The Weekend Newspaper for the Greenbrier Valley - Lewisburg, West Virginia

June 27, 2026

The mural will be formally unveiled in the entry foyer of the Greenbrier County Courthouse at noon on Monday, June 29, 2026

Something historic is about to be unveiled: Greenbrier County's WV America 250 Mural Trail Project

West Virginia is making history as the first state in the nation to launch a statewide America250 Mural project, celebrating our rich heritage and vibrant communities through public art. As part of this landmark initiative, each of West Virginia's 55 counties were invited to create a hand painted mural that reflects both local and national pride.

Thanks to the talent and creativity of local artists Shelby Oreolt and Lynn Quillen, with the support of a grant from the West Virginia Department of Tourism, Greenbrier County is now home to a beautiful addition to this historic project. See "Mural Project" __ Page 3

Community Board members reappointed

The Greenbrier County Commission, on Tuesday, reappointed five community members to various county boards: Jennifer Mason for another three-year-term with the Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation, Lucy Refsland for another three-year-term with the Solid Waste Authority, and Jordan Ross for another five-year-term with PSD #2. Josh Peplowski and Russell Conquist were also each reappointed for another three-year-term with the County Planning Commission.

In other business, commissioners approved the County Sheriff Department's VOCA (Victims of Crime Act) grant application for the amount of $50, 214, adjusted the county's 2026-2027 arts and recreation disbursement from approximately $385,000, to slightly over $411,000 to correct a previous error, and withdrew their consent for the county's participation in the Tris MLA opioid litigation.

"That's the opioid litigation that we entered into eight or nine years ago," Commission President Lowell Rose explained. "Out attorney who is representing the county in this is recommending that we withdraw our prior consent to participate in this one part of it." See "Reappointed" __ Page 4

Greenbrier Valley Airport's Wings & Wheels event raises more than $25,000 for Peyton Hospice House

Greenbrier Valley Airport is proud to announce the success of the 2026 Wings & Wheels Car Show & Fly-In, held Saturday, June 13, which welcomed an estimated 1,500 attendees and generated $25,543.92 for HospiceCare and the Peyton House.

The event brought together aircraft owners, car enthusiasts, families, and community members for a day of aircraft displays, classic and custom vehicles, live entertainment, food, children's activities, and community fellowship in support of a meaningful cause.

This year's event was held in honor of Bill O'Brien. Greenbrier Valley Airport extends its sincere appreciation to the O'Brien family for their generous support of the event and their commitment to helping make the fundraiser a success. Their support played an important role in the success of the event and its mission to benefit HospiceCare's Peyton House.

"We are incredibly grateful for the overwhelming support shown by our community," said Martha Livesay, Airport Director of Greenbrier Valley Airport. "Wings & Wheels provided a unique opportunity to open the airport to the public and showcase a side of the airport that many people may never have the chance to experience. It allowed families to get up close to aircraft, learn more about what happens here every day, and see the airport as a community asset. Being able to do that while supporting Peyton Hospice House made the event even more special. I would also like to take a moment to thank our airport team for the incredible work they did to make this event happen. Their dedication, planning, and hard work were instrumental in making Wings & Wheels a success."

"We are deeply moved by the generosity of the Greenbrier Valley community and everyone who made Wings & Wheels such a remarkable success. Events like this make a profound difference for the patients and families we serve," said HospiceCare CEO Christopher Rawl-

Greenbrier Commission increases arts & rec budget, sets zoning ordinance hearing date

The Greenbrier County Commission, on Tuesday, reappointed five community members to various county boards: Jennifer Mason for another three-year-term with the Greenbrier Valley Economic Development Corporation, Lucy Refsland for another three-year-term with the Solid Waste Authority, and Jordan Ross for another five-year-term with PSD #2. Josh Peplowski and Russell Conquist were also each reappointed for another three-year-term with the County Planning Commission.

