The Vinton Police Department welcomed the community and Vinton Town Council to its annual National Night Out celebration on August 3 at the Charles R. Hill Community

National Night Out is an evening set aside across the nation, and even beyond, to enhance the relationship between law enforcement and citizens in a relaxed, informal atmosphere.

There were free hot dogs (grilled by Town Manager Pete Peters and Vinton Police Lt. Glenn Austin), snow cones, drinks, and ice cream, along with free bike helmets, pencils, pens, coloring books, gun locks, and more.

There was a bouncy house Crime dogs McGruff and Scruff mingled with the crowd and posed for photos with children and families. There was literature on the programs offered by the Vinton Police for children, emphasizing child safety, how to reach 911, how to talk to strangers, bullying, and Internet safety.

The evening included visits from other local law enforcement agencies—the U. S. Marshal's Service with Marshal Tom Foster (Vinton's former police chief), and the Roanoke County Sheriff's Department with Sheriff Eric Orange and their Eagle Mascot.

Vinton Girl Scout Troop 94, led by Allie Rourke, stopped by to deliver treats to the Vinton Police Department—jars filled with donut holes, labeled "We 'Donut' Know What We'd Have Done Without You." Elevation Church distributed masks to first responders who attended.

Mitchell started doing hair for free in her basement for family and friends when she was just 15 years old. She married at 17 and raised two sons, Scott and Troy, which didn't give her the time or opportunity to become a licensed hairdresser until she was 32 years old.

Encouraged by her customers who recognized her talent, she attended the American Beauty School in Roanoke and completed her license (2,000 hours of training) in just 13 months.

Living in the Lindenwood area of Roanoke County at the time, Mitchell planned to open a salon in her home once she was licensed, but the laws changed about that time, making it illegal to run a hair salon from a residence.

Mitchell pivoted to another plan and opened her Best Little Hair House in Vinton in 1984 on Hardy Road next to what was then the Lancermart. She convinced owner Henry Brabham to enclose the space which was used for storage, and which was just the right size for a small salon. She agreed to a five-year contract but ended up staying there for nine years with the goal of eventually building her own salon.

She had built up such a clientele in her home over the years that business was booming from the start. She was backed financially by her brother-in-law, Pete Goria, in the new venture.

About the time Mitchell opened her first salon, a Dolly Parton movie with a similar, but naughtier, name was popular at the box office. She switched it up to Best Little Hair House, thinking the "name would get you in the door and the

The new salon was built in the style of a house-Mitchell says because she wanted to project a homey, inviting atmosphere where customers would feel relaxed, welcome, and surrounded by friends.

In 2006, Mitchell became the first woman in Virginia to obtain a liquor license for a day spa so "customers could unwind. A customer might spend half a day at a spa and with the ABC license could be served not just lunch, but some wine or beer to go with it."

She says it took about nine months to obtain the license through a very complicated process, but she has never been one to let anything stop her.

School Board votes no on requires masks for elementary students, receives updates on WBHS renovation project

dadams@ourvalley.org

"Déjà vu" is the term that describes the Roanoke County School Board meeting on August 3. The discussion that took place in the opening moments of the meeting was reminiscent of issues discussed during the pandemic-masks, quarantining, and social distancing-issues that most were hoping were in the past with the opening of a new school year.

Assistant Superintendent of Administration Dr. Rhonda Stegall presented her usual report to the board on COVID statistics, which were somewhat discouraging with the number of new cases trending up in the area in recent weeks.

The Roanoke-Alleghany Health dDistrict recorded 371 new COVID-19 cases in the week of July 18-24, bringing the local rate of transmission back up to high. Of those hospitalized with COVID, 81% were unvaccinated. The vaccination rate for Roanoke County currently indicates 69% of adults have had at least one dose; 47.8% of children ages 12-18 have been vaccinated.

Stegall reiterated her belief that masking and social distancing reduced the impact of COVID on the Roanoke County school system, allowing schools to operate on a hybrid schedule for much of the last school year, before returning to full in-person learning at the end of the year.

