Lewisburg City Council approves Arts and Humanities funding requests

By Sarah Richardson

The Lewisburg City Council met on Tuesday, Aug. 15, to discuss and approve several resolutions and Arts and Humanities funding requests. Resolution 528, a water system improvement project pay request in the total amount of $1,561,498.64 was passed, along with Resolution 529, Public Works building pay request 6, in the amount of $231,621.75.

Sally Bray and Cathy Rennard with Carnegie Hall approached the Council with an Arts and Humanities funding request in the amount of $2,725 to be used for TOOT artist fees. The finance committee approved the request, as did council. "This year is going to be a challenging year," Bray reported. She said that they are encountering some resistance from vendors, and that Carnegie is trying to increase the overall number of vendors this year to help with lines and wait times. "We are really enhancing the artist aspect of it, because that really is the most important thing to us. But we do believe that this is a city-wide benefit, and with your financial support it makes it a lot easier," said Bray.

"We think that diversification is a key factor right now, and this does enable us to do that," Rennard said. "It will be a well-rounded festival on Oct. 14."

A second Arts and Humanities funding request, this one for the West Virginia Jazz Orchestra for their Labor Day concert, was considered and approved by council. This $700 will be used to help finance the public concert on Sunday, Sept. 3 from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Green Space. Dr. Bonny Copenhaver, President of the New River Community and Technical College, will be the guest speaker this year. The public is invited to bring a chair to the Green Space www.mountain to enjoy this free event. messenger.com

Donald Havens takes the oath of office of Director of the Greenbrier County Homeland Security & Emergency Management & 911 Center surrounded by officers of the Lewisburg Municipal Police Department, including Chief Teubert, State Senator Vince Deeds, and Prosecuting Attorney Patrick Via.

By Adam Pack

The Greenbrier County Commission met for their regularly scheduled meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 22 and was pleased to announce the hiring of a new Director for the Greenbrier County Homeland Security/Emergency Management/911 Center. Donald Havens, after what every member of the Commission described as a highly positive and exciting interview process, succeeded through the process to be appointed to the director's position. Numerous members of the Lewisburg Municipal Police Department, including Chief Teubert, as well as State Senator Vince Deeds and County Prosecutor Patrick Via, were all on hand to confirm Havens appointment.

In other news, the county opened two bids for mowing and trimming on the Phase I section of the Meadow River Rail Trail, which encompasses an eight-mile piece of the trail. The two bids opened were from Willis' Weed Wackers and Ike's Blades of Glory and amounted to $7,000 and $24,500. The bids now go to Project Director Matt Ford for approval

The county also approved an agreement with Clayton Enterprises for provisional monthly financial services. Provisional financial services include monthly analysis of finances every month in preparation for the county's

The city also extended the current facility lease for the Greenbrier Family Court as well rented additional space for temporary relocation of the county Probation Office. The new property to be rented will be 767 Jefferson Street South. The Commission was quick to point out that after the courthouse construction process is completed, the county Probation, Sheriff's, Family court, and Magistrate court offices will be in the old courthouse building, which the commission looks forward to as it will put "all of the county's various offices under one roof and not all over town. And will prevent us from paying rent all over town, as well."

The Greenbrier County Commission will meet again on Tuesday, Sept. 12 at 10 a.m. in the New Courthouse Annex.

'For the Love of Golf' opens in White Sulphur Springs

Before Brandon Watkins received his Professional Golf Management Degree and taught the game in places like Myrtle Beach and Knoxville, he was a student at Greenbrier East High School who played on the golf team.

"I started giving lessons when I was probably about 15," he says. "I just love the game and love the golf swing. It's like a puzzle you have to piece together."

Now, Brandon is opening his own golf shop in downtown White Sulphur Springs. Located on Main Street beside Beards & Bangs, it will provide instruction, club fitting, and retail items.

"This is my childhood dream," he shares. "I've thought about opening my own shop at home for years. Once I got around to the realization it was possible, it all came together."

Brandon played college golf for Concord and Bluefield State before going on to a successful amateur career and becoming a certified golf instructor.

"White Sulphur growing, and golf is growing," he adds. "We have a golf history here - Sam Snead, Bill Campbell, the Ryder Cup, the Solheim Cup. People need a place they can get personalized expertise."