In other business, commissioners approved the County Sheriff Department's VOCA (Victims of Crime Act) grant application for the amount of $50, 214, adjusted the county's 2026-2027 arts and recreation disbursement from approximately $385,000, to slightly over $411,000 to correct a previous error, and withdrew their consent for the county's participation in the Tris MLA opioid litigation.

"That's the opioid litigation that we entered into eight or nine years ago," Commission President Lowell Rose explained. "Out attorney who is representing the county in this is recommending that we withdraw our prior consent to participate in this one part of it."

Commissioner Richie Holliday further clarified that withdrawing the county's consent to participate does not cancel the ongoing litigation, but rather removes one single defendant from liability.

Consideration of mowing and trimming proposals for the Meadow River Trail were tabled until a later date, and a funding request for the Greenbrier State Forest Trails project was withdrawn, thus removing it from the agenda.

Commissioners tentatively scheduled a public hearing for Tuesday, July 7 at 6 p.m. at the Underwood Building at the State Fair of West Virginia to discuss the updated zoning ordinance. The next regular meeting of the Greenbrier County Commission is scheduled for the same day at 10 a.m., in the commission chamber.

McCuskey announces $325k Medicaid fraud settlement

West Virginia Attorney General JB McCuskey, on Tuesday, and in partnership with the United States Attorney for the Northern District of West Virginia, announced a Medicaid fraud settlement totaling $325,000. The civil settlement is part of the Department of Justice's 2026 National Health Care Fraud Takedown.

Muhammad Salman, 64, of Bridgeport, WV, reached a civil settlement to pay $325,000 to resolve allegations that he and his company, Bridgeport Pharmacy, violated the False Claims Act by submitting claims to Medicare and Medicaid while he was traveling and not in close proximity to his office in West Virginia and violated the Controlled Substances Act by using pre-signed, invalid prescriptions that were issued outside the usual course of his professional practice to his patients while he was traveling.

"The message from the Trump administration is clear: the days of turning a blind eye to fraudsters stealing our tax dollars and harming Americans are over," West Virginia Attorney General JB McCuskey said. "Today's National Health Care Fraud Takedown is proof that we are delivering on that promise. The Attorney General's Medicaid Fraud Control Unit has been dedicated to rooting out fraud and we are thankful for the commitment from the top to help us stop this abuse and the misuse of pivotal funds intended to help our Medicaid recipients."

The case was investigated by the West Virginia Attorney General's Medicaid Fraud Control Unit (MFCU) and settled by the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Northern District of West Virginia.

"Both here in West Virginia and across the country, the evidence is overwhelming: when health care providers seek convenience or profit instead of complying with the law, the public pays the price. These cases demonstrate the critical importance of coordinated enforcement - between this office, our federal partners, and the West Virginia Attorney General's Office - to identify violations quickly and act decisively," said U.S. Attorney Matthew L. Harvey. "We are committed to pursuing any provider whose conduct threatens patient safety or drains public health care programs. Today's actions make clear that we will not allow illegal prescribing practices, irresponsible handling of controlled substances, or fraudulent billing to go unchecked."

The settlement is part of a strategically coordinated, nationwide law enforcement action that resulted in charges against 455 defendants for their alleged participation in health care fraud and opioid abuse schemes involving over $6.5 billion in false claims and significant patient harm, including death. Today's Takedown represents a new era in federal, state, and international cooperation to combat health care

Genealogical center, library, and archives takes root in Lewisburg

The E&R Library & Archives (formerly known as the Evangelical and Reformed Historical Society) recently announced that it has taken the first step to relocate its central office and archive from Lancaster, PA, to Lewisburg. This milestone is a major move for the E&R Library & Archives (ERLA) on its mission to engage, inspire, and educate people through the study and preservation of family and church history, putting to good use the records of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and its predecessor denominations, which the ERLA collects, preserves, and makes accessible to the public.

“This is an exciting time in the life of the E&R Library & Archives,” says Dr. Scott Meyer-Kukan, President & CEO. “This relocation and consolidation will help expand our reach to all the churches that originated in the Evangelical and Reformed Church and to grow the organization as a genealogical center. This is new territory for the organization, and we are looking forward to building upon the work we have been doing to reach a wider audience.”

