PCB Buckbusters sweep RoadKill Cook-off

Suzanne Stewart
Staff Writer

After a two-year hiatus, the critters of Pocahontas County had to be sure to look both ways before crossing the road because last Saturday, the RoadKill Cook-off was back with a bang.

The savory aroma of the delectable dishes concocted by four teams filled the air in Marlinton and attracted more than 12,000 visitors to partake in the one-of-a-kind cook-off where everyone is in on the joke.

The only returning team was the Pendleton Community Bank Buckbusters, led by head cook Kendall Beverage. In their last go-round, the Buckbusters won third place and People's Choice with their Side Ditch Doe with Puss Scab Fritters.

This year, the team stuck with venison with a dish called Long Gone Fawn with themed booth. "We have been practicing a good bit. We're ready. We're going to try to sweep it this year."

And sweep it they did. The team impressed the crowd and the three judges - Ed Blackford, a former competitor with the Coal Hollow Brothers; Dave Sibray, publisher of West Virginia Explorer magazine; and Bryan Vandigo, Mountain Grove Store owner.

PCB Buckbusters took first place, Best in Show and People's Choice.

The competition may have been small, but it was still fierce with three new teams attempting to take on the Buckbusters.

Taking second place with an alligator and boar cajun inspired stew was the team from the Buckeye Variety Shop, led by Matt Swartz.

Third place went to the Fayette County Fryers, led by Ronnie Ashmore. The team made a vegetable soup with deer bratwurst, rabbit sausage and Cornish hen.

Also competing was Almost Heaven Smokehouse, led by Derek Hayhurst. The team had a wide variety of options for visitors and competed with a combo plate of bear chili, deer chili, elk jalapeño bratwurst and pheasant bratwurst.

The judges were thoroughly impressed with all the fare, stating that all the teams did a great job with what they served.

The cook-off was just part of the excitement taking place in Marlinton. The Autumn Harvest Festival filled the streets with vendors selling handmade goods and food and non-profit organizations sharing information about their work.

For those who weren't adventurous enough to try the RoadKill, there were festival mainstays like the New Hope Lutheran Church's baked potatoes, Marlinton Rotary's pork rinds, Marlinton Lions Club's pork barbecue sandwiches and the Pocahontas County High School football boosters' pork tenderloin sandwiches.

Pollinator garden mosaics dedicated

Suzanne Stewart
Staff Writer

A group effort and great collaboration over several months culminated with a ribbon cutting last Thursday. The pollinator garden mosaics at the Marlinton Depot were dedicated and celebrated by the Pocahontas County Arts Council and all those involved with its creation.

The event was kicked off by PCAC president Cynthia Gurreri, who explained that the mosaic project was the result of a collaboration between the council and Pocahontas County Prevention Coalition.

Local artist Cris Bartlett designed the mosaics for the planters in the garden. Bartlett had a vision of creating ripples of a river and, with that in mind, each panel fits together to create one cohesive image while also being its own work of art.

Gurreri said that nearly every piece of available pottery and china in thrift stores in surrounding areas was purchased and then smashed to make the mosaic pieces. Pottery studios were also raided for anything that could be smashed, as well.

Thousands of pieces of brightly colored plates, cups and other pieces were collected and used by local students, artists and tourists to make the panels of the project.

Once the panels were finished, Bartlett installed and grouted them to complete the community art project.

Also involved in the project was Marlinton Railroad Depot Inc. and Pocahontas County Schools.

Bartlett and Gurreri were joined by Depot members Bill McNeel and Joe Smith to cut the ribbon to officially dedicate the garden.

'Butterflies are free to fly' Green Bank Library observes state butterfly's lifecycle

You can find so much more than books at your local library. Obviously, books are the main attraction, but, from time to time, there are special displays and hands-on activities that attract attention, as well.

This summer at the Green Bank Library, there was a small display in the children's section consisting of two mason jars with sticks and leaves inside. Upon closer inspection, visitors got an up close and personal look at caterpillars and chrysalises of monarch butterflies.

The library is surrounded by milkweed plants, which are the main source of nutrition for monarch caterpillars, so it was easy for librarian Hallie Herold to scoop up a few for the display.

Herold grew up raising butterflies and remembers having a special cage for the caterpillars to be safe in while they made the transition into butterflies.

"There was one time that my aunt Betty Jo was bringing me home, and I had my cage on my lap," she said.

Commission hears architect assessment of old jail building

Tim Walker
AMR Reporter

At the September 20 Pocahontas County Commission Meeting, Architect Bryson VanNostrand, of VanNostrand Architects PLLC, presented his preliminary assessment of the County Jail building, which is located behind the courthouse.

