Radford professor leads petition calling for investigation into murder-suicide involving two Blacksburg students

Lori Graham
Contributing writer

Local community members in the New River Valley are petitioning for an independent investigation into the Montgomery County Public Schools' actions preceding the recent murder-suicide that resulted in the deaths of two Blacksburg High School students.

Dr. Wendy Eckenrod has started a petition that currently has almost 1,200 signatures from community members. The petition, established on www.nextdoor.com, is calling for an independent investigation into how Montgomery County Public Schools' employees responded to domestic violence issues that had been occurring between the two students and had been reported prior to their tragic murder-suicide. The bodies of two Blacksburg High School students were discovered on Nov. 7, 2023, a teacher workday for Montgomery County Public Schools, in a Blacksburg parking garage.

Eckenrod is a professional counselor and Radford University professor, working in the School of Teaching Education and Leadership.

"I teach mostly human development; student mental health, suicide, they are going to be educators, so I teach them all this stuff...suicide is #2 killer for teens and the #3 is homicide," Eckenrod said.

Eckenrod is also the parent of a Blacksburg High School student who was friends with the victim, Serenity Hawley. Hawley was 17 years old and days away from her 18th birthday when she was found deceased in a parking garage along with another deceased BHS student, Crony Monk. Identities of the juveniles were released by Hawley's family. According to reports, Hawley's mother Heather Waldron, had just learned of an incident from the school involving Hawley's ex-boyfriend Monk one month prior to the death of her daughter. A no-contact order had been issued by the school for Monk and Hawley.

According to Eckenrod, her son and friends had reported concerning behavior to BHS administration they had witnessed by Monk towards Hawley. Eckenrod says that the model for Virginia's threat assessment has steps that should have been followed Daniel Taylor and the Church on Main choir who sang "Oh How Good It Is" and "He Never Failed Me Yet" with the solo provided by Zach Dulaney. Dr. King's favorite hymn, "Amazing Grace," was sung by Dr. Deana Katey. The audience then joyously sang "Lift Every Voice and Sing" also known as The Negro National Anthem.

The Secular Society abolishes medical debt in Southwest Virginia

The Secular Society, a non-profit corporation located in Blacksburg, has purchased an additional $12,102,570 medical debt of 14,434 Southwest Virginia citizens.

That debt has now been wiped out.

To be eligible for purchase and abolition, the debt must be owned by someone with a family income less than four times the federal poverty level or for whom a medical debt is 5% or more of their annual income. The medical debt of an uninsured citizen, as well as that of an underinsured citizen, is eligible for purchase. Medical debt relief cannot be requested and the eligible recipients simply receive a letter with the good news.

Once the debts have been purchased further collection attempts cease, credit reports are updated, access to medical care is restored and the citizen's peace of mind should improve.

The Secular Society has again partnered with RIP

Medical Debt, a non-profit corporation headquartered in New York, to purchase and abolish this debt, to notify the debtors in writing that their debt has been cancelled, and to ensure that the credit report has been updated.

For those whose medical debts have been abolished, the relief is a gift, an act of generosity from a disinterested third party, and so the debt does not count as income to the debtor.

The citizens in 20 Southwest Virginia counties - Bland, Buchanan, Carroll, Craig, Dickenson, Floyd, Franklin, Giles, Grayson, Lee, Montgomery, Patrick, Pulaski, Russell, Scott, Smyth, Tazewell, Washington, Wise, and Wythe, and the City of Radford - received these medical debt relief benefits.

Radford releases Community Zoning Survey

The city is gathering community input for its zoning ordinance update process. Your feedback will be valuable to help identify desirable developments, ways to improve the neighborhoods and existing barriers in the zoning ordinance.

What is Zoning?

Zoning is the legislative division of a city or county into zones, which regulates allowable uses for properties and size restrictions for buildings within each zone. Zoning regulations contain a text section that lists several types of uses, standards, and procedures in codified text format. It also includes an official zoning map, which shows the geographic division of the community into multiple districts designated as official zones where different regulations will be applicable.

Please return your survey by mail or drop it off at City Hall at 10 Robertson St, Radford, VA 24141. If you have any questions, please contact Melissa Skelton at 540-267-3188 or Melissa.Skelton@radfordva.gov. Thank you for your time.

This survey is also available online at www.engagenrv.org/radford-zoning.

NAACP branch. The audience donated $1,592.77 for the scholarship fund.

