McClain Printing Shutters — Doors After Three — Generations in Parsons

By: Lydia Crawley

The Parsons Advocate

The McClain Family had been a printing and publishing staple of Parsons since 1943. As of the end of the year 2025, it is no more. After more than six decades in Parsons, McClain Printing has closed its doors. Third Generation owner Ken Smith spoke with the Parsons Advocate about the history of his family's business and the decisions leading up the sale and closure.

Smith said that his family got into printing and publications when his grandfather purchased the Parsons Advocate Newspaper in 1943. The paper remained in his family's hands until 2005 when it was purchased by the Stalemans.

"My grandfather bought the newspaper in 1943," Smith said. "It was in my family until I think 2005."

The printing company emerged in 1958. It was also started by Smith's grandfather as a private book publishing company, but also did job work with letterheads, envelopes, business cards and the like on a local basis.

"So it was 67 years old when we closed," Smith said.

Smith worked in the shop from the time he was 14 years old. When Smith was away in the Air Force, his father purchased additional equipment for the shop. Upon Smith's return, the company expanded into the commercial market and hired a salesman. This later expanded into subcontract work that lead to "trade only" printing work for the DC Metro Area in the mid 1980s.

"We still did private book publishing clear to the end, but that became a very small portion of the company. Most of the

Road Risk Increase in February — from Wildlife, WV First in Country for Animal Collisions

By: Lydia Crawley

The Parsons Advocate

February is known as a Month for lovers and it seems the same is true for the animal kingdom, as well. Several West Virginia species of four legged furry friends enter into their mating season or become more active due to scarce food sources during the month, leading to increased collisions with automobiles.

While most people, especially in Tucker

County, think of deer when they think of wildlife dangers on roads, come late January through March, wildlife experts say drivers need to be aware of many other species near the roadways, as well. Drivers along Tucker County roadways may see an increase in skunks, foxes, opossums and coyotes on the roads this time of year more than any other due to breeding season.

January Snowiest Month of 25/26 Winter So Far

By: Lydia Crawley

The Parsons Advocate

Following Winter Storm Fern's arrival the weekend of January 23rd, January has shaped up to be the snowiest for Tucker County so far this season.

Snow Gallery reports show that in January alone, the official reporting station in Canaan Valley reported snowfall totals of 53.9 inches. Totals that far surpass those of previous months, with December recording a total of 30.0 inches and November recording 19.8 inches.

The day with the highest snowfall amount occurred during Winter Storm Fern on January 25th, when 13.8 inches fell at the recording station. Following days saw 4.5, 3.5, 2.3, 2.0 and 1.0 inches accumulate on top of the heavy snowfall.

When compared to previous years, last January saw a heavier snowfall, with January of 2025 recording 73.1 inches. The five year January average snowfall is 45.0 inches. Seasonal snowfall amounts on the five year average are 124.9 inches with the 2024-2025 season seeing a much higher snowfall amount at 161.4 inches.

However, the amounts are far below the averages from 2001-2015 which saw seasonal totals of 175.7 inches.

In total by the end of January, with the extreme cold temperatures holding on due to the arctic blast holding Tucker County

— Mettiki Mine Closure — Announced, Last Coal Mine in Tucker County to Close

By: Lydia Crawley

The Parsons Advocate

A WARN Notice announced Thursday, January 29th, by Alliance Resource Partners, I.P., the parent company of Mettiki Coal, LLC, the pending closure of the last coal mine in Tucker County. 199 employees at the Mountain View Mine outside of Davis received notice that the mine would "fulfill its existing contractual commitments, which are scheduled to conclude in March 2026," according to a statement by ARLP.

In the company's statement, Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer Joseph W. Craft III attributed the closure to, "a series of planned and unplanned outages at a key customer's plant negatively impacted their demand and our shipments in 2025. We have recently been informed that the plant expects additional outages during 2026 and based upon current demand projections and contractual commitments for 2026, they are not in a position to commit to purchase any additional tons from Mettiki for the foreseeable future."

The statement goes on to explain that the company relied on the customer to purchase a minimum of 1 million tons of coal from the mine a year to remain viable and there is no other customer currently available that can fill the need the mine would have. In 2025, the Mettiki facility produced 1.2 million tons of coal with 300 thousand tons shipped to the export metallurgical market and the remainder to the

Free, Community-Focused Tax Preparation Available Across West Virginia Through VITA Program

Free, IRS- and State-Funded Tax Help Available Across West Virginia Through VITA

Tax season can be stressful—especially when commercial tax preparation services charge hundreds of dollars to file even simple returns. Fortunately, West Virginians have access to a free, trusted alternative through the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program, supported statewide by the West Virginia Alliance for Sustainable Families (WVASF).

