Mooney celebrates 103rd birthday

Eileen Mooney, a resident of Brookdale Salem, celebrated her 103rd birthday last week.

"It's been wonderful I could live this long and have a party. I don't know what to think about it," she said during the party.

Mooney is a Salem native, having graduated from Andrew Lewis High School. She noted she enjoyed growing up in the area.

She later moved to Princeton, West Virginia, where she lived for many years. "It was a good place to live," she said.

Coincidentally, her birthday is on Halloween. She said children used to joke about her birthday falling on the same day as

McKinney finds Honor Flight memorable

Meg Hibbert
Contributing writer

Although retired Army Staff Sergeant Seyward McKinney has been to Washington, D.C., many times, it was an October Honor Flight trip that means the most to her.

"At the Vietnam Veteran Wall I witnessed a woman placing a plaque in front of the name of a nurse friend who died in Vietnam. She was one of eight female nurses who died there," the 38-year-old Salem resident said.

"She told me, 'We must not forget that women also were in Vietnam.'"

The Honor Flight trip gave McKinney an opportunity to hear the stories of veterans from other wars and conflicts.

After the trip, McKinney said what she wants other people to know is "Remember to honor veterans. We're still here. The worst thing in life is to be forgotten."

Glenvar High School 2002 graduate McKinney served in Iraq as a surgical technician at in the Green Zone in Baghdad, Iraq and is now a medically retired veteran. She had a debilitating stroke in 2009 after returning stateside, and spent two years recuperating at Walter Reed Army National Military Center.

After much therapy, she participates in Wounded Warrior and other Paralympian athletic competitions, and has also found healing with the help of horses at Healing Strides horse center in Boones Mill over the last 10 years.

She was featured on the cover and inside the Fall 2022 "Vet Quarterly" published by the Salem Veter-

Ground zero flag used in ceremony last week

Aila Boyd
aboyd@mainstreetnewspapers.com

A flag that flew over ground zero in New York on Nov. 2, 2001 and has been on three tours of Iraq flew at Salem Fire-EMS Station 1 in Salem where the 9/11 monument is for a couple of hours Wednesday, Nov. 2. The flag came to Salem as part of a ceremony that was attended by local first responders.

The 3-foot by 5-foot flag flew in Salem exactly 22 years after it flew over ground zero. It was signed by some of the workers who were at ground zero when it was flown there. To avoid damaging the flag, it is handled with gloves.

A moment of silence was held before the flag was flown. Those in attendance signed a book that travels with the flag.

The flag was brought to Salem by the "Ground Zero Flag Team."

The flag, which travels with a cross fashioned out of marble recovered from what is believed to have been the lobby of the South Tower, has been flown over the Pentagon, on U.S. Navy warships like the USS Harry S. Truman and USS John Warner and on installations like Fort Bragg and Fort Dix.

The purpose of the remembrance/tribute ceremonies like the one that took place in Salem is focused on "remembering 9/11 victims and survivors; paying tribute to the U.S. military battling the Global War on Terror; honoring the first responders who serve their communities and to also assure all of their families that we will 'never forget' the sacrifices their loved ones have made and continue to make for this great nation."

The "GZ Flag Team" will likely be retired on the 25th anniversary of when the flag last flew over the rubble of the World Trade Center, which will be Nov. 2, 2026.

Local first responders were in attendance for the remembrance ceremony Wednesday, Nov. 2.

O'Donnell joins Roanoke College Board of Trustees

Brendan O'Donnell, an entrepreneur in Newport, Rhode Island, was a member of the Class of 2009

The Roanoke College Board of Trustees welcomed a new member, Brendan O'Donnell '09, during its fall meeting Oct. 27-29.

O'Donnell, a native of Chatham, New Jersey, is a hospitality industry entrepreneur based in Newport, Rhode Island. He earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from Roanoke and was a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity.

Following graduation from Roanoke, O'Donnell worked for five years as a senior insurance underwriter in New York City. During that time, he also invested in The Next Step Realty in New York, for which he still serves on the advisory board.

O'Donnell said he has always been drawn to hospitality, so in 2015 he invested in 310 Bowery Bar in Manhattan's SoHo district and helped run the successful business. He sold his equity in the bar in late 2016 and, in 2017, led the purchase of Newport Craft Brewing and Distilling Company in Newport, Rhode Island.

Newport Craft has grown 500% in five years and has acquired two additional breweries, Braven Brewing and Radiant Pig Craft Beers. The company is currently undergoing a $17 million renovation that is expected to be completed in August 2023. Newport Craft has been named the 9th best run distillery in the nation and makes the highest-rated whiskey in New England, according to Whiskey Advocate.

O'Donnell now helps oversee $15 billion in real estate assets for Bellevue Capital Partners of Newport, including three brick-and-mortar restaurants, five food trucks and Newport Craft. He attributes his success, in part, to the business classes he took at Roanoke College, saying that he's grateful for the professors who gave him the confidence to believe that he could be a successful entrepreneur if he worked hard enough.

Since graduation, he has served as a Maroon Mentor, a member of the President's Advisory Board and a member of the Associates Society.

O'Donnell lives in Newport, Rhode Island, with his wife, Tessa, and their 2-year-old son, Brendan Jr.

NRP's Liasson speaks at Roanoke College

Mara Liasson spoke about the implications of the midterm elections during her speech.

Mara Liasson, a national political correspondent for National Public Radio, spoke at Roanoke College Wednesday, Nov. 2 as part of the Fowler Public Affairs Lecture Series.

The title of Liasson's speech was "Implications of the Midterm Elections: A View of Democracy in America."

Liasson, who joined NPR in 1985, contributes reports to "Morning Edition" and "All Things Considered."

"When we vote, we are giving our consent to the kind of government we want. We hope that government and elected officials who will legislate and administer it will to the best of their ability promote wisdom, guide us toward a perfect union and promote a general welfare—a common good, if you will for the nation's citizens," Roanoke College President Frank Shushok said in remarks prior to Liasson's introduction.

