Meet the Candidates Night held in Ronceverte

By Adam Pack

The Ronceverte Women's Club hosted a Meet the Candidates event on Tuesday, Oct. 11, at 7 p.m. at the Ronceverte Fire Hall. The event allowed members of the public to ask questions of interest to area candidates.

Those present included County Commission candidates Blaine Phillips (R) and DeEtta King Hunter (D); State Senate District 10 candidates Stephen Baldwin (D - Incumbent), Vince Deeds (R), and Harry Forbes (I) with candidate Aaron Ransom (I) absent; Circuit Clerk candidates Louvonne L. Arbuckle (D - Incumbent) and Jamie Baker (R); County Clerk incumbent Robin-Yates Loudermilk (R) with her opponent, Kayla McCoy (D), absent; incumbent Mike Honaker (R) and Paul S. Detch (D) for State House District 46; and incumbent Todd Longanacre (R) and Heather Hill (D) for State House District 47, with Hill sending a representative to answer questions in her stead.

The first question was posed to those running for county commission and state legislative office: "With Amendment 2 as it is now, what provisions would be in place to protect emergency services and schools if it were to pass?"

Both the county commission candidates shared concerns regarding Amendment 2, with Phillips noting, "It's about a $7 million dollar impact on the budget of the county" and the county's services, and he would "hate to see them suffer." Hunter shared this sentiment, stating "Amendment 2 is what funds a great part of your county, as well as your board of education."

State Senate candidates Baldwin and Deeds disagreed with each other, with Senator Baldwin informing the crowd that "there are no such provisions [to fund services affected by the passage of Amendment 2]" in the Amendment if it were to pass. He stated that this move is effectively the legislature "taking your lunch money." Deeds made a point to note that with a $1.3 billion surplus in the state, "We have a great problem here, arguing about which tax to cut." Deeds did not outright endorse Amendment 2 but spoke of the good of "putting taxpayer dollars back in taxpayer pockets," saying that those will return to the state in sales tax.

House candidates made similar comments, with Detch saying that three of the four Amendments on the ballot, including Amendment 2, amounted to "nothing but a power grab" by the state legislature. Hill's representative did not speak on the issue. Delegate Honaker took a more moderate stance, noting that he has not done anything to support or oppose the bill, and would rather have it that "the governor and the senate had created a plan that would include income tax reduction but also address the car tax issue." Delegate Longanacre was decidedly more in favor of the Amendment, saying "it's not the state's money, it's the people's money," referencing the possible elimination of the vehicle tax.

County Commission clears way for completion of work to Meadow River Trail

By Adam Pack

The Greenbrier County Commission met for their regularly scheduled meeting on Oct. 11 at 10 a.m. The commission heard issues concerning the Meadow River Trail. Matthew Ford, Lead Engineer for the Meadow River Trail project, was on hand to discuss the trail with the commission, first noting that the trail is indeed still closed.

"I'm here today to file a public notice regarding the trail, just to let people know that it's still not complete and it's still closed since the flood damage of 2016." Ford noted that there have been "ATV issues that have been going on for a while." He said that the Meadow River Rail Trail is aware of these trespasses, as well as the fact that people have been using the trail as access to the water and to go whitewater rafting. The trail will soon be outfitted with cameras "so that we can start dealing with that stuff," Ford said. A public notice will be published in area newspapers advising citizens to stay off of the trail until it is officially opened.

He also explained details regarding the final steps for completion work on the Trail. Ford presented the Commission with a Substantial Completion Document (SCD), which stipulates "punch list" items that to be corrected, and a timeframe for completing the work with Court Street Construction. Those items, Ford explained, include the placement of posts in the middle of the trail at the bridges which will "discourage ATV or motor travel" as well as some minor repairs due to recent rains. The aforementioned timeframe refers to the 30 days that Court Street Construction will have to complete these items after signing. The Commission approved the public notice of closure as well as the SCD, and praised the work done so far on the trail, with Commissioner Tincher saying, "You guys have just done so well and it looks so good, so we appreciate all that you [Ford] and Court Street have done." Commissioner McClung added that "hearing the word 'punch list' on this project is very refreshing."

