Young Writers Earn Honors From W.Va. Young Writers Contest

For over 35 years, the West Virginia Young Writers Contest (YWC) has celebrated student writing in the state. The YWC grows out of a deep commitment to writing in all subjects, and to the publishing, displaying, and celebrating of student writing. The contest is an initiative of the Central West Virginia Writing Project at Marshall University and the West Virginia Department of Education. LKVCS students participated in this year's county contest in the grade categories of 1-2, 3-4, 5-6, 7-8, 9-10, and 11-12.

We are blessed to announce the winners of the county level WV Young Writers in two of those categories. Miss Vada Barnhart won in the 3-4th grade category while Miss Olivia McCroskey won in the 11-12th grade group. In early April, state winners from each category will be notified. These girls have been invited to the WV Young Writers Day at the University of Charleston on May 5, 2023. Vada Barnhart, 4th grade daughter of Clayton and Erin Barnhart. Olivia McCroskey, senior daughter of Chuck and Michelle McCroskey.

LKVCS will be opening their enrollment up to new families, at the end of March. The Hope Scholarship will be available, starting March 1, for new applicants. The website for that can be found at https://www.hopescholarshipwv.com

Project to Fix M/HS Auditorium

In August 2021, a lightning strike blasted sound and light systems in the Calhoun M/HS auditorium. The auditorium that served the school and the community so well for 23 years was quiet and dark.

Since then Music Director, Michael McHenry, has worked with what was available to create a rudimentary system providing some light and some sound.

But to purchase full sound and working stage, concert and house lights is not cheap. The cost of total upgrade was included in the November 2022 levy, which failed by 37 votes.

Biden-Harris Administration Announces $36.2 Million to W.Va. for Water Infrastructure Upgrades

PHILADELPHIA (Feb. 27, 2023) - The U.S. Environmental Protection will hold their annual Fur Agency is awarding $36.2 million to West Virginia from President Biden's Bipartisan Infrastructure Law that communities can use to upgrade essential water, wastewater, and stormwater infrastructure that protects public health and treasured water bodies.

Nearly half of the funding, which comes through this year's Clean Water State Revolving Fund (CWSRF), will be available as grants or principal forgiveness loans helping underserved communities across America invest in water infrastructure, while creating good-paying jobs.

"President Biden's Bipartisan Infrastructure Law is delivering an unprecedented investment in America that will revitalize essential water and wastewater infrastructure across the country," said EPA Administrator Michael S. Regan. "Not only will these funds expand access to clean water and safeguard the environment, but more underserved communities that have been left behind for far too long will be able to access them."

Town of Ellenboro, in Ritchie County, WV received $1.5 million from the CWSRF-BIL funding. The project addresses aging infrastructure, installs a new ultraviolet disinfection system, and provides a new covered sludge press which processes sludge for landfill application.

The Town of Iaeger, in McDowell County, WV is targeted to receive $1.5 million CWSRF-BIL- funding to eliminate 118 failing septic systems.

Today's announcement is part of the $2.4 billion announced as part of the second wave of funding made possible by the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law and builds on the Biden-Harris Administration's commitment to invest in America. In May 2022, EPA announced the initial allotment of $1.9 billion from the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law to states, Tribes and territories through the CWSRF. That money is supporting hundreds of critical water infrastructure projects around the country.

"The Clean Water State Revolving Fund program is a powerful partnership between EPA and the states," said EPA Mid-Atlantic Regional Administrator Adam Ortiz. "West Virginia communities can use this additional funding to make

by Bill Bailey

First off I have an update on Newton, our beloved editor, health crisis. He has been in Camden Clark Hospital at Parkersburg for two weeks now, but the last time that we spoke with him (Tuesday), he was feeling some better and now has hopes of returning to Grantsville within a week or so.

I cannot wait for him Editor's seat. That chair makes me feel quite anxious and uneducated.

Perhaps next week's Chronicle will be back to the way it is supposed to

Once again there is terrible weather around the nation while we here in Sunny Calhoun seem to live in a sweet spot that funnels the Bad weather around us. That is all right and all good until that one particular storm refuses to be deflected and slams us head on. March is a month well known for its epic storms; let's hope that this March has nothing in store for us.