She explained current quarantine protocols and updates to the Roanoke County Public Schools Health Plan. Students will return to eating in school cafeterias rather in their classrooms this year. Water fountains will be flushed and ready for use, although students will be urged to bring water bottles to fill, rather than drinking from the fountains. Buses and schools will have extra masks to accommodate students. Masks are required on school buses due to federal mandate. Visitors will be limited during substantial and high transmis-

Stegall presented mask recommendations being considered during substantial and high transmission levels: masks to be worn indoors for students in PK-6 grades who are currently unable to be vaccinated; all students and staff grades PK-12 would be encouraged to wear masks indoors; masks would not be necessary outdoors during recess or physical education, athletic practices or events; visitors in schools would be limited; athletic and extracurricular activities would follow the most updated RCPS Athletic

During moderate and low transmission levels, masks would be at the discretion of parents or staff; unvaccinated students and staff PK-12 would be encouraged to wear masks.

School Superintendent Dr. Ken Nicely stated that masks for grades PK-6 could be a preventative measure, "keeping kids in school." A discussion ensued among School Board members resulting in interim board member David Wymer (Catawba District) making a motion to require masks be worn by students in grades K-5 to reduce transmissions and thus reduce the need for quarantining larger numbers of students causing them to miss in-person instructional time. Wymer said that the school system needs to prepare to minimize the time out of school with the goal of opening schools and keeping them open to as many students as possible each day. He asked how far the board was willing to go in risking the health of students and staff when a mask requirement is "something we can control" and a way to protect individual onded by board member Mike Wray (Cave Spring representative). When the vote was taken, Wymer and Wray voted in favor of requiring masks for the elementary grades; Tim Greenway (Vinton's rep-resentative), David Linden (Hollins), and Jason Moretz (Windsor Hills) voted against the required wearing of masks in the lower grades—at least for the time being. Chairman Moretz said that he would like to see the most up-todate statistics before making a decision.

With data on new cases updated each Wednesday, plans could change before schools reopen on Thursday, August 12.

Prior to the vote, Greenway noted that he "has skin in the game" since he has a nephew and two grandchildren in Roanoke County schools. His nephew has difficulty wearing a mask due to asthma; he doesn't want his grandchildren, who will be kindergarten and first grade, to have to wear masks.

The lengthy discussion included differing and conflicting guidelines from the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) and the Virginia Department of Health (VDH) and the Virginia Department of Education (VDOE). The CDC is encouraging a mask requirement indoors on a national level when transmission rates are high. The VDH and VDOE have left the decision up to the locality. It was noted that members of the Virginia School Health Advisory Board are recommending mask mandates at least for preschool through sixth grade students, and possibly all students if statistics indicate the need.

Board members mentioned emails and messages they have received from parents on both sides of the issue. Suggestions were offered that parents be sion and that it should be a "community decision." In other business, Director of Facilities and Operations Chris Lowe updated School Board on progress with the William Byrd High School renovation project. Learning cottages have been installed in the back parking lot at WBHS during the summer to accommodate relocation of 24 classrooms during the renovations. He expects a final inspection on the installation on Friday or Monday.

After the cottages pass the final inspection, teachers may begin setting up their classrooms in the learning cottages, most likely on Monday. The main struggle with the cottages has been obtaining power from AEP. Lowe told the board that staffing issues with AEP have delayed connection of power to the cottages. He expects poles and transformers to be installed on August 4 with power hooked up by August 5 or 6, and furniture to be moved in on August 6. When asked what would happen in a worst case scenario if AEP did not have the power hooked up on surveyed to make the deci- time for the opening of school on August 12, Lowe said there were two options to consider—move the furniture from the learning cottages back to the classrooms (where no renovation is going on as of yet) or delay opening for Byrd students by a couple of days, as was done during the Cave Spring High School renovation project. Lowe told the board that

"we are at the mercy of others; thankfully, kids and teachers are adaptable."

In other business, Finance Director Susan Peterson presented information on COVID-19 funding. A public hearing will be held at the School Board meeting on August 12 to solicit public comments on how to use the funds which have been or will be received by the school system as a result of the pandemic. The Parent Advisory Council, the Employee Advisory Committee, and school principals will also be making recommendations.

She reminded board members that all students will receive free meals at breakfast and lunch during the 2021-2022 school year due to federal funding.

Peterson also detailed the upcoming Virginia Public School Authority (VPSA)

Fall Bond in the amount of $22,440,000 which will be used to finance the William Byrd High School renovation project. The Roanoke County Board of Supervisors must apply for the financing bonds.

