The longest-reigning monarch in Britain's history, Queen Elizabeth II died Thursday.

Queen Elizabeth II dies at 96

By Brendan Morrow news.yahoo.

Queen Elizabeth II, the longestreigning monarch in Britain's history, has died, Buckingham Palace confirmed Thursday. She was 96.

The palace in a statement said the queen "died peacefully" at Balmoral Castle in Scotland. The news came just hours after Buckingham Palace released an alarming statement that doctors were "concerned for Her Majesty's health" and that she would remain under medical supervision. Members of the British royal family, including Prince Charles, were reportedly rushing to be by her side.

Elizabeth served on the throne for seven decades, during which time the United States had 14 presidents. She was crowned in 1953 after succeeding her father, George VI. Concerns over the queen's health grew in the past year as she adjusted travel plans numerous times, and she recently did not travel to Buckingham Palace to receive the new British prime minister.

The queen's death means her son, Charles, immediately becomes king, and his wife, Camilla, will serve as queen consort. "The King and The Queen Consort will remain at Balmoral this evening and will return to London tomorrow," Buckingham Palace said.

In a statement from "His Majesty The King," Charles said the "death of my beloved mother" is a "moment of the greatest sadness for me and all members of my family.

"I know her loss will be deeply felt throughout the country, the Realms and the Commonwealth, and by countless people around the world," Charles continued. "During this period of mourning and change, my family and I will be comforted and sustained by our knowledge of the respect and deep affection in which The Queen was so widely held."

British Prime Minister Liz Truss also described the queen's death as a "huge shock to the nation and to the world," adding, "Britain is the great country it is today because of her." U.S. Press Secretary Karine Jean-Pierre said, "Our hearts and our thoughts go to the family members of the queen" and "to the people of the United Kingdom."

Virginia Tech's efforts to help service members and veterans lead to national acclaim

Earlier Tech Virginia received national recognition for its role in helping to improve the lives of United States veterans when Operation Hat Trick (OHT), a nonprofit organization that supports the recovery of wounded service members and veterans, named the university a finalist for its 2022 Excellence in Service

Virginia Tech was one of five finalists, joining Western Michigan, Arizona, Texas A&M, and Clemson. Arizona and Clemson were co-winners of the award.

Given the university's military tradition as one of two schools nationally with a corps of cadets (Texas A&M is the other), the Operation Hat Trick partnership is just one of many ways the university continues to honor its roots as a military institution.

Warm Hearth Foundation's cheeseburger event kicks off fund drive that raises record funds for seniors

BLACKSBURG - Warm Hearth Foundation recently held its ninth annual Cheeseburger in Parrot-dise fundraising event that kicked off its annual fund drive.

This year's event raised more than $43,000 with the support of sponsors, local businesses, volunteers and attendees. Those funds will be used to support the Neighbors In Need fund for seniors on the campus of Warm Hearth Village (WHV). The Foundation works to help Village seniors who need support with basic necessities such as housing, food, personal care, household cleaning items, pet supplies, and health care services.

The record funds raised will help provide continued assistance to approximately 178 residents on campus through a variety of programs.

The event included a silent auction made possible by donors and local businesses and live entertainment by the Randy Clay Band from North Carolina. Nearly 250 guests enjoyed cheeseburgers and side dishes provided by The Corner at Clay Street, Hethwood Market, Holiday Inn New River Valley Mall, The Fireside Grill, and The Village Gourmet.

Jack and Betty Onufrak, new residents at Warm Hearth Village, came for the first time. "This was a great introduction to the spirit of this community," Jack Onufrak said. "It was so fun, friendly and colorful, with some of the best burgers. The pirate costumes were amazing. Betty and I will definitely come again."

"One of our attendees shared with me that they have been to many fundraising events over the years and the Cheeseburger in Parrot-dise event is by far the best from planning and execution to most importantly knowing that you are helping a great cause," said Karen Nelson, Associate Director of Development. "Next year is the tenth anniversary of the event, and plans have already begun to make it the best ever.".

