Cigarette tax proposal being revisited by Board

At the November Board of Supervisors meeting, Mike Carper, a business owner in Craig, shared several studies on the reason to retract the Board's proposed $4.00 tax per carton of cigarettes that is expected to take effect January 1, 2022.

Pam Dudding

Many taxes have increased the last couple of years with the current administration, however, Craig County Board of Supervisors also passed a large tax on cigarettes which will impact not only cigarette sales, but also additional sales for our local businesses in Craig.

However, at the November Board of Supervisors meeting, business owner Mike Carper presented important information of the reason to rescind the cigarette tax increase for Craig County business owners that is scheduled

Lasterday hosts Hometown Holiday Market

Many Craig County residents regularly mimic the words to "shop local." Doing so supports our own citizens in Craig. On November 13, Lasterday Market hosted their annual Hometown Holiday Outdoor Market. Though the wind brought in a nippy cold breeze, they still had several vendors set up for business. Susie Dillon made beautiful wreaths for the upcoming holidays.

Local Veterans receive thanks from Craig kids

warmed as they opened their mailboxes to find a touching handwritten Karen Jones, the Librarian and Gifted Resource Teacher at McCleary Elementary, invited her second through fifth-grade students to participate in making cards for the local Veterans in Craig County.

"Our goal was for each Veteran in Craig County to receive a thank you card for Veterans' Day," Jones said.
"We started with a list of 50 plus names, and after doing an 'all call' to round up any names we might have left out, we ended up with a list of over 100 local veterans."

Their hopes were that each Veteran would receive their card by Veterans Day, November

The students worked diligently on their cards. Here were students' special comments: "I enjoy making the cards because it feels good for the Veterans. The stuff they had to go through was horrible so it's good to make their day with a note. Thank you to all of our veterans and God Bless." - Sawyer (fifth grader)

"I'm happy about Veteran's Day. If they didn't fight in the war for us, America wouldn't have the freedom it does. When I made the card, I was super happy that it would actually go to a Veteran." - Emily (third grader)

In previous years, the students made cards for all the Veterans and the active military which were placed at their seating, at the Annual Veterans and Active Military HONOR Dinner, however, the last two years with the pandemic has prevented the dinner. As a result, Jones chose to still make the

DMV reinforces use of caution for motorists and motorcyclists this fall

Agency continues efforts to decrease number of motorcyclist fatalities

Crisp fall weather and colorful scenic routes are an undeniable call for motorcyclists to take a ride. In light of recent roadway trends, the Virginia Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) is reminding all motorcyclists and motorists to use caution. As of November 4, 95 motorcyclists have died in crashes on Virginia roadways, a 17 percent increase compared to the same date last year. In fact, more motorcyclists have already died in crashes this year than all of last year (87 motorcyclist fatalities in 2020).

Not only do motorcyclists and motorists share the road, but they also share the responsibility of taking proper precautions to keep roads safe for everyone.

By combining safe riding practices and safe driving practices on Virginia's roadways, together, we can prevent crashes and significantly reduce the number of motorcyclists killed each year," said DMV Commissioner Richard D. Holcomb, the Governor's Highway Safety Representative.

Motorcyclists are considered vulnerable road users due to the size of their vehicles, and motorcycles lack a considerable amount of protection compared to larger vehicles on the road.

In a continued effort to decrease traffic fatalities, DMV offers these safety tips for motorcyclists and motorists on the roads this fall:

Motorcycles or other smaller vehicles may appear farther away than they actually are, so take an extra moment to look before changing lanes, pulling into traffic, and turning at intersections.

Avoid distracted driving. The use of a cellphone or any handheld communications device while driving is illegal in Virginia. Remember, distracted driving is impaired driving, and impaired driving is always pre-

Always maintain a safe following distance. Motorists and motorcyclists should practice keeping at least 3 seconds between themselves and the vehicle or motorcycle ahead. Safety gear such as seat belts, helmets, and protective gear should always be properly utilized whenever operating a vehicle or motorcycle. Use caution and slow down when riding through intersections. Failure to notice the presence of a motorcycle is one of the leading causes of vehicle and motorcycle collisions. For more information on roadway safety for motorists and motorcyclists, visit TZDVA. org. DMV offers the Virginia

Beloved Salem Civic Center employee, community member dies at 68

Shawn Nowlin

November 4 was a sad day for the Roanoke Valle community. Two Tuesdays ago, Sam Terry, an adored community member, passed away at age 68 after a long battle against cancer.

