Rich Creek parcel deemed a Tier 5 site

By Taylor Boyd

A parcel of land in Patrick County's Rich Creek Corporate Park has been deemed a Tier 5 site by the state, according to the now-former Patrick County Economic Director Sean Adkins.

Adkins, who learned about the distinction shortly before leaving his position at the end of April, said the new designation moves the site to the top of the list for potential companies looking to relocate. The nearly 30-acre graded site could hold up to two buildings, with more than 300,000 square feet.

"It's the only real flat site that we have in the county. So, for us to get designated a Tier 5 it might seem minimal to some folks here, but it was a big day," he said.

Virginia and the Virginia Economic Development Partnership (VEP) created a tiered system of 1-5, with one being at the bottom and five being at the top.

"Well, one at the bottom is essentially that the locality owns it. It's better than nothing, but you're not likely to get any hits on it," Adkins said.

Green thumbs picked new plants at annual sale Saturday

The Patrick County Master Gardeners' annual plant sale Saturday attracted more than 250 gardeners making new purchases. Some plants were packaged in boxes, others were carefully carried one or two at a time, and still others were 'hugged' to waiting vehicles and the trip home. (See inside for more photos.)

Enhanced trail includes mountain bike routes, other amenities

By Staff Reports

Four mountain bike routes and other amenities were highlighted during an April 28 ribbon cutting to celebrate the newly enhanced trail system at the Woolwine IC DeHart Memorial Park.

Patrick County Director of Tourism and Marketing James Houchins told the nearly 50 people attending that the trails were constructed by volunteers.

PCHS plant sale underway

The Patrick County High School (PCHS) horticulture department is holding its annual plant sale each school day from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the greenhouse.

By Taylor Boyd

Patrick County High School (PCHS) is currently holding its annual plant sale to raise funds for the horticulture department.

The sale is held at the greenhouse from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on school days through Friday, May 19.

Horticulture teacher Eli Roberson said the sale has been held for more than 10 years with the goal of giving students the opportunity to run the greenhouse like a normal retail store, or garden center, with Roberson acting as the supervisor.

"We'll have customers come in, and students will help them with Funds raised from the sale will go back into the horticulture program, Roberson said and estimated the sale has raised around $6,000 since it began.

Grant to preserve historical records awarded to Patrick

The Library of Virginia announced that the Circuit Court Records Preservation Program (CCRP) awarding Patrick County Circuit Court a grant in the amount of $47,994.00 for local records preservation. The funds will be used to conserve Marriage Licenses from 1854 through 1881 stored in the Clerk's office.

"We're very excited," said Interim Clerk Morgan Boothe. "These records are the history of our county, and we have lots of genealogy researchers that will be pleased with this work. We have an obligation to make sure that they are available for future generations for years to come."

Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program seeks more farmers

The Virginia Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program (SFMNP), known as Farm Market Fresh, recently expanded its program into new regions and seeks more local farmers to participate.

Farm Market Fresh supports local farmers who grow their own fruits, vegetables or fresh-cut herbs and promotes the use of farmers markets across Virginia.

Local Area Agencies

on Aging distribute Farm Market Fresh checks to qualified seniors and participating farmers collect and cash them in exchange for eligible produce at the market. Income eligibility changed in 2023, with the potential to reach 70,000 more seniors.

Early Voting Begins May 5

In-person voting for the June 20, 2023, primary election begins Friday, May 5 and will continue through June 17. Of the 133 cities and counties in Virginia, 66 of them will be holding a primary election for at least one office.

To vote early in-person, registered voters should go to the general registrar's office for the jurisdiction in which they are registered, present their ID, and cast a ballot. The location of the general registrar's office for all jurisdictions can be found on the Virginia Department of Elections' website (<https://vote.elections.virginia.gov/VoterInformation/PublicContactLookup>) as well as a list of acceptable forms of identification (<https://www.elections.virginia.gov/registration/voterid/index.html>).

Some jurisdictions may offer early in-person voting at satellite locations in addition to the general registrar's office. Curbside voting is also available for those with disabilities and those over 65 who wish to vote in person. Contact your general registrar's office for more information regarding voting hours and additional locations.

Professional, Scientific, and Technical Services Leading Industries for Claims

The number of initial claims for unemployment insurance rose in the latest filing week to 1,838, but remained at levels typically seen over the last twelve months, according to data from the Virginia Employment Commission (VEC).

For the filing week ending April 22, the figure for seasonally unadjusted initial claims in Virginia was 1,838, which was an increase of 78 claimants from the previous week. Over half of initial claims with a self-reported industry were from professional, scientific, and technical services, administrative and support and waste management, retail trade, manufacturing, and health care and social assistance. Continued weeks claimed totaled 11,830, which was little changed from the previous week but an increase of 63% from the 7,252 continued claims from the comparable week last year.

Eligibility for benefits is determined on a weekly basis, and so not all weekly claims filed result in a benefit payment. This is because the initial claims numbers represent claim applications; claims are then reviewed for eligibility and legitimacy.

In the week ending April 22, the advance U.S. figure for seasonally adjusted[1] initial claims was 230,000, a decrease of 16,000 from the previous week's revised level. The previous week's level was revised up by 1,000 from 245,000 to 246,000. The advance number of actual initial claims under state programs, unadjusted, totaled 225,841 in the week ending April 22, a decrease of 3,478 (or -1.5 percent) from the previous week. There were 202,952 initial claims in the comparable week in 2022. Looking at preliminary data, most U.S. states reported decreases on a seasonally unadjusted basis. Ohio's preliminary weekly change (-3,280) was the largest decrease. New Jersey's weekly change (-3,073) was the second largest decrease. California's preliminary weekly change (-3,003) was the third largest decrease. Connecticut's weekly change (-1,999) was the fourth largest decrease. Virginia's preliminary weekly change (+271) was the ninth largest increase.

Courts backlog in Virginia impacts people in jail waiting for resolution

By Gabriela de Camargo Gonçalves
Capital News Service

The backlog of cases in Virginia's circuit court system worsened during the pandemic. Some people have been jailed for more than a year as they wait for their court date, according to records requested from several jails across the state.

Circuit courts handle most civil cases of more than $25,000, along with family matters. It also has authority to hear felonies, in addition to appealed cases from the general district courts and juvenile and domestic relations district courts.

Virginia's speedy trial law states that people in jail on a felony charge must be tried within five months. If they are not in jail, they must be tried within nine months.

People can remain jailed for a number of reasons, including case continuances, multiple trials, and other circumstances, according to the Virginia Beach Sheriff's Office.

A sentenced felon can sometimes wait up to five years in jail for a bed in prison, according to the sheriff's office.

It can be difficult to determine the total jail population, or how long people wait in jail for a trial or sentencing. No central authority such as the Virginia Board of Local and Regional Jails holds access to those records, according to a response from the board. The board's role is to "guarantee the health, safety, and welfare of staff and offenders under its jurisdiction."

The Virginia Department of Corrections, or VADOC, referred a Capital News Service reporter's request for statewide jail population to the Board. The Board replied that the information would have to be obtained through each individual jail in Virginia.

CNS contacted five jails based on region and population.