Townsend introduced the keynote speaker, Tameka Paige, Community Relations Specialist in the City of Roanoke's Sheriff's Department. Paige spoke eloquently about the importance of examining oneself with the goal of creating a beloved community. She emphasized the importance of both empathy and compassion and related both to Dr. King's work. She admonished it is incumbent upon us all to recognize and address hate in our communities and to work toward positively addressing community needs. Ms. Paige warned of the dangers of complacency and urged the audience to look inward for redemption and atonement. She went on to emphasize the need for a strong commitment to creating a beloved community and reminded everyone to take steps to know and love one's neighbors. Love is not disposable; we must all live the meaning.

Travis made closing remarks with a quote from Dr. King, "Rise up tonight with greater readiness. Let us stand with a greater determination. And let us more on in these powerful days, these days of challenge, to make America what it ought to be. We have an opportunity to make America a better nation." The program ended with everyone singing, "We Shall Overcome," a gospel song associated with the civil rights movement. Guests were then invited downstairs for refreshments and further discussion.

but were not. She has started a petition to present to the MCPS Board requesting an independent investigation into the events leading up to the death of the two BHS students and how procedures, she feels, were not followed.

Eckenrod has also spoken with MCPS Superintendent Dr. Bernard Bragen.

"Dr. Bragen was so kind and a decent human being when I met with him. I don't want that to get lost in this. The petition is not to blame the school counselors and teachers. The mechanism that was supposed to be in place was not followed. I know it wasn't followed, because my son went to administration and expressed his concerns, but his concerns were not met," Eckenrod said.

Multiple parents also went to the school over concerns, so this was not just a one-time fear, Eckenrod also said. She went on to explain that Hawley had moved to Florida with family for about a year but missed friends and returned to Blacksburg High School. She then moved in with the now principal of Blacksburg High School, Mr. Stuart, and his family.

According to reports from Hawley's family in a WSLs news report, Hawley was very active in school, worked at a local pizzeria called Your Pie, and had just been accepted to Virginia Tech. The family also revealed that Monk had shot their daughter in the chest before turning the gun on himself.

"My goal is not to humiliate or shame people publicly. I just want the actions of the school to be investigated," Eckenrod said. "She was so full of life, I mean vivacious. You walked into Your Pie...that whole group was tight. She flashed the most beautiful smile."

Eckenrod also said Monk needed serious help and that all the signs of intimate domestic violence were there.

"I know it is easy to vilify him, and Serenity has been in my home and seen her in Your Pie where she worked," Eckenrod said. "She was at my home and Crony was outside my home stalking her."

The focus of the petition and request for an independent investigation is to improve response procedures for domestic violence between intimate teen partners.

"The other thing that bothers me is that there is minimal, I mean minimal information related to how to make a report or express a concern," Eckenrod said. "The only thing I found was in the Student Conduct Manual. It is a small section for students and parents to call a hotline. For me, that is buried in a document. That is the only thing I can find."

The MCPS Student Conduct manual can be found online at www.mcps.org.

Additionally, Eckenrod referred to the Michigan Oxford Independent Report concerning the necessity of clear communication procedures for reporting and initiating a threat assessment investigation. The report is in response to a Nov. 30, 2021, student-involved shooting that led to the deaths of four high school teens, with six more students and one teacher injured.

The report published on www.cbsnews.com revealed the shooter "was not identified as a threat because individuals at Oxford High School failed to recognize on Nov. 30, 2021, that the shooter's conduct, statements, and drawings suggested that he might cause physical harm at the school."

"It breaks my heart that the administration didn't seem to have more awareness about intimate partner violence. She had a no-contact order. All the signs were there," Eckenrod said. "I've been a school counselor and I've been in the position where you recognize the red flags and look for the resources, especially for the parents. I've been to funerals of my students...and I never want to attend another funeral of a student who has committed suicide."

Eckenrod plans to present the petition to the Montgomery County School Board meeting during the public address session.

Cline, Philip Eugene

Great is thy faithfulness Philip Eugene Cline, 90, of Huntington, W.Va. and Radford, died at home with family present Jan. 6, 2024, from complications due to a stroke 2.5 years before.

Born in Stidham (Martin County), Ky., to Ovie and Jesse Cline, he was the oldest of six children. Cline graduated Oceana High School, Oceana, W.Va. Despite growing up in humble circumstances, with his father working as a coal miner and both parents were schoolteachers, he valued education and graduated from Marshall University with a B.S. in accounting in 1955 and an M.A. in political science in 1962. He firmly believed that you are to honor thy father and mother and you would live long and prosper, and that he did!