When Terry retired in 2020 after 30 years as a City of Salem employee, he served as the Civic Center's Food and Beverage Manager. Whenever a banquet or special occasion occurred, it was Terry who likely provided the splendid meals.

Losing such a beloved individual has left a gap in many hearts. "The best thing we can say about Sam Terry is that he truly cared for everyone, the customer, his fellow employees and the city. # Historic Roanoke College donation expected to help advance the institution as a whole

The Roanoke College Board of Trustees celebrate the $15 Million gift from Shaun McConnon '66, a former member of the board.

Roanoke College President Michael Maxey, on October 28 announced to the Board of Trustees that the College has received the single largest cash gift in the school's 179-year history.

Shaun McConnon, a Massachusetts-based cybersecurity expert who founded several high-tech security companies, has donated $15 million for the College's new Science Center. He is a 1966 graduate of Roanoke College.

"Shaun McConnon's extraordinary gift represents a new chapter for Roanoke College, and we are grateful," President Maxey said. "Shaun's gift will help us realize our goals for the new Science Center, a space that will benefit many generations and our surrounding community. When complete, the Science Center will foster the types of meaningful academic and personal, purposeful connections Roanoke College is known for. This is an exciting time in our College history."

With his record-breaking gift, McConnon challenges the College to match the donation by the time Maxey retires in August 2022.

"I'm hoping that my donation and my story will help other alumni think about how Roanoke College may have helped and inspired their lives and careers," McConnon said. "I felt that at this point in my life, after a rewarding career, I would give back to Roanoke College. I am asking all alumni to consider donating to the future of the College, and the new Science Center. It will be rewarding for them, the College and future students who aspire to greater several Roanoke College professors as being instrumental in his success. "Dr. Karl Beck in psychology was phenomenal and Dr. Harry Poindexter in history," McConnon said in a 2013 article. In his major and minor programs, he particularly remembers Dr. Harry Holloway Jr. in biology and Dr. Charles Bondurant in chemistry as being challenging academic powerhouses whose instruction helped him throughout his life and career.

McConnon recalls his classes in writing, history and psychology as especially helpful in his life, both in his career and particularly as a writer. He credits Dr. Matthew Wise, an English professor, with teaching him how to write and how to tackle the process. McConnon, also an author, has written several books, including "Supremis," a science fiction novel. McConnon is currently editing a book he recently wrote about his career in the technology industry.

McConnon began his technology career with Honeywell and went on to Data General and Sun Microsystems. Mc-Connon's next career phase involved creating, building and then selling high- tech security companies that detect abnormal, suspicious or intrusive activity. He founded four companies: Raptor Systems, Okena, Q1 Labs (acquired by IBM to form security division) and Bit-Sight Technologies.

The new Science Center will impact every student at Roanoke College — those majoring in the sciences and those majoring in other academic fields.

Every student at Roanoke takes at least three courses from the programs that will be housed in the Science Center. One-third of all courses on campus will be taught in the Science Center. Most of the student research will take place there, and it will house three of Roanoke's 10 most popular majors: psychology, biology and environmental studies. "Thanks to Shaun's generosity, we can envision a college with a future cutting-edge science facility that will make our already outstanding institution even greater. With the help of the entire Roanoke College community, I know we can meet Shaun's challenge this year," said Kim Blair '93, vice president of resource development. "Shaun's phenomenal gift and challenge to our alumni will help us make this transformational space a reality and benefit generations of future Maroons."

