Memorial Service Held for Missing Hiker Cassie Sheetz

Family members displayed photos of Cassie Sheetz during a memorial service held March 19 for the missing woman in the Spruce Knob area. Sheetz went missing in the area a year ago.

By Rebecca Arcure

Cassie Sheetz was 25 when she went hiking with a group of friends in the Spruce Knob area on March 11, 2021. A year later her family and friends gathered at the top of Spruce Knob to celebrate her life and have a memorial service for her.

The small but beautiful service took place on March 19 at 7 p.m. The family lit candles and displayed photos of her on a table. They stood in a circle and told of the memories they had of her and said they wished that she could be here with them.

In an interview, Sheetz' mother, Arlene Howard, said remains found in the area of the Monongahela National Forest near Seneca Creek, 11 miles from the area where Sheetz was last seen, were believed to have been Sheetz. However, autopsy results and the medical examiner could not confirm that the remains were in fact Sheetz. The results could take up to 2 or 3 months to confirm.

Sheetz' sister, Tabitha Black, sang a song in remembrance of her that the two sang together in a talent show when they were children. The song was "If I Die Young" by The Band Perry. Another song named "Drowning" was played by Chris Young.

Howard stated she was still waiting for answers and a positive ID or a cause of death. She said these times have been hard on her family and she is thankful for the love and support the community has given her and her family. She misses her daughter every day and hopes to be able to lay her to rest someday. Her mother hopes to keep her memory alive and said she give updates as she finds out new information.

Museum Receives Funding to Preserve Local History

The Pendleton County Historical Society received $5,000 in funding from the William G. Pomeroy Foundation for artifact and archives preservation and digitization, according to a news release. The funding will be used by the Society to preserve collectibles at the Boggs House Museum in Franklin.

The foundation is an organization dedicated to the celebration and preservation of community history. Normally, the Pomeroy Foundation focuses its funding on historic marker signs, but the Pomeroy trustees noted that they "were impressed with the progress [the society] has made."

Museum collection manager Jonathan Contrades remarked, in a statement, that "this grant has already supported the purchase of archival supplies we need to preserve the important artifacts here at the museum. We'll be able to safely store objects and documents for decades without worry of losing our history."

Items purchased with the funds include containers for the museum's newspaper archive as well as garment boxes for the military uniforms given to the museum.

Society president Paul Clayton said, in a statement, that he is "really pleased with the progress that is being made at the museum in relation to the management of the various collections that the Society has. Preserving the county's history is our primary goal."

The museum cares for over 1,000 pieces both on exhibit and in archival storage. Part of this grant funded the purchase of collections management software, which will track the numerous items that constitute the museum's historical collection. The software also allows for digital images of the items to be housed in its database.

The museum, located at 49 Oak Street in Franklin, will be open to the public with regular hours starting this May, but one can schedule a private tour by calling Richard Ruddle at 304-358-2869 or 304-358-7304.

County Officials Announce Latest Coronavirus Death

By Shawn Stinson

FRANKLIN – County health officials announced the county's latest death associated with the coronavirus.

Pendleton County Health Department officials revealed the death of an 84-year-old male on March 28 on its Facebook page. It was the county's 18th death associated with the coronavirus since the start of the pandemic.

The total number of coronavirus cases in the county since the start of the pandemic topped the 2,000-mark on March 24 when county health officials revealed four cases on its Facebook page. There have been 2,004 cases in county residents.

Since March 21, there have been eight cases reported by county health officials. They urged county residents to "please wear your mask when out in public" and "consider getting vaccinated."

Despite the uptick in cases in the county, Pendleton remained listed as a green county on the West Virginia Department of Health and Human Resources coronavirus map. All 55 counties in the state were labeled as green on the March 28 update.

Pendleton's positivity rate was 0.5, 0.73 and 0.95 on the March 26, 27 and 28 updates, respectively. The county's positivity rate was in the green.

The other indicator used by state health officials to determine a county's color on the coronavirus map dropped to the yellow level on the March 27 and 28 updates. ## Pendleton County CVB Discusses Uses for $12,500 Grant

By Rebecca Arcure

During a meeting of the Pendleton County Convention and Visitors Bureau on March 22, county officials and residents discussed the best use for a $12,500 grant.

The meeting started at 6 p.m. at the Pendleton Community Building. After a short blessing of prayer and a light snack, the meeting began with Chair Kristin Dingess welcoming everyone to the meeting.

