STEM Activities Make Learning Fun at Big Otter Elementary

With just some baking soda, a water bottle, vinegar, and a balloon, students learned a lot about reactions between acids and bases. The reaction between the vinegar and the baking soda creates carbon dioxide, which inflates the balloon.

Toothpicks and miniature marshmallows provide ample opportunity for creative engineering designs. Designs are also edible!

Survey reveals sinking confidence in public school among voters

By Nadia Ramlagan tricts implement new for WVNS approaches to help stu-

Five in 10 voters say their confidence in the public school system has decreased since the start of the Covid crisis and over the past year, according to a recent nationwide survey by education think tank the Hunt Institute.

According to data from the National Bureau of Economic Research, reading and math test scores in West Virginia dropped significantly during the course of the pandemic.

Bob Wise, education consultant and former West Virginia Governor, said nearly 60% of voters and parents strongly agree states and school districts should be using federal relief dollars to support schools.

"What our polling data shows us, is people don't want to go back just to normal in education," Wise pointed out. "They want a new normal, they weren't that happy before."

In West Virginia, programs like Sparking Early Literacy Growth are helping school districts implement new approaches to help students regain losses in reading and comprehension.

More than one million students have left public schools since the start of the pandemic, while private school enrollment went up by nearly 20% between 2020 and 2021.

Wise added rather than book-banning or curriculum censorship, parents want state leaders to take action to ensure their kids are taught real-world skills, are safe, and have mental health resources.

"They're interested in personalized learning for their children, because they know that they've had a rough time over the last three years," Wise reported. "They're supporting their teachers, they're very concerned about mental health."

The survey showed nationwide, only a quarter of parents believe school district officials, state education leaders, and school board members did a good job of handling the pandemic.

Clay County CERT Participates in Clay County High School Wellness Day

Clay County High School hosted a Wellness Day on Friday, Dec. 2, 2022, featuring a range of activities and resources focused on promoting health and preparedness in the community. One of the highlights of the event was the presence of Clay County CERT (Community Emergency Response Team), who distributed preparedness materials and recruited volunteers.

In addition to recruiting new volunteers, CERT also registered blood donors at the event. Blood donations are critical for maintaining a healthy and reliable supply for those in need, and CERT was pleased to have the opportunity to encourage community members to give blood and make a difference in the lives of others.

The Wellness Day at Clay County High School was a great success, with many community members taking advantage of the resources and activities on offer. Clay County CERT is grateful to have had the opportunity to participate in the event and promote the organization's mission of promoting preparedness and resilience in the community.

During the event, CERT members distributed preparedness materials, such as emergency supply lists to attendees. They also highlighted the importance of giving back to the community in times of need. The Wellness Day featured a variety of activities and demonstrations, including yoga and meditation sessions, cooking demonstrations, and informational booths on topics such as mental health and emergency preparedness.

"Wellness Day was a very successful event for us, and we are excited to work with the High School in the future," said Service

& Management coordinator, Isaac Brown. "We hope that by providing information and resources, we can encourage our community to be better prepared for any emergency situation that may arise."

The event was a success, with nearly 500 attendees and numerous volunteers and blood donors being recruited. Clay County CERT would like to thank Clay County High School and all those who participated in making the Wellness Day a success. The organization looks forward to continuing to serve and support the community in the future

Sewing Machines Needed at CCMS

By Allen Hamrick

We are going to have a beginners sewing class at the Clay County Middle School in the afterschool program. There are many fields open to those who know how to sew including the garment industry, design, upholstery, crafts, quilt making, and more. Or it can be just for the sewing needs that come up around the home. It can be for fun or profit and it all begins with learning your first stitch. In the class we will be covering is the main parts of a sewing machine, how to clean and maintain it, needle and bobbin threading, basic stitches used in sewing, and maybe a small project or two. If you have a working portable sewing machine that you no longer need and would like to donate to a beginning sewist, please drop it off at the Clay County Library earmarked for the CCMS sewing class. The manual would be great to have with the machine. Please, include your contact information. In the case that the class is too small for the number of machines that may be donated, leave a note saying what you want done with it. Thank you in advance for your support!