Liasson provided an overview of the political landscape going into the midterms.

"We're in this volatile, hyperpolarized, super tribal moment where sometimes it seems like we're coming apart at the seams," Liasson said.

She then discussed the implications of the elections. Some of the key races she discussed included the senatorial campaigns in Pennsylvania, Georgia, Arizona and Nevada.

SALEM MUSEUM SPOTLIGHT

In observance of Veterans Day, the Salem Museum is highlighting World War I artifacts during their Hands-On History Saturday program.

After the War, soldiers received Victory Medals, like the one pictured, which were distributed by the Allied countries to their soldiers. They feature the image of Victory on the front, and the words "The Great War for Civilization" on the back, accompanied by the names of the Allied countries. Soldiers were also given battle clasps to put onto the ribbon that list the different conflicts the soldiers were involved in.

This Medal belonged to Norborne Preas, of Salem, who served in the Army, and fought in the Battle of St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne offensive. The "Defensive Sector" clasp signifies general defensive service beyond conflicts listed on battle clasps.

You can see this World War I Victory Medal on display this weekend at the Salem Museum.

On Saturdays, visitors can pull on a glove and touch a piece of history with their own hand. In November, Hands-On History is sponsored by the Ray and Nina Byrd Family. Salem Museum is open Tuesday-Saturday 10 a.m.-4 p.m. and located at 801 E. Main St.

Veterans Day

Morgan Griffith
Representative

War I but in all the wars our country has fought.

When our country is threatened and our freedom is in peril, we have been fortunate to have brave men and women willing to step forward and answer the call.

From the beginning of the Republic, we have enjoyed the protection of the citizen soldier who leaves the comforts of home behind to defend our rights and then puts down his arms when the job is done. George Washington served as a model in this regard, but millions of Americans less well-remembered have done the same. It is our duty on Veterans Day to better remember them, especially the ones in our own communities, so that their sacrifices are recognized and their service honored.

This year, Americans lost the last of a certain breed. West Virginia's Hershel "Woody" Williams passed away on June 29, 2022, at the age of 98. He was the final surviving recipient of the Medal of Honor from World War II.

The story of Woody Williams is representative of the veterans of his generation who are passing from the scene but also speaks to the experience of veterans across our history. He was born on a dairy farm in West Virginia in 1923. After the United States entered World War II, his older brothers served in the Army, but he chose the Marine Corps due to its blue uniforms. He was rejected at first due to his 5-foot-6 height but successfully enlisted when he tried again in 1943.

He received the Medal of Honor for his actions on February 23, 1945, during the Battle of Iwo Jima. As a corporal with the 21st Marines, 3rd Marine Division, he volunteered to clear a path through the hardened defenses erected by Japanese forces on the island. For four hours, he repeatedly ran under heavy fire between the American lines and the Japanese positions, grabbing the demolition charges or flamethrowers he needed from his comrades and returning to destroy the Japanese defenses.

President Harry S. Truman awarded Mr. Williams the Medal of Honor at the White House on October

5, 1945. He returned home to West Virginia and married his fiancée, Ruby. In his later years, he remained an undaunted voice for his fellow veterans and for Gold Star families.

Woody Williams may have been the last of World War II's Medal of Honor winners among us, but there are plenty of veterans still to thank. According to the most recent data from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, more than 19 million veterans live among us in the United States and more than 700,000 in Virginia. Some of them still struggle with injuries received in the line of duty.

We can honor veterans not just on the day set aside for them but every day. Consider supporting causes or organizations that work with veterans. Listen to their stories, and even help record them for posterity through the Library of Congress' Veterans History Project. Check in on family members and friends who served.

Further, if you are a veteran who needs assistance accessing your VA benefits or securing medals that were lost or awarded but never delivered, please contact my office and we can assist you.

On the National World War I Memorial in Washington, D.C., is inscribed a quote by the author Willa Cather: "They were mortal, but they were unconquerable."

If they are unconquerable, our country is unconquerable, and for that, we owe America's veterans our deepest gratitude.

This time of year, we are routinely preparing for the beginning of respiratory illness season, encouraging flu vaccines and promoting other prevention messages.

Prevention of respiratory illnesses

What is not routine, both in Virginia and across the country, are the earlier-than-usual reports of increased respiratory cases. More people, particularly young children aged 0-4 years, are being evaluated and treated in urgent care centers, emergency departments, and hospitals for influenza-like illness compared to the same time in previous years. While COVID-19 remains a constant in our communities, the increase in respiratory illness is associated with influenza as well as respiratory syncytial virus (RSV). In response to the early and rapid increase in respiratory illness, the Virginia Department of Health is urging residents to get both the new bivalent COVID booster as well as this year's flu shot. Vaccines are the best line of defense.

Beyond getting vaccinated, what else can help prevent illness?

There are several additional practices that can help protect our communities from the worst of these seasonal bugs.

Stay home when sick. If you have a fever of 100°F or more, stay home until at least 24 hours after the fever is gone. If you have influenza or COVID, you should stay home for longer, at least four or five days after beginning of symptoms respectively.

Wash your hands regularly with soap.

Practice good respiratory etiquette. Sneeze or cough into your elbow, and avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth.

Sanitize commonly touched surfaces more frequently during the fall and winter.

How can I tell if I have the flu, COVID, RSV or a cold?

You may not always be able to tell what illness you have. The flu and COVID-19 have many similar symptoms, including fever or feeling feverish/chills, cough, shortness of breath or difficulty breathing, fatigue (tiredness), sore throat, runny or stuffy nose, muscle pain or body aches and headaches. COVID-19 differs from flu with a possible change in or loss of taste or smell.

RSV is a common respiratory virus that usually causes mild, cold-like symptoms including fever, cough, congestion, runny nose, sneezing, and in infants, fussiness and poor feeding. It can progress to more severe symptoms such as fast or short breathing or wheezing.