Ciara Lambert, the executive director of the Pendleton County Commission, welcomed Amanda Workman Scott from the WV Community Development Hub, and Peter Butler, who is the director of design and community development at West Virginia University's Davis College of Agriculture, Natural Resources and Design.

The Hub, which focuses on community and economic development, including job creation, tourism and other projects in rural areas, has worked with Franklin for a year and a half and helped the community to find the $12,500 grant. The community decides what will be done with it.

Butler's project at WVU involves working with students to design ideas that would help improve communities. He had some suggestions on what his students thought would be useful to the community or make it a better place with the $12,500.

He said he hopes to see something positive and exciting come to the community with the grant. He would like to develop partnerships with Pendleton County for projects.

His students suggested a green infrastructure project, including places where water would go into the ground through beautiful structures to help maintain the flow of stormwater down to the river.

Another student had an idea of creating a river access point for Franklin and having alternative paving done to flow the water to the river and prevent excess water build up on the streets and alleys. Another student suggested a healing garden and a botanical garden center with wheelchair access to help the county attract more tourists and give the locals something beautiful to look at.

One student suggested a garden with a metal structure of FRANKLIN in the middle of it with a bench and possibly a walkway with an arch. After some of the members discussed this idea, the majority thought this was one of the best ideas, but nothing is set in stone yet and a decision hasn't been made.

Lambert recommended starting with a smaller garden and the Franklin sculpture and adding to it as time goes on. She said that it could be useful for tourists and locals at Franklin and could make a person want to stop and take a picture in front of the sculpture so one can show everyone where one was when the picture was taken.

Another woman who attended the meeting spoke of the sidewalks needing to be repaired in Franklin and said that the money would be good for that.

Following community feedback, the members will make a decision by the end of September on plans for the grant.

Laura Brown, executive director at the Pendleton County Economic & Community Development Authority, mentioned a rock wall for climbing for the people in Pendleton County and marketing Pendleton County as the "Rock Climbing" county since Seneca Rocks is a known attraction.

Brown also wants the community to know that it is time for the beautification project to get started back up for the year and that she could use all the help she can get. If a person is willing to help plant, donate baskets or money one needs to get in contact with Jamie DiFalco, who will be designing baskets for the flowers this year. The CVB needs volunteers to help with the planting of the flowers, which will take place the third week of May, to make the beautification project of Main Street Franklin a success this year.

Wildcats Notch No-hitter in Easy Victory

By Shawn Stinson

FRANKLIN – The Pendleton County baseball team has only been able to hit the diamond twice this season.

Each time has resulted in easy victories for the Wildcats.

Pendleton knocked off Pocahontas County in its season opener 16-4 in five innings on March 21 in Franklin. Pendleton was unable to return to the diamond until four days later when it posted a 16-0 victory in five innings against Bath County in Franklin.

Four pitchers combined on a no-hitter in the game. Clayton Kisamore secured the victory for the Wildcats. Brayden Beachler, Evan Teter and James Vincell also toed the rubber for Pendleton in the win.

Alden Rexrode went 3 for 3 with four runs batted in to lead the offense for the Wildcats. Beachler recorded three hits in four at-bats with two RBIs. Kisamore was 2 for 2 with a double and two RBIs and Vincell notched a two-run single.

"It's hard to evaluate because of the level of competition we have played," Pendleton coach Sam Yokum said. "I like the way that our kids in those two have put the ball in play. We hit the ball hard and we made the plays we had to make. Until we have an upscale on the opponent's ability ... the jury's out."

Pendleton had its contest with Tucker County set for March 28 postponed due to poor field conditions. Pendleton was scheduled to return to action on March 30 with a road contest at Moorefield.

Yokum said the matchup with the Yellow Jackets will test his team.

"We're young," he said. "We can lay an egg down in Moorefield Wednesday night and boot the ball around and not be able to get an out. We are probably going to face as good as pitching as we will see all year. That is why tonight's game with Tucker, I wish the weather was better, because they have Mason Kisamore."

Yokum added Mason Kisamore is one of the top pitchers in the area and would have been a good test before facing Moorefield.

Pendleton will square off with Pocahontas Friday in Dunmore. It will play host to South Harrison at noon Saturday in Franklin.

"At this point in the season, we have built just a little bit of confidence with those two wins, certainly better than two losses," Yokum said. "Hopefully we can play with a little confidence. The kids are working hard, they want to be here which is huge. They are having a good time."

Clayton Kisamore delivers a pitch against Bath County. Kisamore and three other pitchers combined for a no-hitter in the 16-0 win.

