This Week In The House Of Delegates

For the week ending March 7, 2025 As the 60-day, regular legislative session nears the halfway point, members of the House of Delegates continue to use their new two-step committee process to discuss potential new laws as well as solutions to issues throughout the state that may not require a change to the law.

"This process requires us to take a long, hard look at an issue, and the byproduct is that everyone in the room ends up being educated in some way," said Deputy House Speaker Delegate David Kelly, R-Tyler. "You wouldn't have a lot of these discussions without having the specific bills introduced, but if we can walk away from a committee meeting with some area of agreement, that's a success to me."

Kelly spent time this week in the House Standing Committee on Health and Human Resources discussing a bill he sponsored, House Bill 2358. The measure would impose deadlines in certain circumstances for the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner to perform an autopsy and provide the autopsy report. Kelly said during his presentation of the bill that he understands the state's Office of the Chief Medical Examiner would say they need more money, and there is a national shortage of coroners, but West Virginia's county prosecutors also need to be able to conduct timely investigations when necessary. Kelly said right now it takes about eight months on average for an autopsy report to be completed and shared with prosecutors.

"It's hard to bring up shortcomings when you've learned just how shortstaffed they are," Kelly said after the meeting. "I am hopeful that another bill on the move to help entice more graduates to stay will help alleviate that issue."

Members of the House Education Committee advanced two bills this week, House Bill 2572 and House Bill 2595, which would establish some guardrails for the state's colleges and universities to best leverage Name, Image, Likeness opportunities for their student athletes. Members of the House overwhelmingly voted in favor of passing a bill to address elementary student behavior and teacher safety. House Bill 2515 passed the House by a vote of 92-4 this week, and it would establish the steps a teacher may take in an elementary school setting when it is determined a student's behavior is what has been carefully defined in the bill as violent, threatening, creates an unsafe learning environment or impedes other students' abilities to learn.

Gracelyn Mitchell named to Ohio University's Fall 2024 Provost's List

Ohio University College of Health Sciences and Professions student Gracelyn Mitchell of Bomont, WV has been named to Ohio's Fall 2024 Provost's List.

At the end of each semester, Ohio University's undergraduate students are evaluated based on their semester GPA and hours to determine placement on the President's List, Dean's List or Provost's List.

The Provost's List recognition is shared with high-achieving, part-time undergraduate students who exemplify academic success. Qualifying students must possess a 3.5 or greater GPA and between 6 and 11.99 credit hours attempted for letter grades that are used to calculate GPA.

In fall semester 2024, approximately 1,900 of Ohio University's part-time undergraduate students qualified for the Provost's List. A complete listing is available online.

Mason Taylor named to Ohio

A total of 1,255 bills have been introduced in the House, and the last day to introduce bills is March 18. The House has passed 33 bills to the Senate for debate. The 60-day, regular legislative session ends at midnight April 12.

Bill to increase penalties could overpopulate WV prisons

By Mark Richardson

A bill pending in the West Virginia Legislature would increase the length of penalties for "serious" felony convictions, but critics have said it would contribute to prison overpopulation.

The state Senate passed Senate Bill 136 by an overwhelming margin last week. The House of Delegates has yet to consider the measure.

Kenneth Matthews, West Virginia economic justice associate for the American Friends Service Committee, said extending the minimum time prisoners must serve before a parole hearing would pack the prisons with more people waiting for a conditional release.

"Increasing penalties for offenses will create an increase in the prison population that's already overpopulated and create an increase in the aging (prison) population in the state, which is also overpopulated," Matthews outlined.

West Virginia's overall jail population in 2024 was about 11,000, with an incarceration rate of 674 per 100,000 residents, considerably higher than the national average of 614. According to the Prison Policy Initiative, the state's 10 regional jails were initially built to hold 2,883 people -- but they house more than 4,400 people on any given day. The bill's Republican backers, who have a legislative supermajority, said state law is not stern enough on serious offenders.

Matthews countered the numbers do not back up their position.

"West Virginia is already kind of tough on crime," Matthews pointed out. "We're not the lowest in terms of sentencing and penalties in the country or even in our area, and we're not like an outlier in terms of lower penalties for certain offenses."

He added proposed sentences of 40-60 years for murder before people are eligible for parole would significantly expand the number of older, less-dangerous members of the prison population.

"They have a geriatric wing there and they have actually instituted a job, called the orderly, where their whole job is to push individuals around on wheelchairs and take care of their needs throughout the facility," Matthews emphasized.