Commission President Walt Helmick asked VanNostrand to examine that building and assess if it would be economically feasible to renovate the existing historical jail into a courthouse annex or if it would be less costly to demolish it and build a new courthouse annex on the same site.

Helmick expressed his concern that new flood plain maps are placing the jail in a flood zone. Helmick said that the old jail building has a basement, while a new structure would not have one, making a new building less vulnerable to flooding.

VanNostrand said that his initial examination of the existing former jail is that it is "structurally sound, and the walls were built to not move." He said that both the courthouse and jail were placed on the National Historical Registry together as one unit in 1994.

He said that as an architect, he has been involved in renovating more historically significant buildings then demolishing them to build new buildings because it can be "hard to tear down a historically significant building." The reason for this, he explained, is that while the cost of actually renovating the building into a courthouse annex may appear to be more expensive, when you add the cost of going through all the government procedures, regulations and possible restrictions required to demolish a historical building, it is often more expensive. VanNostrand suggested there is also intrinsic value in keeping and renovating historical buildings so if possible, "we should try to do that."

However, VanNostrand said that he is not prepared to recommend either course of action without first obtaining more information about exactly what square footage and how many offices the county needs in a courthouse annex.

Commissioner Jesse Groseclose said an annex building would need handicap access, which does not exist in the old jail, and the new annex would likely be used as a Judicial Annex, so it would also need security features installed in it.

VanNostrand asked the commission if any state or federal money has been put into the jail building in the past 25 years, because, if so, it will be more difficult and complicated to tear it down. Helmick said that to his knowledge there had not been.

The architect also asked if the commission had considered checking to see if the existing addition to the courthouse had been designed to possibly allow a third floor to be built above it as an annex. He said courthouse additions are commonly designed that way for future expansion.

Helmick agreed that the commission needs to figure

Circuit Court

The following hearings were recently held in Pocahontas County Circuit Court before the Honorable Judges Robert E. Richardson and Jennifer P. Dent:

An arraignment hearing was held in the case the State vs Kevin A. Withers, 38, of Marlinton, who appeared by video from the Huttonsville Correction Center. The court found sufficient evidence that Withers had violated the terms and conditions of his bond. Motions were discussed but not heard in full. A motions hearing was set for September 28.

In the case the State vs Skylar Warren Tinchler, 23, of Buckeye, the court granted a motion to reduce Tinchler's bond to $50,000 cash, property or surety with the conditions of home confinement and no contact of any form with the victim, and he is to remain within a 10-mile radius of his grandparents' home, his approved place of residence.

Adam Clark Harwell, 35, of Buckeye, appeared by video from the Tygart Valley Regional Jail for a hearing on a motion to reduce bond. The court reduced his bond to $40,000 cash, property or surety with the conditions of home confinement and no contact of any form with the victims in this matter. He was to be taken to his approved place of residence.

In person sentencing was held in the case the State vs Trent E. Gutshall, 25, of Monterey, Virginia, wherein it was related that the defendant is on parole in Virginia on another matter. The State recommends probation with supervision in Virginia. Gutshall was sentenced to not less than one year nor more than five years in the state penitentiary, but will be permitted to serve his sentence on monitored home incarceration and is to have a single verified residence in West Virginia. He cannot leave the state except for employment in a bordering Virginia county. He is to pay restitution to an individual victim and an insurance company. He was fined $1,000, will perform 250 hours of community service, undergo an assessment at the Day Report Center, pay child support and will be subject to random drug screenings. The court will not consider parole until all financial conditions are satisfied. Gutshall had pleaded guilty to the felony offense of fleeing from a law enforcement officer with reckless indifference to the safety of others.

A pretrial hearing is set for October 24 in the case the State vs Charles Nathaniel Irvine, 49, of Marlinton. Final witness lists and jury instructions are to be filed by that date.

An arraignment hearing was held in the case the State vs Michael Thomas Caldwell, 44, of Slaty Fork, wherein the defendant pleaded not guilty to One Count, Fleeing from Law Enforcement with Reckless Indifference to the Safety of Others, a felony; One Count, Possession with Intent to Deliver Methamphetamine a Schedule II, Controlled, Non-Narcotic Substance, a felony; One Count, Possession with Intent to Deliver a Schedule I Controlled, Non-Narcotic Substance, a felony; One Count, Driving While License Revoked for Driving Under the Influence, a misdemeanor. The court found probable cause and revoked Caldwell's bond. He was to be processed on Count III of the indictment by the West Virginia Department of Corrections.

An arraignment hearing was held for William Scott, 66, of Hillsboro, wherein he pleaded not guilty to One Count-Sexual Assault in the Second Degree, a felony. He was to be processed on the charge at the Huttonsville Correctional Center.

