Virginia Tech sweeps 2022 national soil judging championship

The Virginia Tech Hokies Soil Judging Team finished first out of 21 teams at the 2022 National Collegiate Soils Contest sponsored by the Soil Science Society of America and hosted by The Ohio State University April 18-23 near Marysville, Ohio.

The last sweep of all three events — individual, group, and team — was by Auburn University in 2015.

The Hokies finished in first place, followed by North Carolina State University, the University of Wisconsin-Platteville, the University of Maryland, and the University of Delaware. The Hokies also finished first in the group judging event, followed by the University of Rhode Island, West Virginia University, and Utah State University.

Ben Atkins of Virginia Tech captured first place in the individual contest. The top four students were invited to participate in the fourth International Union of Soil Science International Soil Judging Contest in Sterling, Scotland, in August.

Following behind Atkins were: Curtis Murphy, North Carolina State University, second place; Isaac Nollen, University Wisconsin-Platteville, third place; Kkenadi Griffis, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, fourth place; and Clare Tallamy, Virginia Tech, fifth place. All four Hokies placed in the top 17 out of 84 participants.

This is the seventh national championship for Virginia Tech and the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, the second-most of any school. Virginia Tech finished second in both the 2019 and 2018 contests and first in the 2020 Virtual Soil Judging Contest, held to replace the on-site contest because of the pandemic.

The students practiced twice per week in the classroom and the field and had homework assignments weekly.

In Ohio, they spent three intensive practice days describing soils derived from glacial till, outwash, lacustrine sediments, and loess. They braved freezing temperatures, snow and sleet, high winds, pits partially filled with water, and muddy conditions before the weather finally cleared up for the two competition days.

"This contest was very well attended because it was the first in-person national event since the pandemic began," said coach John Galbraith, a professor of soil and

Murder trial of former VT football player underway this week

The trial of a former Virginia Tech football player charged with the murder of a Blacksburg victim had met for oral sex, but he did not know Smith was a man.

When the former player discovered he had been duped, in a fit of rage, he killed Smith.

Etute pleaded not guilty last week for the second-degree murder of Jerry Smith.

Etute admits he and the victim had met for oral sex, but he did not know Smith was a man.

When the former player discovered he had been duped, in a fit of rage, he killed Smith.

Etute has been free on bond since the arrest. The jury trial is expected to last through Friday.

Carilion Clinic returns to pre-pandemic visitor policies

All Carilion Clinic facilities returned to pre-pandemic visitor policies on Monday, May 23, with exceptions for COVID-19 patients.

"Having family and friends at the bedside is a huge benefit for our patients, and we're excited to be able to offer that again," said Michael Abbott, senior vice president for hospital operations. "The safety of our staff and patients remains our top priority. Visitors will still be asked to mask, safety precautions like social distancing remain in place, and we continue to monitor the spread of COVID-19 should we need to make future adjustments."

Visitors should not visit a patient if they are sick, have symptoms of COVID-19, or have been exposed to someone with known or suspected COVID-19 within the past 10 days. Screening signs are located at every entrance, and visitors are asked to review the instructions before entering to ensure it is safe for them to visit.

Visitors for patients confirmed or suspected to have COVID-19 are still restricted to no visitors for adults with the exception of end-of-life care, medical necessity, or patients in labor, and two parents or guardians for pediatric patients.

"Vaccines remain critical in ensuring that we minimize the spread of COVID-19 in our community," said Abbott.

Camp Invention's summer STEM program coming to Christiansburg area

Camp Invention®, a nationally recognized, nonprofit summer enrichment program, is coming to the following locations:

Montgomery County Public Schools the week of June 6 through June 9, 2022.

Radford University the week of June 20 through June 24, 2022.

A program of the National Inventors Hall of Fame® (NIHF) in partnership with the United States Patent and Trademark Office, Camp Invention challenges children in grades K-6 to tap into their natural curiosity and use their creativity to solve problems.

Through hands-on activities, Camp Invention promotes STEM (science, technology, engineering and mathematics) learning; builds confidence, leadership, perseverance and resourcefulness; and encourages entrepreneurship, all in a fun and engaging environment.