Policymakers must advocate for Agriculture

By Kent A. Leonhardt, WV Commissioner Agriculture

As my team heads into its seventh Legislative session, we once again set off to advocate on behalf of agriculture, our farmers and West Virginia's food supply. Each and every session, we work diligently to remind our lawmakers the value agriculture adds to the West Virginia economy and security of our citizens. Through our efforts, we have found ways to reduce burdens and barriers on our farmers, expand markets for producers, modernize our code and regulations and put in place protections for our farmland. While we still have so much to do, our priorities for this session will be advocating for investments in local food systems, as well as finding a pathway forward for our laboratory facilities.

As we continue to experience rising energy prices, supply chain issues and inflation, it is vital we invest in the resiliency of our energy and agricultural sectors. During the pandemic, we saw disruptions to our food chain that did and could have devastating effects at the local level. The most visible was grocery stores struggled to keep food on the shelves. Consumers turned to local producers which was only possible because we, at the Department of Agriculture, kept agriculture open. Imagine the state of our economy and effects on the food supply if we had bent to the calls for a broader shut down. Instead, we worked with other states to bring in excess commodities and keep our processing facilities open. We found ways to increase meat production by 200% and still today, we still benefit from a 50% increase in meat processing. All because we kept agriculture moving forward. To continue our effort to foster local food systems, we must fund promotional programs such as the West Virginia Grown and Veterans and Heroes to Agriculture programs. We need to continue to support the growth of our local farmers markets, which have tripled in number since the Department took over their regulation. Our policy makers must put forth resources to attract more processors of all sizes, such as Mountaintop Beverage and Appalachian Abattoir. Both projects will increase our food manufacturing power which will benefit our economy as well as our citizen's health. All these initiatives have been accomplished with little to no taxpayer dollars.

Despite a lack of investment, I am proud of the Department's ability to expand our reach and programmatic response while not increasing the size of government. Comparing our current budget to FY 2008, we have seen only a $428,000 increase. When you include taking over Cedar Lakes Conference Center, Grade A milk authority, farmers markets, hemp regulations, implementing three acrossthe-board pay raises and establishing the Veterans and Heroes to Agriculture program, we are operating on a 23% smaller budget than the Department of 15 years ago. At the same time, we have seen state spending increase upwards of 30% since 2008. Frankly, we are doing more with less, and it is time to reward the employees of the Department by upgrading the facilities they work in every day.

I am delighted by the work my staff and I have accomplished over these last six years, and you should be too. As fiscal guardians, we will never ask for more than we need, but there are necessary investments we must make to move agriculture forward in our State. That includes improving our top-of-the-line laboratory services by rebuilding and upgrading the Guthrie Complex. We are confident this is a worthy investment by the people of West Virginia and have done our due diligence to ensure we do it in the most efficient way possible. Regardless, it is time we make the necessary investments in agriculture. and I hope our lawmakers and you will heed our call.

Happy New Year and Semper Fi,

By Joseph J. Mazzella

One thing for sure is that my home will never be in an issue of Better Homes and Gardens. It isn't just the broken tile on the floors or the worn out furniture covered in dog hair. It is also the walls. Instead of just a few tasteful paintings here and there my walls are literally covered with stuff. There are calendars, pictures of my children and animals, inspirational poems and sayings, nature pictures, birthday and father's day cards, dream catchers, art work my daughter did in grade school as well as her college diplomas, plastic and wooden butterflies, post cards, pictures of my Mom, Dad, Nana, Aunt Charlotte, and other relatives, and pictures of friends and children I've sponsored overseas. I keep them all on my walls because they all remind me of love.

Nestled among them too are 4 faded photos I got over 20 years ago. My former priest had a twin brother who was a missionary and ran an orphanage overseas. I remember I sent a small donation to them back then and received these pictures of children in the orphanage.

