wind, lots and lots of wind. Jeanne and I sat out on our deck quite a lot last weekend and marveled at the sight of bushels of leaves falling from high up in the sky, lofting lazily from hilltop to hilltop before landing on the deck for a moment and then being blown off to go play with all the other leaves down in the yard.

The wind was coming, at least down in our holler, from the east. Usually, the only time we get weather in the winter, and it is usually bad news, unless you like snow.

This wind, however, was rather warm, more like a May wind rather than a November wind.

The wind was fun to thousands of leaves full. straight down one hillside across the creek and up the other side.

It looked like what imagine a lemming I migration might look like, a mass of multi-colored things hurriedly comingling while moving haphazardly, with no particular destination in sight.

We have many windows in our house, many, the birds do occasionally fly into a window, but they generally suffer no lasting harm, and fly immediately away from the window and alight on a nearby tree branch to shake their head until they shake it off.

Sometimes, they hit hard enough to be stunned, laying on their back on the deck, opening and closing their tiny little feet

> We wanted to make sure it could fly, so we sat it on the railing and it immediately pooped. I laughed aloud and thanked it for waiting to poop until it was no longer in my hand.

> Then it flew over to a nearby limb and waited for its mate, which had been flying around the deck the entire time.

Once the two lovebirds hadbeen reunited (the mate had been very vocal and close-by the entire time from that direction is that the little titmouse was recovering in my hand), they both flew up onto one of the highest limbs in the butternut tree.

One began chirping at the other about its encounter with the window and the two-legged watch; it would blow ones that keep the feeders

I saw something else over the weekend that I have only seen a few times in my life, a buzzard flying across the holler . . . backwards. The wind was blowing so hard that an eastbound buzzard was heading west tail first, albeit quite slowly.

The wind also turned our road, which had been covered with a multicolored carpet of glory, back into a gravel road. It looked like someone had used a leaf blower on most of the road, but where the conditions allowed it, there were leafdrifts.

Much like the snow in winter when the wind blows so hard. The leaves were mounded in the same places. Fortunately, there were no opossums or raccoons sleeping in the piles of leaves, because we didn't slow down when driving through them.

Question: Why do they call a military sharp shooter a "sniper?"

Reply: A snipe is a small bird that can fly in a weaving pattern at great speeds. In the old days in Britain, a bird hunter who managed to shoot one down was considered to be a superior marksman. A hunter skilled enough to bring down an elusive snipe was dubbed a "sniper."

Question: What are the official duties of the vice

Reply: VPs have two constitutionally mandated line of succession, and ready to take over the presidency on the death, resignation or removal of the president. Fifteen former vice presidents have subsequently become president, more than half of them after the death of the president.

Secondly, the U.S. Constitution states that the VP serves as the "president of the Senate, but shall not vote, unless they are equally divided." That is, the VP may cast a tie-breaking vote when the Senate is locked in a 50-50 vote on a bill.

This occurs infrequently and the VP rarely Sergt. Cleet W. Smith of W.Va. State Police, attends Senate meetings, leaving in charge a "president pro tempore," usually the longest-serving senator from the majority party.

The Citizens Advisory Committee for the proposed Calhoun-Gilmer vocational-technical school met at Glenville High School on Thursday evening, Nov. 9, to hear from Clifford Burdette, state director of vocational education, ways that they should proceed in helping with establishment of the school.

The main purpose of the advisory committee, he said, was to discuss with the people of the two counties what they would like to have taught in the school, and advise the governing body also on other matters of courses, curriculum, equipment, and students. The school will be administered by the superintendents of the two counties, the president of each county's school board, and the state director.

Burdette showed pictures of several of the vocational-technical schools in West Virginia, including pictures of equipment and classrooms. While most of these schools are attended on a half day basis, students in regular high school the other half of the day, the school is not to be excluded to others. "It is for high school dropouts, and graduates who need extra skill or training, and for adults who need to go forward," he said.

Burdette emphasized the idea that the school About the hardest electric, rain and wind storm should be a career center for people of all ages in the two county areas.

Courses being taught in other schools include S.L. Also discussed was the cost of such a school, including equipment. The $800,000 committed to the school is all federal funds, with an additional 20 percent to be state and local funds. The state aid to counties pays the basic teacher salaries. "Local investment should be minimal," according to Burdette.

He urged the advisory committee to get organized and start work on surveys to determine what was needed, saying that it was their job to "determine what the people want and need for vocational training."

