RADFORD - Four teachers have been named Teacher of the Year, one at each of the city's four public schools, and one will move on to a chance for regional recognition.

Radford City Public Schools Superintendent Robert Graham announced the winners on Thursday. They are Amanda Bush, a kindergarten teacher at McHarg Elementary School; Stacy Schwenk, a third-grade teacher at Belle Heth Elementary School; Andrew Graham, an English teacher at John Dalton Intermediate School; and Luke Munsey, an English teacher at Radford High School.

"We are very proud of our winners and grateful for all they do for our students, staff, and school community on a daily basis," said Graham via email. "One of these four gifted educators will be recognized as the RCPS Teacher of the Year, which will be announced early next week. The RCPS Teacher of the Year will then be eligible to apply for the Virginia Region VII Teacher of the Year, which is generally announced in the late winter or early spring. Best of luck to these four wonderful candidates!

'American Pickers' to film in Virginia

American Pickers Mike Wolfe and Danielle Colby are close friends and business partners who hit the back roads in a search for America's most valuable antiques.

The American Pickers are returning to Virginia and they are looking for places to explore. Business partners and close friends Mike Wolfe and Danielle Colby plan to film episodes of The History Channel hit television series in Virginia in March 2023.

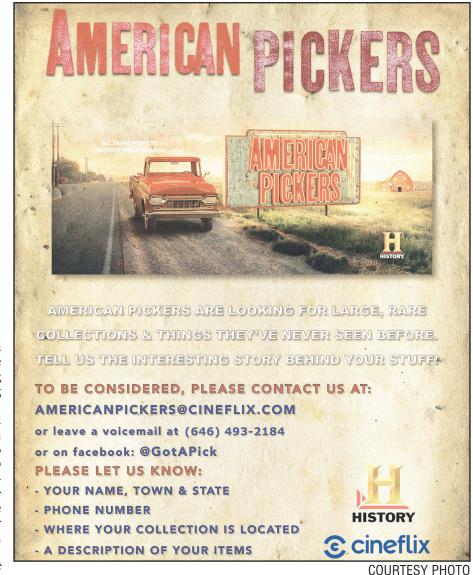

"American Pickers" is a documentary series that explores the fascinating world of antique "picking." The hit show follows skilled pickers in the business as they hunt for America's most valuable antiques. As Mike and Danielle hit the back roads from coast to coast, they are on a mission to recycle and rescue forgotten relics. Along the way, they want to meet characters with remarkable and exceptional items. They hope to give historically significant objects a new lease on life while learning a thing or two about America's past along the way.

The Pickers have seen a lot of rusty gold over the years and are always looking to discover something they've never seen before.

To be considered inclusion show, email to AMERICANPICKERS@ cineflix.com, or call 646-493-2184. Include your name, town, state, phone number, location of your collection and description of the items.

Linda Waggaman of Radford won the open theme category with a photo of her grandchildren in an apparently out-of-control Barbie car.

"Thanksgiving was a time for the cousins to all get together," said Waggaman of her photograph. Maddie was willing to share her Barbie car, but Coen, the driver, didn't seem too happy with his driving. No collision, just ended in a rolling stop." The Radford Photo Club is made up of professional and amateur photographers from throughout the New River Valley. Meetings, events, and outings are open to the public. The next meeting is Wednesday, Feb. 15, at 6 p.m. at the Radford Public Library.

Street Photography will be the subject at the Feb. 15 meeting. Members received an assignment at the January meeting and will share the results in February. Professional photographer Adi Ben Senior

LewisGale Medical Center breaks record of babies birthed for second year in row

Center has broken its record for babies birthed at the hospital for the second year in a row. From Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 2022, 1,249 babies were delivered, the most in the hospital's 113-year

"Our recent investment into renovated patient rooms, delivery suites, and birthing tubs, among other advanced resources for pain management, makes this the hospital of choice in the region," said John Harding, MD, labor and delivery department chair. "We have a great team, and this kind of positive momentum is an indicator of why our patients choose LewisGale Medical Center for their women's health needs." The hospital recently began construction of a new neonatal intensive care unit (NICU). The previous birth record was set in 2021 with 1,181 babies born, topping 1995's

"Every delivery plan is customized to the specific family's needs," said Lisa Wade, maternal care services director. "Our birthing experience begins long before the first contraction and continues well after delivery. We are pleased to be able to celebrate this tremendous accomplishment."