This news comes in the wake of many recent accomplishments of the E&R Library & Archives, including:

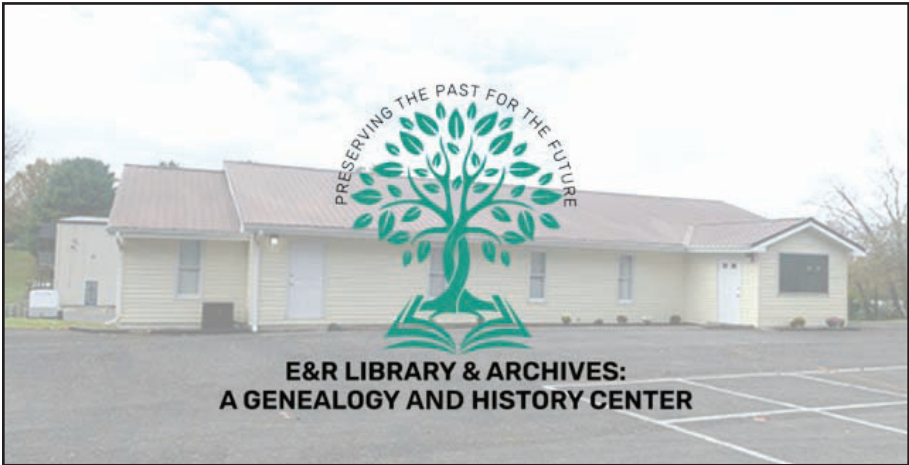

- The completion of the digitization of genealogical materials found in our church record groups, personal papers, and printed books, serials, and periodicals.
- Increased fundraising efforts that help place the organization on a sustainable path moving forward.
- The rebranding of the organization to more effectively communicate and align with our updated mission and vision.

“Honoring our past and maintaining our artifacts is noble work in a time when so many records are digital and intangible,” says Rev. Beth Gedert, member of the ERLA Board of Directors. “Caring for these primary sources and making them available to all ensures that our history can’t be easily rewritten to suit people’s whims. Moving to a new space and building new partnerships marks a new chapter for us. It expands our capacity to share the knowledge that has been entrusted to us by our ancestors. We are excited to see what’s next.”

While it will take some time for the ERLA facility to become ready, the organization has purchased and is currently renovating a building on Houfnaggle Road in Lewisburg. As the organization moves forward, it will offer a wide variety of genealogical services for the local community and beyond by providing computer workstations with access to a wide variety of genealogical databases, onsite staff to assist users, and will provide classes, workshops, and webinars to help genealogists with their research. The ERLA will also include a DIY memory lab with technology to digitize photographs, documents, and a wide variety of media. Users will be able to digitize items such as slides, family films, VHS tapes, vinyl records and much more to preserve their individual family history!

About the E&R Library & Archives:

The E&R Library & Archives is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization and first began as the Historical Society for the Reformed Church in the United States in 1863. The ERLA reorganized as the Evangelical and Reformed Historical Society to incorporate the Historical Commission of the Evangelical Synod of North America after the 1934 merger that created the Evangelical and Reformed Church. The E&R Library & Archives is the official repository for the former Evangelical and Reformed Church, the (German) Reformed Church in the United States, the (German) Evangelical Synod of North America, and the Hungarian Reformed Church. Secretary of State Kris Warner announces certification of 2026 mid-term Primary Election; full Primary Election Report to be released later this summer

On June 10, 2026, the last of West Virginia’s 55 counties certified the results of the 2026 Primary Election. With certification complete, all elections are certified except those that are pending election contest proceedings.

In the 2026 Primary Election, 252,008 out of 1,198,934 registered voters cast ballots, resulting in a voter turnout of 21.02%. While overall turnout remained similarly low as previous midterm primary elections, 67,364 voters participated during the early voting period, which is more than 8% higher than the 2022 midterm primary election.

