Girl Scout Troop 38205 Junior Members Earn Bronze Award For "Kits for Kids"

Junior members of Girl Scout Troop 38205, Addie Collins, Bella Nicholas, Carissa Sands, Jasmyne Tingler and Trinity Probasco, completed a Bronze Award for their project "Kits for Kids" on Monday, Sept. 20.

According to their troop leaders, the Bronze Award is the highest honor a Girl Scout Junior can achieve:

"Through the project, they developed more confidence, met new people, and had the kind of fun that happens when you work with other Girl Scouts to make a difference."

According to Black Diamond Girl Scout Council, the girls are the first in Calhoun County to earn the Bronze Award. The project was completed in September and required the better part of a year to finish.

To start its Bronze, the team completed the journey, "Agents of Change," and a Take Action Project (TAP).

For the TAP, scouts donated to Ritchie County Humane Society, learned about animal adoption, and educated others on what they had learned.

After that, the scouts created their Bronze team, explored their community, and found a need that they wanted to help with--foster children in Calhoun County.

The girls worked together, made an action plan to complete their tasks, divided the work up, and each completed 20 hours of community service.

When asked why they chose this project, the girls gave the following reasons:

--To help kids fit in and feel like that have their own stuff when they go to a new home.

--To help turn a negative situation into a positive by getting them tools to help cope with the situation.

--Writing/drawing journals, crayons, markers, fidgets, stuffies, and blankets will help provide a way to relieve stress, getting their mind off the situation.

The members went outside of their comfort zones to email, call and talk to adults, organize guest speakers at their meetings, and seek partners to help make Kits for Kids a success.

The program will provide items such as journals, stress toys, books, luggage, stuffed animals and blankets on the night that children are removed from the home.

The items are to help with the feelings that the kids may have on that scary day, provide items that they can call their own, and not have to pack their belongings in plastic bags.

The members also learned that sometimes children are taken when it is close to their birthdays; therefore, they created birthday bags that include cake and icing with a tag that says, "Happy Birthday," complete with ribbon.

With the help of DHHR, Calhoun County Schools, Foodland, Save the Children, community members and businesses, the day that children are removed from the home, they will receive a Kit for Kids package.

This will be an ongoing program started by 2021 Bronze Team members of Troop 38205. If you are looking for a way to support the community, donations to help sustain the program are accepted at DHHR.

On Wednesday, Oct. 6, 6 p.m., at the Lions Club building in Grantsville, Troop 38205 will have a bridging and dedication ceremony.

Current and future Scouts will move up in levels and commit to the next year of Girl Scouts.

Girls are welcome to join throughout the year, and Oct. 6 will be a great opportunity for new girls to join.

If your daughter is in grades k-12 and interested in volunteering, you are invited to attend the ceremony.

Contact Sarah Tingler or Maggie Probasco for information.

Calhoun Returns To 'Green' After 38 Days 'Unsafe'

After 353 coronavirus cases in 30 days, Calhoun has declined in new cases for the past three weeks.

Cases rose in consecutive weeks from 5 to 14 to 63 to 140 from Aug. 11-17 to Sept. 1-7, but have now dropped from 86 to 52 to 28 as of Tuesday.

After spending four days under "gold" alert last week, the county changed to "yellow" on Monday (the same day it went over the 800-level of cases) and to the safest "green" level on Tuesday--one of three green counties in the state--along with Tucker and Pocahontas.

It is the first time in green for Calhoun since Aug. 26.

The county's 28 cases in the past week, including a report of zero on Tuesday--which left the county with 805 COVID-19 cases since the pandemic began.

Calhoun's infection rate on Tuesday was 34.16, after being in the 190s earlier in the month.

The county's 28 cases in the past week was the lowest in the seven-county area--as the area total decreased to 518, after weeks of 627 and 652.

New cases in addition to Calhoun's 28 in the last week (and county totals) are: Braxton, 147 (1,857); Roane, 104 (1,189); Ritchie, 95 (1,286); Wirt, 58 (732); Clay, 44 (1,042); and Gilmer, 42 (1,194).

Counties in the state with cases under 1,000 are as follows: Wirt, 732; Calhoun, 805; Tucker, 926; and Webster, 953.

New West Virginia cases increased by 11,230, down from 12,593 the previous week. The number of deaths reported was 131, down from 180 last week.

The number of new cases in the United States, 834,707, took a dramatic decrease for the second straight week, dropping from 966,858 last week and 1,274,976 the previous week. Total cases since the pandemic began is 43,942,335.

Deaths in the U.S. were reported as 14,505, up from 14,337 last week and 13,723 the previous week.

A Night at the Museum

by Maricia Mlynek

Calhoun County Historical Society is excited to share a tour of our historic Stump House Hotel and Museum on Saturday, Oct. 23, at 6 p.m., 7 p.m., and 8 p.m.

Stump House Hotel is a gem from a bygone era. Through the society's decorating touches and attention to historic detail, this structure still maintains its original charm.

If you have been on our regular tour, then you already know that you are in for a treat. This event will come with an additional trick or two.

Our theme for the event is "Til Death Do Us Part," with a nod to Great Expectations character Miss Havisham.

This will not be your "typical" haunted house tour. There will be no chainsaws or zombies.

Our hummingbird population is down from 20 or more a week or so ago to scarcely one. Last week seemed to be the turning point; whether it was the length of daylight hours or the drop in temperatures, our little friends have flown the coop.

We usually monitor the feeders after our flock has left to search for migrating hummers from more northern climates, and we should begin to see some of them fairly soon.

