

Wind Down Wednesdays, other events planned

By Erin Beck
Editor
Local company Black & Teal Concepts, LLC, owned and managed by Brendan Gallagher and Maria Cusack, has contracted with the City of Shinnston to plan events and promote the city. Gallagher said the company is planning “an incredible year of events for Shinnston.”

During a City Council meeting Feb. 14, City Manager Chad Edwards introduced the two. He said they were performing work similar to Anthony Tate, who left his job as city economic development coordinator earlier this year. During the meeting, Gallagher listed several events in the works, including Wind Down Wednesdays. The first Wind Down Wednesday is planned for May 18; additional Wind Down Wednesdays will be held on the first Wednesday of the month. In an interview, Edwards said the city is looking for business sponsorship of Wind Down Wednesdays. Gallagher said they’d hoped to plan a St. Patrick’s Day parade. In an interview, he noted there is a large Irish population in Shinnston. He said Shinnston formerly hosted St. Patrick’s Day parades. “And we’ve been wanting to bring it back, and we were hoping to do it this year,” he said. “But as I contacted bagpipe groups — which you cannot have a St. Patrick’s Day parade without bagpipes — most of them have taken COVID off and haven’t been practicing in the last few years because normally, they are made up of (an) older population. And so, we don’t have a bagpipe group.”

Now the hope is to host a parade in 2023 instead. Gallagher said organizers are considering late August or early September dates for Frontier Days. He said more details will be available after the first committee meeting. Gallagher said other events are in the works as well. “This year is going to be full of events for people to come to in Shinnston,” he said.

A sweet Saturday

Saturday was a busy day at Lincoln High School. A craft fair and a prom dress sale both began at 8 a.m. About 40 vendors sold crafts, sweets and other goods. The craft show raised over $850 for a teacher who has cancer, according to Lincoln High School. At 5:30 p.m., a father/daughter dance was held.

Tensions high as Salem approves rate increases

By Dawn Hensil
Staff Writer
There was standing room only in the City Council chambers on Feb. 22 as the City of Salem conducted the second of two required readings of ordinances to approve water and sewage rate increases. Council members approved an increase of 55.6% on water and 25% on sewage for each customer of Salem’s water. This increase would result in a total of an 80.6% increase in each customer’s bill. Emotions ran high as members of the public expressed their dissatisfaction. They raised concern over bad water quality, the monthly cost of the rate increases, and when much-needed repairs to the city’s water infrastructure would begin. The city has been operating in the negative month after month, according to City Accountant Phil Nuce. Nuce said the increase is necessary for the city “get the budget back in line so that we can break even again” and comply with West Virginia Senate

Bill 234. Nuce explained that the rate increases, which will allow the city to set money aside, will allow the city to meet requirements for grants for some of those needed improvements. Reserve funds may also be used for unanticipated expenses. SB 234 passed in 2015, but Salem officials said changes to the law in 2021 meant that Salem was no longer in compliance. Nuce said that to comply with the law’s requirements, Salem must “basically maintain these operational maintenance expenses in a segregated account to cover extraordinary items.” Until recently the city had used money from the general fund account to pay for the overages on the water every month. Members of the public asked why Salem has not been able to set aside funds dedicated to repairing the city’s water system. City Manager Ronnie Davis stated that due to the condition of many of the water lines running through town,

“We are losing about 52% of our water.” To cover these losses, Nuce said that “every month we are borrowing from the general fund.” Of great concern were the repairs needed to stop this water loss and how the city planned to get the necessary funds to do so. Nuce said that “if we don’t have these rates in place, grant agencies, loan agencies, aren’t going to give us more money if we are not able to make do with what we have now. So that’s how that all correlates together.” Many Salem residents remained unmoved and expressed other dissatisfactions with the city regarding the water rates, and how monthly charges are calculated. Shawn Gains said one month, the bill was $318 and the next time it was $220, even though nothing in the household had changed. Some members of the public were concerned with the general loss in population in Salem and felt that these water rate increases would be yet another incentive for people to leave. Gains said, “This happens, there will be a lot of people leave Salem.” Another member of the public Don Myers expressed his concern by stating, “We lost 300 voters last year. How many more can we afford to lose?” Myers also introduced a petition challenging the raise in water rates and calling for an investigation into the matter by the Harrison County Commission. According to the Public Service Commission, an appeal would require at least 25% of the Salem water customers’ signatures and the residents did not have enough signatures to appeal the increase in the water and sewage as of Feb. 22. They do have 30 days from the time city officials file with the state Public Service Commission to get the needed signatures and bring an appeal forward. According to the PSC website, city officials had not yet filed with the PSC as of last week.