The waiting: The people serving time in jail the longest

A person has been jailed for almost seven years in the Virginia Beach Correctional Center. They entered the jail on Aug. 24, 2016 and have a felony charge and several misdemeanors, according to a records request from the Virginia Beach Sheriff's Office. They now await sentencing.

A person has been jailed for over five years in the Richmond City Jail, the Richmond Sheriff's Office stated in response to a records request. Their stay began on Feb. 8, 2018.

A person entered the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center on Aug. 27, 2019, on a first degree murder charge. This person currently has about four and a half months until their next court date, according to a records request from the Fairfax jail.

An individual incarcerated for almost three years in Henrico County awaits adjudication for pending charges, according to the Henrico County Sheriff's Office. They entered the jail on July 30, 2020. Henrico County did not respond to requests for additional information by publication time.

An individual at the Roanoke City Jail was jailed in November 2021 and has a court date scheduled for September, according to the jail's public information officer. The individual has returned to court 15 times to deal with five felony charges and has four more dates scheduled, according to the public information office.

The system: Some factors that contributed to court backlogs

"Most people ask for jury trials," said Edward Jewett, Richmond Circuit Court clerk. "So we have a lot scheduled, and so some have to get bumped. It's not a terrible backlog, but I would say that there is some backlog."

There were no 2022 studies on whether more circuit court judgeships should be established, the judiciary stated in its annual report to the General Assembly. The recommendation was made to fill current vacancies. At the end of the year, there were six statewide circuit court vacancies, five general district court vacancies and two juvenile and domestic relations court vacancies, per the report.

A judge is more likely to find someone guilty than a jury, according to Richmond Chief Public Defender Tracy Paner.

Although inmates have a mandated right to a "speedy" trial, in Richmond, there aren't necessarily dates available within those time frames, according to Paner. Often, the way to comply with the law is to have a substitute judge in place, Paner said.

The pandemic also stopped trials for a while, Paner said. Some jury trials have been postponed and some are already scheduled into next year, she said.

"There are clients who would plead guilty to that charge that they otherwise would not, when they're looking at no jail time or jail time they've already served," Paner said. "Just as a mechanism to get out of the jail."

A person waiting in jail faces the unknown and hopes for the best, but prepares for the worst, according to Paner.

The public defenders under Paner's charge average a daily estimate of 100 cases per lawyer, she said. The types of cases vary, and there's no determination as to how many are being actively worked on and how many are in a waiting period, according to Paner.

The National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals states the caseload of a public defender should not exceed 150 felonies per year or more than 400 misdemeanors per year, excluding traffic cases.

The culture: Many say jail is worse than prison

People experience more anxiety in jail than in prison, according to Donyel Burrell. Burrell served almost two decades in prison on felony charges from the mid-'90s, and then returned to jail for several violations.

A person in jail has more anxiety because they are attract more visitors to the trail.

“Funding provided by the Eco Ambassadors Council of the Dan River Basin Association (DRBA) helped do the restructuring of the trails,” Houchins said at the event that included several speakers who discussed the investment, history, and community involvement related to the newly enhanced trail, ribbon cutting and invitation to walk the trail. Pickle & Ash of Patrick Springs provided free refreshments for guests.

“The I.C. Woolwine Trail System has been a valued treasure in Patrick County for many years, but not many people knew it even existed,” said Houchins. “Today we celebrate the new and enhanced trail system, the hard work and generous investment of the many people - past and present - who have invested in putting this amazing trail on the map. The I.C. Trail System is open and ready to welcome people who hike, bike, and love nature.”

Houchins said the park also includes a picnic shelter, a playground, two all-purpose courts, a baseball field, walking trails, a horseshoe pitching area, and trail hand sculptures.

“IC DeHart Park also supports a beautiful, reclaimed wetland site, with a boardwalk and extensive interpretative information. Numerous signs are located throughout the park with information about the insects, the reptiles, the birds, and plants found in the wetlands and documented here accordingly,” Houchins said.

Brian Williams, Virginia Program Manager for the Dan River Basin Association (DRBA), managed the project in partnership with a stakeholder group of volunteers with expertise in the design of International Mountain Bicycling Association (IMBA)-style trail building, GIS mapping, and construction.

“So many people came together to make this trail what it is today. Thank you, Eric O’Connell, for his initial vision, Jim Frith who really kept us on track, Joe Freeman, Katy Miller, Daren Layman, and Michael Ryba were all part of the committee and had the passion and did the hard work of marking, mapping, reworking, and trail maintenance. Thanks also to the Eco Ambassador Council, Patrick County High School Building and Trades students, and Patrick County Parks and Recreation and Tourism,” said Williams. “More than 1.5 million Virginians and North Carolinians live within 50 miles of the I.C. DeHart Trail System. This improved trail system and historic resource will not only enhance the local economy, it will provide a unique outdoor recreational experience for visitors.”

The Eco Ambassador Council (EAC) is a coalition of regional businesses that combine their investment to protect, promote and preserve the environment in the Dan River Basin. Current EAC members include Blair Construction, Carter Bank & Trust, Clark Gas & Oil, Frith Construction, The Lester Group, Hooker Furnishings, Jones & DeShon Orthodontics, and Pickle & Ash. Each business pledges an annual donation and a commitment to encourage their employees to participate in EAC projects. The EAC started in 2020 and is open to all businesses in the Dan River Basin that want to make a visible impact in the region.

Sandra Belcher, chairman of the Woolwine Park Association, said the park is special to the volunteers that assist with its upkeep.

“We have seven volunteers that look over the park. County maintenance mows, and then we have a wonderful new manager of Parks and Rec” she said of Travis Murphy, who is “on board and he’s already started doing projects every which way.”

Belcher said the results of a community survey will determine the projects the park association needs to work on next.

Based on those results, “we need benches, we need ADA (Americans with Disability Act) accessible and compliant restrooms, fix up the tennis courts with some pickleball courts, take care of the community shelter with heating and air, and a few other things, as well as more equipment for the trails,” Belcher said.

Another future project is the implementation of a Moonshine Trail in partnership with Floyd, Franklin, and Henry counties.

“This park will be on the Moonshine Trail,” Belcher said of the Woolwine facility. “One of our hopes is to put a big mural on the community building up there of moonshine and that sort of thing, and also have a moonshine history walk.”

Doug Perry, who represents the Smith River District on the Patrick County Board of Supervisors, said he was unable to express enough appreciation and gratitude to all the people who put time, effort, and money into the new trails, “and really giving us something to really be proud of and proud for.”

“My wife comes up here and community members come up here and walk part of the trail,” Perry said. “It’s

The tiers have various requirements, “all the way up to Tier 5, which is shovel-ready, everything is good to go, due diligence has been done,” Adkins said of the distinction that means a site “basically checks every box – environmental, engineering, access to utilities.”

Adkins said the Tier 5 designation means a company looking knows everything about the site is completely vetted.

“Conceivably, once the permits are done you could put a shovel in the ground tomorrow and get going,” he said.

The site previously was a Tier 2 site, Adkins said, adding that it’s not normal for a site to move up three-tier rankings.

“I was pleasantly surprised that we got up to Tier 5, but I think a lot of it was because of old information. You know, they hadn’t really done any work to this site in terms of due diligence, and really just hadn’t had attention paid to it for a while,” he said.

