

Historic Ronceverte home enters next era with rebranding as Hollerwood House

The former Edgarton Inn steps into new era with a focus on event space

Ronceverte residents have long admired the grey home tucked behind the pine trees on the corner of Main and Walnut streets. The house, the oldest in Ronceverte built by Thomas Edgar who founded Ronceverte, was a thriving bed and breakfast before the Covid-19 pandemic and is now stepping into its next iteration as an event space.

Guests to the Hollerwood House will be treated to the tranquility of the holler with the vibe and style of the West Coast. Chris and Jorge Rodriguez-Stanley are thrilled to open the doors to host events from book clubs to fitness classes to wedding rehearsal dinners to baby showers.

"I grew up coming to his house and it has been updated a couple times since," said Chris. "I am so excited to be part of the next update to the house and property. We want this to be a place for the community. A place where you can come wearing sweatpants for a fitness class, your pajamas for a movie night, or dressed to the nines for your best friend's wedding."

While the rooms are available to rent, including as part of events, the couple says that the bed and breakfast aspect of the house will be relaunching later this year. Food will be provided to the Hollerwood House by the RNCVRT Café, which is coming soon.

The two business owners have been working behind the scenes to get both businesses off the ground while bringing See "Hollerwood House"____ Page 2

Owners Chris and Jorge Rodriguez-Stanley say that the bed and breakfast aspect of the Hollerwood House will launch later this year, and that they will also be opening the RNCVRT Café in the future.

Three southern West Virginians receive Golden Ticket on American Idol

By RealWV Staff

It's official - Kamron Lawson (Raleigh), Caden Glover (Monroe), and Andre Williams (Greenbrier) are all going to Hollywood for the next round of American Idol!

The three Appalachians competed on American Idol Season 21. Kamron's episode aired a few weeks ago and saw him receive a golden ticket from the judges. This secured his spot in the next round of

County Commission signs Child Abuse Prevention Month Proclamation, moves Quinwood broadband project forward

Mary Carr of the Children's Home Society (standing), representing the Children's Memorial Flag Day Committee, requested the use of courthouse space for Children's Memorial Flag Day and that April be declared Child Abuse Prevention Month in Greenbrier County.

Tuesday morning's regular meeting of the Greenbrier County commission began with an address to the commission by Mary Carr of Children's Home Society of West Virginia, in her capacity as a representative of the Children's Memorial Flag Day Committee. Carr requested that the commission officially proclaim April as Child Abuse Prevention Month and announce this year's date for the Children's Memorial Flag Day Ceremony. Carr and the committee requested the use of the outside of the courthouse for the ceremony, as well as the use of the first floor courtroom in the event of rain. The commission was more than happy to approve this, with Commissioner Tincher noting, "We've been unable to do this for the last couple of years, so we'd be very glad to have you all back for the ceremony." The motion to approve the use of courthouse property for the Children's Memorial Flag Day Ceremony on Apr. 28 at 12 noon was approved.

The proclamation of April as Child Abuse Prevention Month reads, in part: "Whereas, in federal fiscal year 2022, more than 3.1 million reports of child abuse were made to child protective services, and whereas child abuse and neglect is a serious problem affecting every segment of our community and finding solutions requires input and action from everyone ... be it resolved that the Greenbrier County Commission does hereby proclaims the month of April, 2023, as Child Abuse Prevention Month, and See "County Commission" Page 4

Old Seneca Health building demoed, 'public park/ parking lot hybrid' planned

charging stations."

What has long been referred to as "The Old Seneca Health building" across from the New River Community and Technical College campus has been the site of some very extensive and public demolition beginning the third week of March. Angus Peyton of the James F.B. Peyton Fund, a non-profit working with the City of Lewisburg to develop part of the property, has another name for the complex of buildings on the corner of Church and Foster Street: "A kid trap. Whenever you have abandoned buildings you inevitably have kids who want to get in there, and then they inevitably get hurt." Peyton and his organization are therefore assisting the city with removing the dangerous and unattractive buildings. However, the fund is not content simply to remove the buildings on the plot and stop there. "Demolition, of course, is just phase 1 of this project," explained Peyton. "We have in the works some new municipal parking, as well as ten 'electric vehicle supercharger'

Babydog secures second film role

By Matt Young

On the heels of Disney's successful 2019 remake of the 1955 animated classic Lady and the Tramp, Nickelodeon Films hopes to duplicate that success with a modern reimagining of their own famous pup - Blue of Blue's Clues-fame.

Much like the Lady and the Tramp remake, Blue's Clues will be a live action/CGI hybrid. Although director Francis Ford Coppola has stated he intends to keep the CGI to a minimum.

"Obviously we have to make the dog blue," Coppola said in a recent interview. "We'll use the computers for that."

Coppola also stated that his film will be nothing like 2022's "Blue's Big City Adventure" which saw original host, Steve Burns, reprise his role as Blue's bestest buddy. Coppola's film, titled "Blue: the Final Clue," will follow the titular Blue (reimagined as a male dog) as he attempts to rescue a much older Steve - now played by famed character-actor Steve Buscemi - from the crippling realities of middle age

"Steve's older now, he's lived and seen some things," Buscemi told members of the press at a February media function.