The group decided to alternate meetings between the two counties, with the next meeting to be held on Thursday, Nov. 30, at 7:30 at Calhoun County High School.

Persons appointed by the Calhoun board of education to serve on the advisory committee were Mary Ann Barrows, W.R. Bouie, Francis Cain, Ralph Cunningham, Ruth Gainer, Bill Grass, Criss Hall, Dwight Lowther, Mrs. Lewis Smith, and Emmons Smith.

My Home Among the Hills

by Mellody Walburn

I must say that, while October played very nice. November is being somewhat temperamental. I know warm weather is possible this time of year, but 82 degrees seems a bit unreasonable to me.

My home among the hills is all decked out for fall, complete with white twinkling lights, but it is actually warm enough to run my air-conditioner. I guess Mother Nature is having a bit of an identity crisis.

I will try to be patient with her while she figures it all out. I have turned all of my heaters down low and will open the windows, if necessary. I will admit that I ran the AC in my bedroom on Friday and Saturday night to cool the room off before I went to bed. I also turned the ceiling fan on and turned the box fan to blow on me again.

I know that this warm weather will eventually leave, so I might as well enjoy it while it lasts. There won't be many more days when I can sit on my porch or my parents' deck without bundling up in a coat, hat and gloves. This is also the perfect weather to work out at the village in the park. Christmas in the Village is only a few weeks away, so there is lots to be done to get ready.

Last week was a busy one. Between school and home, there wasn't much time for anything else. So, this week will be a bit of a breather for me. I will only be teaching on Wednesday and Thursday this week. Monday is a professional learning day with no students, and everyone has Tuesday and Friday off for Election Day and Veterans Day. I plan on making the most of both of my days off. While I plan to sleep in on both days, I will hit the ground running once I am up and about.

I took advantage of early voting, so that responsibility and duty is complete. This leaves Tuesday wide open. Some of the historical society members are planning to meet for coffee and some planning before we head to the museum to begin creating new window displays

It is time to take down the football displays and to begin to deck the halls for Christmas. If we are feeling very festive, we might even do some holiday decorating in Stump Hotel.

My Friday plans have changed a bit, because of something that I did over the past weekend. Last Saturday, the Mlyneks and I decided to make a trip into Parkersburg to do a little shopping. Before we left, we headed out to the Westfall Christmas Tree Farm so that I could tag a tree.

My very old artificial tree broke last year, so I decided to go the live route this year. I was delighted with the selection at the Westfall farm, and had a hard time choosing my tree. The aforementioned weather was lovely, so we wandered around a for a while until I found the perfect one. It is tall, full, and will look great in my picture window. I can't wait to go back and get it in a few weeks.

Once I checked off tagging my tree, we headed into Parkersburg. After a quick lunch, we visited Hobby Lobby and Michaels, and looked for holiday decorations. Hobby Lobby was having a 60% off sale on its Christmas decorations, and I walked out of there with a number of snowmen to add to my collection. I also got a really pretty wall hanging and some cute trust to circumstances. little hirds

Michael A. Ayers--A Calhoun Native In the Civil War

Winchester Va.

Sept. 30th. 1864 Dearest Mary,

Once more I have the pleasure of writing you a few lines. Our battalion arrived here Wednesday night about 10 o'clock after a very hard march from Harpers Ferry, which we left on Tuesday evening about 5 o'clock.

There is several of us left here being unable to march, the rest went on yesterday towards Staunton. We came up here with a large wagon train, which also went on to the front with supplies for our army, which is still pushing on after the rebels, and from all I can learn our army are going once more to Lynchburg.

I was completely worn out when we got here, my feet were so sore I could scarcely walk. Adolphus, Bill Barnes, Capt Clammer, your unkles Joshua and Henderson Bell, and several others are here. Martin went on with the Company. I presume the boys will have a very hard time of it.

Coming up here we had the hardest march I was ever on, and I never saw men give out as fast. They marched about 18 miles after 1 o'clock, and after we got here, the whole command was straggling and a great many did not get in here till near noon yesterday. There was an old dutch colonel commanding the expedition, who ought to be dismissed the service for the manner in which he conducted the march.

I found a cousin of mine here wounded, poor fellow, he has lost his foot, he was 2nd Lieut in Co A., 14th WVa but he is doing well and I hope will recover

I wrote to you from Sandy Hook, Md. and told you to write to me, but I expect I will not get any letters while we are here, for our mail will all go on to the front of the Regiment. I do not know how long we will stay here, but presume it will be some time, and will send you an envelope addressed so that I think it will reach me.