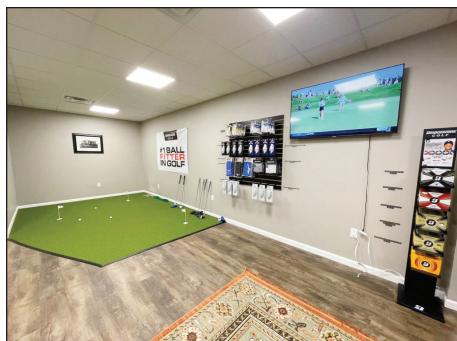

Brandon says locals shouldn't have to drive an hour to buy a golf glove or drive two hours for a club fitting. So he plans to step in and fill the void. His shop will gloves, balls, hats, and more retail golf items. And yes, they do have women's and left-handed golf gloves! "Additional retail items will be filling in over the next few months," Watkins adds.

The meat and potatoes of Brandon's shop is the Trackman 4 simulator, which includes putting. "It's top of the line," he says proudly. "Dual radar, so it monitors the golf ball and the clubhead. For an instructor like me, that's Christmas. It gives me all the info I need to help people improve."

Customers can book golf lessons on the simulator. They can also receive club fittings for brand new TaylorMade & Mizuno irons. Last but not least, they can rent the simulator to play on one of 180 courses loaded onto it. "You can play Pebble Beach or Saint Andrews!" Brandon shares.

When I ask Brandon why he decided to call his shop 'For the Love of Golf,' his demeanor changed. He thanked me for asking that question, paused to consider his words, and said softly, "I wouldn't be standing here if it wasn't for the game of golf. It's done everything for me. My education, my career, my travels are all possible because of the game of golf."

Brandon loves the game. As a child, he would record swings on video and replay them over and over, learning the parts of the swing.

"My focus is to help people play better golf," he says. "The best way to grow the game is to help people play better. That's what I love!"

While this may be Brandon's dream, he's quick to point out all the help he's received from family, friends, and WV Hive. "They've all been instrumental in making this happen."

'For the Love of Golf' opened on Aug. 22. Call or email Brandon to arrange a lesson or time with the simulator. The shop is open Tuesday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m, Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., and 12 to 4 p.m. on Sunday. Rate information will be available soon. All DMV regional offices now offering appointment opportunity

West Virginia Division of Motor Vehicles (DMV) customers may now make appointments, including sameday appointments, at any of the 26 regional offices

"We are happy to be offering appointments in all offices again," said DMV Commissioner Everett Frazier. "For a while, only the offices in some of West Virginia's largest population centers were offering appointments with walk-ins, while the smaller area offices were walkin only. Now, all 26 offices will offer both. The best part about this new scheduling program, though, is the possibility of a same-day appointment for our customers."

Appointments may be made for transactions such as: driver's license knowledge testing - including Class E, F, and CDL, applying for a new driver's license or identification card, changes to a driver's license or ID card, driver's license transfers from out-of-state, and vehicle work including titles and license plates. Additionally, customers who take advantage of the REAL ID Head-Start program through DMV's online services portal may also use the appointment scheduler to make an appointment once their documents have been approved.

Customers may visit the appointment scheduler at: https://telegov.egov.com/wvdmv.

According to Frazier, "Walk-ins are still welcome at every office, but having an appointment will give customers more opportunity to receive fast and efficient service and not have to wait in line as long. This is just another example of how we continue to look for new ways of providing good customer service."

For more information, including regional office and kiosk locations, the online services portal, and appointment information, please visit the DMV website at dmv.

Gov. Justice signs bills allocating $12M to fire departments and first responders

Gov. Jim Justice held a ceremony this week at the Point Pleasant Volunteer Fire Department, where he signed SB 1021, SB 1022, and SB 1023, which passed in the recent Special Session of the West Virginia Legislature, providing $12 million in supplemental funding to fire departments and first responders across the state.

"You are the people who literally run to the fire," Gov. Justice said. "I cannot thank you enough for the work you do and the lives you touched. There is no way that we make it without our first responders, and my goal is to supply you with everything you need to continue protecting our communities. Today is a monumental day because of what has been accomplished. Again, I cannot thank you enough for everything you do for our state."

"This is a big day for first responders in the state of West Virginia," Rob Cunningham, Deputy Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security, said. "The cooperation between the West Virginia Legislature and the Governor to come up with this one-time appropriation to help fund our fire departments and emergency medical services is really huge."

