The Rotary Club of Radford to make donation to Glencoe Museum and Gallery

RADFORD – The Radford Noon Rotary Club will donate $1000 to Glencoe Mansion, Museum and Gallery on Monday, August 14.

“We are happy to give back to Glencoe and see these funds go to good use in our community,” said Jim Mitchell, Radford Noon Rotary Club President.

The funds came from the Field of Honor Flag sponsorships purchased by local businesses and community members this past spring totaling just over $5000. The flags were displayed at Glencoe Museum from Memorial Day through Independence Day of this year.

The Radford Noon Rotary Club will be presenting the donation to Glencoe Museum during the next Radford City Council Meeting. The club also intends to donate $500 to Radford VFW Post 776, and $136 to the Alzheimer’s Foundation. The remaining funds will be applied to the Radford Noon Rotary Club’s RU Scholarship Fund.

The idea for the Field of Honor came from Radford Noon Rotary Treasurer Tom Alston.

“My wife and I are both veterans and when I learned about the project with over 1000 flags in Forest, Va., and a similar one in Winchester, I thought ‘We need to do this.’ So, I spoke with Frank (Herzog) to make it happen,” said Alston.

Frank Herzog, who was President of the Radford Noon Rotary Club during the launch of the project added, “The Field of Honor was a big success for Glencoe and Rotary. We are all very excited for next year.”

The club intends to continue to partner with Glencoe Museum and display the Field of Honor each year.

Special thanks to all the Field of Honor Flag sponsors including Dr. Richard and Ms. Kathleen Harvey Harshberger, Dr. John C. Nemeth, Grace Toney Edwards, Sal’s of Radford, Lowes of Fairlawn, Stifel of Radford, and Jimmy John’s of Radford.

New River Health District warns of rabies concerns

The New River Health District is warning the public about rabies concerns in the health district.

Two foxes testing positive for rabies have been found in the same general area of Christiansburg within the past 10 days, marking the fifth laboratory confirmed case of animal rabies in Montgomery County and the twelfth in the New River Health District this year. In May, the City of Radford notified residents a raccoon in Radford tested positive for the rabies virus.

“On Aug. 5, 2023, a fox testing positive for rabies was found in a neighborhood around Blake Drive in Christiansburg,” the NRHD stated. “This is the second confirmed case of animal rabies in Christiansburg within the past week. A few days prior, another fox testing positive for rabies was located in a neighborhood around Dunlap Drive in Christiansburg. In each incident a person was reportedly exposed to the animal.”

The New River Health District asks anyone who may have come into contact with either of the foxes in or around the area of Blake Drive or Dunlap Drive to call the Montgomery County Health Department at 540-585-3300.

Due to the relative proximity and timing of these cases within Christiansburg, the New River Health District wants to remind everyone, and especially pet owners, of the risks of rabies.

Rabies is a deadly disease caused by a virus that attacks the nervous system. It is almost always fatal, unless preventive treatment is administered before symptoms develop.

“It is important to keep your pets properly vaccinated and to seek medical attention promptly if you or your pet are exposed,” said Dr. Noelle Bissell, director for the New River Health District.

Virginia law requires that all dogs and cats four months of age and older be vaccinated for rabies by a licensed veterinarian, and that vaccinations be kept current.

Additional steps to protect against rabies exposure:

BLAST Camp nurtures high schoolers’ interest in STEM

RADFORD - As a group of voices counted down in unison – 5,4,3,2,1 – and a tiny white rocket zipped toward the clouds, Julia Jackson spoke about her grandmother.

More specifically, about how her grandmother, who has fought medical battles, has inspired Jackson to pursue a career as a surgeon to help others in their times of need.

“Plus,” the rising high school sophomore said as another rocket hissed overhead, “there aren’t a lot of Black female surgeons out there, and I want to change that and be able to help people get better.”

To pursue those dreams, Jackson, who has a few physicians in her family, knows STEM education is vital to her success. Pursuing multiple education opportunities led her to BLAST Camp at Radford University for a week, beginning July 23.

“I came to BLAST because I wanted a hands-on experience in a STEM program before I went to college,” Jackson explained. BLAST, an acronym for Building Leaders for Advancing Science and Technology, is a partnership between the Virginia Space Grant Consortium, the Commonwealth of Virginia and five partner universities, including Radford University. The program is funded by the Virginia General Assembly with the purpose of increasing the number of high school graduates who pursue STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) careers by increasing students’ access to STEM enrichment experiences.