University's Fall 2024 Dean's List

Ohio University Scripps College of Communication student Mason Taylor of Indore, WV has been named to Ohio's Fall 2024 Dean's List.

In fall semester 2024, approximately 6,800 Ohio University undergraduate students qualified for the Dean's List. A complete listing is available online.

Just A Moment Of Kindness

By Joe Mazzella

I have no idea why some stores make shelves so high that only a professional basketball player can reach them, but they do. I experienced one of them just the other day. I had just picked up some toothpaste and deodorant and was heading to the dog food aisle when I took a short cut through the toy section. That is when I saw them. A little girl was pointing to the top shelf where the stuffed animal she wanted was. Her Mother was trying to convince her to take one of the similar ones on the lower shelves but the little angel's heart was set on the one at the top. Mom was only five foot tall at the most and was about to explain that she just couldn't reach it. That is when I asked if I could try. Now my vertical leap was never much when I was younger and it has only gotten worse with age, but I jumped up as high as I could, hooked the toy with my finger and caught it on the way down. I handed it to the little girl who cheered and jumped up and down with joy. Her Mom smiled and thanked me and I gave her my warmest, "You're welcome."

I noticed something too as I started to walk away. I felt lighter. I felt better. I felt more like my true self. There was a smile on my face and a warmth in my heart. It was just a moment of kindness. It was just a second of love. Yet, it made my day and nourished my soul. For that moment I was who God wanted me to be.

I think the only way to truly receive love in this life is to give it away. The more love you share, the more love you have. The more love you give, the more love you receive. Jesus taught us all to Love God, to Love ourselves, and to Love our neighbors as ourselves. This love can be given too in a thousand different ways, in the littlest acts of kindness, even in rescuing a stuffed animal from the top shelf and putting it in the loving arms of a little girl.

Make Room For Laughter

By Dr. James L. Snyder

After about two months in recovery mode, I had an opportunity to go to the neighborhood Publix. It's been a long time since I've been in a store, and I was happy to get out of the house and give The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage a break.

While walking around, I noticed everybody seemed very sad. It looked like everybody was worried about something and had no solution.

There is something about me that makes me want to bring a smile to someone who is sad. I'm not always successful, but at least I try.

Walking around, I tried to think of what I could do to make somebody smile.

Maybe I could do something to make at least one person smile. I might not have a good prank, but how do I know until I try?

I approached an older couple pushing a cart and said, "Pardon me, do you know who I am?"

They both looked at me a little confused and shook their heads. The woman said, "No, I don't know who you are."

I smiled at them and replied, "That's great. I thought I was the only one who didn't know who I was. Thank you."

As I walked away, I heard them giggle and laugh. I heard the man say, "He sure was crazy." Then they laughed some more.

I was satisfied that I at least got someone to laugh. If you go through a whole day without laughing, you have wasted that day.

There are so many things that I laugh about that I rarely have a day or an hour in which I am not laughing at something or someone. I don't know how many people laugh at me, but I hope there are some.

I also noticed the store staff seemed rather stressed. The storewasoverlycrowdedwithcustomers, and particularly, the people at the checkout counter seemed rather stressed. I got what I was shopping for, went up to the checkout counter, and stood in line for several minutes, waiting for those in front of me to get fully processed. As I was waiting there, I was trying to think of what I could do to brighten up that young lady behind the checkout counter, who seemed quite stressed.

Then, an idea came to me. I laughed as I thought of it, and I didn't know if it was a good joke, but you never know until you process it, and I was in the processing mood at the time.

I grinned as I waited in line, and finally, my turn came. I looked at the lady behind the register and said, "There was a lady in the back of the store that told me if I mentioned how nice you look today, you could give me a discount." Then I smiled, the biggest smile I had all day.

Looking at me, she said, "What?"

I knew she was under stress, so I repeated it to her and asked her what kind of discount I would get.

At first, she didn't know what to do and looked over her shoulder to see if anybody was watching her. Then she finally looked at me and said, "Sir, I'm new here and have never heard of that discount before, and I do not believe that I can do it for you today. I'm so sorry for the misunderstanding." Then, much to my surprise, she smiled. After all, that's all I wanted.

I thanked her for her service, smiled, and told her to have a great day.

As I walked out, I could hear some customers behind me giggling. They were talking, but I couldn't understand what they were saying. At least I got a couple of people to smile.

Driving home from the store, the traffic was rather congested. People were going home from work, and many were not very patient. There was a lot of horn blowing and some old guys screaming. I'm unsure how that solved their problem, but I guess they had no other option. They must have had a hard day at work.

