday school. The Williams family moved in 1977 when Harry was named Assistant General Manager of Westvaco's Folding Carton Division in Newark, Del. He was promoted to General Manager just two years later. His boys finished high school there while Joy taught business classes at Delaware Technical Institute.

Family and faith remained Harry's focus, and he continued his ascent at Westvaco Corporation moving to Richmond in 1985 to be Assistant General Manager of the Virginia Folding Box Division headquarters. He was named General Manager months later. In 1988 he was promoted to General Manager, Converting and Bleached Board Division and in 1990 was elected a Vice President of the company.

Harry and Joy enjoyed the return to their home state and were able to reconnect with old friends and make new ones. After an accomplished career Harry retired, and a more southern latitude called. He moved to Wilmington, N.C. where he was a member of the First Baptist Church of Wilmington. He sang in the choir, served on multiple church committees and was an integral member of the Landfall Foundation and its charitable outreach.

After Joy's untimely passing from her battle with lupus in 2004, he remained active in his church and community. Family was a priority and visits from his sons and seven grandchildren were always a highlight. He kept his golf and tennis strokes fluid and enjoyed golf trips with his sons to Scotland and Ireland to cement everlasting memories. Harry spent the last 12 1/2 years married to Barbara who proved to be a wonderful companion and ultimately a caretaker during Harry's battle with metastatic prostate cancer. They traveled, had an active social life, and were both devoted to their church and many charitable activities.

Harry is survived by his wife Barbara, his three sons Ken (Sheri Mancini), Chris (Claire), and Scott (Cathy). He was loved by seven grandchildren: Tanner, Terrell, Emma, Carter, Grace, Hannah, and Lauren and blessed just in August with his great-granddaughter Emerson.

He is also survived by his stepsons Wes (Carla), Woody (Tammie), and William (Rebecca) as well as step grandchildren Summer, Katie, Hayden Haley Catherine, Taylor, Isaac, and Payton.

Harry was preceded in death by his first wife Joy, his sisters Francis, Elizabeth, Anne, Nancy, Peggy; and a brother, Fred.

A service to celebrate Harry's life will be today, Saturday, Oct. 8, at 11:00 a.m. at the First Baptist Church of Wilmington at 411 Market St. A reception will follow at the church. In lieu of flowers, Harry and Barbara request a donation be made to Lower Cape Fear LifeCare at lifecare.org or the First Baptist Church of Wilmington Fund for the Homeless at www.fbcwilmington.org.

Condolences may be expressed online at www.quinnmcgowen.com.

VT student wins Phi Beta Kappa award for writing

A moment of brutality against an enslaved woman in "The Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass" led Virginia Tech undergraduate Safyque Richardson to explore ideas of Blackness, suffering, and identity in an essay that won first place in the 2022 John D. Wilson Phi Beta Kappa Essay Contest, sponsored by the Mu of Virginia chapter of Phi Beta Kappa to recognize excellence in undergraduate writing.

In its award statement, the 2022 John D. Wilson Prize Selection Committee wrote, "Through her analysis of Frederick Douglass's autobiography, Richardson addresses questions that are just as pressing today as they were in 1848: What are the consequences of objectifying one's suffering body — of showing the literal scars — when trying to get others to care for one's suffering? What becomes of oppressed people's voices — of their ideas and their demands — when our focus remains on their bodies?

The committee selected Richardson's "Reduction to the Black Body: Brutality in The Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass" for the urgency of the essay's argument the clarity of its voice, and, notably, the innovation of its form. "The writing pushes against the strictures of conventional essayistic structure in a manner that allows Richardson's voice to be truly heard," said Evan Lavender-Smith, an assistant professor of creative writing in the Department of English and president of the Mu of Virginia chapter.

Stink bugs

control agents may help control the bugs. In 2014, a small parasitoid named the Samurai wasp was discovered attacking brown marmorated stink bug eggs. This wasp was not introduced to the United States by scientists, but rather made the voyage on its own from Asia.

There, samurai wasps kill up to 70 percent of brown marmorated stink bug eggs. Since their unexpected arrival in the U.S., the samurai wasp has spread across the mid-Atlantic and might be responsible for reduced brown marmorated stink bug populations.

Concord adds another Blue Demon baseball player

Marty Gordon
NRVsports@mainstreetnewspapers.com

Three former Christiansburg High School baseball players were already on the roster at Concord (WVa.) University, and this week, the Mountain Lions gained a commitment from another local player when senior Marshall Basham announced his intentions to sign with Concord.

A catcher, Basham is a 2023 graduate and admits Concord has been high on his list because of the school's physical therapy program. From behind the plate, he directed the Christiansburg pitching staff this past spring, which fell in the regional playoffs to Liberty Christian Academy.

Basham said he is excited to be back on the field, practicing and working with those former teammates. "It will feel like I'm right at home," he said. "Plus I'll most likely share a dorm room with one of them."

Basham's goal for his freshman year is to compete for playing time and to get better at baseball every single day.