We think of our feeders as gas stations to be used by the weary travelers on their epic annual journey of thousands of miles to escape the cold of winter, much like folks from here who winter in more hospitable places like Florida or Arizona.

The lightning bugs of the holler are no more, but our yard is still lit up at night by little glow worms in the grass, which are the larvae of next year's lightning bugs.

Sometimes, I stand on our deck watching the little guys send their messages, and look forward to watching them fly around fascinating our grandchildren and great-grandchildren, who tend to ask thousands of questions:

Why don't they burn up if their butts are on fire? Are the flashes of light some kind of code, like Morse code for bugs.

Regardless of whether or not I know the answers to their inquiries, I know that I love to hear their questions, because curiosity is the only way that they can advance their knowledge.

Even the cavemen were curious, and the world we see around us today is the result of that curiosity. On second thought, perhaps without curiosity, we would all still be happy hunter-gatherers rather than 9-to-5 worker bees doing whatever it takes to keep our heads above water.

COVID-19 is still pounding the unvaccinated, and even infecting some who are fully vaccinated, although with lighter symptoms usually than the unvaccinated.

You know what you need to do. I am not your mother or father. If either of them asked you to get vaccinated, for their sake, would you do it?

I did an interview on Monday with Crystal Laughlin Mersh, new owner of the former Calhoun County High School facilities and founder of the 1982 Foundation, a non-profit that plans to use the location and building to create a community center.

I will write this story for publishing in next week's paper in hopes that some of you will find this idea fascinating enough to attend a picnic that the foundation is hosting at the grand old school on Saturday, Oct. 9.

I am very happy to see that the proud, 100-year-old structure is going to be a focal point in the county once again. Back in 1920-21, just the fact that the school was being built was enough to fire up a land rush on the south side of Grantsville.

There was a big auction of land parcels that was kicked off by a man flying a stunt plane and selling rides in the newest form of transportation in the world, at the time. Ahhh, the excitement of witnessing innovation in person, while riding in a horse-drawn buggy on dirt roads.

Now that fall is here, the time has come to get the family out and about so that this beautiful weather can be fully enjoyed before frost adorns the pumpkins and the trees lose all of their colorful leaves.

The sun is about to return to its active phase, which means that there is a chance for more and bigger sunspots and coronal mass ejections (CMEs) that are the driving force behind Aurora Borealis, northern lights, becoming massive enough to be seen as far south as we live.

While these phenomena are quite breathtaking, they can be very disruptive. In September of 1859, there was a huge eruption from sunspots on the sun that caused some telegraph offices to catch fire from the electricity generated in the telegraph wires from the charged particles making up the northern lights.

This Week In History

The following reports are taken from The Calhoun Chronicle archives:

1921, 100 years ago

Ernest Gainer and family of Revere have taken apartments in the Stemple building. Mr. Gainer is employed by Hope Gas Co.

Mrs. O.C. Howard of Cameron arrived here last week and will spend the winter with her husband at this place. They have secured rooms in the Gates residence on River St.

G.W. and A. Hardman have lumber and material on the ground for the erection of two dwellings on the rear of their Main St. lots. The buildings will be constructed at once and will be for rent.

Recent deals were consummated by which R.P. Mollohan and Wm. Deems sold their interests in Smith Store to B.G. Stump and J. Harry Smith, leaving the latter named partners as sole owners of that popular emporium. Smith will succeed Mollohan in the active management of the store. Miss Mary Jackson, who has been employed in the county clerk's office, has taken a position in Smith Store, having charge of the books and accounts. During the past 18 months, the store has enjoyed a phenomenal growth of trade, due to the liberal policy it has pursued with its customers, and we have no doubt that the business will continue to grow under the new management.

Mr. Mollohan has not fully decided what line of business he will enter, but it is likely he will not leave Grantsville.

Quite a few of the Odd Fellows of this place attended lodge at Cairo last Saturday night.

Stumptown and Apple Farm played a baseball game on Saturday, and the former team won by a score of 12-8. The teams will play again next Saturday.

On Monday and Tuesday evenings, the Booger Hole baseball team came to our diamond, bringing one of the fastest teams that was ever here. Two good games were played. Mt. Zion taking the first one by a score of 13 to 6 and Booger Hole the second by the score of 9 to 2.

The first game went along nicely until the seventh inning, the score being 5 to 3 in Booger Hole's favor, but Umstead's homer with one man on base evened it up, and from then on it was a merry-go-round for Mt. Zion. Kight went to the mound in the eighth inning for Booger Hole, relieving Loudon, but it was too late, as Umstead's pitching for Mt. Zion was steady, and only one man scored after the fifth inning.

The second game started out as if it would be a hard fought battle, but in the fourth inning the Mt. Zion boys started throwing wild and let in five scores.

Wilson, pitching for Mt. Zion, did excellent work, and if his support had been good, the score would have been much closer. Hickel, for Booger Hole, lived up to the reputation that has been given him as a twirler.

1946, 75 years ago

With over 150 representatives from eight counties assembled at Chancellor Hotel in Parkersburg on Saturday, a permanent organization was set up for this area, with "Little Kanawha Regional Council" selected as the name.

Officers selected for the permanent organization were Sattis Simmons of Ripley, president; Judge Max DeBerry of Harrisville, vice president; Mulford Smith of Parkersburg, secretary; and Lloyd E. Gregg of Sistersville, treasurer. These officers were elected to a term of one year. Constitution and by-laws were also presented and adopted at the meeting.