One speaks to my heart especially. It is a small boy no more than 8 or 9 years old. He is using a broken ladder as a chair and eating out of metal plate. Yet, even though he had so little, there is a look of such joy on his face. You can see in his smile that he is loved and that is all that matters. All these years later that love and joy still shine through the picture. I still wonder about him too. He would be grown now maybe with children of his own, perhaps passing on all the love he was given to them. I still send him my love and keep him in my prayers.

It is truly amazing how a single moment of love can stay with us for a lifetime. Maybe that is how God intended it to be. Love isn't meant to fade after a moment. It is meant to shine for an eternity. All I know is when I look at that faded photo and see that joyous smile, that moment of love lives on in me. May all of your moments of love live on in you as well.

Discerning Reader

Did you make any New Year's resolutions? One of the most common resolutions (according to people who analyze such random things) is the goal of reading more. A noble pursuit, indeed. I was encouraged to read more in school but never guided. Reading is FUNdamental, they said. Tolle lege, they cried. But rather than pointing me in the right direction, I grabbed books about football from the library and called it a day. Reading bad books could be much worse than not reading at all, but how do you know if the book you are reading is good or

What you need is discernment the ability to distinguish between good and bad. In Hebrews 5:14, we see that knowing the Scriptures and using the Scriptures as our standard for good and evil will increase our ability to discern between good and evil. You will grow in your skill in looking at a situation, and judge (rightly) if it is good or wicked, according to God's standard. Step one in discerning: read your Bible.

A book is just when someone has the gumption to write down what they think about something. They wrote down their thoughts, and someone from a publishing house read it, then put their stamp of approval on it, bankrolled the process, and published the book. Now it is out in the big wide world, but that doesn't mean it's a good book, or even true! Book publishers are businesses trying to make a dollar. Even "Christian" publishers will sell you a whole lot of nothing for a buck. One such publisher continued selling a book about a boy going to Heaven, even after the boy said it was all a fabrication because it was a bestseller. Their job is to sell you a book. Your job is to decide whether to buy it and if you buy it and read it, you need to decide whether you buy what the author is saying. Step two: remember books are written by men, and some are heirs of the Cretians (Titus 1:12).

The author might be right; he might be wrong. He might be spot on in chapters 1-3 but goes off the rails in the fourth. Discernment is eating the meat of the book and tossing the bones away. But if you have a skeleton on your plate, just go on to something better. As a Christian, you must judge them. Not based on how you feel when you read it, or how well he puts his sentences together, but on the truth of what he is saying. I've read books by men who made me envy their ability to write The sentences were so well crafted, with nouns, verbs, and adjectives all living together in perfect harmony. But the substance was unbiblical, therefore, it was bad. Step three: Know that only the Bible is pure and perfect and that even the most well-intentioned men are sometimes wrong (Romans 3:4).

Where Is The Gracious Mistress Of The Parsonage?

Our family's Christmas this year was the best one yet. But, of course, The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage says that every year. I completely agree with her this year.

Our great-granddaughter served as the focal point of our Christmas this year. She assumed that position because she was born two weeks before Christmas. What a gift. This is our second great-grandchild. The first one is in Ohio, and we don't get to see him very often. But this new great-granddaughter is only seven minutes from our house. I was to realize what a difference that would

My granddaughter's mother and grandmother are now there to support this precious little great-granddaugh-

The time our granddaughter's mother can spend with her granddaughter is limited because of her work schedule.

The great-grandmother, the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage, is free to visit the great-granddaughter whenever she pleases. Her "free" does have a cost, and I would soon find out that cost.

Every time we visit, I have to pull the great-grandmother away. I'm not entirely sure how this great-granddaughter will affect her when she's a few months old and then a few years old because she's only a few weeks old now. So I need to get ready for

The previous week was an interesting one.

