Frazier claims that Clover Billiards is the only spot in the county with 9-foot Diamond pool tables, of which they have six.

By Chelsea Blair

Greenbrier County residents are always looking for new activities to do with their families, especially indoor activities during the colder months. Shawn Frazier took this into consideration and opened a new family business, Clover Billiards, in Hart's Run. Frazier stated that after watching his good friend successfully run a family business and do so well, he was encouraged to do the same and offer a place for the community to enjoy.

Clover Billiards opened with a pool tournament on May 2, and patrons of all ages enjoyed dancing and a snack bar. Frazier added that he wants the establishment to be a fun place for anyone and everyone.

"I want women and children to come in here and feel safe. I want parents to know that their kids are safe here," he stated. Additionally, he decided to host the first women's-only pool tournaments in the county, for those wanting to get more practiced and comfortable at the game.

According to Frazier, Clover Billiards is the first business in Greenbrier County to have 9-foot Diamond See "Clover Billiards" Page 3

Alderson Archers celebrate second place finish in national tournament with community parade

However, the inevitable rush of time may not necessarily have confined Alderson's athlete's "glory days" to the singular realm of the past. A group of youngsters from Alderson Elementary School just took second place in a national tournament, and now they are gearing up to compete for a world title

In the glow of one accomplishment, on the eve of another aspiration, earlier this week, Alderson celebrated the town's team with a parade. Alderson mayor Travis Copenhaver noted that the Alderson Archers bring huge positivity to both the students involved, and to the community. "When I've been to watch the kids practice, it's amazing to see their teamwork and desire to see each other truly be the best. "Win or lose, this program is a win for Alderson and our kids," he said.

"The town rallies behind this group of kids. They are 'Alderson Proud' of them, that's for sure," said Andrea Sloan, a teacher at Alderson Elementary, and one of the ardent supporters of the Archers. "It pushes kids to do better and be better. Kids want to be a part of this group,"

GEHS Engineering students highlighted

GEHS Engineering has piloted an invention education curriculum and has two teams going to Cambridge, MA, to present their inventions at the esteemed Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in June. Board of Education members gave a HUGE round of applause to team members and Engineering Instructor Kevin Warfield.

The GEHS Capstone Invention Team Alpha invented the adjustable height wheelchair (A.H.W.) to help people who use wheelchairs transfer to elevated surfaces. To accomplish this, the team incorporated a lift under the wheelchair's seat powered by a 12-volt battery. Ultimately, the goal of the A.H.W. is to aid people who use wheelchairs and have vertical mobility issues.

A second team, Team Delta, has invented a mask-integrated thermal imaging system (M.I.T.I.S.) for firefighters. This system would display a thermal image of the firefighter's view while allowing both hands to be free for other uses. The faceplate-mounted thermal camera directly outputs a processed image to an integrated screen on the faceplate that will power the screen and camera. These components work together to achieve our ultimate goal: increasing firefighter safety and efficiency during a fire rescue situation.

The board also celebrated Instructor Kevin Warfield's selection by Lemelson-MIT as one of ten Invention Education Fellows for the 2024-2025 school year. As an Invention Education Fellow, Kevin will provide peerto-peer support for educators across the U.S. as they facilitate invention education for the first time.

Students honored included Kendra Culyer, Weston Pence, Rob Bennett, Hailey Ervin, Delaney Hamrick, Nate Smith, Braedon Spangler, Kyleigh Swearingen, James Yarnell, Caden Carver, Rylee Carver, Jacob Grim, Amelia Hanna, Chris Harrah, Ashley Mendez, Cole Morgan, and Olivia Warfield. Best of luck to the teams as they present their inventions at Eurekafest!

Monroe County's JarHead Farms raises funds by successfully pitching its need to grow and combat food deserts ers can use EBT (food stamps), and SNAP Stretch and Senior Vouchers will be honored as funds are available.

Zoe said her motivations include the 2014 closing of an IGA supermarket in Alderson, the high poverty rate (40.4 percent) in Alderson, and the poor health statistics of West Virginians (45th in consumption of fruits and vegetables, and 49th in obesity, multiple chronic diseases, and premature death rates). "In 2023, 50 percent of requests for fresh fruit went unfulfilled because we simply did not have the infrastructure to fulfill the need," said Zoe.

