So Many Gifts

By Joseph J. Mazzella

I was sitting on a long, black, folding medical table. Beside me was a woman in scrubs talking about the cold change the weather had taken recently. A radio in the corner was playing Christmas music even though it was still weeks away. I took a sip from the bottle of lemonade I had brought with me so I wouldn't get dizzy. I looked around at all the other people laying back on their medical tables too. Each one of us had a needle in our arms with a long tube running down from it filling a plastic bag below. Each one of us had come to give a precious gift to help others, make the world a better place, and perhaps even save a life It was the local blood drive and I had driven 12 miles across snowy roads to get there. I tried never to miss one- even in the wintertime In spite of all the time it one- even in the wintertime. In spite of all the time it took I felt blessed being able to give this gift back to others. I had been given so much in this life: a loving family, many friends, sweet adorable pets, a comfy home, and enough money to meet my needs. Every day my prayers always included the words: "Thank you God for my life." The gifts I had been given felt wonderful, yet the one thing that brought me more happiness than anything else was giving something back. You see, in this life nothing brings you as much joy as taking your place in the great circle of Love that God created for us all. In this circle you receive and you give until it all becomes one. The more you give back, the more you get in return. The more love you let flow from your heart, the more love flows into it from above. There are so many gifts you can give in this life too: a smile, a kind word, a few dollars, a hug, a caring letter or e-mail, and even a pint of blood. Each one of them is priceless and precious. Each one of them brings a little more Heaven into your heart. Each one of them makes God smile. May you fill your life with giving then. May you fill your life with Love.

How many times in a row does James Brown repeat the word "I" in his top ten single "Please, Please, Please?"

We know her as: Connie Francis.

God in a Box

Don't put God in a box. This means of pardon for the disobediidiom means you shouldn't limit what God can do and don't restrict Him by your unbelief. God is all-powerful and can do anything, don't doubt His promises. But often it's a way to shut down any discerning discussion about the Almighty. Someone says that God can do something or the other, and if you object because the Bible doesn't say that, you may get the reply, "Don't put God in a box!" Q.E.D.
Question - how do you know that God can do anything He wants? Who told you that? The Scriptures are God's self-revelation to His people. We know about God because God has told us, in the Scripture, what He has chosen to reveal about Himself. He has revealed some of His divine perfections and aspects of His nature and character. The Lord has told us what He requires of us, the consequences of disobedience, and how He has graciously provided

Do I Really Talk In My Sleep

By Dr. James L. Snyder For a long time, The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage has accused me of talking in my sleep. I never believed her and just thought she was joking. At least, I thought it was a joke.
One time she accused me of that and said, "Why do you talk so much in your sleep at night?"
Thinking this was a platform for jokes, I said, "That's because, during the day, I don't have any opportunity to talk." Then I flashed her one of my signature smiles.

She didn't throw any smile back but stared at me for a few moments with that stare that went right through my body.

It was about our third Christmas, and as we gathered around the Christmas tree, I handed her a little Christmas box all wrapped up in red paper with a nice little bow on the paper top.
Looking at me, she smiled and said, "Is this the watch you were talking about in your sleep the other night?"
Quite frankly, I did not know how to respond to that. It was a watch, but I did not know I had been talking about it in my sleep. So there has to be another reason for that!
be ane morng for that were finishing, I said to her "I've been thinking that today been thinking that today
She interrupted me and said to get that new computer you've been get that now in talking about in your sleep.
I have been worrying about what secrets I'm exposing at night while I'm sound asleep.

Then the other day at breakfast time, she looked at me and said, "I think that's an excellent idea you have."
Looking at her, I wondered what she was talking about, so I said, "What are you talking about?" "You know," she said with a big smile, "that vacation you're planning for this coming sum think it is a wonderful idea.' To be truthful, I had been thin ing about a special vacation this coming summer, but I hadn't said anything to her about it up to this point. How in the world does she know I'm thinking about this vacation?

Not knowing what to say, I looked at her, "Where did you ever get that idea?"
With one of her chuckles, she said, "You know. That vacation you were talking about in your sleep last night. I agree with everything you said about it.
I was a little bit off at this point. I was thinking about that vacation, but I had no idea what I said in my sleep last night. I was afraid to ask her about the details of that vacation.

