Little furry critters often become household family members for many that need to be taken care of. The Craig County Volunteer Rescue Squad is hosting a rabies clinic at the Fairgrounds on Feb. 19, from 9 a.m. until noon. Papers can be obtained at the Treasurer's Office or online.

Animals become important in many people's lives. Their companionship provides comfort, joy and for many, protection.

Just like people, animals need to be taken care of for their well-being.

The Craig County Volunteer Rescue Squad is having a drive-thru rabies clinic at the Craig County Fairgrounds on Saturday, County Rescue Squad. Any remaining money will go towards the expense of the vaccine.

While there is no limit on the number of animals people can bring, people are asked that all dogs be on a leash and cats be caged.

Masks are requested during this clinic.

Dogs and cats can be vaccinated for rabies after three months of age and is required for a dog license. Proof of vaccines are required to obtain the license.

The rabies is the only required vaccination by law in the United States because rabies is considered a fatal disease as well as a "zoonotic" disease, meaning that it can be transmitted from an animal to a person.

The vaccination is supposed to help stimulate a dog or cat's immune system to guard against the dread-

McCleary has fun on the 100th day of school

McCleary Elementary teachers and students alike enjoyed the celebration on Friday, February 4, for the 100th day of attending school.

From kindergarteners to fifth-graders to staff personnel, everyone was invited to dress up like 100-year-old and have fun.

"Some of our teachers have really taken the time to do some fun activities," School Counselor Dustin Persinger shared. "We are glad to just be here, and we are doing our best. It is good that we take some time and enjoy ourselves!"

The kindergarten classrooms made necklaces with 100 fruit loops on them. They also had an activity where they attempted to lick a lollipop for 100 licks.

Peyton Robertson stated she liked the idea of dressing up like she was 100-yearsold and said it was her mom's idea to put the curlers in her hair. "But I couldn't find my black glasses, so I had to wear my pink ones," she added very seriously.

"It was my Gigi's idea! She's 70 years old! Like really 70 years old!" Michael Tickle explained. "Then my dad put the glasses in the freezer and then popped out the lenses so I could wear them."

'Our fifth-grade teachers really got into it today," Persinger added. "They are really funny."

It so happens that the previous day, Thursday, the fifth-grade students were doing a science experiment with pool noodles.

Teachers, Johnston and Roark shared that when they walked into their classroom, the kids asked them why they had pool noodles.

'We didn't want to spoil the surprise," they shared. "So, we just joked with them and told them we were going to the beach.'

Valentine's Day – sending love and fun facts

Pam Dudding Contributing writer

Valentine's Day is a day meant for those in love or for those who wish to be and are ready to give a hint to that one special person.

Still, others feel that the day should be shared with all those you care about, including friends and for some, their pets.

Craig County residents have a variety of opinions about Valentine's Day.

• "I think Valentine's Day is great! My son was born on Valentine's Day" - Betty Dudding

• "Best day is the day after when there is half-priced candy!" - Zachary Peters

• "Too commercialized! It's a day for love and gratitude and giving of yourselves to others we care about! But make your own card and gift!" - Sally Godwin

Teresa Oliver suggested people send an encouragement card to our Craig people serving in the military.

One address given was for, Rct. Fisher, Joseph, Delta Co 1st RTBN PLT 1030, PO Box 16155, Parris Island, SC 29905-6115. The address sentenced to death.

Another legend suggests that Valentine was killed for attempting to help Christians escape prison in Rome, and that he actually sent the first "valentine" message himself while imprisoned, writing a letter signed "From your Valentine."

It was in the 1300s that Valentine's Day officially became a holiday associated with "love."

History states that Roman Pope Gelasius officially declared the date of February 14 "St. Valentine's Day." Still, it wasn't until the Middle Ages, that the holiday became associated with love and romance, a tradition that first started from the common belief in France and England that birds started their mating season on February 14.

Of course, many ask, "Where did the little fella with the arrow come from?"

Cupid, as most know him, can be traced all the way back to 700 B.C., according to Time. They explain that a Greek God names Eros, had a special power to make people fall in love. At that time however, he was a "handsome immortal man". It was the Romans in the 4th century that came up with little Cupid, who seemed to have become more popular.