In other news, the Commission appointed Ron McGruder to the Planning Commission. Currently a Parks and Recreation employee, McGruder will be released from that position in order to take up his new post.

The Commission also signed two documents pertaining to grants. The first is a completed grant for security alarms for the new courthouse addition. It was written to secure funds to "increase the duress alarms and proxies that'll be added to the new building and renovations" according to County Commission Assistant Kelly Banton, who was the author of the grant. The request in the grant was for the sum of $30,994, which is the exact amount approved for the county. The second grant related item is an application for a grant through the West Virginia Court Facility Improvement Association. That grant, also written by Banton, is requesting $100,000 to complete the second phase of installation of sprinklers at the new facilities. This grant source awarded the county the same amount mentioned above for phase one of sprinkler installation. Lastly, the county commission approved and signed the Family Court Renewal lease.

The County Commission is scheduled to meet again for their regularly scheduled meeting on Oct. 25, at 10 a.m. in the County Commission meeting chambers. The public is invited to attend.

Sheriff's Department welcomes two new members

The Greenbrier County Sheriff's Department is pleased to welcome two new members to our department.

Shane Hunter Peacock and Kaleb Lee Helmick took their oath of office on Wednesday, Oct. 12. Their oaths were administered by Chief Circuit Judge Jennifer P. Dent.

Prior to his enlistment with the Greenbrier County Sheriff's Department, Shane served the citizens of Pocahontas County as a deputy sheriff. After completion of an abbreviated field officer training program, he will be ready to assume his duties in Greenbrier County. Shane is anxious to begin serving the citizenry of Greenbrier County as a deputy sheriff.

Kaleb is a lifelong resident of Greenbrier County and is also eager to begin his new career. Although he will not be working independently until his graduation from the State Police Academy and completion of his field officer training program, we expect that he will be a tremendous asset to our department and the county.

Sheriff Sloan commented, "We are pleased that these two young men have chosen careers in public service, and they will be doing so with our agency. We appreciate the commitment they are making to the Greenbrier County Sheriff's Department, the citizens of Greenbrier County and the law enforcement profession."

Kaleb Lee Helmick takes his oath of office and will now attend the State Police Academy.

Shane Hunter Peacock takes his oath of office with Judge Dent.

New Board members join MRVA

The Meadow River Valley Association welcomes two new board members to the team.

Ashley Berry has been a nurse at the Rainelle Medical Center (RMC) for seven years. Since the fall of 2018, she transitioned from direct patient care to a role in quality. Ashley is passionate about growth and improvement in all aspects of her life. From her drive to improve the quality of care at the Rainelle Medical Center and her efforts to improve community health through RMC's Wellness Works Group to her own family of six. She is looking forward to taking a more active role in the betterment of the Meadow River Valley.

More resources working for the Meadow River Valley

In partnership with West Virginia University, God's Way Home of Rainelle was awarded a two-year grant for economic development and work readiness. The Valley Works Resource Center will open its doors in early November at 456 Main Street in Rainelle.

According to Valley Works Assistant Director Dara Vance, "We want the greater Greenbrier area to let us help them get to work. Our mission is to remove barriers to employment, provide training and skills, and connect quality candidates and jobs - and the best part is all of this is free!"

The center will offer a wide array of work readiness services, including resume writing, connections with employers and jobs, assistance with obtaining documents for employment, and assistance with work-ready clothing. Additionally, the center can assist with food, housing, household items, telehealth appointments, recovery services - and so much more!

Executive Director Andrew Bailes believes the resource center will be much more than a jobs center. "People can drop in; maybe they need a box of food or help getting their ID. Whatever we can do to help stabilize people's lives, get them ready for work, and on a path to greater success - we will try and do it."

Political signs are prohibited on state rights-of-way

With the November general election quickly approaching, the West Virginia Department of Transportation (WVDOT) would like to remind the public that West Virginia law prohibits campaign signs on all state rights-of-way.

