Four seek spots on Radford School Board

Four candidates have qualified to run for the Radford School Board: Chris Calfee, Ed Dickenson, Jane Swing, and Gloria Boyd.

Chris Calfee

Chris Calfee

A lifelong resident of Radford, Chris Calfee has been in the banking industry for 20 years, most of it as a branch manager. Presently, he is a commercial lender with Summit Community bank in Christiansburg. He is also a community representative for the President's Board of New River Community College and was recently voted the board's vice-chair. He is also an alumnus of Liberty University, having received his bachelor of business administration degree from Liberty.

His wife, Becki, and he met at Radford High School 30 years ago where they were both members of the Marching Bobcat Band and went to church together. They still volunteer and play an active role with the Bobcat band.

Chris says his drive led him to his decision to run for school board, having heard from many parents, teachers, and students about their concerns. He attends school board meetings regularly, speaking out about what he was hearing and seeing. "I learned quickly that not everyone is comfortable speaking out or voicing their opinion, so I tried to help," he said. "When the option to run for a seat at the board came open, it only made sense that I would run for office so that all parents, teachers, and students could get a representative

Gloria Boyd

Gloria Boyd

Gloria Boyd is a lifelong resident of Radford who married Dwight Boyd, another lifelong Radford resident. Their three adult children were educated in the Radford City Schools. She received a bachelor of science degree in early childhood education from what is now Radford University.

She taught seven years in Pulaski County and spent 20 years in the Radford City Schools teaching in grades ranging from kindergarten to second grade before retiring in 2019. She also has four years of private preschool experience and 11 years as a prepared childbirth instructor.

She says she feels called to support Radford's families and children to ensure a quality academic education and plans to be a voice for all stakeholders: families, students, faculty and staff as well as taxpayers. "I want to protect teachers and the integrity of their classroom instruction. We must make our schools peaceful, respectful places of solid academic instruction again," she says.

Ed Dickenson

Ed Dickenson is a Radford resident of 12 years, living on Ingles Mountain with his wife Jessica and son Grant who attends McHarg Elementary. He is a licensed home inspector and the owner of a small business, Solid Spec Home Inspection Services. As a home inspector he enjoys educating homeowners about all aspects of their home and he especially enjoys conducting "building forensics" to determine the cause of, or the potential for, costly issues.

He is retired from the Army National Guard with close to 22 years of service, both active and part time. Assignments during his military career include being a soldier in local infantry units, recruiting and retention, and brigade operations. His other previous work history includes five years as a Deputy Sheriff in Roanoke County and five years working as an operations manager for DataSafe Inc.

He studied business management at Virginia Tech after high school and before joining the military. He volunteers with Habitat for Humanity, teaching home maintenance and improvement classes to new homeowners. He also volunteers as a regional leader for the Virginia National Guard Family Programs, acting as a contact for military families and coordinating donations of school supplies and Christmas gifts for military families and local families in need.

He says he is seeking election to the school board because he wants to ensure that teachers and parents have the support and resources they need to provide for a positive educational experience for the children. If elected, he will use the following concepts as his guiding principles:

He believes there is a critical obligation to educate children and provide for their future success. A school system has one main goal and purpose: to educate children properly and effectively. The main resource to accomplish this is the teachers, and the administration and school leadership are duty-bound to support the teachers. Parental involvement and responsibility in education should be both fostered and welcomed. Politics have no place in the administration of education. Transparency and fiscal responsibility are crucial for public reporting and government accountability. He believes that his military leadership and management experience will allow him to make goal-directed, logical, and reality-based decisions if he is elected. He wants to bring his diverse skill set to the board to provide competent and common-sense guidance.

Jane Swing

Jane Swing is a retired career educator who has worked in K-12 Special Education programs in North Carolina and Arkansas. After earning an advanced degree from Radford University, she

Economic development flourishing in Radford, city manager reports

The city is currently seeing about $8 million in development activity, Radford City Manager David Ridpath reported to the Radford City Council Monday.

The Highlander Hotel, pictured here, is one of the reasons for that total and is a project of the Radford University Foundation. Ridpath said the hotel should be operational in 30 to 60 days. Other commercial development is happening along East and West Main Streets, Ridpath said, adding the city is experiencing one of the highest number of new residential properties being developed in recent history, "everything from apartments to patio homes and single family homes in a wide variety of prices."

"There's a lot of good news on the economical development side right now," Ridpath said.

Environmental group pushes to shut down RAAP's open burn area

A newly released document is pushing for shutting down the open burn area at the Radford Army Ammunition (RAAP).

The document is from the groups, Citizens for Arsenal Accountability, Earthjustice's Community Partnerships Program (CPP), and the Center for Progressive Reform (CPR).

CAA is a community organization composed of citizens in Southwest Virginia that advocates stopping the open burning of toxic munitions and eliminating pollution produced by the Radford Army Ammunition Plant to ensure clean air, water, and soil for the New River Valley.

Earthjustice's Community Partnerships Program provides legal and advocacy resources to local leaders demanding a safe, just, and healthy environment in which their communities can thrive – no matter how long the fight.

CPP works hand-in-hand with frontline communities to remove environmental hazards and secure access to environmental benefits. CPP acts collectively with community partners to challenge harmful social and political structures and to improve the environmental conditions in neighborhoods.

The report says, "At military bases across the country, the Department of Defense (DoD) has for decades relied on a practice known as open burn/open detonation (OB/OD) to destroy excess, unserviceable, or obsolete military munitions, including small arms cartridges, rockets, mortars, missiles, and other items. Open burn and open detonation harm the environment and human health as these practices result in the uncontrolled release of toxic constituents directly into the air, soil, worked in adult education and literacy programs through New River Community College. She taught classes at Volvo, Radford Foundry, and Radford University in addition to public classes offered in various locations throughout the New River Valley.