Hoop dreams (final part)

Being a member of the WVU freshmen basketball team was unbelievably hectic and going to classes, working and practicing six days a week was hectic. The freshmen team had received a lot of attention, and we were ranked sixth in the nation, with Will Robinson receiving lots of media attention. After the season started, we got to be around Coach Bucky Waters, Assistant Coach Sonny Moran and the varsity players on a regular basis. Bob Hummel from Moundsville was the best player on the varsity, and we lived on the same floor at the Towers Dormitory on the Evansville Campus. Skip Kintz was another great guy on varsity and was one of the best shooters I have ever played with. Coach Waters had coached at Duke before being named the head coach at WVU and it was widely known that when legendary Duke Coach Vic Bubas retired, that Coach Waters would probably leave for that job. Our first away game was in Charleston on Dec. 7, when we played Virginia Tech. We loaded up into a bus and headed down the

Skate park considered

By Erin Beck
Editor
While far from a done deal, a local landowner and a company contracting with the City of Shinnston have discussed the prospect of developing a skate park in town. During the Feb. 14 City Council meeting, Brendan Gallagher, co-owner of Black & Teal Concepts, LLC presented tentative plans for a skate park opening event. Black & Teal Concepts, a branding studio, is providing event planning and promotional services for the city, following former Economic Development Coordinator Anthony Tate leaving that role for a private-sector position. In an interview,

Kevin Nuzum, who owns the land of interest near the rail trail, a grassy field near Station Street, said he’d discussed the possibility of using that land for a skate park with Gallagher. Nuzum, who is also the pastor of the First Baptist Church of Shinnston, noted that local youth enjoy skateboarding but lack a venue, but he said he hadn’t yet been in contact with city officials. “All that I’m interested in doing is giving the property or basically the place to do it,” he said. “It’s a flat piece of property that I am willing to let them have or use.” Gallagher said that the idea is “in the preliminary stages right now.” “This is a situation where we don’t want

Opinion: local show choirs deserve praise

By Mary Heinrich
Staff Writer

On Saturday, February 12, the South Harrison High School auditorium came alive with artistry of the highest caliber. Set designers, musicians, light technicians, dancers, costume changes, vocalists – the arts were all represented. It was one of the largest gatherings of young talent imaginable under one roof. It was a show choir competition. I was less than enthusiastic when I was approached by my daughters about attending. They wanted to watch their friends perform. I imagined spending my entire Saturday bored, watching a bunch of kids I don't know stand up and sing songs that only choir teachers enjoy. Boy was I wrong!

to put the cart before the horse,” he said. “We are looking at the logistics of it. We have a location for it. But the biggest concern is going to be liability. If we can get the liability situation taken care of, then it’s probably going to be no problem. The actual construction of the skatepark and all of that will be next to nothing compared to getting the liabilities covered.”

Shinnston Mayor Pat Kovalck was receptive. “I’ve not had any further conversation with Brendan or Kevin Nuzum about that,” he said. “The city would definitely be interested in doing that. I think it’s a great idea for land downtown. But the funding, of course, everything leads back to that. We’d have to find the funding, and we don’t have anything allotted for that right now. I’m not saying that we can’t do it. But as of right now, our budget is set. It would be a matter of finding any money to contribute toward that.”

The performances blew me away. For starters, the sets these students used were absolutely fantastic. The sets presented ranged from a 50s soda shop black-and-white tile backdrop to a spooky dollhouse. The themes ranged from the importance of being you to the danger of wishing you had different parents.

The choir directors chose music that perfectly fit the theme of the shows. Each performance was an individual, full-fledged production and the awards were as varied as the presentations.

There were awards for best costume, best set, best musician, best soloist, and best overall, to name a few.

When I had the opportunity to speak with Robin Bohn, who serves as the director for all of the choirs at South Harrison Middle and High School and as the Region VI All-State Chorus Chairperson, I was further amazed to learn that these students do these shows multiple times throughout the school year. She told me that the number of times these routines are performed depends on the school, its choir director, and the amount of money they have to use for the registration fees, which range from $250 to $350 per competition.

I was further impressed to learn that the individual choral directors are responsible for deciding a theme for their own team and to design songs and dance routines fitting the chosen theme. The music for the majority of these groups was live music, further expressing the talent of the young people present.

When asked when show choir took the more theatrical turn, Mrs. Bohn said she really began to see the shift about seven or eight years ago.

One of the most upbeat choirs of the day was Robert C. Byrd’s Vocal Intensity. They even won a judge’s choice award for the energy they demonstrated on stage. The theme of their routine was “Colors” which was designed around the concept of never being afraid to be yourself.

The director of Vocal Intensity, Mady McNemar, said she was “very proud” of the way her students performed at this week’s competition. She said they had struggled a bit in their contest the previous week, but the “kids really put in the effort” during the two practices they were able to get in during the week and you could tell.

Mrs. Mac, as her students call her, went on to say, “It is only up from here.” The group took the runner-up position in their category behind only Martinsburg High School’s mixed choral group, Good Times.

Results included:
1st place in Division B: Martinsburg Good Times
2nd place in Division B: Robert C. Byrd Vocal Intensity
1st place in Division C: Doddridge County Bel Canto Bulldogs
2nd place in Division C: Grafton Entertainers Edition 51
1st place Girls’ Division: Martinsburg Glitz

If you have the opportunity, consider attending a show choir performance. Whether you are a musician or a theater buff, whether you appreciate the value of a well-built set or a well-constructed costume, whether you are a dancer at heart or you just enjoy supporting the young people of your community, you will spend the day amazed by the capabilities of high school students.

My heart breaks for Ukraine

GRAPEVINE

By Rosalyn Queen

I am probably speaking for a large percentage of my readers who are older and who have been confined to our homes due to COVID-19. Then this leads me to the subject of this column this week, the war in Ukraine.