Warm Hearth Village is a nonprofit senior living community in Blacksburg that provides a full continuum of living options on its campus and in the home. Buddy King: St. Paul celebration is personal On September 25th, Different values then I think. door to St. Paul, smack in in Salem (fried chicken and one I loved, I asked if the years, when John had his

St. Paul United Methodist Church will celebrate the 60th anniversary of the first service in its current location on West Main Street in Christiansburg. My dear friend, the Rev. Doug "the Emory & Henry Flash" Kanney (the "sort of" retired pastor at St. Paul and one of the best people I have ever known) wrote a wonderful article on this pending celebration for the newspaper a few weeks ago. I feel compelled to add my two cents worth. This is a very special occasion for me personally. My Dad was chairman of the Building Committee for the "new" church, as well as chairman a few years later of the building committee for a new parsonage and head of the church's board of stewards (the church's governing body) for many years, all while running the Montgomery County Schools as superintendent.

To say my Dad didn't shirk his responsibilities to his community would be a gross understatement.

He had no personal motives or ambitions. He just felt a deep responsibility to try to make his small part of the world a better place to live.

It is obvious, as I have written before, that my family's life was centered around the Christiansburg schools and St. Paul's," Methodist (not "St. Paul's," my Dad would correct any misuse). Rarely did the doors open at CHS or St. Paul that my folks weren't there, dragging me along, just like many other Christiansburg families of the time. Too many great families to name them all. Several of the kids with whom I graduated from high school had been my friends since kindergarten, Sunday School, and Vacation Bible School. As my friend Doug mentions in his article, the church that was replaced by the current building at 220 West Main Street was located on the ground now underneath the monstrous county courthouse. My Dad's office at the time was in the old courthouse, next the middle of town, no more than a mile from our home off of West Main. A very small world indeed.

Of course, I was at the first service in the new church, on September 30, 1962, my crew cut and timid appearance memorialized in the photograph published with Rev. Doug's article. I have among my most cherished mementoes the shovel used by my Dad at the groundbreaking for the new building on April 23,1961. As I recall, my cousin Bobby, probably a freshman at CHS at the time, was the "youth representative" at the groundbreaking. Nepotism? Probably, but Bobby was a good kid. My memories of the wonderful congregation at St. Paul in those years are more vivid and more special even than my recall of the particulars of the new church building. I remember cherub choir (ugh), Friday night "Men's Club" meetings (with dinners served by the ladies of the church "circles"), Sunday School picnics at Lakeside Amusement Park tilt-a-whirls, what could go wrong?), "senior high" Sunday School classes taught by the inestimable J. Patrick Graybeal (no one else could have held our attention), MYF on Sunday evenings at 6 (forcing me against my will to miss the fourth quarter of many an NFL doubleheader game), the traditional ceremony when St. Paul seniors wore caps and gowns at a Sunday service before graduation from CHS.

Two great personal memories stand out of my youth at St. Paul.

The first involves my Dad's role as building chair. For those few of us still around who remember the old church, among its distinctive features were beautiful stained glass windows. I remember many a Sunday being transfixed by those windows and the morning sun streaming through the glass, depicting beautiful red and blue scenes of Biblical history.

At age 8, when I learned that my Dad was leading the charge to build a new building and abandon the new church would have similar windows, maybe even move the old ones to the new church. My father assured me that the new building would have stain glassed windows (not the original ones, but stain glassed nonetheless he said.) Alas, the old windows went to Park Street Methodist (hope they're still there) and the ones in the new church were not MY idea of stained glass. They actually resembled the pale green glass of Coke bottles of that era, not colorful pastoral scenes of disciples tending sheep. My Dad and I never made our peace over this Secondly, I have to relate maybe my favorite memory of the "new" church: the upstairs balcony. Built for overflow seating, needed on that long ago Sunday of September 30, 1962 with 537 in attendance per my friend Doug, an all-time record. In later years it was rare that this excess seating was necessary, except for my great friend John and me.

