Inaugural 'Best of Pendleton' Poll Spotlights Local Businesses and Attractions

Shreve's Store in Smoke Hole was voted best place to get a souvenir.

By Stephen Smoot

"This was our first year for Best of Pendleton County and we had over 600 responses!" exclaimed Amber Nesselrodt, executive director of the Pendleton County Convention and Visitors Bureau.

The poll covered 17 fun and welcoming aspects of Pendleton County to determine the favorite hot spots for locals and tourists alike. Twelve of the categories focused on sites around the area, for example, Smoke Hole won Best Swimming Hole, Best Fishing Hole, and Best Place to Camp.

For best fishing hole, Smoke Hole even defeated "I'll never tell."

Seneca Rocks also ranked high in terms of being selected for more than one category, winning Best Hiking Trail, Favorite Climbing Spot, and Favorite One Day Destination.

Not all of the sites were natural wonders, however. Fort Seybert, famed for the 1700s incident in which Indian raiders burned the structure, killed many of the settlers, kidnapped many more, and (allegedly) made off with a hoard of treasure, rated as the Favorite Historical Site.

Voters also got the opportunity to choose from businesses as "local spots that make Pendleton County special." Every selection had one theme in common, caring about customers and offering great service.

Franklin's Korner Shop won the category of Best Place to Grab Lunch or Dinner. The diner, located in the heart of Franklin, serves breakfast as well. They specialize in traditional diner-style food, but often offer their guests fun twists on the specials options.

The Korner Shop's Tammy Linaburg shared that "we are blessed with our customers. We just try to serve people good food."

One of the biggest appeals of the Korner Shop lies in its family-style atmosphere. Katie Hott, who also works at the establishment, said, "It feels like coming to grandma's house with home cooked food."

Hott added that "I never worked at a place where everyone gets along so well."

Pendleton County Middle/High School Celebrates Graduating Class of 2024

By Stephen Smoot

Graduation day welcomed students with rain, gray skies, and even a flood watch, but nothing could dim the shining faces of those students, family, friends, and others who packed the John M. Dice Fieldhouse last weekend.

Graduating seniors walked in two by two, ladies clad in light blue and the gentlemen graduates wearing the Navy shade of that color. They walked to "Pomp and Circumstance," played expertly by freshman student Olivia Gonshor.

Senior class president, Megan Smith, opened the proceedings with an invocation, saying "gracious God, thank you for the opportunity to be here today.'

Timothy Johnson, principal, then gave some opening remarks. Joking about the 15-minute technical delay, he said, "I wanted you to know how it feels when someone comes in late." He then said that he wanted to open the 26th graduation ceremony of the school's existence by thanking teachers, staff, and the school board.

Attendees applauded that and also "the parents and guardians of the Class of 2024."

"This one is extra special to me," Johnson shared, saying, "I've watched this class for seven years ... I've watched them grow, improve, overcome obstacles with their hard work." Notably, the class includes his own daughter.

Myra Mitchell, class salutatorian, ascended to the podium next. Her talk parsed the lyrics of the class's chosen song, "Simple Man," relating the words to her class's past and future experience. The Lynyrd Skynyrd classic tune is about a mother trying to advise her son on how to live both a simple and a happy life.

She started with "take your time, don't live too fast. Troubles will come and they will pass.' Mitchell explained that life inevitably includes overcoming obstacles and that one need not go to the elite schools, earn millions, or go to the absolute top of their fields to have a wonderful and productive life.

"It is perfectly fine to live a simple life and be a simple man," she said.

She closed by quoting, "Don't forget son, there is someone up above."

Class advisor, Jennifer Cook, then introduced the class valedictorian, Kaylee Callison. Callison started her theme with "think about a time when you were nervous," also stating that "we have the ability to get into our heads."

"Fear and nervousness should not hold a person back from pursuing their dreams," she said Then added, "Maybe fear is the only thing holding you back." Students should "push through the fear and believe in ourselves.'

"We can be the people our younger selves dreamed of being," Callison concluded.

Matt Firor then provided the commencement address. Firor grew up in Upper Tract, but has been a major figure in the video game industry since the days when children got excited about playing Pac Man on their Atari 2600s. Firor helped to drive the popularity of massive multiplayer games. He founded Mythic Entertainment and currently serves as studio director of ZeniMax Online Studios.

the state bemoaned the overall voter participation rate, which hovered around 30 percent, breaking down the numbers tells a different story. Registered Republicans in Pendleton County turned out in large numbers to choose among competitive races for United States Senate, the United States House of Representatives, Governor, and the Board of Public Works.

Locally, Republican incumbent Roger Dahmer also faced a primary challenger, as did state senator Robert Karnes.

A little less than 55 percent of registered Republicans turned out to cast their ballots. Considering the circumstances, county Democrats also turned out in respectable numbers, their percentage coming in at a little over 30 percent.

Overall, almost 35 percent of registered voters in Pendleton County went to the polls.

One of the most competitive local races came for the Pendleton County Board of Education. Betty Kimble and Sonny O'Neil ran as incumbents, while Charles Burgoyne II had served in the role prior. The incumbents prevailed in the race, as did Wilma Pitsenbarger, whose total only bested Jamie Di-Falco by 10 votes.