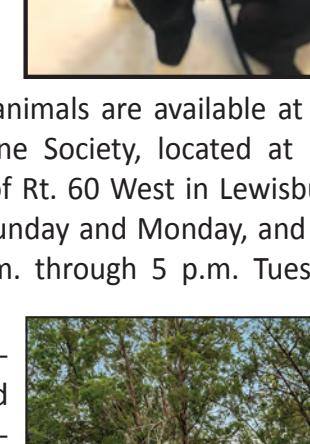

WVDOT workers around the state have been instructed to remove any campaign signs found on state rights-of-way pursuant to state law. Confiscated signs will be temporarily stored at county highway offices for retrieval by candidates or their representatives.

Violation of the law prohibiting campaign signs on state rights-of-way is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $25 to $100 per day. Violators are also subject to reimbursing the WVDOT for the cost of removing the signs.

Nature's Way

By Karen Cohen

Master Gardener/Photojournalist/Artist

NO Fly Zone

Factoid: White butterflies are not actually butterflies. They're cabbage moths and take one guess what they eat. Bingo! Cabbages and everything from the brassicaceae family. Also called cruciferae, it encompasses broccoli, cabbage, mustard greens, cauliflower, radishes, turnips, and brussel sprouts.

Now I have the terrible news to share. My brassicaceae have been demolished. Kaput.

Our three feet tall brussel sprout plants now resemble palm trees with no leaves. A long stalk with leaves that are just skeletons now and the little round sprouts which we were so excited to see forming are gone, chewed down to not even nubs.

The culprit: cabbage moths. My introduction to these little white flitters came decades ago when I managed an organic farm/store in the garden state of New Jersey. One day I remarked out loud to the owner/farmer, "Look! The first butterflies of spring are here in the garden, and they're all white." He replied, "Young lady, those are not butterflies! They are moths and they will devour everything. So kill them if you can." Oh boy, direct orders from an otherwise peaceful, older hippie professor turned farmer in his retirement. I stepped back a bit; you learn something new every day! He was my mentor and teacher after all. Back then, there were no cell phones and so I did not resort to Googling anything he said to check for truths.

Side Note: You see, long ago, kiddos, no one consulted a phone or the invisible internet gods for expert advice. There was no Pinterest or social media and so you had a few ways to find out facts. Books, like in the library- kind of books, or teachers, they knew a lot, or how 'bout those folks who raised you and helped you and your brain grow into a thinking, upright walking human? Let's not forget gramp's and grandma's old timey advice that they acquired usually by trial and error method or just plain common sense.

So way back when, I learned that when you see white moths that it is not a happy event in farmland, and definitely not in my garden. This year, we had a slew of the invaders. Now the denuded brussel sprouts stand next to the desiccated kale stalks that once grew so lush in the cool spring temperatures and provided us with endless salads. Mustard greens, which I knew the deer didn't favor, have also been chewed to bits.

How can you tell the difference between deer damage vs. insect damage? Deer take bites; they don't have top front teeth and so they rip leaves and shred them. Rabbits, on the other hand, do have lower and upper incisors. They nibble the edges of plants neatly. To be honest, moths are not the true criminals, it is their offspring: caterpillars. The females lay eggs under plants' leaves and they hatch and become green caterpillars. You can't use insecticides to get rid of them because the poison will affect all butterflies, too.

We resort, though this year way too late, to covering certain veggies of the brassicaceae family with floating row cover, also called Remay. You can purchase this by the foot or yard online at a garden website and it is inexpensive. Worth it, too. The row cover allows rain and moisture to seep in, sunshine too, and prevents invaders from flying in and out. It has to remain on 24/7 during the 30 days the moths are flying around. I've seen them in the spring and this fall, we had them too. Turns out they overwinter in leaves and jump back into action when the weather warms up. Natural enemies are ducks and chickens; they love to eat worms and caterpillars. Herbs such as sage, mint, marigolds, and rosemary also repel them. Plant a few cloves of garlic nearby and that may help drive them away.

By the way, moths lay about 300 to 400 eggs. Why not hand-pick them off when you have a few hours to spare every day? Visualize little brussel sprouts, like miniature cabbages, roasted in olive oil with a dash of salt, and a squeeze of lemon on them. Now get out there and get to work!