LewisGale Medical Center first hospital in SW Va. to offer new treatment option for patients with sleep apnea

LewisGale Medical Center is the first hospital in Southwest Virginia to offer a new breakthrough obstructive sleep apnea (OSA) treatment option for those who cannot use continuous positive airway pressure (CPAP) therapy. OSA affects 22 million Americans. When left untreated, OSA can cause vehicle and workplace accidents, worsening mood and memory, stroke, heart attack, and even death. It occurs when the airway collapses during sleep and blocks the flow of oxygen senses a lack of oxygen and wakes the body up just long enough to take a breath, then falls back asleep. This cycle repeats throughout the night and causes poor, disruptive sleep.

The technology, called Inspire, works inside the body with a patient's natural breathing process to treat sleep apnea. Mild stimulation opens the airway during sleep, allowing oxygen to flow naturally. The patient uses a small handheld remote to turn the device on before bed to the brain. The brain and off when they wake

"Patients who have been diagnosed with obstructive sleep apnea and are intolerant of, or unable to get consistent benefit from, continuous positive airway pressure (CPAP) treatment may benefit from this novel treatment option," said Dr. Brian Gross, board certified otolaryngologist with LewisGale Physicians who now offers this treatment option to qualifying patients.

A five-year clinical trial (STAR trial) showed that patients using the device experienced significant reductions in sleep apnea events and numerous improvements in quality of life measures. As of May 2020, there have been over 100 peer-reviewed publications on the device, which show results consistent with those seen in the STAR trial. Common signs and symptoms of sleep apnea include loud snoring, episodes in which you stop breathing during sleep, gasping for air during sleep, awakening with a dry mouth, morning headache, difficulty staying asleep, excessive daytime sleepiness, difficulty paying attention while awake, and irritability. "If you or a family member has several of these symptoms, we recommend that you see your primary care provider to determine if a sleep study evaluation is in order," said Gross. "This new technology provides additional treatment options for patients needing an alternative to CPAP."

Library Corner

Empowering individuals to build a stronger community

Part of gratitude is giving back. It has been shown that the giver often benefits emotionally more than the receiver of a gift. Giving back to the community is rewarding and has a ripple effect that can grow more than you think. Your library is primarily driven by volunteers who serve on the Board of Trustees and those who help to keep the doors open in many ways.

Maybe you don't have the time to become a desk volunteer or a trustee, but you can still help us! Here are some easy ways you can help give back to your community through supporting the library.

Kroger Community Rewards: The Kroger Family of Companies is committed to community engagement, positive social impact and charitable giving at the national and local levels. Every community is unique, but their common goal is to partner with the neighborhoods they serve and help the people live healthier lives.

One of the ways in which they do this is through the Kroger Community Rewards program. This program makes fundraising easy by donating to local organizations based on the shopping you do every day. Once you link your Card to an organization, all you have to do is shop at Kroger and swipe your Shopper's Card. Go to: https://www.kroger.com/i/ community/communityrewards, choose your favorite Kroger store and select Craig County Public Library as your charity. Your extra holiday food purchases will send us a little cash. Thank you!

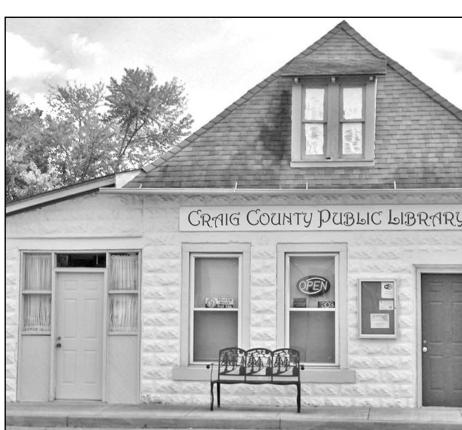

Amazon Smile: Shop at smile.amazon.com and they will donate 0.5 percent of eligible purchases to your favorite charitable organization - no fees, no extra cost. Just create an account with Craig County Public Library as your charity of choice. Remember to go to the Amazon smile. com website for your shopping where the prices and selections are the same as Amazon.com. Your charity will automatically get a small donation. Every little bit helps!