Mr. Simmons made the keynote address: "We come here because we are convinced that the small town and rural communities are the backbone of America, and if they are to continue in such a position, they must not lose sight of their importance."

"We must take definite steps to make our communities places of interest, adventure and economic independence for our young people. We of an older generation must prove how desirable, how pioneering, how attractive this place can be. We must make it a place where there is opportunity for those who dare, a place of challenge for the ambitious. We must above all else keep pace with a fast moving world."

In his address to the assembly, Mr. Simmons told of the enthusiasm with which the projected area council had been received in all the counties concerned, and described the resources of this section of the Ohio Valley. He outlined the 10 major aims of the council, and told of the needs of the counties of this area for the work proposed in the program.

A.C. Spurr, president of the Monongahela Power Co., also addressed the assembly, and stated in part:

"We must look to the newspapers as leaders of community thought and by the same token as the newspapers must be recognized as leaders in community development, if they are to grow and prosper. The newspapers are the leaders--the sponsors--in this new association. If this movement is to succeed, more than the comparative handful of leaders is needed. The job ahead is too vast, too heavy for the shoulders of a few willing workers. We all have a stake in the area's future. We must think of this organization as belonging to each and all of us--one that requires our active support, if we are to benefit from it."

Those attending from Calhoun County were Sue Ayers, George Strader, Z.N. Connolly, Earl Sturm, Victor Brannon, Fred Burroughs, Lewis Smith, Abbie Russell, James McFadden and Olin J. Barrows.

Sampson was reported to have been driving a Scout vehicle along a pipeline right-of-way when the vehicle overturned and rolled over an embankment.

Denver P. McCumbers, also of Orma, who was riding with him, was treated at the hospital for a head injury and multiple lacerations.

Sampson was operator of a tractor sales and service business in the Orma area. He was born Aug. 13, 1946, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sampson.

CURIOSITY CORNER

by Dr. Jerry D. Wilson,
Emeritus Professor of Physics,
Lander University

Question: Dr. Wilson, some soaps and cleaners are advertised to "kill 99.99% of germs." How do they know this and what does the killing? (Asked by an anonymous sanitizer from cyberspace.)

Reply: Germs are microorganisms, and the term "germ" is usually used to refer to pathogenic (disease-causing) bacteria. I assume the kill percentage is obtained with bacterial cultures. You swab the unwashed hands and inoculate a culture plate on which bacteria colonies will grow. Then, you wash the hands with "antibacterial" soap and take another swab. The second plate would be virtually empty of colonies if 99.99% of bacteria were killed. How they get down to the .99% I do not know.

Most liquid soaps contain bacteria-killing chemicals, such as alcohol or chlorine. Antibacterial soaps contain additional chemicals, such as triclosan or triclocarbon. Both are highly effective in killing bacteria. Recent studies have shown that antibacterial soaps are no more effective than plain soaps in reducing bacteria levels on the hands. The difference is that plain soap washing requires a longer washing time.

How long? One researcher suggested as long as it takes to sing "Row, Row, Row Your Boat." (I always visualize surgeons before an operation scrubbing up big time with brushes like you see in old movies, or in the "scrub room" on M*A*S*H*.)

In hospitals, antibacterial soaps may be helpful in killing bacteria that can be spread when the staff goes from one patient to another. The wide spread use of antibacterial chemicals could lead to the mutation of bacteria that become resistant to them. Also, bacteria could become resistant to antibiotics after exposure to the chemicals.

I'll talk more about bacteria next week. Not all bacteria are "germs" (pathogens). In fact, we could not live without some of the little critters.

We have seen the aurora here in my lifetime. Back in 2001, just after the 9/11 terrorist attack on the World Trade Center, there were bright red aurora that appeared in the northern sky for hours.

There have been other sightings since then, and

Our goldfinches, with the exception of one brightly colored holdout, have molted into their drab winter colors, and their population has diminished somewhat.

I guess many of the birds that live here through the summer don't like our winters as much as we do.

Oh well, we will see them next spring and welcome them to their summer home with sunflower seeds and suet cakes.

811 Day – Call Before You Dig!

We have seen several items in the news recently about ruptured gas lines and the destruction they can cause. Property has been damaged and an equipment operator was injured when he struck a two-inch gas line.

WV811 is a free service that coordinates with utilities to locate underground pipes and wires before you put a shovel in the ground. You are legally required to call 811 at least 48 hours before you excavate.

The One Call law is enforced by the West Virginia Damage Prevention Board (DPB). The Public Service Commission is an active member of the DPB.

The DPB aggressively investigates every reported violation of the 811 law and, although relatively new, has taken 18 actions to date. Anyone can report an alleged violation by going to www.WVDPB.com, clicking on "Report Violation" and filling out the form. A board member who represents WV811 will first check to see if a WV811 ticket was issued for the work. If not, the report is forwarded to the full board for review. The Board will contact the parties involved and collect all the pertinent information. Then a determination is made as to whether there was a violation.

For a first offence, the violator will receive a letter that explains the law and the nature of their violation. They will be required to watch an instructional video and to pay a $25 fine. The goal is more to educate than to punish. If there are repeat violations, the size of the penalties will increase. Violators may be charged with a misdemeanor and fined up to $5,000 per incident.

If you do strike an underground utility line, call 911 immediately. It is vital that you do not attempt to make repairs to utility lines on your own. Repairs that are not properly made and documented by the utility company can cause even bigger problems in the future.

It's always better to be safe than sorry, so always call 811 before you dig.