During our high school

years, when John had his own car, we would tell our folks we were "sitting in the balcony." The balcony had a back stair and usually after 15 minutes or so of the service, John and I would slip down those stairs, take a circuitous route to the parking lot, and drive around town for about 30 minutes, talking about the girls who had most recently broken our hearts. We would always make it back to the balcony in time to come down the steps and walk out the front door of the church and shake hands with the minister.

I spoke with John last week and, sadly, his schedule keeps him from attending the 60th anniversary. We were going to sit in the balcony together one more time. And maybe slip out early for old times sake.

addition to undergraduate majors and master's programs. Previously, Radford University was ranked with Regional Universities in the South Region.

Earlier in 2022 the Commission Carnegie on Higher Education elevated Radford University from its previclassification as (Master's Larger Programs) up to Doctoral/Professional. This change in the Carnegie Classification was due to the increased number of doctoral degrees awarded. For about 50 years the Carnegie Commission has been classifying institutions into various groups that reflect their mission, programs, governance, and other key characteristics.

In Top Public Schools

National Universities, Radford University tied with other schools ranked #169. Undergraduate nursing programs ranked in the top third of all undergradudegree-granting nursing programs that met eligibility requirements. The undergraduate business program in the Davis College of Business and undergraduate computer science programs in the Artis College of Science and Technology were also nationally ranked. Radford ranked at 118 in Top Performers on Social Mobility among public universities in the National Universities category and was included in the Campus Ethnic Diversity listing based on U.S. News' diversity

"Our new ranking reflects the commitment and results that elevate our university from the regional level to the national stage," said RU President Bret Danilowicz. "The growth of our Allied Health Programs at our Roanoke Campus is a significant component of this national recognition. Our students and alumni are more than deserving of this elevated status; our graduates are highly successful in their careers, and our graduates continue to boost the economic development of our region, the Commonwealth of Virginia and beyond. I am particularly proud of how well our university elevates its graduates into higher economic classes compared to our national peers."

Kosztarab, Dr. Michael

Dr. Michael Kosztarab, 95, Professor Emeritus of Entomology, died on Sept. 6, 2022, in Blacksburg.

Dr. Kosztarab was born in 1927 in Bucharest, Romania, grew up in the Transylvanian portion of what was then Hungary, and later resided in Budapest. In 1944 at the age of 17 he helped hide 30 Jews from the Nazis, which resulted in his arrest until the Allied Forces pushed the Nazis out

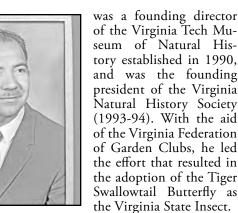

In 1956, he was an associate professor of entomology in Budapest when the Hungarian Revolution occurred. As the Soviets were brutally suppressing the uprising and began to close the Hungarian border, he escaped into Austria with his wife Matilda, a dangerous journey made mostly on foot, culminating in crossing a frigid river into Austrian territory. It was too risky to take their six-month old daughter, Eva, across the guarded border, so instead they devised a plan to retrieve her. Each day for nine days he traveled on an Austrian train that crossed into a small portion of Hungary. On the ninth day, in a pre-arranged covert transfer, his daughter was passed to him through an open window of the train as it was leaving the Hungarian station while the armed guards were not looking.

In 1957, the now-united family immigrated to America with sponsorship by Catholic Charities. These exciting adventures, as well as his time thereafter in the US and his many travels around the world are captured in his autobiography "Transylvanian Roots.'

After arriving in the U.S. and completing his PhD at Ohio State, Dr. Kosztarab became a professor of entomology at Virginia Tech from 1962 until his retirement in 1992. During his tenure at Virginia Tech, he authored or co-authored six books, 170 research publications, 34 research bulletins, and discovered several new insect species. Dr. Kosztarab loved to teach and advised many doctoral and masters candidates at Virginia Tech. His teaching skills were recognized with the W. E. Wine Award for Excellence of Teaching (1968).