By foot, hitchhiking and bus, Cline made his way to Marshall College (now University), where he lent his talents to Omicron Delta Kappa, Baptist Youth Fellowship Work, and Sigma Phi Epsilon. His passion for student government, which had begun in high school, continued at Marshall, where he served throughout his four years and ultimately became the student body president.

Cline had a remarkable career, starting at J.H. Fletcher Co. in 1955 and eventually becoming the executive vice-president and board member. He was past president and member of the Board of Directors of Broughton Foods Co. He served on the board of directors for several other businesses, including Southern Belle Dairy Inc., Portec Rail Products Co., the Logan Corp., Champion Industries Inc., US Chamber of Commerce, Cabell County Chapter of the American Red Cross, and the YMCA. He served on the United Way board of directors and co-established the United Way of the River Cities Foundation. He was a member of the Huntington Rotary Club, and was involved with the Huntington Museum of Art, Marshall Artists Series, West Virginia Humanities Foundation, Southwestern Community Action Council and many others.

Cline was a present member and past chairman of the Huntington Area Chamber of Commerce and the West Virginia Chamber of Commerce. In 2011, the WV Chamber inducted him into its Hall of Fame. Steve Roberts, president of the West Virginia State Chamber of Commerce stated "Cline's influence reached national heights, as seen in his service on the board of directors for the US Chamber of Commerce. He also helped lead the successful national effort to pass Gorton/Rockefeller Product Liability Act."

Cline maintained a strong connection with Marshall University, serving as a past chairman of the Marshall Institutional Board of Advisors, and past president of the Marshall Foundation and the Marshall Alumni Association. He was a life member of the Big Green Club and received numerous alumni awards. He made significant contributions to the university, establishing the Ovie and Jesse Cline Museum in the One-Room School House and creating the Ovie and Jesse John Marshall Scholarship in honor of his parents. Cline was recognized for his philanthropic endeavors, privately funding the college tuition of numerous deserving students.

Furthermore, Cline had a deep commitment to health care and community service. He served on the boards of Cabell Huntington Hospital, West Virginia Alliance for Hospital Trustees, and the Huntington Pediatric Clinic. He was involved with American Red Cross and played crucial role in establishing the Phil Cline YMCA, a facility dedicated to providing free access to recreational activities for young people and senior citizens.

In 1987, Cline was named to the Greater Huntington Wall of Fame, and in 1988 the Huntington Herald-Dispatch selected him as its "Citizen of the Year."

From his college days until his death, Cline was a stalwart member of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church. In 1955, he was the West Virginia youth representative to the Baptist World Congress. For many years, he looked forward to April when he taught Sunday School for the month. As a Baptist, Cline also had a special relationship with faith-based Alderson-Broaddus College. He generously contributed as a donor, received an honorary doctorate degree, and served as a dedicated member of the college's board. In 2011, he even took on the role of interim president.

Cline attributed his perseverance and success to his strong faith and his personal relationship with his Lord, Savior and Friend, Jesus Christ. He met his late wife and the mother of his children, Ruth, at Camp Cowen, a Baptist young adult retreat. He was an active member of Fifth Avenue Baptist Church serving on various committees and involved with his beloved FAB Sunday School class for over 63 years. He prayed daily and placed his trust in his Lord with every decision he made.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Ovie and Jesse Cline, his five siblings Cecil Gobel Cline (Sprout), Anne Cline Gillum (Tom), Mary Cline Wilson (Brad), Alice Cline Hobbs (Bernie), Grover Cleveland Cline (Nancy), and his life partner and gravesite resting mate, Ruth Layne Cline.

Survivors include his three amazing children, two sons-in-law, two grandchildren, Sandra Cline Ramsey and her husband, Steve, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Philip Andrew "Andy" Cline of Lantana, Fla.; and Holly Leeann Cline and her husband, Sid Miller of Radford; her two daughters, Ruth Layne Cline "Laney" and Hollybrook Coulter Cline. His grandchildren who he loved more than life; nieces and nephews and their spouses; cousins and many friends. Special friends include Roberta Johnson, Dr. Friday Simpson, Steve and Ann Roberts, Marshall Reynolds, Walt Bolen, Allen Reasons, Rick Stout, Becky King-Harris, Jim Fletcher, Chris Michael, Kay Ransbottom, Jane Fotos, Pat Mann and all his church lady friends.