Each year, the program features a new curriculum inspired by some of our nation's most world-changing inventors — the NIHF Hall of Famers. This year's Explore program encourages children to be confident in their ideas and to explore their innovativeness through hands-on activities including:

Robotic Aquatics™: Children will dive into cutting-edge ocean research as they adopt their own aquatic animals, design and patent aquatic plants, and take their new friend home in a mini tank.

NIHF's The Attic™: Campers will combine science and art to build their own robotic artist, engage in design thinking, make spin art, and learn how inventions can change the way people create.

Spacecation™: Children will discover real space exploration technology when they create Spacepacks and Astro-Arm devices, mine an asteroid, and observe erupting ice volcanoes.

Marble Arcade™: Campers will experiment with the fun of physics, engineering, and gaming as they design, build, and test their own mega marble arcades.

The new Camp Invention program for 2022 has been developed with safety in mind. Programs will follow state and local guidelines to help provide a healthy, safe and fun environment.

"The core learning experience that my girls received and the inspiration to look at items innova-tively, pushing the boundaries of their imagination, and bringing it to life was awe-inspiring," said a parent of 2021 campers. "They have benefited tremendously, learning they can make a difference in creating for the world they live in."

All local Camp Invention programs are facilitated and taught by certified educators who reside and teach in the community. Camp Invention serves 130,000 students every year and partners with more than 1,800 schools and districts across the nation. To register, visit invent.org/camp.

Home Country: Cowboy truck air conditioning

“Now Mamie,” said Windy Wilson, “the reason I expurgated myself over here to your place was to see how you was a-doin’ in this year heat.”

and camp cook. “Well, that’s awfully nice of you, Windy. I’m fine. Tired of this heat, just the same as everyone else around here.”

“I hear ya, and thanks for the tea. It helps a guy cool down, refrigeration-ally speakin’ a-course.”

“You’re welcome. What are you and Ramses up to these hot days?”

Ramses was Windy’s dog, so named because of his tendency to leave pyramids in the backyard. Windy claims he’s an Egyptian shepherd, but hasn’t been able to provide any registration papers yet.

“Pickup truck therapy, you know. Works put-near ever time it’s tried. Long’s a guy don’t run outa gas, he’s okay. Cool right down on a hot ol’ day like this one.”

“I didn’t know your pickup had air conditioning, Windy.”

“Mostly it’s a cowboy 260 air conditioner,” Windy explained. “You get your shirt and your dog wet, roll down two windows and go sixty miles an hour.”

WalletHub: Virginia is nation’s best state for military retirees

The personal finance website WalletHub points out that as military personnel retire, whether they faced active combat or not, they may find it difficult to readjust to civilian life. For example, the U.S. is still dealing with the COVID-19 pandemic, which has killed more people than the Civil War did.

Even without a pandemic, the website says, retirement from the military is always difficult with many retirees facing major struggles including Post-traumatic Stress Disorder, disability and homelessness. These veterans must also consider how state tax policies on military benefits vary, along with the relative friendliness of different job markets and other socioeconommic factors, when choosing a state in which to settle down.

To assist veterans with their decisions, WalletHub compared the 50 states and the District of Columbia based on their ability to provide a comfortable military retirement. The website’s analysis used a data set of 29 key metrics, ranging from veterans per capita to number of VA health facilities to job opportunities for veterans.

The website’s rankings placed Virginia as the best state in the entire country for military retirees.

The top ten states for military retirees, as ranked by WalletHub, are as follows: 1. Virginia 2. Florida 3. Minnesota 4. Maryland 5. New Hampshire

6. Alaska 7. South Carolina 8. Maine 9. South Dakota 10. Connecticut.

The worst places for military retirees as ranked by WalletHub are as follows: 42. Illinois 43. Iowa 44. California 45. Mississippi 46. New Mexico 47. Washington 48. Oregon 49. District of Columbia 50. Nevada 51. Vermont.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

On repealing the commonwealth’s tax on groceries

Virginia has historically been a good state in which to live, work, and run a business. That status has ebbed and flowed over the years but has generally remained true.

The governor and general assembly have tentatively agreed to repeal the tax, but the process remains blocked by the current lack of a state budget. The House and Senate have slightly different approaches, but the end goal remains the same; to repeal the onerous grocery tax.

