On March 20, at 3:30 p.m., on the town square in front of the downtown post office, Christiansburg Institute and the Montgomery Museum of Art & History will unveil three African American storyboards as the concluding highlight of a project that began in 2018. The unveiling will be preceded by a brief program at 3:00.

Montgomery County African American storyboards to be unveiled in downtown Christiansburg

On March 20, 2022, Christiansburg Institute and the Montgomery Museum of Art & History will unveil three history and educational wayside signs for the 'Truth & Reconciliation Coalition: African American Memory & Storyboard Project' on the town square quadrant in front of the post office at 2 E. Main St. in downtown Christiansburg.

The event will be from 3:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. with the unveiling at 3:30 p.m. to be preceded by a brief program.

A formal orientation with introductions from event hosts will begin the ceremony, followed by a citizen's address from Dr. N.L. Bishop at 3:35 p.m. Jordin Harris, a senior at Christiansburg High School and a student intern at Christiansburg Institute, will speak at 3:15 p.m.

During introductions, Christiansburg Mayor Mike Barber will address the public and share a few words about this historic milestone achievement for all of the Montgomery County community.

Beginning in 2018, Christiansburg Institute and the Montgomery Museum of Art & History staff, board members, and local community members began to organize and take action to preserve and increase awareness about the county's deeply rich African American history and culture.

The group set out to do this work by determining a set of shared values that would guide the project: truth-telling, honesty, and reconciliation, specifically around challenging and contested histories where generational harm and racial trauma are ongoing and narratives are competing. The outcome of this work was the construction and erection of three new history and educational storyboards in downtown Christiansburg in the town-owned quadrant in front of the post office.

The Town of Christiansburg granted approval for the project in July 2021 to cultivate this public space with the addition of the storyboards to illustrate African American history in Montgomery County. The signs are themed "Community Life," "Education," and "Slavery in Montgomery County."

Chief Wilson to retire

Blacksburg – After 25 years with the Blacksburg Police Department, Chief Anthony Wilson will retire this summer. A Blacksburg native, a former marine, and a Virginia Tech graduate, Wilson began his career as a Blacksburg Police Officer in 1997. He advanced through the ranks of the department until becoming Chief of Police in 2014.

Throughout his tenure with the department he served as a patrol field training officer, a criminal investigator, an investigative unit supervisor, a tactical team operator/commander, a patrol unit commander, and a division commander. These assignments were during some of the town's most difficult situations and provided a resume filled with command opportunities.

As a new chief, Wilson inherited a well-constructed operation from his predecessors Chief Kim Crannis and Chief Bill Brown. With an emphasis on community engagement and interaction, the department launched the safety programs No Hokie Left Behind, Be Safe Blacksburg, and Adopt a Cop. Each program introduced officers to their constituents and allowed them to work collaboratively to solve identified safety issues.

Highlights of those programs were the implementation of cell phone charging stations in downtown bars and restaurants, Free Ride Fridays giving free transport from downtown to anywhere in town, Fifth Grade Field Day introducing all fifth-grade classes to one another as they readied for middle school transition, Adopt-a-Cop Academy pairing Virginia Tech fraternities with officers as mentors, and presenting a week-long class with Virginia Tech Student Affairs on maintaining safe social environments.

Chief Wilson placed great priority on relationships with the Virginia Tech administration, athletics, and student body. Student Affairs initiatives grew into daily interactions with the Dean of Students, Student Conduct, and Fraternity/Sorority Life. One of the most critical alliances was formed with University Relations, coordinating crisis messaging that became critical during serious events.

NRV train station's location narrowed to two sites

Representatives from the Virginia Passenger Rail Authority (VPR) told New River Valley residents and business leaders Monday night that a future station would be located at one of two sites behind Uptown Mall, formerly known as NRV Mall.

The sites were chosen from five finalists because of the "easy lay of the land" and their proximity to the current Virginia rail line.

During a virtual meeting, VPR representatives said the process has been a long one and will continue to be as the earliest a station could open is the fall of 2026. Each of the final two sites would require a realignment of the Huckleberry Trail to allow tracks to be expanded.

In 2019, the state of Virginia signed a rail initiative with CSX, Amtrak, and CRE railroads to separate freight and passenger service. This past year, the state purchased 28 miles of the Salem to Christiansburg Virginia Line from Nor-

Dane Sheely named Virginia Tech Police 2021 Officer of the Year

By Grace Hobson

Cpl. Dane Sheely was recognized as the 2021 Virginia Tech Police Department Officer of the Year during a January ceremony.

"[Sheely's] an incredibly positive individual; he's got an infectious smile, and he really embodies what we try to encourage our officers to be with respect to making connections with the community," said Virginia Tech Police Chief Mac Babb.

Sheely has worked for the Virginia Tech Police Department for more than four years. He is a member of the patrol division, serves as a field training officer, and has peripheral responsibilities on the emergency response team.

"He is very much into talking with people about what interests them, and I think that helps him go a long way as far as making deeper connections with people, and people really respond to his pos-

Virginia Tech celebrates 100 years of women with a month of programming in March

By Melody Warnick

The month of March brings two reasons to celebrate women: International Women's Month and the anniversary of 100 years of women at Virginia Tech.