The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage came to my office on Monday morning as I was working and said, "I'm going to visit my great-granddaughter, and I prepared lunch in the refrigerator for you in case I don't get back in time."

She sped off and drove to the great-granddaughter's house without waiting for any response from me.

It was a relatively quiet morning. I stopped to check the time and realized it was time to eat. When I entered the kitchen, it was completely dark and quiet. I then recalled her mentioning going to the great-granddaughter's house. My lunch was in the refrigerator, just as she had predicted. So I took the lunch plate out of the fridge and sat in my chair to eat my meal. I then returned to the kitchen with my empty plate and entered my office to continue working on my day's project. Because I had not heard any sounds coming from the other rooms of the house. I decided to check on the infamous great-grandmother. She wasn't anywhere in sight.

I hoped she didn't have an accident because I didn't know where she could be. That started to worry me. She's never been known to leave the house for an extended period without sending me a text or making a phone call. Did she have a problem of some

I was ready to text her on my cell phone when I heard her pull into the driveway. Then, as she entered the door, she said, "I forgot what time it was. I was having so much fun...." Then she began story after story of time with her great-granddaughter that day. When I woke up the following morning, her side of the bed was vacant. I assumed she awoke early to prepare breakfast. There was no one in the kitchen when I went there.

Looking around, I noticed a note on the refrigerator, "My great-granddaughter needed me this morning, so I dropped everything to go and help her. Make your own breakfast."

Making a meal was simple because I'm not much of a breakfast hound dog. So the coffee was the main component of my breakfast, and there was plenty of it.

When I stopped midway through the morning while working in my office, I heard no noise coming from the other parts of the house. Unless there was an emergency involving the great-granddaughter, I assumed my wife should have returned home by this point.

I started to worry about the welfare of that tiny infant. Why would The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage be so preoccupied with her if nothing was wrong?

When lunchtime arrived, I made my lunch. There's nothing better than a peanut butter and jelly sandwich for lunch and a hot cup of coffee. So I returned to my desk after lunch to pick up on my work. I paused and listened for a while lence. I was starting to worry a little bit. Was the great-granddaughter ill, or did the great-grandmother get into some accident returning home? Where is The Gracious Mistress of

after lunch, but there was only si-the Parsonage? Then I heard her drive into the driveway, exit the car, and enter the house. Then, I asked, "Is the great-granddaughter having any problems?"

"Oh, the great-granddaughter is doing great," she said, beaming one of those smiles in my direction. "I spent the entire day with her and had a great time."

She then began a series of stories about herself and her great-granddaughter, giggling while she told me various details about that young baby.

After a few weeks, whenever I ask myself, "Where is The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage?" I only have to think about that great-granddaugh ter. That's where she is.

I believe Solomon in the Old Testament had it right when he said, "Children's children are the crown of old men; and the glory of children are their fathers." (Proverbs 17:6).

Children are truly a blessing from God. But grandchildren and great-grandchildren are beyond blessing. It is God's reward He gives to those faithful parents.

I don't mind Boots. He just curls up quietly against my belly and stays put. But sleeping with Desdemona can be a bit unnerving. She snores. Sometimes she gets little bad dreams and scratches me, too. But hey, I get to come in out of the cold and sleep with Aunt Ada's cats on her sofa, and a guy can tolerate a certain amount of cat snoring for

I was glad when I heard Aunt Ada puttering in the kitchen because I knew it was time to get up. After she let me out, she fed me, and let me tell you ... that kibble was just as good this morning as it was yesterday. And then she petted me, called me her dear Billy, and let me out to do my rounds.

Don't let anyone tell you being the official town dog is easy. Nossirree. First, there are the kids. Me and Martin, the crossing guard, have to see them safely across the street and to school each morning. Must be band day, because I see a lot of instrument cases. Martin gets smiles from the children. I get smiles AND ear rumples, so what do you think of that!