All VITA services in West Virginia are funded by the IRS and through the West Virginia Department of Human Services (DoHS) via the Bureau for Family Assistance (BFA). The program is community-focused, ensuring residents receive reliable tax assistance in accessible, local settings.

January 29 marks Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) Awareness Day, a national effort to raise awareness about one of the most important tax credits for working individuals and families. Millions of eligible taxpayers miss out on the EITC each year, often because they are unaware they qualify or do not file a tax return. VITA sites help ensure eligible filers claim the credits they've earned.

VITA provides free tax preparation for eligible individuals and families earning $69,000 or less in 2025. IRS-certified volunteers help prepare accurate returns, identify eligible credits, and reduce errors that can delay refunds or trigger issues with tax filings.

Why Free Tax Help Matters

Retail tax preparation fees continue to rise, often costing several hundred dollars. These expenses can significantly reduce refunds or place financial strain on working families, seniors, and individuals

News of Record

The following property transfers have been recorded in the Tucker County Clerk's office:

- James R. Vance, Dry Fork District, Parcel A – House Parcel 0.672 acres to Travis Foster and Taylor Fosteer, $148,750.

- Peter R. Holden and Mary Gayle R. Holden, Dry Fork District, Deed of Gift: Unit H-4 Northwoods Condo to The Quintessential Family LLC.

on fixed incomes.

VITA helps eliminate that burden by offering professional, nonprofit-supported tax preparation at no cost, allowing taxpayers to keep more of what they earn.

Navigating Tax Law Changes

Tax laws continue to evolve, and recent changes can be difficult to understand. Topics frequently discussed include:

- No tax on tips
- No tax on overtime pay
- No tax on car loan interest for vehicles manufactured in the United States

Understanding how these changes may—or may not—apply to an individual return can be confusing. WVASF helps connect West Virginians to free assistance so they don't have to navigate these complexities alone.

"As a nonprofit organization, our mission is to make sure people aren't paying for help they can get for free," WVASF representatives shared. "VITA is a trusted, community-based solution."

Finding Free Help

VITA sites are available throughout West Virginia. Residents can find a nearby location by visiting WVASF.org, which lists available services across the state.

For those comfortable filing on their own, MyFreeTaxes.com offers free online tax filing, operated by the nonprofit United Way, with step-by-step guidance and secure submission.

Whether filing in person or online, VITA services provide West Virginians with safe, accurate, and free options during tax season.

key customer.

Tucker County Commission President Mike Rosenau said he spent most of Thursday in contact with Delegates, Senators, the Grant County Commission and other governmental entities about the closure, all of which had no idea it had been announced. Rosenau said he was working to try to find assistance for the workers as soon as possible.

"The employees were surprised, they didn't know it was coming," Rosenau said.

The most jobs lost at the plant are in the positions of Belt Person, Fire Boss – Examiner – Hourly, General Underground, Mechanic/Electrician – E 1 Underground, Roof Bolter Operator and Scoop Utility.

Rosenau said that Grant County will see the largest decrease in Coal Severance funding from the closure, should production cease entirely. Grant County averages around $400,000 a year in Coal Severance funding from the Mettiki operations, according to Rosenau.

"We don't get a lot of the Coal Severance because the Coal Severance is in Grant County," Rosenau said. "The coal reserves are basically in Grant County, they lie in Grant County."

Tucker County, however, has much more to lose, according to Rosenau, in the form of Personal Property Taxes. Since the pit mouth is in Tucker County,

State of West Virginia, as well.

"So probably the thing that I would be most proud of was the fact that we brought in a couple million dollars worth of printing into Parsons, West Virginia for many, many years," Smith said.

The company had what Smith termed a "very expensive press repair last year" that contributed heavily into the decision to sell and close the facility. This repair was also coupled with a struggling year, as well. Smith said the decision was made to repair the press and keep the company in business the rest of the year.

"The first part of the year was really not good," Smith said. "We lost a lot of money on it. The fall was typically the best time of the year for the company. So, I make the decision last May to keep the business open for the rest of the year and get into the fall portion of the year and try to make some of that money back, which we did. It was the right decision."