In 1921, the first small group of white women was admitted as full-time students to Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College and Polytechnic Institute (VPI), completing its first year on campus the following spring. Mary Ella Carr Brumfield, Ruth Terrett, Lucy Lee Lancaster, Louise Jacobs, and Carrie Taylor Sibold graduated in 1925.

Not until 1958 would enrollment of women at VPI reach 200 (4.1 percent of the student body), and not until 1966 did the first Black women students join the student population.

In honor of Women's Month and to commemorate Virginia Tech's historic milestone for women, the university will hold a series of events throughout March, including exhibits, panel discussions, luncheons, tours, webinars, networking events, and a film screening. A highlight will be a conversation with 94-year-old Opal Lee, a 2022 Nobel Peace Prize nominee for her work to make Juneteenth a national holiday, held on March 27 in Burruss Auditorium.

A partial schedule of events is as follows:

MARCH 8

The Twenties: Virginia Women after the Great War (Exhibition)

10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays, Alexander Black House and Cultural Center Gallery. This exhibition of historic fashion will be on display through April 23 for visitors to enjoy. It is sponsored by the Department of Apparel, Housing, and Resource Management.

Hokies for Good: Modernizing Miss America

11 a.m., via Zoom

In honor of International Women's Day, Miss America 1979 Kylene Barker McNeill and Miss America 2020 Camille Schrier will take part in a virtual conversation. The talk will focus on their impact on modernizing the Miss America pageant. Hokies for Good is a series celebrating the exceptional members of the Hokie Nation who have dedicated their careers to humanity's most pressing issues. Co-sponsored by Virginia Tech Advancement/Chapter Programs.

International Women's Day at the Y 5 p.m., The YMCA at Virginia Tech, Lancaster House, 403 Washington St.

As the world celebrates International Women's Day on March 8 to acknowledge women's achievements, raise awareness against bias, and take action toward equity, the YMCA at Virginia Tech will participate in the global event for a second year. The celebration will take place on March 8 starting with a visit at 5 p.m. to the residence of the late Lucy Lee Lancaster, one of the first five women graduates of Virginia Tech — then Virginia Agricultural College and Polytechnic Institute — in 1925.

During the visit participants will learn about how Lucy Lee befriended the Y and became a steadfast supporter of its efforts to develop cause-driven college students who were positioned to create positive change in the world. To help ensure the Y's ability to continue this impact, Lucy Lee bequeathed her residence, the Lancaster House, to the organization.

After the short presentation, a ceremony at 6 p.m. at the YMCA at Virginia Tech will present a special recognition of international women and will acknowledge women members of the community who come from different parts of the world and take an active part locally to make this area better for everyone.

Virginia Tech Softball International Women's Day Game

4 p.m., VT Softball Park

The VT softball team will take on Norfolk State in a doubleheader at 4 and 6 pm to recognize International Women's Day and celebrate the 2022 Women's Month theme of 100 Years of Women at Virginia Tech. The day will feature a Pink Shaker

Lil Buck and crew evoke the powerful energy of the streets with 'Memphis Jookin'

On the heels of its recent premiere in Memphis, Tenn., renowned dancer Lil Buck brings his newest creation to the Moss Arts Center stage on Thursday, March 17, at 7:30 p.m. Buck is joined by 11 dancers for "Memphis Jookin': The Show," taking the audience on a journey to the fabled city where Memphis Jookin' was born to document how the art form emerged from local street dance to international phenomenon.

The performance will be held in the center's Anne and Ellen Fife Theatre, located within the Street and Davis Performance Hall at 190 Alumni Mall.

Charles "Lil Buck" Riley is a movement artist known for bringing a freestyle-based street dance involving intricate footwork, called Memphis Jookin', to mainstream audiences. Raised in Memphis, Buck was introduced to the urban street dance style around the age of 13. He quickly made a niche for himself by adding his own style and imagination to create signature moves, which include gliding across space as if gravity doesn't exist.

"Jookin' was this diamond in the rough. It was raw, real, and gangster," Buck says. "I'd only ever seen people like Michael Jackson dancing on VHS tapes, living a superstar life that wasn't attainable. So when I saw Jookin' being done in my own backyard and being danced by people who looked like me, that blew my mind. I knew immediately: I want that so bad."

Buck catapulted into mainstream pop culture after director Spike Jonze uploaded a video of the dancer's improvisation with cellist Yo-Yo Ma as he performed Camille Saint-Saëns' "The Swan." The video quickly went viral, getting over 3 million views and making Buck a YouTube sensation.

Since then, Buck has worked with Cirque du Soleil for its production of "Michael Jackson: One," New York City Ballet and choreographer Benjamin Millepied, singer and actress Janelle Monáe, and Madonna for her 2012 Super Bowl halftime show and two world tours.