It seems that Fox News is just about to be sued into extinction. I would find that to be a good thing since the word "News" has absolutely nothing to do with "Fox News.'

Back when the world was saner, if you even told a lie on the news programs you were summarily fired and banned from broadcasting.

Apparently News made the ability year a requirement for employment. If you make up what you are calling "news" you should not be allowed to call yourself a "news" show. You are simply an entertainment show that no one should ever watch.

May they rot in a place that requires no provides torment for their everlasting life.

Spring is a couple of weeks early around these parts. Flowers are blooming and trees are popping open their leaf buds. Multi flora roses are showing green leaves already and ramps have only begun to show some green poking up through the detritus of leaves in the woods.

It won't be long until to be sitting back in the the morel mushrooms and tulip poplars wake up from their winter's nap to entice us all to hike around in the woods in search of tasty little tidbits of morels fried in real butter with a little garlic.

I found an old tee shirt of mine that has artwork of morels on it that I have been wearing around the house on weekends just to help get me in the mood for an expedition.

Sunday night I let our dog, Brownie, out around 3 a.m. for her perimeter check to keep the denizens of the holler off of our deck, and I walked out onto the deck into a full blown barred owl hootenanny. There were at least three of them surrounding our house, and they were situated above, below and south of our house and they carried on for almost 10 minutes. It was great!

Sometimes I try to join in with them but this time they were so close to the house (within 200 feet) I was afraid I might say something that might make them mad enough to fly down to the deck to make me take it back. My silence was golden as to tell lie after lie, day I stood there on the deck, after day, year after head back looking at the sky and taking it all in. Oh yeah, while I was listening to the owls Brownie killed another possum for the, I don't know, twelfth time. She has yet to figure out that possums die quick so that they can avoid all of the pain that Brownie can dish out. I believe that she outside heat and always thinks that I dispose of the possums, not that they wake up and waddle off.

BRYAN TO TALK TO W.VA. SOLONS -William Jennings Bryan will address the West Virginia legislature on the subject of "evolution" early in April, Rev O. W. Baylor, pastor of Spruce Street Christian Church announce tonight. He added that Mr. Bryan will probably speak in several other cities of this state during his visit.

Mr. Bryan's address here last year on "evolution" started a controversy which has been credited with resulting in the introduction of a bill in the legislature to abolish teaching of the subject in the schools of the state. In his letter to the Rev. Mr. Baylor, Bryan stated he had written Representative Hatton that he will come to West Virginia early in April from Miami, Florida, where he is spending the winter. Plans are underway to have him make addresses in Morgantown, Fairmont, Parkersburg and Huntington before appearing before the legislature. - The Parkersburg News Mr. Parker Hosey is still working at Hartley for the Rictor Oil and

Mr. Troea Morrison started for Big Root Wednesday but on account of the weather he was detained.

Miss Ruth Hosey is suffering with a boil on her

Miss Ona Hosey met with a very alarming accident last Thursday when she fell off of the foot bridge opposite the Big Root school house. She sunk twice and was sinking the third time when rescued by a school mate, Hollie Davis.

The angel of death has visited and taken from among us Rachel Wright, aged 47 years, 9 months and two days. The deceased was the wife of C. D. Wright and the mother of eight children. She was the daughter of Mary and Anderson Elliott. Mrs. Wright accepted Christ as her savior in early girlhood, lived a constant Christian life and was kind to others.

1948, 75 years ago WHY THE DELAY? -

During the early days of World War II, the people of the United States suffered the dismaying experience of a succession of military and naval defeats administered by a nation with a greatly inferior capacity for war. The wealthiest country months of military and naval disaster simply because it lacked the ships, the planes and the trained manpower to meet its enemies on anything approaching equal terms.

Why is this so? Was it because the United States government lacked the funds to wage a war? Everyone knows this was not the case. We had the money from the start—enough to deluge our enemies, but we had to swallow so much of the salt of defeat simply because of the necessary delay in converting dollars into planes, warships and big guns. In short, our war effort, though virtually immune from financial limitations, still had to submit to the limitations imposed by the physical facts of production.