Once those kids are safely across, the time is pretty much my own until the final bell rings in the afternoon. That would be after I get snacks at the back door of the Mule Barn and after my nap curled up against the brick wall of the drugstore downtown. You ever notice how those bricks hold the sunshine in them? Better than that white wall on the newspaper office.

This is a good day to stop by the Rest of Your Life retirement home and check on Pop Walker and Mabel Adams. Oh, I make the rounds and check on everybody, of course,

USDA Highlights New Project with West Virginia University Part of $325 Million Investment through

Partnerships for Climate-Smart Commodities

The U.S Department of Agriculture (USDA) is highlighting a new partnership with West Virginia University (WVU) Research Corporation, part of a $325 million investment in 71 projects under the second funding pool of the Partnerships for Climate-Smart Commodities effort. In total, the investment from both funding pools is over $3.1 billion for 141 tentatively selected projects. Partnerships for Climate-Smart Commodities is working to expand markets for American producers who produce climate-smart commodities, leverage greenhouse gas benefits of climate-smart production, and provide meaningful benefits to producers, including small and underserved producers.

"Expanding opportunities for small and underserved producers is a key goal of Partnerships for Climate-Smart Commodities," said Jon Bourdon, state conservationist for USDA's Natural Resource Conservation Service in West Virginia. "Small and underserved producers, including those here in West Virginia, are facing the impacts of climate change head on, with limited resources, and have the most to gain from leveraging the growing market demand for agricultural goods produced in a sustainable, climate-smart way. We look forward to working with WVU Research Corporation and to expand markets for climate-smart commodities and ensure that small and underserved producers reap the benefits of these market opportunities."

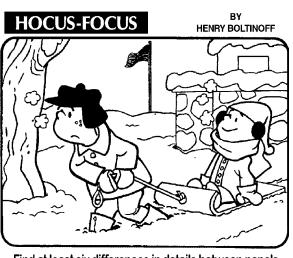

The livestock systems management project, called "Grazing Regeneratively for Appalachian Sustainable Solutions," will receive funding up to $4,795,300 and plans to provide financial and technical assistance to Appalachian farmers and agricultural producers to support adopting climate-smart practices, as well as strengthen marketing initiatives for grass-fed beef products.

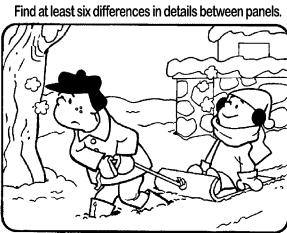

Underserved farmers will receive financial and technical assistance to support the transition from typical livestock systems management to climate-smart practices. Practices implemented include land management plans, prescribed grazing, bale grazing, native grass and silvopasture establishment, incorporation of legumes and non-leguminous forbs, and use of traditional and novel soil amendments, such as biochar. The project will provide producers with marketing assistance for grass-fed beef products as long as producers meet required criteria of certifications and product quality.

Additional partners on this project are West Virginia University (WVU), Virginia Tech, Virginia State University, West Virginia State University, The West Virginia Conservation Agency (WVCA), The Soil and Water Conservation Division of Virginia's Department of Conservation and Recreation (VaDCR-SWCD), and Hickory Nut Gap (HNG).

Partnerships for Climate-Smart Commodities is part of USDA's broader strategy to position agriculture and forestry as leaders in climate change mitigation through voluntary, incentive-based, market-driven approaches. Visit usda.gov/climate-smart-commodities to learn more about this effort, and usda.gov/climate-solutions for climate-related updates, resources and tools across climate crisis and conserve and protect our Nation's lands, biodiversity and natural resources including our soil, air and water. Through climate-smart agriculture and partnerships, USDA aims to enhance economic growth and create new streams of income for farmers, ranchers, producers and private foresters. Successfully meeting these challenges will require USDA and our agencies to pursue a coordinated approach alongside USDA stakeholders, including State, local and Tribal governments.