The oldest record of a valentine being sent, according to History.com, was a poem written by a French medieval duke named Charles to his wife in 1415. At 21 years old, Charles penned a sweet note to his lover while he was imprisoned in the Tower of London. One of the lines in the poem? "I am already sick in love, My very gentle Valentine."

During the 17th century, people started exchanging cards and handwritten letters to both lovers and friends, though Valentine's Day cards were not mass-produced in the U.S., until the 1840s. It is said they were sold by Esther A. Howland, known as the "Mother of the American Valentine," and is remembered for her elaborate, crafty cards made with lace and ribbons.

Difficult to believe, the giving of red roses did not become popular until the late 17th century. In fact, the practice can be traced back to when King Charles II of Sweden learned the "language of flowers" which pairs different flowers with specific meanings and the red roses symbolized deep love.

Valentine's Day makes Hallmark happy since they produced their first card in 1913! They stated that a whopping 145 million Valentine's Day cards are exchanged every February 14, and that's not including kids' valentines.

Here is a fun fact: over 27 million American households gave Valentine's Day presents to their pet dogs in 2020, and more than 17.1 million picked up gifts for their cats.

Also, though candy and flowers seem to be the most favorable gifts, according to the National Retail Federation, jewelry is where most is spent, and many ladies are happy about that!

In 1861, the first heart-shaped box was created by Richard Cadbury, son of Cadbury founder John Cadbury. They started packaging chocolates in fancy boxes to increase sales (and it is still working!) Today, more than 36 million heart-shaped boxes of chocolates are sold each year which is about 58 million pounds of chocolate!

Fun fact two! The story of conversation hearts first began when a Boston pharmacist named Oliver Chase invented a machine that simplified the way medical lozenges could be made. His result - America's first candymaking machine! Chase founded the New England Confectionery Company, or Necco as we know it today.

Later in 1866, Oliver's brother, Daniel Chase, started printing "sweet" messages on the Necco sweethearts. The candies were bigger and had longer phrases. Some of the first messages were, "Married in white you have chosen right" and "How long shall I have to wait? Please be considerate."

Today's message might read, "Hit me up if you wanna get down!" or "Be a sweetheart and take me out!"

Another fun fact: Necco starts making the hearts just days after February 14 to have enough in time for the next Valentine's Day. That's almost 100,000 pounds per day. Isn't it good that they have a shelf life of five years!?

And yes, V-Day is a big day for proposals! Facts state that six million couples get engaged on February 14.

"XOXO" hasn't always meant hugs and kisses.

The signature "XOXO" started long ago in the Middle Ages. History explains that the "X" symbolized the Christian cross, and letters ended with the sign of the cross and a kiss to symbolize an oath. Later, it came to mean "sealed with a kiss."

And did you know that V-Day for singles since 2003 has been called International Quirkyalone Day? It's said the holiday isn't an anti-Valentine's Day event, but rather "a moment to celebrate self-love and platonic relationships."

Regardless, the special heart day brings joy to many and a great reason to tell someone you really care about them in any of these special ways.

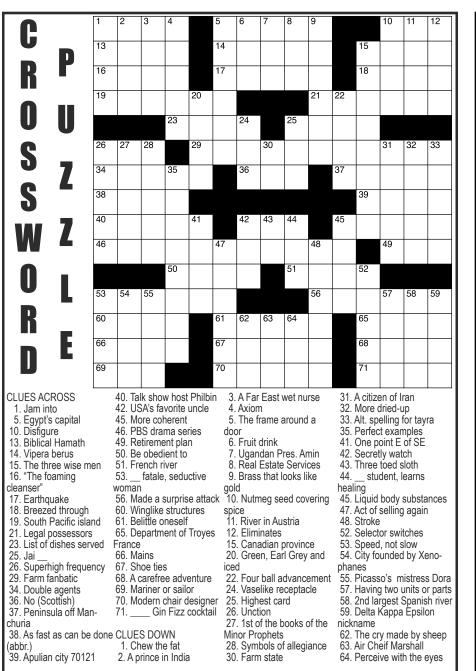

So, have a "love-ly" Valentine's Day! May your heart be filled with sweet gestures, love and chocolates!