Kimble topped all vote getters, bringing in 1,053.

Another local nonpartisan race that attracted county attention was for Pendleton County Magistrate Division One with candidates Morgan Basagic, Jeremy Bodkin, and James Young. Basagic won cumbent C. Carter Williams faced a challenger in John H. Treadway Jr. Treadway took the race with 840 votes to 612for Williams. S. Ryan White took the state and county tally for Judge of the Intermediate Court of Appeals, Division One. This was a new office created in recent years by the West Virginia State Legislature to handle cases appealed from circuit court.

Statewide, Haley Bunn and former State Senate Judiciary Chairman Charles Trump IV each ran unopposed for separate seats on the West Virginia State Supreme Court of Appeals.

In the local county commission primary, incumbent Roger Dahmer held off challenger Travis Moyers 580 to 415 while incumbent Bradley Kimble kept his role as Pendleton County Sheriff, winning 787 over Josh Nesselrodt's 198.

April Mallow faced no opponents for prosecuting attorney.

Democratic Party results for West Virginia Legislature saw Mandy Smith Weirich nominated for State Senate, Cody Thompson nominated for the 67th District of the House of Delegates, and no one selected to run for the House 86th District.

Republican voters in legislative races gave Robbie Morris a victory over incumbent Robert Karnes, 478 to 401. Morris also took the nomination across the entire district. Sitting delegates Elias Coop-Gonzalez and Bryan C. Ward faced no competitors for the 67th and 86th districts, respectively.

Hoover Joins West Virginia University Extension Service in Pendleton County

Brooke Alt, left, and new agent, Jessica Hoover, represent WVU Extension Service in Pendleton County.

By Stephen Smoot

After about a year and a half, West Virginia University Extension Service in Pendleton County finally has its full staff in place. On May 15, Jessica Hoover enjoyed her first day of work out of the agriculture and youth programs support office.

Hoover brings a long background of experience of agriculture to the position. "I grew up in 4-H and FFA," she explained, elaborating that when younger she was extremely active in 4-H, which WVU Extension Service manages.

Brooke Alt, who has served as the only agent in Franklin since the retirement of Dave Seymour, said, "It's very nice to have someone who is familiar with our programming already."

Hoover's professional career started at Rockingham Insurance, but WVU Extension Service "was the perfect fit because it's what I grew up doing."

Her family has farmed the same land in Ruddle for three generations and worked other lands even prior to that. "I have kind of taken over my family's farm," she explained. Their farm focuses on corn and hay, but "cattle is what I really enjoy." Growing up, she gained experience showing pigs, goats, and lambs as well.

"I definitely have some big shoes to fill," she said in reference to Seymour's decades of work assisting local farmers, but added that "he's offered help if I ever need help." Hoover then said "I hope to live up to what he's done."

Alt said that Hoover's hiring will fill the need for an agent to work with farmers and shared that "I can go back to serving more 4H and youth, expanding our offerings in the school system." She then said, "I can go back to working with kiddos." Both agents will concentrate on "our own areas of focus."

Though many know Hoover, most have not vet learned that she is an extension agent She said that her first priority lies in "getting introduced to everyone in the county" then she will "see where the biggest need is and dive into that."

She will start her tenure in a time where agriculture locally, in the state, and the nation is changing. "Pendleton County is agricultural in general," but "there is a lot of new technology and production techniques," Hoover said. Staying on top of those developments and seeing how they can translate to Pendleton County agriculture will be a big part of the job.

Hoover's academic career also seems tailor made for service as an extension agent. She earned a bachelor's of science from WVU in agriculture business management and rural development, then two masters in business administration degrees from Liberty University in Lynchburg, Virginia.

Mary Maxine Betzler

Mary Maxine Betzler (nee Huffman) passed peacefully on May 5, 2024, at 101 years surrounded by family in Loveland, Colorado.

She was born Sept. 3, 1922, near Dry Fok in Randolph County to the late Gordon Dayton Huffman and Calcie Marie Mrs. Alt was a loving Harman, both from Pendleton County. She descended from families, who had been in the area since the late 1700s. Great-grandparents included Bennetts, Blands, Lawrences, Teters, Harpers, Harmans, and Huffmans.

By age eight, her family returned to Pendleton County where she and nine surviving siblings attended rural schools. As a girl, she loved the outdoors, riding horses with her brothers, and always considered her childhood "wonderful." She graduated from Franklin High School in She was also preceded in December 1941, receiving the girl's athletic award, and from the West Virginia Business College in Fairmont, two years later, the first in her family to attend college. In 1943, she moved to Washington, DC, and began work with the Association of American Railroads.

> On May 20, 1948, she married Robert Edward Betzler at Holy Name Catholic Church in Washington, DC. The couple had three children and, over the next 51 years, made their home in several states throughout the country. During this time, she worked for the Hershey Chocolate Corporation in Hershey, Pennsylvania, the College of Du Page in Illinois, George Washington University in Washington, DC, and Northern Virginia Community College (NOVA) in Annandale, Virginia.

In 1970, the family purchased a home in Reston, Virginia, where her husband passed away on March 6, 1999.