At his arraignment hearing, Jeremia Paul Hedrick, 32, of Circleville, pleaded not guilty to One Count, Possession with Intent to Deliver Marijuana a Schedule I, Controlled Non-Narcotic Substance, a felony; One Count, Possession with Intent to Deliver Methamphetamine a Schedule II, Controlled Non-Narcotic Substance, a felony. He remains on current bond.

The State dismissed its indictment of Tyler Bowman, 23, of Lewisburg. Having consulted with the victims in this matter, the State concluded that the burden of proof would be severely hampered in trial.

Kimberly Waid, 47, of Marlinton, waived her right to an extradition hearing and will voluntarily return to the Commonwealth of Virginia to face charges there. Authorities from Bath County will pick up the defendant within 10 days.

In person sentencing was held in the case the State vs Dustin Morrison, 27, of Marlinton, wherein defense counsel asked that the defendant's sentence run concurrent with Randolph County charges, which would allow him to request parole in three years. The court noted Morrison's lengthy history of drug use, and sentenced him

Just Walk Away from Dementia The Conclusion

“That means that over 90 percent of our health and longevity is in our own hands.” Sanjay Gupta – referring to healthy choices in lifestyle.

Forewarned is forearmed

Research linking walking to a reduced risk of dementia is not new. A 2007 article in the journal Neurology found that walking reduced the risk of Vascular Dementia by approximately 30 percent. This type of cognitive impairment is second only to Alzheimer’s as the leading form of dementia.

I promised in last week’s column to provide more detail on the UK study on walking and dementia featured in JAMA Neurology earlier this month.

There were 78,430 participants involved in the cohort study that spanned seven years. A cohort study is one in which the volunteers are monitored for a lengthy period, generally years.

The key to being a “cohort” study is that there is an effort to confirm that the participants share common characteristics regarding general health and physical activities. The results are then compared to a sedentary control group.

The study was nearly equally divided between men and women, 44.7 percent male and 55.3 percent female. (Females have a much higher propensity for dementia than men.)

Study participants agreed to wear wristband accelerometers 24 hours per day throughout the study period. The group was further divided into those walking at a pace of 40 steps per minute and those exceeding 40 steps.

Variability controls at the start of the study included the age of participants, 41 to 79 years old, no smoking history, diet, socio-economic status, and overall health. They all started the study with somewhat equal health and lifestyle, including the absence of any detectable cognitive impairment.

The results of this study were that after the seven-year study period, only 1.1 percent (866 participants) presented with some form of dementia. Research conducted by our military a few years earlier yielded similar results.

The rate of dementia among the general population is 1.6 percent and rising. There are currently an estimated 55 million sufferers of dementia worldwide. The World Health Organization (WHO) predicts that this number will increase to 78 million in 2030 and 139 million by 2050.

As reported in last week’s column, the results of the UK study were a colossal discovery. The potential to reduce dementia through moderate exercise could and should be a sea change for those approaching middle age and beyond.

Walking approximately 10,000 steps daily reduces the risk of dementia by 50 percent. By picking up your pace to 112 steps per minute (not as difficult as it sounds), you may reduce risk by upwards of 70 percent.

Even walking a mere 3,800 steps may reduce the risk of dementia by 25 percent.

A few comments about the UK study as reported.

Although the various articles on the study often mention Alzheimer’s and Vascular Dementia, there was no mention that I could find of the other 100-plus types of dementia.

However, maintenance of blood flow to the brain, contributed to by cardiovascular exercise, is a factor that cannot be overemphasized regarding the entire spectrum of good health.

One criticism of the study suggested that the cohort population was primarily white. This leaves open the question of whether the outcomes would be consistent among other races and ethnic groups.

The largest number of criticisms questioned the absence of evidence that the number of steps directly correlated to decreased risk of dementia. This is a fair criticism and would suggest that further studies are needed to determine if the results were based upon multiple factors and not solely upon walking.

The Alzheimer’s Association picked up the flag and began clinical trials considering factors such as lifestyle, diet, race, ethnicity and social interaction. It will be some time before the results are known.

Despite the few criticisms, most doctors and dementia organizations agree that the results indicate that walking can mitigate the risk of dementia. That’s good news for those already walking. Hopefully, the huge payoff will get sedentary people off the couch and onto their feet!

Don’t lose any sleep over this.

Among my friends who have reached the eligibility age for Social Security benefits, our conversations almost always include references to our aches and pains.

Likewise, the need to pee several times during the night is seldom excluded from our discussion. That statement is invariably followed by our complaints about not getting enough sleep. These topics seem to go hand-in-hand and are endemic among the aging.