I have watched many hours of television over the past week and each time I come away devastated. For most of you in my age range, there have been other wars, but I cannot remember any that we sat and waited and watched each step as it happened. Lately I have given much thought to our American kids going to war and coming home without limbs or coming home dead. As I watch this Ukraine thing develop, I think these men and women are no different than our Americans.

I have been devastated by the destruction of the buildings and, more so than anything, by the individuals who are seeking safety. Can you imagine living in the subways? Can you imagine having small children in these subways? Can you imagine carrying your life in two suitcases? How sad is it to see the thousands of people trying to board the trains that can only handle hundreds. I cringe when I see some of the beautiful buildings destroyed that are so much a part of Ukraine's culture. The destruction of this country is heartbreaking.

I do not know how this will end, but my heart and prayers go out to these people and I pray that I will never have to see this again.

Ash Wednesday is here and this marks the beginning of Lent and then the celebration of Easter Sunday. Forty days of Lent is a short time to make a few adjustments in our life.

No matter what you aim to sacrifice during this season, remember to give thought and prayer to your efforts. I always feel that Lent is a time to work on yourself. Just a little effort can make you a better person that will continue after Lent. During this time of year we realize that we have much to give to those who have so little.

My thoughts and prayers to my cousin Thelma Ferrise on her passing. You will never know how much I miss her weekly calls and all the advice she offered me. Rest In Peace.

Take care, prepare for a good Lenten season, stay healthy and until next week "Now You Have Heard It Through The Grapevine."

Family visits and speed limits

Pine Bluff News

One warm day last week, I was backing out of the driveway and spotted Postal cleaning out one of his vehicles. So, I drove over to see what was happening and to get caught up on things. He has been staying holed up like me waiting on spring. It was nice talking with Julia and my little buddy Colton.

Sunday, Santana came to visit and to do some house cleaning. Lord only knows the house needed it. She is still pretty as ever and has an extra glow about her. Our girl is three months pregnant. In the afternoon, Patty stopped by with my great-granddaughter Aubrey. She's growing like a weed (Aubrey, not Patty). She really likes kindergarten, but she doesn't have a boyfriend yet. She and Santana spent half the afternoon playing hide and seek in the house. When Santana was a tyke, we would play the same thing.

Monday, I took the Explorer up to Rusty's Body Shop for a new inspection sticker. It passed with flying colors (Actually, the vehicle is black). I think it's about time for the state to do away with the annual inspection stickers. Just my opinion.

Tuesday, Kim and #2 Phillip came in from Virginia to spend a couple of days. She is still pretty as ever and Phil is still as, well, he looks like Phil. In the evening, Santana and Andrew came over to visit. Our girl has been having morning sickness. I told her it comes with the territory.

Thursday, Kim and Phillip left for Virginia. She had to stop at Price Cutter in town to pick up stick pepperoni and hoagie buns to take back. Neither are available where she lives. In the afternoon, Sisters-in-law Bernie and Windy with Nephew Dante stopped by. Windy and Dante are visiting the area for the week, and he wanted to see his uncle Pat before they went back to Ohio. He's 10 years old and turning into a fine young gentleman. He taught his aunt Susie how to floss (dance) right before she passed away two and a half years ago.

I got great news, the WVDOH have erected two new '40 MPH' speed limit signs in PB. We're coming up in the world.

Speaking of speed limits, I do have a problem with the speed limit on Hood Avenue going towards Peora/PB/Wyatt from town. It's 25 mph from the bridge to the turn (city limits) right before the entrance to Nuzum Trucking where it is posted 35 mph. After passing the church and Lucas Mansion (both sit on a hill) on the road, there is nothing but a ditch on one side and the West Fork River and telephone poles on the other. Coming towards town, the 25 mph speed limit sign is posted at the church. Occasionally, they have Dudley Do-Right checking for speeders. However, I can go 35 mph on South Pike Street from Advanced Auto to McDonalds while passing approximately 18 businesses and 2 schools (when kids are not present). So, apparently those telephone poles along Hood Avenue must really be valuable and they don't want them damaged.

Until next time, have a great week and remember our Veterans. Ace

With new director, Raptor Center moves from Fairmont

Formerly known as the West Virginia Raptor Rehabilitation Center (WVRRRC), the newly named WV Raptor Center has restructured and plans to move to Tucker and Randolph counties, according to a news release from the organization.

The center's goals of rehabilitating birds of prey, training educational ambassadors, providing education programs, and supplying scientific data to share with other facilities and academia, remain the same.

The Fairmont location will be used during the summer months after renovation is completed.

Founder Michael Book established the center in 1983. After 38 years of caring for injured, orphaned and sick birds of prey and providing environmental educational programs, Book made the difficult decision to close the doors of the WVRRRC in July 2021. All the birds housed at the center at the time were transferred to another facility.

Just when it looked like this was the end of a much-needed service, Collin Waybright, one of the youngest Master Class Falconers in the state of West Virginia, contacted the center after receiving a call to pick up an injured raptor. Devastated upon learning the center was not in operation, Waybright, 22, decided to take on the challenge of keeping the doors open. Before assuming the role of executive director, Waybright had volunteered at the center since 2014.