The bottom line is that if you are sick, the best thing to do is to stay home and call your healthcare provider to see if you should get tested.

Isn't getting the flu just like getting a bad cold? Why should I get a flu vaccine?

No. The flu can be a serious disease, particularly for young children, pregnant women, older adults, and people with certain chronic health conditions, such as asthma, heart disease or diabetes. Even for otherwise healthy children and adults, influenza carries a risk of serious complications, hospitalization or rarely, even death. Vaccination is cheaper and more convenient than getting sick, and it protects those around you. Catching a respiratory illness can cost you in time away from work, medical bills, missed events, and days of misery.

It is not too late to get vaccinated to protect yourself. Vaccination after October can still provide protection during the peak of respiratory illness season. Find your dose at a pharmacy, doctor's office, or any of our local health department routine immunization clinics.

Book: 'Capital Dames'

{Frances Stebbins has been covering events in Western Virginia, especially those relating to faith communities, since 1953. Her column now appears monthly.}

The Salem Museum on East Main Street sells a wide variety of books related to Western Virginia history; some are by local authors like one I compiled from a selection of "Senior News" columns and called "Century Turning."

I'm not writing this, however, to promote my own work but rather that of broadcast personality Cokie Roberts who in 2015 published "Capital Dames." The work, for which a paperback copy can be bought at the museum's gift shop, is subtitled "The Civil War and the Women of Washington 1848-1868." The museum sells it for $15.98. I found it well worth the price and a bridge from 160 years ago to the present.

While the men of that period were dealing with the grave issues as the spread of slavery and the growing division in Congress involving such folk as Jefferson Davis and John Charles Fremont, the wives of these men were busy trying to advance their husbands' careers while making their own impact in the shadows.

The author introduces us to the lives and achievements of many women we may or may not have read of elsewhere including Clara Barton, Sojourner Truth and Dorothea Dix.

Barton became the founder of The American Red Cross, Sojourner Truth was a freed slave later famed for her speaking and writing about this blot on American history, and Dix pioneered in the understanding of mental illness.

All these were active in the Nineteenth Century period covering the years before, during and after the Civil War when women enjoyed few of the "rights" we take for granted today. One such right, that of casting a ballot for their local, state and national leaders, was not to come for another half century in 1919.

However, as "Capital Dames" reveals, women exerted their influence with power when their men were prominent in political life. Jessie Benton Fremont, for instance, pulled many strings to try to get her husband, John, nominated and elected president as an anti-slavery Republican.

Fremont had developed his own plan for freeing slaves; it was not acceptable to the man in the White House, Abraham Lincoln, who became annoyed by the pushy man from the West who never achieved his own inauguration.

Frances Stebbins Correspondent

I found "Capital Dames" greatly enlarged my knowledge and appreciation of Lincoln as well as many other historical personages of the time. Cokie Roberts' style is easy and informal. Along with copious notes and references, there are sketches of the author herself and descriptions of her other works. Though my own pleasure reading time these days is limited, the book engaged me fully for the period of weeks it took me to read it.

From "Capital Dames" I learned of Mary Todd Lincoln who lived with many misfortunes including having a southern background in a city when a major war was being fought over regional differences. But more than that, she behaved at times in selfish and neurotic ways which author Roberts learned from the many diaries and letters the Washington women kept.

The book's years before the war found a group of the wives of the political leader as friends in the national capital's social circle. Secession broke up, not only the union for four long and bitter years, but the friendships of those like Varina Davis. She became the First Lady of the Confederacy when her husband, Senator Jefferson Davis from Mississippi, was named to its presidency, and the family moved to Richmond.

{It was a tragic coincidence, Cokie Roberts tells us, that both Davis and Lincoln lost young sons, though in different ways, during the war period. The Lincoln boy succumbed to a common ailment of the time, typhoid fever. A fall from a high balcony in the Richmond mansion housing the Confederate leader's family brought about the death of the Davis son.}

The book has even a special relevance for today with the talk of impeachment that has circulated since the presidency of Donald Trump. Our history books tend to pass quickly over the painful years just after the Civil War, but for the presidential circle in Washington, the years in which Andrew Johnson succeeded to the White house brought their own drama.

Johnson, Lincoln's vice-president, had no intention of becoming president when the high-profile liberator of slaves was shot to death just as Union sympathizers were celebrating their victory. He was a Senator from Tennessee who did not go about punishing the defeated South enough in the opinion of the more "Radical Republicans."

In February 1868 the House of Representatives voted 126 to 47 to impeach Johnson. The trial, Roberts recounts in detail, attracted many women as well as men to the proceedings. In the end, only one vote kept the President from being removed from office.

His wife, Eliza, was quoted after it was over, "I wish they would send us back to Tennessee...give us our poverty and our peace again."

The conquering hero of the war, General Ulysses S. Grant, succeeded Johnson as President. His image in history is somewhat tarnished by political scandals in which some of his associates were involved; he managed war better than peace.

Through letters and record of his wife, Julia Grant, author Roberts introduces readers to the humanity of this couple.

Even readers who are not the "Civil War Buff" I am, can learn a lot of American history from this expert commentator of events of today.

ans Affairs HCS.

McKinney said Honor Flight activities for participants on the chartered bus trip arranged were kind of a welcome home for Vietnam veterans, most of whom were not recognized when they returned from that unpopular war.

Stops in the Washington area included the Korean War Memorial, World War II Memorial, U.S. Navy Memorial, Marine Corps War Memorial in Arlington, the new Army Museum at Fort Belvoir, Tomb of the Unknown Soldiers and Military Women's Museum.

It was at the latter where McKinney was recognized with a certificate for her service in Iraq.

"It was unexpected to be honored," she said.

Of the new Army Museum, she said, "It had tributes from World War II all the way up to my war. That was cool."

McKinney noted that the last time she was at the Korean War Memorial was in 2011. This time, she was pleased to see names of the fallen had been etched into the wall.