The Secretary of State’s Office (WVSOS) will publish a full Primary Election Report later this summer after all voter participation history is submitted, which is due from counties by no later than July 31, 2026. The report will encompass election preparations; examine voter registration, participation numbers, and trends; discuss voting methods; provide absentee and provisional ballot information; summarize reports from the field on Election Day; and make recommendations to address certain challenges in future elections.

The 2026 Primary Election was the first administered in nearly three decades with a party primary closed to unaffiliated voters, which was decided by the WV Republican State Executive Committee in 2024. The Democratic Party primary remained open to participation by unaffiliated voters.

In preparation for the closed party primary, the WVSOS sponsored a statewide training conference for county clerks and their staff, during which the closed party primary was a primary topic of discussion and instruction. All 55 county clerks, or a member of their elections staff, participated in that conference. WVSOS also communicated the closed primary news with the public through numerous statewide and local channels including nearly every print, radio, and television media interview conducted during the election cycle.

At the local level, County Clerks made sure that printed materials were available for public display in all 1,684 precincts on Election Day. That same information was made available on the WVSOS webpage for frequently asked questions, which received 1,140 views from May 1 to May 12, 2026, making the FAQ page the 10th-most visited page out of the 166 WVSOS webpages during the same time period. Utilizing several social media platforms, a multitude of posts were made as a means to educate the public.

In addition to WVSOS educational efforts, county clerks, county commissions, party executive committees, candidates, and media outlets across the State engaged in numerous efforts to educate the public about the closed primary election. These efforts included public meetings, providing informational materials in offices and public places, direct mail, phone calls, text message campaigns, and specialized instructions during poll worker training sessions.

The efforts of the WVSOS, county clerks, county commissions, candidates, political parties, and the media, as

Morrissey announces $2.4 million statewide health care investment

Governor Patrick Morrissey today announced a $2.4 million investment to expand access to worksite-based health care services across West Virginia. Through the state’s Rural Health Transformation Program (RHTP), the funding will expand employer-based health services and strengthen workforce participation as part of the Health to Prosperity (HTP) initiative. With this announcement, total funding opportunities and implementation initiatives under RHTP now exceed $88.5 million.

“A stronger workforce starts with a healthier workforce,” said Governor Morrissey. “Too many West Virginians leave the workforce or struggle to stay employed because manageable health conditions go untreated. By bringing preventive care and occupational health services closer to where people work, we’re helping people stay healthier, remain on the job, and strengthening our workforce at the same time.”

The funding will support organizations with experience operating employer-based or occupational health models to design, launch, and scale worksite clinics across the state. These clinics will deliver services that prioritize prevention, early intervention, and care coordination for common chronic conditions that frequently interfere with employment, including, but not limited to, diabetes, cardiovascular disease, musculoskeletal conditions, and substance use disorder.

Grantees will be required to stand up new or expanded clinic services on an accelerated timeline, with initial operations expected within 90 days of award. Programs should focus on stabilizing employee health, improving functional ability to perform job duties, and reducing avoidable work disruptions caused by unmanaged health conditions.

Worksite clinics supported through this initiative are intended to provide a mix of services, including:

- Preventive screenings and health risk assessments
- Occupational health services and work readiness support
- Care coordination and referrals to primary care, behavioral health, and recovery services
- Targeted support for managing chronic conditions that impact workforce participation

“For many West Virginians, health challenges can disrupt their ability to stay employed,” said Secretary of Health Dr. Arvin Singh. “This effort connects healthcare and employment in a practical way, ensuring individuals have access to the services they need to remain healthy, productive, and on the job.”

The program emphasizes scalable, sustainable models that can expand across employers and communities over time, with a long-term focus on strengthening employer-supported health infrastructure, particularly in rural and high-need areas.

Eligible applicants may access the active solicitation through the state’s procurement and grants management system at wvOASIS.gov. Interested organizations are encouraged to review the full material packet for detailed eligibility requirements, submission instructions, and key deadlines. Additional information will be shared through an upcoming AFA release webinar.