He also served as the curator until 2003 of the largest and oldest insect collection in Virginia containing over 1.1 million specimens. Dr. Kosztarab

The Association of Systematics Collections' Annual Recognition Award was given to Dr. Kosztarab in 1994 for his successful ten-year-long effort toward the initiation of the U.S. National Biological Survey/Service. He received the Thomas Jefferson Medal for Outstanding Contributions to Natural Science from the Virginia Museum of Natural History Foundation in 1998 and the L.O. Howard Distinguished Achievement Award of the Eastern Branch, Entomological Society of America in 2001. He was honored with membership in Washington D.C.'s Cosmos Club in 1970 and a fellowship in the Royal Entomological Society of London in 1989.

Dr. Kosztarab had been a member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Blacksburg since 1965. He loved to travel around the world, often to research stations where he collected insects with his wife Matilda who assisted his efforts. With an undergraduate degree in horticulture, he was an avid gardener and even grew grapes in his backyard from which he made homemade wine.

He was the only child of Mihaly Kosztarab and Berta Albert, both of whom are deceased. His wife, Matilda Kosztarab, predeceased him in 2013.

He is survived by his daughter Eva Kosztarab and his son-in-law Kenneth Kastner; grandsons Gregory and Matthew Kastner; granddaughter-in-law Katharine Hagen, and great-granddaughters Lia and Abigail Kastner.

A memorial service will be held St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Blacksburg at 1205 Old Mill Road at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 1, followed by a reception. His ashes will be interred at the Westview Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, a donation can be made to the Virginia Tech Foundation for the Michael Entomology Scholarship Endowment Fund (#883546) and sent to 902 Prices Fork Road, Suite 4500, Blacksburg, VA 24060.

U.S. News & World Report divided its rankings of more than 1,400 schools into divisions of national universities, liberal arts colleges, regional universities, and regional colleges. Schools in the National Universities category offer a full range of undergraduate majors, plus master's and Ph.D. programs.

The ratings reflected well on Virginia Tech's College of Engineering. The university's engineering program ranked No. 16 in the Best Undergraduate Engineering (doctorate) category.

Various programs within the College of Engineering also scored industrial engineering (No. 4), environmental engineering (No. 8), civil engineering (No. 11), engineering aerospace (No. 12), electrical engineering (tie No. 15), engineering computer (No. 25), and computer science (tie No. 29).

The university came in at No. 22 in the Learning Communities division that focuses on students who typically take two or more linked courses as a group and get to know each other and their professors especially well. College presidents, chief academic officers, deans of students and deans of admissions from more than 1,500 schools each nominate up to 15 institutions with stellar examples of learning communities.

In addition, the university scored highly in the following areas: Best Colleges for Veterans (No. 34), Best Undergraduate Business (No. 39), Most Innovative Schools: National Universities (No. 41), and Overall National Universities (No. 62).

Dot was born to Franklin and Sarah Morris in Carroll County, Va., on Sept. 24, 1928, the sixth of their 11 children. She met Osgood Simpkins when he would carry milk across the river near her childhood home. She ran away with him to get married at the young age of 15 on Jan. 31, 1944. Dot and Osgood led a simple life on a small dairy farm in Snowville, Va. She also worked outside the home at several factories until she retired in 1994 from Poly-Scientific. They raised their three children, Osgood Joshua "Josh", Katie Sue, and James Russell "Rusty" on the farm until they moved to Radford, Va. in 1981. After Osgood passed away in 1983, Dot never remarried but enjoyed spending her time with her children and grandchildren. She could often be found in the kitchen, cooking family meals including her well-loved biscuits and delicious desserts or at the dining room table engrossed in card games. She was a long-time member of Gethsemane Baptist Church. She also enjoyed fishing, reading, word search puzzles and watching the Atlanta Braves. Dot was fiercely independent and took care of herself as long as she could. When she was no longer able to be alone, she shared her time between the homes of Josh and Katie until she moved in fully with Katie and her husband Allen in 2018. They cared for Dot until she had to placed in a permanent care facility in July 2022. She can be fondly remembered by her smiling face, stories from the old days, and competitive nature. Survey: Virginians have nation's third best access to 'Grade A' hospitals

Duffy & Duffy, a medical malpractice law firm, used the 'Hospital Safety Grade,' along with state population data, to determine a state ranking of where Americans have the best access to 'Grade A' level hospitals in terms of medical safety.

