Letter to Editor: Return to Reason

“Beware lest anyone cheat you through philosophy and empty deceit, according to the tradition of men, according to the basic principles of the world, and not according to Christ.” – Colossians 2: 8

When I first read nurse John Phillips’ letter to the editor on February 15, 2023, invoking God’s “creation of gender diversity,” it seemed so bizarre to me that I doubted if it should even be dignified with a response. But it is an example of an extremely confused perspective on the straightforward subject of gender, and is part of the problem today.

Thus, my response. The genders of male and female have been easily understood for millennia. Why the confusion now? It seems it is the ultimate form of rebellion to deny our gender. Phillips uses the rare mutation of hermaphroditism as a premise to make his case, which is using the exception to make the rule. When ever is disease or mutation promoted as the norm?

True hermaphroditism is one of the rarest causes of sexual ambiguity and occurs when there is damage and loss of the long arm of the Y sex chromosome. The baby is born with male and female gonadal tissue, and generally raised as female. It is a disease; not a choice.

Phillips invokes “God” repeatedly but not the God of the Bible, who made us male and female (Gen.1:27). As pastor Kevin DeYoung has noted, “Far from being a mere cultural construct, God depicts the existence of a man and a woman as essential to His creational plan. The two are neither identical nor interchangeable.... The anomaly of intersex individuals does not undermine the creational design, but gives another example of creational “groaning” and the realities of a fallen world.”

The “God” that Phillips refers to is that of New Age mysticism, betrayed by his reference to Barbara Heider-Rauter, a practitioner and purported expert in aura-soma, a form of divination, in the same category as tarot card reading.

The tactic of using the exception to make the rule is used when moral law, originally designed for our flourishing and freedom, is recast as a means of our oppression. The irony is that if we were to follow Phillips’s philosophy to its logical conclusion and are “liberated” by “gender diversity,” then we would find that we actually transgress the law of God, in the name of “social justice, equity and equality.” The hypocrisy should be clearly evident.

This response is submitted in the hope of warning away those who may be confused by the self-righteous tenor of Phillips’s letter and his multiple references to “God” on gender diversity. It is important to understand that his chosen worldview prevents him from seeing otherwise, even if it means his disengaging from rational thought.

WalletHub: Virginia has highest vehicle taxes in country

Depending on where you live, property taxes can be a small inconvenience or a major burden. According to the financial website WalletHub, the average American household spends $2,690 on property taxes for their homes each year, and residents of the 26 states with vehicle property taxes shell out another $444.

Considering these figures and the massive amount of debt in America, it should come as no surprise that more than $14 billion in property taxes go unpaid each year, according to the National Tax Lien Association.

And though property taxes might appear to be a non-issue for the 35% of renter households, that couldn’t be further from the truth. As WalletHub declares, everyone pays property taxes, whether directly or indirectly, as they impact the rent we pay as well as the finances of state and local governments.

But which states have the largest property tax load, and what should residents keep in mind when it comes to meeting and minimizing their tax obligations? In search of answers, WalletHub analyzed the 50 states and the District of Columbia in terms of real-estate and vehicle property taxes.

According to WalletHub’s analysis, the ten places with the lowest property taxes are 1) Hawaii 2) Alabama 3) Colorado 4) Nevada 5) Louisiana 5) South Carolina 7) District of Columbia 8) Delaware 8) Utah 10) West Virginia

As WalletHub pointed out, only 25 states and the District of Columbia have vehicle property taxes. Among the states that do tax vehicles, the website ranked them from lowest taxes to highest taxes.

The survey revealed that Virginia has the highest vehicle property taxes in the country.

Among the states with vehicle taxes, the following states were ranked by WalletHub as the places with the highest vehicle taxes.:

41. New Hampshire 41. Wyoming 43. Nevada 44. Kansas 45. Connecticut 46. Massachusetts 47. Maine 48. South Carolina 49. Missouri 50. Mississippi 51. Virginia

Virginia gas prices fall yet again

Average gasoline prices in Virginia fell 8.3 cents per gallon last week, averaging $3.12 per gallon as of Monday, Feb. 27, according to GasBuddy’s survey of 4,081 stations in Virginia.

Prices in Virginia are 29.8 cents per gallon lower than they were a month ago and 30.8 cents per gallon lower than they were a year ago.

According to GasBuddy price reports, the cheapest station in Virginia was priced at $2.69 per gallon Monday while the most expensive gas price was $3.99/g, a difference of $1.30/g.

The national average price of gasoline fell 4.3 cents per gallon in the last week, averaging $3.33 per gallon Monday. The national average is down 17.6 cents per gallon from a month ago and 26.3 cents per gallon lower than a year ago, according to GasBuddy data compiled from more than 11 million weekly price reports covering over 150,000 gas stations across the country.