This Week In West Virginia History

Rural free mail delivery began in West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle on Oct. 1, 1896.

The following events happened from Sept. 30-Oct. 6 in West Virginia history. To read about West Virginia's people, history, places, science, arts and culture, visit www.wvencyclopedia.org.

Sept. 30, 2010: Facing an economic downturn and foreign competition, Wheeling-La Belle Nail Co. (shown below) closed. The company was founded in 1852 as LaBelle Ironworks. By 1875, the city was known as the Nail City, and La Belle was Wheeling's leading nail producer.

Oct. 1, 1896: Rural Free Delivery began in West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle (shown above). Before this, there was no rural mail delivery, although more than half the country's citizens lived in rural areas.

Oct. 2, 1923: Medal of Honor recipient Woody Williams was born in Edmond, Fayette County. During World War II, he neutralized seven concrete pillboxes at the Battle of Iwo Jima.

Oct. 4, 1934: Sam Huff was born near Morgantown. He was part of a fearsome defense that led West Virginia University to a 38-7 record between 1952 and 1955, including three consecutive wins over rival Penn State.

Oct. 5, 1992: Andrews Methodist Episcopal Church in Grafton was designated as a National Historic Landmark, one of only 16 in the state. The first Mother's Day observance took place at the church on May 10, 1908.

Oct. 6, 1864: Labor activist Sarah "Mother" Blizzard was born in Edmond, Fayette County. She was involved in the United Mine Workers of America from the organization's early beginnings in the late 19th century.

My Home Among the Hills

by Melody Walburn

I promised last week that I wouldn't go on and on about fall. Boy, I wish I hadn't done that! I have been waxing sentimental about fall since Thursday. Mother Nature must have been in the mood for a change too, because she brought the fall temperatures and weather in with a bang this weekend. I loved every minute of it.

I know that we have not seen the end of summer-like weather, but just knowing that cooler temperatures are on the way and will be the norm soon makes me so happy. Maybe it's because I am tired of my summer clothes. When the weatherman predicted cool weather for Thursday morning, I skipped to the closet in my guest room to pick out a new lightweight sweater to wear to school. On Friday, I was able to wear my Calhoun County sweatshirt with my jeans. It might seem a small thing, but it brought me joy.

My fall feels continued on Friday afternoon when I received a text from my sister. She invited me to join her at the parents' house for a campfire in the backyard. I stopped by on my way home from school to check on Rascal, and then headed to my home among the hills to change my clothes. The evening was a perfect fall night. It was even cool enough for a blanket. The sky was crystal clear, and even in town, the Milky Way in all its glory was quite visible. My dad and Maricia were even lucky enough to see a falling star streak across the sky.

It was also very nice to turn off all of the air-conditioning units and fans, and throw open the windows for some fresh air. The house got chilly enough for me to put my Grandma Haught blanket on my bed and to pull out my weighted blanket for the couch. I slept like a baby on Friday night and spent Saturday morning snuggled up on my new leather couch under my blanket writing my lesson plans for the coming week.

After I finished my lesson plans, I emptied the dishwasher, did a load of laundry, and cleaned my bathrooms. Speaking of bathrooms, I heard from my contractor this week. He was letting me know that the shower that I picked out was no longer available, and suggested an alternative, which I accepted. Unfortunately, he also let me know that he wouldn't be able to start my renovation until December. It looks like my new bathroom will be my birthday/Christmas present to myself.

Saturday evening, I went back to the parents' house to check on Rascal. Dad had taken him back to the vet in Parkersburg to have him groomed and, hopefully, to have his stitches removed. The grooming did take place, and he looks great, smells great, and is soft and fluffy again. Unfortunately, his stitches had to be replaced by a couple staples, and he is still wearing his little cone. The vet said that he will be fine, but the healing process will take a couple more weeks. Until then, he seems to have adapted to wearing the cone.

Once again, I slept soundly under my blankets and awoke to another beautiful fall day on Sunday. I woke up early, so I spent a few hours snuggled up on the couch reading a mystery. I had other things that I could have been doing, but I decided to live in the moment and savor the peace and quiet of a Sunday morning. In the afternoon, I helped my mom make pepperoni rolls. Maricia and Andy came down for lunch, and we ate on the back deck.

After spending a few hours on the deck with the family, I headed home to write my article and to grade some papers. I made myself a caramel macchiato and settled in for a few hours of work. I put a Hallmark movie on for inspiration; you don't really have to pay much attention to those to keep the storyline. My goal was to have everything finished before supertime, so I could have a relaxing evening.

The weatherman is calling for warmer weather on Monday and Tuesday, so my love affair with fall may take a back burner for a few days, but I know it will return soon. In a few weeks, I will be wearing sweaters and sweatshirts on a regular basis. The blankets will go on the beds, and my fireplaces will be lit. As a sign of the upcoming holidays, I will get my candles out of storage and place them in all of my windows. I love coming home to those twinkling lights!

October arrives this week, and I am looking forward to all it will bring. Make sure you check out Stump Hotel; it is decorated for our upcoming event on the 23rd. I think it looks eerily elegant and sophisticatedly spooky.

Amie offers some notes about the Civil War and the weather on the West Fork.
Jan 12th 1862.

This day Louisa is forty years of age! Can it be possible. Allan G. reached home last night from F. Creek. The waters are up quite high, & to night it is still raining. We got but little good news, or no news of any description of the war.

Oh! how lonely & depressed is my spirit to night. "I am desolate & afflicted. The troubles of my heart are enlarged," Redeem Israel, O God, out of his troubles. Oh! I trust a better day will soon arrive. "I had fainted, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living."