When a company comes to Virginia and shares its vision for the property, that potentially could lead it to the county’s site.

“Now, the state of Virginia will say ‘Here’s our Tier 5s,’” Adkins said. “That will let us put our hat in the ring, and it makes it a much more nice-looking hat,” he added.

“There are covenants and restrictions for this park, so nothing toxic or nuclear, or anything that requires a foundry of sorts,” however, any manufacturing or industrial company can come to the site with few restrictions, he said.

Adkins has also talked to a few potential prospects about the property, with the more serious ones being a food manufacturing distribution company and an electric vehicle production company.

“The fact that I call them prospects means it’s not just casually,” he said.

An increase in some infections prompts CDC to ask other agencies for help Reported cases of the sexually transmitted infections (STIs) chlamydia, gonorrhea, and syphilis all increased between 2020 and 2021 – reaching a total of more than 2.5 million reported cases – according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention CDC's final surveillance data. To reverse this trend, the CDC is calling for more groups from local, healthcare, industry, and public health sectors to contribute to STI prevention and innovation efforts.

The new report provides final surveillance data for 2021, and shows that overall, in a single year (2020-2021):

*Gonorrhea rates increased more than 4%

*Syphilis rates surged, increasing nearly 32% for combined stages of the infection

Among the syphilis data, cases of congenital syphilis rose by an alarming 32% and resulted in 220 stillbirths and infant deaths.

*Chlamydia rates increased nearly 4%, but – unlike gonorrhea and syphilis – still did not return to pre-pandemic levels

This raises concerns that screening continued to be impacted by COVID-19 related disruptions the second year of the pandemic, because the infection is often asymptomatic.

While STIs are common in all U.S. regions and across all groups, some communities are hit especially hard. The 2021 data show STIs continue to disproportionately affect gay and bisexual men and younger people. Additionally, a disproportionate number of cases were diagnosed among Black/African American and American Indian/Alaska Native people, groups more likely to face social conditions that make it more difficult to stay healthy.

The nation must deepen its commitment to turn the STI epidemic around and prioritize both the increased involvement of multisectoral programs and groups and the creation of innovative prevention approaches and promising new tools. This means:

Rebuilding, sustaining, and expanding local public health services, especially efforts to offer STI testing and treatment programs that respond to the needs of those most affected.

Making STI testing and treatment more accessible, including through the development and approval of point-of-care rapid tests and self-tests, and by expanding ownership for STI testing and treatment to more organizations and settings.

Continuing to advance scientific research and explore new interventions, like vaccines or post-exposure prophylaxis (PEP) strategies to prevent bacterial STIs.

Please attribute the following quote to Leandro Mena, MD, MPH, Director of CDC's Division of STD Prevention

"The U.S. STI epidemic shows no signs of slowing. The reasons for the ongoing increases are multifaceted – and so are the solutions. For the first time in decades, we're seeing promising new STI interventions on the horizon, but these alone will not solve this epidemic. It will take many of us working together to effectively use new and existing tools, to increase access to quality sexual healthcare services for more people, and to encourage ongoing innovation and prioritization of STI prevention and treatment in this country."

The Patrick County Health Department offers Family Planning services for men and women the first Thursday of every month. account, so the funds from the plant sale will be used for the program. It's what we use to buy our next crops," he said.

In the fall, Roberson said the program raises poinsettias and sells them after Thanksgiving.

"So, we try to have revenue coming in each semester because it costs a lot of money to maintain a greenhouse. It's kind of like our business account is what it goes back into because we're constantly having to spend money as well," he said.

Available plants include a variety of annuals such as geraniums, petunias, and impatiens, flower hanging baskets, and Boston fern hanging baskets.

"A variety of tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, squash," also are offered, he said, adding "all that good stuff."

Large decorative pots are $35, and medium decorative pots are $25. Six-inch pots are $6, an 1801 tray is $22 each, and singles are $1 each.

"All the hanging baskets are $15. A 1204 tray is a tray of four packs and totals 48 plants, and those are $15, which is what a lot of our vegetables are in and some of our annuals," he said.

Roberson said he believes the best-sellers are the hanging baskets.

"As far as planters are concerned, each customer has their particular favorite annuals that they like to plant. I haven't really seen one particular annual sell out faster than any other one," he said.

While he is unsure of how much the sale has raised in the past, Roberson estimates the poinsettia sale raised more than $5,000.

"We get the poinsettias in late July, and the kids raise them from plug trays. Then as customers pick out their poinsettias, the students wrap the poinsettia pots in decorative foil, and they also make decorative bows," he said. "That keeps us busy during Christmas time."

Limit, Save, Grow

Ninth District U.S. Rep. Morgan Griffith

I have long believed that Congress has a responsibility to the American people to “rein in” wasteful and excessive spending. Since joining Congress, I have not voted for a debt ceiling bill that did not include cuts or reforms to our spending practices.

When House Republicans established the rules for the 118th Congress earlier this year, I worked to get the Holman Rule included in the rules package. First passed in 1876, the Holman rule is a tool that can be used to curb out-of-control federal spending.

A high national debt stemming from out-of-control spending means high interest, higher inflation, and lower job opportunities. Never have we felt the effects of a high debt than this past year.

In the aftermath of the COVID-19 pandemic, Congressional Democrats passed $5.2 trillion in spending, much of which was not put towards COVID-19, but towards other Democratic priorities, such as the Green New Deal.

As it stands, the debt is now at $31.4 trillion. It’s clear the path we are on is no longer tenable. For too many years, Congress has raised the debt ceiling without a plan to rein in reckless spending.

House Republicans recently put forth H.R.2811, the Limit, Save, Grow Act, to address this issue, which passed on the House floor days before writing this column.

H.R.2811 limits federal spending by capping spending, for fiscal year (FY) 2024, at FY 2022 levels. It also allows for only 1% annual growth over the next 10 years.

The legislation includes a number of measures to save taxpayer money. It claws back unspent COVID-19 funds, estimated to be about $30 billion.

It eliminates funding for the 87,000 new IRS agents charged with going after families and small businesses.

Further the bill reverses Biden’s efforts to cancel up to $10,000 in student loan debt for some borrowers. This would save taxpayers an estimated $460 billion.

Lastly, this legislation repeals Democrats uncapped green energy tax credits and subsidies, saving Americans an estimated $540 billion.

While saving money, this legislation also aims to grow the economy.

A few weeks prior to the House passing this legislation, we also passed H.R.1, the Lower Energy Costs Act. This legislation would unleash American energy production, reduce our dependency on foreign adversaries like Russia and China, and remove red tape for new project permitting.

Given the importance of improving energy production in the United States, Republicans also have included that legislative language within H.R.2811 to help ensure it gets across the finish line.

Additionally, this bill will strengthen work requirements for Medicaid and SNAP program recipients, requiring these recipients to “work” 80 hours a month. Work is defined as traditional work, of course, but also as volunteering to do community service, taking classes to further one’s education, attending a substance abuse program, etc.

The bill includes some exemption to these requirements, including if you are disabled, caring for a disabled child, or are caring for a child under the age of six. The goal is to get abled-bodied people off the couch and into the workforce, making them a contributing member of society, which will ultimately lead to a higher level of self-esteem. Further, the country is currently faced with more job openings than people looking for jobs, so this is not an unreasonable proposal.