The nonprofit has also established a board of directors, according to the press release. "We have a good solid Board of Directors that are all invested in seeing the WV Raptor Center succeed in its goals," said Chairman of the Board Marsha Waybright. The additional board members are Simeon Sheppard (treasurer), Luke Bucher, Asa Mullenex, and Dr. Bob Ebert. Volunteers include Tiffany Waybright (educational director and historian) and Whitney Mullenex (recorder).

For more information on the WV Raptor Center or to schedule an educational program, please contact Executive Director Collin Waybright at 304-366-2867 or raptor@wvrrc.org.

Justice for All is American. Censorship is not. We CAN handle the Truth.

In West Virginia and elsewhere, numerous attempts are under way to ban discussion of some of our nation's less comfortable history, especially as it relates to race and gender, from classrooms and workplaces.

Gagging teachers and forbidding honest conversations are not only unwise but impossible in an age where any student can—and does—find information on the Internet faster than parents. This creates an unwelcoming environment that won't entice new businesses or keep our young people here. Children are already forming groups to read and learn about the subjects that target these bans.

BUSINESS MATTERS

Expanding pizza place is business of the month Entrepreneur brings new life to local landmarks

By Mary Heinrich
Staff Writer

East of Chicago Pizza located at 343 Pike Street in Shinnston is this March's business of the month. If this address sounds familiar, it is probably because it is the site of the old Shinnston Dairy Queen.

With the opportunity in front of him and his family backing him, Jeffrey Chalfant jumped into the world of business ownership at the age of eighteen. Chalfant purchased the Dairy Queen building at the same time he purchased Vincent's Lumber Yard.

Chalfant desires to learn from those around him. The young entrepreneur took the time to learn the ropes of the lumber yard from Louie Smith, the retiring owner, and realized that the wisest plan of action was to operate the lumber yard until he could renovate the building next door.

In 2019, his dream was fully realized when he was able to bring East of Chicago Pizza to the people of Shinnston.

Chalfant reported that many chain restaurants were unwilling to move to a small community. But he was not to be deterred, and the franchise owners of the East of Chicago Pizza were completely on board with starting up shop in a neighborhood like Shinnston. After tasting East of Chicago's pizza on an out-of-state trip, Chalfant knew it would do well in this area.

It turned out to be such a good fit that Chalfant was able to open a second store in January 2022. His second restaurant is located in downtown Bridgeport. Once again, Chalfant has chosen a structure known in the city. His newest venture is located in the old MPB Print and Sign building.

His eagerness to retain the buildings which have become landmarks in the area has proven to be a hallmark of his business practice. In an earlier interview with the Shinnston News, he said he is willing to maintain local history while bringing the future of industry to the area. In all three of his local businesses, the buildings have been remodeled to include many technological upgrades. However, with all of the updates, all of the buildings have retained their basic structures.

While they are all small businesses, Chalfant employs roughly forty people throughout the county. Also, all three of these endeavors have thrived throughout the COVID pandemic, when many others have, sadly, seen their doors closed.

Chalfant has admitted that COVID-19 has brought some changes and difficulties for his business. He was able to stay open through the shut-down, but like other businesses, had to heed the mask mandate and to keep his employees six feet apart whenever possible.

Chalfant has also experienced some supply chain difficulties, although he said that his supplier has been very consistent and has been able to substitute for most supplies they have not been able to procure. The store has had to switch from the East of Chicago labeled boxes to plain brown boxes and did have a short period of time when chicken wings became a bit of a problem.

The young entrepreneur says he has had more trouble with the cost of goods which is on the rise. He said that he may be forced to raise the prices on a few items, despite his best efforts to refrain from passing those increases down to his customers.

Chalfant said that he very much appreciates the people of Shinnston because they are "definitely a supportive community" that "tries to support those in business as much as possible before traveling elsewhere."

As for his expansion into Bridgeport, Jeffrey says that this "just fell into place." With the early success of his lumber yard and pizza chain, he was approached about opening a second site within three months of opening his Shinnston store. He knew then that the timing was not right. However, in June or July, when a company he did business with decided to put the business up for sale, Chalfant felt the time was right. From there, everything "just fell into place."

The expectations for this new store are as strong as those for the Shinnston site. While Chalfant realizes that the competition is more notable in Bridgeport, he is also certain that East of Chicago Pizza offers a product which is set apart from other pizza places. He is also counting on the higher rate of traffic and the wide delivery zone to assure success.

Jeffrey recommended that other young people considering opening businesses should trust their judgment and work hard.

"Do not let negative comments get you down, learn from them and do better the next time. People are going to tell you 'That will never work' but you must learn that for yourself...trust your instinct," he said.

UHC again earns accreditation

Submitted by UHC

United Hospital Center (UHC) Family Medicine Residency Program has once again earned accreditation from the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME). The Review Committee commended both the program and the hospital for demonstrating substantial compliance with the ACGME's Program Requirements and/or Institutional Requirements without any citations. The decision from the Council accredits the residency program for one year.