And these limitations cost us precious lives and irreplaceable treasures. The story of our position in the early months of World War II is recalled here because it parallels in many respects the situation which prevails today in highway construction. We have the money right now to engage in a highway program of awesome magnitude. We have the means a few years ago. But still construction seems to lag.

Why? Not because of any lack of funds, but because highway construction is being held down by the same physical limitations that hampered the American war effort in the early days after Pearl Harbor. We are delayed in converting these vast funds of ours into construction machinery, into man-power andinto road material.

The chairman of the Roads subcommittee of the House Public Works committee recently summed up the reasons why Congress extended for an additional year the period in which the states may obligate their annual apportionments under this act. He said: "We discovered that because of work stoppages and the high cost of materials, many of the states would be handicapped, and many of the contractors would be unable, because of shortage of equipment, to complete the work they had started within even the original grace period of 12 months." Indeed, so severely has this program been stymied by the inability of the states to spend their highway funds that Congress has thus far found it necessary to appropriate less than one-third of the $1,500,000,000 of federal grants authorized for the fiscal years 1946, 1947 and 1948. That is to say, although the program has entered its third year, the first year's funds have not yet been entirely used.

Our war effort never suffered from lack of funds. Neither does our road program. But we shall have to wait now, as we waited then, until the bottlenecks are broken and the continuing stream of highway dollars can be converted into highway mileage

by Dr. Jerry D. Wilson, Emeritus Professor of Physics, Lander University

This week's question comes from a flyconscientious column reader.

QUESTION: How do biting flies locate their prey? It seems that sometimes moving away a few feet will lose them.

REPLY: One might think that the prev's motion would alert the fly. After all, flies do have two compound eyes with 3000-6000 simple eyes in each. Yet, their vision is not very sharp; they're earsighted, I suppose. Instead, they rely more on their acute sense of smell to locate food. So, I would speculate that when you move a few feet away, you are likely both out-of-sight and out-of-smell (particularly if you are downwind).

Let's take a closer look at these pesky critters. Flies are known to be the carriers of disease, as female flies love to lay their eggs in garbage and manure. Furthermore, their reproduction rate is incredible. From April to August, one female could have 190 quintillion (18 zeros) descendants. Of course, that's assuming that all of her female offspring survive long enough to reproduce. Luckily for us, those breaks in the chain allow provide slight liberation so that we are not totally inundated by so many flies.

The common housefly has no equipment for biting, but sucks up liquid foods. However, sand flies and stable flies are both biting flies which closely resemble the housefly. Sand flies are usually found in wet, warm regions and some even transmit disease by biting. While they are most common in southern Asia, they do have relatives here in the United States. Fortunately, our domestic varieties do not carry disease. The stable fly sucks blood from mammals, making the species more abundant in places where cattle are kept—hence the name. It can, however, enter the home, which is why it is sometimes referred to as author of both technical the "biting housefly."

The horsefly (also known as the gadfly) is about three times the size of the housefly. You might be familiar with this fly's green head. Its cousin, the deer fly, is slightly smaller. Only the female horsefly is bloodsucking. Meanwhile, the male horsefly feeds on nectar and plant sap.

My main experience with biting flies was in in the world, and the most powerful, had to endure upstate New York some years ago, where they have black flies. These little critters are more affectionately known as "no-see-ums," or "all-jaws." You probably won't feel their bite at first, but if you're wearing shorts on the golf course, you may notice small specs of blood on your legs. These bite marks can also be excruciatingly itchy, as well.

Re-Run: Biting Flies February 23, 2023

In fairness, I must report that there are some useful flies. Some species destroy plant lice, some eat decaying vegetable matter, and some consume other insects. But biting or otherwise, the main thing to remember is to never get a fly in your ointment!

He took office Saturday morning, March 3, at a to build more roads than we dreamed of possessing commission meeting. Offutt will serve until the next general election. The commission held a lengthy session concerning ambulance services in the county, hearing representatives from the Governor's Highway Safety Commission, and Health, Inc., explain what services for emergency conditions should be offered. Training of personnel to operate the emergency vehicles and give proper aid to accident victims was also discussed.