After she retired from NOVA in 1982, she shared many ice cream cones on road trips with a childhood friend, Ruth Hardy Crider, visiting numerous places in the United States and southern Canada. She also traveled to Germany, Austria, Spain, and Turkey with her daughter and family.

Over the years, she attended Franklin High School reunions and, in the fall of 2022 and 2023, returned to West Virginia to reacquaint with Harman and Huffman cousins and introduce her own family to the places of her youth.

As her eyesight failed in later years, she enjoyed books on tape, listening to a jazz ensemble in Leesburg, Virginia, and chorale concerts in Longmont, Colorado, meeting new friends in Colorado, and attending services at Leesburg Presbyterian Church and Namaqua Unitarian Universalist Church in Loveland, Colorado. She was a fan of courtroom trials, watched the news avidly, and requested frequent updates on current events and the weather from Amazon Alexa. Robins, sweet peas, babies, horses, coffee ice cream, and Colorado sunshine remained a few of her favorite things.

Nothing brought her more pleasure than her large, extended family including three children, six grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren, and she frequently flew throughout the United States to visit and assist. Last fall, at age 100, she renewed her passport in preparation for attending a grandson's wedding in the Caribbean. She was brave in the face of failing health and fierce in her defense of family. Her memory, sense of humor, and sense of fairness remained intact to the end.

She was one of the last surviving members of Franklin High School's class of 1941.

Surviving are her children, Lynn M. Alex (Stephen C. Lensink), Vicki L. Gasperini (Frank), and William G. Betzler(Tracy); six grandchildren, Ian Schworer (Smita), Kyle Schworer (Amy), Allison Carroll (Michael), Brendan Alex (Sonya), Ryan Betzler (Benjamin Connor), and Brooke Harmon (Brian); eight great grandchildren, Olivia and Laina Schworer, Nora, Charlotte, and Emilia Carroll, Sawyer and Duncan Alex, and River Harmon; a much loved sister, Bonnie L. Ziegler; a brother, Estyle K. Huffman; an angel of a caregiver, Samantha Murdock; and numerous beloved sisters-in-law, brothers-in-law, nieces, nephews, and their families.

She was also preceded in death by seven siblings; two sons-in-law; and several sisters-in-law and brothers-inlaw.

Family will receive friends at a memorial service at 10 a.m. July 13 at the Leesburg Presbyterian Church in Leesburg, Virginia. Interment with her husband at Arlington National Cemetery will follow at a later.

Memories and expressions of appreciation for her life are welcome and may be sent in her name to Vicki Gasperini, 287 Jones Lane, Heathsville, Virginia 22473.

Pendleton County Rally Falls Short in Sectional Loss to Petersburg

By Stephen Smoot

Head coach Sam Yokum asked for two things from his squad in last week's sectional game against the Petersburg Vikings, "determination and grit."

He got both, but they could not push the Wildcats over the top.

The Vikings opened the game with two singles, but the Wildcat infield capably handled the rest of the top of the first, helping to earn three outs, retiring the side. James Vincell responded with a single in the Wildcat half of the first, then stole second to get into scoring position, but Petersburg pitching quashed the threat.

Petersburg hitters cashed in at the next opportunity, however. They led off the inning with a seeing eye single that found its way past second base and into centerfield. A subsequent double to the outfield wall scored the first run. The next Viking hitter laid down a sacrifice bunt to move the runner to third. On the next at bat, an infield single scored the run.

The Vikings picked up a fourth run in the inning when Cam Beachler fired the ball home from shortstop to catch a runner bounding toward home plate. The umpire called the runner safe at home.

Wildcat batters battled back in the bottom of the third. Smith led off with a single to left, followed by an Allden Rexrode single on a three and two count. Chase Owens came to the plate next. Rexrode was caught stealing during the at bat, a play that would loom much larger when the final score was tallied because Owens sent a double to the wall.

Smith came home to score the initial run for Pendleton County. Vincell followed by reaching on an error to load the bases. Beachler launched a ball to deep left field that was caught, but scored the run. Caleb Armentrout followed with a single to right that earned him a run batted in and helped Pendleton County close the gap to a single run.

Seizing the momentum, Owens set down the Petersburg hitters in order in the top of the fourth.

Pendleton County threatened in the bottom of the fifth as Owens drove a sharply hit ground ball off of the shortstop's leg, giving him first. Vincell drove a ball to deep center, but saw his effort caught just shy of the wall.

The Wildcat dugout tries to spur a seventh inning rally against Petersburg.

Multiple deep drives by Wildcat hitters, unfortunately, fell just shy of leaving the field of play, definitely giving the game a hard luck aspect from the home team's point of view.

Owens stole second and Beachler hit another sacrifice to move him to third, but the inning ended with the next batter. Owens again kept the game close by denying Petersburg a run in their half of the sixth. In the bottom of the inning, Dillon Smith led with a check swing seeing eye single past second base, but the Viking pitcher struck out the next three batters.

at what was once called the vocational and technical school in Petersburg, now South Branch Career and Technical Center. Firor saw options in computer work, but none that included programming. Someone replied that "people who go to Petersburg vo-tech don't program computers. (The same school now offers classes in coding that help lay the foundation for learning about computer programming.)