The wholesale price of food has seen a tremendous increase. Just this week the announcement came that producer prices rose 11% last month. That increase has caused the retail price to increase all the way across the board. However, the most frightening part is that the wholesale price index captures inflation quicker than the retail price index and gives a very strong indication as to where consumer prices are headed. That is not good news for consumers or retailers.

Repealing the grocery tax doesn’t really help retailers in any way. What it does do is provide relief at the cash register every single time shoppers pay for their orders. It allows them to keep more of their hard-earned money. The time to act is now.

wetland sciences in the School of Plant and Environmental Sciences. “I think soil and agricultural students across America were anxious to get outside and practice their field skills before they graduated. “Soil judging is a perfect way to enhance their resume and gain some practical field skills at the same time as they are learning more about glaciated soils in the Corn Belt and meeting students from other universities,” Galbraith said. “The contest host held lectures for them about the unique geology of the area, and they were able to see how the clayey soils were very wet at this time of year and very susceptible to accelerated runoff and erosion during heavy rains. Soil erosion is a major concern for local farmers.”

Virginia Tech Women's Club announces 2022 scholarships for women students

The Virginia Tech Women's Club announced the recipients of its 2022 Scholarship Awards on April 27. The awardees received $1800 each and came from a wide range of academic disciplines such as engineering, management, life sciences, biological sciences and wellness studies, environment studies, and social sciences.

Affiliated with Virginia Tech University, the Virginia Tech Women's Club recognizes women students who are veterans and first-generation college-goers besides having other regular achievements such as a good GPA, participation in extracurricular activities, and volunteering. The application process begins in the fall of any given year, and the scholarships are granted in the spring of the following year.

Kenny Brooks, women's basketball coach at VT, was the keynote speaker at the luncheon. He underscored the values of the club: friendship, scholarship, education, and service. Sharing the values taught by the strong women in his family, Brooks said that he invests in a culture that values character over talent. His team broke records in 2021-2022 that included producing the all-time highest scorer in VT history.

The club extends a friendly hand to other community organizations in the area, including the NRV Women's Resource Center, a shelter for victims of domestic violence that includes women, children and the elderly. The club supports and collaborates with the Community Foundation of the New River Valley whose mission is to invest in the local community through charitable giving, innovative programs and collaborations.

The club was started 50 years ago to enable the spouses of VT faculty to find a community. Today its reach has expanded to include all women in the NRV area, and it actively welcomes new members within its fold. The club collaborates with all women in the NRV area to strengthen community initiatives and to support one another.

He is survived by his siblings, Betty Elliott, Donna Elliott, and Jimmy Elliott; special nieces Amanda, Katie, Britney, Annemarie, Sarah, Hannah, Maleenia, Ashely and Crystal; special nephews Jeremy, Braden, David, and Joseph, whom he lovingly named "Little Joseph"; great-niece and great-nephews, Riley, Kayson, Owen, and Major; a goddaughter Alisha White, his one true love, Ruth Anne Harvey; dear friends Erama Whitlock and Linda Mize; special cousins Mike Elliott and Brenda Richardson; cousins Teresa, Dean, Kathy, Tim, and Harold and many other cousins and close friends, without whose love and support his journey would not have been possible.

Sammy was a talented and skilled painter. He had an uncanny ability to walk into a room and see what needed to be done, what wasn't done, and how to fix it. That skill set carried Sammy all the way to the end; pointing out things in his hospital rooms that needed to be corrected and making sure everyone knew it.

Sammy was a dancer who loved to boogie with the best, and he shared that love with all of his family and friends. He loved his family with a deep love, treasured children as they should be, cared for animals of all kinds, and knew what friendship meant, giving it freely to all that he loved.

He had unshakable faith in his Lord and Savior with complete trust that he would be standing at the gates of Heaven, being welcomed by all who had passed before him. He had made a peace with all that life had given him and fought up until the end with grace, will, and faith.

The family thanks each of the ICU doctors and nurses at LewisGale Montgomery for their care and genuine outpouring of love shown to Sammy and his loved ones throughout some of the most difficult times. Your genuine care for him will never be forgotten.

Montgomery County receives national awards from National Association of Counties

WASHINGTON – Montgomery County has been recognized with two achievement awards from the National Association of Counties (NACo). The awards honor innovative, effective county government programs that strengthen services for residents.