Buck collaborated with dancer Jon Boogz and artist Alexa Meade to create "Color of Reality," a short film addressing gun violence, and starred in the nature-inspired short film "Honor Thy Mother," which addresses the need for humans to take better care of our planet. Buck is co-founder of Movement Art Is (MAI), an organization focused on using movement artistry to inspire change in the world.

Members of multiple Virginia Tech student dance crews will observe a private rehearsal of "Memphis Jookin'" and engage in a discussion with the performers. Area students in grades 7-12 will experience a special school-day performance of "Memphis Jookin': The Show," supplemented by a study guide with educational information, guiding questions, and resources for teachers' instruction.

Tickets for the performances are $35 for general admission and $10 for Virginia Tech students and youth 18 and under. Tickets can be purchased online; at the Moss Arts Center's box office, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday; or by calling 540-231-5300 during box office hours.

The Moss Arts Center adheres to the guidelines of the Virginia Department of Health and Virginia Tech in its operations, including protocols for face coverings and cleaning and sanitation.

Paid parking is available in the North End Parking Garage on Turner Street. Virginia Tech faculty and staff possessing a valid Virginia Tech parking permit can enter and exit the garage free of charge. Virginia Tech has also partnered with ParkMobile to provide a convenient, contactless electronic payment option for parking, which may be used at any parking meter, campus parking space, or lot with standard F/S, C/G, or R parking.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC OF A PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE STATE CORPORATION COMMISSION'S REGULATIONS GOVERNING NET ENERGY METERING
Case No. PUR-2021-00251

The Regulations Governing Net Energy Metering, 20 VAC 5-315-10 et seq. ("Net Energy Metering Rules"), adopted by the State Corporation Commission ("Commission") pursuant to § 56-594 of the Code of Virginia ("Code"), establish the requirements for participation by an eligible customer-generator in net energy metering in the Commonwealth. The Net Energy Metering Rules include conditions for interconnection and metering, billing, and contract requirements between net metering customers, electric distribution companies, and energy service providers.

Chapter 266 of the 2021 Acts of Assembly, Special Session I ("Chapter 266"), amended the definition of "[s]mall agricultural generator" in Code § 56-594.2 as follows (with changes noted in italics):

"Small agricultural generator" means a customer that:

- Operates a small agricultural generating facility as part of (i) an agricultural business or (ii) any business granted a manufacturer license pursuant to subdivisions 1 through 6 of § 4.1-206.1;

The added language generally refers to types of manufacturing licensees issued to businesses by the Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Authority pursuant to Code § 4.1-206.1, including distilleries, limited distilleries, breweries, limited breweries, wineries, and farm wineries. The current Net Energy Metering Rules must be revised to reflect this change.

On November 12, 2021, the Commission docketed Case Number PUR-2021-00251 and issued an Order Establishing Proceeding seeking to amend the Net Energy Metering Rules in keeping with the expanded definition of "[s]mall agricultural generator" in Chapter 266. The Commission Staff prepared a proposed amendment to Rule 20 VAC 5-315-20 of the Net Energy Metering Rules ("Proposed Amendment"). The Proposed Amendment is appended to the Order Nunc Pro Tunc issued in that docket on November 16, 2021. The Commission subsequently entered an Order Modifying Notice Requirements and Procedural Schedule.

TAKE NOTICE THAT on or before May 27, 2022, any interested person may comment on, propose modifications or supplements to, or request a hearing on the Proposed Amendment following the instructions on the Commission's website: scc.virginia.gov/casecomments/Submit-Public-Comments. Individuals should be specific in their comments, proposals, or supplements to the Proposed Amendment and should address only those issues pertaining to the amendment of Code § 56-594.2 pursuant to Chapter 266. Issues outside the scope of this amendment will not be considered. Any request for hearing shall state with specificity why the issues raised in the request for hearing cannot be adequately addressed in written comments. If a sufficient request for hearing is not received, the Commission may consider the matter and enter an order based upon the comments, documents or other pleadings filed in this proceeding.

The Commission takes judicial notice of the ongoing public health issues related to the spread of the coronavirus, or COVID-19. The Commission has taken certain actions, and may take additional actions going forward, that could impact the procedures in this proceeding. In accordance therewith, all comments and other documents and pleadings filed in this matter shall be submitted electronically to the extent authorized by Rule 5 VAC 5-20-150, Copies and format, of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure ("Rules of Practice"), as modified and described in the Order Establishing Proceeding. Services for Students with Disabilities removes barriers within the Virginia Tech community

The access specialists team members of Services for Students with Disabilities (SSD) ensure that the disability community at Virginia Tech is provided with the necessary accommodations to advance in their academic journey.

"SSD is critical to the success of many students. The role that we play has a lot to do with finding systemic barriers that students encounter in the classroom and finding accommodations that will remove those barriers for them, so that the classes remain just as challenging and not a challenge that wouldn't exist if they didn't have a disability," said Associate Director Christa Miller, who joined the SSD team this year.

SSD is vital for students who need classroom and academic accommodations. As part of Virginia Tech Student Affairs, SSD serves undergraduate and graduate students at all Virginia Tech campuses, as well as distance and online learners, international students, veterans, and students who attend the veterinary medicine and medi-

As a member of the Law Enforcement Issue Group, disparity in the numbers of local African-American police officers was brought to the forefront.