Barn Quilts for Books: If you have dreamed of getting a Barn Quilt, now is the time to get on the growing list for our local artist to complete the project. These make wonderful gifts. Go to this website to contact Martha Dillard about a barn quilt. https://www. barnquiltsforbooks.com/ contact

Martha donates a large portion of the cost to the Craig County Public library for each barn quilt! We love our Barn Quilt Trail! Thank you, Martha Win a Bench with Nex-Trex recycling challenge: Save your plastic film to help us reach our goal. Suitable polyethylene plastics are grocery bags, bread bags, inner liner from cereal boxes, clean Ziploc bags, outer wrapper from water bottles and paper towels.

Employment, Housing and Peace of Mind: One Veteran's Story

Kevin Stone is a veteran who served in the Marines as an aviation mechanic for five years. When he returned from the base in Cherry Point, North Carolina, to his hometown of Danville, he said, "there was nothing for me there." He traveled from place to place in search of a job with decent pay. When he arrived in Salem, he was homeless and unemployed. That's when someone from another local nonprofit connected Kevin with TAP.

Making the Difference

Our Veterans Services help veterans keep or gain housing, usually by helping them find employment. The program is designed to fill gaps in the assistance that the Veterans Health Administration provides. This includes offerings such as transportation to and from jobs, a nice outfit to wear to interviews, and financial management classes.

For Stone, receiving one-on-one help with job searches made the difference. When he met with our job coordinator for homeless youth, Kathleen Nettnin, she helped him improve his résumé, look for jobs, and prepare for interviews. After securing multiple interviews and then multiple job offers, he accepted a

A Fresh Start

Shortly after starting his new job, Stone hit a rough patch and distanced himself from services for a while. Kathleen reached out to him regularly to offer further help. When he was ready, Stone came back and worked with Kathleen to find another job. Veterans Services provided him with bus passes and other supplies, plus the option of mental health referrals.

After a successful job search, Stone decided to put his skills to use as a diesel mechanic. His new job allowed him to move out of the temporary housing that Veterans Services had provided. He got his own permanent housing in an area of his choice.

Now, Stone has gotten situated in civilian life. He's received support to overcome obstacles to getting and keeping a job, and gained a consistent advocate to whom he can alwavs turn for advice and encouragement. When asked how things have changed for him because of the program, Stone said he has "a good job, multiple job opportunities even still, [and] somewhere to lay my head at night. Really just peace of mind."

Stone has some advice, too. "Don't be afraid to reach out. Everybody needs help at some point in their life."

to take effect January 1, 2022. Currently, there is no county tax in Craig on cigarettes.

Additionally, there are still other local cities and towns with "NO" cigarette tax. They are Boones Mill, Buchanan, Dublin, Fincastle, Floyd, Narrows, Pearisburg, Pembroke, Stony Creek and Troutville. These are all surrounding counties that many Craig citizens pass through and would switch their cigarette purchases as well as their gas and "convenience" purchases.

Carper explained that as of January 1, Roanoke County has proposed a $2.50 tax on a carton of cigarettes.

The Craig Board of Supervisors recently and unanimously passed a $4.00 per carton tax.

"This tax is going to put Craig County at a huge disadvantage. This means that businesses will have to raise their price $4.00 per carton or forty cents per pack," Carper explained. "With that said, I am not a smoker, but this is going to drive business out of our county."

He added that about 80 percent of working people work outside of Craig County, meaning that they will then "most certainly purchase their cigarettes in Roanoke or other counties."

Carper also shared with the Board that when people purchase their cigarettes, they also purchase other items too, such as gasoline, drinks, groceries and snacks. Therefore, they will just pick those up in other counties to save money instead of stopping at the convenience of Craig.

Carper noted that cigarette sales make up about 25 percent of their sales. "It we lose only half of that, it affects the people I employ and trickles down and effects the entire business," he said. "And if I am not mistaken, there is also a 5.3 percent tax on cigarettes and the county gets a portion of that, therefore when they buy in another county, we will also lose out on the 5.3 percent tax as well (Craig receives one percent)."

"People are taxed enough, and prices are already high, and they cannot take anymore. This has the potential of serious impact on our community," Carper added. "I've been in business in Craig for 30 years, so I know our customers. The feedback I am getting is that they will get their cigarettes and gas in another county as well as stock up if needed."

He added that if the BOS impose the tax, customers can just go across the county line and get cheaper cigarettes.