The commission selected some persons to work on a committee to further plan for emergency medical services. On this committee are Victor Hamilton, Ira C. Stump, Dave Stephenson, Elva Vaughan, M. S. Allen, George Lambiotte, Chester Fluharty, W. B. Morrison, Park Richards and the three commission members.

Budget requests were considered, and a further budget meeting was set for Saturday, March 10, at Governor 9 a.m. to continue budget planning. It was reported that a sheriff's cruiser had been ordered and would inaugural probably arrive within the next few days. The vehicle was ordered after investigation of the cost of providing a vehicle or paying mileage to the sheriff to use his own car. State law now provides for a standard type vehicle for the use of the county sheriff, even calling for specific colors, black with silver gray top, and with insignia. State law also requires the sheriff to appear musician Nathaniel H. at all times in a uniform, except when on special duties. This regulation, in Section 6, Article 8, Chapter 15, of the West Virginia Code, went into effect Jan. 1, 1973, requiring all sheriffs and deputies to comply with a designated dress uniform. The commission also considered application of an extension of the Pleasant Hill Public Service District to include the Cabot Station area, and will take formal action after a map of the area is submitted. My Home Among the Hills

by Mellody Walburn

My Home Among the Hills

Although the calendar says we have a few more weeks of winter, I have officially declared the season over at my home among the hills. This weekend I packed away all of my snowmen and took the white candles out of my windows. This week I will put out my St. Patrick's Day decorations and locate the bin with my spring and Easter decorations to have them ready to go up later in the month.

After traveling to Canaan Valley on the ski trip and hearing that it had been too warm there to make snow, I knew my dreams of any type of real winter were over. Thankfully, there was still enough snow left over from earlier in the season for the seniors to have session that ended with them all coming down the hill together.

After a quick lunch, the kids hit the ski slopes while the other chaperones and I waited at the bottom and prayed for safety for all. Our prayers were answered, and we finished the day with a little bit of ice skating and dinner at a buffet. A good time was had by all, and I was thrilled to check that event off my list.

I was dragging a bit on Tuesday after such a long day, but it helped to know that I would be having dinner with friends that evening. Last Tuesday was what is called Fat Tuesday; this is the day before Ash Wednesday, which is the beginning of Lent. It is traditional to eat pancakes, and the Mlyneks were making homemade Belgian waffles. They were delicious, and it was so nice to spend an evening eating and laughing with family and friends.

After a good night's sleep, I was feeling more like myself on Wednesday. After school, I headed to my parents' house to spend some time with them and Rascal. Dad had picked up food from Grinder's for dinner. Maricia and Andy joined us, and we ate a delicious meal together. The Mlyneks and Dad went to Bible study at our church while Mom and I settled not heard in our land, when we could assemble, at in for the evening. Rascal curled up at my feet, and I worked on my lesson plans for the upcoming week. They were mostly finished when Dad returned. It was a good evening.

Since I had made such progress on my lesson plans the night before, I was able to finish them up on Thursday and even get the copies I would need for the week made. This meant I could use my planning period on Friday to grade papers, which would make a big dent in the work I had to do at home over the weekend. This put me in a great mood as I headed home on Thursday. I wouldn't be there long though; I was heading to the library for Trivia Night. My team did a great job, even if we came in second, and the taco bar was fantastic. We will definitely be back for the next night of trivia.

When Friday afternoon rolled around, I really needed to spend some time at my house. I hadn't been there hardly at all, except to shower and sleep. I knew I would be on the go for most of the weekend, so I lengthen my time any. If I was to do as I proposed to had a list of chores I needed to accomplish before I let you, I fear it would ruin my character forever, and I myself relax. This included packing away my winter will come back honorable if I can. Though I know decorations, doing laundry, paying bills, and emptying you would remain true to your promise it would be and filling the dishwasher. I made a quick stop at the parents', walked Rascal, and then headed home. I wait a little longer, and trust to that good being to was motivated to finish in time to do a little pleasure whom I owe so much, believing that if I do my duty reading before bed, and I was successful.