Lowe made a brief presentation on the Burton Center for Arts and Technology (BCAT) building footprint. RRMM Architects firm was asked to prepare conceptual footprints for a new BCAT. Lowe presented two concepts (still being refined)—one compact (with two levels) and one "sprawling." Both would occupy about 215,000 square feet. The compact model would require 21 acres of land to be feasible; the sprawling model would require about 32 acres. Both allow opportunities for future growth and flexible spaces.

Later in the meeting and then in closed session, the board considered several properties for the BCAT project, including the Poage Farm, which the school system already owns.

Further discussion on the BCAT project will take place at a joint meeting of the School Board and the Board of Supervisors on August 12.

As for why she is finally retiring now, Mitchell says it's because of the toll doing Friends, family, and customers celebrated her retirement at Salon 121 on July 29, her last day of work.

Colleagues say that half of the hairstylists in Vinton have worked for Mitchell at one time or another. Several opened their own salons due to her influence or were mentored by her: Angie Burton with Salon 121, Melissa Peregoy with Splittin' Hairs Salon, Carmen Morris with

Hair and Nails, Dana Newell with Hair Thairapy Salon, and others. Mitchell says she was glad when each one was able to strike out on their own and open their own business. She showed the ropes to those who showed promise through the years, even creating a booklet of rules, guidelines, and suggestions. She leased space to hairstylists at Best Little Hair House so each one learned to run their own small business there, and then transferred those skills to running their own larger businesses when they were ready.

Cindy Ring, who has been best friends with Mitchell since childhood, said Mitchell has been there through every crisis in her life and through all the good times as well. "She's been like a sister to me," Ring said.

"Pam taught me a lot, just watching her. She took me under her wing and showed me how to run a business. She believed in me when I didn't believe in myself—'you're a leader,' she told me. Celebrating The Town of VITON!

The Town of Vinton, a community nestled in the Blue Ridge Mountains, welcomes you to our community. Vinton, a town rich with history, has over the years found itself to be one of a few communities that continue to relish the past by offering an environment of a comfortable lifestyle with the feeling of being a part of a large community family. The town, with its proximity to the Blue Ridge Parkway and Smith Mountain Lake, provides many opportunities for those who wish to stop and shop at our local farmers market or one of our unique specialty shops.

If festivals are your interest, the Vinton area hosts several festivals throughout the year from the Vinton Dogwood Festival to the Vinton Fall Festival. Each festival offers its own unique atmosphere. When you are away from home it's always nice to feel as if you never left.

The Town of Vinton provides small town character with urban services and amenities located nearby. The small town atmosphere is characterized by a low crime rate; small, locally, and regionally owned businesses; and moderately priced homes. Views of the mountains and Blue Ridge Parkway abound.

Vinton represents the ideal type of community, small enough to provide a feeling

Time to 'Load the Bus for Kids' August 6-8 at area Walmarts

Roanoke County Public Schools is joining with Roanoke City, Salem City, and Craig County Public Schools to "Load the Bus for Kids." They'll be collecting school supplies for students in need across the Roanoke Valley now through Virginia's Tax-Free Weekend, August 6-8.

Come out to any of the Roanoke Valley Walmart stores (in Bonsack, Clearbrook, Salem and Valley View) to donate school supplies for students who might not be able to afford the tools they need to be successful in school. Supplies will be collected at the registers and at bins in each store throughout the day.

The school divisions will be accepting donations of back-to-school supplies and/or monetary donations for students in need. Any money collected at the event will be used to purchase school supplies. Every item and every cent of your donations will go to help students

What kind of supplies are needed? They need backpacks, glue sticks, notebooks, 3-ring binders, crayons, colored pencils, notebook paper (college and wide-ruled), pens, pencils, highlighters, rulers, folders, scissors, and construction paper. They also need classroom items like tissues, hand sanitizer, printer paper, dry erase markers and more.

The official hours that volunteers will be at the stores and a bus will be on site

- Aug. 6: 3-7 p.m.
- Aug 7: 9 a.m.-6 p.m.
- However, anyone can put donations in the bin located in each store at any time if Load the Bus representatives are not on site at that particular time.