BLAST at Radford University provided 80 rising high school freshmen and sophomores with an opportunity over a four-day residential camp to experience a wide range of hands-on STEM learning experiences led by faculty in the Artis College of Science and Technology. It also gave the participants an early view of college campus life.

Those STEM activities included building and launching rockets in front of McConnell Library,

Expert offers tips for combating the invasive spotted lanternfly

Virginia's most infamous hitchhiker is on the move again: the spotted lanternfly.

These insects colonize quickly, disrupt native ecosystems, and potentially cause problems to human health and agriculture.

The College of Agriculture and Life Sciences and the Department of Entomology at Virginia Tech and the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services have partnered to empower the citizens of the commonwealth to take action themselves on these most unwelcome visitors.

"We need to prevent spotted lanternfly from going somewhere else and becoming a problem. Make sure it does not move on vehicles or plants and remove and squish any you find," said Eric Day, manager of the Insect ID Lab in the Department of Entomology.

If seen, join the effort by stomping, treating, and checking for this destructive, invasive insect. Virginia Cooperative Extension has resources for controlling the spotted lanternfly.

Before you move items stored outside, check for spotted lanternflies on:

- RVs, ATVs, boats, hunting stands, trailers, and portable buildings
- Building materials and stones
- Propane tanks
- Outdoor machinery
- Pallets
- Containers
- Garden Equipment
- Outdoor furniture
- Play sets or toys
- Other exposed surfaces

• Before you leave your home or work site, check for spotted lanternflies on your vehicle:

- Doors and sides
- Grill
- Bumpers
- Wheel wells
- Roof
- Cargo area

In addition to the actions that everyone can take, Virginia Cooperative Extension has an abundant library of digital and online publications and resources, including additional resources on the spotted lanternfly, geared toward providing our communities with specialized information tailored to local environments and challenges.

NRCC offers engineering design technology program

New River Community College's engineering design technology associate degree program is now enrolling students for the fall 2023 semester. The program is designed to prepare graduates for full-time employment as qualified engineering design technicians and computer-aided design (CAD) technicians to work with engineers, as well as industries and businesses.

Graduates of the program will be capable of complex reverse engineering techniques, advanced parametric solid modeling, additive manufacturing 3D printing, producing engineering design drawings, and advanced conceptual 3D modeling.

Approximately two-thirds of the program includes courses in engineering design technology, reverse engineering, and additive manufacturing (3D printing) with the remaining courses in related areas, general education, and electives. Instruction includes both theoretical concepts and practical applications with a focus on "real world" project completion that is needed for future success.

Graduates of the program are prepared for careers as engineering design technicians, engineer design specialists, additive manufacturing/3D printing technicians, CAD technicians, and more.

Engineering design technology is one of NRCC's many G3-eligible programs. G3 is a tuition assistance program for any Virginia resident who qualifies for in-state tuition and whose family income falls below an identified threshold. For more information about G3 tuition assistance, visit www.nr.edu/g3.

Classes begin August 23. For more information, visit www.nr.edu/edt or email Jeff Levy, instructor of drafting, at jlevy@nr.edu.

Citizens address Blacksburg Town Council on Odd Fellows operation agreement

Lori Graham
Contributing writer

BLACKSBURG - Many citizens addressed the Blacksburg Town Council during their August 8 regular meeting with concerns for the restoration and continued support of Odd Fellows Hall in Blacksburg.

Jody Daniels, a long-time supporter and volunteer of Blacksburg culture and history and serving as a Chair of the Preservation Committee and a Montgomery County Community Review Council (MCCRC) member addressed the Blacksburg Town Council on the Odd Fellows Hall historical structure in disrepair. Daniels has previously addressed the Council on the need to repair and preserve the structure, both in a meeting on June 27 and in 2022.

"The five-year operation agreement between the Town and the museum is on the agenda for August 15 Town Council work session," Daniels said. "As this body sets upon this task, please take the time to read the 2005 deed; the Town Clerk should be able to provide you with a copy. This agreement could be a positive way for the Town to continue to honor an important aspect of the 2021 Comprehensive Plan."

Gabriele Parker of Blacksburg also showed her support for African American culture sustainability as well as for the Odd Fellows restoration. Parker urged Council to let the history of the historical importance of African American culture in Blacksburg speak for itself without interpretation.