In exchange for fixing the most immediate problem and increasing the debt limit by $1.5 trillion, the legislation will save Americans an estimated $4.8 trillion over the next decade.

As an aside, there been a focus on the future of Medicare & Medicaid and Social Security and whether the programs would face cuts. The spending cuts in this legislation were crafted to save Americans trillions of dollars without touching Medicare & Medicaid and Social Security.

But wait there’s more. Also included in this legislation is the REINS Act. The REINS Act requires every new “major rule” proposed by federal agencies to be approved Congress, reasserting Congress’ legislative authority as intended by our Constitutional framework.

H.R.2811 is responsible legislation to rein in our country’s out of control spending, while also dealing with our current debt limit situation, benefiting all Americans.

not very involved in the legal process, and do not know what might happen to them. There is less anxiety in prison, once there is a resolution. There also are more opportunities in prison, such as programs and opportunities to make money, according to Burrell.

“It’s just a lot of anxiety, a lot of wondering what’s going on and what’s going to happen,” Burrell said.

Burrell now works with REAL LIFE, an organization that helps individuals affected by incarceration, homelessness or substance use disorder, according to its website.

Burrell has a front row view of the impact from the court’s backlog, he said. He sees people from REAL LIFE whose cases keep getting “postponed, and postponed again,” Burrell said.

“I see guys with petty larceny stuck there for four or five months waiting on their court dates,” Burrell said.

REAL LIFE founder Sarah Scarbrough was the Richmond jail program director from 2013 to 2017. She oversaw behavior, health and preparatory programs, which ranged from addressing the continuous cycle of incarceration, to yoga, job preparation and more, according to Scarbrough.

The organization provides recovery housing options to people who have experienced overdoses, and who may be grateful for the incarceration or else they would be dead, Scarbrough said.

“It’s sad that there isn’t a process in place where they can be stopped and sat down in a place that isn’t the penal system,” Scarbrough said.

Scarbrough polled REAL LIFE program members for this story, and asked what was a more “comfortable” environment: jail or prison. With 34 votes, 95% voted for prison being more comfortable.

The system is designed to lock people up, Scarbrough said. The system is not designed for reform, she said.

“That is an issue,” Scarbrough said. “We’re saying correction, but we’re not truly providing opportunities, or these opportunities are only talking points for somebody to be reelected.”

Tik-Tok – Parents Be Very Careful

(Fox, Todd Starnes, Common Sense Media, MUO, MRCTV)

Jacob Stevens of Greenfield, Ohio, a 13-year-old died after attempting a TikTok challenge that included him consuming 12 to 14 Benadryl tablets — more than six times the recommended dosage.

TikTok’s Terms of Service say that no one under the age of 18 should use the service without parent or guardian approval. TikTok is not intended for children.

Here are 7 examples of challenges that have popped up on the platform in recent times.

Devious Lick: Vandalizing bathrooms, smashing floor tiles, and stealing safety signage in schools.

Borg’ challenge: Mixture of alcohol, electrolytes, caffeinated flavoring, and water in a one-gallon jug, to help slow the intoxication process and keep the dreaded hangover at bay.

Blackout challenge: Encouraged kids in asphyxiation to the point of temporary unconsciousness.

Benadryl challenge: The excessive consumption of Benadryl to induce a hallucinogenic high.

Dragon’s breath: Encouraged eating candy coated in liquid nitrogen due to the vapor fumes it emits when eaten.

Orbeez shooting challenge: Encouraged using toy guns to fire frozen gel pellets at bystanders.

Beezin’ challenge: Rubbing Burt’s Bees lip balm onto the eyelids before going out for the night to enhance alertness and heightens one’s buzz.

What draws the 50 million daily TikTok users in the U.S. to such challenges? “In order to get noticed you have to go extreme and risky, said digital wellness expert Joanne Orlando, PhD, based in Sydney, Australia. One of the best ways for people to get noticed on TikTok is to jump onboard with the trends, she added. Challenges are a dare. Dares trigger our innate needs to fit in and be accepted, show our badge of honor.”

Here’s what Tik Tok collects on its users:

your name, age, username, email, password, phone number, location the content of messages when they are sent, received, and read, and by whom.

text, images, and videos on your clipboard purchase information, including payment card numbers, billing, and shipping addresses.

a user’s activities on other websites and apps or in stores, including the products or services purchased, online or in person.

file names and types

keystroke patterns and rhythms

your IP address, mobile carrier, time zone settings, model of your device and operating system information about videos, images, and audio objects and scenery that appear in your videos, including tourist attractions, shops, or other points of interest.

biometric identifiers such as fingerprints and voiceprints cookies that collect, measure, and analyze which web pages users view most often and how they interact with content.

Some of the reasons Tik Tok is not safe for kids:

Exposure to Explicit Content; Chance of Getting Bullied; Online Predators; Personal Data Loss or Misuse - Anyone can download your videos; No Age Verification Required- When signing up, children between the ages of 13 to 15 are provided a private account by default, which means only friends can comment on their videos and message them.

Rapeseed Oil as Good as Statins for Lowering Cholesterol

Canadian scientists in 2014 found consuming rapeseed oil was equivalent to taking 20mg of statins for controlling cholesterol levels.

In this randomized controlled study, they fed 141 people (who were also type 2 diabetic) a loaf of bread high in rapeseed oil (31 grams of oil per 2,000 calories) every day, as well as a control group which they fed regular whole wheat bread instead. They found that a diet high in rapeseed oil could lower levels of "bad" cholesterol as much as 20mg of statins and could reduce someone's risk of heart attack or stroke by as much as seven percent. They were also able to measure significantly reduced blood sugar levels.

Rapeseed oil is also known as canola oil. Rapeseed is related to mustard, cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower and turnip. Rapeseed plants grow from three to five feet tall and have yellow flowers with four petals. You can see them being grown in the mid-west (especially the Canadian Midwest) and you'll notice them by the "sea" of beautiful yellow flowers late in the summer.

Canola or rapeseed oil is a common cooking oil that is used widely around the world because of its affordability and its versatility at high heat. It is an oil that is high in unsaturated fat and low in saturated fat. Canola oil is also an excellent source of an omega-3 fat (also known as alpha-linolenic acid), which confers numerous heart health benefits like lower blood pressure and a decreased likelihood of heart attack. High in omega-6 fats, canola oil has a balanced ratio of omega-3 and omega-6 fats at a 1:2 ratio, in rapeseed oil, which experts believe is ideal.

If you need to reduce your cholesterol, consider canola oil as an option when you need oil for cooking.

Patrick Pioneers

Famine of 1882

By Beverly Belcher Woody

In the summer and fall of 1882, newspapers from Abingdon to Norfolk were filled with pleas to help the residents of Patrick County. According to the Strasburg News, Volume 1, Number 3, 17 June 1882, there was no rainfall in the entire county of Patrick in 1881 from the 19th of April to the 3rd of October. The long-continued drought was exceedingly disastrous to crops in the mountainous sections of Virginia, particularly in Patrick County. As early as November 1881, county officials took the necessary steps to relieve the destitution which they knew was inevitable but found that their efforts would be but a drop toward saving 6,000 to 8,000 starving men, women and children, and as spring arrived and the real condition of affairs developed, appeals for help were made. When wagon loads of corn would arrive in Patrick from Richmond, Baltimore, and other areas, the wagons were constantly surrounded by men and women, who walked fifteen and twenty miles in hopes of getting a peck of corn.