Chief Wilson worked with New River Community College to create the Books to Badges program offering two-year scholarships to those interested in law enforcement careers. The success of the program grew into the much larger ACCE program (Access Community College Education), which allowed all students the opportunity to attend community college for two years. He also served as the Volunteer Service Coordinator for the program from its inception to the present.

Chief Wilson was a huge proponent of officer training and created the Training Triangle that became the cornerstone of department training throughout his tenure. The triangle included increased training in tactical ability, advanced communications and de-escalation skills training, and the spiritual connection to service and psychological wellness.

He was instrumental in creating multiple alliances with several agencies and disciplines. Those relationships created the basis for the local response to the COVID-19 Pandemic in 2020. It was quickly expanded regionally to include the entire New River Health District.

The New River Valley Public Health Task Force became the driving force in the region's pandemic response and provided logistical support for public testing and vaccination. The task force also dealt with collateral issues involving food instability, increased domestic violence and sheltering needs, communication isolation, and mental health concerns. Chief Wilson co-chaired this task force from the beginning and remains in that capacity.

"I've been absolutely blessed to be surrounded by the greatest people on earth here at the Blacksburg Police Department," the chief said. "They all serve with such incredible honor, sacrifice, and professionalism. They have become my family and together we have weathered some of the toughest times imaginable. I truly look forward to the future and new endeavors but will always have the men and women of the BPD in my heart and mind."

"It has been an honor to work alongside Chief Wilson," said Blacksburg Town Manager Marc Verniel. "He has been much more than a police chief for Blacksburg. He is a true community leader. He has created lasting partnerships in the Blacksburg and Virginia Tech communities, built upon the positive culture of the department, and been a key leader in the New River Valley. His impact will live on well beyond his tenure as chief. I will personally miss working with him on a daily basis and wish him the best in his future adventures."

A recruitment process for the next chief of police position is underway.

folk Southern to expand passenger service to the New River Valley.

Rail officials say an estimated 80,000 new riders per year would be able to use the service once it was expanded from the New River Valley to Northern Virginia.

Initially, the Virginia Passenger Rail Authority examined five sites: in Ellett, Merrimac, near the Christiansburg Aquatic Center, and the final two at Uptown Mall.

Certain parameters of need were used to eliminate all but the mall sites.

Location one is closer to the shopping mall near the current Regal Theater building and includes a pedestrian bridge that would allow people to move freely from both sides of the tracks.

Site #2 is closer to the Corning Plant, and access to the station would be via an expanded New River Road, south near a strip mall. It also would include a pedestrian bridge and would require the adjustment to the Huckleberry Trail. A new connector track would be added to join the Blacksburg Branch of the rail line, which would include sharing with Norfolk Southern freight traffic.

The next step for the rail authority is to meet with affected property owners and complete a secondary study on the impact of the station itself on the two locations.

Preliminary estimates show track improvements and construction of the station could tip the $50 million mark. State money has already been set aside for the expansion and land acquisition.

This past January, Governor Ralph Northam announced the commonwealth had finalized the definitive agreement with Norfolk Southern Corporation to expand passenger rail service to the New River Valley for the first time since 1979.

The Western Rail Initiative expands passenger rail service to the New River Valley and complements Governor Northam's historic $3.7 billion Transforming Rail in Virginia program, the commonwealth's road map for building a 21st-century rail network.

"Transforming Rail in Virginia is an investment not only in our rail system, but also in the residents and businesses along the corridor and in the New River Valley," said the governor. "Together with our partners at Norfolk Southern, we are making essential improvements that modernize our transportation infrastructure and connect communities across the commonwealth," the governor said. "We look forward to continuing this important work to help move people and goods efficiently, reduce congestion and pollution, fuel tourism, and drive economic growth."

The Western Rail Initiative will add a second state-supported round-trip train between Roanoke and Boston later this year, which will be extended to the New River Valley upon completion of a new station, track, and signal improvements. The agreement also allows for a third train to operate in the future between Roanoke and the New River Valley. The expanded intercity rail service, which will create significant economic benefits and provide additional multimodal options for travelers along the Interstate 81 and Route 29 corridor, is expected to add approximately 80,000 new passengers in the first year after service is extended to the New River Valley. Further, the agreement preserves the existing freight rail service provided on the lines, helping to move the goods and materials for the commonwealth's economy.

In an agreement with Norfolk Southern, the commonwealth is acquiring approximately 28 miles of the Norfolk Southern-owned "V line" right-of-way and existing tracks from Christiansburg to the Salem Crossovers and a passenger rail easement between the Salem Crossovers and the Amtrak Roanoke station platform. Norfolk Southern will continue to provide freight service on the line.

In addition, the commonwealth will invest in infrastructure improvements between Manassas and the Roanoke Yard to improve the reliability of passenger rail service over Norfolk Southern Railway-owned right-of-way.

