School Board jump starting upcoming school year

The Craig County School Board was ready at the July meeting to jump-start the upcoming school year with many positive ideas. Samuel Foster, shown here, addressed many issues to the Board.

Pam Dudding

Contributing writer

With all Board members present, the July School Board meeting covered many topics pertaining to the upcoming school year.

Superintendent Jeanette Warwick reported that annually, Craig County schools get a special education perfor-

"This year our report was based on data from the 2018-2019 school year. There are 14 indicators, and we did not meet the state target for two," she

•Students with disabilities grades 7-12 who dropped out. Craig County was 1.69 and state target wants you to be under 1.40. Obviously if one child does not graduate, that is not ok with us, therefore we will be addressing that this upcoming year

•School age least restrictive environment for students served in separate public or private schools - children that need to go to a school due to a special nature of their disability. We have five percent. We only have three children and we do not send kids out of town unless we absolutely cannot meet their needs here

Warwick continued, "The Coalition of Small Rural Schools are sponsoring a 'Crumbling Schools Tour.'"

The notice stated that "This tour will allow decision makers to have a first-hand account of the conditions our students and staff endure on a daily basis. Unfortunately, rural, and high poverty areas have more than their fair share of school infrastructure needs. The goal of these tours is not to call out or cast blame, but to bring awareness to the difference in what is, compared to what could be. This issue cannot be solved by localities alone. This issue cannot be solved by the Commonwealth alone. The only real solution to this ever-growing problem is to combine federal, state and local resources to ensure that a student's zip code is not a predictor of the quality of the education they receive."

"In Region 6, we were asked to host this tour," Warwick continued. "There will be different legislators coming and the Board of Supervisors and the School Board were invited to come. This is to give them an idea of the things we are still in need of."

Craig County Public Schools CCPS) were visited on July 22 at 10:30 a.m.

Trace Bellassai is the Board representative for Governor School and reported that they are still reviewing some of the guidance concerns for admissions and discussing a waiver. However, he reported that the good news is, CCPS is sending an additional student this year.

Warwick shared, "I have been so hoping to be able to give a definite answer about masks when school starts. However, the current Governor's order requires us to wear masks while children are here and on school property and on school buses.'

This mandate expired July 28, therefore new mandates will be given, as school starts soon.

Warwick did add that temperatures checks are no longer required at the door, however, they still monitor symptoms, "just as we do during flu season." Grading scales in schools are a consistent issue and Warwick shared that she has been approached several times over the last few years about the one at CCPS, requesting the ten-point grad-Samuel Foster had conducted a sur-

There's nothing like eating every else's homemade cooking and baking. When it is added to a wonderful group of people, it doubles the enjoyment. On Sunday, August 15, the Old Salem Church will have its annual potluck at 1 p.m. All are invited to bring a dish, a chair and have fun.

The Old Salem Church continues its annual picnic

Pam Dudding Contributing writer

As life begins again for the United States of America, so does annual events in our county.

The Old Salem Church has announced that it will be having its Annual Homecoming Potluck Picnic this year on Sunday, August 15, at 1 p.m.

Said Jean Bradley, "This year will we not have a service inside the church, but will have some things outside under the pavilion, so bring a comfortable chair."

She did note though that the church will be open for anyone wishing to go inside, adding that there is no running water or electricity, but a porta-john is on the church property for use.

Though there are no Sunday or Wednesday services, and the lot is empty most of the time. Two events, however, still happen like clockwork at the Old Salem Church on Route 42 in Craig County that create standing room-only events. This excludes last year due to the COVID-19 regulations.

Bradley and many friends and relatives have worked diligently to keep this wonderful tradition alive.

The church was established in 1883, and the first Christmas Candlelight service was held in December 2001.