NACo recognized Montgomery County for two programs: XComms Group and the Animal Care and Adoption Center's Return to Home Program.

"Our dedicated employees are committed to public service and work hard daily responding to opportunities and challenges in an effort to help our community be such a great place to both live and work," said Montgomery County Administrator Craig Meadows. "I'm proud of the innovative responses our employees have implemented to challenges they faced and the national recognition they earned as a result of those efforts."

The XComms Group (short for Extended Communicators Group) promotes intergovernmental cooperation and collaboration, addressing internal and external communication needs and gaps. In July of 2021, the county's public information office identified communication partners in various departments, along with constitutional offices and affiliated agencies to meet monthly and share potential story ideas and news items, as well as to learn of upcoming news and stories. This allows all entities to support the various communication needs of Montgomery County, both internally and externally, by sharing news and stories through the various communication vehicles to which the group has access.

The result has been an active and engaged XComms Group that is responsible for over 50 stories and news items either completed or currently in process, as well as new processes to enhance internal communication and overall efficiency within the county.

In 2021, the Animal Care and Adoption Center launched an online lost and found reporting service, which links to the center's software and allows for more eyes-on information and photos of found and missing animals more quickly. In turn, this increases the speed that animals are returned to their owners. The result has been an increase in the number of animals being returned to their owners by the finder, or by Animal Control using Animal Care and Adoption Center staff and the online reporting system as a facilitator.

NACo President Larry Johnson said, "All across the country, counties are working tirelessly to support residents and drive recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic. This year's achievement award-winning programs showcase how counties work every day to build healthy, safe, and thriving communities."

Nationally, awards are given in 18 different categories that reflect the vast, comprehensive services counties provide. The categories include children and youth, criminal justice and public safety, county administration, information technology, health, and civic engagement.

Started in 1970, NACo's annual achievement awards program is designed to recognize county government innovations. Each nominee is judged on its own merits and not against other applications received.

Former Bruin Ben Fleming tops in ACC steeplechase

Virginia Tech's Ben Fleming captured gold in the men's 3,000-meter steeplechase at the 2022 ACC Outdoor Track and Field Championships at Morris Williams Stadium on the campus of Duke University last weekend. The redshirt senior from Blacksburg held off a valiant effort by Yasin Sado of UVA to clinch the Hokies' third straight outdoor title in the event with a personal record and a facility record of 8:31.97. Fleming's performance was the second-fastest time in program history and shaved nearly six seconds off his previous best time.

Former teammate Fitsum Seyoum, who had been hyping Fleming up all season for the event, won gold in 2019 and 2021. In addition to Fleming's big night, Ben Nibbelink recorded a personal record, clocking an 8:41.58 to place fifth in the steeplechase. He trimmed over eight seconds off his previous best time and now ranks third all-time at Tech in the event. Behind his season-best effort of 61' 7.5", Tyus Jones placed fourth in the men's shot put. Jones's mark was a season best. He set the school record in the event last season.

NCAA Tournament: Lady Hokies softball defeats Kentucky twice to rally from loser's bracket

The third-seeded Virginia Tech softball team will host the program's first-ever NCAA Super Regional next weekend, welcoming 14th-seeded Florida to Tech Softball Park for a best-of-three series. The Hokies claimed the Blacksburg Regional title in dramatic fashion this weekend, defeating Kentucky twice on Sunday to reach the second weekend of the NCAA Tournament in back-to-back seasons. It marked the second season in a row the Hokies (37-19) have made it to super regionals, but the first time ever hosting one. Tech will face No.-14 Florida (46-16) this weekend after the Gators went 3-0 in Gainesville and outscored their opponents 28-2. Tickets for the Blacksburg Super Regional went on sale Monday, May 23. Fans can purchase either an all-session pass that includes every game or secure seats on a single-game basis while supplies last. Both reserved and general admission seating will be offered with reserved seats limited to all-session passes. Reserved all-session tickets are $40 while general admission all-session tickets are $20. Reserved seats for single sessions are $20 while general admission tickets for single sessions are $10.