On May 5, 2021, Governor Northam announced in Christiansburg that the commonwealth reached an initial agreement with Norfolk Southern to expand passenger rail service from Northern Virginia to Southwest Virginia.

"This agreement with the Commonwealth of Virginia is a great example of government and business partnership," said James A. Squires, Chairman and CEO of Norfolk Southern. "Together, we have created a path forward to increase passenger rail service and ensure that freight rail customers continue to move the goods that power our economy. Importantly, this will yield economic dividends from Northern to Southwest Virginia, both through the necessary infrastructure improvements and additional use of the rail lines."

"The commonwealth's historic investment in this region's passenger rail network is a significant milestone in our commitment to elevating the economic competitiveness of Southwest Virginia," said Virginia Secretary of Transportation Shannon Valentine, who led the legislative effort to launch the first state-supported passenger train anchored in Lynchburg.

Amtrak regional daily service in Southwest Virginia began in October 2009 with one round trip between Lynchburg and Washington, D.C. During the first year of operations, ridership outperformed forecasts by more than triple. In November 2017, the commonwealth expanded service to Roanoke, and, prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, the route was one of the most profitable intercity passenger rail routes in the country.

Like the current state-supported Roanoke train, the second train, for which service is expected to commence in 2022, will serve Alexandria, Burke Centre, Manassas, Culpeper, Charlottesville, Lynchburg, and Roanoke and will travel to and from Washington, D.C., and Amtrak's Northeast Corridor. Finally, the agreement acknowledges the potential for a future station in Bedford.

The commonwealth's Transforming Rail in Virginia initiative is expected to grow Virginia's economy by more than $2 billion annually.

The chief went on to recount a time that Sheely was out celebrating with family at a local restaurant. Sheely invited a student sitting alone to join him and his family for their gathering that evening. Sheely received a certificate and a spot on a commemorative plaque for his Virginia Tech Police Officer of the Year recognition.

"That's just the kind of person he is — he's well-rounded, very confident, very outgoing, and he makes a solid connection every day with people in our university community, and beyond," said Babb.

When asked what his favorite part of the job is, Sheely took no time to respond.

"The people," he said. "I'm a people person, and I like to make people smile or tell a joke while I'm out, especially with rescue calls and when people are feeling a little under the weather. It's nice to see somebody smile."

The process for selecting the Officer of the Year began with nominations in December. The written nomination asks for a detailed description as to why whoever is being nominated is deserving of the award. The nominations are overseen by the senior command staff and

"I could think of everybody else in the department that may deserve [the award] more than I do," he said. "The people I work with are great, and I try to inspire people every day; if you're not going to do your best, you shouldn't do it at all. It feels very good to be valued in your place of work, and the police department here at Tech is probably the first job when I've ever felt valued and appreciated."

tail mall to cut a ribbon to make it official. All signage has been switched to Uptown.

The mall was opened in 1988 but has seen many of its anchor stores close. Built by Crown American, it once included Hess, J.C. Penney, Sears, and Belk. During the late 80s and into the 90s, the Peppers Ferry Road site struggled with empty storefronts including the closing of one of its anchor stores, Sears.

Pennsylvania Real Estate Investment Trust bought the location and expanded several parts of the property. A vacant movie theater area was turned into a food court and a Christiansburg location for New River Community College.

More closures followed in 2014, and Faralon Capital Management acquired the mall. J.C. Penney closed in 2017 but three smaller stores — Homegoods, Planet Fitness, and Kirkland's — filled some of the space.

The mall's official name is now Uptown Christiansburg Shopping Center.

WHAT WE NEED

Read Judges 17:1 through 21:25

Cities are racked by chaos. Innocents are cruelly victimized. People of all stripes—leaders and followers alike—lie and steal, thinking nothing of it. Rage, destruction, and brutality are the stuff of daily headlines. When did things get so bad?

This world is no stranger to dark times, including the period of the Israelite judges. Today's reading is full of horrific violence and inhumanity. After the miracles that brought the Israelites into the Promised Land, how did everything fall apart? Was it because they had no ruler to keep them in line? After all, it was repeatedly emphasized that "Israel had no king." But there's more to it than that.

In those days Israel had no king; everyone did as he saw fit (Judges 21:25).

Our world is what it is because fit. God's every action demonstrates that He desires peace, compassion, and community—things sorely missing from this world. Until we have the mind of Christ, politics will never offer hope. Our world doesn't need a king. It needs God.

Prayer Suggestion: Father, remake my will from the inside out, so that I will desire what You desire.

Ag safety week encourages farmers to prepare, prevent and protect

The commonwealth's farmers are reminded to keep safety at the top of their minds during this year's Agricultural Safety Awareness Program Week, March 7-11.

Farming and agriculture jobs remain among the most hazardous, and that's why the American Farm Bureau Federation organizes a week-long commemoration each year to promote safety and health in agricultural and rural communities.

This year's theme is "Prepare. Prevent. Protect." Throughout the week farming organizations will highlight safety related to livestock, finances, disaster preparedness, youth, and equipment.