I just smiled as they drove by, not knowing their story. Why can't people just learn how to smile? I looked at all of them as they went by and smiled as best I could.

A couple of drivers looked a little religious in my mind. I'm unsure what they were yelling at me, but one person pointed me to heaven. I smiled and was very appreciative. I nodded, affirming that I was planning to go to heaven. I noticed, though, that, being as religious as he was, he got his fingers mixed up and used the wrong finger to point to heaven.

Instead of being offended, I just smiled even got to the point of laughing. and My day was successful because I made about five people laugh and several others smile. That makes for a great day.

I couldn't help but think of one of my favorite Bible verses. "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine: but a broken spirit drieth the bones" (Proverbs 17:22).

Laughter is the best medicine we could possibly have. And, we never run out of this medicine no matter our circumstances. My goal is to share my medicine with as many people as possible.

Willoughby breezed through the valley the other day. He lives in the capital city, but whips on through here about once a month, and each time he comes he has new things to sell.

"Do you suppose," said Bert, watching Willoughby's van pull into town, "he sells all of it each time and fills everyone's orders, or just doesn't sell any of it and has to try new things?"

If we were to ask him, of course, it would ruin the speculation, which is one of our favorite things to do around here. Willoughby, despite his advancing years, leaped out of the van and went into the Soup 'R Market to see Annette. Naturally, we followed.

"Say," Doc said, as we crossed the street, "wasn't Willoughby's hair brown the last time he was here? It's black today."

get fresh seafood here because of the distance, right? Well, now there's Simulated brand Seafood, all the flavor of the briny deep without any of the delicacy that makes it go bad on you."

She looked at him. "Simulated?"

"Just as good as the real thing. Yes, ma'am, I have simulated swordfish steaks, slightly sea bass, faux flounder, kinda crab, and our number one seller this week ... you ready for this? ... tah DAH .... Scarcely Scallops!"

"I don't know, Willoughby..." she said.

He sparkled right up to the challenge. We sipped on those sodas. This beat anything on TV.

Willoughby waved his arms in sheer excitement.

"Now we have simulated seafood, with a shelf life that will keep all your customers happy for as long as they want to hang onto them."

West Virginia announces February revenue exceeds estimates by $33.7M

In February, West Virginia's revenue collections of $354.9 million exceeded projections by $33.7 million. These results were primarily due to higher severance tax collections associated with cold weather-related natural gas prices and income tax refunds trailing projections.

"As we continue to address West Virginia's financial challenges, I'm pleased to see revenue exceed expectations for February," said Revenue Secretary Eric Nelson. "We will continue to work with the Governor's office and the Legislature to pass a balanced and forward-thinking 2026 budget that addresses these challenges."

February General Revenue Fund

February collections of $354.9 million were $33.7 million above estimate and more than 25% ahead of prior year February collections. Prior February collections were much lower due to one-time February tax refund payments to owners of business pass-through entities. Cumulative collections of $3.509 billion are $61.6 million above estimate and 2% below prior year receipts.

Details by major component follow:

February Personal Income Tax collections of nearly $101.1 million were $20.7 million above estimate and nearly 250% ahead of prior February collections. Cumulative income tax collections of more than $1.399 billion are $4 million above estimate and 2.6% below prior year receipts. Prior year receipts reflected the impact of more than $127.7 million in tax refund payments. Refund payments for this February totaled roughly $73 million or $15 million below estimate. The new motor vehicle property tax credit contributed to a slowdown in return filings and refund claims to date in comparison with estimates. Cumulative collections of more than $1.398 billion were $3 million above estimate and 2.7% below prior year receipts. February Consumer Sales Tax collections of nearly $143.1 million were $2.2 million below estimate and 0.7% ahead of last year. Cumulative collections of more than $1.195 billion are $5.3 million above estimate and 2.3% ahead of last year.

February Corporation Net Income Tax collections of nearly $5.2 million were $2.3 million above estimate but 20% below of prior year receipts. Cumulative collections of $210.6 million were 13.6% lower than prior year receipts but $39.6 million above estimate. Federal tax policy uncertainty was a factor in recent tax collection trends relative to estimate.

Severance Tax collections totaled $45.7 million in February and $193.2 million for the year-to-date. February collections were nearly $17 million above the monthly estimate and 45.1% above prior year receipts. The monthly revenue gain was partially attributable to a bigger than usual carryover of collections due in late January to early February. In addition, an upward movement in natural gas prices related to winter heating needs was a contributing factor to the higher tax receipts. Year-to-date collections were still nearly $43 million below estimate and 3.1% below prior year receipts. Low energy prices played a significant role in revenue decline over the past two years.