Cline moved to Radford after his stroke. He enjoyed the extra time with his grandchildren, watching their progression into adulthood. He became a donor of Radford University and was recognized by the Department of Design for his contributions. He was so excited to learn that his youngest granddaughter would be attending RU in the fall of 2024.

He was a father, grandfather (Papaw), accountant, humanitarian, philanthropist, leader, visionary, world traveler and a farmer. His farm, The Hollybrook Farm, began with a cabin that he built with friends on the weekend and grew into a working dairy and beef cattle farm. Cline hosted many family reunions and church functions in the summer at his farm in Gallia County, OH. In 1994, his farm received the Ohio Department of Natural Resources Forest Stewardship award. He loved his farm and his family and any time he could combine the two, he did so with joy. His family will miss him dearly.

His legacy as a dedicated advocate for education will be forever remembered through the establishment of a scholarship in his name. In lieu of flowers, the family requests that you consider donating to the Philip E. Cline Scholarship at Radford University. You may send your gift to the Radford University Foundation, PO Box 6893, Radford, VA 24142. Please include the scholarship name on the memo line of your check.

Hope Valley Church provides warmth and rest to escape frigid temperatures

Lori Graham
Contributing writer

As frigid temperatures reach single digits, and wind chills feeling below zero, individuals lacking the proper housing face dangerous exposure to the elements. Warming centers and homeless shelters can often reach capacity quickly during this time of year, so Hope Valley Church decided to open their Fellowship Center to those in need.

Located at 2149 Dominion Dr. in Christiansburg, just five minutes from the Uptown Mall on Peppers Ferry Road, the church's fellowship center offers a spacious and warm community area with a television, ping-pong table, kitchen, and restrooms.

Upon hearing of the idea to open the church's doors as a warming center, many members of the church and community jumped to action with donations of pillows, cots, blankets, air mattresses, pots of soup, water, coffee, orange juice, and desserts. One Virginia Tech student wanted to help out as well and dropped off handmade scarves and hats to donate to anyone in need.

Leadership Team Member of Hope Valley Church Frank Sowers said that members came up with the idea to open the fellowship hall just one day prior, while they were thinking about the frigid temperatures and the needs of the

A busy week in the 2024 General Assembly Session

The first full week of the 2024 General Assembly Session was a busy one in Richmond, and several of my bills received their initial committee hearings. Republicans are now in the minority in both the Virginia House and Senate, and that has made it increasingly difficult for members of our party to shepherd legislation through a politically polarized legislature. While my legislation to increase the footprint of Virginia's Tobacco Commission to include the New River Valley ultimately failed to advance in subcommittee, I am undeterred in my resolve to fight for our region.

I was happy to receive many visitors to the Capitol from the 42nd District this past week! Representatives from our local American Legion Post, New River Valley Community College, and even Virginia Tech's head football coach came to Richmond to participate in our legislative process. I always enjoy seeing familiar faces from the 42nd District while I'm in Richmond.

There are a couple of topics I would like to cover this week, and while they are unrelated to each other, I find them interesting, nonetheless. The first is the 238th anniversary of Virginia's Statute of Religious Freedom, which was written by Thomas Jefferson this week in 1786. This is one of the foundational documents not only for Virginia, but also for the United States, and it was a partial inspiration for the First Amendment of the United States Constitution. Simply put, the statute holds that no one can be compelled by law to practice a particular faith, or any faith for that matter. It also recognizes that some future General Assembly may change or repeal the statute, but doing so would be a violation of our natural rights. As we recognize National Religious Freedom Day, we reaffirm our commitment to the principle that all Virginians are free to pursue faith as we see fit.

On a separate note, I've been receiving many emails from constituents regarding Virginia Democrats' attempts to roll back 2nd Amendment protections. Like you, I'm very concerned that much of this legislation does nothing to solve the underlying reasons for gun violence and instead targets law-abiding owners of firearms. According to Virginia state police statistics, rifles – of any sort – make up less than 5% of all homicides in Virginia. And yet, the General Assembly continues to debate legislation that would effectively ban some of the most popular models of sporting rifles. We should instead be focusing on real solutions, such as those provided in Operation Ceasefire that resolve issues of gun violence on a community-by-community basis.

Coming up next week will be even more bill presentations, and with that, longer committee meetings. If you'd like to share your thoughts with me on any particular legislation, I'd encourage you to send me an email at DelJBallard@house.virginia.gov!