It will not be always to night! God knows how drear

Is the earth's poor trembling light, & He will hear

Each whispered prayed
And note each falling tear.

Yes I will try to be patient & cheerful, & resigned to the Divine will. "There is no life so blest as that of calm resignation to the Divine will."

19th Ten years ago, this day, Uncle Pascal P. Young<sup>1</sup> died.

25th This is Saturday night the close of another week. And still the days & weeks are passing. Time, speeds hurriedly away. Yet they bring not my husband<sup>2</sup>. The hope of his returning seems like a "perishing hope". There is no hand but Thine

All powerful, & All pitying One, can save!
Giver of Mercies! Turn not from my prayer;
From out the gulping waves lift up my heart;
Through the appalling night bring back its hope,
Its lovely, desolate hope, & bid it live!

Feb. 1st A bright beautiful day ushered in the return of this month. It is February, & are't I glad!

2nd It is the Sabbath & a pleasant day. Allan & Jane came in & sat some time with us this afternoon.

3rd Quite a heavy snow fell in the night, it is the deepest that has fallen this winter. My little cedar tree in the yard was quite loaded with snow, its branches nearly bent to the ground.

Ella climbed up in a chair by the window, & looking out saw the little tree, when she exclaimed "Ma, get me pretty flowers, get me pretty flowers." It is raining this evening, & if it continues the snow will be gone, & the river very full.

Wednesday 6th I spent the day at Louisa's. The weather is pleasant.

7th Captain Simpson<sup>3</sup>'s company arrived to night.

8th Several of the Union troops<sup>4</sup> are stopping at my house. Frank Robinson, Daniel Smith, Alfred Barr, Robert Rogers.

Amie writes two letters to her mother and mentions that she has heard from George, who had been captured and imprisoned.

Arnoldsburg

My Dear Mother

I suppose you are getting quite anxious by this time to hear of my trip home. I am quite happy to say I had a very pleasant one. We had not difficulty in finding the way after Worthington left us. We reached Weston in good season. I done my shopping. I got some right pretty calico for Almira a bask<sup>5</sup>, & Ella an apron, for a shilling per yard.

I called at Lawyer Edmonson<sup>6</sup>'s & spent some time in pleasant conversation with himself & wife. Edmonson said he thought Louisa would have no trouble in getting her money. Her only trouble would be she would have to lay out of it until spring. He & wife insisted very hard I should remain with them over night, but I thought if I went a little farther my ride next day would not be so hard.

I went six miles from Weston to Mr Petty's, a very good place. There was a man & his wife staying there that night who were coming to Glenville next day, so I fell in with very good company, & very good secessionists.

I reached Glenville the second day very early in the afternoon. I intended writing you a letter from Glen. but as I came right on the next day I did not have a very good opportunity.

I found two letters from George<sup>7</sup> awaiting me at Glen. He was well but anxious to be released. I still hope they will be free before Christmas.

<sup>3</sup>Capt. Simpson: Capt. James Simpson, Co. C, 11th W.Va. Inf. (USA), of Parkersburg. He assumed command at the Battle of Bulltown in 1863 when Capt. Mattingly was wounded. Confederate attackers, under W.L. Jackson, called for a truce and for Simpson to surrender. Simpson replied that he would fight until hell froze over, and if he had to retreat, he would retreat on the ice.

<sup>4</sup>Union troops: Union Co. C, 11th Reg. (USA). No information on Frank Robinson and Daniel Smith. Alfred Barr lived in Ritchie Co.; wounded and captured at Winchester in 1864; born about 1839, died in 1890. Robert Rogers, born about 1839 in Ritchie County; wounded in 1864.

Governor's Updates

During his briefing on Friday, Gov. Jim Justice announced that pandemic response teams are on the move, getting booster shots of the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine in the arms of at-risk West Virginians.

After months of debate on the federal level, the CDC has authorized Pfizer booster shots for certain populations, and also recommended a booster dose for those in high risk occupational and institutional settings.

The CDC recommends that:

--People 65 years and older and residents in long-term care settings should receive a booster shot of Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine at least six months after their second dose of Pfizer.

--People aged 50-64 years with underlying medical conditions should receive a booster shot of Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine at least six months after their second dose of Pfizer.

--People aged 18-49 years with underlying medical conditions may receive a booster shot of Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine at least six months after their second Pfizer dose, based on their individual benefits and risks.

--People aged 18-64 years who are at increased risk for COVID-19 exposure and transmission because of occupational or institutional setting may receive a booster shot of Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine at least six months after their second Pfizer dose, based on their individual benefits and risks.

Underlying medical conditions include overweight, high blood pressure, current or former smoker, heart or lung conditions, diabetic, pregnant, liver or kidney disease, received a transplant, cancer, substance use disorder, HIV, stroke or other brain disorder, dementia or other neurological disease, Down Syndrome, and/or sickle cell anemia, etc.

Residents To Get Booster Shot If Eligible

With the percentage of fully vaccinated West Virginians hospitalized for COVID-19 slowly creeping higher, Justice took time during his briefing on Monday to encourage all residents who qualify for a booster shot to get a booster shot:

"In our hospitals, we are approaching 20% that are vaccinated. It's only changed a little teeny bit so far, but what does it tell us? It tells us we really need to get our booster shots because the effectiveness is wearing down.

"If you're 18 or above, you will qualify in some way. I would really highly encourage you to run to the fire again and get that booster shot.