Tobacco Products Tax collections of nearly $10 million were $1.0 million below estimate in February and 14.6% below prior year receipts. Cumulative collections of $94.1 million were $7.6 million below estimate and 10% below prior year collections.

Interest Income totaled nearly $12.2 million in February and more than $133.7 million for the year-to-date. Cumulative collections were $35.5 million above estimate but 13.9% below prior year collections. Interest income is trending lower over time with declining short-term interest rates.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF WEST VIRGINIA CHARLESTON

CASE NO. 24-0789-G-PC HOPE GAS, INC.

Petition to abandon facilities

NOTICE OF FILING AND HEARING On October 1, 2024, Hope Gas, Inc. (Hope), a public utility, filed with the Public Service Commission of West Virginia a Petition for prior consent and approval to abandon approximately 1,068 miles of pipelines and related facilities, or "Red Lines." On January 15, 2025, Hope filed an Amendment to its Petition stating that Diversified Midstream LLC had agreed to non-binding terms to acquire all of the Red Lines from Hope.

The Red Lines proposed to be abandoned are located in the counties of Barbour, Braxton, Calhoun, Clay, Doddridge, Gilmer, Harrison, Jackson, Kanawha, Lewis, Marion, Mason, Monongalia, Pleasants, Ritchie, Roane, Taylor, Tyler, Upshur, Wetzel, Wirt, and Wood. The Red Lines and locations are identified in the Petition, which is on file and available for public inspection at the Commission's offices at 201 Brooks Street, Charleston, West Virginia, and on the Commission's website, www.psc.state.wv.us.

Hope maintains that from Hope's perspective the pipelines can no longer provide safe, reliable, and economical gas service to the farm-tap customers or are in jeopardy of being unable to continue providing service. The pipelines are no longer necessary or useful to Hope's provision of service to Hope customers and are uneconomical to continue to operate, maintain, or replace. Hope estimates that the cost to operate and maintain the pipelines will far exceed $10 million per year, and replacing the lines with new plastic pipelines will cost over $600 million. Hope does not seek a rate increase in this proceeding.

A hearing will be held by the Public Service Commission, which will begin at 9:30 a.m. on May 14, 2025, in the Howard M. Cunningham Hearing Room at the Commission's offices at 201 Brooks Street, Charleston, West Virginia. The Commission may cancel the hearing for good cause shown. Interested persons intending to attend the hearing should monitor the web docket.

Anyone desiring to protest the relief requested by Hope may file a written protest or request to intervene in Case No. 24-0789-G-PC, online, through the Commission website using the "Submit a Comment" link, by mail addressed to: Executive Secretary of the Public Service Commission at P.O. Box 812, 201 Brooks Street, Charleston, West Virginia 25323, or may appear at the hearing.

Anyone desiring to protest the relief requested by Hope may file a written protest or request to intervene that briefly states the reason for the protest or request to intervene. Requests to intervene must comply with the rules on intervention set forth in the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure and must be filed within ten (10) days following the date of this publication unless otherwise modified by Commission order. The Commission will receive public comments throughout the entirety of the proceeding. All written comments and requests to intervene should state the case name and number and be addressed to Karen Buckley, Executive Secretary, P.O. Box 812, Charleston, West Virginia 25323. Public comments may also be filed online at htt ://www.sc.state.wv.us/scripts/onlinecomments/default.cfm by clicking the 'Formal Case" link. HOPE GAS, INC

Season ends for wrestling and basketball; spring sports set to begin

By Allen Hamrick

The CCHS Panthers' season came to an end this past week as they took on Scott in the first game of the regional tournament. This would turn out to be a tough game for the Panthers as Scott is one of the top AA basketball teams in the state. Scott came out fast and started putting points on the boards and the Panthers were holding their own, but it just got out of hand. The Panthers were moving quickly but having some trouble handing the ball over to Scott. Both teams were fast and had plenty of looks at the basket, but Scott was getting more in the hoop. At the end of the first half, the score stood at 34-42 with Scott having the advantage. When the second half started, Scott opened up the back forty and started hitting threes across the fence consistently. The Panthers had a tough time returning the favor. In the end, it was Scott over the Panthers 99-60. Don't let this score fool you because in this game, and for the entire season, the Panthers fought every game with full intensity and all out high speed, in your face basketball, and you can't ask for more than that. Every game was well worth the money, and for most of each game, the action set you on the edge of your seat. It may not have been a winning season for the Panthers, but keep in mind this is a rebuild season with new sheriff in town - head coach Justin Holcomb. This Panther team will get better and better, and within a couple of years, will be at the top of the food chain on the courts once again. Top shots in the game were Collin Elliott with 17 points and Noah Collins with 12.