VT baseball, softball dominate All-Star teams, sweep Coach of Year honors

Eight Virginia Tech baseball student-athletes — a program record — have garnered year-end, all-conference praise with Hokies' skipper John Szefc being named the ACC Coach of the Year. VT head softball coach Pete D'Amour was named the league's Coach of the Year. Gavin Cross, Drue Hackenberg, Jack Hurley and Tanner Schobel represented Tech on the All-ACC First Team, marking the first time since 2003 when the Hokies were still in the Big East Conference that they produced four or more first team honorees. Cade Hunter followed with his placement onto the All-ACC Second Team while Nick Biddison and Griffin Green received spots on the All-ACC Third Team. In addition to his All-ACC First Team status, Hackenberg accompanied fellow rookie Carson DeMartini on the ACC All-Freshman Team that showcased the league's top 12 rookies. All honorees were recognized during the presentation of the 2022 ACC baseball postseason awards on Monday's episode of ESPN/ACC Network's Packer and Durham show. With the honor, Szefc became Tech's first-ever conference Coach of the Year honoree. After the Hokies were picked in February to finish sixth in the ACC Coastal Division — and had started 0-4 during conference play in March — he set Tech on a remarkable run to clinch its first league crown, winning each of its final nine ACC series and 30 of its last 35 regular season games. Under Szefc's leadership, the Hokies spent five consecutive weeks ranked inside D1Baseball's Top 10 this season, climbing to No. 3 or higher in each of the six leading college baseball polls. Having guided Tech to a program-record 19 ACC victories, Szefc has the Hokies seeded No. 1 in this week's ACC Baseball Championship and on the verge of hosting its first NCAA Regional since 2013. Over on the softball field, head softball coach Pete D'Amour has been named the ACC Coach of the Year. Senior Keely Ro-chard has been named the league's Pitcher of the Year and pitcher Emma Lemley was voted the Freshman of the Year. The Hsoftball Hokies had a conference-high 11 members named to the All-ACC teams. For the second straight season, Rocharad earned Pitcher of the Year honors after ending the 2022 conference season with a perfect 15-0 record. The senior made 17 appearances over the ACC season with a 1.67 ERA in 96.1 innings pitched. She struck out 132 batters, allowing only 23 earned runs and a .191 opponent batting average. Lemley made a big impact in the circle for the Hokies, being named to the All-Freshman Team and earning Freshman of the Year honors after finishing the conference season with a 6-2 record with two saves. The right-hander had three shutouts in ACC play, including then-No. 14/9 Clemson, Louisville, and Boston College to clinch the regular season championship. Along with Rocharad and Lemley, outfielder Emma Ritter and designated player Meredith Slaw were named First Team All-ACC. Slaw was huge for the Hokies in ACC play, hitting .477 over 19 games. She slammed five home runs and three doubles with an .886 slugging percentage. Ritter was one of the Hokies most consistent players at the plate, hitting .414 on the season and leading the team with 36 RBI. She struck out only twice in 133 at-bats, making her one of the toughest batters in the nation to strike out. Four Hokies made the All-ACC Second Team: Cameron Fagan, Mackenzie Lawter, Morgan Overaitis and Breck Peck. Kelsey Bennett, Kelsey Brown, and Darby Trull made the Third Team. Peck and Lemley also made the ACC All-Freshman Team.

Big Rig Racing hits Motor Mile pavement

Justin Ball won the second Fast Big Rig race this weekend at Motor Mile Speedway.

Zach Patterson took the Enduro checkered flag at Motor Mile Speedway.

John Ketron stands in the winner's circle for the Pure4 Division.

Saturday night, Motor Mile Speedway welcomed the "Fass Big Rig Racing Series" to the track.

Fass Big Rigs are a regional big-rig racing series that brings the thrill and diesel smoke of big rig racing to the Southeastern United States.

While the drivers of the trucks were happy to be at the track, they had heavy hearts with the absence of one of the series founders, Brian Madsen, who died from cancer on May 5. This was the first event they had participated in since his passing.

At the beginning of the race, his daughter was connected to the loudspeaker by phone and gave the guys the command to start their engines.

The trucks had two twin races with Scott Treadway winning the first race and Justin Ball taking the checkered flag for the second. Motor Mile Speedway also hosted a visit from "Bone Shaker," a giant jet truck that shot flames out over 60 feet and demonstrated its power by burning a car down on the infield of the track.

