weekend at home looking at all of the trees in the holler, and we got to witness the changeover from green to a multihued quilt, turning our commute out of the holler into a drive through a tunnel of many colors.

On Tuesday morning, even though the weather was dreary, with rain knocking leaves to the ground, we could see that Mother Nature's "Spring Green" from earlier this year had now come full circle to a distinct lack of green and an abundance of colorful beauty.

Jeanne and I spent a legged friend, companion and pet, Brownie, was always on hand on the deck, or under it, to help keep us safe.

Sadly, Brownie died on Halloween and we buried her in our pet cemetery above the far yard where the best pets in the world reside in peace.

As soon as the coyotes figure out that Brownie has passed, I figure that they will become bolder, and might begin to infringe upon the yard.

They are not yet aware that there is a line that must not be crossed and that is anywhere in our yard within range of our weaponry.

As long as they are not directly attacking anything in the yard, I will simply fire a warning shot or two. If needed, a more direct shot may be utilized, but there will be no burial(s) in the pet cemetery for these wily coyotes.

We will more than likely go to a humane society someday to see if there is another good companion that would like to live a life of freedom and love down in the holler, but not anytime soon. The pain still runs too deep for that.

Brownie, you were the best guard dog ever, and you will be missed as long as I draw breath. Good dog, Brownie, now that your duties are done, may you rest forevermore.

This Week In History

The following reports are taken from The Calhoun Chronicle archives:

1921, 100 years ago

The steamer Return, plying the Parkersburg-Creston freight trade, burned to the water's edge and sank on Saturday afternoon. The boat, heavily loaded with merchandise for up-river points, had reached a point a short distance below Leachtown when Capt. Russell Righter, who was in command of the boat, saw flames shooting upwards from the boat's deck.

In less than 10 minutes, the vessel was completely enveloped. As soon as the fire was discovered, the boat was headed for the shore and the crew escaped only with difficulty.

The loss is estimated at around $15,000. The boat was owned by Righters and Gibson of Creston.

The promoters of the new addition to Grantsville will build a suspension bridge across the river near the mill, thereby connecting the sub-division with the main part of town.

That this is not mere selling talk is evidenced by the preparation of written guarantees by the owners that the bridge will be built. Each purchaser of a lot will receive one of these guarantees by which the owners bind themselves to construct the bridge. This feature will be a great attraction to the sale, as the market value of the lots will be much greater with the quick connection between them and the main town.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Elliott on Tuesday night were a fine big pair of twin boys.

E.W. Snider, the nearly lone Socialist of Snider Ridge, was a caller in town on Thursday. He doesn't like the way things went in the recent elections and is thinking some of moving to Texas.

G.W. Frederick, a prominent and substantial farmer of Leading Creek, was in town last week attending to business affairs. He was accompanied by his son, Charles, a bright young man.

More than a thousand persons from all parts of West Virginia are expected to attend a music and speaking program at Tanner on Sunday to mark the formal opening of the Roy B. McGee Funeral Home.

Booked for the occasion are at least six major program features that will include a dedication address by Rev. J.C. Musser, former pastor of Glenville Baptist Church; scripture reading and praying by Rev. Glendon McKee of Glenville; instrumental music by Nettie Cunningham of Tanner and W.S. Kemper of Newberne; vocal numbers by the Tanner Quartet, made up of Mrs. Adrian Collins, Mrs. Lynn Frymier, Jr., George Cunningham and Earl Hardman. The latter is a member of the Gilmer County Court.

Also to be heard are songs by the well-known George Whipkey Choir of Church No. 7, and a group of 18 colored singers from Laing First Baptist Church. In this group will be three vocalists. The entire group will appear under the direction of James C. Howard, himself a composer and songwriter.

Roy B. McGee, who recently moved to Tanner and only this week is completing extensive improvements and many modern features at the funeral home, will have general charge of the program, which will begin at 1:30 p.m.