Carper brought surveys from other counties close to Craig who put a tax on ciga-

One survey was from Vinton in 2014. They had proposed a tax from .20 per pack to .40 per pack, looking for an estimated tax revenue increase of 43 percent. However, when statistics came in, the report stated, "The additional revenue never materialized, and cigarette tax revenues plunged by 17 percent instead.

The study also noted that in 2007, New Jersey raised their cigarette tax a small amount, from $2.40 per pack to $2.58 and according to experts, "Not only did actual revenues miss projections, they also declined below FY 2006 and FY Similar tax increases gave the same negative results in Ashland, Alexandria, Hampton, Winchester, Fairfax City, Leesburg, Newport News, Manassas, Purcellville, Charlottesville, Portsmouth, Bristol and Stanton.

Thus, proving the statements made by Carper to the

The study also provided these important facts:

According to the U.S. Census, Virginia's local governments collected 16.3 percent less in real tobacco tax revenue from FY 2010 and FY 2013, even though individual local governments raised cigarette tax rates roughly fifteen times over the same period

The revenue losses and revenue shortfalls show that the tax increases are changing consumption patterns as consumers seek alternative markets with lower taxes and therefore lower prices

Tobacco consumers important to the health of small businesses, such as convenience and small grocery stores, and increasing tobacco taxes can harm these busi-

It continued, "Moreover, tax changes, especially on consumer goods such as gasoline and cigarettes, drive consumers to make purchases in other jurisdictions that have lower or no tax, and, thus, lower prices. In other words, as a result of higher taxes, consumers would have less money to purchase goods and services and thus would see retail sales, and, in turn, tax collections fall or grow more

Thus, if the main driver of slumping cigarette sales is that consumers crossing municipal lines to make purchases, then retail sales in convenience stores and small grocery stores suffer under cigarette sales tax

According to data from the National Association of Convenience Stores, "cigarette sales comprise 41 percent, or $48,417, of an average convenience store's monthly merchandise sales of $118,223 and comprise 21 percent of an average stores gross profit. Cigarette sales are certainly important to the convenience store. However, stores not only lose the sale of cigarettes, but also the other purchases consumers make with their cigarettes."

Management Science Associates used data from over 3,400 shopping visits to convenience stores to estimate the spending patterns of customers and found that, "Tobacco was the fourth most often purchased item out of 15, as buyers purchased tobacco on 21 percent of their visits. Tobacco consumers made purchases over ten dollars 52 percent of the time compared to 33 percent of the time for non-tobacco consumers."

The survey finalized that the cigarette consumer is an important source of sales to convenience stores and small grocery stores. The tobacco sales account for a large portion of total sales at these stores and tobacco consumers tend to visit the stores more often and make larger pur-

Adding, "If cigarette tax increases are driving sales to other jurisdictions, as is the case with Vinton, this portion of the local economy will suffer disproportionately."

The survey conclusion was, "Several cities and towns across the Commonwealth of Virginia are in the rush to raise revenue by increasing the local excise tax on tobacco. But such tax discrimination has costs. Any short-term revenue gain comes at the expense of longterm decline in sales and diminished economic activity. These regressive taxes fall hardest on low-income consumers but also diminish the prospects of small businesses who also rely on other smokers who have a propensity to spend on other items.

It was also noted in the survey that excise taxes are problematic since they are not a major source of revenue for local municipalities. Thus, a large increase in the local cigarette tax would not provide a sustainable long-term solution to any immediate funding shortfall facing cities and towns in the Commonwealth

Carper shared, "I've seen it in business before, once a customer goes somewhere else, it is hard to get them back. Once people change their habits, they don't go back. Placing this tax will put Craig businesses at a disadvantage."

Board members asked questions. Carper shared that out of both his stores, they sell approximately 300 cartons per Jesse Spence shared, "We set out rate to be competitive with other counties. I can't tell you it will be adjusted but it can be adjusted."

Carper responded, "I think you ought to take a hard look at it. We don't want to run our customers off nor our businesses off, because if they don't buy cigarettes, they aren't buying their gas, groceries, beer, etc.'