Since then, they have only missed Christmas due to bad weather one year and the pandemic of last year. The little church has two functions annually: a Homecoming picnic in the summer and the Christmas Candlelight service in December. 'We continue this because it seems so many would be disappointed if we didn't," Bradley noted. People attend every year from all corners of Craig County. Some even drive in from other states for the special occasion. This year's summer fun

Homecoming picnic will be on Sunday, August 15. The entire community is invited, and it is a potluck. "There's always so much food to choose from," attendees always say when the event concludes. "But there is always plenty left over too."

For more information, contact Enola C. Ross at (540)864-6175.

Bring your lawn chair, your favorite dish and enjoy a relaxing and fun afternoon, as Bradley always says, "Everyone is welcome.'

Historical Society hosts their appetizing dinners once again

The Craig County Historical Society reopened its doors for their dinners and packed out both reservation times. The kitchen served everyone almost as soon as they sat down with a hot meal and homemade desserts.

If there is one thing people like to do, it is to eat. Even with the flavorful meal recently served at the Old Hotel, laughter, smiles and a jovial atmosphere took center stage.

The Craig County Historical Society, once again, hosted their infamous dinners at the Old Hotel on Main Street, having packed reservations for both serving meals.

Their meal included a nice portion of ham, green beans, baked macaroni and cheese, a roll and drinks.

It was followed by a selection of homemade desserts including, strawberry cake with fresh strawberries, cherry cheesecake, chocolate cake, peanut butter cake, coconut cake and peach cobbler.

The kitchen staff were more than ready to have everyone's meal served

Craig County High graduates embrace for next chapter in their lives

Graduating from high school is certainly an accomplishment. Not being able to see friends every day, however, is what most people say they miss about high school. Locally, several graduates vowed to keep in touch, regardless of where life takes them. From left to right, Nicole Austin, Dalton Henderson, Hunter Ashley, Autumn Hutchison, Clayton Owens and Bryson

New school mandates officially announced

Pam Dudding Contributing writer

With school starting in less than a week, the Governor has released information for the schools to use as guidelines. Therefore, an announcement was made by Superintendent Jeanette Warwick:

"The Virginia Department of Health (VDH) and the Virginia Department of Education (VDOE) released a document on Wednesday, July 21, 'Interim guidance for CO-VID-19 prevention in Virginia Pre K-12 Schools.' The document mirrors the current CDC recommendations that students and non-vaccinated staff should continue to wear masks in school. However, decision-making authority regarding masking has been granted to local school divisions. My recommendations are as follows, which are supported by the Craig County School Board."

•Masks will no longer be required for staff and students beginning July 26, 2021. I believe the decision about masking should be a choice for families and staff members. If families wish for their students to continue wearing a mask or if staff members wish to wear a mask, then, of course, they will be allowed to do so.

•There is still a Federal Executive Order in place that requires the wearing of masks while using public transportation, which applies to school buses. Therefore, our students and drivers must continue to wear masks if using CCPS transportation, unless there is a medical condition.•We will continue

•We will continue to practice good hygiene and prevention strategies such as handwashing, monitoring students/staff for signs of illness, etc., as we have always done.

"I look forward to seeing all of you at the division Open House on Thursday, August 5, from 3:00 to 6:00 p.m.," Warwick concluded.

SCC offers insurance tips for students heading to college

After anywhere from months to more than a year of virtual learning due to the COVID-19 pandemic, many students will soon be heading to college campuses for inperson instruction during the fall semester. In addition to new courses, teachers, friends, surroundings and living accommodations, it also can mean new insurance needs.

The State Corporation

Commission's Bureau of Insurance encourages Virginians to make sure their backto-school checklist includes a thorough review of their own and their student's insurance needs. "Know before they go what your student's insurance needs will be and make sure they have the right coverage," said Virginia Insurance Commissioner Scott A. White. "Protect yourself and your

ing insurance considerations for parents and students:

HEALTH

College students have several options for getting health insurance. Under the federal Affordable Care Act (ACA), students may stay on their arents' health insurance until age 26. If your student remains on your health insurance policy, make sure he or she has a copy of all insurance cards and understands what services are covered and how to obtain referrals, if necessary, before seeking treatment. Under some health insurance policies, your student would need to find a physician or hospital within the carrier's provider network – except for emergency care – or pay more out of pocket.