“The national average has resumed its decline after a pause last week as oil and wholesale gasoline prices fell on worrisome inflation figures showing the Fed likely to ramp up rates to slow inflation,” said Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy. “Some nine out of 10 states saw declines over the last week, so the drops are showing up for most across the country, with the exception of the West Coast as the transition to summer blends continues, and in the Great Lakes, where prices cycled last week but have now resumed declining,” according to De Haan. “For the weeks ahead, tradition tells us to expect prices to move up eventually, but that could at least be partially offset by inflationary data that continue to be hotter than expected, leading to anxiety that the Fed will boost interest rates and cooling the economy and oil demand considerably.”

GasBuddy is the authoritative voice for gas prices and the only source for station-level data. GasBuddy’s survey updates 288 times every day from the most diverse list of sources covering nearly 150,000 stations nationwide, the most comprehensive and up-to-date in the country. GasBuddy data are accessible at http://prices.GasBuddy.com.

Bombas partners with Warm Hearth Foundation

BLACKSBURG – Bombas donates essential clothing items, including socks, underwear and t-shirts, to Giving Partners such as homeless shelters and community organizations that support people in need across all 50 states. Their network of 3500-plus Giving Partners helps distribute millions of Bombas donation products each year, as part of the brand's One Purchased = One Donated business model. Since their founding in 2013 Bombas has donated more than 75 million items.

The Warm Hearth Foundation became a Giving Partner in 2022 and has since distributed 1000 pairs of socks to 145 Warm Hearth Village (WHV) residents.

The Warm Hearth Foundation is the charitable fundraising entity for Warm Hearth Village and operates a range of programs that helps seniors in need on its campus. Under the Micah's Program umbrella, a variety of goods is made available to residents in Trolinger and New River House Apartments, including fresh produce, meals, shelf-stable food, personal care supplies, emergency assistance, and more.

A network of businesses, individual donors, volunteers, and staff comes together to build partnerships, stock the pantry, and ensure that seniors on low, fixed-incomes have what they need. This partnership with Bombas is one of many examples where the network helps to enrich the lives of Warm Hearth's residents.

Sharon King has lived in the apartment community for six and a half years.

"I was so surprised and happy to get the socks and chocolate," she said. "Living here is perfect for me and is the best decision I've made," she said.

Auburn High senior wins Harry F. Byrd Leadership Award

Auburn High School senior Tanner Long has been presented with the Harry F. Byrd Leadership Award.

Tanner was one of only eleven high school students across the commonwealth to receive the award, which recognizes Virginia high school students who exhibit excellence of character, leadership, devotion to duty, and academic achievement.

Every year, one high school student from each of Virginia's eleven congressional districts is nominated by his or her principal for the award. The award's board then conducts an interview process to select the award-winning student.

The board's mission is to recognize and nurture public service in pursuit of preservation of American democracy. The winning high school seniors each receive a $20,000 cash award.

Auburn boys win region title; Radford to play Floyd Monday for region title

Luke Woodard fires a 3-pointer early in the first quarter against Gretna. High school basketball took center stage this past weekend with Radford punching its ticket to region championships, while the Auburn boys' team claimed a back-to-back Region C title.

Blacksburg High School gets new volleyball coach

Marty Gordon

Blacksburg High School has a new volleyball coach, and it's a familiar face in former junior varsity coach Madison Haynes.

"I applied for this job because volleyball has been a part of my life since I was in middle school. I love spreading my love of the game with other athletes," she said.

Haynes grew up in Bassett and attended Bassett High School, playing travel volleyball in Roanoke.

After high school, she played four years at Bridgewater College and was then an assistant coach at Staunton High School 2021-2022 before relocating to Blacksburg where she served as the junior varsity coach this past year.

"My goals are to rebuild the Blacksburg volleyball program," Haynes said. "Thankfully, I have been able to coach these girls in high school and some through travel. They know that I love to have fun, but when it comes to being in the gym, we are there to do a job. We lost in the region semifinals this year, so my goal is to make it to state this fall."

This past season, Blacksburg finished 14-8 overall and 8-4 in the River Ridge District.

Christiansburg High inducts first sports hall of fame class

A committee from Christiansburg High School has released the list of 24 players and coaches who were the first to be inducted into the school's sports hall of fame.

The athletes inducted were Joe Board, Jeff Custer, Gloria Dillard, Clifford Dillard, Brian Eigel, Darren Graham, Rebecca McNeil Hubble, Mark Franklin, Randy Lawrence, Jeff Stanley, Billy Parker, Tommy Barber and B.J. Willard.