Buscemi portrayed "Mr. Pink" in Quentin Tarrantino's 1992 crime drama "Reservoir Dogs." For his role in Martin Scorcese's "Boardwalk Empire," Buscemi received multiple Primetime Emmy, Golden Globe, and Screen Actors Guild award nominations. Coppola, himself a five-time winner of the Academy Award for Best Director, is known for the films "Apocalypse Now," "Bram Stoker's Dracula," and The Godfather franchise.

According to Coppola, finding the perfect dog to play the lead role of Blue proved much easier than he'd first imagined.

"I was home watching a Christmas film with my wife," Coppola said. "My sister, Adrian, was there watching with us. I saw this little bulldog on the television, and I got all excited."

"Adrian, she was all, "Settle down, Francis!" Coppola added. "But I knew it right away - that dog was my Blue! So, I told her, 'Yo Adrian, we did it! That's my boy, Blue!"

The movie was "Christmas at The Greenbrier," and the bulldog who so thoroughly caught Coppola's attention was none other than West Virginia's first pup, Babydog. The film was shot on location at the Greenbrier Resort in White Sulphur Springs.

The Greenbrier Resort is owned by West Virginia's governor, and Babydog's proud papa, Jim Justice. Coppola wasted little time reaching out to Justice in the hopes of securing the bulldog's services.

"When Francis makes you an offer you can't refuse, it surely to heavens don't have mud flaps or squirrel tails," Justice said, of his conversation with Coppola. "This is just another example of the greatness we do here in West Virginia."

Justice laughed about his attempt to persuade Coppola to cast him and First Lady Cathy Justice as the characters "Mr. Salt" and "Mrs. Pepper," but said he abandoned his efforts when "Cathy about killed me." However, Justice continues to publicly lobby for the casting of WV Secretary of State Mac Warner as "Mailbox," and Attorney General Patrick Morrisey as "Slippery Soap." There is no word yet on casting choices for Blue's K-9 friend "Magenta." However, Elon Musk's dog, Floki, has been rumored for the part.

Academy Award winner Morgan Freeman has signed on to narrate the film. "Blue: the Final Clue" is scheduled to arrive in theaters across the country on Apr.

Happy April Fools! While there may be no Blue's Clues remake in the works, you can still spot Babydog accompanying Gov. Jim Justice around the state for plenty of time in the spotlight!

(NOTE: This satirical-fiction was created with the assistance of Gov. Jim Justice's Communications Office.)

Peyton described plans for the newly-empty lot as "something like a public park/parking lot hybrid. It's definitely going to be the most beautiful parking lot in all of West Virginia when we're done.

As for the ownership of the lot, Peyton explained that the precise ownership over portions of the plot will be decided further down the line, but that the True Value building is owned by Boxell Solutions, and that the demolition being carried out now is being done under abandoned building protocols. "The [James F.B. Peyton Fund] will be assisting the city through the Lewisburg Foundation with the development of all public properties to come, that being the parking lot, and Boxell Solutions will be doing all the private development of the plot," said Peyton.

Boxell's plans include the renovation of the upper floor of the True Value building into residential space, and commercial space on the bottom floor. Lance Syner with Boxell made clear that, "we absolutely do not own [the Seneca Health building]" or anything beyond True scribed burn on three units in the Hopkins Knob area near Blue Bend in Greenbrier County this Wednesday if weather conditions permit. This 844-acre prescribed burn near Blue Bend will benefit overall forest health in this area's oak-pine and oak-hickory forests and enhance wildlife habitat in the understory favored by turkey and other birds, in addition to helping reduce the threat of catastrophic wildfires. The burn area will be closed to the public on the day of the burn and may be closed for several days after to ensure public safety. Signs will be posted on nearby roads before and during burning.

Residents and Forest visitors may see and smell smoke for several days. If you encounter smoke on roads, slow down, turn on your vehicle's lights and drive appropriately for the conditions.

Prescribed fires are conducted under specific weather conditions and are designed to accomplish pre-determined forest management goals. Monongahela National Forest follows strict guidelines for conducting prescribed burns, and takes into consideration environmental factors such as temperature, humidity and wind. If environmental conditions are not within limits, the burns will be postponed.

Local radio stations will be alerted to burn activities ahead of time. Check https://inciweb.wildfire.gov/ for updates and a map of the area. For more information call the Marlinton-White Sulphur District at 304-799-4334.

OPINION

Nature's Way By Karen Cohen

Come Together

The daffodils are here, scores of them, gathered in bunches around our front yard. A few years ago, I started planting dozens of bulbs here and there in our woods, too. And I will continue that hobby. Every year 50 daffodil bulbs go in the ground in patches where the sun shines all day long. Early spring sure looks bright and cheery with those bold dashes of yellow in an otherwise dreary, brown setting.

Of course we take them by the bucket full into our house for decoration on tables and window sills, even in the bathroom! I also cut off lots of early, yet to fully bloom, forsythia branches and force them to bloom inside. It's easy enough, just place a bunch in water and voila, instant bloom in just a few days. Another quick fix for the winter blues.

Trays of seedlings are kept warm at night on heating pads and then are brought out into the warm sunshine during the days when temps are 55 degrees or above. That's how you "harden off" a new plant which is the way to have them adjust slowly to bright sunshine and warmer air outside. A light breeze blowing across little seedlings also strengthens up their root system as they sway gently back and forth. Wind will dry out soil faster than usual, so always check your soil moisture in pots and seedling trays, inside or outside. I use a spritzer bottle of water to lightly mist the soil, not the plant itself.