Lady Wildcats Open Season with Two Losses

By Shawn Stinson

FRANKLIN – Pendleton softball coach Charlie Padgett believes his team is a hit or two and a few defensive plays from being undefeated this season.

The Lady Wildcats had the opportunity to post victories in their first two games, but they let the games slip through their fingers. East Hardy recorded a 9-6 victory on March 22 in Baker. Petersburg edged Pendleton 7-5 three days later in Petersburg.

"If we have one more hit an inning and we don't have a couple of flubs on defense, we only had a few, we clean that up and we will be fine," Padgett said.

Lizzie Alt slugged a two-run home run to drive in Avery Townsend in the first inning in the loss to Petersburg. Jenna Smith had a double and scored two runs. Baylee Beachler had a walk and a run scored.

Pendleton led 2-0 after the first inning and extended its margin to 3-0 at the end of the second inning. Petersburg knotted the game at 3 in the bottom of the third. The Lady Wildcats scored twice in the top of the fourth to take a 5-3 lead before the Lady Vikings rallied to plate three runs in the fifth to claim a 6-5 advantage. Petersburg tacked on an insurance run in the bottom of the sixth to account for the final score.

Braylee Corbin scored three runs for the Lady Vikings. Samantha Colaw notched two runs in the victory.

Smith went 3 for 3 and scored two runs in the loss to East Hardy. Alt had a double and a run. Beachler recorded a single and a run. Townsend added a hit and a run for the Lady Wildcats.

"We were leading the whole game until the last inning," Padgett said. "We gave up a couple of shots that didn't go our way. We hit the ball well early, but we kind fell off a little bit and tried to catch up at the very end."

Padgett is excited to see how his team will respond once it is able to play more games.

"We are young. We are all freshman and sophomore except for one senior starter," Padgett said. "We need to work out a couple of kinks, making sure I have the right person in the right position in the lineup. Everybody has hit the ball on occasion. There's not a whole lot to change in the lineup just making sure we do that in a game. The other team seems to get the right person on deck or at the plate and somebody is on base and the run scores."

Pendleton was scheduled to travel to Berkley Springs on March 29, but the game was canceled due to a scheduling mix up. Pendleton is slated to face Hampshire County at 4 p.m. Friday in Romney.

World War I Touched The Lives Of Pendletonians

World War I touched the lives of all Pendletonians. Many of their sons went off to train in the 313th Field Artillery, which was organized at Camp Lee during the summer of 1917. That following winter, there was a period of training with a departure on the "Siboney" for France. There were pleasant days spent in Redon in the summer of 1918, where the actual training of the regiment began June 16, 1918. These troops were engaged with six different divisions in the fight at Meuse-Argonne. They realized that training was worth a tenth, with experience being the other nine.

A record of consecutive fighting without relief or rest for 47 days made lasting memories of the rumble of the guns along the road at night, the shuffling columns of infantry passing in the dark, rain and mud, the utter fatigue of men and horses hauling ammunition, the overwhelming roar of the great barrages, the whistle of approaching shells, the crackle of machine guns and the overhead humming of airplanes. Gas alarms spread over the hills like wildfire three or four times every night. As aggravating as this was, it did serve as excellent drills for the men. Ammunition and camouflage were the hardest problem with which to deal. They went by foot because horses were scarce and riding was not very popular. In time, health and spirits of these men were very low, due to hard work, cold weather, rain, and canned food. During this period of 47 days of continuous fighting, one officer and 15 men were killed in action, with 17 men dying of their wounds; while nine officers and 121 men were wounded.

These men came to Camp Lee from their work in mines, on farms, and in stores and offices without knowledge of the most fundamental military usages and customs. Yet, within a year, they were veteran troops of the highest order.

Inspections were an everyday ritual, from cooties, equipment, physical, paper work, police, discipline and even for liquor in canteens. Their bedroll contained the following items: one mattress, one cot, six wool blankets, two wool uniforms, two pairs of dress boots, two pairs of field shoes, six pairs of wool socks, one wool overcoat, two wool shirts, six wool undershirts, six pairs of wool drawers and 12 cans of blackberry jam. The weight was 12 pounds.

Within their organization, they gained a discipline based on confidence and willingness, which was genuine and effective. These men had complete confidence, trust, affection and abounding pride in their leadership. They learned a lesson from their experience: that, having risked their lives in war for the ideals of freedom, they would never allow these ideals to be jeopardized by neglect or indifference in their civil life. Therefore, as civilians, it is one's duty to cherish, uphold, believe and contend that the maintenance of these principles of liberty and justice be so important to mankind that no sacrifice or sorrow is too great to endure for it.