The following letter was written to the Richmond Dispatch by local attorney, James H. Rangeley...

"Patrick Courthouse, June 6, 1882. Dear Sirs, —Notwithstanding the kindness of your people in aiding us so generously, our people are in a most deplorable condition. All of the meal and com that has been sent us has been distributed to the starving people, and numbers of them have been unable to get any. We cannot see where this calamity will end—it is absolutely impossible to obtain any com at all. A load of corn and meal reached here Sunday evening, and the town was filled with people this morning by daybreak, begging for a peck, a gallon or even less. A rumor reached here from Penn's Store to the effect that seventeen hundred bushels of com had been subscribed in Richmond and Balti-

THE PATRICK COUNTY SUFFERERS.—The Baltimore Corn and flour Exchange, yesterday received an appeal from merchants in Virginia for aid for the destitute and suffering people in Patrick county. It was promptly responded to, and about two hundred dollars were subscribed by the members on the floor. It is proposed to purchase a car load of corn or corn-meal and forward it as speedily as possible. The members of the Stock Exchange have arranged for a baseball match between two nines on Thursday afternoon, the proceeds to be applied for the benefit of the starving people. $226 have been collected in addition.

Alexandria Gazette, 13 June 1882.

Since the 1st of May there have been shipped to the people of Patrick county from Danville 13,600 lbs. of flour, 2,000 bushels of corn, 2,100 bushels of meal, 5 barrels of bread, 500 lbs. of bacon, 18 barrels of herrings, 10 barrels of molasses, 200 lbs. of coffee, and 5 barrels of coal oil. Letters received from leading citizens of Patrick county say that the provisions on hand and those coming will be sufficient for the people.

Alexandria Gazette, 29 June 1882.

more for the relief of our suffering people. Upon this message, we thought that we could get through to harvest but this proved to be a mistake, and a very sad one for us, as we were depending in a great measure upon this for relief. There are people in this village now, at dark, who have been here all day without anything to eat, waiting for a wagon that is expected to bring in some meal. There have been at least three hundred people here in Stuart today begging bread.

We are compelled to appeal to the good citizens of Virginia and elsewhere for aid, and most earnestly entreat that any assistance in their power be rendered us immediately. The people cannot possibly make out until harvest without more help. We do not like to impose upon the generosity of our friends, but our situation is indeed a desperate one. Yours respectfully, James H. Rangeley, Esquire, W. W. Mair, John E. Penn, W. B. Rucker, R. J. Woolwine, Murray Turner, Isaac Akers, and Davis Ayers."

The gentlemen whose names are signed to the above letter are well-known citizens of Patrick County, whose statements may be relied on. We understand that steps will be promptly taken here to furnish additional relief to these people, whose situation strongly appeals to the charity of the public. —Richmond Dispatch

The last two decades of the 1800s were filled with hardship and tragedy for Patrick County. Next week, we will look at the smallpox epidemic and the forest fire of 1889.

Social Security Matters

By National Social Security Advisor at the AMAC Foundation, the non-profit arm of the Association of Mature American Citizens

Ask Rusty - About Social Security Benefits for My Minor Children

Dear Rusty: I will be 62 in 2024 and am considering starting benefits at that time. I will have two children under the age of 18. One of them will be 10 and the other 15. Will they be able to draw benefits in addition to my benefits? Signed: Father of Two

Dear Father of Two: Yes, if you claim your Social Security retirement benefits at 62, your minor children will be able to get benefits from you until they are 18 years old (or up to 19 if still in high school). You will likely be designated as Representative Payee for those benefits and will be obligated to use them only for your children's behalf (which could include simply saving the money for their future). But there's more to consider.

Normally, a minor child is eligible for 50% of the parent's full retirement age (FRA) entitlement (even if you claim at 62), but Social Security's Family Maximum will likely restrict each child's benefit to make it less than 50%. Then, once the 15 year old ages-out of eligibility at 18 (or 19), the younger child's benefit will increase to the full 50% of your FRA amount. That is - unless you are married and your wife will also be collecting a spousal benefit on your record. In that case the Family Maximum will limit payments for all of the dependents receiving payments based on your SS record (both your children and your wife). Generally, the Family Maximum is between 150% and 188% of your FRA entitlement, from which your own FRA entitlement is subtracted, leaving 50% to 88% of the Family Maximum for your dependents.

It's important to remember that by claiming your own SS retirement benefit at age 62 your monthly payment will be cut by 30% (you'll get 70% of your FRA entitlement), and that is a permanent reduction. So, you may wish to evaluate whether the money your children will get until they are 18 will offset the lifetime reduction to your own benefit payment. Your life expectancy is important when making that decision, and if you wish to estimate your potential longevity I suggest using this tool: <https://socialsecurityreport.org/tools/life-expectancy-calculator/>.

It's also important to remember that claiming benefits before your full retirement age will mean that, if you work, you'll be subject to Social Security's "earnings test" which limits how much you can earn before some of your benefits are taken away. The earnings limit changes annually (it's $21,240 for 2023) and, if the limit is exceeded, SS will withhold $1 in benefits for every $2 you are over the limit. They will withhold future benefits to recover anything you owe for exceeding the earnings limit and, if your benefits are withheld for this reason, your dependents' benefits will also be withheld for those same months. So, your plans for working should be weighed carefully in deciding whether to claim your Social Security benefits early.

To summarize: If you won't work full time after age 62 and you're comfortable with 70% of your FRA benefit entitlement for the rest of your life, then claiming at 62 will also entitle your children (and possibly your wife) to dependent benefits (restricted by the Family Maximum). But, if you continue to work full time, Social Security's earnings test will likely mean neither you nor your dependents can receive full Social Security benefits at this time. And for clarity, the earnings limit no longer applies after you reach your full retirement age.

Heath, Collins recognized for combined 45 years of service to SWCD

By Patrick SWCD Board of Directors

Two Patrick County Soil and Water Conservation District employees were recognized for their 45 years of combined dedicated and devoted service to conservation, agriculture, and the county by the Patrick County Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Directors Wayne Clark, George Stovall, Joseph Sparks, Richard Kreh, Christian Taylor and John Wood and the Virginia Department of Recreation and Conservation.

Sandra Heath, District Manager was recognized for 25 years and Tony Collins, District Conservation Specialist, was recognized for 20 years.

Heath and Collins were presented plaques at the Board of Directors meeting. They also were presented service awards by the Virginia Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Both Heath and Collins are Patrick County natives and are dedicated to promoting and protecting natural resources, and are advocates of agriculture. And both work with the people who work the land.

Soil and Water Conservation Districts across the Commonwealth of Virginia assist landowners with the development and implementation of best management practices (BMPs). These agricultural conservation practices are installed through cost-share and tax credit programs that focus on water quality improvement and environmental stewardship. Not only do these practices improve the local environment, the installation and proper management of conservation practices also help to improve farm operational profitability.