The only thing needed from Interested individuals is a desire day

Poultry hobbyists, waterfowl hunters urged to take precautions to prevent avian influenza

A strain of highly pathogenic avian influenza has been detected in North America for the first time since 2016. The U.S. Department of Agriculture confirmed HPAI in wild waterfowl in Virginia on Jan. 26, following detection in the Carolinas

While Virginia's commercial poultry growers routinely imple-ment high levels of biosecurity, smaller-scale poultry producers and hobbyists are urged to step up their biosecurity practices as well.

While the virus poses little risk to humans, it is easily transmitted from wild birds to domestic poultry if flock owners don't take action to keep their birds safe.

A recent biosecurity alert from the Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services said that confirmed cases of avian flu were found in two hunter-harvested wild migratory waterfowl. While the detection of HPAI in migrating waterfowl is not unexpected, outbreaks can be disastrous to Virginia's largest agricultural sector, resulting in total flock depopulations.

Wild birds like ducks or geese can be infected with HPAI without appearing sick. Just a small amount of fecal material carried on a human's boot can harm poultry in large-scale commercial operations and small backyard flocks.

Keeping your flock safe and preventing HPAI's spread comes down to good common sense, said Virginia resident Robert Mills, who raises chickens for Perdue and chairs the Virginia Farm Bureau Federation Poultry Advisory Committee.

Mills said it's wise to limit guests from any area where poultry live, including backyard chicken coops.

"Hang out in the cabin, come to the shop, but don't go near the poul-try house," he advised. "And stay away from any type of waterfowl."

Waterfowl droppings can be tracked from any area where game birds congregate, like ponds, golf courses and parking lots. Those who hunt or encounter waterfowl should avoid poultry areas if possible. If going near a flock, they should clean and disinfect equipment, clothing and shoes to remove feces, feathers and litter. Disease agents can survive for months inside those organic materials.

"One little problem can become a big problem real quick," Mills said. Tony Banks, VFBF senior assistant director of agriculture, development and innovation, said once avian flu is identified in poultry, quarantines, additional disease monitoring and heightened sanitation go into effect. In some cases, growers will avoid public encounters with others in the industry altogether.

He recalled a different, low pathogenic avian influenza that caused significant losses for Virginia poultry owners in 2002, affecting over 140 farms before disease spread could be controlled.

"Virginia's poultry industry lost millions of dollars in sales and were shut out of export markets," Banks said. "This outbreak led to increased emphasis among the USDA and states to conduct avian influenza surveillance and monitoring, which continues today."

Virginia poultry owners should report unusual poultry illnesses or deaths to the state veterinarian's office at 804-692-0601 or vastatevet@ vdacs.virginia.gov, or through the USDA's toll-free number, 866-536-7593

Former Salem basketball standout Kenneth Belton brings a wealth of experience to his new position.

Virginia Western's newest Board Director is a Roanoke College graduate

Shawn Nowlin shawn.nowlin@ourvalley.org

Kenneth Belton recently joined the Board of Directors of the Virginia Western Community College Educational Foundation. Belton, the owner of Your Church Partner, LLC., is a Roanoke College alumnus and notable figure in the school's illustrious basketball program. He and his teammates led RC to the NCAA Division Tournament in the early 1980s.

The Educational Foundation Board of Directors regularly looks to invite new members who have demonstrated an interest in supporting higher education with a strong record of community engagement. Heywood Fralin, the Nominating Committee Chair, became acquainted with Belton and thought he would be a wonderful addition to the Board, based on his longtime service in the community.

"All of my fellow Board members essentially become ambassadors for Virginia Western and can speak about the impact we make in the lives of our students," Fralin said. "We offer ideas, based on their significant life experience, about how to connect with students and ensure that we are meeting the needs of employers." Virginia Western is often cited throughout the Roanoke Valley as an asset by economic development leaders who are trying to recruit new companies.

Part of the Virginia Community College System, Va. Western was established in 1966. In addition to offering 23 associate degree programs, the school also has approximately 70 different specified programs that fall under the categories of Associate of Science, Associate of Arts, Associate of Applied Science and Career Studies. Many of the degrees are used as stepping-stones to numerous four-year universities across the Commonwealth.