The infrastructure took time to build. "Last year, our first full year in business, my Dad made 35 trips to the Eastern Panhandle to purchase fruit with a Jeep Cherokee," said Zoe. She said JarHead Farms took that profit and purchased more fruit trees and bushes and increased its logistics capabilities in order to meet the growing demand. "My husband rebuilt a diesel pickup truck, so with two different trailers we can now move 6,000 pounds of fruit in each trip. We built a network of farmers, co-ops, and country stores on a regular distribution route. We are always adding more value-added products to utilize any fruit that does not sell fresh, thereby increasing our market from seasonal to full year. In the food industry, if you can't document it, it did not happen. We need coolers with Bluetooth connected documentation to prove our safe handling and transportation."

2024 SWV Pitch Winner Natasha Zoe and Advisor Mary Legg

Natasha Zoe of Jarhead Farms in Monroe County is on to something special - she is managing a profitable farm and delivering fresh fruits to people who live in food deserts. Her business pitch is being heard and winning awards.

In the past two months, Zoe has excelled in two pitch competitions and earned a "Try This WV" mini-grant award to secure much-needed equipment to get her fresh farm fruits to customers more quickly and efficiently.

JarHead Farms placed first in the Pitch Southern West Virginia Business Idea competition by expert judges and was also the audience's favorite on Apr. 23 on the campus of West Virginia University Institute of Technology (WVU Tech). The West Virginia Hive and WVU Tech Launch Lab coordinated the competition to boost regional small businesses and entrepreneurs and students. The $2,250 in prize winnings earned by Zoe will be used to purchase two 99-liter coolers to store and transport fruit and vegetables.

Zoe, a retired Marine who returned home and turned a 10.8-acre cattle farm into one that offers a variety of fruits and vegetables, also recently placed in the West Virginia Veterans and Heroes to Agriculture Pitch Competition sponsored by the West Virginia Department of Agriculture. The $6,719 prize allowed Zoe to create walk-in cold storage on the farm and to purchase crop boxes.

Also in March, JarHead Farms secured a $2,700 mini-grant in the "Try This WV" program that supports healthy community projects. Those funds are being used to purchase their first two portable coolers for safe transport of fruits.

According to Zoe, JarHead Farms has started a new mobile market. "Our mobile market operates six days a week, most days setting up at two different locations during the day," she said. "We are bringing West Virginia Grown fruit to our local food deserts in rural Monroe, Greenbrier and Summers Counties. We have intentionally picked locations and times to be accessible to those with food and financial insecurities." Zoe said customZoe believes lack of access to healthy local fruit and vegetables is responsible for the unhealthy markers West Virginians experience. "Food deserts and financial security add to our neighbors' resorting to highly processed foods and the unhealthy outcomes that result."

Pitch competition earnings and the mini-grant will allow JarHead to purchase four new coolers. "The equipment will allow my Dad to operate the mobile market while the rest of the Jar-Head Farms team simultaneously picks and safely transports fruit," said Zoe. "Last year, we had to make choices between picking fruit and selling at farmers' markets. Also last year, we destroyed a whole day's harvest of blueberries because we were not able to chill them in a timely fashion."

JarHead Farms is a WV Hive client advised by Mary Legg, senior business advisor. "Natasha, her father and team are running a stable, sustainable farm and meeting a genuine unmet need in distressed counties," said Legg. "Their progress has been considerable in the past year and JarHead Farms is on a solid path to be even more successful."

The tombstone of Henry Clay Cabell in Old Stone Cemetery.

GVT's Baskerville play has Greenbrier Valley connections

The current Greenbrier Valley Theatre (GVT) production of "Ken Ludwig's Baskerville: A Sherlock Holmes Mystery" which is based on the novel, "The Hound of the Baskervilles" by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, has a Greenbrier Valley connection.

Doyle used the legend of Sheriff of Devonshire Richard Cabell as the basis for this most famous Sherlock Holmes story. Cabell is buried in an above ground tomb in Holy Trinity Church cemetery in Buckfastleigh in southwest England.