"Tve done lots of amazing things, but I'm from here," Firor emphasized. Far from being a detriment, he explained, "It's a very big advantage to be from here." In Pendleton County, Firor stated, one grows up with values of hard work and perseverance that remain key to success wherever a person hails from.

In the late 80s, as Firor and his colleagues pushed toward the transition to massive multiplayer games, away from isolated consoles, he said "there was no one to tell us you couldn't do it." After Firor's speech, attendees enjoyed the In the top of the seventh, the Vikings picked up what turned out to be a vital insurance run. They earned a lead off walk and got a two out triple to set the score at 5-3.

Wildcat hitters did not concede. In their final at bat of the game, and the season, Vincell got on with two outs. Bechler, in yet another "game of inches" moment, hit the first pitch to the wall in center field for a stand up double and an RBI.

Petersburg then struck out the final batter, escaped Pendleton County, and advanced to regional play.

In a region also voted as the best scenic view, Germany Valley Cabins won Best Place to Stay. Run by Bill and Luci Raines, they bill themselves as "privacy surrounded by God's great natural beauty."

The poll results also voted North Fork Mountain Trail the Best Biking Trail, Nelson Rocks via Ferrata as the Best Adventure for Thrill Seekers, and Spruce Knob as both the Best Spot for Stargazing and the Favorite Spot for Fall Foliage. traditional senior slide show. Headshots and fun pictures of childhood and high school experiences entertained attendees, who often clapped and shouted at their beloved friends and family's images.

After the slide show, seniors marched onto stage one by one to receive the degrees they worked so hard to earn. Some may have thought about their experiences in school leading up to this moment, while the minds of others were likely focused on what is coming next in life.

Smith then gave the benediction, saying, "Dear Lord, surround all of your graduates with grace . . . in Your name we pray, amen."

Johnson then added some final words, "Lead by example, work hard, play straight."

As the young adults formerly known as seniors and their supporters filed out, a bit of sun and blue sky broke through the clouds that had dominated the sky all morning long.

PCHS Class of '02 Best in West Virginia

More college-going graduates from the Pendleton County High School class of 2002 returned to college in 2003 than any other graduating class in the State of West Virginia.

The 2002 high school graduates from PCHS had a freshman to sophomore collegiate retention rate of 92 percent, according to statistics released on April 22 by this state's Higher Education Policy Commission.

Pendleton County was followed by Lewis (89 percent), Wetzel (89 percent), Tyler (88 percent), Putnam (88 percent), Gilmer (88 percent), Grant (86 percent), Hampshire (86 percent), Boone (86 percent), Roane (86 percent) and Jackson (86 percent).

Retention rate reflects the number of West Virginia students entering public colleges as freshmen in the fall of 2002 who returned as sophomores for the 2003 fall semester.

For the entire state, the 2003 college retention rate for 2002 high school graduates was 81 percent.

The impressive retention rate for this county's class of 2002 was discussed at the Pendleton County Board of Education's regular meeting at the high school on the evening of May 3.

Board members noted that the PCHS class of 2002 was an academically exceptional one which had produced one of the highest percentages of PROMISE scholarship winners of any graduating class in the state.

J. Michael Mullen, the chancellor of the commission, noted the impact of the PROMISE scholarship on college retention rates.

"Of the 7,191 first-time, full-time college freshmen in 2002, almost 50 percent were recipients of the PROMISE scholarship. It is clear that PROMISE is raising the performance levels of our students and sending students who are better prepared to handle the rigors of a college breakfast or supper, 25¢; dinner, 37.5¢; and liquor per half pint, 25¢.

SUGAR GROVE

It's Berry Picking Time At Sugar Grove

It's strawberry picking time. The fields stretch for acres across the side of the hill and down by the creek. Dotting the fields are the pickers—laughing and calling to one another as they work. Berry picking is hard work. Shoulders ache and arms get burned in the sun. Wearing wide brimmed hats seems to help that burned feeling. The sweet, sharp aroma reminds one of the jelly, pies and shortcakes that one would soon be fixing. While down on one's knees, searching through the thick green leaves, it is wonderful to find a juicy, red strawberry to eagerly pop into the mouth. Piling the perfect, crimsonripe beauties into the baskets stirs berry good picking days which lie ahead of us.

100 YEARS AGO

By LON K. SAVAGE

Editor's Note—The following is one of a series of Virginia, and within hours after writing it, Grant could add still more thousands to his casualty list of 20,000.

Grant had moved his army to Spotsylvania on the 8th and 9th of May, immediately after fighting the bloody Battle of the Wilderness against Robert E. Lee. He had moved to Lee's left, hoping to interpose his army between Lee and Richmond. But Lee had moved too, and the two armies had raced for Spotsylvania, 15 miles away. Lee arrived first, and again the two armies faced each other, ready to fight.

Lee took a V-shaped position with Spotsylvania Courthouse in the apex, and Grant's army circled around the point of the V. May 9, Grant sent W. S. Hancock's II Corps crashing into the west leg of the V, but that attack failed. "Good Uncle John" Sedgewick then started to attack the point of the V but was shot dead by a Confederate sharpshooter. Next day, another Grant attack broke the line but then was smothered, and nothing was gained.