Back Down Country Roads

By Nancy Richmond

The Miracle at Hominy Falls

It has been more than 50 years since the tragic coal mining disaster that occurred at Saxewell Mine #8, near Hominy Falls, West Virginia. The site is located in the very heart of the Appalachian coal fields. The mine, owned by The Gauley Coal and Coke Company, opened and began production on Nov. 7, 1966. The company employed a total of 68 UMWA (union) miners, who were divided into three shifts. It was a drift type mine; meaning the coal seam outcropped on the surface and mining could begin directly into the coal bed; as opposed to shaft mining. The Sewell coal seam that was being mined at the Hominy Falls mine averaged only 32 inches high - it was low coal.

On May 6, 1968, a continuous miner machine working deep within the earth cut into an area where there was an unmapped abandoned coal mine. The old works were filled with millions of gallons of acidic water, which poured into the tunnels of the newer mine. Most of the men managed to escape, but 25 were trapped inside by the flood. More than 15 million gallons of water lay between those men and the surface.

As the days passed, the entire country became enthralled with the desperate situation of the men who were still entombed in the depths of the earth by millions of gallons of acidic water. Over the next ten days news crews, rescue teams, family members and onlookers from thousands of miles gathered at the entrance of the mine, waiting for information on the trapped men.

Huge pumps were set up outside the mine and began pumping out the ocean of water that lay between the surface and the miners. Massive efforts from volunteers around the state resulted in finding 15 survivors after six days. The other ten men, who had been working deeper in the mine, were presumed dead. The rescuers, however, refused to give up, even though many locals residents and family members told reporters that only a miracle could save the missing miners. Four days later, however, volunteers found a fresh footprint in the mud of the receding water. It eventually led them to the missing men. Tragically, four (William Burdette, Claude Dodd Jr, Eli Walkup, and Renick McClung) were deceased. The remaining six men had managed to survive and were brought to the surface among the cheers of the onlookers.

The cause of the Hominy Falls mining disaster was determined by the Gauley Coal and Coke Company in a report submitted to the Beckley Office, New River and Winding Gulf Division, West Virginia Department of Mines on May 28, 1968. Their results concluded that:

"The workmen were drowned when the place they were working cut into or broke through to a water filled area of an adjacent abandoned mine...Contributing factors were: Failure of the mine management to provide an accurate survey of the areas they were to mine. Failure to show adjacent mine workings on the working map at the mine".

Immediately after the deaths of the four miners at Hominy Falls, new laws were passed which established the 'Mine Map Archives.' Both the Federal Government and the West Virginia Legislature passed laws regulating the preservation of mining maps. In West Virginia, this law (22A-2-1) requires all mine operators to submit to the West Virginia Office of Miner's Health, Safety and Training a final, certified map of their operation. The law requires the maintenance of maps in a fireproof vault and an indexing and microfilming system.

While the creation of the new map laws cannot make up for the loss of the four men who died in the Hominy Falls mine disaster, it at least assures no other miners will die because of inaccurate mapping practices. In 2019, a West Virginia Highway Historical Marker 'Miracle at Hominy Falls' was erected near the site of the mine disaster to commemorate the tragedy.

Warner announces release of interactive sample ballot tool for November General Election at GoVoteWV.com

With the Nov. 8 General Election less than a month away, West Virginia Secretary of State Mac Warner announced today that voters can now easily access an interactive sample ballot tool online by visiting GoVoteWV.com.

The interactive sample ballot tool allows voters to review their specific ballot, practice making their selections, and print their sample ballot for later review. To access a sample ballot in the interactive tool, voters simply type in their name as it appears on their voter registration card, date of birth, and county of registration.

"The interactive sample ballot tool is a new and unique way for voters to get educated on the candidates and public questions that they will be voting on in the November 8th General Election. We want voters to have plenty of time to research the candidates and constitutional amendments

Letter to the Editor

How elections in Greenbrier County are processed and secured

By Greenbrier County Clerk Robin Loudermilk

Recently I was asked to explain our Election process in Greenbrier County by a lifelong resident/voter of Greenbrier County and write this letter to educate the voters.