I'm not sure if I need a psychologist or what! How can I keep from talking in my sleep at night? And, what if while I'm sleeping, I'm talking nonsense and get myself into deep trouble with the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage? Can I really believe that what I say while I'm sleeping is actually true?
Thinking about this for some time, I devised a little plan. One night I would pretend I was asleep and talk in my sleep, or at least pretend to. It took me a while to come up with some idea, but eventually, I did.
I pretended I was asleep one night, and I began talking around the middle of the night. I said, "I think I'm going to surprise my wife by buying her a brand-new car. After all, she deserves it."

I thought this might bring some closure to all of these myths about me talking in my sleep. Finally, I went to sleep and was quite anxious to get up in the morning and hear the response from The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage. I was surprised when she said anymore. If you told others that I would not be a good candidate for power forward for WVU, is that "putting me in a box?" No, you would simply agree with the information I have already told you. You have a more accurate understanding of who I am by knowing something that I cannot do.
It would be arrogant and foolish for me to tell you what God can and cannot do - if God had not told us about Himself. The Lord has graciously told us that we might know, love, and worship Him. Notice that when Paul prays for the churches in the New Testament, one theme is that the believers would grow in the knowledge of the Lord Jesus (Philippians 1:9; Ephesians 3:19; Colossians 1:9). To know God through Christ isn't to imagine what He might be like or assume that God will act the way we think He ought but the way we think He ought, but to meditate on what He has told listening to Him tell us who He is nothing about me talking in my sleep last night.
Maybe she fell asleep and didn't hear me. So, I decided to try it the next night.

That following day there was absolutely nothing she said about me talking in my sleep.
I did this for two more nights in a row, and to my surprise, she never even acknowledged that I talked in my sleep.
I wondered if all of this talking in my sleep was just a fantasy from her point of view. I didn't know what to do next because nothing I was doing was actually working.

Then I decided to do it one more night.

The following day at breakfast, while we were eating, she stared at me, and I said, "Is something wrong?"
"I don't think that was very fun-
"What are you talking about?" I asked her.

You know what I mean, all that talking about buying me a new car, but I know you were not asleep when you said that. You are just trying to trick me, and I $m$ not going to have anything to do with that."
I have learned that it is true only when I'm talking in my sleep. When I talk when I'm awake, it is not true. Oh, for the life of a husband!

Then I was reminded of a verse in the Bible. "For there is not a word in my tongue, but, lo, O Lord, thou knowest it altogether" (Psalm 139:4).
I'm comfortable with knowing God hears everything I say. With that I need to discipline my tongue and keep in under control.

Lady Mustangs barbecue the Lady Hawks

 in the season openerBy Allen Hamrick The Lady Mustangs officially opened their pit stop the road with a pit stop at South Harrison Middle school to take on the Lady Hawks. It was time for the Lady Mustangs to hit the floor running; after a romance season last year, new head coach Phil Dobbins head coach Phil Dobbins promised they would promised they would do their best to make it do their best to make it a repeat. They have the goods to get the job done - height, speed, ball control and a good kangaroo pocket of shooters that get the job done from inside the paint and on the perimeter. Only time will, tell though, and a will, tell though, and a butt whipping here to start the season off would start the season off would be a good start.
The JV Lady Mustangs hit the floor first, and it would have taken four forklifts to get the jaws off the floor as the girls came out and proceeded to corral the Lady Hawks back into their cages. The offense delivered 15 points via airmail in the first period before the Lady Hawks could get their game wings on. Lady Mustangs' defense was half basketball half beast as the Lady Hawks could only manage a goose egg only manage a goose egg in the first period, and by the half, it was 21-3 Lady Mue half, it was 21-3 Lady Mustang JV. By the time the JV Lady Mustangs hooves stopped stomping on birds, the score stood at 34-6 for the final I can say to future opponents is that if you think the JV Lady Mustangs are pushovers you better bring a towel to wipe the bring a towel to wipe the shot in the JV over. Top Layla Parker who could Layla Parker who could shoot the eyes out of a tater at 50 paces. She finished the game with 13 points. Following with 13 points. Following closely was Autumn Rapp who did a bombing run from the perimeter hitting for 12 points of her own Next up, it was time for the Lady Mustang for the Lady Mustang varsity to bring their high flying circus act to the hardwood. The first period opened up with a Lady Mustang flurry as the fans eyes had to cross several times just to catch the high speed action. It was so fast that by the time they tried to

Lady Panthers throw in the towel in season opener

Ilyauna Evans looks for some dribbling room.
By Allen Hamrick
The Lady Panthers opened their season on the open road against Charleston Catholic last week. The Ladies came into this game planning to do some old fashioned, butt whipping basketball. With new players coming up from the CCMS from up from the CCMS from last season, they would last season, they would be well on their way to a great season. However, in their opening game of in their opening game of the season, they may as well been trying to dribble porcupines as Charleston Catholic made them pay the price for mistakes. It was like trying to scratch an itch with a feather as the Lady Panthers tried to get the offense rolling. The Lady Panthers ing. The Lady Panthers defense, and Charleston

Paris Williams searches for fom the corner.