USDA touches the lives of all Americans each day in so many positive ways. In the Biden-Harris administration, USDA is transforming America's food system with a greater focus on more resilient local and regional food production, fairer markets for all producers, ensuring access to safe, healthy and nutritious food in all communities, building new markets and streams of income for farmers and producers using climate-smart food and forestry practices, making historic investments in infrastructure and clean energy capabilities in rural America, and committing to equity across the Department by removing systemic barriers and building a workforce more representative of America. THE WIDEN NEWS

The people who think alike

"DUNDON" RED ASH COAL

Where all think alike, no one thinks very much.

January 1957

This is a picture of the big Christmas Tree located on the Legion Park lot for the duration of the Christmas-New Year holiday season, Topped with a beautiful blue star, it was a fitting decoration for the season. Thanks again to all the members of the "installation crews" who cut, hauled, erected and lighted the tree.

WIDEN RELIEF COMMITTEE MEETS

With L. S. Facemire, Doyle Waggoner and Joe Truman representing the employees and H. L. Beattie, G. D. Craft, R. G. Elliott and E. R. Ketchka representing Elk River Coal and Lumber Company, the Widen Relief Committee met at the company offices on Saturday, December 22, to take care of the business for that

The list of retired men who received $100.00 each for the month of January 1957 contained one less name than the same list a year ago. Three pensioners, Jeff Mc-Theny, Omer (Crook) Carte, and William Johnson, passed away during the year, and there were two new retirements, Harrison Rapp and J. E. Vaughan. There are at present twenty-nine Widen miners on the retired list.

Sixteen men received disability payments at this meeting, eleven for the entire month and five for a portion of December. Two of the men on the list at the beginning of the month returned to work before the end of the month. Those men were Charles Perkins and Earl Houghton.

There was no change in the list of survivors receiving assistance for December. This list now includes the widows of Ellis Strickland, Lee Acree, Omer Wilson, Jim Rhodes, Fred Hoover, Theodore Griffith, Early Gibson, Hale Dobbins, Sullivan Woods, J. B. Friend, Walter James, Jeff Mc-Theny and George Strickland; the widows and dependent children of Clifton Atchinson, Bing Gibson, Dewey Asbury, Ova Casto, Ervin White, Clyde Graham, Everett Butcher, Tate Staele, Ivory Carter, Ellery Nicholas and Cecil Rose; and the dependent children of Charles Frame and Stanley Pauza. In addition to the regular list account at Charleston General Hospital, medical and hospital bills were paid at Beckley, Bluefield, Charleston, Clay, Clendenin, Cowen, Craigsville, Gassaway, Gauley Bridge, Glenville, Grantsville, Nitro, Philippi, Richwood, Summersville South Charleston, and Sutton, W. Va. and Lodi, Ohio, for Ernie Acree, Norval Acree, Dencil Adkins, Harry Allen, Dana Arbogast, William Argobrite, Harley Hartley, Gene and Wendell Barnett, James Baughman, Hunter and Jack Boggs, George Bowers, Robert Brady, Seibert Bragg, Paul