Growing fast are tomato and eggplant seeds alongside kale and cabbage seedlings. The cold hardy veggies like the kale and cabbage are ready to pop into prepared garden beds. Lots of rotted compost and manure was dumped months ago throughout our garden. Nutrients slowly leach into the ground and by the time the plants are ready to sink into it, the additives will mellow out and not burn them.

I joined the nonprofit Seed Savers Exchange this year and was thrilled to find their catalog filled with hundreds of heirloom seeds, open pollinated, untreated, non-hybrid, non-GMO seeds. These are the only kind of seeds I sow and my choice is deliberate. Browsing through the catalog, I find the descriptions of seeds most fascinating, such as a "lustrous tiny red pepper," originally collected by none other than Thomas Jefferson in 1812. There's a drought resistant sweet corn seed called Stowell's Evergreen which was introduced in the mid 1800's by Nathaniel Newman Stowell of Pennsylvania. If you have ever wondered where your seeds come from-this is the "go to" source for tracing back seeds to former generations of avid growers.

Saving seeds is important. Planting those saved seeds is even more important. It's called growing out the seed. That is the way to keep the seed "alive" and thriving, to be able to be saved and perhaps swapped. We don't need big seed commercial companies to do that for us. They often have additives and GMOs spliced into their seeds. By owning the patents on their own seeds, it means that you as a consumer cannot trade them. You cannot because you are not the owner, the seed company is. Many hybridized seeds are sterile and will not produce seeds anyway, so again, you are forced to go back to the company to buy the seeds year after year. That may work for some folks, but I got off that bandwagon decades ago. I love the idea of keeping old time seeds in the hands and in the land of simple gardeners and farmers. Don't you?

Seed exchanges and seed libraries have sprung up over the years in local neighborhoods and country libraries, some are in West Virginia. It's a fun community project for gardeners who enjoy harvesting seeds from their plants and not just the vegetables to eat. This ensures that the following year you can reap what you sow.

People who want to trade seeds will have their first seed and plant swap on April 23 in Lewisburg, WV. You can participate by potting up things already growing in your garden, too, such as rhubarb plants, oregano and catnip roots, yarrow stock, divided irises and peonies. Curious gardeners who have not yet attempted to save or swap their own seed can learn how easy it is to do from year to year. Testing the viability of seeds is a valuable lesson for beginners. Some seed companies donate loads of expired seed packets for the purpose of swapping since seeds can last many years.

When I think of growing maybe six tomato plants each year, do I really need a whole pack of seeds? The answer is no and the solution is to exchange them with other gardeners who are in the same boat! What a perfect way to celebrate Earth Day weekend and meet like-minded home growers, too. Come together with hands open for giving and receiving.

(Karen Cohen is an organic gardener and organizer for the first annual seed/plant swap. Send your comments, tips, and email for more info to natureswaykaren@gmail. com And Happy Growing!)

April is Alcohol Awareness Month in West Virginia

The West Virginia Alcohol Beverage Control Administration (WVABCA) is pleased to report that Governor Jim Justice has officially recognized April as Alcohol Awareness Month in West Virginia. In issuing a proclamation, Governor Justice emphasized the need to increase public awareness and understanding about the dangers associated with underage alcohol use and adult alcohol misuse.

Since 1987, the National Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependence has recognized April as Alcohol Awareness Month. According to the Center for Disease Control (CDC) every year in the United States approximately 95,000 people die from alcohol related causes. Alcohol Use Disorder (AUD) affects about 15 million adults in the United States, (National Institute for Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism-NIAAA). The Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) reports that about 2.3 million adolescents aged 12 to 17 in 2019 drank alcohol in the past month, and about 1.2 million of these adolescents binge drank in the last month.

WVABCA Commissioner Fred Wooton said, "We are grateful for Governor Justice's proclamation." Commissioner Wooton added, "the WVABCA is committed to addressing the dangers associated with alcohol misuse by working with community leaders and law enforcement on a local, county and state level as we strengthen our collective ability to protect our youth and families"

To address these issues, the WVABCA has a DUI Simulator that has traveled to high schools across the state and attended safety type events. Since 2010, over 67,000 students have experienced this life saving program. Additionally, the WVABCA's NO School Spirits Public Service Announcement (PSA) contest has reached tens of thousands of students. This program is in its tenth year and encourages and empowers youth to develop and produce meaningful educational and prevention messaging aimed at preventing underage drinking. The WVABCA licensing and enforcement efforts are also geared to protect the public. New carding posters are available for businesses to ensure compliance and help avoid underage alcohol sales.

County Commission

encourages all citizens to become interested in the lives of children and families living around them, to offer support, helping to reduce the likelihood of child maltreatment." The Commission signed the proclamation unanimously.

The county also took another step towards realizing the goal of broadband internet access in the Quinwood area. At Tuesday's meeting, the commission accepted a bid for legal counsel services for the project. The firm selected will work with the county's legal counsel to help deal with all legal matters pertaining to the acquisition of land, drafting of contracts, and other issues arising throughout the life of the project. The firm selected was Steptoe & Johnson, PLLC of Charleston, West Virginia. Commissioner Rose explained the decision by saying, "we've used Steptoe [& Johnson] before and have always had a good experience."