That was just one of many demonstrations given over the weekend. Motor Mile also hosted a race for the U-Car and Pure 4 divisions with John Ketron winning in the Pure-4 division and Cary Thomason winning for the U-Cars. The night also included a fan favorite "Enduro" race, racing's most affordable class, that at first sight looks like a demolition derby is about to happen.

But indeed, it was a race.

Motor Mile Speedway will be racing again, Saturday, May 28, with a visit from the Carolina Pro Late Model Series, racing a 100-lap feature, and the Caroline Crate Modified Series racing 65 laps. The speedway's Super Streets will race a pair of twin 30-lap features.

Fawns born from May through July are intentionally left alone by their mothers to avoid leading predators to them. They are not "orphaned." Rather, does return several times each day to move and/or to feed the fawns. The best way to handle a fawn in such a situation is to leave it alone.

Outdoor Report: If you find a fawn, leave it alone

It's that time of year again when white-tailed deer fawns are showing up in yards and hayfields, and concerned citizens want to know how to help. In almost all cases, the best way to help is to simply give the fawn space and leave it alone.

Concerned people sometimes pick up animals that they think are orphaned. Most such "orphans" that good-intentioned citizens "rescue" every spring should have been left alone. Most wild animals will not abandon their young, but they do leave them alone for long periods of time.

Fawns, born from May through July, are purposely left alone by their mothers. Female deer, called does, stay away from the fawns to avoid leading predators to their location. The white-spotted coat camouflages a fawn as it lies motionless in vegetation. Young fawns generally will not try to run away when they are approached.

Does will return several times each day to move and/or feed their young. You probably will not see the doe at all since she only stays to feed the fawn for just a few minutes before leaving it alone again. If less than 24 hours have passed since a fawn has been "rescued," the fawn should be taken back and released at the exact same location where it was found. After returning the fawn, immediately leave the area and do not wait for the doe to return. The doe will not come back for the fawn if a human is nearby.

If a wild animal has been injured or truly orphaned, do not take matters into your own hands. You may locate a licensed wildlife rehabilitator by calling the Virginia Department of Wildlife Resources (DWR) toll-free wildlife conflict helpline at 1-855-571-9003, 8:00AM-4:30PM, Monday through Friday or visit the Licensed Wildlife Rehabilitator section of the DWR website.

Raising a wild animal in captivity is illegal unless you have a DWR wildlife rehabilitation permit. Each animal's nutritional, housing, and handling requirements are very specific and must be met if they have any chance of survival. With even the best professional care possible, the survival rate of rehabilitated fawns and many other animals is very low. The best advice for someone who wants to help wildlife is to keep it wild. Once people interfere, we reduce the opportunity for animals to receive natural care and we increase the risk of harming our wildlife heritage.

RU basketball lands graduate transfer guard

Radford head men's basketball coach Darris Nichols has announced the addition of graduate transfer guard Onyebuchi Ezeakudo. He will join the Highlanders for the 2022-23 season following four seasons with the ACC's Pittsburgh Panthers.

"Onye is a high-character individual who is a tremendous story of perseverance and hard work," said Nichols. "He has competed at the highest level of college basketball and had to earn every minute he played on the court. He brings four years of experience along with the ability to defend and make shots at a high level."

Ezeakudo walked on to the Panthers' squad in December of his freshman year, forgoing several D3 and NAIA scholarship offers to take on a different challenge.

He has played in 56 games, including 13 starts, thus far in his collegiate career with the 2021-22 season being his best.

The Fort Wayne, Ind., native appeared in all 32 games for Head Coach Jeff Capel with 12 starts.

Ezeakudo averaged 2.1 points and 1.7 rebounds across 18.7 minutes per game from the point-guard position. He added 20 steals and shot a strong 38.3% from three-point range.

His single-game career highs include 11 points against Syracuse (1/25/22), six rebounds at Boston College (1/30/22), and four assists at Wake Forest (2/2/22).

Excelling in the classroom as well, Ezeakudo earned his bachelor's degree in bioengineering with a minor in chemistry while earning a spot on the ACC All-Academic Team.

He adds to an ever-growing list of Radford newcomers that already includes Kenyon Giles, Kyle Burns, DaQuan Smith, Justin Archer, D'Aunray Pierce, Madiaw Niang, Ibu Yamazaki, and Souleymane Koureissi.