Students who do not have health insurance through a parent's policy, or who have limited coverage due to provider networks or service areas, may opt to purchase a student health insurance plan through their college or university. Students also can apply for a private health insurance plan through the health insurance marketplace at HealthCare.gov. Students may qualify for a Special Enrollment Period for health insurance. To learn more, visit healthcare.gov/coverage-

College students often take many valuable items outside-open-enrollment/spe-with them to school including computers, printers, televisions, bicycles and mobile phones. Consider how much it would cost to replace everything in your student's dorm or apartment should a theft or disaster occur.

For students who live in on-campus student housing, their parents' homeowners or renters policy may cover their belongings if they are stolen or damaged. However, there may be limits to the amount of coverage provided for such items. Some items such as jewelry or expensive electronics may require special coverage. In the event of a loss, policy deductibles may also apply.

Students living off-campus should consider renters insurance, an inexpensive form of coverage that protects personal property and insures the tenant in case someone is injured while on their leased premises. Landlords' policies generally only cover the structure, not the possessions of renters. Renters insurance premiums vary depending on the location and size of the rental unit and the value of your possessions.

Encourage your student that, no matter where he or she lives, it's important to make a list of his or her belongings. An inventory will help you and your student determine how much insurance is needed and, if a loss occurs, the inventory can be used to file a claim. The National Association of Insurance Commissioners offers a free smartphone app that makes creating an inventory Almost everyone knows people who are economically disadvantaged. Defined as the inability to compete in business or pay their debts due to diminished credit or capital opportunities, the U.S. Census Bureau statistics recently estimated that nearly onefourth of the total population falls under that category.

Two years ago, through the vision and leadership of Aldrica Anderson and her Veteran Affordable Senior Housing (VASH) team, the Roanoke Valley Beautification Day initiative was created. Beautification Day, noted Anderson, is an opportunity for Southwest Virginia residents, families and visitors to come together to beautify homes, parks and neighborhoods.

"This day pays homage to my dad who was born and raised in Roanoke. At 85 years young, he asked if there was anything I could do to help fight the blight and other needs in the communities he has a wealth of memories in," she said.

Rain was a factor in last year's inaugural event at Kennedy Park, however, it wasn't a deterrent as dozens of volunteers still showed up to beautify homes. This year's theme was "Can't Stop the Feeling," and over a 100 Roanoke County, Roanoke, Craig County and Salem volunteers as well as out of state visitors arrived at Eureka Park around 9 a.m. on July 24 to plant flowers, pick up trash and rake mulch, among numerous other things.

Constructed to unite the Roanoke Valley community through the concept of love, volunteer Keara Moore said she embraced the opportunity to speak with locals on their perceptions of the Watershed Academy Program. "It's important to see people flourish and succeed by loving, caring and supporting one another. Not only this, but tree planting and landscaping heavily benefits one's mental and physical health in numerous ways," Moore said.

Rob Ward, Food Lion's Regional Director of Operations, donated ice, water and an ice cream truck for the July 24 event. "We always look for community events that we can be a part of," he said. "Our associates see these people in our stores daily and being there for them outside of a store setting helps build that relatedness and helps us get to know them better. It all starts with just trying to be a good human being and caring for others in any way that we

Five major corporate sponsors dedicated to community service initiatives were awarded the VASH Top Corporation Community Leadership Award: Lowes Home Improvement, Kroger Family of Companies, Food Lion, Sam's Club and BJ's Warehouse

Seeing so many people of different backgrounds come together for a great cause warmed Anderson's heart. It's incredible, she added, what the community can accomplish when people work together.