Noting from this county, amongst the Regimental Roster of non-commissioned officers was Austin T. Hartman—a corporal from Brandywine.

Battery A

Non-commissioned officers: James E. Kisamore, Supply Sergeant, Macksville; James L. Pitsenbarger, Sergeant, Brandywine; Chester C. Mowery, Sergeant (wounded), Brushy Run; Perl Puffenbarger, Corporal, Sugar Grove; Ralph Raines, Corporal (appointed Sergeant), Teterton; Lester B. Sites, Corporal (appointed Sergeant), Roaring; Benjamin H. Mitchell, Corporal, Sugar Grove; and Earl Kiser, Corporal (transferred to hospital).

Privates, First Class: Arlie C. Smith (wounded) (appointed Corporal), Sugar Grove; and

Privates: Luther G. Dice, Franklin; Fred Dolly, Teterton; Dayton Dove, Riverton (died from wounds and buried at Judy Gap); Raymond Harmon, (wounded and died in 1918), Brandywine; Harry E. Hoover, Moyers; Otha Arden Mallow, Kline; Irving Morral, Mouth of Seneca; Roy R. Moyers, Moyers; Emory Rexrode, Sugar Grove; James H. Trumbo, Brandywine; and William G. Wimer, Franklin; Battery B

Non-commissioned officers: Lester A. Boggs, Corporal (wounded), Mouth of Seneca; and

Privates, First Class: John A. Cook, Circleville; Battery C

Privates: Charles D. Harper, Circleville; Supply Company: Non-commissioned officers: Lester Thompson, Cook, Riverton; Moses L. Vint, Wagoner, Circleville;

Other Privates: Clement Bodkin, Sugar Grove; Clem Rader, Sugar Grove; and Minor Rexrode, Moyers; and Captain, Regimental Adjutant: John Paul (later was Judge John Paul, residing in Harrisonburg, Virginia).

All but one soldier from the county returned to tell their story. Whatever had to be done was done by these mountaineers and miners. The officers of this particular 313th Field Artillery Regiment believed that no better soldier could be found anywhere than in the hills and mountains of West Virginia. These men are all gone to their just rewards, but their memory lingers on in the hearts of their descendants.

Many Early American Barns Were Bank Barns

Barns were such an important aspect in the development of America with hay being stored in most of them.

So many of the earlier barns in America used to be known as bank barns. They were first constructed as log buildings. The later barns advanced to post and beam construction techniques, which are still used today. They were then sheathed with wood siding, whether it be clapboard or vertical boards. In fact, the vertically applied siding tended to last longer since it shed water much better than the clapboard siding.

The bank name came from building the barn into a bank or hill. At least part of the foundation for the barn had been excavated into the hill or bank. The typical bank barn was two stories tall with perhaps a half-story loft at the very top. One could enter the main floor of the barn from on top the bank and enter the ground floor on the opposite side at a lower ground level. Because the lower level was partly underground, this floor was warmer during the winter months and cooler during the summer, a good place to shelter animals.

Large doors allowed entry to the upper floor by opening into the barn floor. The farmer could then drive his wagon from the bank right into the barn to unload hay or straw. This floor was usually three bays wide with a threshing floor in the center and hay mows to each side. The hay mows could be easily loaded with hay from the wagons pulled onto the threshing floors.

The threshing floor was where the farmer separated the grain from the chaff by tossing the wheat, etc., into the air to allow for winnowing of the crop. Wooden flails were used to beat the stalks to separate the grain from the chaff. A draft to blow the chaff away from the grain was created by opening the two large doors above the barn yard. Another advantage of having the ground floor below the hay mows was the ease of transferring hay to the livestock below by the use of gravity.

The second story also contained grain bins for storing grain and other small rooms for storage that became attractive for rats to inhabit. Many farmers kept cats at the barn area to keep the rat and mouse population down. As time marches on, the barn will soon be another icon to add to the lighthouse and train memories.

Franklin Wins Class A State Basketball Crown

Franklin High School's boys basketball team completed the final chapter of the 1991-92 story book season by defeating the Herndon Indians to capture the Class A Boys Basketball State Championship last Saturday in Charleston.

The Panthers, until this year, had never been able to complete the final chapter. In 1979, Franklin's first state tournament appearance under the direction of Coach Enoc Lyons met the Mullins Rebels and left the story incomplete.

In 1982, Coach Donnie Kopp led his Panthers to the state tournament only to be eliminated by eventual State Champion Guyan Valley. Again, the story was incomplete.