The home will be open to the public from 1 to 10 p.m. and a public address system will be installed so that the music and speaking can be heard by all who attend. Chairs will be placed on neighborhood porches and lawns to accommodate the thousand or more curiosity-corner.net. Selected questions will appear in

Lander University

This is a previous Curiosity Corner, but it seems to be back in vogue:

Want to get someone steamed in two words? Gas prices.

The high prices have been in the news and in our pocketbooks lately. So how do we save gas? Drive less, car pool, and so on. Those things work, but how about some of the other things we hear about?

Here's an old one: Fill your tank in the morning when the temperature is cooler, so you get more volume for your money. True, liquids expand with temperature. I just read a justification of this lower temperature fillup as follows:

Gasoline expands about 1% in volume per a 15-degree (Fahrenheit) rise in temperature. Suppose you buy 20 gallons of gas when the temperature is 80 degrees Fahrenheit. Due to expansion, you would end up with 2% less fuel than you would have if the temperature were 50 degrees Fahrenheit. At 20 gallons, that would be .40 gallons less. At $4 per gallon, that would be a difference of $1.60.

Sounds good, but stop and think. Those bulk gas tanks are deep in the ground. Over a 24-hour period, the temperature change is probably no more than a few degrees. So pumping in the morning might only save you a few cents.

Lower speeds and cruise control saves? Yep, the faster you go (don't exceed the speed limit), the more gas is used, and the cruise control smooths out the ride from gas-using accelerations and surges.

Avoiding excessive idling! This is a good one. Idling burns gas and you get nowhere. I was in San Luis Obispo, Calif., visiting a co-author. We were in his car and he wanted to cash a check at the bank. He parked and went inside. I asked why he didn't use the drive-thru. There wasn't one--not at the bank, or at McDonald's, or anywhere else. Idling at a drive-thru not only uses gas, but also contributes to air pollution, and California has enough (and gas was $4 in California at that time).

An idling problem that I've experienced is at intersections with two-line traffic in both directions. At a stoplight, there is a dedicated left-lane and two thru lanes with a straight-thru center lane and a right-run optional on the right. A good example for my Greenwood readers is the Bypass and Rt. 72 intersection near CVS. On a busy morning, I have sat in an 8-9 idling car lane waiting to make a right turn on red when there is very little oncoming traffic turning left. The lead car wants to (quite legally) go straight and is stopped by the red light in the right-turn lane, holding things up.

Wouldn't it be better to have a dedicated right lane, so right turns could be made on red without holdups?

That's a good question! Maybe I'll submit it to the Curiosity Corner!

The issue of Greyhound bus service through Grantsville on Rts. 5 and 16 is still very much alive and being pushed by businessmen in the area. A decision is expected shortly from the Greyhound company, and if that is not favorable, it is planned that further proceedings may include petitioning the Public Service Commission for a hearing to try to bring bus service twice daily each way on the Charleston-Clarksburg route.

Taking a prominent part in the application for service is H.F. Pischke, who has diligently sought out information and presented the issue to the bus company, pointing out the need for service to the area, which will include not only Grantsville, but also Mt. Zion and other parts of the county now without any public transportation. Service at Millstone and Arnoldsburg would not be affected by the rerouting, except that persons there could have service into and out of Grantsville, something which they do not have.

Support of bus service has been indicated in an informal survey. In addition, many business places have given indication of what use they would make of the parcel service supplied by the bus company.

My Home Among the Hills

To say that I am glad this week is over would be an understatement. As weeks go, this was a long one for a lot of reasons. By the time Friday night rolled around, I was exhausted. All I wanted was a hot shower, my pajamas, a good book, and bed.

This was homecoming week at school, which to the normal person probably sounds like a great time. To a high school teacher, this week means a break in routine, hyper students, and the potential for all types of drama and trouble. I usually pray a lot for patience and endurance during homecoming time.

Monday was "Merica Monday, which meant the students were to wear red, white, and blue. It was cool enough for me to wear a red sweater and jeans, so I participated in this one.

This year, I am in charge of the new school newspaper, so every morning my staff would travel around the school taking pictures of the Spirit Day participants. Students were also busy decorating the hallways, stairwells, and classroom doors.