Each veteran on the trip that started and ended at the D-Day Memorial in Bedford County was assigned a "guardian." McKinney's was Hannah Jordan, the nurse who placed the plaque at the Vietnam Wall. Jordan, a Marine, also received a certificate at the Military Women's Museum.

McKinney is an active member of the Fort Lewis Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Members from other DAR chapters provided meals along the way the Honor Flight. Hosts for meals along the way were the Bedford Peaks of Otter DAR Chapter, the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Charlottesville.

Police and members of Rolling Thunder motorcycle unit gave the Honor Flight bus a 45-minute escort along the way, back to the bunkers at the D-Day Memorial.

Honor Flights are open to veterans who served during war times.

McKinney is the daughter of Ricki and Bill McKinney of Glenvar.

Salem 8U Spartans, 10U Maroon are Super Bowl Champs

The City of Salem won two of three Sandlot Super Bowl championships last Saturday at Salem Stadium. Salem teams won U-8 and U-10 titles on a misty Salem day.

The U-8 Spartans, coached by Bobby Johnson, opened the three-game day of Super Bowl action with a game against Franklin County. Seedings didn't mean a lot in the eight year old division as scores are not kept during the season and seedings are drawn from a hat for the tournament. Salem drew number four and the Spartans defeated the other Salem U-8 team, coached by Neil Conner, in the opener, then defeated Vinton in the semifinals. Franklin County beat Cave Spring and Hunter DeHart's Glenvar team.

The championship game in the U-8 Division was a good one, with Salem winning 24-19. Jace Johnson scored two TDs for Salem while Kordae Waller and Walter Moyer had one each. Luke Biggar had four sacks and two fumble recoveries.

"Great offense and defense for the entire team, we could not have done this without each player," said coach Johnson. "We are so proud of these boys, the 'little team that could'."

This was Johnson's first year coaching football in the recreation program.

"I thought I knew the expectations, but I was wrong," he said. "Salem takes pride in their football teams. All of them, including the 8U boys. They responded and went far beyond my wildest expectations. What we achieved this season was amazing. Saturday was the culmination of a season of practice, bruises and tears. Our fellas went out there and decided not to lose. I give all the thanks to God, great parents and coaches, and most of all, this small team of young men."

The second game, in the U-10 division, matched the two Salem teams for the championship. The Maroon team, coached by Bubba Sowers, had won convincingly over the White, coached by Gary Abbott, during the regular season but on Saturday the White team gave them all they could handle.

Aaron Brower scored early in the game and Maclin Hale kicked the two point extra, and that's how it stood at the half. Hale scored on a 42 yard quarterback run in the second half to make it 16-0 and that's how the game ended.

"CJ Goens played great on defense," said Sowers. "Our blitzing safety Nathan Denton tried to play some but couldn't due to the flu and Alden Sowers had to step in. He hadn't played much on defense all year but did well rushing up the middle, causing the Salem white team to go off sides. Offensively it was not our best game but defensively they couldn't move the ball on us."

Coach Sowers was pleased to have his team on the victory stand after a frustrating season in 2021.

"This group of kids is an outstanding group to coach and very selfless," he said. "They deserved to win the Super Bowl last year but due to COVID protocols we weren't able to play all of our players. This is a year overdue, primarily a roster of fourth graders, and I can't think of a more deserving group to win this year's Super Bowl."

In the final game of the day, for U-12 players, Vinton finished the season undefeated with an 8-0 win over Cave Spring.

W&L ends Roanoke field hockey season, 3-0

The top-seeded Washington & Lee field hockey team shut out fourth seeded Roanoke College Thursday, 3-0, to end the Maroons' season in the Old Dominion Athletic Conference tournament last week.

Roanoke had won an opening round game over Bridgewater, 1-0, that set up the game in Lexington on Thursday. The Generals scored early, then jumped to a 2-0 lead by the half. They added an insurance goal in the third period to secure the win.

The Maroons finished a solid season with a 12-7 record. Roanoke shut out eight opponents, including six in a row in one stretch for a school record.

Lewis has wrestling tourney Saturday

Andrew Lewis Middle School will be the site of the "Wolverine Duals" wrestling tournament this Saturday. Action begins at 9:30 am in the big gym at Lewis.

Teams competing include host Andrew Lewis, Glenvar Middle School and middle school teams from Cave Spring, William Byrd, Blacksburg, Northside, Pulaski, Clifton Forge, Central Academy and Read Mountain. There will be 17 weight classes of competition from 70 pounds to 265 pounds.

The tournament is expected to go until around 6 pm. Admission is $5 for adults and school aged children.

Unfortunately his alma mater wasn't as successful Saturday as Tech dropped a 28-27 decision to Georgia Tech. This Saturday the Hokies are at Duke. PHOTOS BY SCOTT GARDNER ning game in check like no one had done since the season opener in Martinsburg, West Virginia. Peyton Lewis ran for 103 yards but he needed 16 carries and his longest run was for 10 yards. Jones had 55 yards on 15 carries and DaRon Wilson was six for 13 passing for 61 yards, with the longest being a 32 yard hookup to Jaelyn Allen on Salem's first drive of the game.

On defense Allen had 13 tackles and a sack to lead the Spartans. Isaiah Barlow had eight tackles and Chris Cole had seven.