The surprising local connection was researched by two members of the Greenbrier Historical Society.

The fourth great-nephew descendant of Richard Cabell, Henry Clay Cabell, was a former Sheriff of Greenbrier County who lived in Lewisburg and later in the Cabell House Hotel in White Sulphur Springs. He is buried in the Old Stone Church Cemetery in Lewisburg. Henry's son, Napolean Bonaparte Cabell, better known as Mayor "Tobe" Cabell of White Sulphur Springs, is buried beside his father. The production at GVT of "Ken Ludwig's Baskerville: A Sherlock Holmes Mystery" continues Thursday through Saturday, May 16-18.

tables. There are currently six diamond tables at the establishment, but he plans to eventually have around 10.

Pool tournaments will be held every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, with Women's Night being held on Wednesdays. There is a $10 entry fee to all tournaments and a $5 cover fee for those not competing in tournaments, which includes full access to the stereo and a few free games for the kids. As of now, small snacks are available, but Frazier plans to open a kitchen and eventually they will begin serving alcoholic beverages, but will be limiting purchase times to allow the establishment to remain family friendly.

"I'm looking at long term here, we have endless opportunities. My mind is racing with things to do here," said Frazier. He expects to host cornhole tournaments, arcade games, live bands, and karaoke night once a week. Also, he plans to add a VIP section available for rent for those who want a private pool table and area for family and friends to enjoy all to themselves.

Additionally, he wants to add a mechanical bull and hopes to start a mechanical bull tournament once per month. Bull rides will be available once per week and the fees collected will be added to a pot that will grow monthly and be given to the winner of that month's tournament.

Clover Billiard's will be celebrating its Grand Opening in June with a pig roast dinner. Frazier is excited for the future of the business and encourages everyone to come out and enjoy the fun. Anticipated hours will be Tuesday through Sunday from 4 p.m. onward.

For updates on the grand opening and new activities check out "Clover Billiards" on Facebook.

Nationwide Family Gathering to be held in Beckley

The McGraw Family of Wyoming County (descendants of John and Mahala McGraw) will be hosting the nationwide reunion for the United States McCraw Family Association in Beckley, WV, on June 21-23, 2024. This event only happens every two years and was last held in Fairhope, Alabama, in 2022. This is the first time that West Virginia will be hosting the event.

Established in 1980, the United States McCraw Family Association (USMFA) is a national association for the descendants of William Maccraw, the first known American ancestor for most of the McCraws in the US. John McGraw, the patriarch of the McGraws in Southern WV, is one of William's descendants and was born a McCraw and changed the family name to McGraw in about 1870.

Registration for the event is now open and it will be held at the Mountaineer Conference Center beside the Country Inn and Suites at 2120 Harper Road in Beckley. A block of rooms has been secured at the Country Inn and Suites for those attending from out of town, and you can find hotel information, the full schedule of events, and both online and mail-in registration information on the USMFA website at mccrawfamily.org/reunion. Alderson Archers Fellow Alderson Elementary teacher Jason Ward, who also serves as a coach for the team, shared Sloan's assessment of what the program means for the students, and the town. He pointed out that the school has seen a marked increase in the GPA of the archery team members, coupled with a sharp decrease in their absenteeism. He said that three years ago, the program started with the kids building their own bow racks and quivers. Now, they are competing at the highest level both nationally and internationally.

"To be where these kids are today is just a tribute to the community of Alderson supporting us, and these kids working hard every day. We've learned so much. We've had a great time with them. It's been a great time with them. It's been a great journey," Ward noted.

Matt Coach Tabor echoed Ward's sentiments. "This is the only sport Alderson has left," he began. "They [the archers] keep us coaches young, so maybe they keep some of the town young too, and wanting to stay involved. This program has really brought our community together, through fundraisers, through the parade. The town has banded together, and they have had our backs every step of the way. We wanted to go and do this for Alderson as much as we wanted to do it for us."

What do the young archers themselves say about their archery program, the success they have achieved, and what this experience means to them?