Simulating self-driving security

By Kelly Izlar

Self-driving technology can save but adding autonomous vehicles multiplies the number of cyberattack targets on the road — endangering not only those in the affected vehicle, but those in nearby vehicles and buildings. Road testing to improve security is expensive and time-consuming, Commonwealth Cyber Initiative (CCI) researchers developed a virtual option: a vast digital library of realworld driving scenarios to help manufacturers craft more secure autonomous vehicles

A team from the Virginia Tech-affiliated Global company Center for Automotive Performance Simulation (GCAPS) is working with researchers at the Virginia Transportation Institute (VTTI) to validate the security and performance of automated technologies virtually. Their project is supported by the Innovation: Ideation Commercialization program from the Commonwealth Cyber Initiative in Southwest Virginia, which provides funds to commercialize generated technology from research at the intersection of data, Virtual, scenario-based testing is a safe, costeffective alternative to the traditional distancevalidation of autonomous technology, which requires the onerous and sometimes impossible task driving billions of miles on public roads.

security, and autonomy.

"The library establishes ground

truth based on realworld data for vehicle interactions with the road, the infrastructure, vulnerable road users, and other vehicles," said Miguel Perez, associate professor of biomedical engineering mechanics who leads the VTTI data engineering

To construct a highly reliable virtual training library, the research team is leveraging a unique resource: the massive treasure trove of realworld recorded events in VTTI's naturalistic driving databases.

For more than 30 years, VTTI has been collecting data from cameras and sensors unobtrusively installed (with permission) in regular cars belonging to regular people all over the country. The data - which includes basic vehicle dynamics, video, and sensor information represents over 70 million miles of realworld driving behaviors exhibited during normal daily commutes, culminating in over 10 petabytes so far. Over the past five years, GCAPS has worked with VTTI to apply the data to automated driving technology. The team has been developing an algorithm to classify a vehicle's lateral and longitudinal micro movements by assigning objective values to the displacement of a vehicle at certain rates and distances. Once an event has been classified, it can then be recreated: into converted simulation-ready dataset that includes trajectories, positions, road features, and terrain.

The researchers have been exploring questions like how close do people really drive to each other? Does a person's age affect their reaction? Would a person in a different region react differently?

In the event of a cyber

"It's a really powerful tool that's only getting stronger and richer," said Jonathan Darab, operations director at GCAPS. "Now, with CCI support, we're utilizing it to enhance the cybersecurity of automated driving technology.'

With this focus, the question set has expanded to include what might happen with vehicle performance in the event of a cyberattack? How will a vehicle compensate for a spoofed sensor? Will the autonomous vehicle be safe on the road if it's actively being hacked?

"Because interactions in the events real-world represent data, the accuracy and timing of the interactions provide a highly valid foundation," said Perez. "As such, the library enables the determination of cybersecurity risk severity associated with vehicles, but in a safe and repeatable way through simulation."

This capability will help engineers determine the requirements for cybersecurity products on automated vehicles, such as the required response lag times to minimize vehicle issues, or the percentage of computing resources that can be safely reassigned to defend a hacked network.

Home Country by Slim Randles: Finding Jenkins's cabin

We all know someone will find Jenkins's cabin. Someday. Oh, it's up there in those hills somewhere. We all know that.

It's become a friendly object of conjecture and speculation. No one living has seen it, as far as we know. Jenkins himself died quietly when he was on one of his infrequent trips to town for supplies. Funny guy, that Jenkins.

He worked in the city for years, mostly as a night watchman in a factory that made diapers. Didn't really enjoy people much, and told us many times how nice it was to just be in the huge factory when it was quiet.