"Each year, thousands of children across the Roanoke Valley begin school without the supplies they need to be successful," said Roanoke County Public Schools Superintendent Dr. Ken Nicely. "Walmart is teaming up with area school systems to work together to provide the tools our children need in school. Every single donation will help a student learn and achieve, especially this year when so many families are in need because of the pandemic."

'Rubbernecking'

Last Sunday while driving back from North Carolina, our family ended up stuck in traffic on Interstate 81. It took almost an hour to make our way through it and continue our journey home. Once we finally reached the sight of the accident, to our surprise, none of the wreckage was on our side of the road. Not only had the collision itself occurred on the opposite side of the interstate, but all of the damaged cars, emergency vehicles, and tow trucks were all on I-81 South. Our side, I-81 North, was completely clear. After an hour-long delay, what we discovered was that the entire traffic jam was caused by nothing other than rubbernecking.

The term "rubbernecking" can be traced back to the late 1800s. It was first associated with tour groups in large cities, such as New York City. Like tour groups today, tourists would crowd onto wagons, buses, and trains, and listen to a tour-guide speaking through a megaphone as they drove around the city. During these tours, tourists could be seen stretching their necks outside the locomotive to see what the tour guide was describing. By the turn of the century, these groups were referred to by locals as "rubbernecking tours."

Today, though the term "rubbernecking" can be used in a variety of contexts; typically it is used to describe distracted drivers drivers who stretch their necks out to their right and left, paying little attention to the road in front of them. As a result, their distractedness can create more than a traffic jam; rubbernecking itself is a major cause of ac-

I think that's why the author of Hebrews instructed early Christians to continue "keeping [their] eyes fixed on Jesus, the pioneer and perfecter of faith (Hebrews 12:2)." For first century Christians, there were many distractions to be found when trying to follow Christ, whether it was the Greek and Roman gods and goddesses whose practices promoted immorality, the persecution of the Roman Empire, false prophets claiming Christ's name and distorting his message, divisions within the church, and the everyday busyness of fulfilling one's duty to one's family, occupation, community, and nation. As a result, many early Christians could be found rubberneckingstretching their necks out to their left and right, paying more attention to all that was happening around them than the call of their Savior before them. These distractions ultimately led to all kinds of wrecks, traffic jams, and delays in their journey to Christ.

At times, I think we, too, are guilty of rubbernecking. As we seek to follow Jesus, it can be easy to get so caught up in all that is happening around us that we miss our Savior before us. Maybe that is why Jesus said, "Small is the gate and narrow the road that leads to life, and only a few find it (Matthew 7:14)."

What are the distractions in your life today? What are the things capturing your attention above all else that may be preventing you from seeing the "author and perfecter of faith"? Whatever these distractions may be, let us "run with perseverance the race set before, keeping our eyes fixed on Jesus," trusting that he, and he alone, is the only road that will lead us home.

DILIGENCE

All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, throughly furnished unto all good works.

2 Timothy 3:16-17 (KJV)

Shy away from scripture because it makes you aware of your faults? While it does do that, it also identifies what we can do to set things right. Along with reproof and correction, the Bible teaches us in the way of the righteous and the forgiveness of Christ.

Terriers name batting building in honor of Doug Pence at alumni event

Alumni from the William Byrd baseball family gathered at Walthall Park last Saturday to participate in a home run derby and pay tribute to a cherished family member. After the home run derby the group surprised long time coach Doug Pence by naming the hitting building in his honor.

The home run derby was the first order of business, and it was a good one. Bryce Boothe, Neil Zimmerman and Dylan Hatfield were the top three scorers after one round of a couple dozen hitters, advancing to the second round. Hatfield and Boothe tied after five more swings and went to a three-swing overtime showdown. Hatfield then put two deep into the trees in left to win the home run derby.

At that point former coach Gary Walthall took over the microphone for a heartwarming tribute to Pence, who has been with the program for over 50 years as a coach and volunteer. Zimmerman, who recently stepped down as coach, and former Terrier

Nick Baker also took a turn at honoring Pence and it was announced a plaque inscribed with, "In honor of Doug Pence for his coaching and maintenance of our baseball complex for parts of 5 decades," would be mounted atop the door of the batting building. The batting building was designed by Doug and Bob Yost, a former Terrier baseball player from the Class of 1980.