Donald and Ronald Brown, Arlin, Brenford, Earnest, Ronald and Roy Butcher, Rufus Byrne, Carl Caldwell, John C. Calhoun, Curt Canfield, Leo Chapman, Jesse Childers, Guy and Jack Coffman, John and Wade Cowger, Ray Cummings, Claude Cunningham, Okey Davis, Luther DeMoss, Ralph Dillion, Martin, Russell and Wade Dodrill, Frank Dorsey, John Duffy, Elmer, Ernest, Gilbert, Junior and Paul Frame, Leonard' Friend, W. E. Gibson, Otha Gill, Max Gillespie, Harold and Orval Given, Goff Grogg, Paul Grose, Delbert Gumm, B. Dale, Jerle and Jesse Hamrick, George and Ralph Hamric, Curtis Hardway, Burton and James T. Harris, William Harrison, Herbert and Jack Holcomb, Earl and Marvin Houghton, Aubrey Hutchinson. Holt. Jesse, Theodore and Virgil Johnson, Norval Keener, Otis Kelly, Roy and Troy King, Bill Litton, Carlin and Richard Long, Cecil Lough, Elvie Loving, Bill May, Doyle Mick, Clarence and James Miller, Bayward, Charles, Garnie and Pat Morris, Edward and Buddy Mullins, Cecil and Don McCoy, D. P. McGlothlin, J. A. McKinney, M. A. McLaughlin, DeForrest McMillion, Earl Napier, Dod, Robert and Roscoe Neal, Rupert Nicholas, Freeman Nottingham, William Patton, Charles and Donald Perkins, John Potasnik, Emerson Price, Everett Propps, Arnold Ramsey, Harrison Rapp, Horace Rhodes, Harold Rinehart, Carl and Norman Rogers, Donal Rose, Everett Rush, Curtis Salisbury, Annis Samples, Gilbert Schoonover, Ted Shaver, Bill Joe and Ned Sizemore, Harold Slack, Manuel Smith, Robert Stout, Harry and Randall Strickland, Eugene Stump, Dexter Talbert, Doil and Roscoe Taylor, John Thompson, Herbert Thorne, Flavil Tinney, Dennis and James Triplett, Ernest and Okey Truman, Bailey Walker, Fletcher Wilson, Oley Wine, Eugene, Nim and Norval Woods, Orval Keener and Ray

In accordance with established policy, the committee refused payment of two bills, one because it was not submitted for payment until more than a year had elapsed since date of incurring the bill, and the other because it was for an employee's grandchild which was not listed on the employee's card. It is up to the committee to determine whether all persons listed on an employee's dependency card are bona fide dependents eligible for benefits, but if a person who is an actual dependent of the employee is not named on his card there is nothing the committee can do except deny benefits in such a case. It is to each employee's interest to be sure his dependency card is correct and up to date. New-born infants are automatically included for thirty days after birth but beyond that period their names must appear on the employee's card.

"We Treat Others As We Like To Be Treated Ourselves." - Matthew 7:12

This Week in

West Virginia History

The following events happened on these dates in West Virginia history. To read more, go to e-WV: The West Virginia Encyclopedia at www.wvencyclopedia.org.

Jan. 11, 1893: U.S. Senator Harley Martin Kilgore was born in rural Harrison County. Kilgore served as a senator from West Virginia from 1940 until his death in 1952

Jan. 12, 1869: Newspaperman Herschel Coombs Ogden was born near Fairmont. In 1888, he relocated to Wheeling and entered the newspaper business.

Jan. 13, 1905: Joseph H. Diss Debar died in Philadelphia. A supporter of the movement to create West Virginia, Diss Debar was commissioned in 1863 to design the Great Seal of West Virginia.

Jan. 14, 1842: Marion County was established and named after Revolutionary War hero Francis Marion. Middletown was chosen as the county seat, but the name was changed to Fairmont the following year.

Jan. 14, 1873: The first session of the Glenville Branch of the State Normal School began in the old Gilmer County courthouse. The legislature changed the name to Glenville State College in 1943 and to a university in 2022.

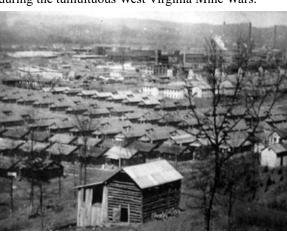

Jan. 15, 1864: Frances Benjamin Johnston was born in Grafton. Johnston gained national renown as the first female press photographer, and enjoyed a long and remarkable career as one of the nation's leading documentary, portrait, and artistic photographers.

Jan. 16, 1850: Lawman Dan Cunningham was born in Jackson County. His remarkable career involved him in the Hatfield-McCoy Feud, the West Virginia Mine Wars, and the destruction of moonshine stills.

Jan. 16, 1869: Ephraim Franklin Morgan was born in Marion County. Morgan, a Republican, was governor during the tumultuous West Virginia Mine Wars.