"I am proud of our achievements at the UHC Family Medicine Residency Program. These highly skilled physicians now have successful practices in the area; some are community preceptors, hospitalists, and even program faculty," said Dr. Eric J. Radcliffe, program director of UHC Family Medicine Residency. "The UHC Family Medicine Residency Program is an excellent training program boasting ten consecutive years of achieving a 100% board exam pass rate for both the ABFM and AOBFP exams – achieving scores that exceed the national average."

The UHC Family Medicine Residency Program consistently achieves full ACGME accreditation in allopathic and osteopathic medicine. The original program began teaching allopathic residents in 1975. In 1991, the program became dually accredited and began training osteopathic residents as well. Due to UHC's commitment to education, the Family Practice Clinic has produced quality medical care and excellent family medicine physicians for more than 40 years. This medicine-based hospital program has 21 residents and only accepts seven residents annually.

City renewing ad contract

The City of Shinnston is renewing a contract with WBOY for ads to promote the city. During a City Council meeting Feb. 14, City Manager Chad Edwards said the city was in the process of renewing the contract, which expired in January. He said the city is limiting costs to about $20,000 and the WBOY recommendation for this year's contract greatly exceeded that, so the city plans to scale down the campaign. He said the goal is to encourage people to visit, work in and move to Shinnston.

WVU and Alderson Broaddus face their own battles

The Bottom Line

By Bill Nestor
Sports Editor

This past Saturday, West Virginia fans packed the Coliseum to help the men's basketball team in their efforts to try to find the win column against Texas. The Longhorns came in as the twentieth-ranked team in the land and didn't blink when they were down by double digits midway through the second half. They just hunkered down and outscored WVU 28-17 down the stretch to garner the 82-81 come from behind victory.

The Mountaineers had the chance to steal the win late when legendary head coach Bob Huggins drew up the perfect play with less than ten seconds remaining. The Horns had just turned the ball over and provided a golden opportunity to Huggins and his squad. The planned play worked to perfection as hot-shooting Malik Curry received an open look from 16-feet away. Curry's offering came up short and so did West Virginia.

So many things have to go right for a last-second play to work out. It must be diagrammed properly, executed so that the chosen player gets the ball where he is intended to have it, and the shot has to go into the hoop. Several times this season, the first two parts didn't lead to an opportunity for a shot. So, if you're looking for a positive during this rough patch, there it is.

The Mountaineers have lost 13 of their last 14 games. The setback to Texas brought a sixth consecutive loss, and, for the first time this season, WVU has a losing record. The last game of the regular season takes place at home this Saturday as the Eers are set to host TCU. Huggs has his eyes on the postseason that could potentially include the Big 12 Tournament. This year's edition includes exceptional talent and coaching, so a strong postseason is a distinct possibility. It is just a matter of putting all of the pieces together and there is no coach better at doing that than Huggins.

The Mountain East Conference has its fair share of impressive basketball programs. I have been fortunate to have been able to call Alderson Broaddus University basketball games for the last five years. This past campaign has been the first that my broadcast partner, Doug Comer, and I have done both home and away games on 101.3-The Bear. Our friendship has lasted over four decades and, ironically, started on the basketball court. We have spent the last four months following the Battlers all over West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland, and, most recently, Ohio.

This past Saturday, we traveled to Notre Dame College, just outside of Cleveland, for the regular season finale.

Seating in South Euclid allows fans to sit on just one side of the court which is opposite the benches. It also offered us the chance to broadcast from the end of the AB bench. It is the first time in over a quarter of a century of broadcasting that I have had this view.

A nine-point halftime deficit did not phase the Battlers in their attempt at a road victory. It would not be an easy task as Notre Dame had already beaten conference powers, West Liberty and Fairmont State on their home floor. Half-time adjustments and in-game moves have been impressive traits of AB head coach Stephen Dye since taking over the program at his alma mater. The trend continued in the second half as his team outscored the Falcons 49-26 to earn the come-from-behind win. Our vantage point allowed us to catch an even more detailed view of Coach Dye in action and it made me think that, if I were a player looking for a place to call home, I would be making a trip to Philippi. That will do it for now. Until next week...take care and God bless.

Byrd High School earlier this month, Katie Swiger took first place in the jump category, and Emalee Brown, Sierra Moore, Paige McGee, & Bailee Drago took second place in the stunt group category. Athletes of the Week

It's that time once again to acknowledge the efforts of Harrison County's student-athletes. Each week we review the performances of the athletes from the six schools (Bridgeport, Liberty, Lincoln, Notre Dame, Robert C. Byrd, and South Harrison) in our county.

The Shinnston News & Harrison County Journal's Athlete of the Week award is an avenue to promote the youth of our county while bringing attention to their athletic accomplishments.

This week's winners of the Shinnston News & Harrison County Journal's Athletes of the Week are Bridgeport's Gabby Reep and Liberty's

Conner Holden. Indian's basketball standout, Gabby Reep has been one of the top players in North Central West Virginia all season. Reep scored a team high 18 points in the season ending loss to B-U last Tuesday.

Mountaineer guard Conner Holden led his team to a 2-1 record. Holden averaged 17.6 points per game on the week. He saved his best for last, scoring 23 points to help his squad to a sectional win over Lewis County this past Saturday.

Congratulations to Gabby Reep and Conner Holden for being named this week's Shinnston News & Harrison County Journal's Athletes of the Week.