The Patrick County Soil and Water Conservation District is a political sub-division of the Commonwealth of Virginia responsible under state law for the development of programs to conserve and it supports the District through financial and administrative assistance provided by the Virginia Department of Conservation and Recreation. The county of Patrick also provides limited funds to support the County District.

Formed in 1983, the Patrick County Soil and Water Conservation District (Patrick SWCD) represents one of 47 Virginia Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts. The District's service area covers the County of Patrick. The Patrick Soil and Water Conservation District was organized July 7, 1983. From August 26, 1944, until July 7, 1983, Patrick County was in the New River Soil and Water Conservation District, which at the time was comprised of the counties of Floyd, Carroll and Grayson. A petition to create the Patrick Soil and Water Conservation District was authorized by the Patrick County Board of Supervisors on March 24, 1982. The petition to withdraw Patrick County from the New River Soil and Water Conservation District and create a new district within the boundaries of Patrick County was approved by the Department of Conservation and Recreation, Division of Soil and Water Conservation, on May 20, 1982.

Patrick SWCD is governed by a Board of Directors. District directors are local citizens elected or appointed to a four-year term of office. The directors are volunteers and are not paid, although they receive mileage reimbursement. The District is operated by five directors, who serve four-year terms and may be re-elected or re-appointed to succeed themselves. The District is represented by three directors elected in the general election. The other two directors are appointed by the Soil and Water Conservation Board. One of the appointed directors shall be a County Extension Agent and the other appointed director shall reside within Patrick County.

Patrick SWCD represents one of 47 Virginia Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts and delivers voluntary, locally led conservation solutions to the agriculture community. Patrick SWCD provides technical assistance for natural resource conservation to land users, farmers, foresters and homeowners in Patrick County.

For more information or to schedule a field visit, please contact the Patrick County Soil and Water Conservation District office at (276) 694-2911 or visit the office located at 104 Via Avenue, Stuart, Virginia.

Northern Regional Hospital Celebrates National Volunteer Month

The month of April signals a rebirth of Spring ... and a renewal of the spirit of volunteerism. For those looking to give back to their community, there is no better place to start than by joining the well-established Volunteer Program of Northern Regional Hospital.

"In our post-pandemic world, we're excited to highlight our re-energized Volunteer Program – where exceptional people come together to share their time, talent, energy, and compassion with us by performing non-clinical tasks that help facilitate hospital operations and enhance the comfort of patients and visitors," said Tina Beasley, Manager of the Volunteer Program at Northern Regional Hospital. On any given day, volunteers can be found delivering flowers and meal trays, assisting in the Gift Shop, transporting patients to and from departments, and greeting visitors while helping them find their way. No task is complete without a healthy dose of warm smiles and well wishes.

"Our remarkable volunteers, who currently range in age from 22 to 93, are committed to helping us create and maintain a comfortable and caring 'environment of healing' – one that encourages positive recovery and improved health," adds Beasley. "They also often establish warm and friendly relationships with each other."

Like all new employees, volunteers must undergo a full background check, along with required drug and health screenings, and attend a general orientation session to familiarize themselves with hospital policies and procedures, as well as federal, state, and industry-wide regulations, such as federal law that governs patient confidentiality.

During each shift, volunteers receive a voucher for a delicious meal in the Hospital cafeteria, known for its great food.

In April of each year, volunteers are celebrated at a Volunteer Appreciation Banquet event, held this year at The Barn at Heritage Farm.

Starting this summer, volunteers will be given the opportunity to request assignments within the Hospital's new Northern Medical Group medical office building, across from the Hospital on South Street – a 25,000-square-foot facility that will house several specialty practices of Northern Regional Hospital, including Gastroenterology, Family Medicine, Urology, and General Surgery. "As with the Hospital proper, volunteers will help greet, guide, and sometimes transport patients at this state-of-the-art facility, as well as perform other related non-clinical tasks," said Beasley.

"Volunteers are a key part of our healthcare team at Northern Hospital," emphasizes Beasley. "In many instances, volunteers are the first point-of-contact for patients and visitors alike – so it's important that their interactions with others are friendly and welcoming. If someone is smiling, it sets the tone for the whole visit – and a positive, caring attitude is just as important as the high-quality medical care that is provided."

For more information about the Volunteer Program of Northern Regional Hospital, contact Tina Beasley at 336-783-8196 or tbeasley@wearenorthern.org or visit choosenorthern.org/careers/volunteer/

Legal Notice

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC OF AN APPLICATION BY APPALACHIAN POWER COMPANY
FOR A 2023 TRIENNIAL REVIEW OF ITS BASE RATES, TERMS AND CONDITIONS
PURSUANT TO § 56-585.1 OF THE CODE OF VIRGINIA
CASE NO. PUR-2023-00002

- Appalachian Power Company ("APCo") has filed its 2023 triennial review of its base rates, terms and conditions pursuant to § 56-585.1 of the Code of Virginia.
- Among other things, APCo requests a revenue increase in the amount of approximately $212.6 million. The overall impact of the Company's proposals would increase the monthly bill of a residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt hours of electricity per month by approximately $25.03, or 15.9%. For low-income customers qualifying for the proposed basic service charge waiver, the Company's proposals would increase the monthly bill of a residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt hours of electricity per month by approximately $16.53 or 10.5%.
- A Hearing Examiner appointed by the State Corporation Commission will hold a telephonic hearing in this case on August 23, 2023, at 10 a.m., for the receipt of public witness testimony.
- An evidentiary hearing will be held on August 24, 2023, at 9:30 a.m., in the Commission's second floor courtroom located in the Tyler Building, 1300 East Main Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219.
- Further information about this case is available on the SCC website at: scc.virginia.gov/Case-Information.

On March 31, 2023, Appalachian Power Company ("APCo" or "Company") filed an application ("Application") with the State Corporation Commission ("Commission"), pursuant to § 56-585.1 A 3 of the Code of Virginia ("Code") and the Commission's Rules Governing Utility Rate Applications and Annual Informational Filings ("Rate Case Rules"), for a triennial review of the Company's rates, terms and conditions for the provision of generation, distribution and transmission services.

The Application states that this proceeding entails, among other things, determinations regarding: (i) APCo's cost of service during the three successive 12-month periods ending December 31, 2022 ("Earnings Test Period"); (ii) whether prospective changes to APCo's rates for generation and distribution services are necessary; and (iii) the Company's prospective fair rate of return on common equity ("ROE").

The Application states that, pursuant to Code § 56-585.1 A 8, the Company's earned ROE during the Earnings Test Period is compared to a 140 basis-point band of earnings that ranges from 70 basis points above a previously authorized ROE to 70 basis points below that ROE ("ROE band"). The Application further notes that Code § 56-585.1 A 8 states that if earnings fall below the ROE band during the Earnings Test Period, the Commission shall order increases to APCo's rates necessary to provide the opportunity to fully recover the costs of providing the Company's services and to earn not less than such fair combined rate of return. Using the most recently ended 12-month test period as the basis for determining the amount of the rate increase necessary. Finally, the Application states that Code § 56-585.1 A 2 g provides that if APCo's combined earned return is below its authorized return, "whether or not such combined return is within 70 basis points of the return as so determined," the Company may request that the Commission approve "an increase in rates in accordance with the provisions of subdivision 8 a as if it had earned more than 70 basis points below a fair combined rate of return, and such proceeding shall otherwise be conducted in accordance with the provisions of this section."