"Our teammates are like family to us. We've been together for two years, and we've been shooting together," said fifth grader Braylyn Parker.

Her classmate, Klay Dolin agreed, echoing that the team has grown to be a family. When The Real WV asked Klay what the archery program has taught him, he smiled and replied, "How to shoot." His coaches and teammates laughed. Regan Honaker and Willa Crane are fourth graders. The coaches have identified them as leaders for next year's team. Regan, the highestshooting fourth grader this season, explained that shooting will be key for success in the upcoming world tournament. "I hope to shoot my best. I hope my teammates shoot their best, too," she commented. Regan credits her dad for helping her to shoot so well.

Willa Crane focused on what going to the tournament means for her team of friends, and what it will take to continue their winning ways. "It means a lot to be on the team. for us to be going together to the tournaments. We have to do the steps, the fundamentals," she said. William Lightner emphasized that his role as an Alderson Archer has taught him the importance of team work, and how to be a good teammate. When the Real WV asked him to define what being a good teammate means, he answered: "Don't argue. Don't push. Don't fight." William concluded, "We have a lot of fun. Sometimes after tournaments, we get to eat!"

Coach Darrell Pilson reflected on both the past - what the children have learned and what they have accomplishedand what more they may achieve, together, in the future. "It's a great opportunity for the kids to grow. We have a fantastic time with them. They've learned a lot. We've all learned a lot. We just continue the journey."

Gov. Justice awards funding for new hospitality degree programs at New River Community and Technical College

New programs launching statewide to provide for growing tourism industry

Gov. Justice visits the NRCTC campus in Beckley to make the announcement.

Gov. Jim Justice announced last week that New River Community and Technical College is receiving $3.5 million to create three new hospitality-related degree programs including outdoor recreation, culinary arts, and aviation maintenance. These new programs are part of a larger initiative to build a tourism workforce to keep up with the industry's rapid growth.

"It's been just incredible to watch as our tourism industry has grown in recent years," Gov. Justice said. "Now it's time that we focus on making sure we have the jobs to support this growth, and that our people have the programs they need to succeed in West Virginia. The future is incredibly bright. It is just great to be here today talking to students who are realizing this growth and to hear their excitement for successful careers in West Virginia's growing tourism economy."

New data from the West Virginia Higher Education Policy Commission projects that West Virginia will have more than 21,000 annual job openings in the leisure and hospitality sector through 2030. Today's announcement is just one of the many steps being taken to ensure our workforce is ready for this rapid growth.

"Our community colleges are working hand-in-hand with the Department of Tourism so we can equip aspiring professionals for outstanding careers in West Virgin-

Governor celebrates new Myrtle Beach Breeze Airways flight

Gov. Jim Justice announced that Breeze Airways, the only Nice Low Cost Carrier (NLCC) in the U.S. will begin its new service from Charleston (CRW) to Myrtle Beach, SC, on Friday, May 10, 2024. Fares on the new route start from $49 one-way.

"I'm so glad to see this partnership with Breeze Airways continue to flourish by expanding their service to connect West Virginia with Myrtle Beach, South Carolina," said Gov. Justice. "Airports play such an important role in fueling our economy, increasing tourism, and making our state even more accessible. I can't wait for all of the blue Breeze planes to touch down at West Virginia International Yeager Airport this summer." The announcement is another milestone in the historic partnership announced in March 2023. This award-winning carrier has committed to adding five new destinations, including New York City, through this partnership in the next two years. "We're thrilled for the start of the Myrtle Beach Breeze flight to West Virginia International Yeager Airport," Secretary of the West Virginia Department of Tourism Chelsea Ruby said. "I want to thank Governor Justice, the Legislature and our local partners for their continued partnership and investment in tourism infrastructure across the state. I'm looking forward to welcoming blue Breeze planes full of travelers to Almost Heaven this summer and beyond." "We're excited to extend our collaboration with Breeze, reintroducing the eagerly awaited Myrtle Beach route," shared Dominique Ranieri, Airport Director & CEO. "Providing affordable Breeze flights has proven immensely popular among our travelers, as we expand our range of nonstop destinations. Our sincere thanks to Breeze Airways, Governor Justice, Secretary of Tourism Chelsea Ruby, the Kanawha County Commission, and the City of Charleston for their ongoing dedication to fulfilling the travel needs of our community and visitors." "Breeze's focus is on connecting underserved markets, adding nonstops between cities without existing service," said Breeze Airways' President Tom Doxey. "As we continue to introduce new service from Charleston, we're proud to bring affordable and convenient new travel options to South Carolina."