Another 25-year study links the lack of proper sleep

THE MASTER'S CALL

In a long forgotten village
There spread a rumor great
That the Lord would pay a visit
On a certain foretold date.

As the time approached, each household
With preparations fair,
Began to hope the Master
Would make his visit there.

The rich man set a table
With all good foods aright.
The priest prepared an altar
With candles flaming bright.

A woman decked her doorway
With welcome signs aglow,

And scrubbed her guest room
To house the Lord, you know.

The banker placed his money
To be at his command.
The farmer planned to show him
His great expanse of land.

Old Caleb had not known
About the Master's call,
The townsmen had not bothered
To let him know at all.

The Lord had come so sudden
And found him on the street
Removing broken glass
Lest some child might cut its feet.

Letter to the Editor

Editor:
I am writing in the hope of alerting county residents of recent changes in Shentel's business practices that will cost customers $5.00 or more every month unless they comply with the company's demands. The intended effect of these new rules is to shift the expense for mailing statements and receiving payment by check to consumers through a series of new junk fees.

Over a year ago, we changed internet service from Frontier to Shentel. I pay the bill using online banking to send payments automatically so I don't have to write a check. Recently, I received a notice from Shentel saying that I was two months behind in payments and that our internet service would be stopped on 9/26/2022 if we didn't make payments - including late fees - immediately. So I called them to see what the problem was. Turns out the Customer Number I had been using for online payments was missing a Statement Number at the end - so the computer system was not recording payments even though I could see that the payments had been processed by my bank. This is when the conversation started getting weird. I was told that previous payments had been manually applied to our account for the past year even though the account number was in error. While we were talking I changed the account number in my online banking to include the statement number. I was told the payments would be credited to our account and the late fees would be waived. Not much to be upset about although I couldn't understand why this issue was suddenly a problem.

Then I was told that I would have to register an online account with Shentel so that I could receive monthly statements. If I didn't agree

Marlinton Mayor's Corner

By Sam Felton

From the very first community meeting, while putting together the Town's Comprehensive Plan, the #1 citizen concern was related to community safety (page 3-5 and following). Part of the safety issue includes dilapidated and abandoned housing. It is agreed that law enforcement and code enforcement forms are the backbone of community safety in Marlinton and elsewhere.

Since 2018, the Town has advertised and interviewed at various times for both police officers and code enforcement officers. In fact, we have employed at least five law enforcement (LE) officers and three code enforcement officers (CEO), during that time. FYI, CEOs are even harder to solicit than LEs. The void between advertising and hiring has only served to exacerbate the many problems.

Therefore, the Town took an unconventional approach when hiring both a police officer and a code enforcement officer, separate from the floodplain manager position. Similar jobs in neighboring communities pay double or more than what Marlinton is in a position to pay. Both the police officer and CEO have begun the processes enabling each to be employed, while working toward obtaining full certification. Both have either passed initial testing or have received provisional certification from the State of West Virginia.

The two men are qualified

Butterfly, from page 1

Herold said she had stopped raising butterflies – until last year, when she found a pickle jar with a caterpillar in it. Someone had dropped one off to her while she was on vacation, and she enjoyed getting back into monitoring the metamorphosis so much that she decided to do it at the library this summer.

“There were several out here, and I thought it would be fun,” she said.

Herold added that she has a strict “Do not touch” rule for the library’s milkweed plants because she wants to make sure the caterpillars have plenty to snack on each year.

It was timely that Herold chose to help the caterpillars this summer because it was in July when the monarch butterfly was classified as endangered on the International Union for Conservation of Nature Red List of Threatened Species.

“I know there’s so much more that is going on, on a much bigger scale, so I can’t say I’m saving the butterflies, but I like to help as many as I can,” Herold said.

Along with the four butterflies she helped at the library, Herold also helped relocate 30 caterpillars from a field where her brother, Sam, has cattle.

“My older brother does rotational grazing with his cattle and he let me know that he was about to move them to an area where there was a bunch of milkweed,” she said. “I relocated them to other milkweed that was away from the cows, so they would hopefully have a better chance.”

Usually, when she raised butterflies, Herold did so by collecting caterpillars, but this year, she was able to start from the very beginning.

“This time, I actually had one from egg,” she said. “I had never done that before. I was outside and I saw a butterfly come to some of the short milkweed where it gets mowed and I watched her lay eggs. I didn’t want it to get mowed down, so I brought them in, and looked up how to best keep the eggs.

“You don’t really have to do anything,” she continued. “They just do their thing. I had two that hatched from eggs, and they were the tiniest things I had ever seen. I didn’t imagine they would be so small.”

In the display with the Mason jars, Herold had several books about monarch butterflies which were often checked out this summer by interested visitors. Herold also did research into monarch butterflies and found some intriguing facts she shared.