When Radford City Schools contracted with the New River offices to provide instruction for their alternate education students, she was hired as the instructor for that class. She was employed at Radford University as the Director of the Office of Adult Education and Literacy, which worked directly with the Office of Adult Education and Learning in the Virginia Department of Education in Richmond. As the director, she organized meetings and staff development for adult educators across the commonwealth.

She contracted with venues for meeting space, food, lodging, and all the other necessities at their site. She also contracted with state and national speakers to lead sessions during these meetings. She oversaw the writing of content standards for adult education programs in Virginia by securing the participation of field experts, program managers, adult education specialists, and teachers from the adult education programs across the state. This was a two-year process involving reaching, writing, revising, and editing.

During her tenure at Radford University, she secured grant money for sixty-two projects totaling over $5 million. She has worked with a diverse group of stakeholders throughout her career that included students, teachers, administrators, state agency officials, and business and industry groups.

She also worked as a substitute teacher for Radford City

Schools and has volunteered with Radford City Schools as a classroom parent, a Book Fair assistant, and a band parent responsible for uniforms in addition to donating food for band kids and providing transportation and support for all their performances and programs. She assisted with the band fruit drive by driving band members around communities to collect orders. She also sorted fruit when it arrived and helped to deliver orders.

She continues to give her time, finances, and talents to the community through Meals on Wheels, Literacy Volunteers of the New River Valley, The American Red Cross, and faith-based community activities.

She believes literacy, education, and access to opportunities are key factors, not only for the growth and development of the community's children but also for the growth of the city.

This is where the report points to the New River Valley.

“RAAP has released millions of pounds of harmful toxins and heavy metals into surrounding communities and the environment as a result of its day-to-day operations,” the report says. “The facility has made matters worse with its long record of violations and lack of compliance with permitting requirements. As a result, nearby residents face pollution burdens that create an elevated risk of asthma and cancer compared to the rest of the state. On top of all of this, RAAP and the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality (VDEQ) have also failed to provide sufficient transparency about operations at the arsenal. Community members are often left in the dark not knowing what they are being exposed to or what is being done to ensure they are protected.”

According to the group, the harmful pollution from RAAP has continued for too long without adequate oversight or accountability.

Citizens for Arsenal Accountability makes the following recommendations:

1. End Open Burning at RAAP. Open burning of hazardous wastes at RAAP must end, and the facility should put in place the safest alternative technology.

2. Third-Party Alternatives Assessment. An alternatives assessment should be conducted by a neutral third party to ensure that the facility has chosen the most environmental and health protective option.

3. Close the Old Incinerators. The two old incinerators at RAAP must close once an alternative technology is in place, pursuant to a transparent and enforceable schedule.

4. Improve Transparency and Community Involvement. VDEQ and RAAP should make greater efforts to ensure that community members are aware of what is happening at the facility, including, for instance, creating an online repository of information. RAAP has continually endangered community members and the environment through its use of open burning, as well as incineration, to treat hazardous wastes.

The facility also repeatedly violates its permit limits resulting in additional pollution releases that are harmful to the health of community members and the environment. This report describes the history of RAAP, its current operations, its pattern of noncompliance, and the environmental and health risks presented by the facility's operations.

5. Improve Compliance. VDEQ must ensure that there are consequences for noncompliance and that the facility takes affirmative steps to make sure that violations do not continue to occur.

6. Conduct a Cumulative Hazard Assessment and a Community Health Assessment. Virginia legislators should allocate funding so that a cumulative hazard assessment and a community health assessment can be conducted by a neutral third-party.

RAAP has been ranked as one of the largest polluters in Virginia since 2001, but plant and U.S. Army officials do have a plan to eliminate the open burning area.

A new permit has been approved for an explosive waste incinerator at the Radford arsenal, but the facility will not be online until 2026.

The environmental groups are asking the open burn area to be shut down immediately.

In a previous statement, the U.S. Army said it is working toward a safe, efficient, and environmentally-friendly solution for the management of RFAAP's onsite solid and hazardous wastes. The environmental groups say the delay in getting the incinerator online is taking too long.

The plant manufactures many types of explosives, ammunitions, and rocket fuel, and containments associated with the manufacture of these products included heavy metals and solvents.

This summer, the BAE Systems' ordnance unit was given a new $1.29 billion contract to continue to run the government-owned ammunition manufacturing complex in Virginia.

Road trip

very edge of the ancestral Appalachian Mountain range,” Associate Professor Jonathan Tso said. They each peered through the raindrops over into West Virginia, where the colossal mountains that stand there now did not exist 250 million years ago.

“There, we were trying to give students a scale of geology, the time aspect of it and how the landscape of our region has developed,” said Tso, chair of Radford University's Department of Geology, explaining the purpose of the visit to the outlook. It was one stop on the annual new-student field trip the department organizes at the beginning of each fall semester.

The daylong excursion serves as an orientation for students who are new to the university's geology major. It is open to freshmen and transfer students, as well as those Radford students who, before the fall semester, switched majors to geology. Plus, it allows students to get to know fellow geology majors and their professors, who led discussions and offered their expertise at each site.

“This trip gives students an opportunity to learn the geology of the region, and it may also be the first time they have been on a real geology field experience,” Tso said.

“The trip was a ton of fun and a great way to introduce the next generation of geology students at Radford to the field,” said Ava Gorski, a freshman geology major from Chesapeake, Virginia. “It was also a good way to get to know the faculty of the department.”

Radford University President Bret Danilowicz, who came to Radford from Florida to take the campus leadership role in July, went along on the excursion to bond with students and to take the opportunity to learn about his new geographic and geological surroundings in Southwest Virginia.

“His being there was very cool,” Gorski said of the president's presence. “It shows that he really cares about the students here at Radford, and he likes to get involved.”

The trip began early on Saturday morning on Sept. 10. The group of students, faculty and their president met on campus and traveled by vans to Little River Dam on the outskirts of Radford.