APCo states that the ROE band for the analysis of the Earnings Test Period is based on an ROE of 9.20%, which is the return authorized by the Commission in APCo's 2020 Triennial Review. APCo states that the Company earned a return of 5.39% on its common equity during the Earnings Test Period, which is the equivalent of over $124 million in pre-tax earnings below 8.5%, the bottom of APCo's authorized ROE band for the Earnings Test Period.

Based on this analysis, APCo requests approval to implement retail base generation and distribution rates that are designed to implement an overall increase in the Company's revenues of approximately $212.6 million over revenues from current base rates. APCo states that this is a 14.3% increase to overall revenues. The requested increase includes a $5.4 million increase to the generation function and a $207.2 million increase to the distribution function.

The requested revenue increase reflects, among other things, APCo's requested authorization of a prospective ROE of 10.6%. APCo also requests that the Commission approve depreciation rates that will result in an annual increase in depreciation expenses. APCo also requests to increase distribution O&M expenses by $47.8 million to allow it to improve its vegetation management program. APCo states that its proposal for an increased level of vegetation management funds should improve the reliability of targeted circuits and reflects higher costs of materials and labor. APCo also proposes an adjustment to increase federal tax expense in the cost of service to reflect the Company's expected increased tax obligations under the federal Corporate Alternative Minimum Tax. Additionally, APCo requests authority to establish a regulatory liability for the credit that will offset future tax obligations and deferral authority to ensure the Company only collects its actual tax obligations from customers.

With this Application, the Company proposes to eliminate the basic service charge for qualifying low-income customers, which for these purposes the Company defines as customers who receive assistance from one (or more) state agency. At the same time, the Company proposes an increase of $0.54 to the basic service charge from $7.96 to $8.50 for all other residential customers, which APCo states is designed to be revenue-neutral for the Company when combined with the estimated level of customers who will be eligible for the basic service charge waiver.

APCo states that even if the Commission finds that it should not increase the Company's rates, the Company nevertheless requests that the Commission approve revised rates to reflect the changes in the underlying costs since 2010. APCo states that its proposed rate design reflects updates to both the functional and class allocations to reflect the current costs of serving the Company's customer classes. Additionally, APCo proposes to incorporate Schedule MGS (Medium General Service) customers into Schedule GS (General Service) and eliminate Schedule MGS from the Company's standard service tariff.

The foregoing is not an exhaustive list of all the proposals contained in the Company's Application. Interested persons are encouraged to review APCo's Application and supporting documents in full for details about these and other proposals.

TAKE NOTICE that the Commission may apportion revenues among customer classes and/or design rates in a manner differing from that shown in the Application and supporting documents and thus may adopt rates that differ from those appearing in the Company's Application and supporting documents.

The Commission entered an Order for Notice and Hearing in this proceeding that, among other things, scheduled public hearings on APCo's Application. On August 23, 2023, at 10 a.m., the Hearing Examiner assigned to this case will hold a telephonic hearing, with no witness present in the Commission's courtroom, for the purpose of receiving the testimony of public witnesses. On or before August 17, 2023, any person desiring to offer testimony as a public witness shall provide to the Commission (a) your name, and (b) the telephone number that you wish the Commission to call during the hearing to receive your testimony. This public witness hearing will be webcast at scc.virginia.gov/pages/Webcasting.

On August 24, 2023, at 9:30 a.m., in the Commission's second floor courtroom located in the Tyler Building, 1300 East Main Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219, the Hearing Examiner will convene a hearing to receive testimony and evidence related to the Application from the Company, any respondents, and the Commission's Staff.

Nomination Period for Governor's Awards now open

Gov. Glenn Youngkin's administration is accepting nominations for the 2023 Virginia Governor's Awards on Volunteerism and Community Service, an annual award program that recognizes Virginians and organizations that volunteer their time to make a difference in their communities. Nominations will be accepted until Monday, June 19 at 5pm.

"Each year we celebrate the service of these individuals, organizations, and companies as a way to not only thank them for their extraordinary efforts, but to raise up all of our incredible volunteers and inspire all Virginians to serve," said Youngkin. "It is an honor and a privilege to recognize the commitment of our statewide volunteers."

The Virginia Governor's Awards on Volunteerism and Community Service honor individuals, community organizations, educational programs, and businesses that serve Virginians through volunteerism. Individual awards will recognize one person each in the categories of youth, young adult, adult, and senior volunteers. Group honors will be awarded in the categories of faith-based organizations, community organizations, small businesses, and companies. This year's honorees will be recognized in a ceremony this October. More information about nomination process and the form to submit a nomination is available through the Virginia Service Commission at virginiainservice.virginia.gov/awards.

Youngkin released a proclamation on April 16 recognizing National Volunteer Week, and the Virginians that dedicate over 130 million hours in service to communities across the Commonwealth each year. Since 1984, Virginia governors have celebrated the impact of volunteers, and honored the significant contributions of Virginians across the state with the annual Governor's Awards on Volunteerism and Community Service.

"We are honored to spotlight the amazing contributions of Virginians who dedicate their time and talent to making a difference and the organizations that partner to offer these meaningful service opportunities in communities across Virginia," said Secretary of Health and Human Resources John Littel. "Volunteers meet critical community needs, as well as inspiring a spirit of service in others across the Commonwealth."

The Governor's Awards on Volunteerism and Community

Service have recognized volunteers across a wide span of focus areas, and the service provided by past honorees has touched the lives of thousands through providing support, resources, and healthy spaces for all to thrive. Past honorees have played critical roles in increasing access to green spaces, protecting Virginia's natural resources, supporting youth and families impacted by foster care, and inspiring students to become Virginians that give back—just to name a few.

The Virginia Service Commission (VSC) supports national service and community volunteerism across the Commonwealth. In addition to overseeing the annual grant competition that awards funding to AmeriCorps State and other national service programs, VSC actively works to support volunteerism through policy and program priorities, training and assistance, and recognizing individuals and organizations from all sectors for their contributions within their communities. VSC is supported by the Virginia Service Foundation and is guided by the Governor's Advisory Board on Service and Volunteerism. For more about the work of VSC, visit VirginiaService.Virginia.Gov

Power of Hope

Alan Dean, retired Seventh-day Adventist pastor

An experience I heard many years ago is still in my memory. It's about a medical doctor who was taking a several weeks break from his hospital practice. Before leaving he gave some specific instructions to his two head nurses about Mrs. A and Mrs. B. He told them Mrs. A was making good progress. She should be well enough to be discharged by the time he got back. So, he told them to give her encouragement that she'll be home soon.

He said that Mrs. B may not live till I get back. She's in a life and death struggle. He asked the nurses to help prepare her and her family for the probability of death and to "get her house in order."

Well, somehow the nurses got the status of the two patients reversed. They encouraged Mrs. B that all was going to be well. But they prepared Mrs. A and her family with the bleak news about her future.

When the doctor returned weeks later, he was quite surprised to learn that Mrs. A had died and Mrs. B was about ready to go home. This proved to them all about the value of having hope in our lives.