We start the Election year with people filling out applications for Absentee Ballots. These are individual who are disabled, medical conditions that have them confined, college students, traveling out of state etc. Once the application comes back to the County Clerk's office, we check to make sure the person is a registered voter, then we verify the address, birthday and signature of the voter with the information on the voter registration system.

If all information matches, a ballot is then prepared to be sent to that person at the address listed on the application. Ballots can be mailed or hand carried back in the proper sealed envelope provided by the County Clerk. If a ballot is hand carried, the person delivering it will have to sign the envelope stating they hand delivered the ballot. The ballot envelope is then checked by verifying the voter's signature on the outside of the envelope with the signature in the voter registration system. If all matches then the voter is marked as voting Absentee in the system for Election Day.

An individual can only hand deliver two sealed ballots back to the County Clerk's office. We do not allow ballot harvesting. Once verified the Absentee goes into a locked ballot box until Election Day.

Precincts have five election workers from the two political parties. We do not ever allow all five workers to be of the same political affiliation. On Election Day the poll workers check the public count on the voting machines throughout the day to make sure they match the poll stubs that are being stringed.

Voters are checked in making sure they have some form of Identification (this is the law). Their name and address are confirmed in the poll book if all is correct then the voter signs the poll book and the poll worker verifies the voter's signature with the signature printed in the poll book. Any individual who votes Absentee or Early Voting will be marked in the poll book out from their name as doing so. This is done so they cannot vote a second time.

If signature and all information match the voter is given a poll stub to go to the voting machine to cast their ballot.

At the end of Election Day, the poll workers collect the votes on the Master PEB (Programmed Electronic Ballot), then they Re-Collect the votes on a Supervisor PEB. This is done in case one of the two PEB's would not read properly when returned to the County Clerk's office. Once poll workers arrive at the Courthouse on Election night the County Clerks staff reads the Master PEB on a Supervisor terminal and compares that number with the statement of ballots used paperwork filled out by the poll workers from that precinct with the count from the voting machines and poll slips. If the count matches, then the report and PEB from that precinct are taken upstairs to another reader to be checked a second

Dear Recycle Lady,

— At Look Back —

Dear Recycle Lady,

Did you really mean greasy pizzas boxes go in the compost?

Doubtful

Dear Doubtful,

Greasy pizza boxes with both grease and food items stuck on them can be composted. The one draw back is that you will need to tear or cut the pizza box into small pieces, or shred it, if you have a strong paper shredder. Small pieces will break down faster and will help aerate your compost. It also aids the bacteria and fungi inside your compost to break down material as they need both oxygen and water to work efficiently. Remove any plastic, foil, or waxed paper from the box before adding the greasy cardboard to your pile or bin. Meat, bones, pet manure, dairy products, onions, and garlic shouldn't be composted either. Banana peels and orange rinds are questionable, as they may contain pesticides. Be sure to turn compost often as it will help speed up the process. Your efforts will be rewarded with a nutrient-rich soil that is a natural fertilizer for your garden. Your plants will love it.

Dear Recycle Lady,

Has the Endangered Species Act saved any species or refuge areas?

Fan of the Endangered Species Act

Dear Fan of the Endangered Species Act,

The Endangered Species Act (ESA), signed in 1973, has provided for the conservation of vulnerable species, plus their habitats have received protection under the Act as well. According to treehugger.com, the Endangered Species Act has not only prevented 99% of its listed protected plant and animal species from going extinct, but it has helped revitalize some of the U.S.'s most remarkable forest, plains, deserts, and oceans. Forty years after Sea Otters were listed in the Endangered Species Act, the population almost tripled. In 1992, two endangered songbirds, the golden cheeked warbler and the black-capped vireo, were protected by the Act. Both songbird populations have nearly tripled their numbers in a little more than twenty years. The "toy" deer in the National Key Deer Refuge in the Florida Keys were listed in 1973 when only a dozen or so deer were left. By 2011, their population had grown to 800. The National Deer Refuge, which is composed of several diverse ecosystems from wetlands to mangrove forests, has also benefited from the protection provided by the Endangered Species Act. In fact, protection provided by the Endangered Species Act to specific species has saved 10 US Ecosystems as well. Let's hope the Monarch butterflies benefit as well with the protection provided for them by the Act.