“There is a great exposure there where we have many types of rocks, like limestone carbonate bedrock,” Tso said as an example. “You can see layer after layer after layer, and we talked with the students about what it was like here in Radford when these rocks were first exposed.”

One of the next stops was in Giles County at a site that has been prepared for the Mountain Valley Pipeline. “That was an interesting stop because it involves the practical application of geology,” Tso said. “We discussed the difficulties of how a pipeline can be laid on this very rugged terrain. Also, we discussed the social and political issues involved with the pipeline.”

And then, there were fossils along the way.

“Once you start looking for fossils, you can't stop,” Tso said, laughing.

However, after a short while digging through dirt in the Virginia-West Virginia border town of Glen Lyn, Virginia, the group trekked to the Bluefield overlook before making one last stop near Interstate 77 in Wytheville. There, they examined exposed rocks “where the geological record is fragmentary,” Tso said, “and there are gaps of time missing.”

The field trip “is basically a grand tour of some of the rocks we have in our region,” Tso said, and it serves as a primer to what it's like to be a student in Radford's Department of Geology, which provides them with a basic framework for a professional career in geology, for graduate studies in the discipline, or for licensure to teach earth and space science.

Garrett O'Hara is a senior geology major from Burke, Virginia, who was among the few upperclassmen invited on the trip to help build a sense of community among geology majors. He had been a trip participant as a new student to Radford in 2021 and found it to be a valuable experience in acclimating to the campus and the geology program.

This year, as he piloted drones overheard at each site, he was pleased to show students another aspect of the Department of Geology; its popular Unmanned Aerial Vehicle (UAV) Center and drone research program.

“My experience on the field trip was foundational to my Radford experience,” O'Hara said. “When I transferred to Radford last year, the new-student field trip helped me make connections from what we learn in class to real-world applications and examples.”

Getting to know fellow students in a classroom setting can be difficult, O'Hara acknowledged, “but having an engaging activity like sifting through rocks to find fossils really opens up conversations.”

Another conversation that develops along the trip is the one where faculty explain to students about many research opportunities that are available to them.

“We stress to the students that they can work on research projects with their professors,” Tso said. “Because doing so is a major part of the Radford University experience. And this trip is a great way to show students all of the many possibilities that are available to them in our major, and they get to see geology in ways they haven't seen it before.”

Last year's inaugural class of the Undergraduate Student Senate outside of Burruss Hall.

"Everyone is welcome," said Mallory Fields, student advisor and co-coordinator of the inauguration, "We encourage anyone in the Hokie Community with an interest in the event to come."

The inauguration is scheduled to take place on the second floor of Squires

Student Center in the Commonwealth Ballroom. Doors are set to open at 6 p.m. The official ceremony will start at 6:30 p.m.

Upon arrival, guests will be asked to check in at the USS tables outside of Commonwealth Ballroom. Virginia Tech students should bring their Hokie Passports for check-in.

For the first time, attendees will have the opportunity to hear current USS President Caroline Lohr deliver the Hokie address to the student body and elected senate members. Other presenters include Fields; Kat Nelson, deputy director for the USS; and a soon-to-be announced guest speaker.

"Our inauguration is a pivotal moment for newly elected officials," said Mikey Ventura, USS elections commissioner and director of membership development, "They are sworn in and officially become a member of the USS. It is a celebration and a ceremony."

The USS will welcome 17 senators at-large, 28 college senators, 15 university-chartered student organization senators, and seven cabinet members to serve for the 2022-23 academic year. The cabinet members include

Local NAACP branch holds Freedom Fund program

The Montgomery County-Radford City-Floyd County Branch of the NAACP held its 46th Freedom Fund Program, "We Won't Go Back," on Oct. 1 at Asbury United Methodist Church and on Facebook Live. Some 40 invited guests attended in person, and more than 200 viewed on-line.

Mistress of Ceremonies Doris Bishop Kaine, welcomed the attendees after which Dr. Gena Chandler-Smith and her daughter, Nyala Smith, accompanied by Dr. Michael Herndon on Piano, sang "Lift Every Voice and Sing." An invocation by branch religious affairs chair the Rev. Michael Sanborn followed.

Branch President Deborah Travis provided greetings and remembered members who passed on during the last year: Patricia Berger, Shirley Berger Lockhart, Isabel Berney, Josie Shotts, Kathrine Robinson, and the Rev. Christine Brownlee.

Next on the evening's program was the announcement of the winners of the Samuel H. Clark Scholarships of $1000 each, to Kylee Eaves (from Blacksburg High School, attending New River Community College), Tyree Dobson (from Radford HS, attending Virginia Military Institute), Sean Herndon (from Christiansburg High School, attending the University of Richmond), Darius Wesley-Brubeck (from Christiansburg High School, attending the University of Arizona), and Jaxson Clarke (from Christiansburg High School, also attending Virginia Military Institute). Youth Council President Tyler Graves brought greetings from the youth.

Janet Hahn was recognized as a 2022 fully paid Silver Life Member by Membership Chair Roxie Palmer.

Following Jason Diggs II's solo rendition of "Stand," Branch President Travis and branch Secretary Shirley Akers recognized patrons of the evening's event and thanked them with baskets of books regarding African-American history and goods from African-American businesses. Branch benefactors at the $1000 level were Asbury United Methodist Church, Schaeffer Memorial Baptist Church, and Moog, Inc.

Branch sustainers at the $500 level were Carilion Clinic-New River Valley, the League of Women Voters of Montgomery County, and United Auto Workers, Local 2069.

Supporters at the $300 level were Dr. Susan and Dr. Basil Gooden, Dr. William and Mary Lee Hendricks, Dr. Erogan and Mrs. Gunin Kiran, Dr. James Klagge and the Rev. Kathy Carpenter, the Rev. Archie Richmond and Dr. Barbara Pendergrass, and St. Paul African Methodist Episcopal Church.