"Maybe if we let history speak for itself, we will question why we immortalize these slave-owners, these native killers," Parker said. "It may...even reveal some conflicts of interest in the present. Like how the same bank started by Alexander Black shared the same president and director as the Blacksburg Museum and Cultural Foundation up until 2017," Parker said.

Brandy Faulkner of Blacksburg represented the New River Valley chapter of Virginia Organizing, a non-profit organization.

According to the organization's website at www.virginia-organizing.org, their mission is to "challenge injustice by empowering people in local communities to address issues that affect the quality of their lives."

Faulkner stressed the need for Council to consider how not supporting the restoration and maintenance of a historical location would negatively impact the communities of Blacksburg. Additionally, she expressed concern for the previously mentioned harassment of board members based on gender and race.

Among other obligations the Council has to the historic location and its associated supporters, Faulkner said, "to take seriously the allegations of harassment and inequity and mistreatment from employees, current or past of an organization that you help to fund."

In other business, Blacksburg Town Council has scheduled a public hearing for September 12, 2023, concerning Ordinance 2023. This ordinance, if approved, would authorize the lease space on the North Main Street water tank to New River Valley Unwired Ventures, LLC.

A public hearing for Conditional Use Permit Request (CUP 23-0003) for Hotel Use and additional height in the Downtown Commercial Zoning District at 501 South Main Street has been postponed.

The Blacksburg Town Council voted unanimously in approval of Ordinance 2025, vacating a waterline easement on land located at 615 Southgate Drive, situated on Virginia Tech property.

Town Attorney Larry Spencer introduced Ordinance 2025 during the public hearing segment of the council meeting on Ordinance 2025.

"They're constructing a new hangar and they need to vacate part of this easement to facilitate construction of the new hangar. They can't build the hangar on top of an easement," Spencer said.

Citizens did not come forward to address the ordinance.

Spencer also introduced Ordinance 2016, which proposes to amend Westview Cemetery Rules and Regulations to establish green burials along with a fee structure.

Linda Plaut of Blacksburg responded in support of the ordinance that would permit green burials in Blacksburg. Plaut serves as the Secretary of the Funeral Consumers Alliance of the Virginia Blue Ridge and shared a personal story with the Council about a recent green burial of a friend.

"It was an honor to be part of the interment ceremony. Just standing around with a small group of friends, talking about our loved one and tossing flowers on the grave before he was lowered in a very simple shroud" Plaut said. "It was a beautiful ceremony, but we had to drive an flying and earning drone certifications and learning the math behind computer information systems and cybersecurity capture-the-flag-competitions.

"That was the coolest thing I've learned about," said Joshua Hollie, a rising high school sophomore from Loudon County, Virginia, who is interested in pursuing a career in engineering, "either mechanical or electrical," he noted.

Rylee Hampson applied to the BLAST program at Radford because of her interest in STEM and technology, specifically coding.

"I thought this program would give me a good experience and help me figure out what I want to do for a career," said the rising high school freshman from Gainesville, Virginia, who excitedly explained the capabilities of robots. "You can program a robot to save someone's life. You can program a robot to plant a tree," Hampson said, going through a few of the possibilities. "You can program a robot to do anything."

Programming simple robots was part of the curriculum at the inaugural BLAST camp.

Joseph Kohrs, a rising sophomore from Mount Jackson, Virginia, had a blast at the camp – pun intended – and loved the Radford University experience, meeting new people and working with university faculty.

"It's a nice college," he said about Radford, awaiting his turn to launch his newly constructed rocket. "I think I will apply here."

Radford University Assistant Professor of Physics Sandra Liss said BLAST is perfect for giving students the freedom to approach complex topics in creative ways.

"Eighty Virginia high schoolers have now seen themselves as scientists at Radford University," Liss explained. "They've learned about college and career paths in STEM. They have persevered through challenges in physics, engineering, mathematics, biology and chemistry. They've met faculty and students who tackle these subjects daily and enjoy it!

"Maybe they've learned something new that has sparked a lifelong interest in science," Liss continued. "And maybe in a few years, when they're ready for college, they'll choose to come to Radford and continue to explore that passion with us."

Rabies

Do not feed stray animals. Avoid wild animals, especially raccoons, bats, foxes and skunks. Feed your pets indoors and do not let them wander.