Then one day he decided to move to the mountains and make pretty things out of leather. Once in a while he'd have his coffee at the counter at the Mule Barn, but often as not, he'd town for the two or three days it took him to sell his crafts and buy supplies. He'd smile and wave from his campsite, then he'd be gone one morning. We wouldn't see him again for Now and then someone his cabin was, and he'd just point toward the mountains and say, "Up there." How far up there? "A ways." What was his cabin like? "Not too big." And so we came to would ask him where regard the little cabin as an intriguing mystery, an object of local legend. After he died, several of the fellows tried to backtrack him to find the place, but Jenkins evidently didn't take the same trail each time, as though he wanted his quiet times protected from even a friendly visit from one of us. During his lifetime, we respected camp out on the edge of his wishes. In this country, a man has a perfect right to be a little strange. And, truth be known, we hold a certain admiration for those of us who hear different instructions.

But there is something in the human spirit, also, that begs to have its mysteries solved. So now, several times each year, one or two of us will use the mystery of the lost cabin as an excuse to poke our noses into the nuances and seclusions of these hills. We play off our curiosity against our wishes to respect a man's privacy, even when he's gone.

We have yet to discover Jenkins's lost cabin. Maybe we never will. Maybe that wouldn't be such a bad the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Energy and Commerce heard testimony from him and other stakeholders in impacted sectors.

"We have an opportunity with this Congress to address what American families and businesses are suffering from: Some of the highest energy prices we've seen in decades," said Rep. Cathy McMorris Rodgers, committee chair. "My colleagues want to hear from people on the front lines.'

Hickman, who also grows green beans, soybeans, and corn on Dublin Farms in Accomack County, said, "Last year had the most devastating input cost increases I have seen."

Diesel fuel escalated 186% to $5.24 a gallon. The farm's irrigation pumps run 24 hours a day, burning 5 to 7 gallons per hour. Large tractors operate about 12 hours per day, burning 10 to 14 gallons each.

"And all of our trucks burn diesel," Hickman said.

Liquid propane used for drying grains went up 55%, he reported. Trucking rates, agricultural chemicals, and equipment costs surged too.

"And while fuel increases were staggering, fertilizer prices and availability were far worse," Hickman said. "Overall fertilizer costs for 2022 were 225% higher than 2021. We're at the mercy of foreign countries for fertilizer supply."

The East Coast's supply of liquid nitrogen for fertilizer-20% of U.S. usage-was imported from Russia and Belarus prior to the Ukraine invasion, Hickman said. The sudden supply drop drove the price from $227 to $647 a ton. While farmers can reduce fertilizer inputs, he said that results in lower yields and will drive food prices even higher.

Lawmakers asked how they can help.

it in this country and not being subject to other countries who are not our friends to import the fuel," Hickman said. Liquid nitrogen is made from natural gas and is manufactured in Texas, Oklahoma, and Louisiana near natural gas wells.

"We have the supply here," Hickman said. "All we have to do is harvest it."

Survey: Average Virginian would drive six+ hours rather than take a one-hour flight FamilyDestinationGuide.com conducted a survey of

3,000 families and asked them a hypothetical question: How far would you be prepared to drive to your chosen destination rather than fly for one hour? The results showed that given the current uncertainties at airports, travelers flying out of Virginia airports would choose to drive for six hours and 43 minutes rather than take a one-hour flight. More than half, according to the survey, would be willing to pay a premium for flight tickets to avoid airport chaos. Of those who said they would be prepared to pay more, the average traveler would pay 32% more than the standard ticket price. Given that the average fare is around $397, the average traveler would pay $127 to get where he or she wants to go to get there on time. The evidence is clear: Caught in travel limbo, travelers will go to great lengths to avoid airports, which are suffering from weather disruptions to computer problems to crew shortages. Americans are caught in For the second time in a month, thousands of flights were delayed or canceled across the US last week, and travelers have been warned to expect more problems. Even a breakdown at a smaller regional airport can have a domino effect across the country.

The survey also found that almost half (48%) of travelers say they have put off air travel until the current disruptions have been sorted. And when it comes to planning further ahead, 74% said they are more likely to drive this summer, rather than fly to a typical

Finally, respondents who have recently been affected by the travel disruptions were asked to rate their frustration on a scale of 1-10. The average respondent rated theirs at a solid 8 out of 10.