Michael Herndon performed a piano medley of "Center of My Joy," "I Love You Lord Today," and "Amazing Grace."

The Nannie B. Hairston Award is awarded annually to an NAACP member of this branch who has served the community in a variety of ways and who has worked for justice for all people in support of the mission of the NAACP. This year's award went to Debbie Sherman-Lee of Christiansburg. The award was presented by Shirley Akers with the assistance of last year's winner, Dr. Wornie Reed.

Sherman-Lee grew up in Christiansburg, attended Christiansburg Institute briefly, and graduated from Christiansburg High School, later earning a degree in health and physical education. She went on to teach health and physical Education in Montgomery County's Public Schools for 36 years until she retired in 2010.

Over the years she was a member of the Community Group and the New Mountain Climbers and a volunteer with the Christmas Store. She has been instrumental in the Dialogue on Race, and the 100+ Women Who Care in the New River Valley. She is a longtime member of Asbury United Methodist Church, and she currently serves as chairperson of the Christiansburg Institute, Inc. In 2017, she received the NAACP Branch's Community Service Award in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Dr. Nathaniel L. Bishop introduced the evening's keynote speaker, the Rev. Dr. William Lee, who retired after 39 years as pastor of Loudon Avenue Christian Church. Dr. Lee is the founding director and current treasurer of New Horizons Health Care, a Federally Qualified Health Care Center in Roanoke. He has been awarded the Key to the City of Roanoke three times, including 2011 when he was named the Roanoke Citizen of the Year.

Rev. Lee's keynote address was titled "We won't go back, if..." He spelled out five conditions that need to be met to avoid a return to how things used to be.

1. If we get serious about voting,

"Lift Every Voice and Sing," was sung as a duet during the evening by Dr. Gena Chandler-Smith and her daughter Nyala Smith, accompanied by Dr. Michael Herndon on piano.

NAACP Youth Council President Tyler Graves brought greetings from the youth.

The Nannie B. Hairston Award, presented each year to a branch member who has worked for justice for all people in support of the NAACP's mission, went to Debbie Sherman-Lee of Christiansburg (left), presented by Shirley Akers (right), with the assistance of last year's winner, Dr. Wornie Reed (center).

Rev. Lee took his parents to vote after the poll tax was repealed. A poll worker claimed that since his father was illiterate he could not vote, but Dr. Lee knew that he was allowed to read the ballot for and assist his father.

2. If we realize we are not yet a post-racial society. As far as we have come, still we must not equate advancement toward our goals with arrival.

3. If we work together and avoid a silo mentality. The 1963 March on Washington brought together ten different organizations under a "Big Tent." That historic event was possible only through the leadership of Bayard Rustin, a gay former communist conscientious objector, who worked behind the scenes because the other leaders of the movement were not willing to put him up front.

4. If we include everybody. Rev. Lee emphasized the importance of including children and youth, not just for appearance, but taking their ideas seriously. He recounted a time when he was concerned about youth in his own congregation using their phones during his sermon, only to find they were making posts on social media about his sermon, spreading his words far beyond the walls of his church.

5. If we have a succession plan. Some of us stay in power too long. It is important to leave office when people still want you to stay. We must prepare people to continue our work into the future.

Branch President Travis presented the Rev. Dr. Lee with a gift of appreciation. The banquet concluded with a benediction by Dr. Nathaniel Bishop.

Part circus, part science, 'Air Play' is a breathtaking homage to the power of air Audiences of all ages are mesmerized by "Air Play," a fantastic fusion of circus and science. Coming to the Moss Arts Center on Sunday, Oct. 23, at 2 p.m., Acrobuffos brings a theatrical adventure complete with flying umbrellas, fabrics soaring over the audience, people-swallowing balloons, and swirling snow filling the stage.

A breathtaking homage to the power of air, the performance will be held in the center's Anne and Ellen Fife Theater, located within the Street and Davis Performance Hall at 190 Alumni Mall.

Creating beauty and inspiring laughter across cultures, the production has been seen on five continents by 150,000 people from the southernmost opera house in the world in Chile to London's Royal Festival Hall, Melbourne's State Theater, and Shanghai's Grand Theater and continues to tour.

Featuring stunning imagery, "Air Play" bounces on the edge of definition — part comedy, part sculpture, part theater. A circus-style, wordless adventure of two siblings journeying through a surreal land of air, the genre-bending production transforms ordinary objects into uncommon beauty. Created by physical comedians Seth Bloom and Christina Gelsone in collaboration with kinetic sculptor Daniel Wurtzel, "Air Play" was devised through years of experimentation with simple materials, movement, and technology.

Creators Bloom and Gelsone met at a circus in Afghanistan, became engaged while street performing in Scotland, married in China, and occasionally go home to New York City. Since 2005, they have created seven shows, competed in international circus festivals, performed in over 25

VDOT ROAD WATCH

The following is a list of forecasted highway projects that may impact traffic traveling in the 12-county Salem Transportation District this week. Work schedules and construction project timelines are always subject to change and weather dependent. The Salem District covers Bedford, Botetourt, Carroll, Craig, Floyd, Franklin, Giles, Henry, Montgomery, Patrick, Pulaski and Roanoke counties.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY

I-81 NORTHBOUND AT EXIT 105 NEW RIVER BRIDGE REPLACEMENT IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY - Traffic on northbound I-81 has been switched onto the newly constructed bridge over the New River at the Montgomery/Pulaski County line. The old bridge is being demolished. Lane and shoulder closures may be in place near exit 105. Lane closure may be in effect during the week from 8 p.m. to 7 a.m. Shoulder closures may be in effect at any time during the week. Slow rolls may be performed on I-81 in the north and southbound lanes from mile marker 98 to 109. Speed limit is reduced to 60 miles per hour in the work zone. Shoulder closures will remain in place though the duration of the project. Project completion is estimated by summer 2023.

ROUTE 605: Intermittent flagging operations will be present on Route 605, located under the New River Bridge, for work overhead on the bridge.