Gov. Justice signed SB 1021, which created a special revenue fund to be administered by the Secretary of the West Virginia Department of Homeland Security (DHS), who will distribute additional funds to local county commissions in counties with excess levies or dedicated fees related to emergency services.

Gov. Justice also signed SB 1022 and SB 1023, which supplemented appropriations to the Division of Emergency Management, Growth County Fire Protection Fund, and County Fire Protection Fund.

These additional funds can be used for Fire Departments and Emergency Medical Services (EMS) based on the needs of the individual counties that receive them. These funds may be used to purchase personal protective equipment (PPE), facilities upkeep, and upgrade or buy new rescue, communications or ambulance equipment.

Additionally, funds can be used toward education and training expenses or to offset costs associated with compliance with Insurance Service Office recommendations (ISO), utility bills, and insurance payments.

A reminder that we are earth dwellers with many other lifeforms.

I learned a new word and I am a tad embarrassed that I didn't know this sooner than now. Biophilia. Let's break it down: a human tendency to interact or be closely associated with other forms of life in nature- a desire or tendency to commune with nature.

Well ok, then, I will assume the noun to describe myself. I love nature and commune with it on a daily basis. Living in the woods keeps my feet on the ground, literally, and my senses filled with smells, sights, sounds of, you guessed it, nature. Do you take long walks along the river trail? Do you plant a garden of flowers or veggies? How about feeding birds or butterflies? Are your mushroom logs ready to sprout? Even mowing your lawn is a way to connect with nature! You are a biophilic! Welcome to the club.

Biophilia happens inside your home, too. Large windows provide lots of light but also lend a mucho grande view of your lush yard or backyard garden. Indoor plants bring living beings close to you especially in the dreary winter months. They offer a type of companionship, something to care for, dote on, etc., without demanding much in return 'cept for a glass of water every few weeks!

Dig this: plants that are red, purple, pink, green, and white are purported to lower blood pressure and boost your mood. Amazing! Go get a peace lily, snake plant, or aloe plant. They require almost nothing and will absorb carbon dioxide while releasing oxygen. And they just look good in a sunny corner of your house or porch.

We can strive to become a biophilic and yes, it is contagious. Somehow this topic is not taught in school but gets handed down from parents and grandparents. Kids love treehouses- build one for them. A tree swing can provide time for a child to indulge their imagination rather than idle hours looking at a screen of sorts. Start a family project of identifying trees by collecting their leaves. Keep a diary of the various birds you hear and see flitting outside your home. Go for daily walks: after dinner time is great for exercise and observing the world around you. Find one new thing in nature every day and discuss it. Learning is ongoing no matter how old you get.

Another way to connect with nature and all things natural is to consider what actions you take when you do interact with nature. Do you strive to help or harm nature? Research tells us that almost half of the land surface of earth has been touched by human hands in some way. Humans tend to believe that we "own" the earth and so we fight to "tame" it and control it when, in fact, we are part of the whole ecosystem. If the human race goes extinct, the earth will live on without us.

Biodiversity is disappearing. 93% of agricultural seeds are extinct. Some seeds are patented and can no longer be traded in private hands. Land mass across the globe have been continually deforested and stripped of natural indigenous plant life and hence, animals disappear too, without food sources. It takes 120 years for a forest's diversity and its soil to fully recover after clear cutting.

Monoculture has reigned supreme. Maize (corn) is USA's most grown and consumed crop with 1.4 billion tons produced worldwide. It dominates our landscapes. With high yields, corn is easy to grow. About 40% of the amount grown goes to hogs, chickens, and cattle. Roughly one acre of a standing corn will provide 100 cows with food for ONE DAY.

Again we ask ourselves, what can we do to help and what are we doing to harm nature? Nature is what gives us everything we need to live: clean air, clean water, clean food, and sunlight. Let's not leave out BEAUTY! It's all here for us to use wisely, share indiscriminately, and protect for future generations of all life forms, humans included!

WV Nursery and Landscape Association registers 'strong disapproval' of WVU's proposed cutbacks to Landscape Architecture Program

The West Virginia Nursery & Landscape Association (WVNLA) registered its "strong disapproval" to leaders at West Virginia University (WVU) for its proposed elimination of bachelor's and master's degree programs in Landscape Architecture and the reduction of staff in Soil and Plant Sciences from 21 to 10 people.