I probably should have prefaced all of this information by letting you in on the fact that all of these events end in the announcing of the coveted spirit stick. Classes earn points all week through the dress-up days, decorating, and spirit shown at the pep rally, which here in Calhoun is called a thuse. I believe this word derives from the word enthusiasm, at least that's what I've been told.

Tuesday was Terror Tuesday. Students wore their best costumes to school. Are you beginning to see why this is a challenging week for teachers? On top of all the homecoming hullabaloo, I got my COVID booster shot in the afternoon. While I didn't experience any really serious side effects, I was more tired and irritable than usual, which in hindsight was probably not good timing

Wednesday was white lie Wednesday. Students wore white T-shirts with white lies on them. I was pleasantly surprised that the majority of students behaved themselves with this one. Decorations and classroom doors were also judged on this day.

One of my students took the lead on our door, and it turned out great! She went with a vintage theme--Pac Man. The door looked like a screenshot of the old video game with Pac Man eating up the dots and cherries on the screen. The lettering read Game Over Cee-Bees; that was the name of the team we were playing for the homecoming game.

Wednesday night, I had a Zoom meeting from 6 to 7, and then I climbed into bed. Thursday was going to be a 12-hour day, because parent-teacher conferences were taking place in the evening from 4 to 7. I will be honest and admit that at this point, I was good and ready for this week to be over.

The morning on Thursday was normal, but the afternoon was all about the thuse. This event started with a volleyball game between the football team and volleyball team, transitioned into student recognition time, and ended with the screaming for the spirit stick.

When the dust cleared, the freshmen won the Spirit Dress contest. By the way, Thursday was wear pink for Breast Cancer Awareness. The junior class won the decoration contest, the classroom door contest, and in the end the spirit stick. My door didn't win first, but we were runners-up. The students left at 3:30, and I settled in to work in my classroom until 7:00. The weather prediction put an end to the parade on Friday, but the students still dressed in red and black to show support for their team. As a teacher, I will admit that I was more than ready for a normal school day--as normal as homecoming week can be. At 3:30, I packed my school bag and headed out the door to go pick up Maricia. We had hair appointments scheduled. I crawled into bed on Friday night exhausted and ready for a long night of sleep. I promised myself that I would sleep as long as I could. I kept that promise; I had earned it. In the afternoon, I helped Maricia with a few projects at my parents' house, but most of the day I just rested and relaxed. I slept in on Sunday again and then headed to the grocery store to buy the ingredients that I needed to make soup for supper. I was feeling much better and ready to face another week. It's goodbye to October and hello to November. Let the holiday season begin!

I must confess, dearest Ellen, that I am selfish, but when I think of you, ever my favorite cousin, whom I still love with no common love, that as the years glide on, freighted only with joy & happiness for you, that no heart thoughts ever wend their way to her whose home once so bright & pleasant, is now lonely! -then, indeed, the tears will sometimes fall.

Oh! this dreadful war! You in your quiet home know little of the sorrow & excitement prevailing in this portion of the country.

My husband<sup>1</sup> has been absent a long time. And in his absence I grow sad & gloomy, feeling there is little in this world worth living for, excepting, indeed, it be my little Nellie<sup>2</sup>, who is one sunbeam in life's dark cloud.

I was very anxious to visit you last summer when I was in Ohio<sup>3</sup>, where I spent nearly two months, but it was impossible. Will you write to me a long letter, & tell me all that has transpired during the long time of your silence!

- My address is "Glenville, Gilmer Co. Va".
- Yours truly & affectionately

Amie E. Silcott

My Dear Mother

It seems long, very long since I have heard from you, or any of my friends on French Creek. Why do you not write more frequently? We have had no post office at Arnoldsburg, but letter directed to Glenville will reach me. Mr Short is going to Glenville on tomorrow & I do hope he will find a letter there for me from you.

How are you getting along? I hope well & easily. Is your health good this winter. I wish you could be here, this winter, with me. We are all enjoying our usual health. I think Louisa is stronger & looks much better since her trip to Monroe<sup>4</sup>. She was rather feeble before going.