The accounts were sold to Campbell Print Center in Harrisonburg, Virginia. All equipment from the operation was sold at auction January 20th. The publishing name and trademark was sold to West Virginia Book Company in Charleston. West Virginia Book Company purchased the right to use the name McClain Printing Company and the copyright book inventory to the company's 38 books, Smith said. Smith is hopeful that the name McClain Printing Company will continue to live on.

"Now I have to do something with the building," Smith said.

In total, Smith said including himself, the company employed 12 people, but at its peak had 25 employees.

the County is entitled to all tax from equipment and buildings and should Mettiki cease operations and pull everything out, the County could stand to lose approximately $440,350 a year in funds from taxing of mining equipment like miners, buggies, scoops and buildings.

"It's not only the tax revenue, but the loss of jobs," Rosenau said. "Not only the 199 coal miners that are losing their jobs, it's the spin offs from that. It's the contractors, it's the trucking companies, it's the little mom and pop gas stations that they stop at every day and get gas and buy their lunches and their snack cakes for work. It's going to be a trickle down effect for the whole community and it's going to affect a whole lot more people than you think it's going to affect."

Mettiki in its statement said that it expects to fulfill its existing contractual commitments through March of 2026, primarily through existing inventory and that production would cease immediately. Focus would shift to evaluating its options concerning the mine's future and the exact timing for permanent closure.

Any personnel not involved with reduced coal production is expected to focus on reclamation activities throughout the mine.

Mettiki Coal has operated in Tucker County for nearly 50 years.

Tucker Beaten in Baker, Falls to East Hardy, 48-38

By: Adam Freeman

After a long week of snow days and cold weather, the Tucker County boys basketball team traveled to Baker, WV, on Saturday to take on the Cougars of East Hardy. Tucker's shooting was also cold on this night, managing 40% from the field and 12% from behind the arc. East Hardy would hold a small lead after one period of play at 12-7. Tucker would, however, get some offense in the second quarter, scoring 13 points to the Cougars' 11, but East held the lead at the half, 23-20. Tucker again would fail to reach double digits in the third period, scoring just six points. East Hardy didn't exactly light the nets on fire themselves, as they only notched seven points to hold a four-point lead at 30-26 going into the fourth. East Hardy would have their best period of the night in the fourth with 18 points, putting the Mt. Lions away, 48-38, to split the regular-season matchups between the two at one win apiece.

Arnold 15 Pts, 2 Reb, FT 7-9; Cummings 14 Pts, 2 Reb, 4 Stl, FT 2-2; Marks 4 Pts, 3 Reb; Lambert 3 Pts, 3 Reb; Dearborn 2 Pts, 7 Reb.

Tucker's record falls to 10-6 with the loss, and they will return to the court on Tuesday, February 3rd, at home looking to avenge an earlier loss to Pendleton County. JV is set for a 5:45 p.m. tipoff.

Momma Said, "We live to tell another tale, made it through Snowmageddon and out the other side." It was not as bad in our area as it was called for, the snow didn't amount to much but the ice is another story. I still have about three inches on the back cover of my truck. I am worried that the weight is going to damage it but it is a soft cover and I can't pray the ice off.

It is still getting down into the single digits at night and not much more than that in the day. I just hope it doesn't come off while I am driving down the road and get someone hurt but I can't get it to melt off. The sleet was more than the snow, just the little frozen balls like pellets. I saw one picture where it was running off the side of a hill like a waterfall.

We get a blast straight from the North Pole and then get slammed with a Nor-Easter weather event right after.

Momma Said, "This year we just can't get a break." I guess I was wanting weather cold enough to actually freeze the ground and I got what I asked for. Better be careful about want and wishes, you might get both.

Even Florida is not getting spared from the cold and the Snowbirds are wishing they had packed a few more tail feathers. Snow on the beaches and I just hope that everyone is safe and not being crazy with their driving. It is bad enough when it is hot, I don't know how they are doing in the snow. Momma Said, "We Northerners wish you luck."

Million Dollar Spaghetti Casserole

Ingredients

- 8 ounces dry spaghetti
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 small onion, diced
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 14 ounces spaghetti sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 3 ounces reduced-fat cream cheese, softened
- 1 cup reduced-fat ricotta cheese
- 1 cup reduced-fat sour cream
- 3 green onions, sliced (reserve some for garnish)
- 1 1/2 cups shredded cheddar-Monterey jack cheese blend

• Stir in the spaghetti sauce, salt, and pepper, and bring to a boil. Reduce the heat and simmer it for 20 minutes.