“It’s fascinating that they’ve been studied so much and we still don’t know how they know what to do,” she said. “I read an article once that talked about how scientists tracked the path of the monarch butterfly [during their migration]. They do their migration over some large body of water – they all turn and they go around something – but there’s nothing there. So, geographically, they found that hundreds of thousands or millions of years ago, there was a mountain there and they had to fly around it. It’s not there anymore, but they still fly around. I just love

Monarch butterflies make a one-way trip during their migration and the offspring they leave behind will do the same when they mature. The lifecycle is ingrained in their DNA and they automatically know the path they must take.

The season of raising butterflies is over for this year, but Herold said she hopes to continue to help the caterpillars she finds at the library.

Those interested in doing the same can help by growing milkweed in their gardens and making sure there is plenty for the caterpillars to eat so they can make a chrysalis and emerge a monarch.

As for handmade goods, visitors could have easily wrapped up their Christmas shopping with all there was to buy – jewelry, clothing, baked and canned goods, pottery, art and even wool dryer balls.

A great time was had by all, as they milled around town and enjoyed the tongue-in-cheek competition, visited with friends and visitors around the vendor tents and grooved to the eclectic music performed at Discovery Junction.

It was clear – nothing can dampen the fun that the RoadKill Cook-off and Autumn Harvest Festival bring – even if we did have to wait two years for it to return.

State Stock Round-Up

The 17th annual West Virginia Livestock Round-up was highly successful. It was the first annual 4-H baby beef show. Moffett McNeel, of Hillsboro, had a baby beef in the offering. In the auction this steer of about 1,000 pounds brought 31 cents.

In the 4-H sheep show, Moffett McNeel took first place in showmanship.

In the Shropshire class, the reserve champion went to Randall Cutlip, of Beard; the Hampshire champion, Mary Etta Smith, of Mill Point; the Dorset champion and reserve champion to Fred Johnson, of Marlinton.

In the Future Farmers of America Showmanship class, second place went to Albert Wilfong, of Greenbank.

In the 4-H showmanship class, the second place went to Joel Hannah, of Arbovale.

In the Future Farmers of America steer class, the champion was owned by Joel Hannah...

FIELD NOTES

Down at the home of Mrs. Mattie Hinkle at Hillsboro, a mother cat has adopted and is raising a little fox squirrel. In cutting timber, the mother squirrel was killed, and Okie Hinkle brought the baby squirrel home to see if the mother cat would let it nurse along with her kittens. She did, and the squirrel is prospering.

I have learned some more about the intimate family life of mud turtles. I knew the mother mud turtle along in June went out on dry land, dug a hole, deposited therein a dozen or so tough skinned eggs, covered up the hole and returned to the water. I knew, too, that along about August, leather-skinned little turtles, about the size of half dollars, dug themselves out of the nest hole to become prey for about every predator of land, water and air, including mud turtles. I have seen them inside of black

Down at the pond near the residence of county superintendent Eric Clutter, this year a mud turtle was seen laying her eggs on high ground near the pond. During the weeks it took the eggs to hatch, the mother turtle was often observed near the place of the nest as if setting watch thereon. To prove for sure whether the old girl was actually paying any attention to the nest, a stick would be laid upon the place where the eggs were buried. Every time, some time during the next night, the stick would be pushed aside.

The eggs were dug up for examination and counting. There were thirteen in all. Some were taken and put into another hole. These did not hatch; the others did.

John Wooddell, aged 19 years, was brought to the Marlinton Hospital, desperately wounded from a pistol shot.

On Sunday forenoon, about 11 o'clock, young Wooddell and Clyde Nicholas, a young man of about the same age, were fooling with a 32 special revolver which belonged to the latter. Nichols was putting cartridges in the gun, and it went off, the bullet striking Wooddell in the side, penetrating the liver and one lung and doing other damage. The bullet lodged beneath the skin on the back. Wooddell is desperately wounded and suffered a great loss of blood, but there is some hopes of his recovery.

Fifty Years Ago

Jane Price Sharp, Editor

Thursday, September 28, 1972

September 25, 1972, marks the 240th anniversary of the landing of the Waybright families in America. Arriving from Port Rotterdam into Port Philadelphia on the ship "Loyal Judith" on September 25, 1732.

Having left Bavaria Easter Sunday and a tributary of the beautiful Blue Danube on foot near Anabach, they covered over 50 miles to the headwaters of the "River Neckar," where they took to a raft and then floated to the forks of the water at the "Rhine River" and Mannheim, Germany. From Mannheim they went by boat to Rotterdam to ship out...