"The current flight disruptions will likely continue through the rest of the year, so it might be wise to consider planning your trip by car instead of air. While flying might be faster in theory, the freedom and flexibility of hitting the open road in a car can allow for a more personal and memorable travel experience" said Rose Ackermann, FamilyDestinationGuide.com's Editor-in-Chief

Staunton River claims Big Blue Wrestling championship

Marty Gordon

NRVsports@ourvalley.org

Staunton River High School continues to be one of the top wrestling programs in the state of Virginia, and Saturday, the school claimed another Big Blue tournament title at Christiansburg High School.

Staunton River outdistanced Brentsville 216. 5 to 193 and third-place William Byrd, which finished with 190.5 points.

Host Christiansburg was the highest placing area team finishing in ninth place with 131 points. Christianburg's Brady Hand took first place in the 120 class, winning by major decision over opponent Dominc Pascoe of William Byrd in the finals match. Evan Mefford of Christiansburg took second place in the 126 class, and Jake Robie was a first-place winner at 150 pounds, defeating Bo Ice of Staunton River

Christiansburg's Zack Cummings took fourth place in the 157 class.

Blacksburg High School finished tenth in the tournament with 99 points and Radford High School finished in 16th place with 54 points.

In the 215 class, Abdullah Mastrogiovan of Blacksburg took second place while Braeden Henderson claimed fourth place in the 126 class.

Charlie Davis of Radford took third place in the 215 class. Teammates Taven Williams placed fifth in the 150 class, Lance Duncan seventh in the 175 class, and Joshua Porter of Radford seventh in the

As the tournament champion in the 120-lb. class, Staunton River's Noah Nininger was named the "Most Outstanding Wrestler" of the tournament.

One of the top female wrestlers in the state, Natalia Sanchez of Powhatan, finished third in her Big Blue weight class and received the "Jackie Toney Memorial Scholarship," presented by the Christiansburg Blue Demon Wrestling Club. The $1,000 scholarship is in honor of Toney, who volunteered countless hours to promote the mission and vision of the club. The award is made during the tournament to a senior wrestler for the college of his or her choice. The wrestler must maintain a gradepoint-average of at least 3.0 and must participate in the Big Blue Tournament.

Now a senior and coming off a junior year that featured state titles in the VAWA Folkstyle Championships and the Virginia Girls Championship, Sanchez is using her final year at Powhatan as a chance to get other girls involved in the program.

Powhatan now has five girl wrestlers on its roster. Sanchez is currently ranked number 1 in the girls' competition at 106 pounds.

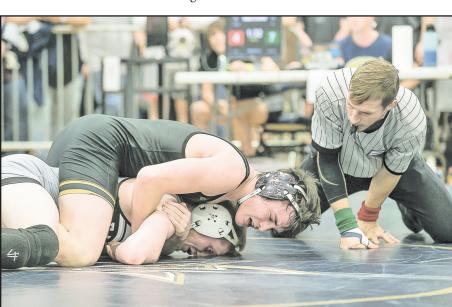

As it stands now, Virginia has no female wrestling division. Female competitors have to compete with boys. Separate tournaments specifically for girls, like the Virginia Girls Wrestling Championship, exist and are sanctioned by the Virginia High School League. Sanchez brought home the Virginia Girls Wrestling Championship title this past season.

But the Virginia High School League is on the verge of adding girls wrestling as a sanctioned sport in the commonwealth. In September, the VHSL Executive Committee voted to designate girls wrestling as an "emerging sport" starting with the 2022-23 season.

Gage Cockram of William Byrd was honored for the most number of pins in the least amount of time during the tournament.

Charlie Davis of Radford took 3rd place in the 215 class. He wrestled Jackson Byrie of Salem in the finals pinning him for the win.

Hokies break four pool records at McCoy Navatorium

Pa. – The Hokies made their mark during their last dual meet of the season, breaking four pool records at McCoy Navatorium and adding four new top-10 times to the books. The No. 121, and the No. 23 women won 155-140.

COACH HEAD SERGIO LOPEZ MIRO

"I think we swam very well today. Overall, I think the team reacted we saw some promising times, and the divers did very well too. We had a hard week of training, and it was a great transition to taper down times for some people in preparation for the VT Invite coming up where we're going to decide our ACC roster. It's shaping up to be a great season for the men and the women, and it's really exciting for the team and all of the coaches."