As the Delegate representing the 42nd House District in the Virginia General Assembly, your concerns are my greatest priority. If ever I may be of assistance to you and your family, please do not hesitate to reach out to me at DelJBallard@HouseVirginia.Gov. You can also follow me on Twitter @JasonBallardVA or like my Facebook page, Jason Ballard for Delegate, to keep up to date with what I am doing in Richmond and in our community on your behalf.

 - Richmond- $2.95/g, up 5.5 cents per gallon from last week's $2.89/g.
 - West Virginia- $2.92/g, up 5.2 cents per gallon from last week's $2.87/g.

bouncing off lows, only to re-test them again and again. While prices jumped in some places, it's being offset by drops elsewhere, and that has kept alive the possibility of briefly seeing the national average fall to the lowest level since 2021," said Patrick De Haan, head of petroleum analysis at GasBuddy. "We remain just a nickel or so away from a $2.99 national average, and while the window of opportunity continues to slowly close, with refiners now starting the purge of winter gasoline on the West Coast, we still have a low-level chance of getting there. But make no mistake- if we do see a national average of $2.99 per gallon, it won't last long as we start to turn the corner and get closer to the start of the transition to summer gasoline."

AARP Virginia fraud alert: Utility bill scams

Winter is upon us and with temperatures plummeting in many areas, keeping the heat on is critical — a fact that fraud criminals try to take advantage of. Each winter, utility scams spike as scammers claiming to be from the utility company say you haven't been paying your bill and they threaten to cut off service if you don't make an immediate payment. The goal of these crooks is to create a sense of panic — when we react first with emotion, it's hard to access logical thinking, and the criminals are adept with using this tactic. Their hope is that we stay in that state of panic long enough to complete a payment.

If you get a surprise call from the "utility company" threatening to shut off your service, hang up the phone. Contact your provider using the customer service number on a recent bill (or log into their website or app if that's an option). Chances are high you will find out your payments are up to date.

Be a fraud fighter! If you can spot a scam, you can stop a scam.

Report scams to local law enforcement. For help from AARP, call 1-877-908-3360 or visit the AARP Fraud Watch Network at www.aarp.org/fraudwatchnetwork.

community. "We've been texting the church and putting it on Facebook and people responded. We're stunned; I'm still getting text messages now saying, 'what do you need?'," Sowers said. "So, the church really stepped up and folks outside the church have stepped up."

Hope Valley Church is continuing to look for ways to share their warming center efforts with the community and spread the word to those in need. They have shared their information on social media but have also reached out to other area shelters in case they might reach capacity and need another place to send people. Volunteers have also stepped forward to offer transportation for people to the Hope Valley Church as well.

RADFORD SPORTS

Mark Lineburg

Lineburg back on the football sidelines

Marty Gordon

NRVsports@ourvalley.org

This fall, a familiar name will be back on the sidelines at Brookville High School.

Former coach Mark Lineburg has agreed to return to the school's football program. The Radford native led Brookville from 1992 to 1997, compiling a 49-19 record including a 1993 Division runner-up. He was also named the Region III Coach of the Year in 1997.

Following his departure from Brookville, Lineburg served as the principal at Radford High School. He then served as a school superintendent in Bristol, Amherst, Winchester and Hailfax.

He admitted the fever is still there - matter of fact it never went away - and that he is crazy about high school football.

"I've always wanted to go back to coach and teach," he said. "It is incredibly exciting to coach high school football. There are so many lessons on the field each Friday night and throughout a season. And, most importantly Brookville is a special place. Lots of tradition."

Lineburg is the son of Radford football legend, Norm Lineburg, who led the Bobcats for over 37 years while compiling a 315-160-

9 record.

"It's been a long time since a Lineburg coached high school football," Mark said. "Dad's legacy speaks for itself. He was never known for the offense he ran or the defense he ran. But what you did know was that he inspired his teams and they played with incredible passion."

Brookville High School is a high school in Campbell County, Va. and has a current enrollment of 925 and plays athletics in the AA Region III Seminole District. Since 1988, the school has had three state runner-ups and the 1999 championship along with two in back-to-back 2011 and 2012.

"Brookville is one of those schools that is very special," Lineburg said. "It has tradition and pride. In addition, there are several members of the staff that played for me in the 90s. I love Brookville. I can't wait to go back."

He met with his new team on Friday afternoon. Lineburg replaces Jon Meeks, who stepped down following the 2023 season. He will teach English at the school. Of course, when he became a school administrator, he added the title of "Dr." to his name. So, Brookville will have a doctor on its sidelines this coming fall.