Libraries, tourism and infrastructure

Library Corner

Empowering individuals to build a stronger community

Dear Governor Ralph Northam,

You are an educated man, and I can bet you have a favorite library in your past. I want to remind you that libraries are infrastructure. Libraries today have become centers for technology and free education and access to such IT resources.

Infrastructure is defined as "the general term for the basic physical systems of a business, region or nation. It is the systems and structure that allows a country or organization to work effectively." A public library is found in virtually every community in America and is a resource for citizens, businesses and government to use for advancement of prosperity and education for every citizen.

Our tiny public library in rural Craig County has been striving to meet these goals for two decades. Craig County is 75 percent Jefferson National Forest and has a population density of 15 people per square mile. Compare that to the population of Goochland County with 186 people per square mile. Getting broadband internet to the far reaches of our mountainous county has its challenges. There are many places where there is no phone signal or internet service in Craig County. Public libraries are where people can go to access IT services and more importantly, where they can get help and instruction on how to use these critical infrastructure needs. The funding for staff is way below standard in our fiscally stretched county. We have searched and found that there is little funding available for the physical expansion of libraries. There is money for media and computers, but we have nowhere to place them in our tiny space.

easy. Parents may also want to use this opportunity to update their own home inventory as well.

For students planning to take a car to school, parents should ask their insurance agent or company about coverage availability and rates for the city and state where the college is located before deciding whether to keep the student's car on the family policy. Also, make sure you know that state's minimum requirements for auto insurance coverage. Students who maintain good grades may be eligible for a good student discount on the vehicle's insurance

Students whose names are on the title for a car must purchase their own policy. However, they may be able to stay on their parents' policy if their parents own the vehicle they will use at school. and staff about which grading system they preferred. They were asked to choose a grading scale, grades 3-5, 6-8 and 9-12. There were three possibilities given:

•seven-point scale (CCPS current scale) 100-94 = A •ten-point scale 100-90

•ten-point plus or minus scale (for grades 9-12) which is what most colleges use to-responded. Forty-one It was approximately 50 percent were high school, 20 percent middle school and 30 percent elementary school, which is the breakdown of their staff, therefore we have a good response across the division.

Foster then explained that one concern on the tenpoint scale that has risen is, that students who have an 80 average receives the same grade as a student who has an 89-average grade.

"The plus and minus scale does break this down a little bit more and are similar to college grade scales," he said. His reporting found the following: •Grades 3-5: 77 percent of all respondents would like a ten-point scale (most all elementary teachers and middle school teachers chose ten-point whereas the high school suggested to remain on the seven-point scale.)

•Grades 6-8: 91 percent of respondents ten-point

•Grades 9-12: 97 percent ten-point scale 68 percent prefer the plus or minus scale

Based on the results, Foster recommends the following for the 2021-2022 school year: grades 3-8 straight tenpoint scale and grades 9-12 to do a ten-point plus or minus scale. The advantage here is it prepares them for

As you know, our mission statement is "Every Child a Graduate; Every Child Prepared for Life." So, we are preparing them.

Bellassai inquired of the survey information Foster had sent to the Board since the survey did not show a change in grades for students. He shared information which gave a profile of another local school that moved from seven to tenpoint scale. There seemed to be no difference, and sadly, the number of F students remained the same.

At the time, only CCPS and Salem were on the seven-point scale, all others schools have changed to the ten or ten-plus/minus scales.

Warwick added that she had been asked several times and Gina Smith noted, "Surrounding counties are VHSL, grades impact some also on a ten-point scale and of the cutoffs for sports paralso college is at that scale.

Explained Warwick, "I scale as the students who receive a higher grade need to be rewarded for that. If a student gets a 90.2, they receive who carries a 100 average. to work and excel, I think it hope right now," he said. is a reward for them."

the seven-point scale helps offset the fact, that it sets our standards a little big higher."