The county also presented their budget for Fiscal Year 2023-24. The commission took time to discuss the upcoming rate increase from PEIA. PEIA, as per legislative acts in the most recent session, will soon be raising their rates. The percentage of the raise is not yet locked down but will soon be finalized by the PEIA board. PEIA member institutions have been advised to budget

The Commission explained that this is not the first rate increase as of late, and that they will be responding in the same way as last time. "We had a 5 percent increase last year, and what we did then was simply to take that extra cost onto ourselves [the county]. We'll be doing that again this year, whatever the percentage may turn out to be." The county currently pays 80% of the costs associated with PEIA coverage for all county employees, and will continue to do so, and will absorb the cost of the rate increase without changing the current 80/20 split. The commission wanted to stress that "while we won't be changing the split, PEIA users who work for the county will not see an increase in their rates."

we won't be changing the split, PEIA users who work for the county will not see an increase in their rates."

In closing, Commissioner Tincher reminded the public that, "as of this Friday, if your taxes are not paid, you will be determined delinquent on your taxes as of Apr. 1. You can pay your taxes here at the courthouse.

you will be determined delinquent on your taxes as of Apr. 1. You can pay your taxes here at the courthouse, or online."

The Greenbrier County Commission will meet again on Tuesday, Apr. 11, at 10 a.m. in the Greenbrier County Commission offices, in the basement of the courthouse.

The public is encouraged to attend. Interested parties

Gov. Justice issues statement on HB 2820

Governor's Highway Safety Program reminds drivers: U DRIVE. U TEXT. U PAY.

The West Virginia Governor's Highway Safety Program (GHSP) is teaming up with the U.S. Department of Transportation's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) and law enforcement agencies statewide for the national U Drive. U Text. U Pay. high-visibility enforcement effort. From April 3-10, law enforcement officers will work together to enforce texting and distracted driving laws. The GHSP also supports these efforts throughout the year with statewide education and enforcement activities.

According to NHTSA, nearly 32,483 people died in distraction-affected crashes over the ten-year period from 2011 to 2020. In 2020, there were 3,142 deaths linked to driver distraction, or 8% of all motor-vehicle crash fatalities. This is an increase of 23 fatalities compared to 2019.

Violating West Virginia's distracted driving laws can be costly. The fine for the first offense of using a cell phone while driving in West Virginia is $100 plus court costs. The second offense carries a fine of $200 plus court costs. The consequences of a third offense and subsequent offenses are a $300 fine plus court costs, plus demerit points being applied to the driver's license record.

The GHSP and NHTSA urge drivers to put their phones away when behind the wheel. If you need to text, pull over and do not drive while doing so. If you are the driver, follow these steps for a safe driving experience:

• If you are expecting a text message or need to send one, pull over and park your car in a safe location. Once you are safely off the road and parked, it is safe to text.

• Ask your passenger to be your "designated texter."

Dear Recycle Lady,

Spring is upon us, and if any of your readers are wondering what plants to grow, here is some information I have found helpful. There are benefits to using native plants in your garden and landscaping – they are low maintenance, conserve water, add beauty to the landscape, and provide food and shelter for wildlife. Secondly, according to author Doug Tallamy in Bringing Nature Home, "when native plants disappear, the insects disappear, thus impoverishing the food source for birds and other mammals." Native plants and seeds can be purchased locally from Sunshine Farm & Gardens in Renick, WV (www.sunfarm.com, 304-497-2208) or they can be purchased online from www.prairiemoon. com..

Lover of Birds, Bees, and Food

Dear Lover of Birds, Bees and Food,

Thanks for the very timely information. Hopefully, calling our attention to the value of native plants will inspire readers to use native plants in their gardens and landscaping. Native plants suitable for this area can be found at https://www. nwf.org/NativePlant-Finder/Plants by using

Dear Recycle Lady,

I read that Earth Hour was last week. What is Earth Hour?

Missed Earth Hour

Dear Missed Earth Hour,

Earth Hour began in 2007 as a symbolic event to show support for the planet by turning all non-essential lights off for one hour at 8:30 local time on the last Saturday in March. According to www.earthhour.org, Earth Hour is more than turning off lights for one hour. It is a symbol of unity, of hope, and a demonstration of the power of collective action for our future and the planet's. In 2024, Earth Hour will be Saturday, Mar. 29.

Dear Recycle Lady, What are floating cit-

Sounds Interesting

Dear Sounds Inter-

Floating Cities are homes that are on the water. According to freetheocean.com, "they are essentially platforms designed to host marine farming, aquaculture, research, and even living on the ocean!" They are self-sufficient and equipped with everything needed to sustain life. Historically, people have lived on the water in fishing villages in Southeast Asia, Peru, and Bolivia. More modern homes on the water are found in Canada and the Netherlands. Floating cities of the future will have sustainable homes that are climatefriendly and offer an alternative to living in overcrowded cities. They must be able to withstand floods, hurricanes, tsunamis, and strong waves. Ideas for proposed platform designs, communal facilities, making seawater drinkable, harnessing wave power, and using organic waste to generate energy are being researched, along with the supportive necessary technology. For further information, see www. freetheocean.com/journal/move-over-land-

Good News. McDonald's sells over 1.5 billion Happy Meals to kids every year, and by 2025 none of their toys will be made from fossil fuel-based plastic. They will be made from cornstarch, recycled plastic bottles, and plant-based resins. That's McGood news! (fto.com)

When Margaret "Maggie" McCaffrey-Kapa's mother, Verna McCaffrey, conferred with the dean of Cornell University's School of Hotel Administration (aka Hotel School) about her daughter enrolling, she was told that "not many women entered and that they either flunked, left or got married." Undeterred, Kappa applied and was admitted to Cornell.