"Each year I just want to compete for more playing time. Whatever I need to do to help Concord baseball, that's what I'll do," he said.

In addition to catching this past spring, he spent time at all the spots in the infield. But his passion is catching.

"I was recruited as a catcher, and all of the conversations I've had with the Concord coaches have been geared toward catching. But I'll play wherever they ask me to play," he said.

This past season, Basham hit .426 with 39 hits and 32 runs batted in. He also added two home runs and had an onbase percentage of .529.

Concord is a Division II NCAA baseball program that includes former Blue Demons MJ Hunter, Ty Dunkleman, and Connor Brinzedine.

McConnell Golf to lease and manage Pete Dye River Course

McConnell Golf has agreed to a long-term leasing deal with the Virginia Tech Foundation, Inc., to lease the Pete Dye River Course of Virginia Tech in Radford, expanding its portfolio of premier golf courses into the Mid-Atlantic region.

The unmistakable elements of design by legendary golf course architect Pete Dye, along with Virginia Tech's commitment to excellence and tradition are apparent in the river course.

The course's distinctive look and feel of links golf in a unique setting is highlighted by the extraordinary clubhouse that rests on a rock cliff 70 feet above the historic New River. With two and one-half miles of frontage, every hole at The River Course offers memorable views of the New River Valley.

The River Course hosted the 2011 NCAA Regional Championships and the 2016 Virginia State Amateur Championships and is widely considered one of the best and most challenging courses in the region. It is also the proud home of Virginia Tech's and Radford University's golf teams. Its layout has also been featured in multiple golf course rankings in recent years, including:

- No. 7 Golfers' Choice 2022: Best golf courses in Virginia
 - No. 7 in GolfLink's 25 Best College Golf Courses in the U.S. for Student Golfers
 - No. 10 in Virginia in Golfweek's Best Courses You Can Play 2022: State-by-state rankings for public-access layouts
 - No. 14 in Golfweek's Best 2022: Top 40 Campus Courses in the United States
- "This place has all the ambiance and qualities that make a golf course really good," said Dye, who passed away in early 2020 at the age of 94. "Here you've got the sound of the river up and down the whole golf course the entire time. The river and scenery are unbelievable."

Dye was inducted into the World Golf Hall of Fame in 2008. Among the hundreds of highly regarded Dye-designed golf courses around the world are The Stadium Course at TPC Sawgrass in Ponte Vedra, Fla., The Ocean Course on Kiawah Island, S.C., Harbour Town Golf Links on Hilton Head Island, S.C., and the Straits Course at Whistling Straits in Sheboygan, Wisc.

McConnell Golf is no stranger to Pete Dye courses, having had the master himself renovate his original design of The Cardinal in Greensboro, N.C., in 2006.

Founded in 2003, McConnell Golf is the largest owner of private clubs in the Southeast. McConnell Golf's ownership collection — comprised of 14 golf courses, including 13 private courses and one semi-private course — includes Raleigh Country Club in Raleigh, N.C., the last design of fabled golf course architect Donald Ross, and another Ross design, Sedgefield Country Club in Greensboro, the annual site of the PGA Tour's Wyndham Championship.

The latest addition to the Raleigh-based company's stable of premier golf courses and clubs is a homecoming of sorts for company founder and CEO John McConnell.

McConnell grew up on a farm about two hours south of The River Course in Abingdon, Virginia, where he and his brothers would hit rubber balls with homemade golf clubs into tuna cans that were used as cups. He played high school golf and continued to play casually as a student at Virginia Tech where he earned a Bachelor of Science in finance prior to his career in software sales. McConnell remains an avid and supportive Hokie alumnus.

The Pete Dye River Course of Virginia Tech is McConnell Golf's second course in Virginia, joining The Water's Edge Country Club on Smith Mountain Lake outside Roanoke.

McConnell Golf, founded in 2003, is currently the largest owner of private clubs in the region. McConnell Golf's stable of premier private clubs, between managed and owned properties (13 private golf courses, two semi-private courses and one 27-hole public course), includes: Raleigh Country Club in Raleigh, N.C., Sedgefield Country Club and The Cardinal by Pete Dye in Greensboro, N.C., The Country Club at Wakefield Plantation in Raleigh, N.C., Old North State Club in New London, N.C., Treyburn Country Club in Durham, N.C., The Reserve Golf Club in Pawleys Island, S.C., Musgrove Mill Golf Club in Clinton, S.C., Brook Valley Country Club in Greenville, N.C., Porters Neck Country Club in Wilmington, N.C., Country Club of Asheville in Asheville, N.C., Providence Country Club in Charlotte, N.C., Holston Hills Country Club in Knoxville, Tenn., and The Water's Edge Country Club in Penhook, Va. In addition to the semi-private Pete Dye River Course of Virginia Tech in Radford, McConnell Golf operates the 27-hole public Raleigh Golf Association in Raleigh, N.C.

ACC baseball tourney to return to home of Durham Bulls

The Atlantic Coast Conference and Durham Bulls have announced that the ACC Baseball Championship will return to Durham Bulls Athletic Park in 2023. The 12-team tournament will be held next May 23-28.