Warwick replied, "Since 2016, we have worked diligently to expand many programs, including AP and dual-enrollment. We now have two math teachers who can teach dual-enrollment and have added additional AP classes, including AP Computer-Science class that Mr. Boyer started. He was one of the first teachers to start it in the nation. He has a great program for those students. We have AP English. We need to empower our teachers to move beyond multiple choice and go to more higher-level processes and then we will see what you are looking for."

Smith added that for

Foster said that students prefer the ten-plus or minus must pass three out of four grades which would put our players on more of a level playing field with surrounding counties. "I think this the same A for the student grading scale gives our students a little more hope and For the students who want they need that little bit more

The Board approved Bellassai added, "There the recommendations. The are areas I think our stan- Board also approved for dards could be better and CCPS to continue to not schedule practice and games on Sundays.

Warwick shared that families and staff had previously stressed that Sunday was to be a family day and students should not be forced to choose between religious services in order to participate in sports.

Smith inquired of what "emergency situations" would warrant a Sunday game and Foster explained that it is typically playoff games that could be weather-related in District and Regional tournaments with specific deadlines. "I feel like we have been doing good all these years, why do we need to change it?" he said.

High school principal Melissa Whiting said, "Parry McCluer was just in a situation in soccer with rain and they had to cancel a game and make up a game prior to deadline for the tournaments and had to contemplate a Sunday game.

Ultimately, the Board unanimously approved to not have Sunday games. Warwick reported that there was an excess of fund for the 2020 – 2021 school year of $454,000. Due to the amount of COVID-19 Response Funds CCPS received, many of the items normally paid for out of the operating budget, were purchased with these funds. There was also an excess in transportation because they went from transporting students five days a week to four days a week.

"We have to turn this over to CC Board of Supervisors and it is placed in a capitol fund which have to be applied to specific areas," Warwick said.

Chairman Susan Crenshaw added that these funds had been earmarked for possible specific purchases, which Warwick said that the needed resurfacing of the parking lots was one of the areas the funds would be

Upon the meeting ending, Crenshaw addressed the many citizens that attended, "For everyone who came out tonight with concerned business, talk to your school personnel with any of your concerns."

Bellaisai inquired about using some of the funds for the athletic areas that needed some serious attention. Whiting said, "We have a 'parent posse' who has volunteered just what you have indicated and working with our newly appointed football coach. Great minds think alike." Warwick added they would be sending the backto-school schedules and she praised the summer staff. "Our kids have been loving coming to school. They are just happy, they are bouncing in. It is really nice seeing the children loving being here. A big shout-out to the staff, Mrs. VanDyke and Mrs. Whiting as well and Mrs. Stimeling.

Warwick assured the community that their concern for the students at CCPS was of top priority.

She stated, "There has been a lot of news media about the transgender policy that the Department of Education was mandated by the General Assembly to put out this policy. However, we already have policies in place that protect all children from any discrimination. So CCPS will not be adopting anything separate from the policies we have that will protect our children against discrimination. I wanted to make that statement publicly because it is a lot to see in the media. It is a local school decision and the School Board in Craig do not see a need to adopt the model policy as we already have those policies."

Later, she added, "I would like to explain Craig County Public Schools stance on these topics."

1. Virginia Code Section 22.1-23.3

The intent of the law is to prevent discrimination of transgender students. The school division already has approved policies in place to ensure non-discrimination of all students. Those policies meet the requirements of the Code. Therefore, it is not necessary to change existing policies or adopt the VDOE's Model Policy for the Treatment of Transgender Students. The division will continue to work with individual students, as we always have, to keep all students emotionally and physically safe at school. Critical Race Theory

This term is not mentioned in the current Virginia Standards of Learning, nor in the curriculum. This includes the current standards and those standards that will be taught beginning in the 2022-2023 school year. We will continue, as always, to teach the standards prescribed by the Virginia Department of Education.

Warwick thanked everyone for attending the meeting, encouraging them to return for the August 10 meeting at 5:30 p.m.

Football, volleyball practice starts at Craig County this week

The Craig County football and volleyball teams begin practice this week under new head coaches. Jimmy Fisher takes over the football team while Suzanne Gans-Crawford takes over as head volleyball coach.