Make sure your pets are vaccinated against rabies and their shots are up to date. By law, all dogs, cats and ferrets must be vaccinated against rabies.

Teach children to avoid contact with wild animals and pets they are not familiar with.

Do not handle sick, injured or dead animals.

Keep wild animals out of homes by capping chimneys with screens and blocking openings in attics, cellars and porches. Ensure trash cans have tight fitting lids.

Do not try to trap or handle stray and wild animals.

If you are bitten by a wild or stray animal, do not panic. Wash the wound(s) thoroughly with warm soapy water and contact animal control, your doctor or the Montgomery County Health Department for further recommendations.

WORSHIP DIRECTORY

Stolen Hearts

Read 2 Samuel 14:1 through 15:37

Absalom, King David's son, did not have an easy life. He fled from home after killing his half brother for raping his sister. Eventually he was allowed to return home, but his relationship with his father was strained. Absalom undermined his father's authority by promising that he would be a more compassionate ruler than David.

Absalom behaved in this way toward all the Israelites who came to the king asking for justice, and so he stole the hearts of the people of Israel (2 Samuel 15:6).

Just as Absalom worked to steal the hearts of the people from David, so the devil works to steal the hearts of people from God. The devil tries to get people, even Christians, to doubt God's justice or care and make them think they would be better off without God. God never promised that hard times wouldn't come, but He has promised to be with believers and help them make it through trials. Knowing He will never leave or forsake believers can help us dispel doubts and keep our hearts true to God.

Prayer for Today: Lord, help me guard my heart so I will never doubt Your love and care for me.

Quicklook: 2 Samuel 15:1-6

Steppin' Out celebrated 42 years, but some may remember the event as Deadwood Days

Every summer, around the first week of August, the streets of Blacksburg are filled with festivalgoers to partake in the entertainment, vendors, crafts, food, and drink of Steppin' Out, but many people do not know that the event was once called the Deadwood Days Summer Festival.

Stop in and visit with John Kline of John's Cameras and Vinyl Records at 213 Draper Road NW in Blacksburg and he can tell the story of a time in the 70s when the event looked a lot different than today. How does he know? Kline has been a Blacksburg business owner since the beginning of the festival in 1976. He even has the posters to prove it.

"In the summer of '76 it was pretty slow, I mean like real slow," Kline said. "Deadwood, South Dakota had a party a mile long, a parade, so we became the sister city to Deadwood, South Dakota."

According to Kline, the Blacksburg Town Council met during that time and decided to bring in business with the creation of Deadwood Days, mirroring the event in South Dakota.

"We had Associate Press, we gave Willard Scott on The Today Show a t-shirt, Deadwood Days. Everyone dressed up in cowboy outfits; it was a bit wilder, I mean a lot wilder," Kline said.

Previously, Kline also owned a store across the street from his current location on Draper Road that was called DaVinci's Attic that had a variety of surplus items.

"I took a big weather balloon, filled it full of helium. I put a Deadwood Days poster on it and let it go up, well we had it tethered, and it crossed over Main Street," Kline said.

That night, Kline and

John Kline, owner of John's Cameras and Records, has witnessed the many changes of Steppin' Out since the 1970s.

friends took the same balloon and sent it up untethered with glow lights attached, appearing much like a UFO in the sky, causing quite a stir with the people viewing the night sky. The balloon was tracked all the way to West Virginia, Kline said.

"Steppin' Out has been going for 42 years but they didn't have it in '80," Kline said.

According to a Roanoke Times article published on July 9, 1980, in Virginia Tech's Special Collections and University Archives, Blacksburg Town Council voted 5-1 rejecting the festival's request to hold the event that year.

The original Deadwood Days in South Dakota was held in remembrance of the shooting of Wild Bill Hickok, a famous gunfighter and outlaw on the western frontier. The Blacksburg Deadwood Days began to resemble the wild west when the event increasingly became a place of lawlessness and out of control partying resulting in numerous arrests, the article said. When a local teenager was shot and killed after leaving the festival, the 1980 Deadwood Days Summer Festival was canceled.

In 1981, the family friendly Steppin' Out festival began after local merchants got together to change the face of the event. This August, Steppin' Out 2023 hosted thousands of visitors and over 200 vendors according to Downtown Blacksburg, Inc., the organizer, and host of the festival.

hour to get to the nearest place that we could do this and there was expense involved."