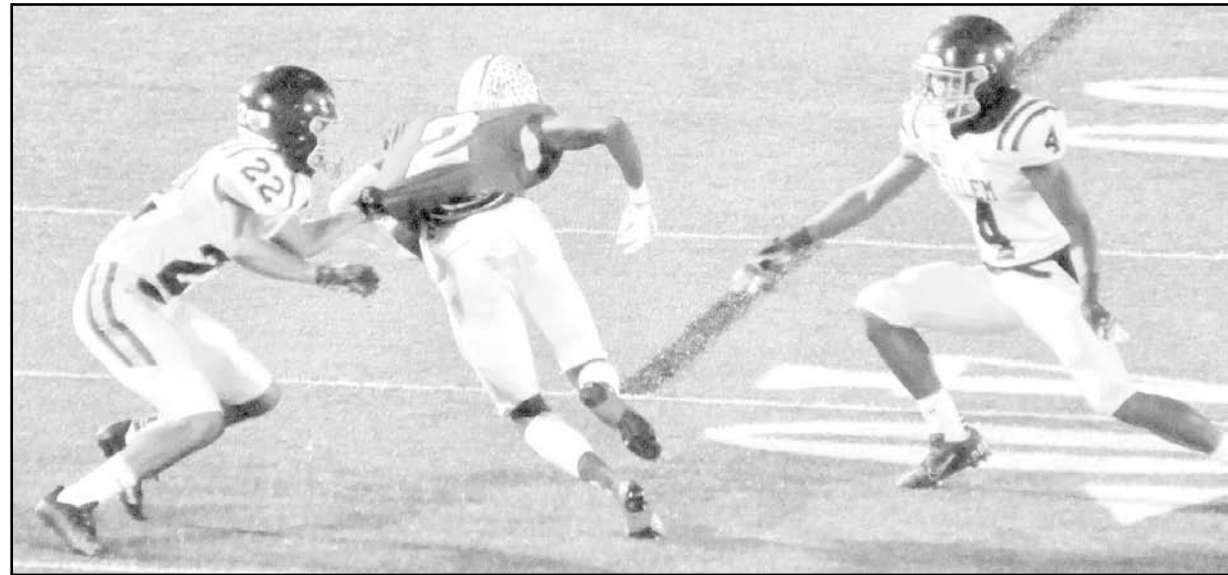

Now 8-2, the Spartans must win tonight to stay alive and take on the winner of a game between Louisa and seventh seeded Jefferson Forest. If JF can pull an upset Salem could be home for the region semifinal. Other first round games find Halifax County at top-seeded Glass and fifth seeded Amherst at fourth seeded Orange County.

"Playing Patrick Henry was good for us prior to the playoffs," said Holter. "Competition makes everyone better, and that was a heck of a high school football game."

RC men are picked second in ODAC basketball coaches poll

The Roanoke College men's basketball team will open the 2022-23 season on the road this weekend with two games in Alliance, Ohio.

The Maroons will be participating in the Mount Union Tournament and will open with Maryville of Tennessee on Friday at 5 pm. Host Mount Union will take on Whitworth in the second game and the results will determine Saturday's pairings.

The host Purple Raiders lost in the Ohio Athletic Conference Championship game last year, but received an at-large bid into the NCAA Tournament, where they fell to Stevens. Maryville finished the season 20-4 a year ago but fell in the USA South Quarterfinals to LaGrange. Whitworth claimed their 14th Northwest conference title last season over Whitman before falling to Trinity (Texas) in the NCAA Tournament first round to finish the season 22-5.

The Old Dominion Athletic Conference preseason coaches poll was announced last week and the conference coaches picked the Maroons second behind Randolph-Macon. The Maroons picked up three first place votes while the Yellowjackets received 10. Guilford was picked third, followed by Virginia Wesleyan and Hampden-Sydney. Coaches were unable to vote for their own team in the poll.

The Maroons will be led by returning all-conference swing man Kasey Draper. Roanoke finished 18-9 last year, falling to Randolph-Macon in the ODAC semifinal.

Roanoke will open the home season on Friday, November 18, with the two-day Frankie Allen Tip-off Tournament.

Middle School basketball has full slate of games today

The Middle School basketball season is now underway and both Andrew Lewis and Glenvar Middle School teams were on the court Monday.

At Lewis, the boys improved to 3-0 with a 55-20 win over William Byrd in Vinton. An aggressive defense in all four periods allowed everyone on the team to play before the fifth period.

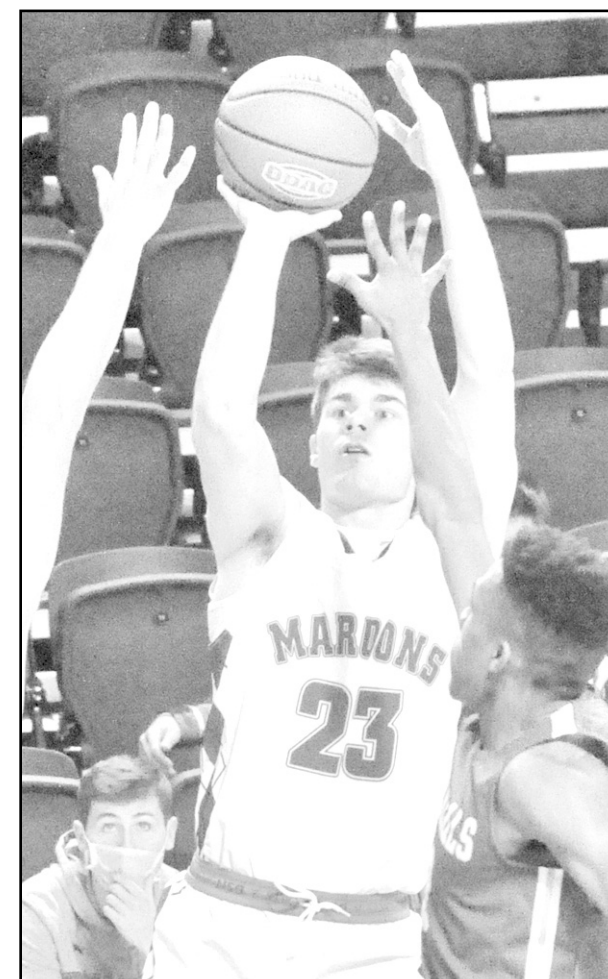

The Lewis girls played Byrd at home and won 39-5. Kat Gibson led the team with 12 points and all 15 girls got in the game as the AL ladies stayed unbeaten after three games.

Glenvar's girls played host to Hidden Valley Middle School Monday and lost 18-12 to fall to 0-2. Glenvar led 4-0 after the first quarter but struggled with Hidden Valley's press.