The original passport and big German Family Bible have been in possession of the Kessler families of Troy, Ohio, for many years; they are descendants of George Butterbaugh and Sarah Waybright, a daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth Fetters Waybright...

The very name Waybright in its original form "Weinbrecht" meant "Bright Wine," it seeming their name was from the ancient ability to make the finest of wines. Their many musical talents through the years, as evidenced by both the Waybrights and their kinsmen, the Arbogasts, seem to reflect the same talents of their ancestry...

WEDDING

A candlelight double ring ceremony uniting Marsha Simmons and Mark A. Kane was performed Friday evening, August 25, 1972, at seven-thirty o'clock in the Oak Grove Presbyterian Church at Hillsboro.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Simmons, of Droop, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kane, of Durbin.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Cecil Dalton before an altar of white daisies and gladioli and two seven branch candleabra holding lighter tapers. The candle lighters were Claude Simmons and Durwood Register. Miss Cornell Moore, of Marlinton, played the traditional wedding music...

BIRTH

Born to SP.5 (c) and Mrs. Freddie L. Greer, of Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland, a daughter, named Ava Anne.

Pocahontas County Bicentennial 1821 - 2021

Footsteps through History

Thursday, October 1, 1897

LIEUT. PERRY, the arctic explorer has just returned from Meteoric Island in the far northern regions. He brought with him a meteorite. It measures twelve by eighteen feet and weighs one hundred tons. Its composition is very similar to that of the material used for plate armor on war ships and looks like nicked steel.

MOST OF the corn of the county suffered frost-bite last week and the fields turned white. It made terribly dry cutting. Those who had corn binders fully appreciated the blessing this year. On one farm in the Levels, a crop of forty-two acres of drilled corn was harvested in five days.

A PLEASANT home wedding at the home of S. B. Moore, Edray, September 22nd, A. R. Gay and the beautiful and accomplished Miss Flora E. Moore were united in the bonds of holy matrimony. The happy couple started at once for Washington amid the congratulations of friends.

A BUNCH of twenty-odd two year old cattle were sold by J. K. Bright of Academy, to Griffith & Stout of Pennsylvania. They weighed 1,130. An offer to leg them at $36 a head was refused. They brought, after being weighted, nearly $40. They, with other cattle, will be driven a distance of 178 miles over land to Pennsylvania...

FOR SEVERAL weeks there have been much trouble and anxiety, as well as suffering and many deaths, from yellow fever in various places in the southern and southwestern states. It would seem from the latest news that the disease is on the wane and the fever may soon disappear. It is feared, however, that the germs may lie dormant and break out early next summer. Sanitary precautions may prevent this if used effectively and in time.

HENRY WARWICK, the one year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Massie Warwick, of Fire Creek, has been a grievous sufferer of eczema. His fond parents spared neither pains nor expense for the relief of their child. Mrs. Warwick spent some weeks in Baltimore with a specialist.

For months the little sufferer had to be pinioned, hands and feet, to a pillow to prevent self inflicted injury. Early in the summer, Mrs. Warwick brought her family to Mr. Andrew McLaughlin's to spend the heated term. A month of two since, Mrs. Warwick ventured to let her little boy drink the alum water from a spring in the vicinity. The improvement is so marked as to be almost incredible. In a few weeks this emaciated infant covered with sores became a beautiful bouncing boy, and a happier mother is hard to find or one more grateful to Him that heals our diseases.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES

Among the earliest settlers of the Elk region was Joseph Hannah, a son of Dr. David Hannah, the Irish emigrant who lived at the mouth of Locust Creek. Quite early in this century he married Elizabeth Burnside, on the Greenbrier east of Hillsboro. She was a sister of the late Robert Burnside. Soon after marriage, he settled on the "Old Field Fork of Elk."

His home was on Mill Run near where William Hannah, a grandson, now lives.

This immediate vicinity seems to have been a place of more than ordinary importance in prehistoric times. One of the most frequented

UNDERSTANDING EXPOSURE RISKS

Learning about how COVID-19 spreads and the factors that can increase or decrease that risk can help you make informed choices.

The following questions are written in past tense to help you assess the likelihood that you were infected when you were around a person with COVID-19. If multiple factors below indicate higher transmission risk, you should follow the steps for what to do if you are exposed.

You can also ask yourself the same questions, but about future interactions with others, to help you decide what prevention actions to take. If multiple factors below indicate higher transmission risk, you should consider adding more prevention actions.

Factors that lower or increase risk of transmission

Length of time: How long were you with the infected person?

Longer exposure time increases the risk of transmission (for example, contact longer than 15 minutes is more likely to result in transmission than two minutes of contact).

Cough or heavy breathing: Was the infected person coughing, singing, shouting, or breathing heavily?