Blacksburg Town Council voted 6-0 in approval of Ordinance 2016, with Mayor Leslie Hager-Smith absent from the meeting.

Ordinance 2029: An Ordinance to Amend Town Code Sections 7-100, 7-103, 7-104, 7-105, 7-108 and 7-109 Pertaining to the Town Cemetery, were approved 6-0 by Town Council.

"The Town Code has a chapter that addresses Westview Cemetery and is part of updating the Rules and Regulations which are separate," Spencer said.

The Town Attorney went on to say that although he has made some changes in adherence to the rules and regulations for green burial, this chapter has not been looked at for some time, meaning there are outdated provisions that should be corrected. However, Spencer said these are minor changes that need to happen.

Expert offers tips for easing back-to-school transition for children

There's more to back-to-school season than snagging the latest notebooks, bookbags, and trendy jackets and jeans.

A new routine, new teachers, and new schools signal a big adjustment period for some students.

"Anxiety can be associated with the unknown, such as what will the teacher this year be like, what friends will be in my class, where will my classroom be, and likely other worries can pop into children's minds," said Cindy Smith, director of the Children's Emotions Lab at Virginia Tech and an expert in child emotional development, parent-child interaction, and parenting behaviors. "As parents, understanding how children are feeling can be so important to helping them through school transitions."

Adults should be especially sensitive to changes in their students' behavior during this time of the year.

Smith shares some ways that parents and guardians can help children ease the stress of returning to the back-to-school routine.

Visit the school or classroom before the year starts, which helps children to visualize what their days might look like.

Arrange a playdate or meet up with other children in their school.

Read books with children about going to school and discuss questions as you read together. For families with more than one child, having the older child read with you can also give opportunities for modeling for the younger child and for the older child to express how they are feeling too.

Talk with students about what goals they have for the upcoming year to help them get excited. Also, families can talk about what their children might learn in the upcoming year.

Any activity done with children can provide opportunities to talk about how they are feeling about school, even if the activity has nothing to do with school. Having time dedicated solely to your students shows them that you are interested in what they might need and are there to support them. Make it a no-phones time to avoid distractions.

Practice the routine of getting up and ready for school a few days before the year starts.

Make sure children have their school supplies ready for the first day.

Plan a fun activity after the first day of school, such as getting ice cream. This activity gives children something fun to anticipate.

"Always remember that children take their cues from the adults around them," Smith said. "If parents are showing excitement about going back to school, then children will pick up on that excitement."

Johnson, John Page

John Page Johnson "JJ", 78, of Radford, passed away on August 6, 2023, from a severe stroke. He fought a brave battle but complications made it impossible for him to recover. The Johnson family would like to thank the staff at Roanoke Carilion Hospital, Radford Health & Rehab, Intrepid Hospice, and Dr. Charles Judy for their professional and compassionate care for John.

the outpouring of love, support, and prayers since John's stroke on June 3rd. John enjoyed each and every heartfelt card and message read to him, and the family enjoyed the stories he shared about the friends who sent them!

In lieu of a public service, please consider making a charitable

Born in Roanoke, John grew up in Galax, and was a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University. He was a manufacturer's representative in the furniture industry for over 50 years where he made so many lifelong friends. John had a wonderful gift for connecting with people, a true "people person," and worked his way into the hearts of many. We know he was grateful for, and loved, his family and friends very much! Over the years, John's passions included snow skiing, traveling, racquetball, movies, yard work, pickleball, and most of all, spending time with his family boating, jet skiing, and enjoying beautiful Claytor Lake.

John was preceded in death by his parents, John "Red" and Roberta Johnson; a brother, Bob Johnson; and sister-in-law, Ann Johnson, all of Galax. He is survived by his wife of 56 years, Betty Lou Morris Johnson; son, Tom P. Johnson and his wife Beth of Radford; daughter, Hillary J. Thompson and her husband, Wes, of Salem; and grandsons Tristan P. Johnson, Avery P. Thompson, and Aspen C. Thompson.

Per John's wishes, his life will be celebrated with a private family memorial at the lake. The family would like to thank everyone for donation in John's memory. FOCL (Friends of Claytor Lake) and Unity Christian Church in Radford are the two beneficiaries of his choice. John and his family have been lifetime members of Unity (formerly First Christian Church), and he has been a passionate board member and volunteer for FOCL since its inception in 1992. FOCL's mission is to care for Claytor Lake by cleaning up debris, maintaining water quality, protecting shoreline, and even promoting fish habitats and native vegetation growth. John grew up boating on Claytor Lake, and raised his own family with lots of time and summer vacations spent on the lake. Eventually his and Betty's dream of living on Claytor Lake came true, with lots of Family Lake Days!