Spence answered, "We do want our customers to shop in Craig and buy everything County Administrator Dan Collins added that he will check into the tax by calling the surrounding counties, "If we are out of whack then we need to adjust it. I will bring back a report at the next meet-

The Board agreed that they would revisit the proposal.

It is suggested that the citizens of Craig County let the Board of Supervisors know your opinions on this upcoming proposed cigarette tax.

Virginia achieves top 10 performance in the country for COVID-19 vaccinations

- Twelfth largest state outpaces other states to reach top ten -

Northam recently announced that Virginia now ranks 10th among all states for the percentage of its population fully vaccinated against COVID-19, and for the total number of shots administered. More than 82 percent of individuals 18 years and older have received at least one dose and 74 percent of adults are fully vaccinated. Nearly 6 million people have received vaccinations and nearly 12 million shots have been administered among the 8.5 million people who live in Virginia.

"We've reached the top ten because so many Virginians have worked so hard for so long," said Governor Northam. "It's something we can all be proud of. Vaccines will soon be available for children, and thousands of adults are getting boosters.

This is all great news."

The three available vaccines have proven to be enormously effective in reducing cases, hospitalizations, and deaths. Cases have declined to 1,500 per day as of October 26—a drop of 40 percent over the last two weeks and significantly lower than January's peak of over 6,000 daily cases. Hospitalizations have fallen 42 percent over the last four weeks and are nearly twothirds lower than pre-vaccine levels. Additional data on COVID-19 and vaccination efforts in Virginia can be found on VDH's data dashboards.

Virginia is delivering strong progress in vaccinating eligible children, with more than two-thirds having been vaccinated. Health officials anticipate that the federal government will give final approval to vaccinations for

Basketball event will feature coaches who graduated from Emory & Henry

Lord Botetourt has announced an event on December 18th that features an interesting lineup of games at the high school gym. An all-day, five game card will feature John Battle against Altavista at noon followed by Goochland against Narrows at 1:45 pm, Hickory against Fluvanna at 3:30 pm, Monacan against host Lord Botetourt at 5:15 pm and Liberty Christian against Parry McCluer at 7

That's a great day of basketball, but there's a thread that sews all these games together. Every game will feature a head coach that is an alum of Emory & Henry College, assembled by Lord Botetourt's Andrew Hart. The event is named the "Bob Johnson Classic" in honor of the late Wasps'

Bob Johnson served Emory & Henry College as its men's basketball coach and athletic director for almost 30 years. The winningest coach in program history with 370 victories over 27 seasons, Johnson is one of the legendary mentors in the history of the Old Dominion Athletic Conference. He was selected as a member of the 2009 class of the Emory & Henry Sports Hall of Fame.

Known for his strict military discipline, Bob inherited a program in 1980 which had not had a winning season in 13 years. In his fifth season, the Wasps began a string of 12 years in which they won 12 or more contests, six of which were 20-win campaigns. E&H reached the ODAC Tournament Finals five oc-

Johnson was the recipient of many awards, including three ODAC Coach of the Year awards, three NCAA Division III South Region Coach of the Year honors and he received the National Association of Basketball Coaches' Division III Service Award in

On January 19, 2008, Emory & Henry dedicated the playing surface inside the John Rutledge King Center gymnasium as the "Bob Johnson Court." In 2009, the ODAC ensured that Johnson's legacy would be a lasting one across the league, designating the annual coaching award for men's basketball the "Bob Johnson Coach of the Year."

Johnson died of cancer in 2009 just two days shy of his 63rd birthday, but his legacy lives on in the number of coaches who learned under Bob. All 10 coaches in the "Bob Johnson Classic" are Emory & Henry grads, including the following and their graduating class: Mike Cartolaro (1983) of Parry McCluer, Steve Posey(1987) of John Battle, RJ Spelsberg(1998) of Monacan, Casey Johnson(2000) of Altavista, Heath Bralley(2001) of Fluvanna County, Pat-Bailey(2001) Narrows, Preston Gordon(2004) of Goochland, Paul Redgate(2005) of Liberty Christian, Andrew Hart(2009) of Lord Botetourt and Brett Pearman(2014) of Hickory.