Franklin Coach Greg Smith made his first appearance with the Panthers in 1985, but lost to Harts in round number one.

The Panthers were not to be denied, however. After one year's absence, the cagers from Pendleton County began a consecutive string of six straight state tournament appearances beginning in 1987 with a second round loss to eventual State Champion Paden City. In 1988, the Panthers knocked off the defending state champs, but fell to a Hamlin team in the semifinals. The story was still incomplete.

In 1989, a Jeremy Bodkin-led team dropped a close decision to eventual State Champion Burch from southern West Virginia.

Mullins spoiled it for Franklin in 1990 in another overtime thriller, and in 1991, after downing Tygarts Valley in the opening, the Burch Bulldogs again left the Panthers and fans empty after stealing a 48 to 46 decision. Burch went on to win the title that year, also.

Finally in 1992, the story was completed. Franklin knocked off the number one ranked and defending State Champions Burch in round number one. The Ceredo-Kenova Wonders fell in the second round to put the 25-1 Panthers in their first ever state championship game on Saturday.

The Herndon Indians tried once again to leave that empty feeling in the hearts of Panther players and fans. However, this was the year of the Panthers as they recorded a 74 to 59 win for their first State Basketball Championship in the history of the school. The story was completed at last.

100 YEARS AGO

6000 Rebels Captured At Island No. 10

By LON K. SAVAGE

Editor's Note—The following is one of a series of articles on the Civil War. Each weekly installment covers events which occurred exactly 100 years ago.

Commodore Andrew H. Foote, the man who had silenced Fort Henry for Ulysses S. Grant six weeks earlier, called a council of war 100 years ago this week aboard his flagship on the Mississippi River. The tanned federal officer with seafarers' whiskers ranging along his jawline, again explained his problem to his officers.

When their Kentucky line had caved in during February, the Confederates had evacuated New Madrid on the Missouri side of the river, and had set up new defenses on an island and along the banks in a short S-shaped curve on the Mississippi. The island, just below the Kentucky-Tennessee line, was Island Number Ten—the northernmost Confederate stronghold on the all-important river. (The island since has been washed away).

Foote's problem was this: Federal Gen. John Pope who had taken New Madrid just down-river from Island Number Ten, was ready to attack the island from below with 20,000 troops. Foote, with his gunboats, was already engaged in hammering at the island from above. But Pope needed at least one of Foote's gunboats to protect his army while it crossed the Mississippi to attack the Confederates. That meant a gunboat would have to move downriver, past the island, through the gauntlet of Confederate fire to join Pope.

One Volunteer

Only one of Foote's men volunteered to run the gauntlet. He was Henry Walke, commander of the gunboat "Carondolet." Less than a week later, he set out.

At one o'clock on the night of April 4, the moon went down, and black darkness shrouded the river and its banks. The "Carondolet," laden with planks and armor for protection, cast off and began slipping silently downriver.

Suddenly, a thunderstorm broke, and the men were horrified to see huge bolts of lightning illuminate their vessel as it moved within firing range of the island. But, while the men held their breaths, the "Carondolet" slipped past the first battery unmolested.

Now charging full speed downstream, the "Carondolet" suddenly became ablaze with light as its smokestack flared up, and the Confederates discovered the vessel. Three batteries from the mainland and a floating battery in the river opened fire, but their shots were wild. The "Carondolet" steamed past the island and joined Pope.

Attack is Made

Two days later, another gunboat, the "Pittsburgh," ran the gauntlet, and the two boats and Pope's army went into action.

The "Carondolet" and "Pittsburgh," opened fire on Confederate batteries several miles downriver from the island and silenced them. Pope's army, riding on barges, crossed the river from west to east and attacked.

The Confederates began fleeing, and Pope's army began rounding up prisoners in the swampland along the river. Confederates on the island, too, abandoned their fortifications and fled, and hundreds of them fell prisoners.

By April 8, Pope's army had captured the island and more than 6,000 prisoners and immense quantities of supplies and ammunition, at the cost of only a few men. Another of the Confederacy's western strongholds had been cracked.

Despite the importance of the event, the capture of Island Number Ten never made big news. For on the day of its surrender, northern and southern troops were fighting a far bigger battle—a battle called "Shiloh."

Next week: Shiloh.

Four Classifications Helped Determine Origin of Names

Sugar Grove

By Paula Mitchell

If anyone can identify this individual, please contact the writer at 304-249-5935.

Many of the residents of Pendleton County are of Germanic origin. Many have at least one in their ancestral lines. How the Germanic names were Anglicized was often determined by the sound the clerks thought the name sounded similar to it in English.