Youth all-terrain and utility task vehicle safety also will be addressed during the week. According to the National Children's Center for Rural and Agricultural Health and Safety, more than 100,000 emergency room visits take place annually due to ATV- and UTV-related injuries, and about 650 people die in ATV and UTV incidents each year. Between 25% and 50% of the injuries and fatalities involve children.

Christiansburg Domino's to celebrate International Women's Day by donating 100% of sales to charities Domino's Christiansburg store, located at 1655 Roanoke St., will celebrate International Women's Day on Tuesday, March 8, by donating 100% of its sales to two local nonprofits: the Women's Resource Center of the New River Valley and Lishy's Gift in Roanoke. The store will also be 100% staffed by female team members March 8.

"We wanted to do something meaningful in honor of International Women's Day as it's a day that is very near and dear to our hearts," said Kevin Shaw, franchise owner of the local Domino's store. "We hope that the community comes out and supports these fantastic charities by ordering Domino's on March 8."

Women's Resource Center of the New River Valley provides programs and services to victims of sexual and domestic violence. The female-run center has been helping those in need since 1977. Lishy's Gift is also a female-led nonprofit that aims to increase the quality of life for young adult cancer patients in the Roanoke area.

On March 8, Domino's will also host Ally Shaw, co-franchise owner of Domino's in Christiansburg and author of "Chasing Tigers in the Dark: Life Lessons of a Fierce Survivor." Ally Shaw's book is a revealing memoir about overcoming cancer, abuse, hardship, and trauma. A portion of the sale of each book will go to the two charities, Women's Resource Center of the New River Valley and Lishy's Gift.

Hokie football assistants prepare for new chapter in coaching careers

Marty Gordon

NRVsports@ourvalley.org

Pierson (PJ) Prioleau has fond memories of playing at Lane Stadium. Those memories are what convinced him to move his family to nearby Radford and set up shop.

"I have always called this home and when I left the NFL, Radford felt just right."

A fourth-round selection of the San Francisco 49ers in the 1999 NFL Draft, the defensive back played in 160 career regular season games (50 starts) with San Francisco (1999-00), Buffalo (2001-04), Washington (2005-07), Jacksonville (2008), and New Orleans (2009-10), accumulating 446 total tackles (348 solo), one interception, one safety, and four fumble recoveries.

He spent three years on the sidelines at Radford High School as the oldest son. When Justin Fuente took the head coaching job at Virginia Tech, Prioleau was happy to take a call that would bring him back to his alma mater in 2019 as director of player development. When Fuente left last December, he wondered if he had a job.

Then new coach Brent Pry took the reins and promoted Prioleau to safeties coach.

"You could call it a perfect storm for me and my family," Prioleau said. "This is home."

Prioleau was one of several assistant coaches who sat down Tuesday night with members of the media. He told writers that the staff was jelling in all the right ways. While many media members knew Prioleau, other coaches had to introduce themselves.

"There are a lot of hungry young coaches now on this staff," Prioleau said.

The new faces on the staff spoke about the relationship each had with Pry and what brought them to Blacksburg.

A 12-year coaching veteran, Tyler Bowen most recently served as the tight ends coach for the Jacksonville Jaguars during the 2021 season and came to Blacksburg to serve as offensive coordinator.

Bowen previously worked with Pry at Penn State, serving as Penn State's co-offensive coordinator/offensive recruiting coordinator/tight ends coach during the 2020 season. He coached tight ends and handled the offensive recruiting coordinator duties for the Nittany Lions in 2018-19.

Prior to his tenure at Penn State, Bowen served as the offensive line coach at his alma mater of Maryland during the 2017 season. The Helena, Ga., native also spent two years at Fordham, serving as offensive coordinator/offensive line coach in 2016 after joining the Rams as offensive line coach in 2015.

"I am a small-town kid from Georgia that grew up farming," Bowen said. Thus he is finding his new home to his liking.

Media members were especially interested in what his Virginia Tech offense will look like.

Bowen joked that he wants to score as many points as possible. "You can't have one system to fit everyone. Instead, you have to have one that fits the personnel," he said.

Chris Marve comes to Virginia Tech after serving as defensive run game coordinator/linebackers coach at Florida State for the past two seasons. Marve helped the Seminoles make dramatic strides in their run defense in 2021. Florida State allowed 147.6 rushing yards per game this past season, an improvement of 51.6 yards per game over 2020.

Marve comes to Blacksburg as Pry's offensive coordinator.

He admitted to being a "relationship" oriented person. "That is important to me," Marve told the group.

He began his coaching career at his alma mater of Vanderbilt in 2014 as a defensive quality control assistant where he became familiar with Pry, who was also on that staff. He had never been to Blacksburg until he stepped off the plane on Day 1.

His past includes time as a middle school math teacher and a runner for a legal firm. Neither career was for him, so he returned to the coaching realm.

Quarterback Coach Brad Glenn comes to Blacksburg following a three-year run as offensive coordinator/quarterbacks coach at Georgia State and has previously been a Broyles Award nominee as the top assistant coach in the nation.