The weekend started out cold and sleety but eventually cleared up and became beautiful. I have been meaning to fill my bird feeders, and I finally got around to that on Sunday afternoon. I had been to church with the family and then to lunch at the Little Kanawha Valley Christian School. Our friend Erin had invited us to come to a Soup for the Soul fundraiser. Boy, were we glad we did. There were so many different types of soups to try as well as homemade bread and cornbread, and a variety of cookies. It was hard to choose a favorite soup for the contest, but I went with the chicken gnocchi.

Thankfully, this week is a much quieter one; I might actually get to spend some time at home in the evenings. I do know that I will be at the history center on Friday night because we are extending the hours until 6:00 pm to hopefully encourage people to come in and check out the local art before it comes down. Be sure to stop by.

Head Quarters 11th Regt WV Vols Camp 24A.C. Chapins Farm, Va. January 29th 1865 My Dear Girl,

Your very kind letter of 18th inst' was received They started the day with a two-hour tubing on Friday 27th, but I have not till this morning, had time to answer it; the opportunity for which I now embrace.

I am happy to say that my health still continues good, and I sincerely hope that this may find you enjoying the same great and good blessing.

Your letter was very satisfactory and afforded me much pleasure to read it, and I do assure you that a letter from a true and devoted friend as you are, is one of the greatest pleasures that I am permitted to enjoy in my present situation. Well I must tell you that we moved our camp again vesterday (28th.) up to the breastworks on the front. We now occupy the old encampment where Gen'l Terry's troops, which went to Wilmington a few weeks since, left. We have first rate quarters here, can see the rebel lines from where we are; the weather is very cold and windy, indeed I almost froze yesterday as we came up. We are about 2 miles from Deep Bottom, this is known as "Chapins Farm"

This is Sunday, and everything is quiet, thoughts of happy Sundays and pleasent society flit through my mind, as I sit here writing. Yes of the time when the sound of the warriors bugle was the homes of our friends and pass a pleasent and happy day, but how changed now, we are engaged in a deadly civil war, among our selves, thousands of once happy family circles in both sections of the country are to day broken and friends left to mourn the loss of some noble son, brother, husband or

How many more such must fall, before this struggle will end, is beyond the power of human vision. God only knows. I hope though that the time is not far distant when the war will stop and peace once more smile upon us. I do believe that every thing at present indicates that the end is nigh

Well I would like to come home and see you again, but fear it will be impossible for me to do yet awhile; changes are about to take place here that will compel me to remain for some time, but will not a stigma on me, hard to get shut off, therefore I will He will bring me safely through.

You will probably hear of some thing in my next letter, that will surprise you, and if it occurs, I know you will say I have acted for the best. Now don't be too anxious to know what that "something" is, for fear it would be a failure. I will write you a full account when the affair is decided; give my regards to Martin & Alfred and all the family, and to yourself I give all the love I possess, which I believe you already possess.

Write again soon, direct as before, except to "Chapins Farm".

Remaining most affectionately your own true and devoted, Michael

> Head Quarters 11th WVa Vols Chapins Farm., Va. Feb 2, 1865 My Dearest Mary:

It has been several days since I have heard from you, and nothing would afford me more pleasure (except I could come back to you) than to get another letter from you. I have written very often, and have no doubt but you get all my letters yet I can not expect an answer to every one I write, for I know you can not do so, but I do think there will be one here for me in a day or two.

I am still in good health, and getting along very well, and do most fondly hope this note may find you in the same good state of health, and enjoying yourself excellent.

Every thing is quiet here yet, and I begin to think the war is soon to close, peace is talked of very much and the general opinion is that it will be declared in the course of a month at least. I hope such may be the case. Commissioners from Richmond went down the James River Tuesday on their way to Washington, to make some propositions, looking toward a settlement of the trouble and every person here thinks it will be a success.

Of course, this is news and the most important news that we can expect, and may they be entirely successful is my most ardent wish, then would come the happy day of general rejoicing in our country, our great armies would be disbanded, and the soldiers come home, and the day of our union come after so long a time of faithful waiting and constancy.

Utility Bill Payment Assistance

Sadly, many people in West Virginia have a hard time making ends meet. Utility bills are a necessity that everyone must fit into the budget. If you struggle, there are resources that can help.