I have not heard anything of Alfred yet but have eliminated by Gilmer, 25written to the hospitals at Martinsburg, Annapolis, Washington & Baltimore.

The rebel army have been completely broken up, and driven out of this valley. There were 800 more prisoners came down from the front and passed through here yesterday about day light, for Harpers Ferry.

I believe there is nothing more of interest to day. I hope this may find you in good health, if I live and keep well I intend coming back on furlough in the course of a month, or getting out of the service, or at least I will make a strong effort to get out, but whether I can succeed I am not yet sure, but there is nothing like trying.

For your sake I hope to be successful in getting out some time this winter. But while we are separated far from each other, we can only hope for the best and

Yet I hope the time will come before long when

Those of you who were paying attention earlier our long dream of happiness will be realized. are probably asking what does any of that have to do with changing your plans for this Friday? Be patient; yourself. Ever your own true and loving I'm getting there. After we finished holiday shopping, we decided to head over to Belpre Furniture to do a little investigating. I was in the market for a new dining room table, and the Mlyneks were looking for a new recliner. This store was where I purchased my leather couches, so I felt comfortable shopping there agaın.

I don't know how it happened. I had only note. planned to look around. The next thing I know, I am buying not only a really nice dining set, but also a to the front with a train. We started and got out about recliner of my own. Maricia and Andy were able a mile when we were ordered to return back & go into to get their new recliner in their Jeep, but we will be returning on Friday to pick mine up. The dining set is being delivered, hopefully in time for Thanksgiving

I have a lot to be thankful for this year, and I am continuing to count my blessings this month, along with my students. This week. I am thankful for warm. sunny weather and much needed time off.

My kind regards to the family, and true love to

Near Winchester. Va. Sunday Afternoon October 2nd., 1864 Dear and beloved Mary,

This afternoon I attempt to scribble you another

We were ordered forward this morning to go up camp. So we will not start till tomorrow sometime.

I have nothing else that is new today, for we get but little news here, nothing but rumors. What our army are doing in front I can't say. There is said to be a good many rebels on the road from here to Staunton, and some say that is the reason we did not start this morning.

I feel very lonesome to day, and truly wish I was with you this afternoon for I am really getting tired of this long and cruel war.

Whether we will ever meet again is wrapped in the dark future, but hope I may. But I fear I am now writing things that will make you feel sad and despondent, but I know you can fully appreciate to the fullest extent the circumstances of my situation and truly sympathize with me. Without you to love and cherish I cannot tell what life would be to me. While I am away out here my thoughts often fly away back to the dear spot where we parted last. If I live I may not get back till my time is out, but I can't tell what time may bring around.

I must close for this time. I sent you an envelope, if you get this before you write don't send it, but write as usual, and direct to the Regt. and to Crook's Command or to 3rd. Brigade 1st. Div, 8th. Corps, which will be best.

Remaining as ever your true and devoted betrothed.

Calhoun Ends Season, 52-13; Six Seniors Play Last Game

by Robert F. Bonar Calhoun County High School ended its 100th season of football last Friday night in Ellenboro against Ritchie County.

The Red Devils proved to be no match for the Rebels, who used a strong passing game to defeat CCHS, 52-13.

Season-long renovations at Chuck Schofield Stadium were still incomplete at game time, so fans and players alike the fourth quarter, Calwere subject to an almost draconian set of rules concerning parking, seating, and even access to the dressing rooms.

The visitors bleachers were inaccessible, so Red Devil fans were forced to sit in a lone section on the home side. At the half, the Calhoun team Logan Tingler kicked the elected to congregate at the south end zone, rather than navigate the etiquette required to enter its locker room.

The game began inauspiciously when the Red Devils failed to cover the Devil territory, but were opening kickoff, giving stopped from scoring by the Rebels possession at the Calhoun 34.

Three plays later, Ritchie passed for its first touchdown of the game, then rushed for the extra points to take an 8-0 lead.

carrier and ran 11 yards for Ritchie's final score of the night.

Near the beginning of houn finally dented the scoreboard on a drive that began with 4:39 remaining in the third.

With Ian Persinger and Tyler Nelson carrying the ball, the Red Devils marched 65 yards in nine plays, and scored from the 20 on a run by Persinger. extra point, making the score 52-7.

Ritchie finally inserted its backup offense into the game on its final possession. The Rebels moved deep into Red Owen Taylor, who intercepted a Ritchie pass and gave Calhoun the ball back with 1:15 remaining.