The Germanic surnames were generally classified four ways: occupation, relations, descriptive and geographical. More of the family names were derived from occupation. Many could be identified in the name ending in "er", meaning "one who."

Here are some examples:
 Bauer (farmer) — Bower, Bowers;
 Baumann (farmer, builder) — Bowman;
 Becker (baker) — Baker;
 Hartmann (land farmer) — Hartman;
 Huber (owner of small farm) — Hoover;
 Klein (short, small) — Cline or Kline;
 Kuper (cask maker) — Cooper;
 Kaster (sexton) — Custer;
 Mueller (miller) — Miller (The most common name in Germany and Switzerland.);
 Schaeffer (shepherd) — Shafer, Shaver or Sheffer;
 Schenck (dup-bearer) — Shank or Shenk;
 Schmidt (blacksmith — Smith;
 Schneider (tailor) — Snyder, Taylor;
 Schumacher (cobbler, shoemaker) — Shoemaker or Shumaker;

Wagner (wagoner) — Wagner; and Weber (weaver) — Weaver or Weber.
 Many of these surnames still exist in Pendleton County. Daily instructions for life include the following:
 1. What others think of a person is none of one's business.
 2. Time heals everything, so give it time.
 3. Live with gratitude.
 4. Don't chase material things.
 5. Surround oneself with happy people.

Quotes for the week are as follows:
 "One of the advantages of being disorderly is that one is constantly having exciting discoveries." — A.A. Milne
 "We should all do what in the long run gives us joy, even if it is only picking grapes or sorting the laundry." — E.B. White
 "There is no charm equal to tenderness of the heart." — Jane Austen
 "Nature always wears the colors of the spirit." — Ralph Waldo Emerson
 "Keep your eyes on the stars, and your feet on the ground." — Theodore Roosevelt Life is better by the fireplace to hear the "Talk of the Grove."

The Sugar Grove Maple Leaves 4-H Club held its monthly meeting. They had a special presenter, Brenna Mitchell, who taught the club members about magnets.

Visiting Evelyn Varner Sunday afternoon were Cheyanne and Bentley Varner. Also visiting her Sunday evening were Terry Harper and Janet Judy.

Motoring to North Carolina over the weekend to visit Danny and Rhonda Niday were Roger and Reda Shrewsbury and Eugene and Cindy Varner.

It must be that March came in like a lamb and is planning to go out like a lion. There simply is no other explanation for the turn of events for the weather that the residents have been experiencing this past week. There was a stark raving freeze, with snow showers over the weekend, that wrenched any notion of early bloom from the trees and shrubs.

Clickety-clacks for the chin wagers are as follows:
 •The Procrastinator's Club of America sends news to its members under the masthead "Last Month's Newsletter."
 •The piece that protrudes from the top end of an umbrella is called a "ferrule."

 •To clean tarnished copper bottoms of pots and pans, spread a little ketchup onto the bottom. Let it sit for about one minute. Wipe it clean and rinse.
 •The average person falls asleep in seven minutes and is about a quarter-of-an-inch taller at night.
 •The longest reigning monarch in history was Pepi II, who ruled Egypt for 90 years (2566-2476 B.C.).

Marleta Wimer was a visitor of Rosalee Grogg.
 April birthdays include Charlie Marie Hoover first; Willy Fisher, Judy Austin and Nancy Evick, second; Greg Hoover, third; Derek Crider, fourth; Wesley Puffenbarger and Danielle Hoover, fifth; Davie Simmons and Keith Kiser, sixth; Margaret Sasscer, Judy Rader and Wes Eye, seventh; Junior Homan, eighth; John Todd, Vera Teter and Josh Parker, ninth; Sherry Wilfong and Thelma Puffenbarger, 10th; Jim Holstein and Mike Alt, 11th; Ruth Craig, Lisa (Greg) Jamison and Landon Bowers, 12th; Dustin Simmons, 14th; and Terry Simmons, Frankie Roberson and Beth Propst, 15th.