Although Cornell was one of the first eastern universities to admit women, Kappa was only one of two women in the Hotel School. She was most likely unaware that soon she would begin to help blaze a trail for women in hotel management.

Kappa was born in 1921 on the Mississippi River in Wabasha, Minnesota. She lived and worked as a child in her family-owned Anderson House Hotel in Wabasha. Following graduation from Cornell in 1944, Kappa worked in executive housekeeping at grand hotels, including the Plaza Hotel in Manhattan, St. Paul Hotel in St. Paul, Minnesota, and the Athearn Hotel in Oshkosh, Wisconsin. She began at The Greenbrier in 1957 as Assistant Manager of Housekeeping and Decorating and rose to become Executive Director of Housekeeping. Following her retirement from The Greenbrier, she started a consulting firm and worked with numerous hotels, including for twenty years the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island, Michigan.

Throughout her career, Kappa was recognized and honored for her accomplishments in the hospitality industry. She received the Diploma of Honor from the Society Culinary Philanthropique, Lamp of Knowledge from the American Hotel and Motel Institute, and she was in the first class of inductees in the Cornell Hotel Society's Hotelie Hall of Fame. In 1980, she became the first female president of Cornell's Hotel Society. She was much loved and engaged in White Sulphur Springs where she sang in both the St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church and the Emmanuel Methodist Church choirs and volunteered as the "story lady" in the elementary

Kappa died in 2006. Her family hotel, the Anderson House, that opened in 1856 is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and is the oldest operating hotel in Minnesota. Photo: Courtesy of Jeanne Sander and The Greenbrier.

percent residency placement

Less than two months before graduation, fourth-year students at the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine (WVSOM) discovered that their years of hard work and dedication paid off. The Class of 2023 attained a perfect residency placement rate, with all 176 students receiving spots in residency programs.

Students at the state's largest medical school learned of their 100 percent residency placement rate on March 17, a day designated as Match Day by the National Resident Matching Program, the organization responsible for placing medical school graduates into residency programs. On Match Day, which typically falls on the third Friday of March, students preparing to graduate learn where they will complete residen-

James W. Nemitz, Ph.D., WVSOM's president, congratulated soon-to-begraduates on their success.

"I continue to be amazed at the accomplishments of our students." Nemitz said. "This class entered medical school just months before the CO-VID-19 pandemic became an international public health emergency, and the fact that its members have not only weathered the additional challenges but achieved a perfect residency placement is worth celebrating. I couldn't be more proud of the Class of 2023 and of the faculty and staff who have helped them become competent, compassionate osteopathic physicians."

After completing medical school, new physicians serve in residency programs for three to seven years to qualify for medical licensure. During this time, physicians are trained in the specialty they will spend their careers practicing.

While WVSOM is renowned for producing primary care physicians, graduates of the school can practice in any

A total of 105 students in the Class of 2023, or 60 percent, are entering primary care residency programs, encompassing the specialties of family practice, internal medicine and pediatrics. A total of 44 students matched to family practice residencies, 39 matched to internal medicine, 20 matched to pediatrics and two matched to internal medicine/pediatrics, in which physicians train to become board certified in both specialties.

Other popular specialties for members of the Class of 2023 include emergency medicine, with 25 students; psychiatry, with 12 students; general surgery, with eight students; and orthopedic surgery, with five students.

Linda Boyd, D.O., the school's vice president for academic affairs and dean, praised students and employees for their work in reaching the 100 percent residency placement.

"We're proud of our Class of 2023 graduates. The students, along with WVSOM's graduate medical education career advising team, worked all year to ensure graduates' success in attaining their best match," she said.

WVSOM's Class of 2023 Commencement Ceremony will take place May 5.

Gen. Andrew Lewis Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution meets

The General Andrew Lewis Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met Mar. 16 at the Fellowship Hall in the Old Stone Presbyterian Church. Regent Deborah Phillips presided. The hostess was Karen Lee McClung. Each table had an attractive centerpiece honoring

St. Patrick's Day. The guest speaker was Al Emch, vicepresident of the Greenbrier Historical Society. He spoke to the group about the history and plans for what is known as the "pink library" which has been leased by the society. The building dates to 1834 and served as the Supreme Court of Appeals Library and offices for the judges. The building is to be stabilized and restored to the original configuration. It is hoped that when it is reopened, the community will attend to learn about the building, the Court and the law books. A hint:

some of those books are still around.

The adjacent building will be known henceforth as Rhoda's Kitchen. There is a story here, and we know you will want to hear it when it, too, is opened. If this press release contained all the information Emch delivered, it would go on for pages. At this time, the date of the reopening is not known.