Persinger rushed for 11 vards on the first play from scrimmage, but the quarter Calhoun turned the was nearly over and any ball over on downs in more significant game play seemed unlikely. With less than half a minute left in the game, Persinger once again took a handoff from Taylor for what seemed like a routine play. The senior cut through the Ritchie line, split the defensive backs, and sprinted down the left sideline.

Breaking a last ditch ankle tackle near the 10, Persinger crossed the goal line to score with just two seconds remaining on the clock.

The play covered 70 yards, and provided an exhilarating end to an otherwise frustrating game and season.

Tingler's extra point kick after Calhoun's first touchdown was the first conversion successful by a Red Devil in seven years. Dustin Holcomb kicked the last point after in a game against South Harrison in 2015.

The game saw the end of six players' careers: seniors Trevor Collins, Shane Dooley, Owen Grose, Adam Lane, Ian Persinger and Hunter Thacker.

Persinger, who started as Calhoun's quarterback his sophomore year, before shifting to the running back position, ended his career ranked high in several statistical category

Following are some of his four-year totals, with his all-time school ranking in parenthesis: 100 points scored (tied for 29th), 1,775 rushing yards (11th), 5.1 yards per carry (tied

Veterans Day

Veterans Day, formerly Armistice Day, is observed annually in honor of all those, living and dead, who served with the U.S. armed forces in wartime. Armistice Day was proclaimed in 1919 to commemorate the termination (at 11 a.m. on Nov. 11, 1918) of World War I. On the first anniversary of the truce, U.S. President Woodrow Wilson issued a proclamation eulogizing fallen Allied soldiers and referring to Nov. 11 as Armistice Day. It became a holiday in the U.S., France, United Kingdom, and Canada.

World War II

World War II or the Second World War was a true worldwide military conflict; the combination of two separate conflicts, one beginning in Asia, 1937, as the Second Sino-Japanese War, and the other beginning in Europe, 1939, with the invasion of Poland.

It split a majority of the world's nations into two opposing military alliances: the Allies and the Axis. Countries involved mobilized more than 100 million military personnel.

The conflict ended in Europe first. Hitler decided to await the end in Berlin, where he could still manipulate what was left of the command apparatus. On the afternoon of Apr. 30, 1945, Hitler committed suicide in his Berlin bunker, after naming Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz to succeed him as chief of state. Doenitz had no course open to him other than surrender. His representative, Gen. Alfred Jodl, signed an unconditional surrender of all German armed forces at Eisenhower's headquarters in Reims on May 7. The U.S. and British governments declared May 8 as V-E (Victory in Europe) Day. The full unconditional surrender took effect at one minute past midnight after a second signing in Berlin with Soviet participation. Allied victory was absolute when on Aug. 14, 1945, after the dropping bombs of atomic on the Japanese cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan announced its surrender. The formal signing took place on Sept. 2 in Tokyo Bay aboard the battleship Missouri. This war ushered in a new age of weaponry and tactics, such as heavy bombers (for strategic warfare), jet-engine fighters, rockets (both short range and ballistic), radar, and the atomic bomb. Estimated cost in lives: 43,461,500 or five times the number killed in World War I (source: Encarta® Encyclopedia 2002).

At the start of the war, President Woodrow Wilson had declared the neutrality of the U.S.

Tension between the U.S. and Germany increased and decoded a message from Oct. 8, 1970, to Oct. 7, Germany's foreign minister, Arthur Zimmermann, to the German ambassador to Master Sgt., Air Force, Mexico, which revealed a German plot to persuade Mexico to go to war against the U.S. Americans were further enraged after U-boats sank several U.S. cargo ships. The final blow was the sinking of the luxury liner Lusitania. America joined the war on Apr. 6, 1917.

On Nov. 11, 1918, at 5 a.m., the Allied and German delegates signed an armistice on terms established by the Allies; and at 11 a.m., hostilities on the western front came to an end.

The end of the war on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918 prompted relief and jubilation in all of the warring countries.

Estimated cost in lives, 8,537,800 (source: Encarta® Encyclopedia 2002).

THE VETERAN'S FLOWER

A man walked down the street the other day, the ladies of the Auxiliary came his way. He took a Poppy and gave them a dime, He mumbled, "Why do they take the time?"

He put the Poppy in the buttonhole of his coat. next to some pencils and other notes.

When he got home, he placed the Poppy on the table, that red pretty flower with a little green label.

As he looked at the flower, as if inspired, he wondered "Who put this flower on the wire?" He's probably a man, who once stood tall, and for his country, he gave his all.