Julie Robinson, executive director of WVNLA, wrote a letter to Peter Butler, director of WVU's School of Community Development and Design, and Elizabeth (Lisa) Orr, Landscape Architecture Program Coordinator asking them to convey the association members' request for reconsideration to decision makers at WVU. "WVNLA has provided significant support and financial assistance through the years, largely because we seek to promote green industry careers and professionalism throughout the state," said Robinson. The association is also circulating a petition seeking support for continuation of the Landscape Architecture and Plant and Soil Science education and outreach programs.

The WVNLA letter cited strong industry and home state support for the WVU academic programs. "As the state's flagship, land-grant university, WVU should be supporting the enrollment of in-state students, not driving them away."

The loss of West Virginia's only accredited Landscape Architecture program will inevitably lead to West Virginia students leaving the state to study landscape architecture. These students are not likely to return to West Virginia, to the detriment of in-state engineering, architecture and landscape companies who would employ them."

HELP WANTED CAREGIVER

60+ preferably. References required.

Please contact us at 304.667.7265 or julie@mountainmedianews.com, 304.520.4062.

"In the last ten years, WVNLA has contributed in excess of $60,000 to the Landscape Architecture and Horticulture programs for student travel for national competitions and horticultural tours throughout Europe; the development of a master landscape plan for the Evansdale campus as designed by Landscape Architecture students; and a book scholarship, among other projects.

WVNLA's board members voted to fund these projects because they believe these programs provide vital experiences and education for students in the Landscape Architecture and Horticulture programs. These graduates go on to create designs which landscape and engineering companies use to create effective, safe and attractive spaces throughout West Virginia and beyond. These projects also provide employment opportunities.

In the last ten years, WVNLA has also provided 16 scholarships for Landscape Architecture and Horticulture at WVU. The total of these scholarships was $65,000.

Robinson said state and federal economic statistics show the nursery and landscape industry in the state and related employment has grown and will continue to expand through 2026. "That is why WVNLA has been building more academic and workforce development initiatives to support jobs and local economies," she said.

Robinson said WVNLA's workforce development and scholarship support in all parts of the Mountain State are boosting the green economy and enhancing the pipeline of talented skilled workers and entrepreneurs in nursery and landscaping. "The green economy and our youth deserve better," said Robinson.

BITUARIES

J. Fred Hensley

J. Fred Hensley, 86, was called Home in the early morning of Thursday, Aug. 17, 2023.

He was born to Reverend Clyde Hensley and Ruth Smith Hensley in Kenova, WV, October of Fred attended Lewisburg High School, West Virginia University and Oklahoma State University where he obtained his Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree.

Having earned the Order of the Arrow rank in the Boy Scouts, Fred was an avid and accomplished outdoorsman. His many hobbies included fishing. boating, and hunting. He completed his Master Gardener program and neighbors always appreciated gifts from his gardens and fruit trees, gardening tips or an extra set of hands to work their land. Having earned his pilot license, he was also able appreciate the outdoors from above.

His Boy Scout experience undoubtedly lent itself to one of Fred's most charming characteristics. He was celebrated for his ability to make, form or repair anything with whatever materials he had on hand. His creativity in doing so was seldom cited for its aesthetics but always got the job done. As a result, his name became a verb. One might "Henslev" something to fix it up the way they needed.

He is survived by his wife of 63 years, Margie Tarkington Hensley, and their children Dwayne, Pat, Amy and Christina.

He was preceded in death by his son, Jeremy in 1990 and his beloved dogs, Jack, Roxie, Scooter and Princess.

Fred passed peacefully at home in the loving company of his family in Punta Gorda, FL.

Condolences may be expressed to the family at https://baldwincremation. com/obituaries/j-hensley/

West Virginia Hive, WVU TechLaunch Lab to host 2023 Pitch Southern WV Business Idea Competition Oct. 12

The West Virginia Hive, in partnership with the West Virginia University Institute of Technology (WVU Tech) Launch Lab, will host their next Pitch Southern West Virginia Business Idea Competition on Oct. 12, from 5:30 to 8 p.m. on the WVU Tech campus in Beckley. Diana Woods, director of the WVU Tech Launch

Lab who is serving as coordinator of the event, said a panel of judges will select the winners and award nearly $5,000 in prizes. The funding for the awards is from private contributors. Woods said the upcoming pitch competition is open to residents and businesses located in Raleigh, Fayette, Nicholas, Summers, Pocahontas, Webster, Greenbrier, Monroe, Mercer, Wyoming, McDowell, Logan, and Mingo Counties and WVU Tech students, faculty and staff. Entries to the business idea competition are limited to entrepreneurs of new start-ups and businesses in operation for less than three years. Applications will be divided into community (non-student) and student divisions.