Concerns for this week are as follows: the Paul Bennett family, Scherry Chambers, Charlotte Copley, Jeff Craig, Joy Darnell, Jeff Evick, Lee Roy and Ina Evick, the Elsie Eye family, Mary Eye, Ron Gilkeson, Lola Graham, Marlene Harman, Ramona Harman, Steve and Armanda Heavner, Starr Hedrick, Winona Judy Hewitt, Lorena Hoover, Myrtle Hoover, Alice Johnson, Richard Judy, Margaret Kiser, Rex Landis, Jay Linaburg, Angela Lung, Linda Malcolm, Morris and Sue Mallow, Yvonne Marsh, Willard May, Neil McLaughlin, Naomi Michael, Joe Moats, Lincoln Moore, Ernie Morgan, the Reid Murphy family, Aaron Nelson, Kathy Nelson, Ken and Ruth Nelson, Cheryl Paine, Sutton Parrack, Betty Lou Propst, the Garry Propst family, Kara Propst, Linda Propst, Nathan Propst, Sheldon Propst, Bryer Puffenbarger, Eldon Puffenbarger, Willard Rader, Don Rexrode, Donna Ruddle, Barbara Simmons, Chloe Simmons, Erin Simmons, Eva Simmons, Ona Smith, Stanna Smith, Steve Smith, Berlie Sponaule, Patricia Swecker, Harry Lee Temple, Charlotte Thompson, Rosa Tichenor, Sandra Vandevander, Jack Vogel, Amby Waybright, Jr., Ron White, Judy Williams, Larry Wimer, Carol Windett and the people of Ukraine.

Monongahela National Forest Plans Spring Prescribed Burns

Monongahela National Forest plans to conduct prescribed burns on 2,964 acres in Greenbrier and Pendleton counties from March through June, weather permitting. The purposes of these burns are to re-establish fire's natural role in the forest ecosystem, improve forest health and wildlife habitat, and reduce the threat of catastrophic wildfires.

Project areas planned for prescribed burns this spring include:

- Big Mountain Unit 1 – 557 acres west of Cherry Grove in Pendleton County;
- Meadow Creek – 221 acres northeast of Neola in Greenbrier County;
- One Mile/Lick Mountain – 1,067 acres west and northwest of Neola in Greenbrier County; and
- Peach Orchard – 1,119 acres west of Blue Bend Campground in Greenbrier County.

Each burn area will be closed to the public on the day of the burn, and may be closed for several days after, to ensure public safety. Signs will be posted on roads near all prescribed burn areas before and during burning. Residents and forest visitors may see and smell smoke for several days. If a person encounters smoke on the highway, slow down, turn on one's vehicle's lights and drive appropriately for the conditions.

Prescribed burns are conducted under specific weather conditions and are designed to accomplish pre-determined forest management goals. Monongahela National Forest follows strict guidelines for conducting prescribed burns, and takes into consideration environmental factors such as temperature, humidity, smoke dispersion and wind. If any environmental conditions are not within limits, the burn will be postponed.

Local radio stations will be alerted to burn activities ahead of time. When burning begins, information, photos, and maps will be available at <https://inciweb.nwcc.gov/>.

County Officials Announce Latest Coronavirus Death

as an individual testing positive for the coronavirus despite being deemed fully vaccinated by health officials.

During his March 25 coronavirus press briefing, Gov. Jim Justice reported all 55 counties were listed as green. There were 460 active cases of the coronavirus at the time in the state. There has been a decrease of nearly 97% in cases during the past two months.

"Our entire map is green," Justice said during the briefing. "Think about that. West Virginia, you've been to you know where and back. Along the way, we lost a lot of people, but we kept heading north. We kept pulling the rope together and now we're all green."

'Be Local and Be Green' is April's Message from EDA

By Ken Bustin

For the past several months, the Pendleton County Economic Development Authority's "Be Local" campaign has exhorted county residents to patronize local businesses and take a more active role in the local community.

"We've been encouraging people to eat, shop and stay local," said EDA's Amber Nesselrodt. "But with Earth Day coming up on April 22nd, we want to expand that message a bit, and let businesses know how to 'Be Green,' as well."

"The objective is to offer them eco-friendly information on how to be local and be sustainable," she added.

During the past few months, the EDA has highlighted various local businesses on its social media pages – Facebook and Instagram – and will continue to do so. One that will be upcoming is the recycling center in Franklin. Nesselrodt said she thinks there are many people who are still unaware that it exists.

"And now that it's almost spring," she said, "we want to encourage people shop local for their gardening supplies."

Nesselrodt noted that T & K Markets had recently added a lot of organic produce from the area. Other businesses, as well, were offering more locally-produced goods.

Efforts were underway to gear up for a local Farmer's Market in Franklin, which would be held on Saturdays. A meeting is scheduled to be held on April 19 at 6:30 p.m. at the community building to sign up vendors. Nesselrodt said she hoped for strong participation, noting that there would be no table fees, scheduling would be flexible, and vendors would not need to commit to being there every week. She noted that it wouldn't be limited to just local produce and meats, and hoped this would attract sellers who had craft items and other products.