• Preheat the oven to 350 degrees Fahrenheit and lightly spray an 11×7-inch baking dish. In a small bowl, mash together the cream cheese, ricotta, and sour cream. Fold in the sliced green onions, reserving some for garnish.

• Spread the cooked spaghetti evenly in the bottom of the prepared baking dish. Top it with the ricotta mixture, spreading it evenly. Pour the beef mixture over the cheese layer. Sprinkle shredded cheese on top.

• Cover it with foil and bake it for 25 minutes. Remove the foil and bake it for an additional 5–10 minutes until the cheese is bubbling and beginning to brown.

• Sprinkle the reserved green onions on top and serve it while hot. Enjoy!

Instructions

• Cook the spaghetti according to package instructions until al dente, then drain it and set it aside.

• In a large skillet over medium-high heat, cook the ground beef, diced onion, and minced garlic until the beef is no longer pink and the onion is translucent, about 6–8 minutes. Drain excess grease.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

By flooding US cities with aggressive forces, our President may create enough disruption to cancel the midterm elections under emergency authorization. He has not only said he might do this but has recently requested additional Billions for these forces.

According to former Labor Secretary Robert Reich, we are in a complete dictatorship. Deceit, bribery and coercion have removed all restraints on Presidential power.

This may also be attributed to Citizens United, however. With the 2010 Supreme Court ruling, entities can anonymously donate any amount they wish to political campaigns.

Thus in order to compete with Republicans who openly legislate for big business, Democrats rely on Citizens United and do what their donors decree. Unfortunately, these donors usually ignore the poor, sick or otherwise disadvantaged, public safety, infrastructure and the environment.

In 2016, even though her liberal competitor, Bernie Sanders, won the Democratic Primary in every WV county, Hilary Clinton was nominated WV Democratic presidential candidate.

Though polling showed that Bernie was the only candidate who could beat Trump, the donors didn't want him. So ongoing disgust with establishment politicians gave us Trump.

People, nevertheless, have real power. If like me you are concerned for American democracy or just for preserving the midterm elections, please write or call Congress (Switchboard: 202 224 3121), inform friends, join rallies, start groups and UNITE! This is a true emergency.

Davis, West Virginia, records lowest temperature in contiguous United States at minus 28 degrees

Staff Reports

WVNews

Davis, W.Va. — A weather station located three miles east of Davis recorded a temperature of minus 28 degrees Fahrenheit early Saturday, the lowest temperature in the contiguous United States.

The reading was included in the National High and Low Temperature Discussion issued at 1 p.m. EST by the National Weather Service Weather Prediction Center in College Park, Maryland. The minus 28-degree mark was the coldest reported among all stations in the lower 48 states for the 24-hour period.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration noted that the data is preliminary and subject to revision pending final quality control by the National Centers for Environmental Information.

The temperature hit negative 28 degrees near Davis, West Virginia, the morning of Jan. 31, 2026.

Davis and the surrounding Canaan Valley are known for extreme cold due to their high elevation and unique topography. The area sits in a basin where heavy, cold air settles into the Allegheny Mountains.

While the Saturday reading is among the lowest ever recorded in the area, it remains above the all-time state record for West Virginia. That record was established on Dec. 30, 1917, when the temperature dropped to minus 37 degrees Fahrenheit in Lewisburg.

The minus 28-degree reading is also slightly warmer than a more recent local extreme. On Jan. 22, 2022, a station at the Canaan Valley National Wildlife Refuge recorded a low of minus 31 degrees Fahrenheit.

= Elkins Rehabilitation & Care Center = Receives 4-Star Designation from U.S. Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services

Tara Shaver, administrator

Elkins, W.Va. — The U.S. Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services recognized Elkins Rehabilitation & Care Center for its quality service to residents and outpatients with a 4-star designation.

The 4-star designation indicates that the facility is among the top of nursing homes in the state, according to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services website.

"We're very pleased that we've been recognized by CMS (Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services)," said Tara Shaver, ERCC administrator. "We know that our staff work hard and that we provide the very best care to our residents and outpatients, but it is always good when a federal agency acknowledges that."

Shaver went on to add that employees at the facility routinely go above and beyond. She added that the designation is a testament to the hard work of all the staff, from the nursing department to the dietary staff, environmental services, and activity aides.