Woods said the deadline to submit an application is 5 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 14. Applications can be downloaded at wvhive. com and should emailed to Woods at: techlaunchlab@mail.wvu.edu al Development Authority, said a panel of judges will evaluate the entries to the Pitch Southern West Virginia Business Idea Competition and select finalists to present in-person on Oct. 12. She said all finalists will be provided additional details and afforded opportunities for coaching on how to create a winning pitch presentation.

Judy Moore, executive director of the WV Hive and deputy director of the

During the in-person competition, each entrepreneur will have five minutes to present their business idea to a panel of judges and explain why it is innovative and how it will make a difference to residents of southern West Virginia. Each presentation will be followed by a brief question and answer period with the judges.

In addition to the $2,000 grand prize, smaller prize awards will be given to second and third place winners in the community division. Prize money for the community division must be used to further develop the business idea. Top prize for the student division is $1,000, which can be used to further develop the business idea or education at WVU Tech.

Woods said a new element with this installment is the "audience favorite" award. Everyone in attendance will have opportunity to vote and the entrepreneur who receives the most votes will win $250. This years' Gold sponsors of the event are United Bank and the New River Gorge Regional Development Authority. Additional sponsorship opportunities are available. Those interested in sponsoring should contact Beth Epperson at bepperson@nrgrda.org or 304-460-4483. All sponsorship funds are provided to the contestants as winnings.

"The Hive and Launch Lab encourage all eligible entrepreneurs and business ideators to apply," said Moore. "Over the years, winners in this pitch competition have gone on to do remarkable things and the winnings helped them tremendously in creating or growing their small businesses. We are proud to provide these opportunities for entrepreneurial growth throughout southern West Virginia."

Pocahontas County receives Build WV Designation

Application submitted by CVB and GVEDC is approved for WV's 8th designation location

Incentives created to encourage development of housing are now available in Pocahontas County after this week's designation as a certified BUILD WV district by the West Virginia Departments of Commerce, Tourism, and Economic Development. The application for designation was submitted jointly by the Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation (GVEDC) and the Pocahontas County Convention and Visitor's Bureau (PCCVB), in conjunction with efforts of the Pocahontas County Housing Task Force, formed in March of 2022.

Qualifying projects within the district are eligible to receive a sales and use tax exemption for building materials as well as a 10-year property value adjustment refundable tax credit to offset building costs. BUILD WV Act was passed by Legislature in 2022 and expanded in 2023.

"This designation is a key tool to incentivize investment into housing solutions for our county's current employers and residents and will support all efforts to grow the economy and replenish our population," says Cara Rose former PCCVB director who worked on this application just before retiring.

The district was established with Clover Lick as the center point and includes areas within a 20-mile radius. This point was chosen to encompass as much of Pocahontas County as possible, particularly to include areas where there is developer interest. Letters of support for the project were provided by both the CVB and the EDC as well as the Pocahontas County Commission, Inter-State Hardwoods, Snowshoe Mountain Resort, Greenbank Observatory, Safe Homes, Fort Warwick, Homeownership Center, and First Tracts Realty.

Ruthana Beezley, executive director of the GVEDC, added "We understand that housing is an issue in the region - for residents who want to move here and for employers who want to recruit employees. We are continuing to work on solutions, but feel this designation is an important piece of the puzzle."

According to the Build WV Code (WV §5B-2L-16), projects eligible for the BUILD WV Act will be located in a certified district: include at least six residential units or houses OR generate approved costs in excess of $3,000,000: create a significant and positive economic impact on the state; improve opportunities for commercial businesses and provide additional employment opportunities.

Interested housing developers are encouraged to contact Ruthana Beezley at GVEDC at rbeezley@gvedc.com for additional information on applying. There is an application fee of $5,000, and the State and GVEDC are working to make sure applications are viable before submitting. The Greenbrier Valley EDC is also working with interested parties in Greenbrier and Monroe County to submit further district designations. The Greenbrier Valley EDC is the local economic development authority for Pocahontas, Greenbrier and Monroe Counties whose mission is to strategically facilitate economic growth and higher wages through collaborative partnerships, while preserving the natural beauty and quality of life in the Greenbrier Valley region.