Jan. 17, 1918: The War Department hired a New York engineering firm to build the DuPont munitions plant in Nitro. Within 11 months, the powder plant and a complete town with houses, a civic center and a hospital, were completed.

Jan. 17, 1956: Musician Blind Alfred Reed died. He was a street singer, fiddler, and songwriter from Pipestem, Summers County. He also is a member of the West Virginia Music Hall of Fame.

Mustangs compete at Braxton Bash Duals

Coach Tyler Dorsey and Charles Hamrick

CCMS wrestling is back in the headlines and setting fire to the mats after a few years of silence. No more, however; the mats are once again alive and the CCMS wrestling team is quickly becoming a powerhouse on the mat. The Mustangs have competed this year at several meets and have done pretty well considering the lay off. Thanks to new head coach Tyler Dorsey the beast has been resurrected within the walls of CCMS. The Mustangs are bringing their hunger to get back to the top of the food chain in the world of wrestling. It may take some time to get the glory back, but they are well on their way.

The Mustangs took to the mat at the Braxton County Middle Bash Duals on Saturday. There were 12 teams that competed and they were top of the line meat eater teams, the best of the best. Teams from Clay, Braxton, Logan, Western Greenbrier, Triadelphia, Webster, Gilmer, Beckley Stratton, Elkview, Paden City, Sissonville, and Blennerhassett all came to dish out some pain. It was a good ol' fashioned whip down with plenty of great wrestling to go around. The wrestlers of Clay Middle went to work hitting the mats with guts and grit; they gave no quarter and asked for none in return.

The Mustangs was pinning shoulders to the mat but had a difficult time winning matches due to the shortage of wrestlers in different weight classes. However, the Mustangs did a whale of a job in the weight classes they could bring to the mat, and they definitely handed the other teams a tissue box in their matches. The Mustangs are making people turn their heads in this sport and are showing no signs of letting up. They will be back in action on January 14 at South Harrison Middle School.

In other wrestling news, the CCHS Panthers took to the mats at the National Guard Duals in Summersville this past week. Teams from all over the state and out of state came to compete. The Panthers did well in the tournament but didn't place. The Panthers will be in action at the Winners' Choice tournament on January 13th and 14th. Come out and support the teams.

Lady Panthers sweep the week on the hardwood

By Allen Hamrick

The Lady Panthers were home this past week hosting Buffalo and Braxton. Buffalo was first on the chopping block as the Lady Panthers went to work. Once the Lady Panthers got rolling and found their groove, their game came alive. Both teams wanted a win, and it showed. By the time this game was over, it was time for some R and R. Defense became the rule as the Lady Panthers turned up the heat on their press and put an end to the hopes of a win for Buffalo. Offense for the Lady Panthers started out strong in the 1st period but the hoops were hard to hit in the 2nd and 3rd. Buffalo couldn't capitalize on the mistakes and had an even harder time hitting the net until the ball as Buffalo made a run for the win in the 4th racking up 20 points in the period and nearly catching the Lady Panthers. Key steals and good offense by the Lady Panthers, however, sent the Lady Panthers to the winners' circle. In the end, it was a rough game without the usual intensity, but the Lady Panthers pulled out the win 42-35. Ilyauna Evans racked up 16 points in the game to lead the Lady Panthers in scoring followed by Lexi Gilliland with nine.

Next up was Braxton, and it was another nail biter. Underneath the hoop, the Lady Panthers out squeezed the ball and were monsters on the boards. There were no big money players in this game; the girls ticked like 4th period. Offense picked up on both sides of the a Rolex and took down their opponents 46-38. There still a few bugs to work out, but the Lady Panthers are on the move. This game was yet another example of great basketball from the Lady Panthers who basically out lasted Braxton on the boards for four periods. The Ladies will be on the road again to Hoover to take on the lady Huskies on Tuesday, January 10th. If you get a little chilled and feel a cold coming on, it is probably basketball fever and the only known cure is to get to