Roger L. Martin, age 85, passed away in peace at his home on Friday, January 21, 2022. He is survived by his loving wife of 57 years, Linda L. Martin; daughters, Teresa (Scott) Long, Vanessa (Rob) Evans, and Tracey (Tony) Robison. After raising 3 daughters, he then had 8 granddaughters, before having 2 grandsons. Roger also had 5 great grandsons, and 3 great granddaughters. In addition to his parents, he is preceded in death by his brother Edward Martin.

He was born on January 8, 1937, to the late Carl and Mabel Martin in Lumberport, WV. He lived on Shinn Run in a 3-room house with no running water and grew up working on his grandparents' farm. Times on the farm were hard, and one winter in particular, when his grandad fell ill, everything fell on his shoulders - milking 20 cows by hand twice a day, doing all the feeding and butchering on the farm, along with keeping up with his own trap line - while he was still in high school. That's how he learned in life, by doing and taking responsibility, and he was proud of it.

Roger volunteered for the draft when he was 22 and spent three years in the Army. 19 months of that time was spent in Hawaii, where he may, or may not have, eaten more than his share of pineapples (ask the grandkids about it). He said God spared him from Vietnam so that he could find a good woman. He found her in the middle of a hayfield, bringing him a drink of water.

Roger moved his family to Coshocton, Ohio in 1969, with a job transfer with Fairmont Foods. From 1979 until he retired in July of 2000, he worked for McWane Ductile, formerly Clow Water Systems. Whenever life got hard, he would just work harder at times working 16-hour shifts, 7 days a week, and during one period of time, he did that for 6 months straight. For many years, Roger heated the home with wood, so cutting firewood was always his second job, and he worked at it all year long. Even in his later years, with many health issues causing pain and fatigue, he continued cutting firewood, working on his tractor, and taking care of his property.

Roger and Linda moved to Newark, Ohio in 2007 to be closer to their family. He was a member of Christian Life Center in Heath. His hobbies were woodworking, and he enjoyed crafting things for his family in the garage. He was a man of few words, but he showed his love by his hard work to provide for his family. There is a memorial service planned in the spring for the family.

In addition to his parents, Everett is preceded in death by his wife, Delores (Jackson) Drainer. They married on February 10, 1968. Also, one son, Joseph Drainer; two brothers: Bo and Dave Drainer, and two sisters: Leona Deems and Dorothy Drainer.

Everett is survived by one daughter, Tina Merritt and husband Ronnie of Shinnston; daughter-in-law, Charlotte Drainer and fiancé Jeff Fornash of Salem; three grandsons:

Matthew Drainer and wife Kassie of Wallace, Tyler Drainer and wife Tori of Lumberport and Dustin Merritt and wife Bridget of Saltwell; two granddaughters: Kayla O'Dell and husband Carter of Shinnston and Kaitlynn Drainer of Lumberport; one great granddaughter, Matty Drainer; two great grandsons: Colton Drainer and Luke Merritt and one on the way; several nieces and nephews and companion, Judy Wilfong of Jane Lew.

Everett worked for Union Carbide and retired with 30 years' service. He enjoyed dirt track racing, riding his Harley, and loved spending time with family, friends and grandkids. He was a member of the Fraternal Order of Orioles, Fraternal Order of Eagles of Clarksburg and Loyal Order of Moose of Shinnston, Lodge 929.

Family and friends were received at Dorsey Funeral Home, 701 S. Pike St., Shinnston, on Thursday, February 17, 2022 from 2:00pm to 8:00pm. Inurnment and service will be held at a later date at Shinnston Memorial Cemetery.

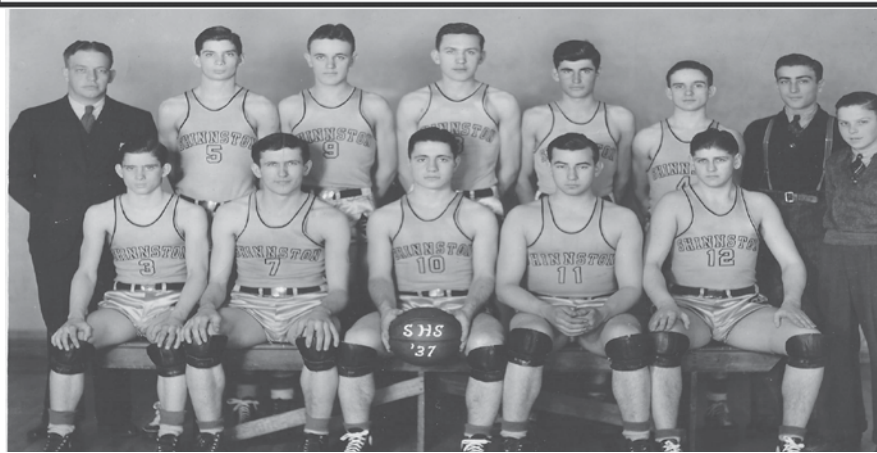

Thelma Marion Ferrise

Thelma Marion Ferrise, 94, of Lumberport, passed away at United Hospital Center on February 6, 2022, joining her beloved family. She was the second eldest born at her family home in Lumberport, WV, July 30, 1927, and was the last surviving child of the late John and Costanza "Bessie" (Varca) Ferrise. The bedrock of her life was family and kindness. Thelma was known for being intelligent, strong, tough, and just as equally warm and thoughtful. It's no wonder Valentine's Day was her favorite holiday; she often said the world needs more love and that there are all kinds of love, and it was important to accept everyone.