The National Society Daughters of the American Revolution is a non-profit, non-political women's service organization whose main objectives are historic preservation, education and patriotism. Members are all lineal descendants of those who supported the cause of independence in the Revolutionary War back in 1776. If you are interested in the Daughters of the American Revolution, call Registrar Sandra Cowan at 304-

Women's ministry holds spring Bible study

The women's ministry of the First Baptist Church of Fairlea invites ladies of all ages to join them in their spring Bible study. This is a seven-session study, meeting on Monday evenings from 6:30 to 8 p.m. starting Mar. 6.

Last Lenten Baked, Fried Tilapia Dinner set for Friday, Mar. 31

The final Lenten season baked or fried tilapia dinner is scheduled for Friday, Mar. 31, from 4 to 7 p.m. in the White Sulphur Springs Community Center behind the Emanuel United Methodist Church, just south of the Main Street bridge. Dinners are available to eat in or take out.

"We have to humbled by the support we have received this year and are very appreciative of everyone who has come out and enjoyed the dinners and the fellowship," noted Andrew Wrzosek of Waitesville, grand knight of the Greenbrier Valley Council 8689 Knights of Columbus who sponsors the dinners to benefit the community, youth, service, church and council projects in eastern Fayette, Greenbrier, Monroe, and Pocahontas counties.

The dinners consist of tilapia, scalloped potatoes, coleslaw, hard rolls, desserts and drinks for $15 for adults, $8 for children age 6-12, 5 and under free, and an extra piece of tilapia for $5.

In addition to the donations being awarded this Friday from the 50/50 drawing, the "Raise the Roof" fundraising committee of St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church in White Sulphur Springs will have the drawing for the four big baskets of goodies, one of which you must be 18 years old to win, at 7 p.m., but you do not need to be present to win in any of the drawings.

Already during the Lenten Season, the Knights have supported the Greenbrier Valley Solid Waste Authority with recycling of bottles, cans, and cardboard; the Family Refuge Center, with nearly 35 lbs of food and the St. Catherine of Siena Church Altar and Rosary Society.

BUSINESS

Judith Lyons named new WVCA Executive Director

Judith Lyons has been selected as the new executive director of the West Virginia Conservation Agency. She will officially step into the role on Apr. 8.

Commissioner of Agriculture Kent Leonhardt, who serves as chairman of the State Conservation Committee. welcomed Lyons to her new role.

"Judith has served in the environmental and conservation field for over 20 years," he said. "Her management and technical experience will be a tremendous asset to the West Virginia Conservation Agency and the Committee looks forward to working with her in continuing its mission."

Lyons has been with the West Virginia Conservation Agency since 2010, most recently as the assistant director of watershed projects. She had also been a longtime watershed program manager for southern West Virginia and a contract/permitting manager with the agency. In her previous roles, Lyons has supervised watershed managers and staff and taken responsibility for professional development training of all watershed technicians, established and managed a team that specialized in stream restoration, and wrote and edited the agency's Emergency Watershed Protection (EWP) policy and procedural manual, which is used during flood events.

She also has worked with county commissions on 7-1-3u agreements, which allow the agency, conservation districts and counties to partner on watershed projects.

Lyons also has managed watershed projects through completion by obtaining funding, budgeting, contracting and construction oversight. She has worked extensively with county, state and federal agencies and representatives on dam rehabilitation and repair projects and flood-related

To assist the state's 14 conservation districts, Lyons prepared and submitted permit applications for construction projects to agencies like the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the state Department of Environmental Protection and the

Before joining the agency, Lyons served as an environmental resources specialist with the state Department of Environmental Protection's Construction Stormwater Team. She holds an associate degree in general education and a bachelor's degree in sociology from West Virginia State University.

As executive director of the WVCA, Lyons will oversee the agency's entire operations and work closely with elected supervisors in the state's 14 conservation districts and the State Conservation Committee (SCC). She will report directly to the SCC.

"This is an exciting time for conservation in West Virginia," she said. "Numerous small watershed dam rehabilitation and repair projects are slated for the coming years, stream restoration projects are in process, and cooperators are getting agricultural best management practices on the ground in unique ways to conserve soil and water across the state. "I look forward to working closely with our staff, the conservation districts, the State Conservation Committee, our local, state and federal lawmakers and partners, and West Virginia's citizens to grow conservation in the Mountain State," she said. Lyons is the first woman to serve as the WVCA's permanent executive director. WVCA Director of Conservation Services Jennifer

Skaggs has served as the agency's interim executive director since November, when former WVCA Executive Director Brian Farkas stepped down to take a position with the federal government.

Carnegie Hall's Spring Art Exhibits Open Friday, April 7

Carnegie Hall's Spring Exhibits open Friday, April 7. Carnegie Hall features three rotating galleries that display the works of regional artists. The upcoming exhibits feature works by artists William Todd Gambill (Old Stone Room), Dana Wheeles (Lobby Gallery), and John Coffey (Museum Gallery). There will be opening receptions at 5 p.m. in conjunction with Lewisburg's First Fridays after 5.

Old Stone Room, located on the ground floor of Carnegie Hall, will feature works by William Todd Gambill. Gambill is from South Charleston, WV, and studied Commercial Art and Design at West Virginia State University. He uses acrylics, pen and inks, watercolors, pencil, ball point pens, markers, and Photoshop to create art.

Dana Wheeles will exhibit her works in the Auditorium Lobby Gallery. Wheeles lives in the countryside outside of Charlottesville, VA, creating work in her Deerhawk Art Studio. She encounters new animal friends every day, and one by one, they found their way into her art. Mandalas are also a core feature of her work.