"From its founding, Virginia Western was about equity and providing a college-level education for all. We hold that mission close today. Equity remains a pillar of our strategic plan. We are proud to point to our graduates, who help propel the Roanoke Region's growth. This is especially important in health care and manufacturing, which are the top employers of our students,' Coordinator of Development Carole Tarrant said "Our current students come from a wide variety of backgrounds, but Virginia Western's strength is serving them all and helping them achieve their dreams of meaningful employment." That's what legendary Vietnamese Zen Buddhist monk, teacher, and peace activist Thich Nhat Hanh (October 11, 1926-January 22, 2022) explores in How to Love – a slim, simply worded collection of his immeasurably wise insights on the most complex and most rewarding human potentiality.

Trust that you have a good and compassionate nature. You are part of the universe; you are made of stars. When you look at your loved one, you see that he is also made of stars and carries eternity inside. Looking in this way, we naturally feel reverence. True love cannot be without trust and respect for oneself and for the other person."

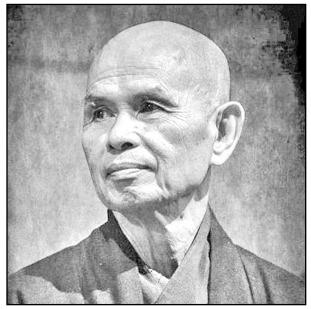

"To love without knowing how to love wounds the person we love. To know how to love someone, we have to understand them. To understand, we need to listen."

•Whereas, Kathi Toelke served on the on the Community Policy & Management Team (CPMT) to oversee and manage the Comprehensive services Act for At-Risk Youth and Families Funds from August 1, 2019 to December 2, 2021, and

•Whereas, Kathi Toelke served as Chief Local Elected Official (CLEO) for the Western Virginia Workforce Development Board representing Craig County, and

•Whereas, Kathi Toelke, served as exofficio member of the Board of Directors of the Craig County Public Library, and •Therefore, be it resolved, by the Board of Supervisors of Craig County, Virginia that the services of Kathi Toelke are hereby acknowledged as being honorable and with distinction and with this resolution the Board of Supervisors desires to honor Kathi Toelke for her service to Craig County.

The Board of Supervisors of Craig County, in a regular meeting on the 13th day of January 2022, adopted this Resolution as well as one for Jim Cady (to be printed in another article).

New board member Jason Matyas has agreed to fill and serve in the positions that Toelke had served in the community.

Darryl Humphries, Emergency Management Coordinator, informed the Board of the conversation he had with the Virginia Department of Emergency Management, that they expected at least 12 inches of snow with a possibility of 30 mph winds, with the Governor declaring a state of emergency. He added he will keep the board informed.

Matyas asked is the post advisory of this type on Facebook? Humphreys shared that he did not believe the county is allowed to use Facebook. Collins added that he did not want an official county FB page as the comments, etc. would be official.

The Board also appointed Humphries to the Virginia Western Emergency Medical Services Council, a position Jim Cady previously held.

"This is an important board that Jim Cady has been on for years and recommended Darryl for the position," Collins said.

The BOS accepted the resignation of Honorable Lindsay Dunn as Collins explained, "It is required by Roberts School of Orders and the Code of Virginia if someone submits its resignation the body has to recognize it."

Downtown parking was a discussion, as it has become a concern for some merchants. Some people use Main Street to park for many hours and some are leaving their vehicles for extended hours blocking the parking for the merchants.

The BOS will look at Botetourt ordinance as an example.

Collins shared the Sheriff suggested a county wide ordinance, though only a current issue on Main Street, but this would allow them to do this only once which would cover the Fire Marshall for fire lanes and private property and fire hydrants.

Zimmerman reported on the interviewing of a new county extension agent for Craig. He was unable to attend the interview process but spoke with Danny Peak at the Extension Office who conducted the interviews. "I haven't had a chance to follow up, but there are gears in motion," Zimmerman said.

Matyas shared with the Board and attendees to recognize Lee-Jackson Day.

"The history of not only our county but our great commonwealth and these two fine men are a great example for us all and I think it would do us well to follow in their footsteps in terms of their moral courage as we face so many problems in our nation," he said. "Maybe read some of their writings and quotes and take some inspiration from them."

"But I expect to receive more credit for it than I deserve. Most men will think I planned it all from the first, but it was not so. I simply took advantage of circumstances as they were presented to me in the providence of God. I feel that His hand led me – let us give Him the glory" \boxtimes Stonewall Jackson

Nathan Fisher handles the ball for Craig.

Colton Moore has been a solid player for the Rockets.