This service organization was formed in October of 2016 to help the victims of the flooding of that year. The first seven members recognized the needs of the local people affected by the flood and set out to help them in their recovery. The club has since grown to 72 members and sponsors a variety of activities to help their neighbors. For the past ten years they have been delivering Toys for Tots across Greenbrier County at Christmas time. They collect the toys and deliver them to 32 children who would otherwise not have any Christmas gifts. The club provides supplemental food boxes and clothing for those in need. Their scholarship program provides 4 scholarships to young adults from East Greenbrier, West Greenbrier and James Monroe High Schools. They sent a tractor trailer full of bottled water to hurricane victims in Elizabethton, Tennessee.

Election Certification

well as the more than 8,500 poll workers who staffed the State’s 1,684 precincts, were largely successful. The WVSOS received only a small number of inquiries on Election Day regarding the closed primary.

However, after reviewing post-election field reports and preliminary voter participation data from some counties, there appear to be precincts where unaffiliated voters were permitted to participate in the closed Republican Party primary.

In two counties, Harrison and Fayette, election contests have been filed by unsuccessful candidates alleging unpermitted participation by unaffiliated voters. The WVSOS has obtained and analyzed preliminary participation data in these counties, as well as several others, to determine the breadth of the anomalies.

By law, completed voter history from the 2026 Primary Election must be submitted by the counties to the Secretary of State no later than July 31, 2026. Therefore, the data currently available to the WVSOS remains incomplete.

All candidates have the legal right to demand a recount or file an election contest within the appropriate timeframe and in accordance with the available grounds set forth by law.

Recounts must be demanded within 48 hours of the close of canvass. Candidates wishing to contest an election have 10 days from the date of certification to file the contest and provide notice to the affected candidate or candidates. In primary elections, contests are heard by the county commission of the county where the allegations arose.

Candidates and chairs of political parties interested in examining any sealed election materials from the canvass have 7 days from the completion of each county’s canvass to request an examination in accordance with WV Code 3-4A-28.

Once voter history is complete, the WVSOS will conduct a voter history review for each county and possibly other fields, such as political districts, and report on its findings in the 2026 Primary Election Report.

While the law provides no statutory remedies for candidates to address anomalies such as un-permitted unaffiliated participation beyond the election contest process, this information is important to make public for transparency and consideration in future policy and administrative discussions.

Secretary Warner thanks the State’s 55 county clerks, county commissions, more than 8,500 poll workers, 2,717 candidates, and 252,008 voters who participated in and made possible the 2026 Primary Election. With thousands of individuals involved in the election administration process, no election has ever been “perfect.” Nevertheless, we must all strive for perfection because even a single illegal vote could affect an outcome.

“In a time when more people than ever are paying close attention to election integrity, it’s critical that election officials are as transparent as possible,” said Secretary Warner. “As WV Secretary of State, I intend to do just that with the 2026 Primary Election Report, which is slated for release after all voter participation data is finalized, submitted by the July 31 deadline, and analyzed by my team.”

“For we are God’s handiwork, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do.”
Ephesians 2:10 NIV

We Are God’s Co-Workers

How wonderful it is to think that we are working with God to make this a better world and to show others the love of God through our work. It is also encouraging to know that God is always with us. Family, friends and your colleagues at work may abandon you, but God never will. Creation was not a “once and done” endeavor. It is ongoing, and we play a dual role. While God is in the process of creating us and we will ultimately be what He (with our cooperation) destines us to be, we are also active players (for good or ill) in the making of this world. There are some who manage to always make their corner of the world better, including themselves, and others who seem to always leave things a bit worse. Be on the side of God and the angels and help to improve the world, including yourself. Remember that you are working with and for the Almighty, so do good work!

Ashleigh Darnell earns degree from Belmont University in 2026 Commencement

Belmont University held its spring 2026 commencement ceremonies for graduate and undergraduate students on Friday, May 8 and Saturday, May 9 in the Curb Event Center. As part of Belmont’s Class of 2026, Ashleigh Darnell, Lewisburg, earned a Bachelor of Science in Corporate Communication.