He might once have piloted a plane, now gives his all just to walk with a cane. His strong hands were a sense of power, now he makes this little red flower.

In our world, we are busy with money and power, while this man's job is this little red flower. He still takes pride in what he has to do: petal by petal, he makes this flower for you.

Next year, when it comes to "Poppy Day," I'll be glad to see the Auxiliary come my way.

I'll cheerfully give to them generously, For the veteran making this flower could have been me.

Vietnam War

The Vietnam War was a military struggle fought from 1959 to 1975, involving the North Vietnamese and the National Liberation Front (NLF) in conflict with U.S. forces and the South Vietnamese army. From 1946 until 1954, the Vietnamese had struggled for independence from France during the First Indochina War.

The country was temporarily divided into North and South Vietnam. North Vietnam came under the control of Vietnamese Communists, who had opposed France and who aimed for a unified Vietnam under Communist rule. The South was controlled by Vietnamese who had collaborated with the French. The U.S. became involved in Vietnam because it believed that if all of Vietnam fell under a Communist government, Communism would spread throughout Southeast Asia and beyond. The U.S. supported the South Vietnamese government in order to prevent the spread of Communism. The U.S. involvement deepened in August, 1964, when North Vietnamese torpedo boats attacked two American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin. The first U.S. ground troops arrived in March 1965, and by the end of the year, there were 80,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam. By 1969 there were 543,000. That year, U.S. president Richard M. Nixon began to withdraw troops while stepping up the bombing of North Vietnam. Three to four million Vietnamese on both sides were killed, in addition to 1.5 to two million Laotians and Cambodians. More than 58,000 Americans lost their lives.

Persian Gulf

The Persian Gulf War began in August, 1990, when Iraqi forces invaded and occupied Kuwait.

The conflict culminated in fighting in January and February, 1991, between Iraq and an international coalition led by the U.S.

The Iraqi attack began shortly after midnight on Aug. 2, 1990. About 150,000 Iraqi troops overwhelmed the unprepared and inexperienced Kuwaiti forces, which numbered about 20,000.

The U.N. Security Council and the Arab League immediately condemned the Iraqi invasion. Four days later, the Security Council imposed an economic embargo on Iraq that prohibited nearly all trade.

Beginning a week after the Iraqi takeover of Kuwait and continuing for several months, an international force gathered in Saudi Arabia.

The U.S. sent more than 400,000 troops, and another 200,000 troops came from 15 other countries. Other nations contributed ships, air forces, and medical units.

Security Council passed a resolution to allow member states to "use all necessary means" to force Iraq from Kuwait, if Iraq remained after Jan. 15, 1991.

On Jan. 12, 1991, the U.S. Congress passed a resolution authorizing the president to use force. When the U.N. deadline passed without an Iraqi withdrawal, a vast majority of coalition members joined in the decision to attack Iraq. In the early morning of Jan. 17, 1991, coalition forces began a massive air attack on Iraqi targets.

On Feb. 24, the coalition launched its land offensive. Two days after the ground war began, Iraq announced it was leaving Kuwait. On Feb. 28, with the collapse of Iraqi resistance and the recapture of Kuwait, the coalition declared a ceasefire.

On Mar. 2, the U.N. Security Council issued a resolution laying down the conditions for the ceasefire, which were accepted by Iraq in a meeting of military commanders on Mar. 3.

Almost all of the casualties occurred on the Iraqi side, estimated at 20,000 to 35,000. The coalition losses were extremely light by comparison: 240 killed, 148 of whom were Americans.

Iraq War

Viewed by many as a second Gulf War, the Iraq War began on Mar. 20, 2003, when the U.S. led a coalition of some 40 countries into battle with Iraq.

land, air and water assaults, and achieved its objective join of controlling most of the large cities. On Apr. 15, 2003, the invasion was declared complete.

Through 2004, anti-Iraq forces insurgency grew dramatically, with both coalition forces and civilians bearing the brunt of the attacks.

In 2005, the election of an Iraqi government and the ratification of the Iraqi constitution saw the heaviest insurgency date.

The Iraq government took office in 2006 and Saddam Hussein was executed by hanging for his crimes against Iraq Islands, in December of the same year.

A massive increase in U.S. forces in 2007 coincided in a huge decrease in insurgent activity. The Iraq government voted in BRANCH favor of coalition forces leaving the nation.

In 2008, Iraq was able to SPECIFIED start defending itself, as a new Iraqi army was formed Korea, 1952-1954. and its troops started completing basic training.