Rocket boys wrap up the regular season with three basketball games this week

The Craig County boys will continue a busy schedule with three games this week to conclude the regular season. By the end of the day Thursday the Rockets will have played seven games in 11 days.

The Rockets were scheduled to travel to Bath County Monday, followed by a game at Parry McCluer on Tuesday. On Thursday the Rockets have their third road trip of the week as they go to Covington to wrap up the regular season.

Last week Craig split four games in five days. The week started off with a 63-38 win over Eastern Montgomery in New Castle on January 31. The Rockets were leading by just five points at the half but exploded in the third quarter, outscoring the Mustangs 27-11.

"It took us longer to get going than I would have liked, but the boys played hard and we pulled out a good win to start the week," said coach Ryan Frazier.

The Rockets had a balanced attack with three boys in double figures, Matthew Lucas and Dylan Crawford with 13 each and Colton Moore with 11. Zach Peters had eight and Mason Huffman and Nathan Fisher scored seven each. time. The night started off great for the home team as Craig scored the first 10 points of the game and led 18-10 after the first quarter. The Cougars cut the lead to three by the half, and the game was tied after regulation at 48-48. Both teams scored just two points in the first overtime, but the Cougars outscored the Rockets 7-5 in the second OT to pull out a close one.

"The boys played hard, but we had some mental mistakes that cost us down the stretch," said Frazier. "It was a frustrating night, but we did gain some experience in tight games that will hopefully pay off if we get in another tight one."

Lucas had 21 in this one and Fisher had 15 points and 14 rebounds. Dylan Crawford had eight boards while Peters dished out nine assists.

On Thursday of last week the boys were home again against Narrows and lost 85-62 to the second place team in the Pioneer District. Craig trailed by just two at the half but the Green Wave came out firing in the second half and won the third quarter by 16 points. Lucas had 24 and Fisher had 13 for Craig. On Friday the Rockets hosted Highland in the second game of a doubleheader with the girls and won 63-32 on "Senior Night." It was the last home game of the season and the Rockets came out fired up, outscoring Highland 38-11 in the first half.

Everyone got plenty of floor time as the Rockets honored their seven seniors, Moore, Crawford, Fisher, Mason Huffman, Layton Huffman, Alex McDowell and Brayden Frango.

"As a coach these are the games you really enjoy," said Frazier. "We were able to get our bench guys a lot of minutes in the second half."

Craig had five players in double figures, led by Peters and Fisher with 14 each. Lucas had 13, Mason Huffman had a dozen and Moore had 11. Fisher also had 16 rebounds and Peters had eight assists.

"It was a really enjoyable fun night, and to see guys play almost all of the fourth quarter that haven't gotten a lot of minutes this year was really the icing on the cake," said Fisher. "We have a great group that really supports each other and it was evident late in the game. Senior Alex McDowell hit a three in the fourth that was his first of the year and, with our bench and crowd reaction, you would have thought we won the district. To me that's the team environment we are try-

BET YOU CAN

Want to bet on the big game this weekend? Well, you can bet on the game, and there's lots of other stuff you can bet on as well.

As I write this column the Rams are currently four and a half point favorites over the Bengals. If you want to bet the Rams straight up to win you'd have to risk $200 to win $100, and if you take the Bengals you're risking $100 to win $170. The "over-under" is listed at 49 points.

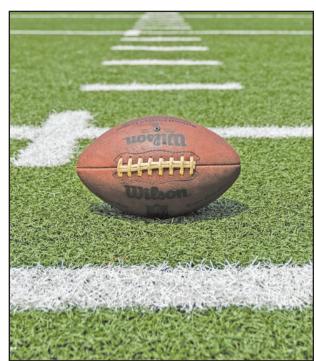

Those are the normal bets to make, but you can bet on all kinds of other stuff as well. The halftime show is always a big deal for bettors, although no legal betting jurisdiction in the U.S. allows sportsbooks to offer odds on the halftime show. The odds you often see listed are from offshore sportsbooks, which are not governed by the same rules and standards that regulated sportsbooks have to abide by.

I can understand that. One bet often available is how long the singer takes to sing the national anthem. If I'm the singer, I find a place that will take that bet, bet the over, and drag it out to make sure it's longer. Of course you'd have to find someone with an unrecognizable name, like Brian Hoffman, to actually place the bet.