The boys were at Hidden Valley Monday and lost 38-33. Jax Bolling had 15 points and four steals for Glenvar and Evan Harris had nine rebounds.

All four teams are back in action today. The Lewis boys are home to Hidden Valley and the girls are at HV middle. Glenvar will play host to Carroll County with the boys' game at 4:30 pm and the girls at 6 pm.

Next Monday, November 14, the AL girls host Northside and the boys go there while Glenvar's girls are home to Cave Spring and the boys visit the Squires.

Senior Kasey Draper returns to lead the RC men's basketball team.

MYERS WINS ON TOUGH WEEK

This was a tough one this week! We had very few people miss fewer than five of the 15 games on our football contest and only one person missed just three. That was T.J. Beason Myers of Bogey Lane in Salem.

First of all, on a week when Salem loses and the Detroit Lions win you figure most contestants are going to miss at least two. T.J. indeed missed those two games as well as Virginia Tech's loss to Georgia Tech, but she got everything else right and that was more than good enough to win the contest. We didn't even need the tie-breaker this week, which was a high score of 49 by Glenvar against Giles.

For her efforts Myers wins the $50 gift certificate from Mac & Bob's as well as the Blizzard from Dairy Queen. That could be Thanksgiving dinner for the Myers family, although I assume Mac & Bob's will be closed on Thanksgiving Day. You can always go on Black Friday and maybe get a deal.

For last week's 19th hole I asked you to pick the score of the Salem-PH game. While most of you picked Salem, Phyllis Williams of Sundance Road in Salem went with the Patriots, as did a few others. Phyllis was closest to the actual score of 17-7 with her guess of 34-27. That's not real close, but remember almost everyone picked Salem. So, Phyllis gets a free round of golf at the Salem Municipal Course on Academy Street.

For this week's 19th hole I have a good one. Tell me what you'd do with the money if you won the TWO BILLION dollar Powerball lottery prize. I'm looking for something sports related and it should be either funny or heartwarming, and the one I like best will get a free round of golf. . .with pull cart.

come into the playoffs as Three Rivers District champs after tying Radford with one loss each in the district, but getting the nod with a head-to-head win over the Bobcats.

Last week's game with Giles was the last in the series, as Giles dropped Glenvar after playing the Highlanders every year since 1996. The writing was on the wall when the Spartans dropped to Class 1 and left the Three Rivers District, but this has been a great rivalry. At one point Giles held a 20-0 edge in the series but, beginning in 2014, the Highlanders have won nine of the past 10 games.

"We had some trouble with them in the first half it always takes a series or two to get used to that (single wing) offense," said Clifford. "But once we settled in we were okay."

Glenvar led 28-14 at the half and shut out the Spartans after intermission while putting three touchdowns on the board. Freshman quarterback Brody Dawyot had another big night, completing 12 of 15 passes for 272 yards with four touchdown passes and no interceptions. He also ran for 71 yards on eight carries and scored twice on runs.

Senior Gabe Ford had five catches for 171 yards and three TDs. The Dawyot to Ford combination is fast becoming a dangerous weapon as they've hit on six TD hookups in the past two games alone.

Jackson Swanson caught three passes for 45 yards and a touchdown. He also ran the kickoff back 90 yards for a score after Giles had tied the game at 14-14, and the Highlanders never trailed after that point.

On defense Jack Camper and Shane Gibson had 10 tackles each to lead the Highlanders. Ben Holiday had nine tackles while Nate Johnson and Avone Noel had eight each and Noel also had an interception.

If Glenvar can win tonight the Highlanders would most likely head to Martinsville next week for the region semifinal, and that would give them a chance to avenge a prior loss for the second time in two playoff games. If Dan River can upset the Bulldogs and Glenvar beats Floyd then the Highlanders could have a home game for the semifinal, but no one is looking past the Buffaloes, who have a 7-3 record just like Glenvar.

"At this point of the year it's about surviving and advancing," said Clifford.

Roanoke women open hoop season on the road Friday

The Roanoke College women's basketball team has been selected fourth in the 2022-23 ODAC Preseason Poll. The Maroons collected 112 points and one first-place vote.

Randolph-Macon is picked to finish first, garnering 136 points and seven first-place votes. Randolph is picked second and had 127 points and two first-place votes, while Washington and Lee earned 116 points and the final three first-place votes to take third, followed by the Maroons with 112.

Bridgewater and Shenandoah each finished with 89 points in a tie for fifth. Lynchburg (87), Guilford (86), Ferrum (57), and Eastern Mennonite (39) round out the top 10. Hollins, ODAC newcomer Averett University, and Virginia Wesleyan finished in 11th-13th.

The poll was done by a vote of each head coach in the ODAC with teams unable to vote for themselves.

The Maroons open the season on the road with a visit to Staunton to take on the Fighting Squirrels of Mary Baldwin on November 11. The home opener is next Wednesday, November 16, with a 7 pm game against the University of Lynchburg at the Cregger Center.

Class 1, 2, & 3 cross country state championships at Green Hill Park Sat.

Green Hill Park in west Roanoke County will be the site of the Virginia High School League Class 1,2 and 3 cross country state championships this Saturday. The Glenvar boys' team and Everly Shanks of the girls' team qualified for the meet at the Region 2C meet at Green Hill Park last week.

This week's state action begins with the Class 3 girls' meet at 10:30 am, followed by the Class 3 boys at 11:15 am. The Class 2 girls are next at 11:45 am with the boys at 12:30 pm. The day wraps up with the Class 1 girls and boys at 1 and 1:45 pm, and the awards ceremony will follow.

The Glenvar boys finished with 65 points to finish just six points behind region champ Floyd County, who had 59. James River was third with 97, giving the Three Rivers District a sweep of state qualifying boys' teams.

"A huge congratulations to the boys' varsity team for being the VHSL Region 2C Runners-up and qualifying for the state meet," said coach Amanda Spradlin.