It was then that Grant filed his famous dispatch promising to "fight it out . . . if it takes all summer." The very next morning he resumed the job of attacking Lee.

Hancock again was picked to lead the charge, and his corps was up and moving early on the rainy morning of May 12. As day dawned, they moved, strangely silent, through the misty woods toward the point of Lee's "V" formation. Suddenly, they were on top of Lee's line, and they charged as the day exploded in violence. Quickly, they broke Lee's line, and a full division of Lee's army was captured, with two Confederate generals.

Lee, himself, wanted to lead the counter-charge, but his men would not let him. Instead, Jubal Early sent a division of men into the "bloody angle;" other Confederates rallied, and the two armies suddenly were on top of each other, shooting, screaming, stabbing, hitting with fists and rocks. Men shot at point blank range; bayonets were used extensively. At times, the fighting had to stop so the men could push away the dead. Lee, it is estimated, lost a fifth of his army that day, and Grant lost one-tenth of his. Meantime, Grant had sent his cavalry, 10,000 horsemen under Phil Sheridan, in a bold raid toward Richmond. As the fighting at Spotsylvania progressed, Sheridan's 13-milelong-column moved behind Lee's lines, tore up railroad tracks and telegraph wires. Lee responded by sending his cavalry under "Jeb" Stuart after Sheridan. The two cavalries met at Yellow Tavern, just north of Richmond, and Stuart was shot in the lung. Dashing "Jeb" Stuart, the "eyes of Lee's army," was dead.

Opportunities Unlimited

Eighty-six young men and women are graduating from Pendleton County's two high schools tonight and tomorrow night, and thousands of other students throughout the country will be receiving their high school diplomas within the next few weeks.

High school graduation is an important time in the lives of American youth because it is a time of decision. Some graduates will decide to go into business, others will decide to continue their schooling, a few will begin their hitch with one of the branches of the armed services while still others will follow various other pursuits. Regardless what they may be, these decisions will have a lasting effect on the lives of the graduates of 1954.

Decisions will be made more difficult by the perennial prophets of gloom, who, in their pseudo wisdom proclaim: "What a sad time for American youth. The future holds nothing for them. Business is down and unemployment is up. If they are lucky enough to get a job, the government will take all they make in taxes. But it doesn't matter anyway because war is liable to break out any time and then we'll all be blown up by H-Bombs." A dark picture indeed, but only the weak and the credulous will fall for such a distortion of the truth.

The bright students will see a future of unlimited opportunities. As we enter into a new age of atomic power, today's graduates will see a need to master the mysteries of nuclear fission and to use this new power to make the world a better place in which to live. They will see a need for new drugs, better means of communications, more comfortable homes and more efficient methods of distributing the world's goods. But today's opportunities are not limited to the technical and scientific fields. Scientific progress in recent years has far outrun social advancement, and the need for social and cultural progress is urgent. Today's graduate must spearhead the drive to develop better understanding among mankind, and to establish a relationship among the peoples of the world that will make peace and security a reality.

SUGAR GROVE

Lower Prices In Days of Yore Documented

With the gas prices being an economical issue these days, the writer thought it would be interesting to take a look at entertainment prices within the county from 1746-1824. Since the county court fixed the prices, it was a breach of the law to charge more than the authorized price.

•1746-hot diet, 12.5¢; cold diet, 8¢; bed w/clean sheets, 4¢; feather bed and clean sheets, $6.00; stabling and fodder, 8¢; rum per gallon, $1.50; corn or oats per gallon, $6.00; stabling and hay per night, $5.00; and whiskey per gallon, $1.00; and 182457,000 square feet of industrial space where there was once a thriving shoe manufacturing plant and, later, where Softrac America's busy work was conducted.

The 57,000-square-foot space is divided equally between the assembly line production of furniture and other wooden craft products and the warehouse storage of those products for wholesalers, notably for the A. C. Moore company, which owns numerous wood products stores in the eastern U.S.

At any given time, said Al Gorman, Wood Line's CEO, there will be approximately $150,000 worth of Wood Line products in storage waiting to be shipped to customers from the company's production/ storage facility in the Pendleton Business Center.

Most Graduation Rituals Stem from English Customs

Sugar Grove

By Paula Mitchell

Graduation is a sacred rite of passage. It's the act of crossing the threshold after years of hard work and studious dedication into a new beginning of a new life stage.

Let's take a look at some traditions that surround the graduation process.

The instantly recognizable tune, played during the processional march as graduates arrive to collect their degree, was composed and performed in 1902 to honor the coronation of King Edward VII of Great Britain. It made its debut to the United States graduation in 1905 when Yale University bestowed an honorary degree on the song's composer, Edward Elgar. It quickly spread to other schools soon after.

The graduation gowns evolved from clerics' long garments that were worn by medieval scholars as far back as the 12th century. An interesting theory maintains that they not only symbolized the scholars' status, but also provided a way to keep warm in the drafty, unheated buildings. In the 19th century, American colleges and universities attempted to standardize the gowns, giving special attention to the sleeves. Pointed long sleeves were for bachelor's degree recipients, long closed sleeves for master's degrees and round open sleeves for doctor's degrees. All gowns were to be black, period.