Pence then took the mic to thank family and friends and share a few stories of his many years with the program. It was also announced that Doug has been selected to be inducted into the Salem-Roanoke Baseball Hall of Fame at their winter banquet. The other members of the Class of 2022 will be announced at a later date.

"We really do have a special William Byrd baseball family," said Walthall. "So many great memories and lasting friendships. Life is good when you spend it with friends and family."

Zimmerman stepping down as William Byrd baseball coach

Neil Zimmerman is stepping down as baseball coach at William Byrd after six seasons. He made the announcement last week with the end of the season baseball banquet scheduled for this week.

"It's just time," said Zimmerman. "I have a couple kids and they're getting older. They're playing sports and I've missed a lot already. I didn't want to have to choose between baseball and my kids, because if I have to choose I'm going to choose the kids."

Neil leaves with a six season record of 72-59. That actually covers seven years, as the 2020 season was cancelled due to the coronavirus pandemic. The team finished 11-4 in an abbreviated 2021 season, losing in the Region 3D finals to unbeaten Abingdon in a 2-1 walkoff victory for the Falcons.

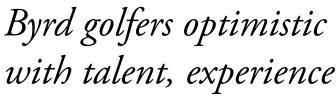

Byrd graduated 11 seniors this year. Among the highlights of Zimmerman's tenure was an upset win over Liberty Christian Academy, the favorite to win the state, in the 2018 regionals when Byrd fielded a team of mostly freshmen and sophomores. That group was 27-11 in the past two seasons while missing out on the 2020 campaign.

Zimmerman leaves behind a resume few can match in the storied Byrd baseball program. He grew up playing for outstanding youth teams in Vinton and was a sophomore on the 1997 state championship Terrier team. After graduating in 1999 he played four years at Ferrum College. Neil started coaching when Anthony Amos asked Zimmerman and Steve Sizemore to help on the Byrd team of middle school players that was not sanctioned by the school. He continued when the school took over the middle school program, then assisted Sizemore on the Byrd varsity team when Steve was named head coach. He also assisted Chris Carr with the varsity and served as jayvee coach before accepting the job as head coach prior to the 2015 season. If you cut him, he'd bleed maroon and orange.

"I've been here for a long time," he said. "After a while it becomes part of you. I'm not sure how I'm going to feel this fall and next spring when I'm not a part of this baseball program anymore. It will be strange, but I'll be here to help on the field or with whatever the new coach needs me for. I won't get in the way but I'll be glad to help."

The Byrd baseball program is like very few in the high school ranks. Former coach Gary Walthall maintains a roster of former players he periodically e-mails with information on the team and the lives of past and current players. It truly is a big family.

"You have to realize when you take this job you're not just getting 40 players," said Zimmerman. "You're also getting 30 years of guys who want to be involved with the program. It's something that will always be in your blood and I'm just glad I've been able to play a small part in it."

The Botetourt Golf & Swim Club will be the site of the Botetourt Metro Golf Tournament on Tuesday of next week, with most of the area high schools participating.

This will be the first Metro tournament since the fall of 2019, as the coronavirus pandemic wiped out the 2020 affair. The high school golf season was rescheduled for the spring but the Metro was not included due to limits on number of schools that were allowed to compete at an event.

This year's Metro will be only one day instead of the two-day, 36 hole events of the past. It will be held at the Botetourt Golf & Swim Club with the first group teeing off at 10 am. William Byrd will be competing in the tournament, which will include 20 teams and 108 players.

The Terriers were scheduled to open the season this week with a match at Blue Hills, Byrd's home course. The Terriers graduated just one player from last year's team and will return seniors Kendrick South and Griffin Horacek, juniors Evan Mullen, Clayton Gilmore and Collin Murtaugh and sophomores Nathan Carter and Mattox Wolfe. All have match experience and Madelyn Cunningham is a freshman who coach Scott Whitehead expects to be competing for a spot in the lineup. Other hopefuls include junior Garrett Sexton and sophomores Ben Sink and Andrew Kieker.

"I'll be disappointed if we don't play better than last year, as we have experience in matches and ability as well," said Whitehead. "I'm excited about our team and can't wait to see them compete this fall."