One of the first things to consider is budget billing. Many utilities offer this as a way to avoid sharp spikes or dips in your bill from month to month. Knowing how much your bill will be each month makes it easier to plan your budget.

If you receive financial assistance through the Department of Health and Human Resources, you may qualify for a 20% discount on your heating and water bills. The Special Reduced Residential Service Rate Program is administered by DHHR and is available from all natural gas and electric utilities, except municipal or cooperative service providers. West Virginia American Water also participates in the

If you receive assistance from Social Security Supplemental Security Income, WV WORKS, Temporary Aid to Needy Families, or if you are at least 60 years old and receive Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program assistance, ask DHHR if you qualify for the utility discount program.

Another source of possible assistance is United Way's 211 program. Simply dial 2-1-1 to get contact information for agencies throughout the state that can help with utility bills and other household needs.

If you fall behind on utility bills, ask your utility about a deferred payment plan. The Public Service Commission requires that customers who have been notified their service is scheduled to be terminated for non-payment be given an opportunity to enter into a deferred payment agreement. Customers who have accrued an uncontested outstanding balance they are unable to pay may qualify for a deferred payment plan that allows them up to 12 months to catch up on their bill. However, you must request the plan before the utility discontinues your service, and current monthly bills must be paid in addition to the plan amount. Once service is disconnected the company is not required to honor the request for a 12-month payment plan and may require a substantial portion of the balance due be paid in order to restore service. Contact the Public Service Commission prior to a scheduled service termination if you need assistance in establishing a deferred payment agreement with your utility company. Our staff will work with you and your service provider to try to resolve the situation.

Waste Not/Want Not

Since it's supposed to be winter, and people are in the house more than they are outside, I have a few hints for inside smells.

- 1. If you don't smoke but you have some company, friends, or relatives who do; here is what you do. Place fresh sliced apple wedges on a plate and set them where each ashtray was placed. Throw the wedge away after its porous flesh absorbs the tobacco scent, unless of course you don't mind baking apples that taste like smoke.
- 2. How about a basement that smells musty? I do wish that I had a basement and if it smelled musty; here's what I would do. I would place a shallow box filled with kitty litter in a corner; the litter draws moisture from the air eliminating damp, strong odors. If the smell is really bad, use two
- 3. Have a funky bathroom smell? Well, before you place a new roll of toilet paper on the holder, dab or mist the inside of the cardboard with your favorite perfume or aftershave, as the case may be, to release a bit of fragrance with each and every
- 4. Burn something in the oven? Try this old chef's trick; wrap some cinnamon sticks in aluminum foil and bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Within minutes, the burnt odor will be replaced by the spice's sweet scent
- 5. Okay, what about a stale closet? Place some white sidewalk chalk in a clean mesh bag (you can simply reuse the kind potatoes and onions come in) and hang the bag in your closet without using up closet space. The mini-odor eraser will suck moisture from the air while keeping your clothes fresh.

I hope these hints help keep you un-smelly.

After the levy failed, a group of people formed the Sound & Light Project, Inc., to repair and replace the sound and light systems in the auditorium. Director of the project is Deidre Purdy. Board members are Loren Howley, Chip Westfall, MG Gainer, and Paul Brown.

The project working with the county Board of Education and has their full support for the project.

Sound & Light is developing a basic budget to provide in grant requests, and so that donors will know how their money will be used.

The plan is to upgrade the sound system with new amplifiers, subwoofers, and handheld microphones. For Lighting, the goal is to replace all lights in the auditorium with LEDs. They are more expensive to install, but use 80% less power, last 5 times longer, and can be controlled from a laptop program with no need for an expensive console. This would be a modern system that should last for decades.

The current working goal is to raise $60,000. The estimated time for completion of the project is the fall of 2023.

Creston News

by Alvin Engelke

Phone 275-3578

Linda Wright did not get a good report on her cancer. She is to start treatments. The St. Valentine's Day steak special at Shade Tree was a wild success. The meat was tasty like a good steak should be and many local folks had a great time.