The Pocahontas County Convention and Visitors Bureau [PCCVB] is an independent, nonprofit corporation dedicated to marketing and promoting Pocahontas County as a destination. Their mission is to promote tourism which strengthens our community through job creation and education, while protecting the environment, sharing our culture and preserving our history.

COGNITIVE DECLINE RISK AWARENESS & HEARING HEALTH DECISIONS

A 25-year study shows hearing aid use can reduce the progression of cognitive decline in older adults.

Using your hearing, just like exercising a muscle, makes it stronger and more effective. Reduced hearing stimulation due to untreated hearing loss can lead to atrophy of functional brain pathways. This can negatively impact hearing ability and speech comprehension and may increase the risk of dementia.

Many people with gradual hearing loss delay vital testing.

Dear Recycle Lady

Dear Recycle Lady, Can the plastic bags that newspapers come in to keep them dry be recycled? Can they be recycled even if they are wet?

Newspaper Carrier Newspaper Dear Carrier.

As long as they are clean and dry, the plastic bags that your newspapers sometimes come in can be recycled at Kroger, Walmart and Lowe's. Plastic newspaper bags, or for that matter Saran Wrap, plastic wraps, or films that are wet or dirty should not be recycled. When in doubt, throw it out. This avoids contamination of other bags, wraps and films.

Hello Recycle Lady,

Did you know there is a mail-in recycling program for old nylon stockings? Recycled Crafts accepts nylon tights and pantyhose in any condition. For information, contact them at recycledcrafts@live.com.

Hosiery Recycler Dear Hosiery Recycler,

Thanks for the information about recycling old nylon stockings and panty hose. Since the link you provided is an email address, I found another website on the subject, swedishstockings.com/pages/ recycling-club that recycles pantyhose and stockings. They grind up old nylons and pantyhose into a filler material for industrial fiberglass tanks. The commercial industry uses these tanks to separate grease from water when cleaning up places like gas stations or restaurants. According to brightlifedirect.com, nylon was first produced in the 1920s by DuPont and nylon is the primary fiber in most hosiery products. Du-Pont combined extracts from coal and petroleum chemicals to make nylon, which is non-biodegradable, and takes 30 or 40 years to decompose. The website lists twenty-some great for reusing ideas pantyhose.

Dear Recycle Lady,

White Sulphur Springs is a railway station for Amtrak passenger trains. I know they have made several changes in the cars that make up the train. What happens to old train cars once they are taken out of service?

Train Trips are Fun Dear Train Trips are Fun,

According to Chicago Transit Authority, most old train cars are sold for scrap metal after they have been used for 25 years or so. Some cars go to museums, movie sets, or the military for training purposes. However, the public transit agency in Atlanta, Georgia, has another idea. The Metropolitan Atlanta Rapid Transit Authority (MARTA) plans to drop old subway cars into the Atlantic Ocean to create new artificial reef habitats for fish and other marine life. Crabs, shrimp, worms, and plants are all attracted to the sunken cars. Before dropping the cars into the ocean, they are cleaned of oil, grease, and any other chemicals. All excess parts are removed. New York has also dropped subway cars into the ocean off the coasts of Delaware and New Jersey to create habitats for underwater marine life. According curbed.com, approximately 2,500 subway cars had been dropped into the ocean by 2010. The "Redbird Reef" off the coast of South Carolina is a thriving underwater ecosystem with fish, coral, and other sea creatures that is comprised of 200 subway cars. Using old subway cars to create new habitats for marine life is a great example of adaptive reuse by showing how old, broken-up items can have a new life in an entirely new form. Good News: More than 100 countries now have a full or partial ban on singleuse plastic bags! (fto. com)

= A Look Back =

By William "Skip" Deegans

Russia's bombing of Ukrainian wheat fields and grain storage facilities and resulting world shortage of wheat is somewhat reminiscent of another time in recent history. At the outset of World War I, Americans and the British had developed a penchant for white bread. The war led to a shortage of wheat in Europe, and the United States had over four million servicemen and women to feed. To free up flour to ship to Europe and our military forces, the United States government began a campaign to encourage home bakers to substitute alternatives like corn meal, rye, barley, rice, potato or buckwheat flour for white flour. The recipe shown above was printed in the 1918 Greenbrier Independent. Bread that was baked with other flour was called Victory Bread or War

It was noted in the same edition of the Greenbrier Independent that Ronceverte's Limestone Milling Company had delivered, in a sixtyday period, 1,050 barrels of flour - enough to feed 400,000 soldiers in France for one day. The paper went on to write, "Just think of it -Greenbrier boys eating, in France, the wheat they helped raise before war was declared against the Hun."