Caps originated as long hoods before evolving into skull caps and ultimately into square, flat mortarboards, sometime in the 1700s. Hoods remained a part of the costume, but hung down the wearer's back rather than sitting atop their heads.

The 1895 code called for caps to be black as well. "Each cap shall be ornamented with a long tassel attached to the middle point at the top." By all accounts, before tassels became standard equipment, mortarboards were often topped by pom-poms.

Goals are always set in place. This past weekend ended the high school career of seniors. It is wished that they have continued success in whatever goals are set in place for their future. Those graduates from the Sugar Grove area were Margaret Connor, Myra Mitchell (salutatorian), Allden Rexrode, Tanner Rodgers, Dillon Smith, and Dustin Smith. The writer is wishing for their dreams and hopes to come true through hard work and dedication. Congratulations!

Life's little instructions include the following:

- 1. Plant a garden.
- 2. Play UNO.
- 3. Watch clouds float by.
- 4. Feed the birds.

Franklin Town Council Remembers Glover, Makes Decision of Spruce Street

By Stephen Smoot

May's Town of Franklin council meeting opened and closed with thoughts of former mayor and council member Genevieve Glover, who passed away on May 10. The Hunting Ground native served for 36 years as Pendleton County Schools financial secretary. For 35 years, she also provided experienced leadership to town government, working as town recorder, council member, and also mayor.

Mayor Bob Horan noted that as mayor, Glover always opened with a prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance. He then gave an invocation and prayed, "Please be with her as she travels to You."

Town business opened directly afterward.

With the Tree City USA representative absent to give that organization's presentation, the council turned next to Mon Forest Towns. Amber Nesselrodt came on their behalf to propose naming Michelle Connor as Franklin's alternate representative to the organization. She will replace Sam Wood, who recently resigned.

Later in the meeting, council members heard how Mon Forest Towns provides member cities with grant writing assistance without charge. Sarah Cunningham will meet with town officials later in the month to coordinate. Nesselrodt stated that assistance from Mon Forest Towns was geared "to meet the needs of locals and of people who visit."

5. Look at the stars.

Much needed rain fell Friday night and into the early Saturday morning hours. In this area, around 1.5 inches fell. The rain will make sure lawn mowers are busy buzzing around lawns. Hats off to the homeowners who are weed eating on banks and around fence posts. This all adds to the "Almost Heaven" appearance to which Sugar Grove is noted. Farmers are greasing up their mowers in order to mow their fields. Nature has said that it is time for mowing!

This week's quotes are as follows:

- "A harmonious family leads to prosperity in everything." Chinese Proverb
- "The woods are lovely, dark and deep, but I have promises to keep, and miles to go before I sleep." - Robert Frost.
- "Do what you can, with what you've got, where you are." - Teddy Roosevelt

"Education is the passport to the future, for tomorrow belongs to those who prepare for it today." - Malcolm X

"The only way to do great work is to love what you do." — Steve Jobs

Sitting inside is a good place to hear the "Talk of the Grove."

Primary election was held last Tuesday with 21 percent of the Sugar Grove precinct residents casting their vote. At one time, it was not at all unusual for everyone to come out and vote with persons bringing in residents who otherwise had no way of getting to the polls to cast their vote. Perhaps in the fall, the General Election will bring more out to increase this percentage. Hats off to those running for any office. Virginia Propst, age 101, has had a record for voting, missing one or two elections in her lifetime. Her daughter, Ruth, brought her to Sugar Grove to vote once again. She is a dedicated patriotic citizen. What a wonderful role model!

Flowers continue to show forth their glory. The irises are beautiful this year with unusually beautiful ones blooming in the yard of Melissa and Rodney Dahmer.

Autumn Olive trees have become quite invasive in all necks of the woods. The writer is wondering if there is a real need for them.

Dolan Paul, the emu, still continues to greet motorists along the Sinnett Lane roadway. Not many motorists can brag about that!

Saturday visitors in the home of Willard and Judy Rader were Bob and Marti Fisher of Romney.

The Steven Propst sale got rained out Saturday; however, a nice crowd came out Sunday afternoon to finish the sale. St. John Lutheran Church sold food with barbecue hot dogs being the top seller.

spent the weekend in Piney Point, Maryland. They fished and toured the PAX River Naval Air Museum. Ben and Emma got to spend time in a flight simulator. They also toured Piney Point Lighthouse and Maritime Museum.

Evelyn Varner attended the funeral of Michael Grogg, son of Russell and Kathleen Hughes Grogg, this past Saturday. Then on Sunday, she attended the 92nd birthday party for Junior Grogg at Riven Rock.

Clickety-clacks for the chin waggers are as follows:

at last month's meeting, the condition of the road on Airport Hill. "After last month's meeting," he said, "I looked into what it will take to pave Airport Hill." He also stated that performing the full job may lay beyond the town's finances, but that more information should better inform the decision.

Wehrle spoke with a paving company about a three phase project on Airport Hill, as well as potentially resurfacing Confederate Road, South Branch Street, and Lee Street. The quotes for the jobs will be shared at the next council meeting.

He said at the very least, they might be able to grade Airport Hill to a level safe for vehicles, but that parts of the road could not be widened without significant and costly work.

The town will apply for grants to cover the work.