"Everyone here works really hard to make sure we are the very best that we can be," she said. "We treat all of our residents and outpatients like they're family because we all want the very best care for our loved ones."

Shaver went on to say that although the facility has received the 4-star designation, employees will continue to provide exceptional care to their residents and outpatients.

"We're going to keep doing the very best we can do for everyone because that is our work ethic here at ERCC," Shaver said.

ERCC is a 111-bed, non-profit, short and long-term skilled and intermediate care and rehabilitation facility located in Elkins, WV. A wide range of care and rehabilitation services is provided at the facility by more than 160 full-time and part-time employees. For more information: <http://www.ercc.biz>.

Charleston, W.V. -- West Virginia Division of Motor Vehicles (DMV) is reaching out to warn citizens of text scams claiming to be DMV. West Virginia DMV will never text citizens requesting payment. Never.

- Some common tactics scammers use include:
- Setting urgent deadlines (do this now, or a bad thing will happen)
- Using language, logos or imagery similar to official content - but a little different
- Using texts to request money
- Playing on fear

If it makes you feel uncomfortable or immediately concerned, the sender is a scammer, not DMV. DMV deadlines are known in advance (such as the expiration date on your license plate.) DMV will treat you like a guest, whether in person or on the phone, and will not seek to make you feel alarmed. And, again, DMV will never request a payment via text.

If you are concerned that a text you have received may be a scam, your West Virginia DMV will answer any questions you have. You are welcome to stop by your local office, or call us at (800) 642-9066.

Remember, if it is a text asking for payment, it is a scam. West Virginia DMV will never text you requesting payment.

ANIMAL COLLISIONS

Breeding season for these animals can cause animals to travel more than 10 miles outside of their normal territories, experts say, causing males to cross unfamiliar roads. Breeding animals will also be distracted by scent markers and territorial disputes among competing males.

Other species such as deer may change their normal patterns this time of year, experts say, due to the scarcity of food sources. Skunks cross roads slowly due to poor eyesight, according to experts, and opossums wander slowly in search of mates. Foxes and coyotes are most active at dusk and dawn during rush hours.

Experts recommend if drivers are on roads at dawn or dusk, to slow down, especially on rural roads, such as those found in Tucker County. High-beam headlights are recommended when there is no oncoming traffic due to the possibility of seeing eye shine sooner. Drivers are encouraged to watch the road edges, not just the center, as animals will dart out from the sides of the road without warning. If one animal is seen, expect more, experts say, animals are rarely alone.

State Farm recommends that drivers stay alert and pay attention to deer crossing and wildlife crossing signs and be cautious in areas near woods or water. When using high beams, flicking the beams may encourage an animal to scurry away. State Farm also recommends that should a collision seem imminent, not to swerve, maintain control of the vehicle and stay on the road. Drivers should also brake as necessary if able to avoid hitting an animal and brake hard if no other vehicles are behind. Other recommendations by State Farm include honking to alert other drivers.

West Virginia for well over a decade, according to State Farm data, has been the number one state in the Nation for animal collisions. Drivers in West Virginia have a 1 in 40 chance of being involved in an animal collision in the State, far higher than any other neighbor.

boring State. Virginia has a 1 in 82 chance and ranks 10th in the Nation.

Rural areas such as Tucker County carry the highest danger, with a 30% to 50% increased chance in hitting a large animal such as a deer, especially during peak season. From January 1, 2023 to late November of that same year, 10,618 deer were reported hit on West Virginia highways along with at least 15 bears.

—West Virginia ski resorts report best conditions of the season after winter storm

Staff Reports

WVNews

Charleston, W.Va. — West Virginia's five ski resorts are reporting their best conditions of the season following a winter storm and a period of colder temperatures this week.

The recent weather provided ideal conditions for snowmaking, which has increased coverage on all trails at Canaan Valley Ski Resort, Oglebay Park Resort, Snowshoe Mountain Resort, Timberline Mountain and Winterplace Ski Resort. These resorts currently have the most acreage open in the Southeast region.

"Everyone in the state's ski industry agrees that we are currently experiencing some of the best slope conditions in recent memory," said Joe Stevens, executive director of the West Virginia Ski Areas Association.

The combination of natural snow and snowmaking has increased base depths, resulting in full slope coverage as the season enters its second half. West Virginia's ski season typically runs until late March.

"This winter season is shaping up to be one of the best we've ever had," said West Virginia Department of Tourism Secretary Chelsea Ruby.

The West Virginia Department of Highways reported