The city of Durham has hosted the ACC baseball Championship 12 times previously, including seven of the past 13 tournaments. The tournament single-game attendance record of 11,329 was set in 2013 at Durham Bulls Athletic Park (North Carolina versus NC State) and still stands as the largest crowd ever to view a college baseball game in the state of North Carolina.

The Bull City also played host to the second-largest crowd ever to watch a tournament championship game (9,759 for Florida State versus NC State in 2015).

"There's terrific excitement surrounding our return to Durham for the 2023 ACC Baseball Championship," said ACC Commissioner Jim Phillips. "Our teams and fans always appreciate the first-class experience at the Durham Bulls Athletic Park, and we've not only set attendance records, but have enjoyed some of the most exciting games in the history of the ACC baseball championship. The Durham Bulls are amazing partners, and we are looking forward to another outstanding event."

"We are proud to once again partner with the ACC to bring its baseball championship to Durham Bulls Athletic Park and the Triangle to showcase the best college baseball in the country," said Durham Bulls Vice President Mike Birling. "The DBAP has hosted many memorable moments in ACC Championship history, and we look forward to continuing that in 2023."

"Each championship event is a unique opportunity to showcase Durham as a championship hub, particularly when such a premier event returns for a remarkable 13th time," said Marcus Manning, executive director of the Durham Sports Commission. "It's also a demonstration of the Durham Bulls' leadership and continued commitment to hosting events that have a wide-ranging impact on Durham and the Triangle area. The Durham Sports Committee is very excited to have this event back in Durham."

For the first time in tournament history, ACC Network will carry all games played Tuesday, May 23 through Saturday, May 27. ESPN or ESPN2 will continue to carry the Sunday Championship Game.

Durham Bulls Athletic Park has played host to the ACC Baseball Championship 10 times previously, most recently in 2019. The total attendance of 64,140 for the 2015 Championship was the third largest in tournament history.

Durham Athletic Park, the Bulls' previous home venue, welcomed the ACC Championship in 1984 and 1986. The 2023 tournament will be the ACC's 49th Baseball Championship and the 25th played in the state of North Carolina.

The 10,000-seat Durham Bulls Athletic Park, located in downtown Durham, can be accessed from the Durham Freeway. The ballpark reflects many characteristics of old-time parks and the historic downtown Durham architecture. A 32-foot-high wall stands in left field 305 feet from home plate, resembling Fenway Park's Green Monster. The Blue Monster, as it's called in Durham, contains a similar old-style manual scoreboard.

A roof covers approximately 2,500 seats behind home plate and down both the first- and third-base lines to the end of each dugout. All seats at the DBAP are extra wide with seat backs and extra leg room. More than 95 percent of the seats have cup holders. The stadium was designed and built so that every seat gives fans a great view of the field with an intimate ballpark feel.

The ballpark's most distinctive feature is the Snorting Bull which stands tall above the Blue Monster. This bull was modeled after the bull used in the 1988 film, Bull Durham.

Next spring's ACC Baseball Championship will again showcase some of the top talent in all of Division I. Nine ACC teams earned spots in the 2022 NCAA Championship field, one shy of the league record and tying for the most of any conference last season. The ACC has placed at least six teams in the NCAA tournament for 18 straight years.

WILDLIFE REPORT

Mange confirmed in Virginia Bears

Since 2014, DWR has been monitoring reports of sarcoptic mange in Virginia's black bears. Mange is a highly contagious skin disease caused by a mite that affects many wild and domestic animals. From 2014 to 2017 reports were sporadic and primarily focused in the northwestern mountain counties of Frederick and Shenandoah.

Since 2018 reports have increased in frequency and geographic spread, and mange has been confirmed in 18 counties. The public can play a key role in helping DWR understand and manage this disease, not only by being on the lookout for bears infested with mites, but also by reporting them.

Currently, there are many unknowns related to the occurrence and spread of mange in bears. Research efforts are underway to understand these processes. Mites can transfer to a new host when an unaffected animal comes into direct physical contact with an infested host. In addition, mites that fall off an infested host can persist in the environment and may infect a new animal that enters a site contaminated with mange mites.

Because bears are relatively solitary, the biggest risk for environmental transmission likely occurs under conditions where they congregate, either naturally (e.g., dens) or unnaturally (e.g., garbage cans, bait piles, bird feeders and other food resources).

Virginia's first mange-affected bear was diagnosed in a bear from Rockingham County in 1994. From 2014 to 2017 reports were sporadic and primarily focused in the northwestern mountain counties of Frederick and Shenandoah. Since 2018, reports have increased in frequency and geographic spread, and mange has been confirmed in 14 counties. DWR asks anyone who sees a bear showing signs of mange as described below to take photos, note your exact location (take GPS coordinates, if possible), and submit this information to the VA Wildlife Conflict Helpline at vawildlifeconflict@usda.gov or (1-855-571-9003).