Activities like coughing, singing, shouting, or breathing heavily due to exertion increase the risk of transmission.

Symptoms: Did the infected person have symptoms at the time?

Being around people who are symptomatic increases the risk of transmission.

Masks: Were you or the infected person or both wearing a respirator (for example, N95) or high-quality mask?

If one person was wearing a mask, the risk of transmission is decreased, and if both people were wearing masks, the risk is substantially decreased. Risk is also lower if the mask or respirator is a type that offers greater protection.

Ventilation and filtration: How well-ventilated was the space?

More outdoor air can decrease the risk of transmission. Being outside would be lower exposure risk than being indoors, even with good ventilation and filtration; both of those options would be lower risk than being indoors with poor ventilation or filtration. See the Interactive Home Ventilation Tool.

Distance: How close was the infected person to you?

Being closer to someone who is infected with COVID-19 increases the risk of transmission.

Crowded settings can raise your likelihood of being close to someone with COVID-19.

RECONCILIATION OF THE STATEMENT OF REVENUES, EXPENDITURES, AND CHANGES IN FUND BALANCES OF GOVERNMENTAL FUNDS TO THE STATEMENT OF ACTIVITIES
FYE JUNE 30, 2022

Net change in fund balances - total governmental funds	$2,140,625.87
Amounts reported for governmental activities in the statement of activities are different due to:
Governmental funds report capital outlays as expenditures. However, in the statement of net position, the cost of capital assets is allocated over their estimated useful lives and reported as depreciation expense. The effect on net position is the amount by which capital outlays exceed depreciation in the current period.	(553,961.27)
Depreciation expense	$ (553,961.27)
Capital outlays	$3,107,842.76
Governmental funds report capital outlays as expenditures. However, in the statement of net position, the cost of lease assets is allocated over their estimated useful lives and reported as amortization expense. The effect on net position is the amount by which capital outlays exceed amortization in the current period.	(687.12)
Amortization expense	(687.12)
Capital outlays	-
Certain receivables will be collected this year but are not available soon enough to pay for the current period's expenditures. This is the amount by which such receivables increased (decreased).	30,385.27
Property taxes receivable	30,385.27
Operating Grants and Contributions	(186.44)
Other miscellaneous conversion adjustments	-
A portion of the change in fund balances is the proceeds from the general obligation bonds issued during FYE JUNE 30, 2022. Those proceeds are not considered revenue items for the purpose of this statement.	-
A portion of the change in fund balances is the proceeds from the premium on the general obligation bonds issued during FYE JUNE 30, 2022. Those proceeds are not considered revenue items for the purpose of this statement.	-
A portion of the change in fund balances is the current year amortization of the premium on general obligation bonds. The current year amortization of the premium is a reduction of interest expense rather than revenue for the purpose of this statement.	-
A portion of the change in fund balances is the proceeds from finance leases. Those proceeds are not considered revenue items for the purpose of this statement.	-
A portion of the change in fund balances is the proceeds from finance purchases. Those proceeds are not considered revenue items for the purpose of this statement.	(1,336,307.49)
The repayment of the principal of long-term debt (e.g., bonds, leases) consumes the current financial resources of governmental funds. However, such repayment has no effect on net position.	-
Differences in the cost and accumulated depreciation on disposed capital assets are reported as a loss and reduction in net position in the statement of activities.	(15,000.00)
Cost of assets disposed	(15,000.00)
Accumulated depreciation of assets disposed	-
Differences in the ROU asset and accumulated amortization on ROU asset terminated agreements are reported as a loss and reduction in net position in the statement of activities.	-
Right-of-Use assets terminated	-
Accumulated amortization of assets terminated	-
Compensated absences are reported as liabilities in the statement of net position, but are only reported in government funds to the extent they have matured. This is the amount by which compensated absences (increased)/decreased.	1,000.00
Accrued vacation payable	1,000.00
Interest on long-term debt in the statement of activities differs from the amount reported in the governmental funds because interest is recognized as an expenditure in the funds when it is due, and thus requires the use of current financial resources. In the statement of activities, however, interest expense is recognized as the interest accrues, regardless of when it is due.	-
Governmental funds report district pension contributions as expenditures. However, in the Statement of Activities, the cost of pension benefits earned net of employee contributions is reported as pension expense.	36,667.00
District pension contributions	36,667.00

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF WEST VIRGINIA – CHARLESTON

CASE NO. 22-0793-E-ENEC
MONONGAHELA POWER COMPANY and
THE POTOMAC EDISON COMPANY
Petition and General Investigation to determine reasonable rates and charges on and after January 1, 2023