The Museum Gallery (adjacent to the Hamilton Auditorium) will feature the works of John Coffey.

Coffey is a watercolorist specializing in landscapes and buildings, primarily in and around southern West Virginia but also other parts of the world. He grew up in Monroe and McDowell Counties, WV and currently lives in Mercer County, WV.

The exhibits are free and open to the public, Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The exhibits will run through June 26.

For more information, please visit carnegiehallwv.org, call 304-645-7917, or stop by the Hall at 611 Church Street, Lewisburg.

WVU Symphony Orchestra to perform at Carnegie Hall

Carnegie Hall is pleased to pres- Neese. ent the West Virginia University Symphony Orchestra in concert on Wednesday, Apr. 19, at 7:30 p.m. Concert tickets are on sale now and are only $15 for adults and $7 for students. This evening concert, conducted by Dr. Mitchell Arnold, will feature Symphony No. 5 in C Minor by Ludwig van Beethoven.

In addition, the WVU Symphony Orchestra will be performing during the daytime Link Up student concerts on Thursday, Apr. 20. Joining the WVU orchestra for the Thursday concerts will be over 500 fifth-grade Greenbrier County students and a special guest vocalist from Greenbrier East High School under the direction of Ms. Carrie Link Up, a program of Weill Music Institute of Carnegie Hall in New York City, pairs orchestras across the country with students in grades three through five to explore orchestral repertoire through a hands-on music curriculum. Students from Greenbrier County will participate in the Link Up concert where they will sing along and play recorders with the orchestra.

Carnegie Hall would like to thank the Carnegie Hall Guild, Classics for Kids Foundation, Daywood Foundation, Greenbrier County Commission, Greenbrier County Schools, Hollowell Dawkins Foundation, and Uncle Larry's Fund for their support of Link Up.

Free showings of Weathering the Elements at Lewis Theatre to know how hurricanes form? Why and how volcanos erupt? How the water cycle affects us? Trillium Performing Arts has come up with a fun way to answer these questions with an interactive show called Weathering the Elements.

This production was developed by Trillium five years ago as a way for students to learn about the water cycle and how the four main elements, Earth, water, air, and fire, interact with each other. Through movement, music, theatre, and video, the audience is introduced to the science behind how all of these elements work together. This show is free for all. School groups of any kind and size are encouraged to attend as well as families. If you have a group of six or more, please contact the Trillium office at 304-645-3003 so your seats can be reserved.

This production will be held at the Lewis Theatre on Court Street in downtown Lewisburg on Apr. 15 at 7:30 p.m., and Apr. 16 at 2 p.m.

Join us for this theatrical science spectacular for all ages!

Creative Youth Art Exhibit winners announced

Carnegie Hall's 29th Annual Creative Youth Art Exhibit awards ceremony took place on Mar. 6 as friends and family filled the Hamilton Auditorium to celebrate the accomplishments of Greenbrier Valley's young artists. A reception with light refreshments provided by The Greenbrier followed the ceremony.

Creative Youth is a juried art show each spring that features the talent and imagination of Greenbrier County students in grade 4-12. Children from public, private, and home schools submit their work for this juried art exhibit.

This year's participating schools and teachers: Alderson Elementary and Ronceverte Elementary - Tonya Mills; Crichton Elementary and Rainelle Elementary - David Poticher; Eastern Greenbrier Middle - Rachelle Henderson and Mary Stankunas; Frankford Elementary and White Sulphur Springs Elementary -Stephanie Holley; Greenbrier Academy for Girls - Anne Hunter; Greenbrier Community School - Jennifer Orr; Greenbrier East High - Mark Cline and Stephanie Tilley; Greenbrier West High - Marla Bell; Lewisburg Elementary - Jody Wilber; Rupert Elementary and Smoot Elementary - Lynn Davis; and Western Greenbrier Middle - Emily Sullivan.

During the awards ceremony, Carnegie Hall's Education Director, Harmony Flora, President/CEO, Cathy Rennard, Board of Director's Treasurer, Ron McGruder, Greenbrier County Director of Elementary Education, Anne Smith, Carnegie Hall's Box Office Manager, David Dillon, and 4th grade public school instructor, April Vincent, announced the winners of the various art categories and divisions. Local artists Trey Bryan, Amie Durrman, and Marietta Lyle served as judges.

The Best In Show Award went to Tova Cherniak, a Greenbrier Academy for Girls 9th - grader, with her painting "Our World Divided." The Carnegie Hall's Choice Award was given to Crichton Elementary 4th-grader, Haley Kincaid, for her mixed-media "A framed by vintage friends.

Robinson has been a creative force in the Lewisburg arts scene for more than 30 years with her art, music, and more. Her creative touch is all around Lewisburg, including the rendering of dragonwing begonias (and a small dragon watching from the side) on the town piano next to Lewisburg City Hall. She was also selected to be one of the artists to participate in the 2022 Lewisburg Fire Hydrant Art Paint Project.

Costumes, jewelry, and artwork, all designed by Susanna with her signature look, have been featured far and wide, including a hand-beaded Christmas ornament commissioned to hang on the White House tree and several ornaments for the West Virginia Governor's Christmas Tree.