Ferrise was a lifelong resident of Lumberport, WV, who was well known for her generosity and support to the community and a member of St. Ann's Catholic Church. She was preceded in death by her much-cherished brothers and sisters: Antoinette Ware, Sam Ferrise, Mary Elliot, Tony Ferrise, and Augustine Ferrise.

Thelma frequently talked about her fondness for school. She graduated from Lumberport High School in 1945 and immediately joined the workforce to help support her family. She worked in the local pharmacy and later in manufacturing jobs, including Maidenform, as a seamstress. Thelma always held her head up high and encouraged others to do the same. In 1960, she met then-Senator John F. Kennedy, who had traveled to WV during his Presidential Campaign to tour the factory. She proudly shook his hand and later talked about how we are all just people, even Senator Kennedy.

Thelma was a lifelong learner. In 1978 she received a Special Clerical Diploma from WV Career College at Clarksburg. In 1979, she found her true work calling as a nurse's assistant at the Veteran's Hospital in Clarksburg, caring for veterans in the hospital and transporting them to other medical care facilities around the region. She had a deep respect, appreciation, and fondness for veterans, and repeatedly talked about her father's and brother's service in the military. Thelma Ferrise retired in 1991 and was devoted to taking care of her mother, Bessie, and later her brother Sam. Thelma always put family first.

She often quoted her mother on what is important in life: "saying thank you, saying I love you, and I miss you."

Well, Thelma, we thank you for all the joy you brought us and for your words of wisdom and encouragement and your generosity, we loved you more than you can know, and we will most certainly miss you forever. You will always be in our hearts. We know you are at home now with your precious family. Thelma leaves behind several nephews, nieces, and cousins. A special thank you to Cousin Carol Oliveto for providing much care and support for Thelma these last few years.

Per her wishes, a private service was held on Thursday, February 10th at the Lion's Club Cemetery, Lumberport, with Father Chris Turner officiating.

She was a humble servant of the Lord. She was a community leader, educator, entrepreneur, mother, sister, daughter, and aunt. She had a memorable impact on everyone she met.

Ruth Ellen Monroe

Ruth Ellen (Davis) Monroe, 89, of Bridgeport, WV, passed away after suffering many years with Alzheimer’s Disease on Tuesday, February 8th, 2022. She had been a resident of Sundale Nursing Home for the last several years.

Ruth was born on December 21, 1932, the child of the late Olive Pearl (Davis) Krieger of Morgantown, WV. In early 1950, while working at the Varsity Shop, she met Bernard C. Monroe of Shinnston, WV. They were married in August 1950, setting up their household in Shinnston, WV.

Ruth is survived by one daughter, Rhonda Bond of Clarksburg, two sons, Jennings (J.C.) Monroe and his wife Brenda of Bridgeport and Clinton Monroe and his significant other Christine Musta of Bridgeport.

Also surviving are her grandchildren, Amy Echard and her husband Roy of Bridgeport, Bernard Bond of Clarksburg, Chris Bond and his wife Suzanne of Martinsburg WV, Robert Nixon and his wife Shannon of Washington State, Terra Moyer of Utah, Katelynn Thomas and her husband Logan of Weston WV, Hunter Monroe, and Piercen Monroe of Clarksburg WV, 16 great grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Preceding her in death are her husband Bernard, her mother Pearl (Krieger) of Morgantown, WV, her son-in-law Larry Bond of Clarksburg. Also, her only sibling Barbara and her husband James Thornburg of Westover, WV.

Ruth led a happy life starting from very humble beginnings in Morgantown. She spent a lot of her childhood with her grandparents Augusta and William Davis. After her marriage to Bernard, they established their roots in Shinnston, WV where she and her husband built their home and raised their children. Ruth was very much involved with girl scouts, dancing, and band boosters for both Shinnston High School and Lincoln High School and a longtime member of the Order of the Eastern Star. She and her husband owned and operated Monroe’s Market / Restaurant in West Union for several years. After selling their business, she worked as a cook at the Plantation Restaurant, Jane Lew and then spent many years as a cook at Bob Evans’s Restaurant in Bridgeport, until she retired in 2008.

Ruth was an accomplished Oriental dancer associated with the Shriners. She along with three other local ladies performed at various places for the Shrine, traveling as far as Miami, Fl. to perform at the Fontainebleau Hotel. She was an avid painter, winning many contests, such as 1st place in the Shinnston Bicentennial Art Show in 1976.

Ruth was a member of the Simpson Creek Baptist church where she attended many functions including Sunday and weekly service when she was able. She loved to read her Bible and she loved to listen to Elvis, gospel, and country music. She also was very talented in music as this was her entertainment with her family when she was young.

Ruth was a good soul and would help others if she could. She was greatly loved and will be truly missed by her family and many others.

Her family would like to thank the staff of Sundale for the loving care they gave to their “Ruthie”.