"We jumped out of the gate and we led the nation with our early vaccine distribution. Let's lead the nation in the rollout of our booster shots as well."

If you are eligible for the booster shot, you can go to any location offering COVID-19 vaccines with your vaccination card to receive the booster. If your card has been lost, you can request a new one from the DHHR.

Additional Doses Administered

Justice reported that West Virginia has distributed over 9,400 additional doses of the COVID-19 vaccines since his previous briefing.

"That's pretty good. It's a whole heck of a lot better than when we were doing 3,400 or 4,200 in a weekend," said Justice.

Following a correction in the vaccination data being tracked by the CDC, West Virginia has once again crossed the threshold of 1 million vaccinations statewide.

"More people have stepped up to get vaccinated," said Justice. "All the stuff that we're doing is working, but we always can do even better."

Case Numbers Continue To Fall

Justice reported that the state's total number of active cases has continued to drop; however, as expected, the number of West Virginians in the hospital with severe cases continues to hold near record levels for now.

There are 14,534 active cases, down more than 1,600 since Friday.

The active case count is down by 15,210 cases since peaking just 10 days ago, dropping 51.1% in a week-and-a-half.

The state has seen a small decrease in the number of COVID-related hospitalizations, dropping to 978 after reaching a new peak of 1,012 on Friday.

The number of patients in ICUs has once again tied the all-time peak of 291, but the number of patients on ventilators has dropped slightly to 193 after peaking at 195 on Saturday.

"What all of this tells us is that we're in a hold pattern right at the peak," said Justice. "But it looks like that hold pattern could soon start flowing our way."

State health experts say that, with the overall case count dropping, the number of severe cases should begin declining as well in the weeks ahead.

The statewide death toll from COVID-19 has reached 3,578.

Calhoun Shutout By St. Marys; Taylor Passes For 178 Yds.

by Robert F. Bonar
The Calhoun County Red Devils played their second game in five days on Friday night, hosting St. Marys.

The visiting Blue Devils scored early and often, and left Mt. Zion on the long end of a 48-0 score. The teams entered the game with identical 1-2 records.

During the first possession of the game, St. Marys played very much like it deserved its record, while Calhoun County looked very competitive.

On the third play from scrimmage, Ian Richards knocked a pass out of a Blue Devil receiver's hands, preventing a first down.

The visitors next two plays went for long gains, but both were nullified by holding penalties. The Blue Devils were also guilty of holding on the next play; however, Calhoun's defense jarred the ball loose and Levi Stump recovered.

Calhoun declined the penalty, and took possession at midfield.

The Red Devils punted the ball back to the Blue Devils, who quickly took control of the game by scoring two touchdowns in the first quarter and adding a safety by sacking the Red Devil quarterback in the end zone.

St. Marys scored two touchdowns in the second quarter, while the Red Devils had two good possessions, but simply weren't able to score.

On one possession, the Red Devils had excellent field position after a 30-yard kick return by Grant Sterns, and the team made it all the way to the 10.

Facing a fourth down play with less than a foot to go, the Red Devils tried a pitchout, but the Blue Devils swarmed the ball carrier for a seven-yard loss, and took over on downs.

In the closing minutes of the half, the Red Devils reached the St. Marys nine, thanks to a 52-yard pass from Owen Taylor to Grant Sterns. With no timeouts remaining, Calhoun could not punch the ball in before the clock expired.

After St. Marys scored its fifth touchdown in the third quarter, CCHS made it deep into enemy territory, thanks to a 41-yard pass from Taylor to Ian Richards.

Working the ball to the five, Calhoun attempted a pass that St. Marys intercepted at the goal line, ending the scoring threat.

The Blue Devils' drive following the interception consumed nearly nine minutes, and culminated in another touchdown in the fourth period.

Adding insult to injury, the ensuing kickoff caromed off a Red Devil lineman and bounced right to the Blue Devils, denying Calhoun its first possession of the quarter.

The Red Devils stopped the visitors on their own 21 with about three and a half minutes remaining. On the first play, a St. Marys defensive back picked off another pass and returned it 34 yards for the final score of the game.

The loss dropped Calhoun's record to 1-3, and ended a rough week for the Red Devils. In the two games played, the team scored 14 points while allowing 94, and the offense earned a mere 49 rushing yards.

On Friday night, the Red Devils (1-3) will travel up Rt. 2 to take on long-time pre-season scrimmage foe Paden City (2-2). The Red Devils and Wildcats have scrimmaged for at least 25 years, but have never met for a varsity game. Kickoff is scheduled for 7:00 at Berger Field.

Game Notes: This marked the fifth time in Calhoun's 99-year history that the Red Devils have played two games in one week. The other occurrences were:

1927: Home win over Elkview, 13-6, on a Tuesday (after having played against Tanner the previous Saturday), then a 51-0 loss at Ravenswood on Saturday.

1937: A win at Pennsboro, 27-0, on Monday, then a 13-13 tie at Sistersville that Friday.

1938: A win at Pennsboro, 19-7, on Monday, then a home win against Ripley two days later.

1967: A win at Pennsboro, 18-7, on Monday, then a home loss to St. Marys, 42-7, that Friday.

Creston News

by Alvin Engelke

Rev. Craig Blankenship brought the sermon at Burning Springs M.E. Church.

There were 179 riders in the fall Creston ATV poker run. Many felt that the lower number, in part, reflected the fear that has been spread about the danger of catching the virus.

Almost all of the riders reported a good route, with lots and lots of mud and water. Several had to be extricated and some ended on their sides. Elliot White tipped his chariot over in Bear Run and tossed Sue out. Seems he did that once before.