HIGHLIGHTS

Men

The Hokies started out the meet strong with a first-place win by Will Koeppen, AJ Pouch, Youssef Ramadan and Luis Dominguez in the 400 medley relay at 3:08.81, making it in the 10th spot on the Hokies top 10 board.

Dominguez showed his speed when he broke a pool record in the 200 free with a time of 1:33.87 and later went on to break another pool record in the 500 free with a time of 4:18.17. Proving that the Hokies have multiple top freestyle swimmers, broke Ramadan another pool record in the 50 free with a time of 19.09. Dominating the 100 fly, Ramadan broke his second pool record at 44.76. Continuing the first-place wins, Landon Gentry placed first in the 200 butterfly with a time of 1:44.48.

Mario Molla Yanes placed first in the 100 free with a time of 43.30.

Finishing out the meet on a strong note, Ramadan, Dominguez, Yanes, and Molla Koeppen took first place in the 200 free relay with a time of 1:18.83.

On the boards, Noah Zawadzki claimed first in the 1-meter diving event with a score of 370.88 and the 3-meter event with a score of 376.05.

Women

The women's relays never disappoint. Placing first in the 400-medley relay, Emma Atkinson, Gyurinovics, Fanni Karisa Franz, and Carmen Weiler Sastre finished with a time of 3:36.46. The women later went on to claim first in the 200-free relay with Madelyn Moore, Shackelford, Weiler Sastre, and Emily Claesson finishing at 1:29.29, making this relay tied for the third top time in Hokie history. Moore's 50-free lead-off time of 22.30 made it into the fifth spot of the women's top 10 times.

followed the top finishes with a first-place win in the 200 free with a time of 1:45.96 and later went on to claim first in the 500 free with a time of 4:47.30. Sarah Shackelford took first place in the 100 free 13 Hokie men won 172- of the day, placing first with a time of 49.47 and second in the 50 free with a time of 22.89.

VT's Elizabeth Kitley sets program record in 74-57 defeat of Wake Forest

The Virginia Tech women's basketball team downed the Wake Forest Demon Deacons 74-57 at home Sunday behind Elizabeth Kitley's 12 field goals, making her the programs all-time leader in field goals made with 704.

The Hokies (16-3, 6-3) had three players score in double figures, led by Kitley, who secured a double-double with 28 points and 12 rebounds. Georgia Amoore tacked on 17 points and six assists and Taylor Soule added 16 points, eight rebounds, and five assists.

Tech shared the ball well in Sunday's game, racking up 17 assists on 27 made field goals. Amoore's six assists paced the Hokies.

The Hokies forced 16 Wake Forest turnovers while committing 10 themselves in the game. Tech turned those takeaways into 21 points on the other end of the floor. Kitley's two steals led the way for Virginia

> How It Happened After falling behind

10-8 early, Virginia Tech went on a 6-0 run with 2:22 left in the first quarter, culminating in a bucket from D'Asia Gregg, to take a 14-10 lead, a score that would hold for the rest of the period. The Hokies did most of its firstquarter damage in the paint, scoring eight of its 14 points close to the basket.

Tech then went on a 9-0 run in the second period to increase its lead to 25-13. The Hokies enjoyed a 35-20 advantage heading into halftime. Tech was strong from deep in the period, knocking down three three-point shots to account for nine of its 21 points. Virginia

Amoore's 21 points lead Hokies to 69-62 victory at Pitt

PITTSBURGH, PA --Elizabeth Kitley and Taylor Soule each recorded double-doubles to help lead the Virginia Tech women's basketball team past the Pittsburgh Panthers 69-62 on the road Thursday, Jan.

The double-doubles by Kitley, who had 13 points and 13 rebounds, and Soule, who had 12 points and 11 rebounds, led the Hokies (15-3, 5-3) in the contest. Georgia Amoore helped out with 21 points and two

Led by Soule's eight offensive rebounds, Virginia Tech did a great job crashing the offensive glass, pulling down 13 boards that resulted in 12 second chance points.