The individual champ was Mason Erchull of Floyd with a time of 16:15. Glenvar was led by senior Heath Bowker who finished second in 16:32, and the Highlanders had four in the top 11 with Davis Norman seventh, Caeden Bowker ninth and Charlie Horrell 11th. Tyler Davis also scored with a 38th place finish among 73 runners.

Floyd also won the girls' title with Alleghany second and Nelson County third. Glenvar was fourth, missing a trip to the state as a team by one spot and seven points.

Freshman Kiera Lowman of Alleghany was the individual champ with a time of 18:32. Glenvar's Everly Shanks was 12th overall in 21:14 and that was good enough to qualify for the state. Others scoring for Glenvar included Joanna Killeen in 18th, Molly McCroskey in 22nd, Lauren Michael in 26th and Anna Hall in 27th. There were 56 girls in the race.

"The girls team ran their hearts out and finished an impressive fourth overall in the region," said Spradlin. "We could not be more proud of our teams. All runners competed so well and nearly all of them ran new personal records. The hard work, grit, and determination these teams have displayed all season has been amazing. We look forward to watching the boys team and Everly compete this Saturday."

Salem's Peterson qualifies for state race

The Class 4, 5 and 6 state cross country championships will be held at te Oatlands Plantation, just outside of Leesburg, VA, this Saturday and Salem senior Walker Peterson will be included. Walker will be running the boys' Class 4 state race after qualifying at the Region 4D meet in Blacksburg last week.

The Salem boys' and girls' teams competed at Blacksburg High School, with the top three teams advancing to the state meet. In the boys' race the host Blacksburg boys were first followed by Western Albemarle and Jefferson Forest, all qualifying for state. Louisa County was fourth and Salem was fifth.

The individual region winner was Conner Rutherford of Blacksburg, who ran a time of 15:39. Peterson was 20th with a time of 17:53 to qualify for the state. Other Spartans who scored included Zane Easter in 23rd, Carson Tucker in 26th, Alex Helems in 34th and Rick Rawlins in 35th place. There were 80 boys in the race.

CIAA Football championship at Salem Stadium Saturday

Chowan University and Fayetteville State, the top football teams from the Northern and Southern Divisions of the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association (CIAA®), the nation's oldest historically black athletic conference, will face off on Saturday, November 12 at 1:00 p.m. ET when the conference hosts the 2022 CIAA Football Championship game at Salem Stadium.

Fayetteville State University finished the regular season with an 8-2 overall record and a 7-1 mark in conference (5-0 in Southern Division). Chowan won the Northern Division with an overall record of 7-3 (7-1 record in conference, 5-0 in division) this season.

The Broncos clinched their fifth consecutive division title with a win on October 29 and will be looking to reverse their fortunes after losing in the four previous conference championship games. Last year, Fayetteville State lost 17-7 to Bowie State, the third straight loss that the Broncos suffered to the Bulldogs in the title game. Against the Hawks, FSU has a chance to secure its fourth CIAA Championship all-time and first since 2009.

Chowan grabbed sole possession of the division lead with an October 29 over nationally-ranked Virginia Union and then officially clinched a championship berth with a victory against Elizabeth City State on November 5. This is the Hawks' first CIAA division title and their first appearance in the conference championship since joining the CIAA in 2008. Chowan's 7-3 overall record and 7-1 mark in league action is a program best since 2008.

Advance general admission tickets to the Football Championship are $15, while day-of-the-event tickets are $25. Both are available now at Ticketmaster.com. Special rates for students with school IDs will be available the day of the event for $10. Admission for children ages 7 and under is free. Tickets are also available at the Salem Civic Center Box Office (Monday - Friday: 8 am - 5 pm). Children 8-14 for $10.

Family-friendly activities during the football finale include free tailgating and a fireworks display after the game. The always crowd favorite marching bands and cheerleading squads will also be a part of this year's championship experience. After the contest, fans are encouraged to stay for an extravagant fireworks display and the awards presentation.

Parking is free and fans are encouraged to begin their tailgating festivities at 9:00 a.m. with gates opening at 12 noon.

Players from both teams will take part in community outreach programs in the Salem area the day before the game. Virginia's Blue Ridge and the city of Salem will host team luncheons where all-conference selections from both championship participants will receive recognition.

Glenvar volleyball is back in the state championship

The Glenvar volleyball team is in the state tournament, and at press time it was just a matter of where they were going to play when the Class 2 tournament opens Saturday.

Glenvar played host to the Region 2C tournament semifinals and finals this week. On Tuesday Glenvar defeated Gretna in three sets, 25-5, 25-13 and 25-7, in the semifinals. Audrey Conner had 36 assists, Hannah Hylton had 12 kills and seven aces and Sydney Loder had seven kills, three aces and three blocks.

The tournament championship was scheduled for Wednesday at Glenvar and the Highlanders had a big match with Appomattox, who beat Patrick County in the other semifinal Tuesday. Both Glenvar, the defending state champ, and Appomattox went into that match with identical 22-0 records. Both region finalists have a spot in the state tournament locked up but the Region C winner will host a state quarterfinal on Saturday at a time to be determined against the Region D runnerup. The Region D champ will host the Region C runnerup on that same day. The state semifinals are next Tuesday, November 15, and the state championship is at the Salem Civic Center on Saturday, November 19.

Glenvar opened the regional with a quarterfinal win over James River last Thursday at GHS. The Highlanders smoked the visiting Knights in the first set, 25-5, and went on to win in three, 25-9 and 25-12.

The Highlanders were hitting on all cylinders against River. Claire Griffith had 16 kills on 19 attempts and Ryhan Harris had nine kills on 10 attempts to lead Glenvar. Cara Butler had five aces among 30 serves.

Spartans finish 12-10 in volleyball season

The Salem girls saw their volleyball season come to an end with a loss to Western Albemarle in the Region 4D tournament last week. The girls made the semifinal round and finished one win away from a trip to the state tournament.