Dear Recycle Lady,

I have some confidential materials that are slicks. Can I put them in the same envelope for shredding as I do for white paper, or must they be separated?

Shredder

Dear Shredder,

The same rules apply for the confidential materials as they do for office paper. No fluorescent colors, no black paper, and no slicks, or magazines. Since office paper and slicks can't be mixed, your materials would have to be recycled with magazines. Hopefully, you have a shredder to use before mixing your slick confidential materials in with magazines.

Interesting Information: The ocean provides more than just seafood. Many common foods, such as peanut butter and soy milk contain ingredients from the sea. For example, peanut butter is made more spreadable with the help of carrageenan, an algae extract! (fto.com)

By William "Skip" Deegans

Shown in this 1920 photograph is the Deer Creek Extract Plant near Cass in Pocahontas County. The plant was owned by West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company that operated one of the nation's largest lumber mills in Cass and had extensive logging operations in the upper watershed of the Greenbrier River. Lumber from the mill was sold and shipped out by rail. Pulp wood was harvested and shipped to the company's paper plant in Covington, Virginia. A by-product of the Cass operation was bark from the trees the company cut.

Tree bark, called tan-bark, is used in the tanning industry. Soaked in a solvent - usually water - the bark yields tannins. Animal skins are soaked in tannins that are united with proteins in the skins to produce a strong, flexible material we call leather. The West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company opened the Deer Creek tanning extract plant in 1914. As described by Bill McNeil in Logging The Greenbrier Valley, the plant consisted of three large bark storage sheds, power house, chipping house, soaking tanks, and an autoclave building. The plant processed spruce, hemlock and some chestnut bark. Different barks have different levels of tannin in them which can affect the color and suppleness of the leather. Hemlock has 8-14% tannin whereas Chestnut bark has 30-40%. In his book, The Durbin Route, Bill McNeil wrote, "During World War I, a considerable quantity of osage orange dye wood extract was produced in both liquid and powdered form to be used in the dyeing of khaki cloth, in place of fustic dye wood extract." The Deer Creek plant likely supplied nearby tanneries in Frank and Marlinton. The plant closed in 1928, but the Greenbrier Valley had a viable tanning industry for many years afterwards.

the issue, with candidate Detch saying, "We have specialists, teachers, who have licenses, we have people with whole doctor's degrees in education" and that they should be trusted to make educational policy. Delegate Honaker directly opposed this notion, saying that those that make policy and rules "are never held accountable by the citizens." In contrast, with the passage of Amendment 4, if citizens are unhappy with the educational system, "it will be the fault of the legislature and you can vote us out," Honaker said.

Delegate Longanacre responded by citing the problems with public education, asking "are we just gonna keep competing with Mississippi every year for last place?" Longanacre believes Amendment 4 will address some of the issues of public education, calling it a game changer. Hill's representative said that this is a bad move, stating that this Amendment as well others on the ballot are "sucking power into the legislature." Though the question was posed to legislative candidates, County Commission candidate Hunter weighed in with similar concerns.

The deadline for voter registration in Greenbrier County is Oct. 18, and early voting will be available from Oct. 26 through Nov. 5, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Greenbrier County Courthouse in Lewisburg, and 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Rupert Community Building. Election Day is Tuesday, Nov. 8 with polls opening at 6:30 a.m. and closing at 7:30 p.m.

Sprouting Farms' Community Day Halloween Bash

Sprouting Farms is a nonprofit organization that strives to support our local food system through community, equity, and innovation.

The Sprouting Farms' crew invites you to attend our next Community Day event at the Graham House, down the road from the farm, where we will have a Halloween Bash on Oct. 29 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Graham House is our local haunted home located at WV-12, Pence Springs, WV.