As of the weekend Fisher had 34 players from grades nine through 12, a big upgrade from recent years. He also expects about 20 kids to come out for the middle school team when they start up, which would make over 50 athletes in the program.

The Rockets started practice Monday of this week. They planned to go from 4 to 8 pm Monday through Wednesday, 4-5:30 pm on Thursday and 4-6:30 pm on Friday.

Craig has one scrimmage scheduled, at Patrick County on August 14. The Rockets will open the season at Bland on August 27 and the home opener is a week later, on September 3, against Auburn. The volleyball team also opened practice Monday. Coach Gans-Crawford will have the team in the gym from 3:30 to 5:30 pm. The Rockets will play in the Rockbridge County Jamboree on Saturday, August 21. They open the season at Christiansburg on August 24.

Jimmy Fisher has high hopes for the Craig County football program.

Buriak retires after 40 years at RC

Jim Buriak in the state-of-the-art RC training room that bears his name.

Roanoke College athletes competing in fall sports will be reporting to school in August, and for the first time in 40 years Jim Buriak won't be there to greet them.

Buriak retired after the 2020-21 school year after serving the college as a trainer, professor and administrator since the fall of 1981. Before departing he was honored with a surprise reception at Mama Maria's restaurant in Salem and informed that the college's Athletic Training Clinic, located in the Cregger Center, will now be called the "James Buriak Athletic Training Clinic."

"I had no idea," said Buriak of the honor. "I really enjoyed my time here, teaching and working with students. It's been really rewarding."

A native of Johnstown, PA, Jim was a catcher for the Westmont Hilltop High School baseball team. He started dating his wife, Carol, in high school and they stayed together when he went to college at Lock Haven State College, which is now University. He was a Physical Education Major with a concentration in athletic training, graduating in 1978.

Buriak attended graduate school at the University of Illinois, where he also served as a teaching assistant. Upon graduation he took a job at Lycoming University in Williamsport, PA as the head athletic trainer. After one year there he saw a position vacancy notice for a position at a Division III school in southwest Virginia and decided to check it out. This included a faculty position, which was not the case at Lycoming, and Buriak accepted the job as Health & Physical Education professor and head athletic trainer at Roanoke College.

At the time Buriak's office was located in a small room in ancient Alumni Gym and the training facility consisted of part of the basketball locker room. To say Jim left the school in a better place than when he arrived is very much an understatement.

"At that time I knew Bast was coming," he said, referring to the C. Homer Bast Center that served as RC's main athletic facility from 1982 until 2016, when the current Cregger Center opened. At the time the Bast Center was a top notch facility for Division III ath-

"It was one of the best facilities in the ODAC(Old Dominion Athletic Conference)," said Buriak. "When I got here we started with nothing, but we were able to get rehabilitation equipment. It was a huge step up."

As the first professional athletic trainer at Roanoke College Jim was a one-man staff for his first 15 years in Salem, with some help from students. Many of his students went on to become trainers in the Roanoke Valley and elsewhere as high schools started to understand the importance of having a full-time trainer at the school.

One of Jim's goals was to start an athletic training major at RC, and in 1997 that came to be. That was a popular major at Roanoke until just last year when it was dissolved because of a then-new

Commission on Accreditation of Athletic Training Education mandate that requires an institution to offer graduate level courses to continue certifying athletic trainers. Roanoke does not offer graduate level courses.

"We are pretty sure he is the only faculty member, ever, at Roanoke College to propose, start, develop, implement and then dissolve their own academic major," noted the resolution read at Jim's retirement dinner.

During his time at Roanoke Buriak was inducted into the Roanoke College Athletic Hall of Fame in 1992 and the Virginia Athletic Trainers Association Hall of Fame in 2010. He was recognized by the national Athletic Trainers Association(ATA) in 1997 and, in 1994, he received the college's "Dean's Council Award" for exemplary service to the college.