Popular non-football action prop bets for the Super Bowl include the outcome of the opening coin flip, the color of the Gatorade bath that the winning coach will receive, and the length of the pregame National Anthem performance and halftime show. You can even bet if Snoop Dog will smoke during the show. Again, if you're Snoog Dog they might not want to take that action.

As far as the Gatorade, you might want to decide who you think will win before you place a bet. Orange and Blue are two of the most popular colors for the Gatorade bath, and it's likely Cincinnati would have orange Gatorade and the Rams would have blue since their uniforms are that color. No guarantee, but it does make sense.

Then you have all kinds of other bets, like who scores first and how many yards Joe Burrow will throw for and stuff like that. If you're so inclined, you can lose a lot of money watching this game.

A night later, also at home, the Rockets dropped a heartbreaker to Covington, 57-55 in double overing to build here."

Craig comes into the final week of the season with a 7-7 overall record. If the Rockets can win at least two of three this week they should be the third seed in the district and open the district tournament with a home game.

The Craig County girls will close out the regular season with three home games this week, hoping to build some momentum for the post season.

Craig won a home game last Friday, defeating Highland County in the first game of a doubleheader with the boys. The Rockets had their highest scoring total of the year, winning 54-34.

Sara Jones led the Rockets with 12 points, 12 rebounds and six blocks. Annabelle Gregory had her season high with 12 points and Hannah Caldwell added nine points. Maggie Mays had eight points, Hannah Ratliff had seven and Lexxy Brookman had six points and 10 boards.

"It was 'Senior Night' and a good home win for the girls," said coach Brock Jones. "We switched up defense multiple times through the game, throwing different factors at Highland."

A big crowd enjoyed the win for the doubleheader. Jones would like to see more of that during the season.

"We usually don't have many in attendance at the home games, because when we are playing home then the boys are usually away," he said. "I am not a fan of that at all. I am a firm believer that the crowd has an influence on us playing. Hopefully next year I can sell my pitch to the AD and ask for games not to be on the same days. We have a small gym and it's loud. It's one of the best atmospheres for cheering in our district when we have all in attendance. We have a great fan base and student section."

The Rockets played three road games last week and dropped all three. On Monday of last week they fell at Eastern Montgomery, 64-19. East Mont is the number two team in the district. The Mustangs are ranked 13th among 53 teams in Class 1.

"They pressured us hard and they didn't miss open shots we didn't contest," said Jones. "Tough Matchup for us. They should make a decent run in the Region."

Mays led the Rockets with 10 of the 19 points.

A night later at Covington the girls dropped a 48-32 decision to the Cougars. Craig trailed just 28-22 at the half but shot just 21 percent in the second half as Covington outscored the Rockets 20-10 after intermission.

"We match up with Covington well," said Jones. " I thought this was definitely a game we should have won. This was to determine fourth place seeding in the Pioneer District tournament for a chance to host a first round home game. There is still a chance as we play them Thursday of this week at home for the final regular season game."

"I told the girls we will have games like that where we can't buy a basket," said Jones. "Rebounding was awful for us as well. I went back and viewed the film and we allowed 14 offensive rebounds right in the paint that they scored on. Take away those 28 points and we win the game."

Brookman led Craig with 12 points and eight rebounds while Ratliff added six points. Gregory had 13 steals this game.

"Defensively, Annie has become a nightmare for ballhanders on the other team," said Jones. "If we can just run transition offense and convert we would be in great shape."

On Thursday the girls played their third road game of the week and lost at Narrows, 49-18. The Green Wave are currently third in the district.

"They share the ball well and move it around," said Jones. "I thought our defense moved well and played hard, but they countered us on the offensive end and wore us down." Craig's two best ball handlers, Caldwell and Gregory, both fouled out of the game. Craig was down 33-6 at the half but played better after intermission.

"Talking to the girls at half time, we talked about attacking the basket and not settling for jump shots," said Jones. "We got somewhat better in the second half."

Sara Jones led Craig with nine points, nine rebounds and three blocks. Brookman added four points.

The Rockets ended last week at 3-6 in the district and 3-12 overall, holding down fifth place among seven. The girls will close out the regular season with home games against Bath County Monday, Parry McCluer Tuesday and Covington on Thursday. The Pioneer tournament begins next Tuesday, February 15, and the Rockets need to get to fourth place to host a first round game.