Visitation was held at Perine Funeral Home (1348 S. Pike St. Shinnston), from 6:00 to 8:00 PM on Monday, February the 14th. A funeral service was held at 11:00 AM on Tuesday, February the 15th followed by the interment at the WV National Cemetery in Grafton. The services were led by Doctor Michael C. Hopkins (retired) of Simpson Creek Baptist Church.

In lieu of flowers, please honor Ruth’s memory by making a contribution to the Alzheimer’s Foundation of America, 322 8th Avenue, 16th floor, NY 10001 or the charity of your choice.

We would like to extend our thanks and appreciation to Perine Funeral Home Shinnston WV, for all their assistance during this trying time.

Online memories and condolences can be extended to the family at www.perinefunerals.com.

winding road to Charleston. It took almost three hours before we got to the Daniel Boone Hotel in downtown Charleston. As we walked around town before the game, people were coming up to us and wishing us good luck on the game that night. We really felt like big shots when some little kids came up and asked for our autographs!

Unfortunately, we lost our first game of the season to Virginia Tech, and we headed back to Morgantown to prepare for our game with Robert Morris, just before our Christmas break. While the first semester was over, the practice schedule for the team continued on, with just a couple days off for Christmas.

When the second semester started, the schedule heated up and we went back to Charleston to play Kentucky. We knocked off the highly rated Kentucky team and got ready for Cincinnati at home and an away game at Pitt. The Pitt game was one of the toughest we played all year and there was a lot of pushing and shoving during the game with lots of fouls being called. We were playing two games a week and usually one would be on the road.

In early February, we headed to Washington, DC, to play the University of Maryland at College Park and I got to start my only game as a Mountaineer. It seems that several of the starters went out on the town in D.C. and WVU Coach Chuck Windsor punished them by benching them at the beginning of the game. I was playing center and as they brought the ball down the court, the guard passed me the ball and I turned and shot. Swish! About two plays later, I went back to the foul line, and they passed the ball into me and another bucket. I had the first four points in the game and the Maryland coach was screaming at his team to guard me. In just a minute or two, Coach Windsor called timeout and put the regulars in the game. It was my best game and one I still remember like it was yesterday.

The season ended with a 7-6 record and lots of great memories. The following year, Coach Waters had left to take the head coaching job at Duke and Coach Moran was named the head coach. I really liked Coach Moran and he reached out to me and Greg Frey of Fairmont to invite us to walk on to the varsity team. It was the fulfillment of a dream, and I couldn't believe my good luck. It was the hardest I'd ever worked in my life, and it was all business.

My varsity career was short-lived, however, as my number was called on Dec. 1 to be eligible for the draft and I joined the West Virginia National Guard and headed for basic training in Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri. Basketball remained a part of my life for many years after graduating from WVU and although you could count my points scored on two hands, it remains one of the best memories of my life! Go Mountaineers!

Infant formula warning issued

Submitted by DHHR

The West Virginia Department of Health and Human Resources (DHHR) Bureau for Public Health has confirmed the state's first case of salmonella in an infant likely related to ingesting recalled powdered infant formula.

Last week, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) announced they were investigating four complaints of infant illness related to products produced at Abbott Nutrition's facility located in Sturgis, Michigan, received from September 6, 2021 to December 18, 2021. Complaints included three reports of Cronobacter sakazakii infections and one report of Salmonella Newport infection in infants. All infants were hospitalized and there was one death.

Abbott issued a voluntary recall of powdered infant formula from Similac, Alimentum or EleCare with the following product codes which can be found on the container:

the first two digits of the code are 22 through 37, and the code contains K8, SH, or Z2, and the expiration date is April 1, 2022 (APR 2022) or later.

These products are widely distributed across the United States and other countries.

Formulas matching the codes provided above could be contaminated with Cronobacter. These bacteria can cause severe foodborne illness in infants with newborns being especially high risk.

“Parents and caregivers with infants on formula should immediately review the formula to ensure they are not using a recalled product,” said Dr. Ayne Amjad, State Health Officer and Commissioner of DHHR's Bureau for Public Health. “They should seek immediate medical care if their infant has consumed recalled formula and is experiencing signs and symptoms of Cronobacter or Salmonella infection: diarrhea, poor feeding, irritability, vomiting, or blood in their stool.” Parents and caregivers with a sick infant who has consumed a recalled product are encouraged to keep opened or unopened cans of recalled formula in the instance that the local health department would like to sample the product.

Cronobacter bacteria can cause severe, life-threatening infections such as sepsis or meningitis. Symptoms of sepsis and meningitis include poor feeding, irritability, temperature changes, jaundice, grunting breaths, and abnormal movements. Cronobacter infection may also cause bowel damage and may spread through the blood to other parts of the body. Parents or caregivers noticing any of these symptoms in their children should seek immediate medical care.

Products that do not contain the information listed above are not impacted by this advisory. This advisory does not include liquid formula products or any metabolic deficiency formulas.

Healthcare providers and health departments are encouraged to report any confirmed cases of Cronobacter or Salmonella who consumed a recalled product to the DHHR's Office of Epidemiological and Preventive Services at 304-558-5358, extension 2.

Families who purchase infant formula with WIC benefits should reach out to their WIC clinic to return any open or unopened recalled products. WIC clinics must verify the products prior to replacing WIC benefits.