NOTICE OF FILING AND HEARING

On August 25, 2022, Monongahela Power Company and The Potomac Edison Company (collectively, Companies) requested that the Commission initiate its annual review of Expanded Net Energy Costs (ENEC), including a review of actual costs and recoveries for the review period of July 1, 2021 through June 30, 2022, and to establish new rates to go into effect on January 1, 2023. The Companies request that the Commission approve rates that will result in a projected total annual revenue of $183,796,693. This amount consists of a deferred ENEC under-recovery balance of $144,861,585 as of June 30, 2022, and a projected $27,338,472 under-recovery for the 2023 forecasted rate effective period. The proposed increase also includes continued recovery of boiler modernization capital costs for MATS/CSAPR compliance in the amount of an $11,596,636 revenue requirement for 2023. In support of the rate request, the Companies filed direct testimony from five witnesses.

The proposed ENEC rates represent a 12.2% increase in total rates with an impact to the average residential customer using 1,000 kWhs per month being an increase in monthly bills from $115.05 to $126.10 or 9.6%.

This matter is scheduled for an evidentiary hearing on Thursday December 8, 2022. The hearing will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the Howard M. Cunningham Hearing Room at the Public Service Commission, 201 Brooks Street, Charleston, West Virginia. The Commission may cancel the evidentiary hearing for good cause shown. Interested persons intending to attend the hearing should monitor the Commission web docket.

Anyone desiring to intervene should file a written petition to intervene not later than November 10, 2022. to do their respective jobs.

For these reasons, I feel the Town is very fortunate to have employed both a law-enforcement officer-in-training, and a code enforcement officer employed under the guidelines of the Fire Marshal's office. Kendal Ober is home-grown and wants to be a cop. These are qualifications for success. I expect him to grow and learn. Scott Gibb has called Marlinton home for many years. He is a member of Council and has worked in more than three other departments of the Town of Marlinton, including the police department. He raised his family here and is invested in the community.

So, not only must they be certified, but they will have to have continual classes and annual "In-Service" training to remain, and to stay up on code changes and to meet recertification guidelines. We chose, with the complete consent and support of the Town Council, to invest in our community. Our two candidates were employed, with conditions tied to their full certification(s). The Town will not, nor could we cheat on any of the requirements, as is being implied on the street. Both lawyers and accountants are fully aware of what we pay out and to whom. We would not be allowed to have persons enforce the code if not fully supported to do so. Saying they are not certified to do their jobs needs to come out of the social lexicon. Though provisional and in-training, they are duly sworn to uphold the duties of their respective positions.

The other choice would have been to wait for months if not years to bring in or obtain fully certified people. The pay definitely affects those choosing to apply for the job here. Furthermore, the people who work for the town are your neighbors.

They volunteer in our community, they eat at local restaurants, buy in local shops and do the heavy work that many shy away from. They could be anywhere. They are here because they love Marlinton – just like you do. We need to treat them with the respect they deserve. As was stated in a town council meeting two months ago – we should each "Treat others like we would want to be treated."

History, from page 7

Indian trails seems to have been from Clover Lick up the creek to the Thomas Spring, thence over the mountain, crossing at the notch near Clark Rider's farm; thence down by James Gibson's to Elk. Here the valley runs due east and west, which was noticed, evidently, by the Indians, and at the point midway between the east and west horizon a symbolic circle was constructed representing two colossal rattlesnakes in the act of swallowing each other. One light, the other darkness. The day seems to swallow the night and the night seems to swallow the day - as the Indian medicine man saw it - and this marked the process that seemed to destroy something while making other things alive.

It was here religious rites of more than ordinary solemnity were performed preparatory for hunting and for war. Nearly a mile further down was the encampment where about two acres of land had been denuded of trees for camp fires, and this was the "old field" that gave this branch of Elk its name, and was the first piece of ground planted by Joseph Hannah.

Mr. and Mrs. Hannah reared a large family of well-behaved, industrious children. This family did a good part in the development of this thrifty section of our county...

When the writer first remembers seeing Mr. Hannah, he was of very venerable appearance. His grey hair was combed back and plaited in a cue that hung down between his shoulders. The last time I ever saw him we were spending the night at Sampson Ocheltree's in the winter of 1849. The two old men were in busy conversation until a late hour, and most of the talk was about the children of Israel and the dealings of God. The fire was getting low, the candle about burned out, when mother Ocheltree observed it was about time to get ready for bed.

At this suggesting, Mr. Hannah arose and in a very soft solemn tone repeated the words and then sang:

"The day is past and gone, and was the first piece of ground planted by Joseph Hannah.

The evening shades appear,

O may we all remember well

The night of death draws near,

"Lord, keep us safe this night,

Secure from all our fears;

May angels guard us while we sleep

Till morning light appears..."