Our mobile farmers market will be set up inside the house with produce and products from our production crew, our incubator farmers (who are renting land on the farm for their own farm businesses), and other local growers and producers.

Also, craft vendors will be set up outside the house selling their handmade items.

Inside, we will have hot chocolate, hot apple cider, a candy apple making bar, beef stew, and potato soup available throughout the day. The beef stew and potato soup will be brought to you by our incubator farmer Tammy, with Crazy Critter Farm. All the food proceeds will go towards Tammy's family as they prepare Tammy's granddaughter for a liver transplant surgery.

There will also be pumpkin carving, and a kids' costume contest at 3 p.m., where the grand prize will be $100 donated by Johnny from Archer Acres Farm (one of our incubator farmers).

Greenbrier Valley Theatre presents Musical

Murder for Two Channels A Classic Mystery Feel with a Musical Flair

Joe Kinosian and Kellen Blair may not be as well-known as the legendary Agatha Christie in the mystery world, but their musical Murder for Two provides the same twists and turns, enigmatic clues, and thrilling conclusion. An element that Kinosian and Blair provide that Christie did not? Setting the entire mystery to music.

Officer Marcus Moscovicz dreams of being a detective and knows that he can solve the crime, but with so many suspects, it may be more difficult than he anticipated. Greenbrier Valley Theatre will welcome two new faces to the stage as Trace Pool portrays Moscovicz opposite Ben Miller playing numerous eccentric suspects. The final nail in the coffin - both Pool and Miller play the piano themselves throughout the entire show.

Newcomer Dana Iannuzzi will provide direction for the musical mystery. The production will feature scenic design completed by Jessica Cancino, costume design by Jenna Fawn Brown, and lighting design by E. Tonry Lathroum. Elizabeth Salisch serves as the Production Stage Manager and Richard Crowell as Production Manager.

"I think that mysteries have always been a really popular genre for entertainment. Things from the zany antics of Tim Curry in 'Clue' to the more modern day versions like 'Knives Out.' Add a pair of dueling pianists and what is not to love during the Halloween season?" said Iannuzzi.

Now entering its 55th season, Greenbrier Valley Theatre, is a mainstay and theatre destination located in Lewisburg. ## Loudermilk Bridge dedication held in Clintonville

Senate Minority Leader Stephen Baldwin joined with family, friends and descendants of United States Army Private Garland Lee Loudermilk last weekend to celebrate the rechristening of a Clintonville bridge in the name of the fallen Greenbrier County hero.

"We owe so much to our military and to their families," said Sen. Baldwin, who began the celebration by leading those in attendance in prayer. "It's wonderful how the community came together here this morning to support and encourage the Loudermilk family on such a special occasion. It is so important that we all remember those who have sacrificed for the greatest of loves."

Previously known as the "Williamsburg Road Bridge," Baldwin has been committed to re-dedicating the bridge in Loudermilk's name since the 2018 Legislative Session. On Mar. 4 of this year, Senate Concurrent Resolution 28 was finally adopted, officially renaming the area of County Route 9, which crosses I-64, as the "U.S. Army PVT Garland Lee Loudermilk Memorial Bridge." Senator Jack David Woodrum was the lead sponsor of the resolution.

"Y'all wouldn't believe this," Baldwin told those gathered at the Clintonville Community Building. "I think Jack (Sen. Woodrum) will attest to it - getting bridges through is sometimes one of the hardest things to do in Charleston. But Jack got it through this year."

Woodrum, who along with 11 co-sponsors reintroduced the resolution on Feb. 1, said, "As Senator Baldwin was saying, it's not always the easiest thing to do to get a bridge resolution through. You've been, many years, waiting for this day to come."

As stated in the resolution: "Whereas, Garland Lee Loudermilk was born on July 16, 1923, in Clintonville, W.Va., to Johnny and Bertha Loudermilk. Garland Lee Loudermilk enlisted on Jan. 21, 1944, and was a member of the United States Army's 89th Cavalry Recon Squadron, 9th Armored Division at the Rhine River in Germany during World War II. PVT Garland Lee Loudermilk was married to Letha M. Loudermilk."