Catholic took advantage of it. The Lady Panthers were getting a few looks at the net but had plenty of hands in their faces blocking the view. The hoop was like trying to thread a needle with paracord as the Lady Panthers struggled to get points on the board; they just drop through the net drop through the net. half of play, the Lady Par half of play, the Lady Panthers managed just three points on the boards the struggles continued to the struggles continued to plague them. However, in the second half, the Lady Panthers started getting their game on and were filling the hoop and getting points. Charleston Catholic wasn't burning the boards up too much as the Lady Panthers defensive game stepped up to the plate and started making their presence known. When the game finally ended, it was Charleston Catholic beating the Lady Panthers by the score of 48-23. It was a tough opener for the Lady Panthers. Webster County was up next for the Lady Panther home opener and the voodoo just kept punching the needles in the Lady Panther dolls. Webster came out swinging, and the Lady Panthers kept it close early but couldn't maintain the pressure on the net. When it was over, Webster was on the top of the hill beating the Lady Panthers 50-29. Offensively, the Lady Panthers are going to have to get their goal percentages up or it will be a long season. There is no doubt that the Lady Panthers have the skill on the team; they just have to apply a tourniquet to stop the bleeding. Go Lady Panthers!

cheer on their own team that play was over and the Lady Mustangs were to be out done, the Lady Hawks got into a Lroove Hawks got into a groove the Lady Mustan in Lady Mustang... in the first period. Lady Mustang defense stepped up and applied a thou up and applied a thou sand pounds of pressure on Lady Hawk offense, and it broke apart like a hammer hitting glass. On the other hand, the Lady Mustangs proceed ed to burn the net adding 10 more points to the pot making the score 20-12. After the half, the Lady Hawks came out swinging but were unable to bring the fire to the court as the Lady Mustangs went to work

Lady Mustangs capture $2^{\text {nd }}$ at the CWVAC Cheer championship
By Allen Hamrick
The CWVAC Cheerleading championship was held this past Saturday at Buffalo Putnam High School. The Lady Mustang squad returned to the floor with their high flying routines and tumbling acts to try once again to capture the championship. With nerves tighter than banjo strings, the Lady Mustangs strode onto the court with their heads held Ligh, and, in Lady Mustang cheerleading fashion, cheered, flipped, twirled, stunted, lifted and danced as their hamstrings were stretched to their limits with high flying kicks strings were stretched to their limits with high flying kicks and tumble runs. All I can say is don't try and steal their pom poms; they could spin your chin around your head till you could see into next week
The Lady Mustangs have held the trophy a few times over the years and were due for another run for the gold. Cheerleading is a tough sport - if you don't think so, go out into the yard do a hand stand while kicking an apple out of the tree, flip upside down, and bounce up off the grass all with a smile on your face. Back that up by muscling your dog high in the air on a stunt, catching it after sending it airborne without dropping it on its head and never lose your composure. There were some of the top squads in the region at the event which included Summersville, Braxton, South Harrison, George Washington, Webster, Clay and Ravenswood. A win here would mean you would almost have to be flawless in your routine. The Lady Mustangs were $6^{\mathrm{h}}$ in the rotation so they would be able to get a good look at the competition. There were some really good routines, and it would boil down to who made the least amount of mistakes. The Lady Mustangs took to the floor and performed a nearly mistake free routine as the judges squared off the scores. When they finished, fans really felt that they would take home the gold again, but it wasn't to be. The Lady Knights of Braxton County took home the 2022 CWVAC championship with the Lady Mustangs coming in a close second, just four points from the lead. Taking the $3^{\text {rd }}$ spot was George Washington. The Lady Mustangs were disappointed but left the event on a high note.
Layla Parker and Jacalyn Moore were awarded the All Conference Cheerleaders while Ivy Beard and Jayda Stricker grabbed the All-Tournament CWVAC cheer competition awards. Congratulations to these Lady Mustangs on their accomplishments!