He owns a reputation for developing record-setting passers at virtually every stop of his collegiate coaching career, including Appalachian State quarterback Armanti Edwards, who became the first two-time winner of the Walter Payton Award, presented annually to the nation's top FCS player.

Glenn also spent seven seasons as the associate head coach, offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach at Western Carolina from 2012-18.

Joe Rudolph spent the past seven seasons serving as associate head coach/run game coordinator/offensive line coach at the University of Wisconsin and is considered a big "get" for Pry and the Hokie program. Most media outlets have labeled him as the best offensive line coach in the country.

Rudolph said the opportunity to come here was just perfect timing and so many things lined up really well.

"I had heard an incredible amount about Coach Pry from the recruiting process," Rudolph said. "Recruiting is interesting because you build relationships, and it is kind of different because in that relationship, someone says 'Yes, I want to be on your team or no, I don't want to be on your team,' but you learn a lot about people during that, including other coaches and when families that you recruit hold people in very high regard, you know they have something special about them as people and that's all I ever heard about Coach Pry."

The change in geography also gave his wife and him a chance to get closer to family. His wife is originally from West Virginia and has family in North Carolina. Joe grew up in Pennsylvania.

He also said his new coaching location had to be at a place where there were great academics. This is important when recruiting players, Rudolph said. Having a great fan base was another reason that brought him here.

"I am really pumped for the challenges that lie ahead in getting this thing right, and I am really enjoying the guys I am getting to do it with," Rudolph said. "I love the staff that Coach Pry put together. I think it speaks to his being a person about people because I think the people he hired have that same feeling."

Now the new staff will try to get acquainted with returning players and what they bring to the starting line. The first game of the 2022 season is Friday, Sept. 2 against Old Dominion.

Radford's Shaquan Jules, Jr., named to All-Big South Academic Team

NRVsports@ourvalley.org

Radford University finished in the bottom of the Big South men's basketball standings this year and had only one player voted to the all-conference lists released Wednesday. Shaquan Jules, Jr., was selected for the league's All-Academic team.

Winthrop redshirt-junior forward DJ Burns, Jr., and Longwood head coach Griff Aldrich were voted the 2021-22 Big South Conference Men's Basketball Player of the Year and Coach of the Year, respectively, by the league's head coaches and media panel, the conference office announced Tuesday morning.

The panel voted High Point guard Zack Austin and USC Upstate guard Jordan Gainey Co-Freshman of the Year and UNC Asheville junior Drew Pember as the league's Defensive Player of the Year. Presbyterian College junior forward Owen McCormack was voted Scholar-Athlete of the Year by the league's Sports Information Directors.

Burns becomes the sixth different Eagle to receive Big South Player of the Year honors and the fourth in the last six years. The Rock Hill, S.C., native led Winthrop with 15.3 points per game and shot a conference-leading 63.5 percent from the field in 2021-22. He became just the fifth Eagle to reach the 1,000-point plateau before his senior season, as he shined in Winthrop's road win over Pac-12 opponent Washington with 24 points and nine rebounds.

Against conference opponents, Burns averaged 13.8 points per game and shot 64.1 percent from the floor. He received five first-place votes and 318 total points from the panel, ahead of Asheville's Pember (311 points, seven first-place votes) and Longwood's Justin Hill (297 points, 12 first-place votes).

Aldrich earned his first Coach of the Year honor and became the first Longwood coach to claim the yearly award. The Lancers were projected to finish second in the Big South's North Division in the annual preseason poll, but Aldrich led the team to the division championship and the outright Big South regular-season title, the program's first since joining the conference prior to the start of the 2012-13 season.

Longwood closed the regular season with a 15-1 conference mark and put together the program's longest winning streak since 1993-94 with 11 straight wins from Jan. 5 through Feb. 10. Longwood led the conference in scoring offense (76.1), scoring margin (+11.0), and rebounding (37.3). Aldrich received 23 first-place votes and 75 total points in the voting, ahead of USC Upstate's Dave Dickerson (three first-place votes, 38 points).

Pember becomes the first Bulldog since the 2017-18 season to earn Defensive Player of the Year honors. The junior from Knoxville closed the regular season ranked second in the Big South in rebounding with a 6.6 clip and paced the league with three blocks per contest. His 84 blocks on the season is the most by a Big South player since the 2013-14 season and ranks fourth all-time in program history. He shined on the defensive glass, as he ranked second in the conference with 4.7 defensive boards per game.

In Defensive Player of the Year voting, Pember received six first-place votes and 33 total points, ahead of Winthrop's Chase Claxton (27 points, six first-place votes) and Longwood's De-Shaun Wade (24 points, three first-place votes).

Austin (Winston-Salem, N.C.) becomes the first Panther to earn Freshman of the Year honors since 2012-13 and the third overall. The forward ended the regular season ranked seventh in the conference in scoring (14.5 points per game) and paced the league in rebounds (7.8). Against conference opponents, Austin averaged 15.1 points per game and was the only player to average more than eight rebounds per contest with an 8.1 clip. He led all freshmen with seven 20-point efforts on the season, headlined by a season-high 26-point game against UNC Asheville on Feb. 5. Austin claimed a Big South-record eight Freshman of the Week honors this season.