The Safety Grade allocates a safety score (with A being the highest possible score and F the lowest) for hospitals in each state, which provides information on how likely patients are to experience injuries, accidents, harm, or error during hospitalization. Combined with state population figures, the data analysis compiled a ranking from 1 to 50, indicating which states have the greatest access to top grade healthcare. It emerged that Virginians have among the best access to 'Grade A' hospitals in the country. Old Dominion emerged in third position overall with a rate of 199,885 people per 'Grade A' hospital. Virginia has 73 hospitals in the state, of which a significant 59.2% (43 hospitals) scored 'Grade A' in terms of safety.

An unfortunate statistic is that more than 22,000 deaths in the U.S. each year are a result of preventable deaths during patient hospitalization. Medical error often involves factors such as poor management or monitoring of medical conditions, errors linked to surgery and other procedures, and diagnostic errors. While healthcare workers are dedicated to their medical duties, these errors may also be related to factors such as short-staffing, system defects, or errors in judgment.

According to the survey, the top five states with the greatest accessibility to 'Grade A' level hospitals are 1. Mississippi 192,308 people per top-grade hospital 2. Maine 194,018 people per top-grade hospital 3. Virginia 199,885 people per top-grade hospital 4. North Carolina: 203,064 people per top-grade hospital 5. Pennsylvania: 206,652 people per top-grade hospital. The five states with the lowest accessibility to 'Grade A' level hospitals, according to the Duffy & Duffy survey, are 46. Delaware: 997,621 people per top-grade hospital 47. Iowa: 3,011,789 people per topgrade hospital. 48. North Dakota: no top-grade hospitals in the state. 49. Wyoming: no top-grade hospitals in the state. 50. West Virginia: no top-grade hospitals in the state.

in early 2026. TROUTVILLE I-81 REST AREA CLOSURE - The Troutville Rest Area located on southbound Interstate 81 near mile marker 158 in Botetourt County is currently closed until later in the month of September. The Virginia Department of Transportation's contractor Branch Civil Inc. will need additional time to install the lighting so reopening the facility needs to be postponed.

Signage indicating the closure is posted in the rest area. A temporary concrete barrier wall will remain in place in front of the facility. The rest area facility, ramps and parking lot are closed to the public. This project will extend the ramp into the rest area by 500 feet and

ROANOKE CITY 13th STREET SE IM-PROVEMENTS WITH DETOUR - A project to improve a portion of 13th Street SE in Roanoke is underway. Located in a residential neighborhood just east of downtown Roanoke, this project will improve traffic flow and connectivity along 13th Street SE from Tazewell Avenue to Norfolk Avenue. The project entails reconstructing about 0.2mile of 13th Street as an improved, two-lane roadway with 10.5-foot-wide travel lane and a raised median. A new roadway will extend 13th Street to Norfolk Avenue and the intersection at 13th Street and Wise Avenue will be reconfigured to include a roundabout. Bike lanes, sidewalks, crosswalks and curb and gutter will also be added. Southbound 13th Street traffic has a detour in place using Norfolk Avenue onto 12th Street to Tazewell Avenue. This detour will be in place throughout the duration of this project. Signs will be posted to designate the detour route. Northbound 13th Street will remain open to traffic. Flaggers may be possible and the speed limit through the work zone is 25 mph. The project is expected to be completed in summer 2023.

SURFACE TREAT-MENT OPERATIONS - Weather permitting, crews will begin surface treatment operations on various routes. Lane closures may be in place and flaggers may control traffic at times during daylight hours. Drivers should watch for signs and expect possible delays. The road surface may be rough for several weeks after surface treatment is applied. Once it packs down, the road surface will be brushed and return to a more smooth surface.