The coaches inducted were Dean Underwood, Buddy Earp, Randy Bailey, Tim Cromer, Norma Cox, Wally Flinchum, Kevin Dresser, Shane Guynn and Debbie Sherman-Lee. Contributors include Mutt Byrd and Steve Wright.

In late 2019, a committee was established to initiate conversation regarding creating an inaugural class for the CHS Sports Hall of Fame.

The members are all CHS graduates. Through many meetings and a pandemic, the committee, which included AD Tim Cromer, selected 24 candidates for induction, voted on and contacted each candidate, and advised them of their selection for the school's hall of fame.

A public induction ceremony will be held in the school's auditorium on Sunday, April 16 at 2 p.m.

Frank Parker named to Southern States Wrestling's Hall of Fame

Marty Gordon
NRVsports@ourvalley.org

After a professional wrestling career that spanned 20 years, this past week, Christiansburg's Frank Parker was named to the Southern Wrestling Association's Hall of Fame.

Parker became a fan of professional wrestling growing up in Southwest Virginia. He watched it on television and attended several live events at the Roanoke Civic Center. Once he was at an event in Roanoke where his favorite wrestlers, the Road Warriors, were performing. Parker was only seven years old and had bought a color photo of Hawk, a member of the Road Warriors.

He was determined to gain his autograph and worked his way through the crowd. Most of the grownups ignored him as he moved closer and closer to his hero.

"All of sudden, I ran into a big solid black wall, stopping in my tracks. I fell to the ground and looked up to see Hawk asking me if I was okay," Parker said.

He had run head-on into the professional wrestler. He didn't gain Hawk's autograph, but he remembers the incident to this day.

Parker was a football player at Christiansburg High School until an injury knocked him off the rail of his dream of playing college football.

"I really wanted to play college football, but it didn't work out," he said.

Parker was working at a Christiansburg car wash when professional wrestler Jimmy Valiant stopped by. The chance meeting was something that changed his life and led him down the new path of professional wrestling.

Valiant was another wrestler whom Parker had watched from afar and never thought he would meet.

Parker learned that Valiant, who had just retired from the Mid-Atlantic Wrestling, was looking for a home in the New River Valley to open a wrestling camp to train youngsters.

Parker would be Valiant's first student at that camp, which is still located in Alleghany Springs, outside of Elliston.

"I was skeptical at the age of 22, but Jimmy (Valiant) took me under his wing and taught me how to perform," he said.

The Christiansburg native became a sponge, absorbing as much knowledge as he could. From then on, Parker went on the road with Valiant and wrestled independent matches five to six times a week.

His first match was in Frankfort, Kentucky, in 1993. After five years, he broke away from Valiant to start his own independent travels.

"I was living the dream," he said.

In 1997, Parker formed a tag team with Roger Anderson, who was also from Christiansburg. The two wrestled matches under masks and black outfits and were known as Frank Parker of Christiansburg has been a professional wrestler for over 20 years, and this past week he was honored as a new member of the Southern States Wrestling Hall of Fame.

"Death and Destruction."

They were wrestling on the west coast one day when they met World Wrestling Federation promoter Jim Cornette. Cornette learned the wrestlers were from the Roanoke area where WWF (now WWE) was starting to hold live events.

The promoter invited them to attend and wrestle as a tag team against unknown individuals. The night of the event Parker and Anderson still didn't know whom they would face until Cornette told them it would be the Road Warriors, which included Road Warrior Hawk, whom Parker had once idolized.

Parker got in a punch to start the match, but then was destroyed by the Road Warriors.

Since then, he has wrestled full-time all over the country. In 2020, at the age of 52, he stepped away from the squared ring.

This past week, Parker was named to the Southern States Wrestling Hall of Fame, an organization that kept him busy traveling all over the United States.

During those 20-odd years, he suffered four concussions and had the tip of an ear torn off after a shot from a metal chair shot. Thirty stitches later and after having the ear reattached, he was back in the ring.

In addition, he has broken his wrist, his ankle, and some fingers. He also tore his pectoral muscle, and now he can't turn his neck to the left because of those injuries.

"It was tough professionally, and I loved doing it, a dream come true," he said during an interview this past week.

When asked if he will ever return to the ring in the near future, Parker said he would never say never. But for the most part, he is satisfied with what he has been able to accomplish.

Still, he never did get Road Warrior's autograph. Maybe the only regret he still has.

Can the fungus from 'The Last of Us' really create zombies?

The HBO television series, "The Last of Us," a tale of survival in a zombie apocalypse, imagines a zombie plague caused by a fungal infection that exists in nature. The fungi are the cordyceps fungi, a group that target insects as their prey. Jordan Metzgar, pictured above, the curator of the Massey Herbarium at Virginia Tech, says the fungi pose no threat to humans and are actually used in traditional Chinese and Tibetan medicine to enhance humans' immune systems.