LANE CLOSURES: Nighttime alternating lane closures will be in place on I-81 northbound between mile markers 104-106 from 7 p.m. to 6 a.m. the following morning.

SLOW ROLLS: Slow rolls may be utilized periodically on both the northbound and southbound lanes from mile marker 98-109 for structural steel deliveries and setting beams.

I-81 PAVING OPERATIONS - Weather permitting, crews will pave, patch and repair pavement on various routes. Lane closures may be in place during nighttime hours, 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. the following morning. Drivers should watch for signs and expect possible delays.

Botetourt County: Left lane closures on I-81 northbound between mile marker 147 and 149.

Montgomery County: Right lane closures in place for paving of I-81 southbound between mile marker 130 to 128.

Pulaski County: Right lane closures in place for paving of I-81 northbound between mile marker 102 to 104.

Roanoke County: Alternating lane closures on I-81 northbound for milling and paving from mile marker 134.5 to 132.4, 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. the following morning. Periodically, exit 132 northbound may be closed. Message boards will notify drivers.

Roanoke County: The exit 141 on-ramp on southbound I-81 may periodically be closed. Message boards will notify drivers.

ROUTE 615 CULVERT REPLACEMENT - Route 615 (Pilot Road) is undergoing a culvert replacement located at the intersection of Pilot Road and Old Pike Road, across from the Pilot Post Office. Flagging operations may continue to be in place. Route 615 will be limited to one 10 foot lane.

ROUTE 622 BRIDGE WORK CLOSURE - Route 622 (Bradshaw Road) is closed for a bridge maintenance project over Bradshaw Creek. The location of the bridge is 0.10 mile from the Roanoke County line and 2.0 miles from Route 623. Drivers will need to seek alternate routes and residents on the road will have access to their homes during the closure. The road is expected to be open on October 20.

ROUTE 8 EVENT TRAFFIC CONGESTION - Route 8 may experience heavy traffic on fall weekends due to congestion related to tourist events at local farms in the area. If possible, motorists should utilize detours to avoid traveling on Route 8 between Christiansburg and Riner during the peak hours of 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

INTERSTATE 81

INTERSTATE 81 LANE WIDENING CONSTRUCTION PROJECT EXIT 137 TO EXIT 141 - A $179 million design-build project to widen both directions of I-81 between mile markers 136.6 and 141.8 from two to three lanes is set to begin. Work will be performed on the inside and outside shoulders along a five mile section of both northbound and southbound Interstate 81 in Roanoke County and the city of Salem. The shoulders will be built up before a barrier wall can be installed for road crews to work behind. A barrier wall will be installed along the shoulders in the spring and summer. Two lanes of I-81 traffic in each direction will remain open during the project with periodic lane closures scheduled during nighttime hours or outside of peak travel times as needed. Drivers can expect the following lane closures and upcoming impacts on northbound and southbound I-81:

RAMP CLOSURES: Ramp closures at exit 137 are possible during nighttime hours, 12 a.m., to 5 a.m. Drivers should watch for message boards dates and times the ramp will be closed.

LANE CLOSURES: Alternating left and right lane and shoulder closures during nighttime hours between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m., Sunday through Thursday, are possible. Lane widths will be reduced to 11 feet.

o Northbound lane closures from I-81 mile marker 136 to 141.

o Southbound Lane closures from I-81 mile marker 141 to 136.

Nightly lane closures may be in place along the right lane with possible nightly ramp narrows as needed for guardrail and shoulder strengthening.

• Northbound I-81 lane closures from mile marker 138 to 142

• Northbound I-81 exit and entrance ramp narrows possible at Route 311.

The project also includes replacing six bridges, widening two bridges, installing approximately 2.6 miles of sound barrier walls along northbound I-81, improving the southbound exit 137 off-ramp intersection at Wildwood Road and adding interchange lighting at exits 137, 140 and 141 are also included in the project. Expected completion in early 2026.

I-81 TROUTVILLE REST AREA CLOSURE - The Troutville Rest Area located on southbound Interstate 81 near mile marker 158 in Botetourt County will remain closed until before Thanksgiving to support holiday travel. The opening scheduled for the end of September has been rescheduled due to the contractor encountering challenges with a slope on the project.

Signage indicating the closure is posted in the rest area. A temporary concrete barrier wall will remain in place in front of the facility. The rest area facility, ramps and parking lot are closed to the public. This project will extend the ramp into the rest area by 500 feet and the ramp out of the rest area by 2,100 feet. It will also include expanding the truck parking area at the facility by about 10-13 spaces

REST AREA OPTIONS: While the Troutville Rest Area is closed, southbound I-81 drivers can use the Fairfield Rest Area at mile marker 195 in Rockbridge County or the Radford Rest Area at mile marker 108 in Montgomery County. In addition, the Troutville Weigh Station, located on southbound I-81 at mile marker 149, will have portable toilets and parking will be temporarily available for commercial vehicles.

I-81 BRIDGE DECK REPAIRS - Weather permitting, crews will repair bridge decks on Interstate 81. Between mile markers 138 to 152, right and left lane closures will be in place northbound and southbound during nighttime hours, 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. the following morning. Drivers should watch for signs and expect possible delays.

I-81 POT HOLE PATCHING OPERATIONS - Weather permitting, crews will patch potholes along southbound and northbound Interstate 81. Mobile right and left lane closures will be in place and moving along northbound and southbound lanes during nighttime hours, 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. the following morning. Drivers should watch for moving vehicles and equipment. Expect possible delays.