Gainey (Tucson, Ariz.) became the first Spartan to earn the Freshman of the Year award. Against Big South opponents, the guard tied for seventh in scoring at 16.3 points per game and was the only player to shoot over 50 percent from 3-point range at 54.1 percent. The seventh-time Freshman of the Week honoree also ranked sixth in field-goal percentage (49.4 percent) and eighth in free-throw percentage (81.2). He closed the regular season with 21 double-figure scoring games and scored 15 or more in 14 of his 16 conference games.

Austin and Gainey received 104 points each while Austin received 13 first-place votes and Gainey collected seven. It marks the first time since the 1992-93 season the Freshman/Rookie of the Year award has been split.

McCormack is a 3.85 student studying business administration with a data analytics concentration and economics. Earlier this season, McCormack was one of two Big South representatives on the CoSIDA Academic All-District team. This season, McCormack saw action in all 31 games with a couple of starts. He scored in double figures five times that included a season-high 13 points in Presbyterian's win over The Citadel on Nov. 15.

The league's tournament officially got underway this past Wednesday with Radford at the eighth seed.

VT's Justyn Mutts, Elizabeth Kitley earn ACC awards

Hokies graduate forward Justyn Mutts has been selected as the recipient of the ACC's 2021-22 Skip Prosser Award for men's basketball, and VT junior center Elizabeth Kitley has been honored as the recipient of the conference's Kay Yow Award for women's basketball for 2021-22. Kitley's award came on the heels of her being named Tuesday as the ACC's women's Player of the Year, the first Hokie to be so honored.

The Skip Prosser Award is presented annually to the top scholar-athlete in ACC men's basketball. It is named in memory of Wake Forest head basketball coach George Edward "Skip" Prosser, who passed away on July 26, 2007.

The Kay Yow Award is presented annually to the top scholar-athlete in ACC women's basketball. It is named in memory of legendary women's basketball coach Kay Yow, who won 737 games as a head coach while directing NC State to four ACC tournament championships and coaching the 1988 U.S. Olympic Team to a gold medal. Yow passed away in January of 2009 and is also remembered for her leadership and courage in her fight against breast cancer.

Mutts transferred from the University of Delaware after a year at High Point University, a Big South school, where he was named to the conference's All-Freshman team. He led High Point in blocks with 32.

At Delaware he played in all 33 games, starting 32 and averaging 12.2 points and 8.4 rebounds with 19 double-digit scoring outings and 13 double-figure rebounding efforts.

Mutts graduated from Delaware with a psychology degree and is currently pursuing a graduate degree at Tech in leadership studies with the Agricultural and Life Sciences program.

A Senior CLASS Award finalist, Mutts is on track for a second master's degree in educational psychology, which he will earn in May. The 2021-22 team captain was a 2021 ACC All-Academic Team selection and is a regular on the Athletics Director's Honor Roll.

Mutts scored his 1,000th career point on Feb. 2 against Georgia Tech. A native of Millville, New Jersey, Mutts is averaging 10.2 points and leads the team in rebounding (7.4), assists (3.5) and steals (1.2).

"Justyn is an exceptional student-athlete and ambassador for not only our basketball program, but for Virginia Tech," head coach Mike Young said. "His growth as a player on the court and as a student in the classroom cannot be overstated. The Skip Prosser Award is such a high honor, and Justyn is so deserving of it. That young man is going to finish college with three degrees. That's a big deal."

Kitley is the first Virginia Tech woman to be named first-team All-ACC in consecutive seasons. She averaged 17.6 points, 10.1 rebounds and 2.4 blocks per game this season. She shot a league-high 53.8% from the floor and won ACC player of the week four times, another ACC high.

The Summerfield, N.C., native put together 14 double-doubles, the most in the conference, and also registered 12 20-point performances this season. Kitley also had six games with five or more blocks. She scored 34 points twice.

She led the Hokies in scoring 17 times and rebounds 21 times.

Kitley was also the ACC Player of the Week three times her sophomore season. In 2021, she was a finalist for the Lisa Leslie Award, presented to the country's top collegiate women's center, was voted by the Virginia Sports Information Directors (VASID) as the Player of the Year, and was selected for the ACC All-Tournament second team.

She was named to the league's All-Academic Team both her freshman and sophomore seasons and in 2020 was named the league's Freshman of the Year. Three times she was the ACC Freshman of the Week.

She set program records this season with a field-goal percentage of .573 and 41 blocks. She scored a career-high 34 points against George Washington in November, setting a new program record in that game with 17 field goals.

Her sophomore season Kitley led the Hokies in scoring, averaging 18.2 points per game. She also averaged 10.4 rebounds and had 12 double-doubles, the most in the league. She was one of two ACC athletes to record a 20-rebound game and was the only ACC women's player to score 30 points in a game twice.

Her freshman season Kitley started all 30 games, averaging 12.5 points and 7.5 rebounds. She shot 56% from the field and had six double-doubles on the season. She scored a season-high 27 points in her collegiate debut against St. Francis.