Nelson Mandela was imprisoned for 27 years for resisting apartheid and other injustices in South Africa. During his sentence he endured hard labor without appropriate clothing against the weather. While still a prisoner he had the joy and privilege of meeting and naming his newborn granddaughter. He chose the name Zaziwe, which translates to "hope." Mandela hung on to the hope that this baby would grow up in a free and equal society. This future hope gave him the power to tolerate the present until he was finally freed and exonerated.

For us living in 2023 there is hope for us as well. Titus 2:13 tells to wait "for our blessed hope, the appearing of our Savior Jesus Christ." Jesus will return to take us home as He has promised (John 14:2,3). God fulfills His promises.

Jeremiah 29:11 tells us that God wants to give us hope for today too. He says, "For I know the plans I have for you, plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future." God is for us and has our best interest in mind. We need only to believe and trust in Him.

Many today are suffering because they have no hope. This world has not given them reason for hope in the future. They don't know or believe that they have a personal God who cares for them and wants to save them from destruction.

So, no matter the circumstances you may find yourself in today, submit to God and He will give you hope for your tomorrow. He will forgive your sins, give you power over them, and direct your path from this point onward. The Bible calls this the "new birth."

Music Trail Receives Wayne C. Henderson Music Festival, Guitar Competition Grant

Virginia's Heritage Music Trail: The Crooked Road is pleased to announce that the Traditional Music Education Program has been awarded a Wayne C. Henderson Music Festival and Guitar Competition grant.

These funds will help support The Crooked Road's Youth Music Festival & Competition, scheduled for May 13, at the Southwest Virginia Cultural Center & Marketplace. The Youth Music Festival & Competition is part of TCR's Traditional Music Education Program (TMEP) and will feature an open fiddlers-convention style instrument competition, jam spaces and two workshops.

The funding from this grant will help pay for competition cash prizes for the youth. There is no entry or admission fee, but donations will be accepted for TCR's Traditional Music Education Program and Junior Appalachian Musicians (JAM) programs. A hot dog lunch will also be available for purchase for $10.

"Wayne Henderson is an amazing luthier and musician in addition to being a valuable partner for The Crooked Road and the Traditional Music Education Program. His generosity and support is very much appreciated as TCR continues to identify opportunities to support the next generation of heritage musicians in the SWVA region," said Carrie Beck, executive director of The Crooked Road.

Girl Scouts enjoy camporee, activities

Girl Scouts in Patrick County held their annual spring camporee April 21-23 at Dominion Valley Park. The girls enjoyed the weekend despite the rain and storms. Badges, Patches, Bronze Awards and Silver Awards were worked on throughout the weekend. Lots of good times were enjoyed through games, hikes, good food and lots of good times just being together with friends.

The girls also celebrated Earth Day by planting a tree at the park as a memorial to a former Girl Scout from their troop Callie Crowell, who passed away last November.

Girls and their leaders want to thank Dominion Valley Park for allowing them to camp there in the fall and the spring each year. The girls enjoy learning about nature and the outdoors as they camp and work on learning many skills that help them to earn badges and patches dealing with the outdoors.

Girl Scouting is a wonderful way for girls to learn many useful skills that will help them as they grow and mature through all the levels of Girl Scouting. Anyone interested in joining is welcome to contact our group and join in the fun.

Radio Operators Support Concurrent Events

The Southwest Virginia Auxiliary Communications (AUXCOMM) amateur radio volunteers continued their community support for 2023 by responding to concurrent regional events. These exercises help ham radio operators prepare their equipment and skills for actual regional emergency responses. Many past natural disasters have knocked out cell phone service, demonstrating the need for ham radio services on site.

The longer event was the No Frills Horse Ride sponsored by the Old Dominion Equestrian Endurance Organization, Inc. conducted in Star Tannery, Virginia on April 14 and 15. AUXCOMM Event Coordinator Frank Howard lead the 10th annual return to this event with six ham operators from Dugspur, Fairlawn, Galax, Pulaski, Woodlawn and Wytheville. Over 100 horse and rider teams were tracked on multiple trails ranging from 10 to 55 miles long. Event leaders said without ham radio operators, team safety and coordination tracking the riders simply wouldn't be possible. With the multiple events on the large courses, they noted the importance of radio communications to track a horse and rider team that continued through a check point, unchecked. The horse and rider were OK and continued their course.

The second event was the combined New River Trail 25K and 50K Marathons along the New River and Chestnut Creek in the New River Trail State Park held on 15 April. AUXCOMM Event Coordinator Josh Greer drew amateur radio operators from Sparta, NC, Galax, Groundhog Mountain and Max Meadows. The marathons hosted 156 runners that raced through four Aid Stations. Again, the value of volunteer communications was demonstrated in real time when one runner ran beyond the course route. Event authorities were notified immediately, and a plan was formulated to find the lone runner who eventually returned unharmed to complete the marathon.

Duties for operators at both events included carefully logging and reporting all participants along the courses and passing information from check points to event leaders. The data logs are paramount for competitor safety, ensuring every rider, horse and marathon runner is accounted for, and any safety concerns can be addressed to multiple stations via radio. Altogether AUXCOMM volunteers provided over 150 volunteer hours. Both event organizers invited the teams back next year, and commented on the professionalism that each ham radio operator displayed.

AUXCOMM volunteers are amateur, or 'ham' radio operators, licensed by the FCC. The word 'amateur' in their title means operators are federally licensed but legally cannot take pay for services, which include communication support during natural disasters for emergency management teams, and supporting public safety and community events. The Southwest Virginia Auxiliary Communications (AUXCOMM) team aligns with and supports Region 4 of the Virginia Department of Emergency Management. The AUXCOMM team works closely with the Briarpatch Amateur Radio Service Club in Galax, and includes members from SW Virginia and NW North Carolina.

Visit www.briarpatcharc.com and sw-va-auxcomm.org for AUXCOMM and Briarpatch radio club meeting times, on the air nets, current activities and our schedule of upcoming events including our ARRL Field Day in June.

Gathering in the Gap music festival announces star-studded main stage lineup

Gathering in the Gap

The Gathering in the Gap Music Festival at the Southwest Virginia Museum Historical State Park is a celebration of the rich tradition of old-time, Americana and bluegrass music found in Southwest Virginia. This year's festival, which coincides with the park's 75th anniversary, will be held on Saturday, May 27, on the park's grounds.

Gathering in the Gap offers a one-of-a-kind evening of performances by Grammy award-winning artist Rhonda Vincent, who was crowned the New Queen of Bluegrass by the Wall Street Journal and recently won IBMA Female Vocalist of the Year.

Also featured on the main stage are well-known cellist, pianist and composer Dave Eggar and IBMA Momentum Band of the Year — the Stillhouse Junkies.

In addition to the main stage performances, Gathering in the Gap will include a dedication ceremony for the Southwest Virginia Walk of Fame; a songwriting competition; musical competitions; music jams; a book signing with New York Times bestselling author Adriana Trigiani; a children's area; the Gathering Place Beer and Wine Garden; antique, food and craft vendors; the Stitch in Time Quilt Show and a special 75th-anniversary exhibit.

Please note, tickets are required to attend the Adriana Trigiani book signing; they will be available beginning May 5 at gatheringinthegap.org. There is no charge for the tickets, but a limited number will be available.