WORSHIP DIRECTORY

“See what kind of love the Father has given to us, that we should be called children of God; and so we are. The reason why the world does not know us is that it did not know him. Beloved, we are God’s children now, and what we will be has not yet appeared; but we know that when he appears we shall be like him, because we shall see him as he is. And everyone who thus hopes in him purifies himself as he is pure.”
1 John 3:1-3

“Therefore, brothers, since we have confidence to enter the holy places by the blood of Jesus, by the new and living way that he opened for us through the curtain, that is, through his flesh, and since we have a great priest over the house of God, let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith, with our hearts sprinkled clean from an evil conscience and our bodies washed with pure water. Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering, for he who promised is faithful.”
Hebrews 10:19-23

Stafford, Louise Wright

Louise Wright Stafford, 102, of step-great-grandchildren, Aaron Fairlawn, passed away Sunday, Sept. 25, 2022.

Louise was born in Glade Springs, Va., and moved with her parents to Radford when she was six months old. She joined First Baptist Church in Radford in 1940 and over the years served her Lord in Sunday School, as a member of circle and WMU, and on many committees of the church. She was also a member of the Wildwood Garden Club and a 50-year member of the Eastern Star. Louise retired from Leggett's Dept Store where she worked for many years. She was an avid fan of the Radford Bobcats and the VT Hokies.

Louise was a beloved wife, mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother but she will best be remembered for her faith, love, care, and support of and for her family and for all who knew and loved her. She was preceded in death by her beloved husband, Bill; her daughter, Ann Sutton; her son, Bill Stafford, Jr.; her parents, James Cleveland and Lucille Bonham Wright; two sisters and eight brothers.

She is survived by a special grandson and his wife, Kirk and Tanya Sutton; a great-granddaughter, Haley Ann Sutton; and Megan Leonard and Madison Bland; a daughter-in-law, Mildred "Mert" Stafford; a special niece, Donna Gilmore, and her husband Guy; and special friends Mitzi (an "adopted daughter") and her husband Wayne Barnett, Nelson Sifford, and Barbara Newcomb; and many nieces and nephews.

The family would like to thank Jessie and the rest of the Intrepid Hospice group, Alisha Hoops and Jody Mills, for their compassion and care for the last few months.

The family will receive friends from 1 until 2 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 21, 2022, at the First Baptist Church. Funeral services will begin at 2 p.m. with the Rev. Kent Taylor and the Rev. Jim Baucom officiating. Interment will follow in Sunrise Burial Park in Fairlawn.

In lieu of flowers, please consider a donation to Radford Fire and Rescue, 1500 Wadsworth St., Radford, VA 24141 or to First Baptist Church, 215 Third Ave., Radford, VA 24141. The Stafford family is in the care of Mullins Funeral Home & Crematory in Radford. www.mullinsfuneralhome.com.

Webb, Dency Mae

Dency Mae Webb, 85, of Pulaski, Jeter, and Kalianah Jeter; a brother, Aaron Webb; sisters Martha Olverson and Lydia Wade; a special friend, Julie Webb; and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends.

The family will receive friends from noon until 1 p.m. today, Saturday, Oct. 15, 2022, at Randolph United Methodist Church in Pulaski. Funeral services will begin at 1 p.m. with the Rev. Douglas Patterson officiating. Interment will follow in Pinehurst Cemetery in Pulaski.

The Webb family is in the care of Mullins Funeral Home & Crematory in Radford.

Survivors include her daughters, Cheryl Webb (Jerry Hardy), Betty Jeter and Patricia Adams; grandchildren Eric Webb, Lekeshia Webb, Roger Adams, and David Jeter, Jr.; great-grandchildren, Erika Webb, Eriyah Webb, Briella

openings available at the time of the study. Maryland came in second with the mid-Atlantic state boasting high salaries of $110,790 on average with 54.35 tech jobs per 1,000 jobs, and 116.27 vacancies for every 100,000 people. Being employed with the average tech salary combined with the average annual rent spend meant that those in the field would be putting only 9.97% of their salary towards rent, one of the lowest numbers of any state on the list. The state also had 27,139 remote tech openings available, for those wanting to work from home.

The state of Washington was found to have the highest number of jobs in tech per 1,000 with 59.32, as well as the highest average salary of any state with $124,000 a year. However, due to the lower number of vacancies available - 61.69 per 100,000 people, which is just half the rate in Virginia - it only comes in third. Estimations show that 21.24% of average tech wages in the state will be spent on rent. There were found to be 27,546 remote tech jobs available at the time of the study as well.

Study: Virginia is the best state to work in tech

A new study from a management company SmallPDF recently analyzed data such as salaries, employment rates, and vacancies in the tech field across every US state and ranked Virginia as the best state to work in right now.

The company found that Virginia is the best state to work in tech right now due to high average wages in the computer and mathematical occupations field with $110,510 a year, with 58.44 persons employed in the field per 1,000 jobs, and the highest current tech vacancies with 128.97 openings per 100,000 people in the industry. When measuring the average salary against the average annual rent spend, those employed in the field would be spending only 21.68% of their salary on rent. Those wanting to work in tech remotely also have lots of options with 27,563 remote openings available at the time of the study. Maryland came in second with the mid-Atlantic state boasting high salaries of $110,790 on average with 54.35 tech jobs per 1,000 jobs, and 116.27 vacancies for every 100,000 people. Being employed with the average tech salary combined with the average annual rent spend meant that those in the field would be putting only 9.97% of their salary towards rent, one of the lowest numbers of any state on the list. The state also had 27,139 remote tech openings available, for those wanting to work from home.

The state of Washington was found to have the highest number of jobs in tech per 1,000 with 59.32, as well as the highest average salary of any state with $124,000 a year. Estimations show that 21.24% of average tech wages in the state will be spent on rent. There were found to be 27,546 remote tech jobs available at the time of the study as well.

The study found that the worst state for tech workers is Mississippi with low tech salaries on average of $70,870 a year, low tech employment with 11.857 per 1,000 jobs, and the lowest number of tech vacancies with only 16.03 vacancies per 100,000 people.