The season has ended for the CCHS wrestling team, too. The boys travelled to Huntington to take part in the State Wrestling Championship this past weekend. Three wrestlers from CCHS competed in the annual event. It was to be a tough competition for the Panthers and for most who wrestled. This year it seemed that every wrestler was made of the same salt and to get through each round was like wrestling for your life. The team - Blake Coleman, Caiden Bryant and Christian Bryant - all had a good showing and racked up some wins. The CCHS wrestlers had a good tournament and finished their season on a high note by getting to the big dance in Huntington. It may have not been the outcome they hoped for but a good run none the less.

With these seasons ending, indoor sports have come to a close, and it can only mean one thing - outdoor sports, spring, warm weather, fishing, and yes, baseball and softball. The shoals in the mighty Elk River will turn to small jaw heaven and bend the poles of the fisherman who will line the banks. Baseball and softball are gearing up, as well, with both the CCHS and CCMS holding tryouts and picking teams. There is some real talent in this year's teams all around the diamond, and it will be a great season to be sure. Track practices at both schools are well underway, and team selection is all but finished with meets coming up soon. Clay County will indeed be the place for spring and summer action, and there will be lots to do to get us out of those winter time blues. So, shake the spiders out of those lawn chairs, put batteries in the boom box, and clean the mold out of the coolers, you don't want to miss all the opportunities this county has to offer. No excuses, the great outdoors of Clay County are heating up.

CCHS football team participates in Read Across America week

By Allen Hamrick

One of the most anticipated events for schools across the country is Dr. Seuss week, held this year from March 2nd to March 6th. This encompasses Read Across America week that began on the birthday of the famous children's book author Dr. Seuss. The week has been full of action in schools here, there and everywhere. People from all walks of life donated their time to read to students in the elementary schools. This movement not only enriches the lives of the youth but also the reader as they bring to life the written word where faraway adventures that only exist in dreams become a reality. Readers are encouraged to show youth that reading is not only educational but has benefits that outweigh any boredom or mundaneness. Reading formulates a person into an improved thinker, an enhanced visionary, an imaginative writer and a resourceful mind. A person's vocabulary produces more than just conjunctions, verbs and nouns but puts it all together into meaning and purpose. Where else can a person sail the seven seas with pirates, battle monsters from another galaxy or understand the world through a bear's eyes? Where else can you learn the history of the world and live a life through the eyes of characters from wagon trains of the old west to the pyramids and ancient civilizations that have been all but lost to time? Places that now exist only in written pages of books as old as thousands of years to much more recent times. The fact is that there is no one, no matter who you are, that hasn't been moved by the distant horizon. All have unexplained realistic dreams and thoughts that plague our souls searching and wishing for a different life. Books offer people a way out, a chance to be and a chance to jump into a world of wonder and answer the probabilities of the question, "What if." In past history, the only people who had the chance to read were the rich and educated, and the skill was limited to very few people. As the years progressed, poets, dreamers, creative minds and ordinary folks learned to read and write, and the world has become what it is today. Theodor Seuss Geisel, also known by his pen name Dr. Seuss, wrote many children's books that were typically wrote as creative as possible to stir young minds into the belief that anything is possible from the absurd to common nature. Read Across America week provides opportunity to sit under a tree and read a book, something all people can enjoy regardless of age. There is a story for everyone to read whether your genre is history, romance, adventure, Sci-Fi, horror, war, etc. There is a book for everything and about any topic. For our youth, Read Across America is a vital week that instills positive habits by stimulating the mind. Some of the CCHS football team traveled to Big Otter Elementary this past week to get into some reading time with the students. They were well received by the school and did a great job reading. Afterward, the coaches had some pep talk conversation with the kids followed by a presentation of state awards to the three athletes who made the All State team: Noah Collins 1st team All State, Jacoby Nichols 1st team All State and Joel Elliott 2nd Team All State Honorable Mention. Other readers included Ayden Brown, Jaxon Brown, Blake Coleman, and James

Grose who were all WV AA Honorable Mention. It was a good week for the students around the county, and as Dr Seuss said as he rode out of sight, "The more you read, the more you know, the more places you'll go."