The right-handed Fleet started and completed 27 games this season with a 26-1 record pitching 175 innings, striking out 389 batters with an ERA of 0.48, allowing 17 runs (12 earned runs), 20 shoutouts, nine no-hitters, and five perfect games. # Five named to Radford University HOF

Radford University Athletics has announced five new members that will be inducted into the Radford Athletics Hall of Fame in October.

The Class of 2023 will include Eddie Butler (Baseball), Mickey Dean (Softball), Martin Sayer (Men's Tennis), Kristen Shifflett (Softball) and Anthony Walker (Men's Basketball).

The five-member class will be the 20th to be inducted into the Radford Athletics Hall of Fame. This year's induction ceremony will once again help kick off Homecoming Weekend festivities and will be held inside Kyle Hall on October 20. For more information on the Radford Athletics Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony, click here.

EDDIE BUTLER
Baseball | 2010-12
There is no disputing that Butler was one of the most talented players to ever don the Radford Baseball uniform. The righty was a two-time All-Big South selection and was voted as the Big South and VaSID Pitcher of the Year in 2012 after the school's single-season ERA record. He ranks second in program history for career wins (22), third for career shutouts (3), fourth for career strikeouts (232), seventh for career starts (43) and eighth for career ERA (3.84). Butler went on to become the first player in Big South history to be drafted in the first round of the Major League Baseball First Year Player Draft, going 46th overall to the Colorado Rockies.

MICKEY DEAN
Head Softball Coach | 2007-12

In his six years at the helm of the Radford Softball program, Dean cemented himself as one of the greatest coaches ever to represent the Highlanders. His teams achieved an overall record of 241-116 (.675), including an 84-21 (.800) in the Big South Conference, making Radford the winningest program in the state of Virginia from 2006-09. He led Radford to four Big South regular season championships and a pair of Big South Tournament titles, claiming the program's first three NCAA Tournament victories as well. Dean earned four consecutive Big South Coach of the Year honors as a result. He is currently the Head Softball Coach at Auburn University in the Southeastern Conference (SEC).

MARTIN SAYER
Men's Tennis | 2005-09
Following his tragic passing, Martin Sayer will be inducted posthumously. The king of the court for four straight years, Sayer emerged as the most dominant player Radford has ever seen. With the most singles wins in program history (114) and the fourth-most doubles wins in program history (65), Sayer was a four-time Big South Player of the Year, four-time All-Big South player in both singles and doubles, and a four-time NCAA Tournament participant. He is one of just two Big South athletes to ever win at the NCAA Individual Tournament, cementing his place on the 2000's Big South All-Decade Team as well.

K R I S T E N SHIFFLETT
Softball | 2008-11
A catalyst for Radford Softball's most successful era, Shifflett sits at the top of nearly every category in the program's record books. She is first in program history for career runs scored (179) and tied for first for doubles (53), as well as second in program history for career hits (246), home runs (41), slugging percentage (.563), total bases (436) and assists (497). A three-time First Team All-Big South selection and two-time Big South Tournament MVP, Shifflett's premier campaign came in 2010 when she was named Big South and VaSID Player of the Year and Big South Female Student-Athlete of the Year.

ANTHONY WALKER
Men's Basketball | 1993-97
Walker was named Big South Freshman of the Year in his debut season as a Highlander and never looked back. A two-time All-Big South selection, he is one of just six players in program history to score 1,600 points and is sixth all-time with 14.7 points per game. He dished it out as well as he could score it, ranking second in program history with 510 career assists. Beyond that, Walker remains in the top-10 in Radford Men's Basketball history for career field goals made, 3-point FG made, 3-point FG percentage, free throws made, free throw percentage, steals, and games started.

The Thundering Herd ranked eighth in the nation in scoring offense, averaging 81.8 points per game, a figure that can be attributed in large part to incredible ball movement that ranked fifth in the country with 17.5 assists per contest. Leading scorers Taevion Kinsey (22.1 ppg) and Andrew Taylor (20.2 ppg) have both graduated however, leaving Head Coach Dan D'Antoni with some work to do heading into 2023-24.