She said that the EDA had been gratified with the response to the 'Be Local' campaign. "'Be Local' is reaching more people – and we want to keep that momentum going," she declared. She said that it was hoped to keep the campaign going indefinitely. During the past few months, they had offered various giveaways, and she said that both those and the highlights of businesses on their social media pages had received a lot of positive feedback.

Nesselrodt said there were lots of little things businesses could do to support sustainability. For example, she noted, businesses which sold physical goods could sell branded tote bags to their customers, which would not only help reduce waste, but would also be an advertisement for the business. And businesses could offer recycling bins in their stores for bottles and cans.

She encouraged people to check the EDA's social media pages and website for additional information.

Laura Brown, EDA executive director, echoed Nesselrodt's enthusiasm: "We are six months into our 'Be Local' campaign and it is doing what we want – to encourage community engagement and support for local businesses. The role of the EDA isn't just to bring new business opportunities to Pendleton County but it's to support existing businesses. We look forward to growing this campaign."

Guidelines Given for Digging Ramps on National Forest

Digging and eating ramps in the spring is a traditional activity throughout Appalachia and especially in the gateway communities of Monongahela National Forest. While collecting ramps for personal use is permitted on the forest within established limits, commercial harvesting of ramps in the forest, including re-selling ramps collected for personal use, is not permitted.

Personal use is defined as two gallons per person in possession at any one time, about the amount that fits in a typical plastic grocery bag. This equals about 180 whole plants, including roots and leaves. Individuals may not collect ramps on behalf of someone else.

People who collect ramps in the national forest are encouraged to follow these guidelines to ensure abundant ramps in the future:

- Collect ramps only in patches with more than 100 plants.
- If a person finds a patch that has already been harvested, move on to another area.
- When collecting ramps from a large clump, take only one-fifth of the plants. Leaving behind most of the plants will allow them to mature and go to seed, and the patch will recover faster.

•If digging bulbs, use a soil fork or a small hand trowel and a knife, rather than a large shovel. Shovels disturb the root system of neighboring ramps and other plants much more than these smaller tools. To dig ramps, loosen the soil with the soil fork or hand trowel and use the knife to cut the ramp roots beneath the bulb.

•After a person digs a ramp, cover the bare soil with leaves. This will reduce the likelihood of invasive species taking root.

By following these guidelines for harvesting ramps, it can ensure that one's children and grandchildren will be able to enjoy ramps for generations to come.

Learn how to grow ramps on one's property at <https://www.srs.fs.usda.gov/compass/2017/04/12/grow-your-own-ramps-2/>.

Spring Fire Season Underway

The start of West Virginia's annual spring fire season which began March 1 marks the return of burning restrictions, including the prohibition of open burns between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m.

"We've had a busy start to 2022, but if everything goes according to our predictions we'll have an average spring fire season," said Jeremy Jones, assistant state forester for the West Virginia Division of Forestry and the state's fire supervisor.

Jones said more than 99% of wildfires in West Virginia are caused by people and that burning debris accounts for 35% of all wildfires during the past 10 years.

Statewide burning restrictions will remain in effect until the close of the spring fire season on May 31. The Division of Forestry has issued burning guidelines on its website at wvforestry.com/fire-laws.

- Regulations include:
- Burning is prohibited during fire season from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. If burning has occurred during permitted hours (5 p.m. to 7 a.m.), the fire must be completely extinguished by 7 a.m.
  - All fires must have a ring or safety strip.
  - The safety strip itself must be cleared of burnable material and be at least 10 feet wide.
  - Fire must be attended until completely extinguished.
  - Only vegetative materials such as leaves, brush and yard clippings are permitted to be burnt.
  - Spark-throwing machinery such as power shovels or sawmills operating on land subject to fire must contain an adequate spark arrestor.
  - Inflammable waste disposal areas must annually remove all grass, brush, debris and other inflammable material adjacent to disposal areas to provide adequate protection, preventing the escape of fire to adjacent lands.

"Our fire laws protect one of West Virginia's most valuable resources: our forests," Jones said. "We urge everyone who burns anything outside to be completely familiar with the guidelines available on our website."

Commercial burning during prohibited periods requires a permit, which is issued by local WVDOF offices. A permit is required for each commercial burning site.

Any person or company who causes a fire on any grass or forest land must reimburse the state for costs to suppress the fire. Fines for forest fires caused by negligence range from $100 to $1,000 with an additional civil penalty of $200.