Western Albemarle hosted the match in Crozet and won in three sets, with two being decided by two points. The Warriors won the first set, 25-23, then took the second, 25-16. The third went extra points before the home team prevailed, 27-25.

Kai Bowen led Salem with seven kills while Ella Walker had six kills and two blocks. Reese Redford had six kills and 20 digs and Myah Crews had 15 digs. The loss ended Salem's season with a 12-10 overall record.

"We had a season of tremendous growth for our program this year," said coach Beth Denton. "For our seniors it was the first time they ever beat Northside and Patrick Henry. In fact, we were undefeated in non-district play. Our only losses came from district teams, and this just shows you how strong the River Ridge District is."

Salem will graduate six seniors, Walker, Redford, Bowen, Mia Esworthy, Autumn Bailey and Sydney Price. Ella and Reese were named to the 2nd All-District River Ridge Team. Bowen, sophomore libero Crews and junior setter Makenzie Board made the Honorable Mention All-District team.

"This team has been very special," said Denton. "Their friendships have grown since seventh grade volleyball at Andrew Lewis. They are fantastic students, leaders and teammates. Our coaching staff has grown very close to all of these young ladies and we are so proud of their hard work throughout the season. We are absolutely excited about the direction that Salem Volleyball is moving."

RC volleyball upsets top seed before falling in ODAC tourney

After stunning the top-seeded team in the tournament the Roanoke College women saw their season come to an end in the Old Dominion Athletic Conference volleyball tournament semifinals. The Maroons lost to Randolph-Macon in three sets in Ashland, 25-19, 25-20 and 25-22 on Friday.

Roanoke came into the tournament as the number eight seed with a 12-12 record, sending them to top-seeded Virginia Wesleyan. The Maroons won a close first set, 25-23, before losing a lop-sided second set, 25-7. Things figured to be back to normal at that point, but the Maroons surprised the conference by winning the next two, 25-19 and 25-18, to win the match. Rylee Mayer had 11 kills to lead RC.

That set up a Friday semifinal at fourth seeded Randolph-Macon and the Yellowjackets prevailed in three, ending RC's season at 13-13. Mayer had nine kills and Peyton Kirchner had seven. Kylee Draper had 24 assists.

After the tournament Kirchner was named to the Second Team All-ODAC Volleyball team as announced by the conference. Kirchner twice earned ODAC Player of the Week honors on September 12 and October 24. She finished the season with 293 kills, 77 blocks, 72 digs, 39 service aces and six assists. Her attack percentage for the season was .331.

Randolph-Macon stayed hot with a three-set win over second seeded Averett in the ODAC final to win the tournament. The Jackets earned the NCAA bid from the conference and will play at Transylvania tonight.

Peyton Kirchner is a second team All-ODAC selection in volleyball.

Third seeded Spartans draw Western Albemarle for playoff opener

The Salem High football team will play host to Western Albemarle tonight when the Region 4D playoffs open. The game has been moved from Friday to Saturday at Salem Stadium with inclement weather expected on Friday. Game time is still 7 pm.

Salem comes in as the third seed in the tournament after losing for just the second time this season last Friday night. The Spartans dropped a 17-7 game at Patrick Henry and that cost them the number two seed, which now goes to Louisa County. E.C. Glass retains the top seed, and Salem's loss didn't effect that as the Hilltoppers had a big win over Liberty Christian Academy last weekend to cement their number one seed in the region tournament.

Western Albemarle comes to Salem with a 5-5 record but no common opponents with the Spartans. They opened the season 3-1, then lost three in a row to Wilson Memorial, Albemarle and a 56-0 loss to Louisa. They righted the ship with wins over Fluvanna County and Monticello but last week they lost to Orange County, 28-7, dropping them to the sixth seed.

The Spartans saw their eight game win streak come to an end in Roanoke last Friday in front of a standing room only crowd at Patrick Henry's Merrill Gainer Field. The Patriots struck early, connecting on a 53 yard pass play to Jahzae Kimbrough that set up a PH score on their first series.

Salem countered with a nice drive, with Jayveon Jones scoring on a two yard run to even the score at 7-7 after one period. However, the Patriots regained the lead on a 27 yard field goal and scored again before the half when a long pass set up a TD to make it 17-7 at intermission. Penn State commit Carmelo Taylor made a spectacular catch inside the five to set up the score.

"That's what a Big 10 football player looks like," said Salem coach Don Holter.

Salem had the ball to open the second half and kept it for over nine minutes before the drive ended deep in PH territory without a score. Two holding penalties on the drive hurt as PH was able to run off most of the third quarter without giving up a touchdown. That proved to be big when the Spartans needed to score twice in the fourth quarter and couldn't find the end zone.

"If we score in the third quarter it's a whole different ballgame," said Holter. "That's the biggest team we've seen in a while up front. My hat's off to PH."

The Patriots were able to hold the Salem run-

Highlanders open playoffs with Floyd at home tonight

The first meeting went three overtimes, and that's all you need to know about Glenvar's first round opponent in the Region 2C football tournament.

The regional starts tonight and third seeded Glenvar is at home to host sixth seeded Floyd County. The two played in Floyd on October 7th and the host Buffaloes snapped an 11 game losing streak to Glenvar with a 33-27 win that took three overtimes to decide. It's the marquee matchup of a first round that also has number eight Gretna at top-seeded Radford, number seven Dan River at second seeded Martinsville and fifth seeded Alleghany at fourth seeded Appomattox County.

"I don't really care about who we're playing, we're in the playoffs," said Glenvar coach Kevin Clifford. "There's a lot of familiarity between our programs and I'm glad we're playing at home this time."

This week's game was moved from Friday to tonight in anticipation of a big storm headed this way. Highlander Stadium has an artificial turf field and, regardless of the weather, it's a better field to play on than natural grass under rainy conditions.

Glenvar comes in with a 7-3 record after beating Giles, 49-14, in a non-district regular season finale last week. The Highlanders