According to the study, the top 10 states for tech and the annual salary are 1. Virginia $110,510 2. Maryland $110,790 3. Washington $124,000 4. Colorado $104,210 5. Massachusetts $112,270 6. Delaware $102,000 7. Minnesota $96,290 8. New Jersey $108,800 9. Utah $86,600 10. Nebraska $81,090

Commenting on the findings, a spokesperson for SmallPDF said: "It's fascinating to see how many states are nowadays offering solid salaries in tech jobs, as well as lots of opportunities, especially in the northeast regions of the United States. With the increase in remote working, we're relying more than ever on technology to ensure our work processes are smooth and easy, from collaborating on documents to digitally signing contracts."

Hokies ready to defend the rings in 2022-23

Marty Gordon
NRVsports@mainstreetnewspapers.com

The reigning, defending ACC Tournament titleholders, Virginia Tech men's basketball team officially received their championship rings at a recent home football game. But this week, the label was used over and over again during ACC Media Days in Charlotte, N.C.

On-air personalities from the ACC Network asked Coach Mike Young where his ring was, and he told them it was just too "big" to wear.

"I probably won't ever wear it...it's in a safe place at home," he said with a chuckle.

Young said being last year's tournament champs has come up a lot especially during this week's interviews.

"It comes up a lot, and I want it to come up more," he said. "But there comes a time when those wonderful experiences with a group of people that I admired so much, with some luck and good health, we'll get back together 10 years from now, 20 years from now, and it'll be a lot of fun."

But putting all this success aside, Young said this year's team also has a lot that they want to accomplish.

"This team has put a lot of work in through the summer months and through the fall, and I'm just as excited about this team's potential and prospects as I've ever been," the coach said.

For the first time in four years, Young will not be able to look down his bench for Keve Aluma, who followed him to Tech from Wofford.

"Yeah, I've had the incredible chance to coach a lot of really good ones, and this team is not last year's team. This team is different. The personality is different. Aluma was a really talented player. Bailed us out, was that shot clock, gets low on a number of occasions," he said.

Now, the 20-year head coach (his fourth in Blacksburg) will lean on Mutts and Cattoor. "I am convinced that we'll figure it out. It will be different a little bit. I don't think dramatically. We're not going to change how we play."

"He (Aluma) was talented, but there should be -- you hope there are always other talented people coming through the ranks, and I think that's where we are with this team and this current Virginia Tech team," Young said.

It could be easier to sell his program to future players and the fans at large as a "champion brand" as opposed to when he came in and started, than just a challenger one.

"That part of it's great and a real tribute, again, to our players, Justyn, Hunter, that team, and what a magic carpet ride that was," Young said. "It was not blue skies and smooth waters through a lot of that time, but when it mattered most, they stayed the course. They hung in there. They trusted the process.

"We get to Brooklyn playing good basketball and win it. It's been a real shot in the arm for our basketball program, for Southwest Virginia, and as I've said many times it was a pleasure to be a small part of it," he said.

While this year's team doesn't necessarily start from scratch, several new faces have put in a lot of time together in the past six months. "It's such a luxury, and it's still new to me. Justyn wasn't with us the first session of summer school, but 10 of the players were. We had our entire team together, the '22-'23 team together, in the second semester of summer school. We can do a lot with them on the floor. We don't overdo it because it's such a long year, but you get a real pulse for that team, for that next team," Young said.

During that same ACC Network interview, the coach told onlookers his team is not that good or maybe championship material as of yet. But they will get there, and he is optimistic about this year's finish line.

A key cog could have come to Blacksburg via the transfer portal.

6-9, 225-pound forward Grant Basile came to Blacksburg after spending his first four years at Wright State. The All-Horizon League second-team selection as a redshirt junior, Basile averaged 18.4 points, 8.5 rebounds, two assists and 1.6 blocks in 32.6 minutes per game. He shot 49.8 percent from the floor and posted 11 double-doubles in 36 outings.

Basile finished ranked in the top 25 among DI players in field goals made (eighth), points (20th) and rebounds (22nd). He started every game for the Raiders, who won 22 games and the Horizon League tournament title. Basile dialed up 21 points in an 87-70 loss to No. 1 seed Arizona in the 2022 NCAA Tournament first round.

The Pewaukee, Wisconsin, native amassed 1,228 career points and 616 career rebounds at Wright State while being named to the All-Horizon League second team twice. He chose the Hokies over Notre Dame, Wisconsin, and Iowa State.

Basile transfers into Tech as a graduate student with two years of eligibility remaining. Also, John Camden from Memphis and Mylyjael Poteat from Rice have joined the Hokie roster.

All of this comes with one of the best recruiting classes ever to come to Blacksburg.

The Hokies finished last season ranked 24th in the country in scoring defense, allowing 62.8 points per game.

Virginia Tech opens its season at home on Monday, Nov. 7, against Delaware State.

FROM THE SIDELINES

Marty Gordon
NRVsports@mainstreetnewspapers.com

Basketball is quickly grabbing the attention of Virginia Tech football fans, and many are starting to wonder if the school is finally becoming a basketball institution and not just that of the gridiron.

The reigning ACC champions were on full display in Charlotte, N.C., on Wednesday, as Coach Mike Young and Hokies, Hunter Cattoor and Justyn Mutts participated in the 2022 ACC Tipoff.

Young kicked off the day on set with the ACC Network crew, discussing last year's ACC Tournament run and giving an outlook on the 2022-23 season.

With the backward slide of the football program, fans have turned to the basketball court, and the program's popularity is seen through continued ticket sales. A lot of fans say this upward slide is thanks to Young's hiring.

Past players have praised Young for his style of play, and Cattoor repeated similar sentiments in front of reporters Wednesday.

"That's what makes Mike Young such a good coach: the confidence that he instills in all of us," Cattoor said. "[If] you miss eight shots in a row, he's going to tell you to keep shooting the next one. So, him just putting confidence out there and us going out there, we were ready for that game. We were ready for that moment. None of us were scared and we were ready to win," the returning sharpshooter said.