"Sadly, PVT Garland Lee Loudermilk was killed in action on Mar. 8, 1945, during the Battle of the Bulge, fighting to protect the country he loved."

Pastor Dave Beavers of the Rhema Christian Center, who was asked by the Loudermilk family to speak during the celebration, said, "When I read his story, I felt like I knew this man even though he died in 1945."

"He's one of us, and that's why we can relate," Pastor Beavers continued. "We all have sons and daughters and brothers and fathers - members of our family. And probably some type of war has affected all of our families at some time or another. And sometimes we get caught up in the 'war part' and we forget the 'human part' of the soldiers who gave their lives to give us this opportunity to be gathered here today."

After the ceremony, the community joined with the Loudermilk family for an afternoon of celebration and fellowship.

"This has been a long time coming," Sen. Baldwin concluded. "It's a wonderful tribute to a young man who fought with valor, who was awarded - significantly - for his bravery in battle, and paid the ultimate price. We're gathered together today to remember and to give thanks. Now every time somebody passes this bridge on the interstate, whether they're from West Virginia or traveling from another part of the country, or another part of the world, they'll see his name."

Kicking the week off will be Make a Leather Mask with Luke Davis on Saturday, Oct. 22, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Students will use their imagination and basic leather crafting skills to make a one-of-a-kind carnival mask.

Students will choose from numerous templates including a cat, bear, fox, elephant, and owl, and learn the basics of leather working or expand on techniques learned from prior classes. No prior experience is necessary, and all materials are provided. Cost is $45 for members and $55 for nonmembers. Students must be at least 10 years of age.

All materials are provided. Cost is only $10, and students must be at least 8 years old.

Explore the bewebbed halls of haunted home décor in Spell Books and Potion Bottles, a fun for all ages class led by Carnegie Hall's Teri Hartford on Tuesday, Oct. 25, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Students will use simple decorating techniques to create themed potion bottles and spell books. Students are encouraged to bring any special decorations they would like to incorporate, such as plastic spiders, skeletons, and rats, as well as an old book and a fun shaped glass bottle.

There will be a limited selection of labels, bottles and books provided. The cost is only $10, and students must be at least 8 years old. Costumes are encouraged.

Afterwards join the staff of the Greenbrier Historical Society and enjoy a guided candlelit tour of two historic cemeteries in Lewisburg and learn about the people who lived and died with chilling stories to tell.

On Wednesday, Oct. 26, at 7 p.m., the Greenbrier Historical Society presents The Historical Ghost: An Exploration of Documents from the Trial of the Greenbrier Ghost in the Hamilton Auditorium at Carnegie Hall. Hear the historical account of "The Greenbrier Ghost" as we discuss the historical documents from the 1897 trial of Zona Heaster Shue. Admission is only $5.

The Carnegie Hall staff hosts a free BYOP Pumpkin Parade and Carving Party on Thursday, Oct. 27, from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

Attendees are asked to bring a finished jack-o-lantern or carving tools and a pumpkin to decorate and participate in a fun candlelit pumpkin parade on the Ivy Terrace. Stencil patterns and votive candles provided. Enjoy themed treats and spooky decorations before strolling along the Ivy Terrace to view the gory gallery of gourds. Prizes will be awarded, and Halloween costumes are encouraged.

For a new twist, join Jan Darrah for Medicinal and Culinary Bitters on Friday, Oct. 28, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Used for centuries for their digestive and medicinal properties, bitters are fast becoming an essential ingredient in the mixology and culinary tool kits. Students will learn to make easy, customizable bitters using natural herbs, spices, and botanicals. Each student will have their own custom blend to take home at the end of class, as well as the knowledge to create a variety of flavors. All materials provided. Cost is $40 for members and $45 for nonmembers. Students must be at least 8 years of age or older.

Following the Bitters class, join the West Virginia Storytelling Guild for These Haunted Hills:

Ghost stories and Folklore from Appalachia on Friday, Oct. 28, at 7 p.m. in the Hamilton Auditorium. Cost is $15.