Dancers and choreographers have worn custom made pieces by Susanna in various live performances. She also is known for her custom one-of-a-kind fantasy wearable art. Her ornate handmade witch hats can be found parading on beguiling noggins all around town during events and episodes of revelry and debauchery. The art collages she fashions (literally cutting and pasting the old-fashioned way), reflect a true Art Nouveau influence. Enter magical realms of the timeless 1920's-era of gypsies, fairies, and charmed enchantment, all found in her artwork.

"Art is life, life is art, you cannot separate them...it's the way you breathe and the way you live."

The 98th Annual State Fair of West Virginia is slated for August 10-19, 2023.

Yung Gravy Go ahead and call him "The People's Champ..."

The people quite literally demanded his rise by galvanizing his jump from underground stalwart into a mainstream force.

23-year-old MC, Minnesotan disruptor, and MILF connoisseur Yung Gravy quietly emerged as a gold-certified phenomenon by way of hilarious ad-libs and airtight ited to announce the addition 2018 Snow Cougar EP yielded a pair of gold-selling bangers -- "Mr. Clean" and "1 Thot 2 Thot Red Thot Blue Thot" -- jumping from early Sound-Cloud success to the hottest playlists on Spotify such as New Music Friday and Pop Rising, to name a few. In its wake, he sold out three tours in North America, two tours in Europe, and his run of Australia and New Zealand. This hot streak continued as his world tour. Experience The Sensation, Part 2," also sold out.

> During 2019, his full-length debut Sensational [Republic Records], crashed the Top 5 of the Billboard Top R&B/Hip-Hop Albums Chart and put up 450 million-plus streams across bangers a la "Alley Oop" [feat. Lil Baby" and "Gravy Train," which gave a 808 facelift to Maxine Nightingale's "Right Back Where We Belong.'

Gravy just does Gravy though...

"I really felt like there was something missing," he explains. "I wasn't hearing what I wanted to hear, so I stepped up to the plate and actually started doing it myself."

Rewinding to the beginning, he hit his stride in 2016. Inspired by everyone from Out-Kast, Nate Dogg, Curren$y, and Action Bronson to Patrice Rushen and The Blackbyrds, Gravy took to SoundCloud to begin releasing music. The first song he uploaded, "Karen", quickly garnished new fans and stirred a palpable buzz online. His first independent EP, Mr. Clean, went viral on the strength of "Continental between racy and raw rhymes,

the title track "Mr. Clean"

State Fair Officials are ex-rhymes. Within a year, his popped off and paved the way for over 15 years. They are sic for a number of years under big name writers and joining Thanksgiving's Eve, Yung Gravity EP, and Baby Gravy EP. Soon, he reached #1 on Indify and had labels knocking at his door. Gravy kicked off 2018 with the sizzling single "1 Thot 2 Thot Red Thot Blue Thot." Flipping the Dr. Seuss limerick upside down, the hook proves immediately infectious.

> "I was at a house party in Georgia that got broken up by the cops," he recalls. "We were accused of burglary, and I spent the night in jail. I got probation with community service. I was in the wrong place at the wrong time, so all of the felonies were expunged, but I still got charged with 'Criminal Trespassing' and 'Underage Drinking.' The day I got off probation, I was super hyped and inspired. This is my freedom song."

> A free man, he shows no signs of stopping or slowing down. He teamed up with frequent collaborator bbno$ for a 2020 collaborative project introduced by the track "shinin on my ex," which OnesToWatch predicted as "a surefire Tik Tok hit" and Lyrical Lemonade pegged as "another absolute slapper" and "a true classic." Their chemistry really exploded on the single "iunno." Over off-kilter horns and a subtle beat, they lock into a vibrant verbal volley before the hashtaggable hook.

It supports his main goal though -- as always.

"At the end of the day, this is all meant to make people feel good," he leaves off. "This is party music, and everyone's invited." Wilson Fairchild above all, very, very talented. Along with their outstanding harmony, which is an inherent trademark from their fathers, Harold and Don Reid, members of the Statler Brothers. Wil and Langdon are prolific songwriters who have had over 30 songs published and recorded. They can also play many different instruments, which makes an impressive portfolio and contributes to their unique style. But when Wil and Langdon plug up and strap on their electric guitars and turn on their natural entertaining abilities, you can expect to be fulfilled with a musical delight.

The duo played a lot of mu-towards literal gold as well energetic, enthusiastic, and the name Grandstaff. Grandstaff CDs include Circles and Grandstaff: Live & Well. In 2010, the country music duo changed their name to Wilson Fairchild. Wilson is Wil's middle name and Fairchild is Langdon's middle name. The new fresh name has more of a duo sounding ring to it and fits their fresh new music as well.

> You may remember a number-one rated television show for seven years on TNN, "The Statler Brothers Show." On their debut appearance, they got to sing the first song they had written together called "What We Love To Do" which the Statler Brothers recorded. Since then, they have been hooking up with some other forces behind the almighty pen. In 2007, the Statlers were being inducted into the Gospel Music Hall of Fame. Wil and Langdon were asked to be a part of the ceremony by singing a song to them. They felt it was time to write their own "Statler" song in tribute to all their successes throughout their career. The two sat down and wrote "The Statler Brothers Song."

Their latest success in the songwriting arena is a song called "Make God First." They wrote it with friend and Grammy-award winning songwriter Gordon Kennedy, and Ricky Skaggs recorded it for his Mo-