Across four ceremonies, the University collectively recognized more than 1,500 candidates among bachelor’s, master’s and doctoral candidates in its 2026 commencement proceedings. Belmont President Dr. Greg Jones presided over the events and delivered the commencement address at all ceremonies, calling graduates to embrace resilience as a defining posture and to shape their lives with excellence, creativity and hope. “I hope you’ll go forth from this place and make your life a work of art,” Jones said. “As you cultivate that sense of art and nurture that sense of resilience, you will be an agent of hope - a sign of God’s grace and goodness. Your life will be blessed, and you will bless the people around you.”

The three individuals also accepted honorary Doctor of the University degrees in recognition of their achievements across music, film, architecture, philanthropy and service: Brad Paisley, Kimberly-Williams

Paisley and Richard “Dick” Miller. Recordings of all ceremonies are available on the University’s YouTube channel. America 250: A celebration of Revolutionary era Greenbrier Valley to feature ceremonial reenactment of first reading of the Declaration of Independence in our area

By Lisa Coburn, Community Outreach Liaison, Greenbrier Historical Society

As part of America 250: A Celebration of Revolutionary Era Greenbrier Valley, the Greenbrier Historical Society invites the public to journey back to a pivotal moment in our nation’s history during a ceremonial reenactment of the first public reading of the Declaration of Independence in our area. The reading will take place in front of the Greenbrier County Courthouse in Lewisburg on Saturday, July 25, 2026.

Beginning at noon, this free public event will recreate the historic readings that took place at county courthouses throughout Virginia following the adoption of the Declaration of Independence. Through music, ceremony, and historical interpretation, attendees will experience a tradition that helped carry the news of American independence to communities across the Commonwealth 250 years ago.

Historical records show that after the Declaration was adopted, Virginia officials ordered sheriffs throughout the state to proclaim it publicly at their county courthouses and other gathering spots so citizens could hear its words firsthand. The Greenbrier Historical Society’s program commemorates that historic moment through a ceremonial reenactment inspired by those original public readings.

“This event gives us the chance to stand where generations before us stood and imagine what it must have been like to hear the news of independence for the very first time,” said Al Emch, President of the Greenbrier Historical Society Board of Directors. “As we celebrate America’s 250th birthday, we are proud to share this experience with our community and highlight the Greenbrier Valley’s place in our nation’s story.”

The celebration will begin with arrival music by the Augusta Militia Field Music Fife and Drum Corps, followed by welcoming remarks from the Mayor of Lewisburg and the Greenbrier Historical Society. The Daniel Boone Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution (SAR) will present and post the colors, accompanied by a performance of the National Anthem by the Lewisburg quartet, The Banner Boys.

The centerpiece of the program will be a public reading of the Declaration of Independence, followed by a musket salute presented by the Daniel Boone Chapter SAR Honor Guard. The ceremony will conclude with the retiring of the colors, additional music by the Augusta Militia Field Music Fife and Drum Corps, and a performance of “My Country, ‘Tis of Thee” by the Greenbrier East/West Choir.

Following the ceremony, attendees are invited to continue the celebration by viewing the WV America 250 Mural Trail mural in the Greenbrier County Courthouse and visiting the North House Museum for the opening of The Greenbrier Valley and the Revolutionary Era exhibit. This new exhibit explores the Greenbrier Valley’s connections to the Revolutionary period and the local people whose lives were touched by the events that helped forge a new nation.

Refreshments at the exhibit opening will be provided courtesy of the Andrew Lewis Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

All events are free and open to the public.

America 250: A Celebration of Revolutionary Era Greenbrier Valley is presented by the Greenbrier Historical Society with support from the WV America 250 Commission, Greenbrier County, Historic Lewisburg, West Virginia, and the WV Department of Tourism, with additional support from the Daywood and Hamilton Family Foundations.