How did you spend Christmas? Almira, Nellie, & myself spent the day at Louisa's where we partook of a fine dinner. I had a "wood chopping" the day before Christmas, & got a great deal of wood cut. It will last me, I should think, until April. I wish you had as much. We had a very pleasant party Christmas eve. The general health here is good.

Jacob Starcher<sup>5</sup> lost his wife a few weeks ago. She was taken sick on Sunday night & died the next Wednesday morning at two o'clock. They were living at Ripley.

She left two little boys, the youngest was one year old yesterday. Mrs Webb is nearly crazy about her. Marion was always her favorite child. Mrs Webb has taken the two children to keep. Marion was an excellent woman, & respected by all. Laverna<sup>6</sup> is at

I expect to teach here in Arnoldsburg this winter. Will commence my school next Monday. I had not expected to teach this winter, but the neighbors around proposed to me & insisted that I should teach, & I at length consented.

I could have a very large school, but do not intend to permit as many to come as wish, for I do not feel able to teach as large a school as I had last winter. My school will not be closed until the latter part of March. I intend to come & see you as soon as my school closes, & then Almira will come home.

I wish you could write & give me all the news. You could write about so many. I intend to stay three or four weeks when I come & visit all my old friends. How are Freeman & Worthington getting along. Does the war interrupt them much? Do you get the news regularly?

<sup>3</sup>Amie went to Ohio to try and get George released. George was eventually released and sent to Vicksburg to be paroled.

<sup>4</sup>Perry Hays was living in Monroe County at Rocky Point, now called Sink's Grove. Among other things, he was an agent for the Con-federate Army.

<sup>5</sup>Jacob Starcher: Son of Abraham and Margaret Starcher, he married Marion Webb, daughter of John Calhoun scoring: Karlee and Elizabeth Webb. Elizabeth was the sister of Perry Hays. Jacob was deputy sheriff of Calhoun County in 1860.

<sup>9</sup>Lovina Young, daughter of Festus. She married Henry Taylor and lived in Gilmer County. She died in 1866.

<sup>10</sup>Almandus Young, son of Festus, was captured by the Confederate Army at Centerville (now Rock Cave). He died at Anderson Prison on Apr. 6, 1864.

Affordable Care

U.S. Sen. Joe Manchin encourages West Virginians to apply for health insurance coverage during the Affordable Care Act open enrollment period, Nov. 1 to Jan. 15. West Virginians who enroll by Wednesday, Dec. 15, can expect their coverage to begin by Jan. 1.

"West Virginians without health insurance can apply for quality, affordable health insurance coverage through the Affordable Care Act open enrollment period," said Manchin.

"The American Rescue Plan, which I voted for in March, includes funding to make healthcare more affordable by increasing premium tax credits, leading to lower premiums and cheaper health plans for West Virginians.

"The tax credits continue to provide more affordable healthcare to West Virginians today, and I encourage everyone without health insurance to visit healthcare.gov to find a plan that works for you and your family."

The plan continues to provide additional financial assistance by lowering healthcare coverage premiums and expanding coverage options.

West Virginia offers free enrollment assistance to all in-state residents at acanavigator.com/ wv/home or 1-844-WV-CARES.

W.Va. Dept. of En- agency's Covered Elec-Protection tronic Devices Recycling Grant Program.

The grants include $9,500forCalhounCounty Solid Waste Authority to fund e-cycling services, wages, and advertising for a collection event.

The CED Program requires that manufacturers register their brands with the State. The fees collected from this program allow counties and municipalities to apply for CED recycling grants to conduct electronic device collection events and support ongoing collection programs.

The program aims to annually update registration status for CED manufacturers, determine if manufacturers have adopted or implemented a free take-back/recycling program for their products, and award recycling grants to counties and municipalities.

A list of CED brands that have approved, free take-back programs can be found in the West Virginia Materials Recycling Directory on REAP's recycling and litter grant programs webpage.