Council members then discussed a proposal brought to the town to make Spruce Street one way going east from Main Street. It was revealed that a curious arrangement governed "ownership" of Franklin streets. The town has control over streets that cross Main Street to the west while the West Virginia Department of Highways "owns" those extending to the east.

Those who proposed the one-way status said that cars emerging from Spruce onto Main had difficulty seeing traffic.

making deliveries. He and other council members did make a point to say that Potomac Hardware does a responsible job of scheduling and managing their Main Street deliveries.

He also said, "Yeah, you have to inch out, but you have to do that on several of the streets."

The mayor then put the question to the council and asked them to vote "yay or nay" on a motion to not act on the matter. Jarred Rawson said "I say nay" and the motion to not change the street patterns passed without dissent.

A representative from Thrasher gave the monthly update on the water project. More than 90 percent of the project is now complete. Thrasher did locate a 100 gallon per minute leak in the system and the representative said "hopefully (we can) capture critical need funds" to repair it "as quick as we can."

At the close of the meeting,

Kristen Dingess, council member, said, "I'd like to thank her for standing up.'

Frank Wehrle, town administrator, then spoke on an issue raised

Elizabeth Scott stated that two Main Street stores would encounter difficulties in receiving shipments by truck, should the council decide in favor of making Spruce Street one way. Council member Russ Sasso offered that "doesn't work logistically for me at all," adding that the town would just see more trucks parked on Main Street council members discussed and approved a memorial gift from the general fund in honor of Glover.

Pendleton County Drug Recovery Outreach Group Seeks Help

By Stephen Smoot

Potomac Highlands Guild's Bethany Perez has labored over the past several months to establish and expand drug recovery outreach efforts across Pendleton County.

Now Perez, her newly hired colleague, Saprena Day, and others working in recovery outreach are working to bring their message of sobriety and support to others across the county and the state.

As soon as Day completes her training, she will be one of two recovery coaches, the first time Pendleton County has had that many.

The recovery outreach group led by Perez and Day recently brainstormed ideas on how to bring help to those who need it most, particularly the homeless. Of course, the ravages of addiction often cost people their jobs, families, and, many times, the security of having a home. In general, as Perez puts it, the group's attitude is "We just want to give back."

Perez serves as PHG's peer recovery support specialist, but the group she established is not part of the guild. PHG does, however, support the recovery outreach group by providing a space in which to meet.

While bringing help to the homeless remains their major goal, Perez shared that finding homeless in need in Pendleton County has proved difficult. It's not that Pendleton County has escaped this social ill, but that homelessness in rural areas looks very different than the same condition in cities.

Therefore, the recovery group has decided to expand their assistance plan. First, they will redouble efforts to reach the homeless in the area, while also encouraging those in such straits to reach out and come to them. Second, the group chose to select two cities in West Virginia to target. They will go to concentrations of homeless to offer donated goods and an ear to listen.

Cities under consideration include Charleston, Martinsburg, Huntington, and other major state cities. Donations provided so far include dry shampoo, body wipes, Narcan, fentanyl test strips (to determine if a substance has fentanyl in it), and lots of hygiene kits. Hygiene kits include feminine products.

They also have non perishable food and drinks. Day shared that "we have some canned goods." Additionally, they will hand out drinks "to keep them hydrated" in increasingly hot summer temperatures.

Perez and Day also shared that they would welcome donations of supplies for which they remain in need, including shaving products, deodorant, feminine products, and other basic toiletries. Food that does not require cooking and is non-perishable, as well as canned or bottled drinks, are also needed.

The main obstacle to the recovery outreach group's plans is money. They have planned three community fundraisers to try and collect funds needed to transport the group and supplies to their destinations.

The first will occur this Saturday and Sunday. Group members will hold a bake sale in the parking lot of PHG, next door to the BP station. At the same location on June 15 and 16, they will sell art created by members of the group and donated to others. July's fundraiser on the 13th and 14th will be a yard sale of donated items.

Perez shared that those in need should reach out to her. She encouraged the Pendleton Times to share her contact information. She can be reached at (304) 703-5436, (304) 358-2351, or Bethany.Perez@potomachighlandsguild.com

For the Board of Public Works positions statewide, Pendleton County voters mainly selected those who won across the state. In the county, incumbent Kent Leonhardt earned more votes than his other two opponents, Roy Ramey and Joshua Higginbotham combined. J. B. McCluskey also prevailed over former United States Attorney Mike Stuart. For Secretary of State, Kris Warner bested Ken Reed, Brian Wood, and Doug Skaff for the job currently held by his brother, Mac Warner.

The only outlier on the Board of Public Works was Pendleton County's support for former House Finance Chair Eric Householder, who lost the race statewide for auditor to Mark Hunt. Caleb Hanna and Tricia Jackson also ran for that office.

Larry Pack had no opposition for treasurer.

Thornton Cooper ran unopposed for Secretary of State on the Democratic side, as did Mary Ann Roebuck Clayton for auditor and Deborah Stiles for commissioner of agriculture.

Huntington mayor Steve Williams ran unopposed for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Attorney General Patrick Morrisey won in a landslide locally, but by more slender margins statewide, for governor on the Republican ticket. He had more than 200 votes than his nearest competitor, Moore Capito.