How It Happened

Virginia Tech started out the scoring by going on a 5-0 run, culminating in a bucket from Kitley, to take an early lead with 8:20 left in the first quarter. The Hokies then lost some of that lead, but still entered the quarter break with a 17-13 advantage. Virginia Tech got a great contribution from its bench in the period, as nonstarters accounted for five of its 17 total points. The Hokies maintained their lead in the game's

Hokie wrestlers down No. 5 NC State Wolfpack in front of record Cassell crowd

BLACKSBURG - In an electric night in Cassell in front of a record-breaking 5,943 crowd, the No. 8 Virginia Tech wrestling team defeated conference rivals the No. 5 NC State Wolfpack, 16-14. The Hokies won six out of ten bouts - including the highlighted return of No. 6 Bryce Andonian - to begin 1-0 in conference competition.

The highly anticipated dual began at 125 with No. 20 Eddie Ventresca taking on NC State's No. 29 Jarrett Trombley. The only points exchanged during regulation were escapes by both wrestlers to send the bout into the first sudden-victory match of the evening. Ventresca attempted to score, but Trombley was able to counter for neutral danger to put NC State on the board first.

No. 5 Sam Latona recovered for the Hokies and got Tech on the board with a 3-1 victory at 133-pounds against No. 25 Kai Orine. Latona was persistent with attacks and re-attacks throughout the bout, nearly finishing on a multitude of attacks but was unable to finish as time expired or the wrestlers went out of bounds. Latona's victory tied the dual at 3 two bouts into the dual. Freshman No. 12 Tom Crook took the No. 6 wrestler in the country in Ryan Jack to the brink in the next bout. Crook and Jack had previously met in December at the Cliff Keen Las Vegas Invitational won by Jack via major decision. Friday night would be different as Crook was nearly able to secure the upset as time expired but ultimately fell 1-2 via escape and riding time point.

The Hokies were revitalized with freshman sensation No. 9 Caleb Henson at 149 pounds. Henson faced fellow true freshman No. 15 Jackson Arrington and was on the attack often. It was all Henson as the Hokie garnered two takedowns, an escape, and riding time to secure the 6-1 decision to tie the dual at 6.

No. 6 Bryce Andonian was electric as he put up

20 points on the No. 7 Ed Scott in the fifth bout of the night. Andonian was explosive early, going bodylock straight to back points to go up 6-0 just :40 into the bout. He would then add four more back points before giving up a reversal and surrendering back points of his own. Andonian would go true Hollywood fashion and secure two more sets of backpoints and flurry of takedowns throughout the match to secure the 24-10 major decision for the Hokies. Andonian is now 5-0 against Scott in their careers after Friday's victory.

Tech would then drop 165-pounds in sudden victory as No. 22 Connor Brady fell to No. 32 Matt Singleton in sudden victory. With the bout tied at 4 in sudden victory, Brady pushed for a double but was countered on the edge by Singleton to give the Pack their third victory of the evening.

back performance after a close match against App State last weekend, No. 3 Mekhi Lewis was vintage at 174-pounds knocking on three takedowns, riding time, and an escape to garner the 8-2 decision over No. 32 Alex Faison to increase the Hokies' lead 13-8.

The marquee match of the evening at 184-pounds was everything billed up to be. No. 7 Hunter Bolen dropped a tough suddenvictory decision to rival, No. 3 Trent Hidlay, 3-5. Bolen led after an escape and a takedown in the second period, but Hidlay garnered the same score in the third period to force sudden victory. Hidlay would secure a takedown on the edge in sudden victory to slim the Hokies' lead 13-11. This was the most points scored between the two wrestlers in their six meetings.

In the bout of the evening, No. 26 Andy Smith took out No. 6 Isaac Trumble in what proved to be the clincher for the Hokies. After a scoreless first period, Trumble would get an escape in the second period to lead 1-0 into the final frame. Smith would get an escape of his own in the third to tie the dual with 1:00 remaining. With just :40 on the clock, Trumble would attack, only to be met by Smith's stout defense and counter offense, giving the Hokie a 3-1 lead. Trumble would then get an escape and look to attack but Smith's defense was too much and would eventually hold on for the 3-2 decision and the final win for the Hokies to secure the dual. No. 8 Virginia Tech -