ia's growing hospitality and tourism industry," said Dr. Sarah Armstrong Tucker, West Virginia's Chancellor of Higher Education. "This development reflects our colleges' commitment to providing high-quality, low-cost education and empowering students with the skills and knowledge they need to thrive in one of the Mountain State's most-promising sectors. We would like to thank Governor Justice and Secretary Ruby for making this partnership possible."

This fall, the College will begin offering two new programs to its existing Hospitality and Tourism programs: Outdoor Recreation and Culinary Arts with a grant from the U.S. Economic Development Administration (U.S. EDA) for $500,000. A $3 million state grant will create the Aviation Mechanic Program and the infrastructure necessary to train aspiring pilots. The FAA began the certification process for the school this year.

"New River Community and Technical College is grateful and honored that Governor Justice and the State of West Virginia are making a $3.5 million investment in the College. The funding will help us start three new programs in aviation mechanics, culinary, and tourism. Each new program will help the college prepare the regional workforce for careers in thriving and growing economic development sectors." Dr. Bonny Copenhaver, President.

These enhancements are part of a larger effort to build the growing tourism workforce in West Virginia. Beginning last year, the West Virginia Department of Education began offering tourism curriculum in all 55 counties, including as early as middle school. The newly created Governor's School for Tourism - a hands-on summer academy - will launch this June, and the Department of Education has also worked with colleges across the state to launch new pathway programs, allowing students to start earning college credit while still in high school. Funding for tourism businesses to train their employees is also available under the U.S. EDA grant funding.

Additionally, the U.S. EDA grant will also provide funding for new or expanded tourism-related programs at Blue Ridge Community & Technical College, West Virginia Northern Community College, and Eastern

All devices that plug in and require the use of electricity, including microwave ovens, can and should be recycled. Discarded microwaves, as well as televisions, cell phones, and computers, are classified as electronic waste, and they can harm the environment due to toxic chemicals that can leach from the appliances. If your current microwave still works, consider donating it to a family or a charity. Locally, Goodwill and Habitat for Humanity ReStore both accept used microwaves in working condition. If your microwave doesn't work, consider donating it to a local electronics store or appliance repair shop that can use the parts for repairing other microwaves. Microwaves, even broken ones, have valuable parts such as magnetrons, transformers, and glass trays. Some manufacturers may offer you money back if you recycle with them. To recycle your microwave regardless of its condition, take it to the Recycling Center. There is a canvas laundry cart on wheels under the window just past the Aluminum can door to put it in. If you need assistance, go to the aluminum can door and push the buzzer on the lefthand side of the door frame. Someone will come to help you.

Dear Recycle Lady,

Can paint cans be recycled? Must cans be empty before being recycled?

Painter Dear Painter,

If your paint cans are empty, and the paint stuck to the can is completely dried, the cans can be recycled. Go to the Aluminum Cans door at the Recycling Center and ring the bell. Someone will come help you. Be sure the cans are steel; test them with a magnet if in doubt. Some cans today are made of plastic, and they are not acceptable for recycling. Paint cans that aren't empty cannot be recycled, but they can be sent to the landfill with some preparation. If there is a small amount of paint left, remove the lids and let the paint dry out. If there is a large amount of paint left add kitty litter, or sawdust, to the paint to harden it or purchase a commercial paint hardener to help dry out the paint. When the paint is dry, put the can in the trash.

Dear Recycle Lady,

I have undertaken to organize all the photographs I have collected over the past years, and I have lots of duplicates. Can photographs be recycled?