Sonny Burdette's machine broke whilst out on Hartley Ridge, and Don Hursell and another had dead batteries over near Girta. While going up Macfarlan Creek, riders got to see where the DNR cut down large trees blocking the stream and the road (Ritchie County CR 30).

On the upper end of the devastation, dozers are piling up the rotting logs and the soil is left to erode. In anything resembling a fair world, the DNR bureaucrat, who had the timber cut and left to rot and block the stream and the road, should be made to pay for the value of the logs and the cleanup of the stream and the road. Such should be taken out of his salary and/or retirement and his merit raises should be rescinded.

Riders got to see the work on the old Ruble Church, see clear cuts, producing oil and gas wells, as well as the big TransCanada gas pipeline that takes natural gas to the Gulf of Mexico for export as liquefied natural gas. The gas line generates $1 million/day for the company.

Riders got to check out the famous Munday beach, the local substitute for Myrtle and Miami beaches, where the elites go to play.

Lindsey Taylor won the 50/50, while Jim D. had the best hand, followed by Maycee in second. Third place was a tie with Melissa Chenoweth and Tom Wright from Crane Nest Run.

The community would like to thank all those who came and rode, laid out and set up the trail, put up and took down the ribbons and signs, did all the paperwork, sent out the cards, filled out the forms, signed folks up, parked the vehicles, fixed and served the food, and cleaned the building after it was all over. Visitors noted that there is a new sign out front.

Ted Grim called on Charles Russell at Minnie Hamilton Extended Care Unit.

Oct. 2 will be Pioneer Day in Elizabeth.

Betty Bish underwent back surgery and Kathleen Cervone now has a metal plate in her wrist as a result of a fall. Several local folks, and folks who locals know, have or are getting over bouts with the virus, while others were not so fortunate.

Those who follow such things note that when the government brings large numbers of untested illegal aliens to areas, there is a burst of new cases, often with a new "variant."

It has been made clear that illegal aliens are not subject to any mandates, and they can bring all sorts of disease as, unlike the days of Ellis Island and testing, it is now "Come on in and join the invasion."

A woman who has some friends in the Creston area noted that her daughter had been a surgical nurse for 25 years, but would not take the vaccine (as was the case with others where she works).

The administrators said, "Well, then you will have to work on the COVID floor." If vaccines are dangerous, then OSHA will tell employers not to record it. In this way OSHA, FDA, HHS and CDC can claim that vaccines are safe and effective, because there is no data to the contrary. If vaccines are not truly dangerous, then why engage in this deception?

As attributed to Goebels, "Truth is the mortal enemy of the lie, and thus, by extension, the truth is the greatest enemy of the state."

HG Energy has permitted a number of Pt. Pleasant (Utica) wells in Marshall County.

Ryan Marks and family spent time at the camp.

The Heavy Maintenance crew has been working on one of the problem culverts on the new paving job between Creston and Burning Springs. This one is on the old Tom Alec Hopkins place.

The Creston area has been enjoying cooler weather, which, for a fact, makes for better sleeping at night.

Price of local Pennsylvania grade crude rose to $72.98/bbl., with condensate, $58.98, Marcellus and Utica light, $63.98, and medium, $72.98.

The Snipe Hunt

by James Wilt
(former Calhoun resident)
I grew up in West Virginia's eastern panhandle, between the north and south branches of the Potomac River. Our family was a family of hunters, and I, being the youngest, was the last to have hunting privileges. I could hunt squirrels with an old 25-caliber Remington single-shot rifle, the only gun that I could call my own.

about four years ago. I was just about Jim's age." "Yes," said Don "But Jim is not reliable. Remember last deer season when we went hunting. Dad told Jim to keep the smokehouse fire stoked, and what did he do? When he ran out of hickory, he stoked the fire with pine." "I promise if you take me, I will do exactly what you tell me to."

Dad said, "Another thing, when we show you where the snipe run is, you won't give our secret place away to anyone." "My lips are sealed," I declared, even sliding my thumb across my mouth in a zipping action.

Snipe hunting is only good in the summer, the first two weeks after July 4th, I was told. For about a week before the first big hunt, Dad practiced with me. Since he deemed me too slow to be a chaser, my role would be as a catcher.

Dad told me that the most important job on a snipe hunt is the catcher. He must be totally alert, patient, and, when the time comes, quick as a flash. "I can do it, Dad, you can count on me!"

For several evenings after supper, Dad would have me in the living room sitting on the floor with a burlap bag. He is on the other side of the room, with a ball. "Okay. Now this ball is a snipe, and your job is to catch him in the bag when he comes at you."

For about a half hour, he would fling the ball, bouncing and rolling at me, or by me. At first, I had a hard time getting the bag in position quick enough to catch it, but gradually I mastered the technique. "Boys, I think he's got it," exclaimed Dad.

Leading up to the hunt, any time I mentioned snipe hunting to other adults that I knew, they had nothing to say, only looking at me, and rolling their eyes.

Finally, the long-awaited night arrived. We need to be in position at midnight, I was told. That's when the little snipes become active. Each one of us had our kerosene lantern, and we made our way to a holler about a half-mile or so from the house. Arriving at the foot of a mountain, Dad put me in position on my knees, with the bag held open.

"Make sure the bag is all the way down on the ground, with the mouth wide open. If you are not careful, they will run right under the bag," Dad and the boys agreed. If we didn't get them before daylight, we wouldn't get any.