In a surprise result not duplicated statewide, former delegate and Jan. 6th defendant Derrick Evans won the county vote for U.S. House of Representatives. Carol Miller won statewide, but lost Pendleton County 441 to 392.

Congressman Alex Mooney also fell short in his attempt to defeat Governor Jim Justice for GOP nomination for US Senate. On the Democratic side, Zachary Shrewsbury garnered more local votes than Don Blankenship and Glenn Elliot for that office.

And for president, no surprises here either. Joe Biden won nomination in the county, state, and nation from the Democratic Party for president. Former president and current frontrunner in this election, Donald Trump, received 914 county votes. The next nearest competitor, former South Carolina Governor Nikki Haley, got 70.

Book Presented to Pendleton County Library

The Pendleton County Library was the recipient of the book "Genealogical, Burial & Service Data for Revolutionary War Patriots Buried in West Virginia" compiled by the West Virginia State Society Daughters of the American Revolution. This book was the project of Cheryl Brown, former West Virginia State Regent, and was created as a companion to the book, "Genealogical, Burial & Service Data for Revolutionary War Patriots Buried in Virginia" produced by the Virginia Society Sons of the American Revolution. That book did not include the counties that became part of West Virginia in 1863.

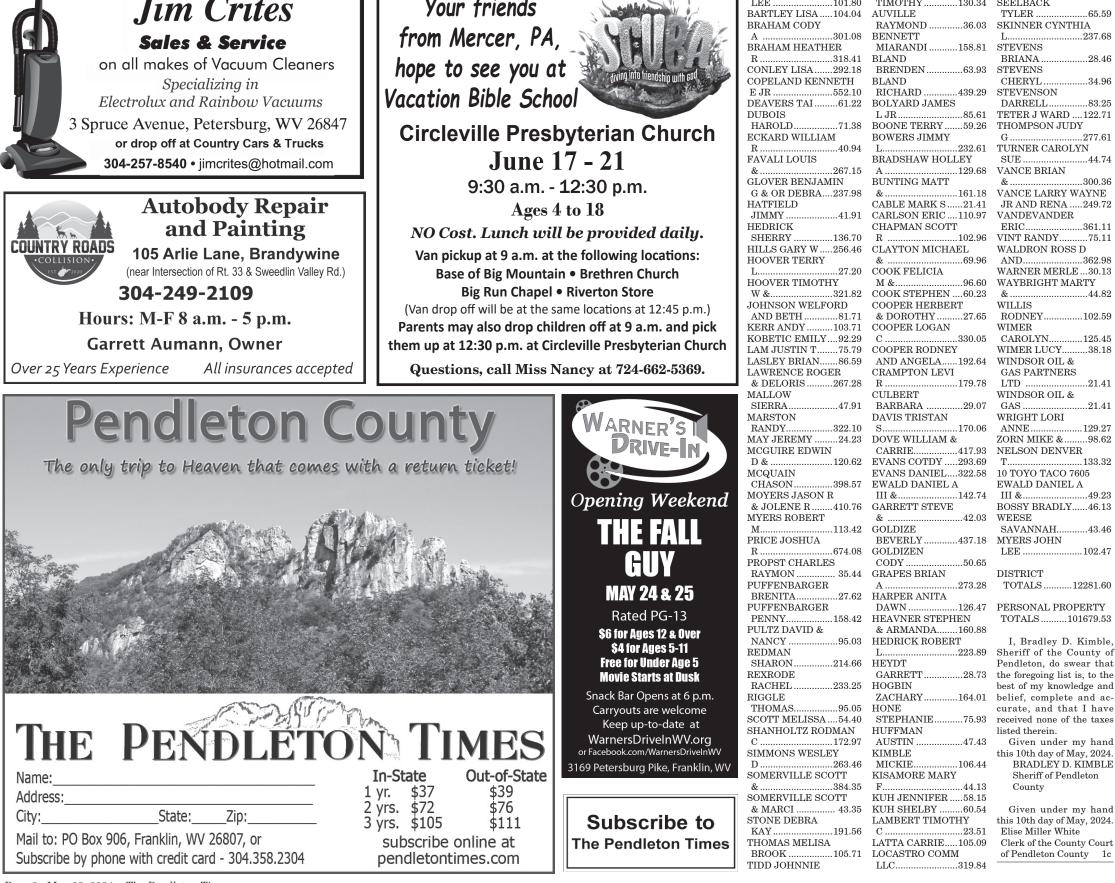

Based on DAR ancestor listing, more than 2,000 patriots might be buried in West Virginia as well as other patriots who have not yet been accepted by the DAR. As a result of the research and work of WVDAR chapters, this publication includes 1,030 names of Revolutionary War patriots who were proved to be buried in West Virginia. Other information in each listing includes the spouse's name, a brief biography of the patriot, burial location (with GPS

Why Is 3 p.m. Important On Memorial Day?

The National Moment of Remembrance, established by Congress, asks Americans wherever they are at 3 p.m., local time, on Memorial Day to pause in an act of national unity (duration: one minute). The time 3 p.m. was chosen because it is the time when most Americans are enjoying their freedoms on the national holiday.