Organizer Dear Organizer,

According to conserve-energy-future. com, photographs can't be recycled as they contain silver, mercury, and selenium, all of which are considered hazardous waste. Chemicals are used to make the photo paper that images are printed on. Photo paper also has coatings and protectors, which contain plastics and metals. Perhaps you could make a collage with the photos and send it to family members. Be sure to identify everyone in the photograph and include dates, if possible. Readers, do you have any ideas for Organized? If so, I am happy to print them. I am sure many of you have duplicate photographs in drawers and need to do something with them.

The poplar (aka yellow poplar, tuliptree) can grow to be the tallest of West Virginia's hardwoods and is commercially important for lumber and pulp wood. An unusually majestic poplar was sighted on the Greenbrier River during the Civil War, and according to The Greenbrier Independent it was to be used as a canoe to transport supplies on the river for camped soldiers. Because the poplar is relatively light weight, straight, and easily hewn it was commonly used to make canoes.

particular tree was spared until 1875 when it was cut by J. C. Gwinn into three logs. The tree was 60 inches in diameter, and the main trunk was 50 feet long. The first two logs were 12 feet long, the second two were 9 feet, and the remaining log was 10 feet. Three of the logs were floated down river to a mill where they were sawn into lumber and yielded 2,700 ft. of merchantable lumber. One log was sawn for porch columns that were shipped to Richmond, Virginia.

Shown in the circa 1908 photograph is a freshly-cut poplar from Webster County with logger John Hinkle.

For some unknown reason, this

The Companies propose to recover total incremental revenue requirements for certain rate base increases added between October 1, 2022 and September 30, 2023. The proposed increased rates and charges will produce approximately $32.2 million annually in additional revenue, and increase of 1.82% over revenue at current rate and usage levels. The average monthly bill for the various class of customers will be changed as follows:

STEPPIN'OUT Carnegie Hall presents award-winning storyteller, author and recording artist Bil Lepp

Carnegie Hall's Appalachian Heritage Lecture Series presents Really Tall Tales from Appalachia with Bil Lepp on Thursday, May 23, at 7 p.m. Guests are invited to come early to Club Carnegie from 6 to 6:45 p.m. in the Board Room located adjacent to the Hamilton Auditorium. A cash bar and snacks will be available.

Bil Lepp is an award-winning storyteller, author, and recording artist. He's also the host of the History Channel's Man Vs History series, and a contributing columnist to the West Virginia Gazette-Mail. Growing up in a family where the truth was fluid, Lepp became adept at spinning tales and exaggerating circumstances at an early age. A nationally renowned storyteller and five-time champion of the West Virginia Liars' Contest, Bil's outrageous, humorous tall-tales and witty stories have earned the appreciation of listeners of all ages and from all walks of life. Though a champion liar, his stories often contain morsels of truth which shed light on universal themes. Be it a hunting trip, a funeral, or a visit to the dentist, Bil can find the humor in any situation. Lepp explains that while his stories may not be completely true, they are always honest:" . . . Lepp, a cross between Dr. Seuss and ...film noir...."-Charleston Gazette

Bil is the author of seven books and 21 audio collections. His first children's book, The King of Little Things, won the PEN Steven Kroll Award for Picture Book Writing, received a Kirkus Starred review, and favorable reviews from The Wall Street Journal, Publishers Weekly, The School Library Journal and other publications. It also won the Zena Sutherland Award, the Parent's Choice Gold Award, was a finalist for the Irma Black Award, and was chosen to be West Virginia's book at the National Book Festival.

In 2011, Bil was awarded the National Storytelling Network's Circle of Excellence Award. Lepp has been featured 19 times at the National Storytelling Festival, and performed at major storytelling festivals around the county, at the Smithsonian Folklife Festival, and at corporate events and functions. Lepp has been featured on, and hosted NPR's internationally syndicated Mountain Stage. He is also the recipient of the Vandalia Award, West Virginia's highest folk honor.

Bil lives in South Charleston, WV, with his wife and two children.

Tickets are $20 and may be purchased by calling Carnegie Hall Box Office at 304-645-7917, visiting www.carnegiehallwv.org, or stopping by at 611 Church Street, Lewisburg, West Virginia. Carnegie Hall Box Office is open Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.