"Now keep your eyes open, you won't hear them coming, so keep watching, don't blink no more than you need to. They will be coming full speed right down the mountain."

He laid another burlap bag right beside me, "We might have a bumper crop of snipe this year. Here's another bag, just in case this one gets full."

He stuck a piggin string between my teeth. "If the bag gets full, quick like, grab the string, tie the bag, and open the other bag. You could get lucky and get two bags full." They set out to begin the snipe chase. After they left, I was all tense just knowing a flood of snipe was due any second.

After a while, I gradually relaxed my aching muscles, but still stayed alert. After seemingly endless hours, I noticed a slight graying sky in the east. I expected that Dad and the boys would be along anytime, but when full daylight came, I gave up on them and went home.

As I came up the steps to the front porch, I heard roaring laughter coming from our living room. Someone is sure having fun, I thought--not helping my mood any. As I went into the room, all I could see were grinning faces. "Why didn't you come by for me?" I asked. "Where are the snipes?" said Frank. "I didn't see no snipes," I yelled. Momma said, "That's enough, Dave, Don't be cruel." That's when it dawned on me, I had been had. "Don't let no one lead you on a snipe hunt," said Dad.

At least I learned a valuable lesson: Don't be gullible, and don't get caught holding the bag.

Social Security Status

The Social Security Board of Trustees has released its annual report on the long-term financial status of the Social Security Trust funds.

The combined asset reserves of the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance and Disability Insurance trust funds are projected to become depleted in 2034, one year earlier than projected last year, with 78 percent of benefits payable at that time.

The OASI Trust Fund is projected to become depleted in 2033, one year sooner than last year's estimate, with 76 percent of benefits payable at that time. The DI Trust Fund is estimated to become depleted in 2057, eight years earlier than last year's estimate, with 91 percent of benefits still payable.

In the 2021 Annual Report to Congress, the trustees announced:

--The asset reserves of the combined OASI and DI Trust Funds increased by $11 billion in 2020 to a total of $2.908 trillion.

--The total annual cost of the program is projected to exceed total annual income, for the first time since 1982, in 2021, and remain higher throughout the 75-year projection period. As a result, asset reserves are expected to decline during 2021. Social Security's cost has exceeded its non-interest income since 2010.

A Night at the Museum--

(Continued from Page 1) We will rely on matters of the heart and love lost to add a little wicked to our evening.

The hotel has been prepared for a wedding and reception. Each corner and small detail has been considered for the hauntingly sorrowful matrimony that was never to be . . . poor Miss Havisham.

Continuing with the theme of wedlock, there will be several travelers in for the celebration. They have traveled by caravan along the Little Kanawha River and have set up camp in the museum for an additional time of storytelling and ghostly Calhoun tales.

We know that the greatest tales are best when recalled with historical facts and local accounts. What better place to hear these fun, spooky tales than in the heart of Calhoun's county seat nestled on Main St., where many a peddler and foreigner has traveled?

Mark your calendar for Oct. 23. The evening will have much to offer, nothing bloody or nasty, just a little eerie elegance. We have "Great Expectations" for a night with you and your family.

Please note that we always think of the safety of our members (90% are senior citizens) and visitors. Never would we put anyone in a state of discomfort or concern.

We respect all and will do so with consideration to each person in attendance. The museum and hotel are intimate spaces. Our numbers will be limited for each tour, and due to the closeness in these areas, masks will be required.

Come spend a night in the museum, with a touch of mystery and a flavor of the unexpected. We love this county, its stories, its history and, most certainly, its people! We are in this messy life together "Til Death Do Us Part."

As Helen Morris would always say, "We are making memories . . ." and we want you to be a part of our narrative.

For information, call Bob Bonar, 354-7507.

Robocalls

W.Va. Attorney General Patrick Morrissey released an update on Monday on efforts by his office, telecom companies, and partnering attorneys general to stop unlawful robocalls.

The progress report details success in the implementation of Anti-Robocall Principles that West Virginia signed in late summer 2019, as part of an agreement between 51 attorneys general and several phone companies.

Since September 2019, the involved companies have identified more than 52 billion spam or spoofed number calls, authenticated the caller ID numbers of hundreds of billions of calls, and blocked more than 32.5 billion spam, spoofed or illegal calls.

"Far too many unlawful robocalls still slip through, and we remain committed to even greater success, yet, the progress realized over the past two years is quite impressive," said Morrissey.

"Two years ago, consumers had no automatic way of detecting a spam call, but thanks to persistent pressure applied by our coalition, the telecom companies have implemented technology that detects and alerts consumers to many suspicious calls."

The principles required companies to:

- Offer customers free call labeling and blocking tools.

- Implement network-level call blocking.

- Combat caller ID spoofing on their networks with STIR/SHAKEN technology.

- Confirm the identity of commercial customers.

- Analyze and monitor high-volume network traffic consistent with robocalls.

- Investigate suspicious calls and calling patterns on their networks.

- Cooperate in traceback investigations and aid law enforcement.

Enforcement actions have increased as a result of these efforts. Since the principles were established, the Industry Traceback Group, working alongside state attorneys general, has run 4,769 traceback investigations--about three times as many as were conducted prior to the principles.

The Industry Traceback Group also has identified 319 domestic and foreign providers as originating the majority of robocalls.

West Virginia joined the Anti-Robocall Principles with attorneys general from every state and Washington D.C.

Anyone who believes they have been the victim of a robocall should contact the AG's Consumer Protection Division, 1-800-368-8808, or visit www.wvago.gov.