Young's teams have made the NCAA Tournament in seven of the last 12 seasons, including being the fastest Virginia Tech coach to make The Dance.

Of course, last year he led the Hokies to their first ACC championship. The Radford native is a two-time National Coach of the Year, earning the status in 2010 (Hugh Durham Award) and 2019 (Sporting News).

His leadership has changed the tide or shall we say the way of thinking about basketball in Blacksburg.

More than a dozen games were sold out last season, and already the dates are looking similar this season, one that has not even started.

Earlier this month, the Virginia Tech athletics department announced that conference-only season- ticket packages have sold out ahead of the Hokies' 2022-23 season. That means all ACC home games are now officially sold out, and the excitement could raise the roof of Cassell Coliseum.

Of course, the home schedule could also attract a lot of attention. Virginia Tech opens its league slate at Cassell Coliseum on Sunday, Dec. 4 vs. North Carolina.

In all, the Hokies host six ACC weekend games to go along with a Big Monday showdown vs. Duke on Jan. 23 in a rematch of last season's ACC title game. Commonwealth Clash rival Virginia will also visit Cassell Saturday, Feb. 4.

Tech's conference opener vs. North Carolina marks the third straight season the Hokies will open ACC play at home, and the first time opening against UNC since the 2009-10 season (That game was in Chapel Hill.) The last time VT and UNC squared off in a conference opener in Blacksburg was Tech's inaugural ACC game on Dec. 19, 2004.

Kitley returns, Lady Hokies optimistic

Marty Gordon
NRVsports@mainstreetnewspapers.com

Liz Kitley is back to lead a Lady Hokies basketball team that finished 23-10 last season, losing to N.C. State in the ACC Tournament semifinals.

Kitley was a key in the successful run but missed the N.C. State game because of an injury in the quarterfinals.

Last season, Elizabeth (her given name) Kitley was among the league leaders in scoring (18.1), rebounds (9.8), blocks (2.4) and field goal percentage (.551) throughout the season. Her 15 double-doubles led the conference as did her 13 games with 20 or more points. She scored 34 points twice and finished the season with a 42-point performance in the NCAA Tournament, the second-most points ever scored in the opening round of the competition. She recorded four or more blocks in nine different contests. Her 237 made field goals set a program record for a single season.

She also ranks ninth all-time at VT in scoring (1,410), fifth in rebounds (800), and third in blocks (187). She is also a two-time first-team All-ACC member, and a two-time Lisa Leslie Award Finalist. She has been on the ACC All-Academic Team three straight years.

Last year's ACC player of the year could find herself with some help this season with the transfer of 6-3 Clara Ford from Boston College. Ford could provide a one-two punch the Lady Hokies have never had. While she started only one game, Ford does provide a much-needed backup to Kitley.

Five key pieces from last year's team have transferred or left. Thus, Head Coach Kenny Brooks will have to reload from the bottom up.

Two more players with experience have also found their way to Blacksburg: 6-0 guard Ashley Owusu was an All-American at the University of Maryland. She was named to the All-Big 10 first team with a scoring average of 14.3 points per game.

Taylor Soule followed Ford from BC where she was in the starting lineup for 33 games, averaged 16.2 points per game and was second-team All-ACC.

Also back is Georgia Amooore, a 5-5 guard from Australia, who started all 33 games and averaged 11.2 points 4.4 assists, per game, the second-most in the ACC. She shot 40% from beyond the arc to lead the conference, making 70 treys. She played all 45 minutes in an epic OT victory over North Carolina in the ACC Tournament, and her crossover 3-pointer against Georgia Tech earned her notice as SportsCenter's Top Play of the day.

During the ACC media kickoff earlier this week, Brooks said building a roster full of depth still remains a work in progress.

"Obviously, coming here seven years ago into the ACC I knew that number Blacksburg High School's golf team brought home its second straight state title this past week. The Bruins were led by Jake Albert, who shot a 4-under par 68 to finish as the state individual runner-up, and Pierce Campbell who shot an even-par 72 to make the All-State Team. Also contributing to the team's 1-over-par score of 289 were Connor Catterson's 74 and Samantha Skinner's 75. Sean Ruan and Major Ewing also performed well, carding 76's.

one, you must have really good players, and you must have a lot of them,” Brook said. “We were always battling and getting to the point where we’d come up a little bit short just because of depth. You see amazing teams in the ACC and amazing coaches who put together tremendous rosters. We figured out exactly what we wanted, the culture we wanted, the style, and the kind of players we wanted representing our university, and we went out to get them. It really kind of started with their class, Elizabeth’s class, and we changed the culture,” he said.

Brooks told reporters his coaching staff brought in players who fit the scheme of what they wanted to do, both on and off the court.

“These young ladies represent our program to the utmost in front of thousands of fans, but they represent our program behind the scenes with the work that they do, not only in the community and their schoolwork, and they epitomize what it is to be a student-athlete. When you can have players that can do both, I think you’re going to generate success, and that’s what’s happened to us,” the coach said.

“We have the experience. We have the depth. We have the talent, but more so we have the chemistry,” Brooks said. “We brought in some amazing players with these young ladies, and all they want to do is blend in. No one’s trying to do something out of their character. They all just want to blend in because they’re all fighting for the same goal, and that’s to become ACC champions,” Brooks said.

Kitley knows there are a lot of eyes on her this season as she works to become an even bigger leader for her team.

“I am working a lot on leadership,” she said. “We have these new pieces that are coming in and they’re excellent, but it’s a different system here. I think our role is really to help them get acclimated and teach them new things. And having freshmen also, too. So, just forming a cohesive unit, that is my goal,” Kitley said.

The 6-6 center from Summerfield, North Carolina also sang Coach Brooks’s praise in elevating the VT program.

The Hokies, who are ranked No. 13 by ESPN in its preseason poll, begin their season on Monday, Nov. 7 versus Mount St. Mary’s.