Lewisburg Rotary Club helped meet some of Children's Home Society of West Virginia's needs by delivering dozens of pairs of children's socks and underwear and a variety of toiletries to the nonprofit organization.

Lewisburg Rotary Club donates to Children's Home Society

Members of the Lewisburg Rotary Club provided dozens of pairs of children's socks, boy's and girl's underwear, toothbrushes, toothpaste, soap, and other items totaling more than $250 to the Children's Home Society of West Virginia as part of its August service project. Rotarians gathered the items for delivery to CHS after the club's meeting on Aug. 14. CHS's Jennifer Lilly, permanency supervisory, met with the club in July to update club members on the organization's operations and outline some of the most urgent needs, which Rotarians worked to fill with their donations.

Brittany Masters, executive director of Communities in Schools of Greenbrier County (CISGC), was the guest speaker at the meeting. CISGC is a local affiliate of the nation's leading drop-out prevention program, Communities in Schools. CISGC, which was established in January 2003, serves students in all 13 schools in Greenbrier County and participates in six after-school programs. During the 2022-23 school year, 100 percent of students participating in CISGC graduated on time, improved their attendance record, and improved their social/emotional skills, Masters said. And 88% improved their behavior and academics. CISGC is actively recruiting caring adults to mentor and tutor students for the 2023-24 school year. The organization may be contacted at info@cisgc.org.

For information about joining, message the Lewisburg Rotary Club on Facebook or email lewisburgwvrotaryclub@gmail.com.

Ladies of Henning Church of God hold August meeting

The Ladies of the Henning Church of God held their regular monthly meeting Tuesday, Aug. 8, in the church fellowship hall. Carole Spencer presided and Marty Burns blessed our refreshments. Cindy Fleshman later led in prayer.

Joan Vance brought us our devotion. "Using our gifts to serve God and Others," by Patsy Shank with scripture reference I Peter 4: 10-11 and I Timothy 4:14. We all need to examine our soul to determine our gifts. The author received 23 light gray crocheted squares and wondered what she could do with them. She crocheted around them in different colors and hooked them together to make a blanket. The blanket will be donated to someone in need. This is an example of something small and mundane becoming larger. Gifts come from the heart and soul to bless others. We may never see the results of gifts. What gift do you have that you can use? Some examples include calling someone, baking something, and inviting someone to dinner. Kindness really matters.

Barbara Seldomridge brought us the missionary education report. Mark and Kathy Fulton are missionaries to Haiti. They work in conjunction with the hospital by directing, accounting, and overseeing running it in Haiti. They both attended colleges in Indiana. Mark majored in biology and dental surgery. He also worked as an emergency room medical tech. Kathy majored in business analysis and speech therapy. The hospital opened in Haiti in 2005. It is a Church of God hospital. It provides good paying jobs for the Haitian people. The chaplain leads patients in devotion every morning. This hospital provides affordable health care with Christ as the focus. In 2018, the first baby was born there. The hospital and staff did not know if they were ready. Since 2018 over one thousand babies have been born up to 2020. The country needs peace, that the unit of money will be stabilized, and they will continue to have 24 hour healthcare.

Jamie Harvey gave the treasurer's report and Pauline Perkins read the minutes from June.

Carole Spencer thanked everyone who helped with the hot dog sale at the auction at Velma Brackenrichs. The mile of pennies has been completed from 2014 to 2023. All the money was donated. Members will be serving the Maxwelton Ruritans on Aug. 24. The group will be having a yard sale Saturday, Sept. 9, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. They will be serving hot dogs with all the fixings and homemade baked goods. The prayer retreat will be held at Cedar Lakes on Sept. 29-30. A one-day event will be held at the Church of God in Nitro on Oct. 21. It is called "Beauty for Ashes."

The next meeting will be held Sept. 12. Carole Spencer dismissed in prayer.

Attending were: Alice Coff, Barb Seldomridge, Carole Spencer, Cindy Fleshman, Carol Spencer, Donna Scott, Jamie Harvey, Joan Vance, Kim Brookman, Marty Burns, Pauline Perkins, Patty Owens, and Peggy Seldomridge.