Mousey Jackson who has a place in Creston passed away down in North Carolina. He had been sick for quite some time, Carl and Donna Ferrell went down there and Melissa came to help with the grandchildren.

Eli Ferrell, a scholar at the Christian school at Brooksville, led the Wirt County delegation Saturday evening for the gala Lincoln Day dinner held at the Calhoun County Park. Eli is to be a page for Speaker Roger Hanshaw in the legislature on Monday. The meal included Calhoun County grown steak that was cooked just before the dinner by men who knew how to cook tasty food. Puts down a marker for future Lincoln Day dinners, for sure.

Sec. of State and gubernatorial candidate Mac Warner gave an excellent talk to the substantial crowd.

It was noted that a good time was had by all and the enthusiasm for the future of Calhoun County was only positive. Quite a bit was said about the 1982 Foundation and all that is being accomplished. The spring flowers, crocuses, jonquils and daffodils continue to brighten the neighborhood and the amphibians continue to provide musical accompaniment to the spring gala evert which seems to be a little early. Ramps should soon be coming up as well. Some local folks continue to have problems concerning breathing, coughing, likely viruses, etc. ans that the DNA has been modified to allow continued production of the "new product". Also it was ascertained that there were some 'bad batches" [about 5%] of vaccine and all of those were sent to "red states." This was confirmed by the much higher rates of death in Kentucky, Arkansas, North Dakota, West Virginia, etc. These were referred to as "rapid kill lots," a part of the UN Agency 2030 project. Obviously, one cannot believe a word the government man says and now the ruling junta has said that the nation's health has been turned over to WHO [World Health Organization] which has been answering only to Dictator Xi of China. This means mandates, edicts, vaccine passports and all the government intervention in the lives of formerly free citizens.

Ohio Congressman Jim Jordan, who by all rights should be the speaker, will be at the Judge Black Annex to the Wood County Court House on March 10 from 6:30 until 9 p. m. He is there on behalf of Alex Mooney who hopes to retire Broadway Joe 9(or Maserati Joe as he is known as the DC swamps.)

The late Tom Quick from Wirt County was a member of the duPont Haz Mat team, a crew known for knowing their stuff. He noted that there was a "rule of thumb" when dealing with incidents involving "methyl ethyl bad stuff." It worked like this, for if one held out one's thumb and you could still see the incident then you were too close.

The disaster in Ohio only continues to worsen and there is no doubt as to who to blame. Now when snow melts in Ontario there is a rainbow sheen. Next time when one is near a train listen for the "clunk, clunk, clunk". That is the sign of a worn out bearing that needs fixed. That is what caused the hopper car loaded with plastic pellets to jump the track start getting hot.

Instead of working to get the cars back on the tracks someone said, "well just burn them all up.'

After an incident in Nitro, W. Va. in 1949 it has been known that the results of explosions and fires with plastics make dioxins. For decades the EPA has noted that is why you should not burn plastics in one's burn barrels as the dioxins contaminate the vegetation, the critters eat the contaminated food and the toxins build up (and do not break down). Seems these things last "forever." Thus, it is clear that the area of the burn and the area where the smoke cloud moved is now all contaminated perhaps for an extended period of time.

A black buzzard was seen at Annamoriah. Perhaps he came over from the flock at Spencer. Obviously, all the Spencer boys failed triggernometry class but locally Dead Eye Dick and Sure Shot Jones can resolve the problem. The invasive black buzzards like to pick out the eyes of young calves.

The loss of Newsmax TV and One American TV has impacted local folks ability to obtain news without bias. The official government radio, NPR, is said now to be laying off staff as the "alphabets" have picked up the slack and spout only the official dogma. A recent example is the senile man walking in Kiev with air raid sirens going off when the ruling junta had called Vladimir to tell him what was happening and to not do anything to endanger the fictional president. Back when he had more of his marbles he made more than a dozen visits to Ukraine where the family had many investments including the research labs.

Henry Hub natural gas rose to $2.45/MMBTU [dekatherm] while local Pennsylvania grade crude fetched $76.32/bbl. Condensate, formerly known as Appalachian light sweet was $59.32/bbl. with Marcellus and Utica light bringing $66.32 and medium $75.32/bbl.