Buriak served under four Roanoke College presidents and was a valued colleague of countless coaches, sitting on the bench or standing on the sideline ready to assist an injured player at a second's notice. He's assisted in NCAA championships in Salem, administering drug tests when required and providing expertise and staff for the "City of Champions." He also worked with the Special Olympics, Soccer Development Programs, the Virginia Commonwealth Games and many other organizations in the area that benefited from his expertise. He developed a close personal relationship with area doctors and health care Jim and Carol lived about a mile from campus and raised two children here. Laura now lives in Savannah, GA and Jimmy is an Aviation Rescue Swimmer stationed in California. Jimmy received national attention when, on an off day, he saved the life of a man who was in distress who had drifted too far off a beach in Guam. Mostly, however, he jumps out of helicopters in rescue efforts.

Jim and Carol now live at Smith Mountain Lake, where he spends time on his boat and enjoys the retired life. He plans to continue to attend Roanoke College sports events, only now he won't be at the school all day getting ready.

Buriak is proud of the number of students he has trained who have gone on to success in the field of athletic training. Many come back and visit.

"I hear from a lot of them," he said. "We have a group of four or five who have zoom meetings to stay in touch. I've been very lucky and have really enjoyed my time

Buriak is leaving the program in great shape, much better than when he crammed his stuff into Alumni Gym 40 years ago. Gabby Deucher, a Roanoke College graduate, is the new head athletic trainer and there are five licensed trainers on the staff. While Jim's training room at the Bast Center was a great facility when it opened in 1982, it pales in comparison to the facilities at the Cregger Center.

"If it's not the best in all of Division III, it's certainly comparable," said Buriak of the training room that overlooks Kerr Stadium. "There's more space and it's all state-of-the-art equipment, with in ground hot tubs and anything you might need."

And, it will be a lasting testimony to Buriak's contributions to Roanoke College, the city of Salem, the NCAA and the many lives he has touched. A plaque recognizing his contributions will be mounted inside the James Buriak Athletic Training Clinic for all to see.

"I really enjoyed mentoring and establishing close relationships with students in our athletic training program and am extremely proud of our graduates who are enjoying successful professional careers, he said. "It gives me such pride to think that I may have had a small impact on their lives. Roanoke College has a special place in my heart that I will cherish forever."

Maroon bass fishing teammates qualify for national championship

For the first time ever, Roanoke College bass fishers are going to the national championship.

Thanks to a fifth-place finish in the Abu Garcia College Fishing event on the Potomac River on June 4, Will Hamilton '22 and Branen McKeon '24 qualified for the Abu Garcia College Fishing National Championship, which will be held next spring. The 2022 championship hasn't been scheduled yet, but it usually takes place

Branen McKeon, class of '24, left, and Will Hamilton, class of '22, pose with their catch after the Abu Garcia College Fishing event on the Potomac River on June 4.

"It's super exciting to be able to do it for Roanoke College," Hamilton said.

The team has grown in recent years. When Hamilton arrived at Roanoke, he said, there were only three or four people who wanted to fish in tournaments. Now there are seven people interested in competing.

The fishing team has its own boat, thanks to a donation, and can use that boat in competitions. Hamilton said not all schools that have a boat allow their fishers to use the boat for competitions, but at Roanoke, they are permitted to use the

Hamilton and team advisor Bob Shupe both said the team has become increasingly competitive and dedicated in recent years, and the progress has been impressive. Hamilton said if the team continues to compete this well against tough national competition, the team could be a feather in Roanoke College's cap for years to come. "If we keep doing like we are and stay on the track that we are and keep growing, I see it staying at Roanoke College," Hamilton said. "I see it hanging around for a long time.

The Abu Garcia College Fishing circuit is under the umbrella of Major League Fishing, and MLF promotes and airs the collegiate events. When the championship takes place in March, it will likely be livestreamed at majorleaguefishing.com.
